i. Unreasonableness of one charge as affecting another charge not unreasonable in itself
j. Consideration of interstate and intrastate business
k. Economic conditions
l. Use of estimated weight for tariff computation
m. Acquiescence of carrier in rates fixed by commission

a. In General

All matters affecting the reasonableness of the rates should be considered, including the revenue per ton mile, per car mile, and per car, and the engine ratings. It is not necessary, however, that each unit or type of business return the same percentage of profit.

In addition to the matters considered supra §§ 285-296, any matter which, in the particular case, affects the reasonableness of the rate in question should be considered. The requirement in the Interstate Commerce Act that all charges in the transportation of property or in connection therewith shall be just and reasonable does not require that each element of the same transportation shall be in and of itself wholly compensatory.[75] The governing agency has a wide range of discretion in the exercise of the power to prescribe reasonable charges,[76] and is not bound to fix uniform rates for all commodities or to secure the same percentage of profit on every sort of business.[77]

Revenue. In fixing minimum rates on a specific commodity it is proper for the interstate commerce commission to consider the revenue per car mile and per ton mile,[78] and the earnings per car.[79]

Engine ratings. In establishing rates or determining their reasonableness, a regulatory commission may consider comparisons of engine ratings.[80]

Compensation for use of facilities by other carrier. Where a carrier is required by statutory provisions to permit other carriers desiring to do so to use its bridges, it is entitled to receive from every carrier using its bridge a fair share of the annual charge for operation and maintenance and a fair proportion of the interest on its investment, regardless of the fluctuations of traffic over the bridge;[81] and contracts for the use of a bridge by other carriers which do not show any uniform practice with regard to the amount charged are immaterial in proceedings to determine the compensation to be paid.[82]

Cessation of movement. In considering the reasonableness of rates for a manufactured commodity, the cessation of materials entering into the manufacture of the commodity must be taken into consideration, but it will not be presumed that they have been moved at noncompensable rates, voluntarily established.[83]

b. Rates Not Exceeding, or Less than, Out-of-Pocket Expense

(1) In general
(2) Unprofitable rates for particular service

(1) In General

Ordinarily rates which return less than, or not exceeding, the out-of-pocket expenses of the service are unreasonable and invalid.

In the absence of extraordinary conditions and circumstances justifying it, the fixing of rates at a sum less than, or not exceeding, out-of-pocket expense of the service is unreasonable and invalid.[84]

75. U.S.—Merchant Truckmen's Bureau of New York v. Reardon, D.C. N.Y., 10 F.Supp. 358.

Store door delivery

A carrier which furnishes line haul and store door delivery service as part of the same transportation is not required to show that the charges are such that the compensation for the store door delivery service is wholly compensatory of the expense to which it is put for that element of the transportation.—Merchant Truckmen's Bureau of New York v. Reardon, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.Supp. 358.

76. U.S.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Schnull, 41 S.Ct. 324, 255 U.S. 113, 65 L.Ed. 539, reversing 122 N.E. 225, 188 Ind. 87, conformed to 130 N.E. 865, 190 Ind. 698.

Or.—Valley & Siletz R. Co. v. Thomas, 48 P.2d 358, 151 Or. 80.

77. U.S.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Schnull, 41 S.Ct. 324, 255 U.S. 113, 65 L.Ed. 539, reversing 122 N.E. 225, 188 Ind. 87, conformed to 130 N.E. 865, 190 Ind. 698.

Or.—Valley & Siletz R. Co. v. Thomas, 48 P.2d 358, 151 Or. 80.

Same rate of return not required

Carrier has no constitutional right to same rate of return on all its business.—State ex rel. and to Use of Pugh v. Public Service Commission, 10 S.W.2d 946, 321 Mo. 297.

78. U.S.—Jefferson Island Salt Mining Co. v. U. S., D.C.Ohio, 6 F.2d 315.

Pa.—McCrady Bros. Co. v. Pittsburgh & L.E.R. Co., 66 Pa.Super. 307.

79. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Vest, D.C.Ky., 39 F.2d 658.

Pa.—McCrady Bros. Co. v. Pittsburgh & L.E.R. Co., 66 Pa.Super. 307.

80. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Vest, D.C.Ky., 39 F.2d 658.

81. Or.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. Spokane, P. & S. Ry. Co., 163 P. 989, 83 Or. 528, denying rehearing 163 P. 600, 83 Or. 528.

82. Or.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. Spokane, P. & S. Ry. Co., supra.

83. Ky.—Southern Ry. Co. of Kentucky v. Frankfort Distillery, 26 S.W.2d 1025, 233 Ky. 771, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 75, 282 U.S. 868, 75 L.Ed. 767.

84. U.S.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry.

The carrier is entitled to receive compensation beyond the mere cost for that which it does,[85] including services which are not strictly a part of the transportation but are outside of and supplementary thereto;[86] and it has been held that, where a carrier is operating at a loss which it can reduce by charging rates in excess of a requirement of a special statutory provision regulating rates, but within the limit which the law would otherwise permit, and can in this manner obtain a proper return on its capital, it will be relieved from compliance with the statute, under a constitutional provision that the legislature can alter an existing charter only in such a way that no injustice shall be done to incorporators.[87]

(2) Unprofitable Rates for Particular Service

Although in the exercise of a proper discretion in prescribing rates it is not necessary that they shall be made uniform for all commodities and so as to yield the same percentage of profit on every sort of business, yet a carrier cannot be compelled to transport a commodity or class of traffic either at less than cost or for a compensation that is merely nominal.

While it is recognized that the state has a broad field for the exercise of its discretion in prescribing reasonable rates for common carriers within its jurisdiction, and that it is not necessary that there should be uniform rates for all commodities or the same percentage of profit on every sort of business,[88] it is now settled that the state has no arbitrary power over rates and may not select a commodity or class of traffic and, instead of fixing what may be deemed to be reasonable compensation for its carriage, compel the carrier to transport it either at less than cost or for a compensation that is merely nominal.[89] The fact that the entire intrastate business shows a reasonable return on the carrier's investment does not affect the operation of the rule;[90] and where it appears that the state has segregated a commodity or a class of traffic and has attempted to compel the carrier to transport it at a loss or without substantial compensation, even though the entire traffic to which the rate is applied is taken into account, the presumption of reasonableness of a rate fixed by a state legislative act or regulatory commission is rebutted.[91] In some of the earlier cases some courts had reached conclusions squarely in conflict with this rule and had held in effect that the rate on each and every commodity transported in interstate commerce need not return a profit, provided the entire intra-state business showed a reasonable return on the carrier's investment.[92] These decisions, however, were based on, and assumed to follow, decisions of the United States supreme court, which have been distinguished and explained.[93]

Co.—v. U S, Com.Ct, 203 F 56—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Keyes, C. C.N D., 91 F. 47.

La.—Louisville R., etc, Co. v. State R. Commission, 59 So. 820, 131 La 387.

10 C J. p 424 note 26.

85. U S—Southern R. Co. v. St. Louis Hay & Grain Co., Ill., 29 S Ct. 678, 214 U S. 297, 53 L Ed. 1004

86. U.S.—Geraty v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., D.C.S C, 211 F. 227.

Icing charges

A carrier is not limited in its charge for icing services to the mere cost of such services, but is entitled to make a reasonable profit thereon, so that the fact that a charge for icing exceeds the actual cost of icing does not alone justify the inference of unreasonableness—Geraty v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., D C S C., 211 F 227.

87. Pa.—Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. Philadelphia County, 77 A 892, 228 Pa 505, 21 Ann Cas. 188—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Philadelphia County, 68 A. 676, 220 Pa. 100, 15 L R.A., N S, 108.

88. U S.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Schnull, 41 S Ct. 324, 255 U S 113, 65 L Ed. 539, reversing decree, 1919, 122 N.E. 225, 188 Ind. 87, conformed to 130 N.E 865, 190 Ind. 698—Ann Arbor R. Co. v. U. S., D C Cal, 30 F.2d 940.

Proportional share of expenses not required

Carrier cannot complain of violation of constitutional rights because compelled to make rate for some particular service which will not equal proportionate share of entire expense of road.—Valley & Siletz R Co. v. Thomas, 48 P 2d 358, 151 Or. 80

Fair return on particular class of freight not required

Carriers have no right to receive fair return on particular class of freight, independently of other business or considerations—Ann Arbor R Co. v. U. S, D C.Cal., 30 F.2d 940.

89. U.S—Banton v. Belt Line Ry. Corporation, N Y, 45 S Ct. 534, 268 U S 413, 69 L Ed 1020—Vandalia R Co. v. Schnull, 41 S.Ct. 324, 255 U S 113, 65 L Ed. 539, reversing 122 N.E. 225, 188 Ind 87, conformed to 130 N E. 865, 190 Ind. 698.

10 C J. p 424 note 29

Transportation of slag free

An order of the public service commission abolishing a published schedule of rates for slag without establishing another schedule in its place will be reversed by the superior court, in the absence of any finding that the railroads receive compensation for the disposition of the slag, by reason of favorable rates charged for the freight of the shipping companies.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v Public Service Commission, 68 Pa Super. 503.

90. U S.—Northern Pac. R. Co v North Dakota, 35 S Ct. 429, 236 U S 585, 59 L.Ed. 735, reversing 145 N. W. 135, 26 N D. 438

91. U.S.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Schnull, 41 S Ct. 324, 255 U S 113, 65 L. Ed. 539, reversing 122 N E 225, 188 Ind 87, conformed to 130 N E. 865, 190 Ind. 698—Northern Pac R. Co v. North Dakota, 35 S.Ct. 429, 236 U.S 585, 59 L.Ed 735, Ann Cas 1916A 1, reversing 145 N.W. 135, 26 N.D. 438.

92. U.S —Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry Co. v. U. S., Com Ct., 203 F 56

Fla.—State v. Florida East Coast R. Co., 62 So. 591, 65 Fla. 424.

N.D —State v Northern Pac. R Co., 120 N.W 869, 19 N.D. 45, 25 L R. A,N S, 1001.

10 C.J. p 425 note 31.

93. U S —Northern Pac. R. Co. v North Dakota, ex rel. McCue, N.D, 35 S.Ct. 429, 236 U S. 585, 59 L Ed. 735, Ann Cas 1916A 1.

10 C.J. p 425 note 32.

Itemization of charges within gross charge. In so far as the power of the rate regulatory body is concerned, decisions holding that, in determining the reasonable rate of return for a service rendered, the interstate commerce commission cannot look to other rates on other freight shipped by other people to compensate for the ascertained loss or lack of profit upon the particular transaction involved, have no application to the separate charges included in the gross charges required by the carrier from the shipper, so that if the gross charge provides a compensation for the service rendered, it is immaterial whether the itemization thereof is accurate or inaccurate.[94]

c. Apportionment of Value and Operating Expenses between Interstate and Intra-State Traffic

In determining the reasonableness of interstate or intra-state rates, the value of the carrier's plant and its operating expenses must be apportioned between its interstate and intra-state traffic.

While, as appears infra in subdivision j of this section, no part of the earnings or losses from interstate and foreign business can be charged to or against the income account of the carrier, in determining the reasonableness of rates for intra-state business, in fixing rates for intra-state traffic, or in determining their reasonableness as fixed, it is essential to apportion the value of the carrier's plant and its operating expenses between interstate and intra-state traffic,[95] and the results of the entire intra-state business must be taken into account.[96] In apportioning the value of the property employed, as between intra-state and interstate traffic, there should be assigned to each that proportion of the total value which corresponds to the extent of its employment in that class of traffic.[97] This apportionment may be arrived at on the basis of comparative revenue.[98]

An apportionment of operating expenses must take into consideration the difference in revenue with relation to the cost of the two classes of traffic.[99] It is a well recognized fact that the production of a given amount of revenue is attended with greater cost in intra-state than in interstate business;[1] and this difference furnishes a standard by which to apportion the total cost between traffic which is intra-state and that which is interstate.[2]

d. Volume of Traffic

The amount or volume of traffic is an important factor which should be considered in determining the reasonableness of rates. A difference in the volume of traffic may authorize different rates for opposite directions and seasonal variations in traffic may authorize seasonal variations in the rates.

In determining the reasonableness of a freight rate, the amount[3] or volume[4] of traffic may be considered. Density of traffic is an important factor in rate making.[5] No rule is more firmly grounded in reason or more universally recognized by carriers than that the greater the tonnage to be transported the lower the rate of freight charges therefor;[6] and when the locality through which a carrier runs is sparsely settled, and the demand and necessity for transportation small, these matters must be taken into consideration and more than the rate customary in more favorable districts allowed.[7] Nevertheless the reasonableness of rates cannot be

94. U.S.—Alton & S. R. R. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 49 F.2d 414.

95. U.S.—Rowland v. Boyle, Ark., 37 S.Ct. 577, 244 U.S. 106, 61 L.Ed. 1022, affirming, D.C., Boyle v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 222 F. 539.
10 C.J. p. 425 note 35.

Length of investigation required
Two months of investigation by the carrier, during which it caused the most minute and specific reports to be made of all the facts that, by the formulas prepared for the division of expenses and income between state and interstate business would throw light upon that problem, which investigation is too expensive to be kept up for more than a limited time, affords a basis for the determination of constant conditions.—Rowland v. Boyle, Ark., 37 S.Ct. 577, 244 U.S. 106, 61 L.Ed. 1022, affirming, D.C., Boyle v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 222 F. 539.

96. U.S.—Minnesota Rate Cases, 33 S.Ct. 729, 230 U.S. 352, 57 L.Ed. 1511, Ann.Cas.1916A. 18.

97. U.S.—Minnesota Rate Cases, 33 S.Ct. 729, 230 U.S. 352, 461, 57 L.Ed. 1511, Ann.Cas.1916A. 18.
10 C.J. p. 426 note 37.

98. U.S.—Shepard v. Northern Pac. R. Co., C.C.Minn., 184 F. 765, modified on other grounds 33 S.Ct. 729, 230 U.S. 352, 57 L.Ed. 1511, 48 L.R.A.,N.S., 1151, Ann.Cas.1916A. 18.

99. U.S.—Missouri Rate Cases, 33 S.Ct. 975, 230 U.S. 474, 57 L.Ed. 1571.

1. U.S.—Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co. v. State of Minnesota, 22 S.Ct. 900, 186 U.S. 257, 46 L.Ed. 1151.
10 C.J. p. 426 note 40.

2. U.S.—In re Arkansas Railroad Rates, C.C.Ark., 163 F. 141.
10 C.J. p. 426 note 41.

3. Ill.—State v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 92 N.E. 814, 246 Ill. 188.
Ind.—Southern R. Co. v. State R. Commission, 83 N.E. 721, 42 Ind. App. 90.

4. Ill.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 166 N.E. 466, 335 Ill. 70.
Pa.—McCrady Bros. Co. v. Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co., 66 Pa.Super. 307.

5. U.S.—Jefferson Island Salt Mining Co. v. U.S., D.C.Ohio, 6 F.2d 315.
Ky.—Southern Ry. Co. of Kentucky v. Frankfort Distillery, 26 S.W.2d 1025, 233 Ky. 771, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 75, 282 U.S. 868, 75 L.Ed. 767.
Tex.—Galveston Chamber of Commerce v. State R. Commn., Civ.App., 137 S.W. 737.

6. U.S.—Tift v. Southern R. Co., C.C.Ga., 138 F. 753, affirmed 148 F. 1021, 79 C.C.A. 536, affirmed 27 S.Ct. 709, 206 U.S. 428, 51 L.Ed. 1124, 11 Ann.Cas. 846.

7. Ohio.—Marietta & V. R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 126 N.E. 889, 101 Ohio St. 29.

determined alone from the kind or amount of business done by the carrier.[8]

The mere fact that a rate established by a carrier is higher one way between the same points than it is the other does not of itself show that the higher rate is unreasonable, and this is particularly true where there is a preponderance of cars moving in one direction.[9]

In determining the reasonableness of a freight charge, the season of the year during which the rates are in force may be considered.[10] Thus a carrier may properly charge lower rates on coal in the summer months in order to keep its coal cars and coal crew employed during that season of the year, provided such rates are offered in good faith to all persons on equal terms.[11]

e. Rates on Branch Lines and Feeders

The difference in ton mile cost between branch line and main line traffic may be considered, but this must be limited by the benefits which accrue to the carrier from branch lines which serve as feeders.

In its consideration of rates, a regulatory commission is entitled to take into consideration the fact that the cost per ton per mile is greater for branch line traffic than for main line traffic, and may establish a rate sufficient in its judgment to compensate the carrier for this difference.[12] However, where carriers construct branch lines within a state through new sections, to serve as feeders and to enable them to obtain shorter lines for interstate traffic, they are not necessarily entitled to charge on intra-state traffic rates sufficiently high to enable them to earn a specified percentage on their investment.[13]

f. Comparison with Other Rates

In fixing rates or determining their reasonableness, comparisons may be made with other rates provided the conditions are essentially the same, but where the conditions are dissimilar such comparisons have little, if any, probative value.

The question whether rates are just and reasonable in themselves is in some degree a relative one;[14] and in determining the reasonableness of rates they may be compared with other rates provided conditions are substantially the same;[15] and

8. U.S.—Reagan v. Farmers' L. & T. Co, Tex, 14 S.Ct. 1047, 154 U.S. 362, 38 L.Ed. 1014.
10 C.J. p 420 note 77.

9. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. R. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, Com.Ct., 195 F. 541, reversed on other grounds 33 S.Ct. 185, 227 U.S. 88, 57 L.Ed. 431.

10. U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commission v. Louisville & N. R. Co, C.C.Tenn., 73 F. 409.
Ill.—State v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 92 N.E. 814, 246 Ill. 188.

11. U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commission v. Louisville & N., etc., R. Co., C.C.Tenn., 73 F. 409.
10 C.J. p 422 note 12.

12. Or.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. Corey, 252 P. 955, 120 Or. 517.

Arbitrary charge

The commission has power to abolish an arbitrary charge included in the charge for shipments over branch roads and make rate to apply equally on branch and main lines of carrier, if it is sufficient to compensate carrier for greater cost of branch line service.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. Corey, 252 P. 955, 120 Or. 517

13. U.S.—In re Arkansas Railroad Rates, C.C.Ark, 168 F. 720.
10 C.J. p 425 note 33.

14. Ky.—Southern Ry. Co. of Kentucky v. Frankfort Distillery, 26 S.W.2d 1025, 233 Ky. 771, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 75, 282 U.S. 868, 75 L.Ed. 767.
10 C.J. p 421 note 85.

15. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Vest, D.C.Ky., 39 F.2d 658—Montrose Oil Refining Co. v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., D.C.Tex., 25 F.2d 750, affirmed, C.C.A., St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Montrose Oil & Refining Co., 25 F.2d 755, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 560, 277 U.S. 598, 72 L.Ed. 1007—Jefferson Island Salt Mining Co. v. U. S., D.C.Ohio, 6 F.2d 315—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Kentucky, D.C.Ky., 1 F.2d 805.
Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 195 N.E. 32, 359 Ill. 563—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 173 N.E. 380, 341 Ill. 277—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 167 N.E. 831, 335 Ill. 624.
Ind.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Hunt, 83 N.E. 721, 42 Ind. 90.
Ohio—Hocking Valley Ry. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 158 N.E. 648, 117 Ohio St. 304
Okl.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. State, 267 P. 253, 130 Okl. 263.
Pa.—McCrady Bros. Co. v. Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co., 66 Pa. Super. 307
Wash.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Department of Public Works of Washington, 296 P. 142, 161 Wash. 29.
10 C.J. p 421 note 86.

Statute requiring comparative rate valid

Statute providing that subsidiary domestic railroad corporation shall not charge rate within city exceeding rate charged by parent foreign corporation for similar service to adjacent state is not invalid.—Transit Commission v. Long Island R. Co., 288 N.Y.S. 938, 248 App.Div. 749, affirmed 3 N.E.2d 622, 272 N.Y. 27.

Presumption as to normality of expense

Where operating conditions under rate sought to be revised are normal, movements of freight between similar points of comparison are presumed normal as to expense of operation.—Hocking Valley Ry. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 158 N.E. 648, 117 Ohio St. 304.

Rates for opposite direction

In a proceeding to revise freight rates on a certain commodity from a certain shipping point, the rates established by the railroad company over its road between the same points in the opposite direction may properly be considered, where the grades on the road and the expense of moving trains in either direction are not essentially different.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Hunt, 83 N.E. 721, 42 Ind. 90.

Inferior service

(1) The fact that truck hauler, whose service was inferior in delivery of an inferior prepared product, in having no storage supply, in having no system of credit, and perhaps inferior in service respecting weights, hauled at a less rate than that fixed for railroads as reasonable and lawful did not present such changed condition as to justify lowering of railroad rate.—State ex rel. and to Use of Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, App., 110

a comparison with other rates on the same commodity for comparable distances may make a prima facie case of the unreasonableness of rates attacked.[16] However, a simple comparison with other rates, although admissible as evidence and proper to be considered,[17] does not prove much,[18] and is not controlling.[19] A rate must stand upon its being fair and reasonable, not upon a comparison with another rate;[20] and whether a case concerns simply the reasonableness of a rate or whether it involves an order awarding reparation, that the commission has not fixed the same rate for services of a substantially identical character, as where the rates on a commodity are different to different territories, does not necessarily indicate that either is unreasonable.[21] Before a comparison of existing transportation charges can have probative value in determining what rates are reasonable, a similarity of conditions of operation must be shown.[22] Rates prevailing in other localities or

S.W.2d 1121, transferred, Mo., 100 S.W.2d 474.

(2) Accordingly, an order of public service commission lowering rates fixed for railroad transportation of coal between points in Missouri where distance involved was ninety five miles or less was unauthorized and not supported by evidence, where based primarily on evidence showing that truck haulers rendering inferior service charged lower rates.—State ex rel and to Use of Alton R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, supra.

Existing charges and ton-mile earnings

In determining what are reasonable rates comparisons of existing charges and ton-mile earnings constitute proper elements for consideration provided they are under similar conditions of operation.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 175 N.E. 8, 343 Ill. 117—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 167 N.E. 831, 335 Ill. 624.

Comparison with switching rate

(1) When the distance rate on coal maintained by a carrier is eighty four cents per ton for a haul of ten miles and under, and the carrier has in effect a switching rate of nine dollars per car applying only on coal and coke moving five miles or under, between plants of producing coal and coke operations in a specified district, the public service commission, in determining a specific rate per car on coal moving within the five-mile limit in such district, may consider a switching rate maintained by a railroad company to make a comparison of services performed by the carrier under the switching rate with the service required under the specific rate, and in establishing such specific rate it is not as a matter of law compelled to inquire into the reasonableness of the whole schedule of the carrier's distance rates.—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 110 S.E. 704, 90 W.Va. 264.

(2) The public service commission may establish a specified rate per car on coal moving within the five-mile limit in such district, although the coal be consigned by a coal company not to itself for use in its own operations, but to an electric power company, it appearing that the rate so established works no injustice to the carrier.—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission, supra.

Other commodities

The court may consider a comparison of rates on other commodities of equal or higher value.—McCrady Bros Co. v. Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co., 66 Pa.Super. 307.

Relation of rates between logs and lumber

The published rates for interstate transportation of lumber being assumed to be reasonable, in absence of contrary showing, rates of sixty five per cent thereof for interstate shipments of logs between same points are reasonable and charges exceeding them unreasonable.—Western Maryland Ry. Co. v. Penn Veneer Co., C.C.A.Pa., 92 F.2d 146, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 146.

16. N.M.—San Juan Coal & Coke Co. v. Santa Fé, S. J. & N. Ry. Co., 2 P.2d 305, 35 N.M. 512.

17. Md.—State Public Service Commn. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 90 A. 119, 122 Md. 393—State Public Service Commn. v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 90 A. 105, 122 Md. 355.

18. Wash.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Department of Public Works of Washington, 296 P. 142, 161 Wash. 29.

Of little probative value

Mere comparison of carrier's rates, without showing conditions under which they were established, similarity of conditions, volume of movement, and traffic and transportation conditions, is of little probative value.—Hope Natural Gas Co. v. Public Service Commission, 164 S.E. 248, 112 W.Va. 223.

19. Neb.—In re Lincoln Traction Co., 171 N.W. 192, 103 Neb. 229.

Rate to express companies

That railroad had made contract with express company fixing its rate for facilities furnished the company at certain per cent of its gross receipts with a guaranteed minimum payment did not estop it from denying reasonableness of similar rate fixed by court for facilities to be furnished another express company doing a much smaller business in a much smaller territory without such a guaranty as to minimum payment, since such rate might be reasonable as to the one company and not reasonable as to the other in view of difference in the extent and nature of the business of the two companies.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Empire Express Co., Tex.Com.App., 221 S.W. 590, reversing, Civ.App., 173 S.W. 222.

20. U.S.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Del., 12 F.Supp. 261, appeal dismissed, C.C.A., 87 F.2d 605

21. D.C.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co., 92 F.2d 292, 67 App.D.C. 309.

22. U.S.—Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Louisiana Public Service Commission, D.C.La., 2 F.Supp. 622—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Kentucky, D.C.Ky., 1 F.2d 805.

Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 195 N.E. 32, 359 Ill. 563—Moline Consumers' Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 187 N.E. 161, 353 Ill. 119—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 175 N.E. 8, 343 Ill. 117—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 173 N.E. 380, 341 Ill. 277—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 167 N.E. 831, 335 Ill. 624.

Wash.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Department of Public Works of Washington, 296 P. 142, 161 Wash. 29.

Similarity of conditions essential

Commerce commission's order declaring existing freight rate unjust and discriminatory cannot be sustained upon mere findings making comparison between rates attacked and rates and ton-mile earnings elsewhere with no findings of fact showing similar conditions of operation.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 175 N.E. 8, 343 Ill. 117.

Evidence held insufficient

Evidence which consisted of comparison between proposed rate and rates in force for hauling finished products and disclosed mere difference in rates to same destination but did not give operating conditions and states have no bearing and cannot be considered for purposes of comparison where the conditions are dissimilar;[23] and evidence of differences in conditions offered to rebut a prima facie case of the reasonableness or unreasonableness of rates made by comparison with other rates should furnish data by which to measure the differences and means of arriving at the weight to be given such differences.[24] However, when due allowance is made for all factors entering into the question, a comparison of rates between two points on the same road, or with charges on other roads, may furnish evidence of probative value.[25] Thus a decision based on a comparison of rates alone, without any showing of similarity of conditions, is insufficient to sustain an order permitting an advance in rates.[26] Evidence merely that rates charged by a railroad company for shipments to a particular point are higher than rates charged between the initial points and two other points will not, in the absence of allegation and proof that the rates complained of are unreasonable, unjust, or discriminatory, authorize an order of the state railroad commission reducing the rates.[27]

Comparison based on comparison of percentage of change. In determining the reasonableness of rates, comparisons of the percentage increases in the rates in issue with the percentage increases made in other rates may be considered,[28] but a comparison of the percentages of increase of a particular rate with the percentage of increase of rates generally is not alone a proper foundation for an order fixing the particular rate, since the order must be based upon what is reasonable at the time, and a mere difference of percentage of increase or decrease of rate is not, of itself, evidence that any rate is too high or too low.[29]

g. Effect of Operation in Connection with Other Lines

A carrier operated in connection with other lines owned by the same company, but under separate charters, may be considered as a separate and independent line in determining the reasonableness of its rates.

The fact that a line of railroad is operated in circumstances under which comparative rates were effective was held insufficient to support commerce commission's finding that proposed rate was unreasonable—Illinois Cent. R Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 195 N.E. 32, 359 Ill. 563.

Matters to be considered

The fact that the average logging rate of other railroads for transportation of logs for a similar distance is the same as that fixed by the commission in the particular case does not alone justify the rate fixed, since the commission, in comparing the rates, should take into consideration all of the circumstances, such as the distance of the haul, the amount of competition and the investment in the particular roadbed and equipment, and other like circumstances, and the average rate for hauling logs is especially unfitted as a basis, in view of the commission's finding that the logging rates of the state as a whole were inequitably constructed, and in many cases were neither fair nor just, and its statement that it was investigating all of such rates with a view of establishing a fair and equitable tariff—Public Service Commission of Washington v. State, 204 P. 791, 118 Wash 629, 25 A.L.R. 186, affirmed 207 P. 688, 118 Wash 629, 25 A.L.R 186.

Facts found in other cases before other tribunals between different parties on different issues are no evidence to sustain commerce commission's action in fixing reasonable coal rates.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 173 N.E. 380, 341 Ill. 277.

Comparative earnings per ton mile

That a rate established by a railroad company on sand and gravel between two points gives it a higher rate per ton mile than its average earnings on all commodities is not evidence that such rate is unreasonable or excessive, without taking into consideration the length of the haul, as compared with the average haul, and other essential factors which may affect the question—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Kentucky, D.C.Ky., 1 F. 2d 805.

23. U.S.—Railway Express Agency v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 6 F.Supp. 249, appeal dismissed Wishnatzki & Nathel v. Railway Express Agency, 55 S.Ct. 212, 293 U.S. 532, 79 L. Ed. 640.
Ill.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 167 N.E. 831, 335 Ill. 624
10 C.J. p 421 note 87.

Difference in service rendered

More expensive service given strawberry shipments from another district because of their inability to stand transportation as well as Florida berries is not norm by which to measure rates on strawberry shipments from Florida which receive same service as that given to other perishable freight—Railway Express Agency v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 6 F.Supp 249, appeal dismissed Wishnatzki & Nathel v. Railway Express Agency, 55 S.Ct. 212, 293 U.S. 532, 79 L.Ed. 640.

Paper rates

Paper rates, that is, rates under which no traffic moves or has moved, other than in isolated instances, wide apart with respect to time and few in number, furnish no substantial basis for measuring an existing rate under which traffic does move.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Department of Public Works of Washington, 296 P. 142, 161 Wash 29.

24. N.M.—San Juan Coal & Coke Co. v. Santa Fe, S. J. & N. Ry. Co., 2 P.2d 305, 35 N.M. 512.

25. Ky.—Southern Ry. Co. of Kentucky v. Frankfort Distillery, 26 S.W.2d 1025, 233 Ky. 771, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 75, 282 U.S. 868, 75 L.Ed. 767.
N.M.—John Becker Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 291 P. 919, 35 N.M. 187
10 C.J. p 421 note 88

26. W.Va.—Hope Natural Gas Co. v. Public Service Commission, 164 S.E. 248, 112 W.Va. 223

27. Neb.—Byington v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 148 N.W. 520, 96 Neb. 584

28. Ill.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 166 N.E. 466, 335 Ill. 70.

29. Ill.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 175 N.E. 8, 343 Ill. 117—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 173 N.E. 380, 341 Ill. 277—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 167 N.E. 831, 335 Ill. 624.

connection with other lines owned by the same company, but under separate charters, whereby the earnings of such line are increased and its operating expenses reduced, does not prevent its being considered as a separate and independent line for the purpose of determining the reasonableness of rates thereon, fixed by the state, full consideration of the joint operation being given when the road is credited for the increased business and reduced expenses [30]

h. Effect of Consolidation of Several Roads

Rates prescribed for a carrier which has been consolidated with other carriers must be considered, in determining their reasonableness, with relation to their effect on the consolidated line as a whole.

When, by legislation and consolidation, a railroad which was originally all in one state becomes consolidated with other roads in other states, and the state originally incorporating it enacts laws to regulate the rates of the consolidated road within its borders, the proper test as to the reasonableness of these rates is as to their effect on the consolidated line as a whole.[31]

i. Unreasonableness of One Charge as Affecting Another Charge Not Unreasonable in Itself

A terminal charge may be reasonable, although prior charges render the total charge to the shipper unreasonable.

If a terminal charge is just and reasonable, it cannot be condemned or the carrier required to change it on the ground that, taken in connection with prior charges of transportation over the lines of the carrier or of connecting carriers, the total charge to the shipper is unreasonable; that which must be corrected and condemned is not the just and reasonable terminal charge, but those prior charges which must of themselves, be unreasonable in order to make the aggregate of the charge from the point of shipment to that of delivery unreasonable and unjust.[32]

j. Consideration of Interstate and Intra-State Business

Neither interstate nor intra-state traffic can be made to bear the losses of the other, so that the reasonableness of rates for the one must be determined without reference to the business or profits derived from the other.

The reasonableness or unreasonableness of rates prescribed by a state for the transportation of persons and property wholly within its limits must be determined without reference to the interstate business done by the carrier, or to the profits derived from it.[33] Interstate traffic cannot be made to bear the losses of intra-state business, nor vice versa.[34] The argument that a railroad line is an entirety; that its income goes into, and its expenses are provided for out of, a common fund; and that its capitalization is on its entire line within and without the state, can have no application where the state is without authority over rates on the entire line, and can deal only with local rates, and make such regulations as are necessary to give just compensation on local business.[35] However, an order of the interstate commerce commission for an increase of intra-state rates so as to restore a proper relationship between interstate and intra-state rates is prima facie reasonable where interstate rates, which the commission had increased, were expressly found reasonable;[36] but a finding by the interstate commerce commission that discrimination exists due to a difference between interstate and intra-state rates and that the interstate rates are reasonable does not necessarily imply that the intra-state rates are unreasonable.[37]

Limitation of rule. The supreme court of Virginia has engrafted an important limitation on the general principle heretofore stated, and holds that it has no application, where the road is built, maintained, and operated essentially for interstate purposes, and where the intra-state business is incidental merely and confessedly too inconsiderable to render feasible the fixing of a reasonable maximum rate with sole reference to it.[38]

k. Economic Conditions

Economic conditions and the needs of a particular industry are factors to be considered in determining the reasonableness of rates.

Economic conditions are to be considered in the 30. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Brown, C.C.Fla., 123 F. 946.

31. U.S.—St. Louis & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Gill, Ark., 15 S.Ct. 484, 156 U.S. 649, 39 L.Ed. 567.
10 C.J. p. 423 note 14.

32. U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Stickney, Minn., 30 S.Ct. 66, 215 U.S. 98, 54 L.Ed. 112.

33. U.S.—Smyth v. Ames, Neb., 18 S.Ct. 418, 169 U.S. 466, 42 L.Ed. 819, modified on other grounds 18 S.Ct. 888, 171 U.S. 361, 43 L.Ed. 197.
10 C.J. p. 423 note 15

34. U.S.—Dayton-Goose Creek Ry. Co. v. U.S., Tex., 44 S.Ct. 169, 263 U.S. 456, 68 L.Ed. 388, 33 A.L.R. 472, affirming, D.C., 287 F. 728.
10 C.J. p. 423 note 16.

35. U.S.—Smyth v. Ames, Neb., 18 S.Ct. 418, 169 U.S. 466, 42 L.Ed. 819, modified on other grounds 18 S.Ct. 888, 171 U.S. 361, 43 L.Ed. 197.

36. U.S.—State of Montana v. U.S., D.C.Mont., 2 F.Supp. 448, affirmed 54 S.Ct. 125, 290 U.S. 593, 78 L.Ed. 523.

37. U.S.—American Exp. Co. v. State of South Dakota ex rel. Caldwell, S.D., 37 S.Ct. 656, 244 U.S. 617, 61 L.Ed. 1352.

38. Va.—Washington Southern R. Co. v. Com., 71 S.E. 539, 112 Va. 515.

fixing of rates,[39] and the conditions in a particular industry may and should be considered along with other factors in fixing rates for that industry and in determining their reasonableness.[40] So far as can be done with due regard for the interests affected, rates should be such as will permit the commodities to which they relate to move freely in the channels of commerce,[41] but the mere fact that a rate is prohibitive and traffic does not move thereunder does not make it per se unlawful.[42] The commission should consider the general and comparative levels in market value of the various classes and kinds of commodities as indicated over a reasonable period of years.[43] In rate making the prohibition in section 3(1) of the Interstate Commerce Act of any undue preference of one locality over another is treated as intended to prevent the use of rates as a means of promoting artificial development of one locality to the detriment of another.[44]

l. Use of Estimated Weight for Tariff Computation

It is proper to fix an estimated weight for the computation of tariffs for commodities such as petroleum.

It is a common practice with respect to commodities like petroleum to fix an estimated weight which shall govern in the computation of the tariff rather than the actual weight. The application of estimated weights, where for practical reasons it is inconvenient or impossible to ascertain actual weights, benefits both shipper and carrier, and is not improper except where it appears that the estimate is not fairly representative of the actual weights.[45]

m. Acquiescence of Carrier in Rates Fixed by Commission

A carrier's acquiescence in rates established by a regulatory commission raises a presumption of their reasonableness, although mere conformity thereto, where there is a penalty for their violation, will not.

Acquiescence by the carrier in a rate established by the regulatory commission in general raises the presumption that the rate is reasonable.[46] However, the mere performance of services for a rate fixed by the commission will not of itself justify the conclusion that the rates are reasonable where the legislature has prescribed a penalty for violation of the rates fixed.[47]

§ 298. Standard of Adequate Return

a. In general
b. Recapture of excess profits

a. In General

There is no fixed rule for determining what constitutes an adequate return on the capital invested. Consideration must be given to what is sufficient to induce the investment of capital, and the prevailing interest rates, including the legal rate of interest.

The reasonableness of a rate depends upon whether it furnishes a reasonable and adequate return for the service rendered, and a reasonable and adequate return must pay the cost of the service rendered, as distinguished from all other service, plus a reasonable profit thereon.[48] There is no absolute and

39. Or.—Valley & Siletz R. Co. v. Thomas, 48 P.2d 358, 151 Or. 80.

40. U.S.—Ann Arbor R. Co v. U. S., Cal., 50 S.Ct. 444, 281 U.S. 658, 74 L.Ed. 1098
Or.—Valley & Siletz R. Co. v. Thomas, 48 P.2d 358, 151 Or. 80.

41. U.S.—Ann Arbor R. Co. v. U. S., Cal., 50 S.Ct. 444, 281 U.S. 658, 74 L.Ed. 1098.

Effect of joint resolution

Joint resolution of congress requiring "lawful changes" in rate structure to promote movement of agricultural products did not change existing law by placing agricultural products in a most favored class and justify a reduction in rates on fruit, notwithstanding the carriers have not made a fair return, but merely requires that the existing law be given effect, and does not make unlawful any rate which under the existing law is lawful.—Ann Arbor R. Co. v. U.S., Cal., 50 S.Ct. 444, 281 U.S. 658, 74 L.Ed. 1098.

42. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 190 A. 372, 126 Pa.Super. 1—McCrady Bros. Co. v. Pittsburgh & L.E.R. Co., 66 Pa. Super. 307.

43. U.S.—Ann Arbor R. Co. v. U.S., Cal., 50 S.Ct. 444, 281 U.S. 658, 74 L.Ed. 1098.

44. U.S.—Ann Arbor R. Co. v. U.S., supra.

45. Mont.—Sunburst Oil & Refining Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 7 P.2d 927, 91 Mont. 216, certiorari granted Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Sunburst Oil & Refining Co., 53 S.Ct. 7, 287 U.S. 580, 77 L.Ed. 508, and affirmed 53 S.Ct. 145, 287 U.S. 358, 77 L.Ed. 360, 85 A.L.R. 254.

46. Ky.—Southern Ry. Co. of Kentucky v. Frankfort Distillery, 26 S.W.2d 1025, 233 Ky. 771, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 75, 282 U.S. 868, 75 L.Ed. 767.
10 C.J. p. 424 note 20.

47. Mich.—Detroit, etc., R. Co. v. Michigan R. Commn., 137 N.W. 329, 171 Mich. 335.

48. U.S.—Alton & S. R.R. v. U.S., D.C.Cal., 49 F.2d 414.

Profit in excess of cost allowed

A freight rate that does not embrace a reasonable profit over and above the actual cost and expense to the carrier is not a reasonable rate.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, 155 N.E. 862, 116 Ohio St. 120.

Proper return and actual return must be found

The regulatory commission must make fact findings of what is a fair rate of return to which the carrier is entitled, and the rate of return actually received under the rate as fixed.—Houston Electric Co. v. City of Houston, D.C.Tex., 265 F. 360.

Terminal

Railroads are entitled to rates for switching services rendered in terminal yards such that maintenance, interest, taxes, and a reasonable net revenue will be yielded by the terminal.—Atchison, T. & S.F. Ry. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 188 P. 747, 68 Colo. 92.

definite standard by which it may be determined in all cases what is a fair and reasonable return on the capital invested. It is always a question of fact dependent on the circumstances of each particular case.[49] It has been said that a just and reasonable rate must be sufficient to induce the investment of capital in the business and its continuance therein.[50] The prevailing interest rates should be considered;[51] and the courts have very generally adopted as a standard of adequate return where the carrier's rates are reasonable at least as high a measure of profit as the current rate of return on enterprises of a similar character in the localities where the carrier's business is transacted,[52] and a number of decisions fix the minimum return which will be considered adequate as the legal rate of interest in the locality where the carrier is transacting its business.[53] In any event no complaint can be made of a reduction of rates where the reduced rates will make a larger profit on the investment than realized by the average investor.[54]

Private carrier. In fixing a rate to be charged by a private carrier, a regulatory commission errs by arbitrarily disregarding the right of such carrier to make a charge which will cover amortization and interest on the money invested.[55]

b. Recapture of Excess Profits

Under the Transportation Act one half of the excess of net earnings over six per cent net on the valuation of a railroad's property is to be paid to the interstate commerce commission and used by it for the benefit of the weaker roads.

The so-called recapture paragraphs of the Transportation Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 15 a, which provide substantially that all railroads shall hold one half of the excess of net earnings over six per cent net on the valuation of their property as determined by the interstate commerce commission as trustee for, and pay the same to, the United States, which sums shall be collected by the interstate commerce commission and used by it in furtherance of the public interest in railway transportation, either by making loans to carriers to meet expenditures of capital account or to refund maturing securities, or by purchasing transportation equipment and facilities and leasing the same to carriers, are constitutional.[56] The only power the interstate commerce commission has to make any recapture order arises from the statute, and any action taken therein, beyond the authority granted, is invalid. The provision requiring the commission, in determining the valuation of a railroad's property for the purposes of recapture to "give due consideration to all the elements of value recognized by the law of the land for rate-making purposes" is an express command which the carrier has a clear right to demand compliance with.[57] The commission is not required to fix a general level of rates intended

49. W.Va.—Coal, etc., R. Co. v. Conley, 67 S.E. 613, 67 W.Va. 129.
10 C.J. p 426 notes 42, 43.

50. Rule inapplicable to voluntary rate
Failure to allow any return on capital invested would, if the case were one where board fixed rate instead of approving rate fixed by the utility, be a violation of the principle that a just and reasonable rate must be sufficient to induce the investment of capital in the business and its continuance therein.—O'Brien v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 105 A. 132, 92 N.J.Law 44, affirmed 106 A. 414, 92 N.J.Law 587.

51. U.S.—Houston Electric Co. v. City of Houston, D.C.Tex., 265 F. 360.

52. U.S.—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Hadley, C.C.Mo., 168 F. 317, modified on other grounds 33 S.Ct. 975, 230 U.S. 474, 57 L.Ed. 1571, 33 S.Ct. 983, 230 U.S. 512, 57 L.Ed. 1596, 33 S.Ct. 985, 230 U.S. 509, 57 L.Ed. 1595—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Alabama R. Commission, C.C.Ala., 161 F. 925, reversed on other grounds 170 F. 225, 95 C.C.A. 117.
W.Va.—Coal, etc., R. Co. v. Conley, 67 S.E. 613, 67 W.Va. 129.
10 C.J. p 426 note 44.

Return held adequate
Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of City of St. Louis v. Public Service Commission, 34 S.W.2d 507, 326 Mo. 751.

53. U.S.—Western Ry. of Alabama v. Alabama R. Commission, D.C.Ala., 197 F. 954.
10 C.J. p 426 note 45.

Legal interest rate not inadequate
"While the rate of interest established by law upon money investments, in the absence of express contract, may not measure correctly, or even with approximate accuracy, the return which, as a matter of business policy, railroad carriers should be permitted to earn upon the fair value of their properties employed in the public service, it may well be doubted that any court would be justified in setting aside and holding for naught a legislative enactment which permitted net earnings equal to or not materially less than the interest allowed by statute upon obligations containing no specific agreement in that regard. At any rate, the circumstances would have to be very unusual and the showing very convincing to persuade a court so to do."—Ann Arbor R. Co. v. Fellows, D.C.Mich., 236 F. 387, 390, appeal dismissed Ann Arbor R. Co. v. Glasgow, 39 S.Ct. 5, 248 U.S. 588, 63 L.Ed. 434.

54. N.Y.—Bridge Operating Co. v. Public Service Commn., 138 N.Y.S. 434, 153 App.Div. 129.

55. Wash.—State v. Kuykendall, 228 P. 853, 130 Wash. 674, affirmed 232 P. 695, 132 Wash. 700.

56. U.S.—Dayton-Goose Creek Ry. Co. v. U.S., Tex., 44 S.Ct. 169, 263 U.S. 456, 68 L.Ed. 388, 33 A.L.R. 472, affirming, D.C., 287 F. 728.

Not void for restricting use of property
U.S.—St. Louis & O'F. Ry. Co. v. U.S., D.C.Mo., 22 F.2d 920 reversed on other grounds 49 S.Ct. 384, 279 U.S. 461, 73 L.Ed. 798.

Carriers held not to constitute one system
Switching railroad and coal-carrying railroad were not "under common control and management and operated as single system" within recapture statute.—St. Louis & O'F. Ry. Co. v. U.S., Mo., 49 S.Ct. 384, 279 U.S. 461, 73 L.Ed. 798, reversing, D.C., 22 F.2d 980.

57. U.S.—St. Louis & O'F. Ry. Co. v. U.S., Mo., 49 S.Ct. 384, 279 U.S. 461, 73 L.Ed. 798, reversing, D.C., 22 F.2d 980.

to yield a fair return upon the aggregate value of carrier property either as a whole, or in some prescribed rate or territorial group before railroad excess earnings are recoverable.[58] The moneys payable under the provisions of the act are not public moneys which are payable into the treasury of the United States for ordinary governmental uses, and the United States possesses no direct beneficiary interest in the fund, but is to hold it, through the instrumentality of the interstate commerce commission, when and as it is paid, as trustee and upon the trusts named in the Transportation Act.[59] A carrier entering a bona fide denial of any excess income for recapture purposes, under circumstances sufficient to justify a contest, is not liable for interest on the recapture payments prior to final order requiring them.[60]

§ 299. Evidence as to Reasonableness

The rates established by legislative act or regulatory commission, or initiated by a carrier in states where it is authorized to do so, are presumed just and reasonable, and the burden is on the party assailing the rate to establish its invalidity or unreasonableness. This presumption is a strong presumption which can be overcome only by clear and convincing evidence. In determining the reasonableness of a rate great latitude is permitted in the admission of evidence. However, a commission can act only on evidence properly presented, and its orders will be relieved against where made without evidence or contrary to the evidence.

The rates established in accordance with law[61] by legislative act, state[62] or national,[63] or by the interstate commerce commission,[64] or a state regulatory commission,[65] or initiated by a carrier in due form according to the power vested in it in certain states and under the Interstate Commerce Act of initiating its rates, as appears supra § 280,[66] are presumed to be just and reasonable, and arrived at in due form of procedure.[67] However, no presumption of law arises that a rate is reasonable merely because such rate has been filed with

Present or reproduction cost

Failure of interstate commerce commission, in determining value of railway property for purposes of recapture, to consider present or reproduction cost, was error.—St. Louis & O.'F Ry. Co v. U S, Mo, 49 S Ct 384, 279 U.S. 461, 73 L Ed. 798, reversing, D.C., 22 F 2d 980.

58. U S—St Louis & O.'F. Ry. Co. v. U. S., supra

Period prior to increased rate schedule

Carrier's excess earnings for period prior to time increased rate schedule became effective may be recaptured.—St Louis & O.'F. Ry. Co. v. U. S, D C Mo, 22 F 2d 980, reversed 49 S.Ct. 384, 279 U.S. 461, 73 L Ed. 798.

59. D C.—Richmond, F. & P. R. Co. v. McCarl, 62 F 2d 203, 61 App D.C. 290, certiorari denied 53 S Ct. 506, 288 U.S. 615, 77 L.Ed. 988.

60. U S—St. Louis & O'F. Ry. Co. v. U. S, 49 S Ct. 384, 279 U.S. 461, 73 L Ed. 798, reversing, D.C., 22 F.2d 980.

61. U S—Allen v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co, Ark, 33 S Ct. 1030, 230 U.S. 553, 57 L Ed. 1625—Hooker v Interstate Commerce Commn., Com Ct., 188 F. 242, reversed on other grounds 32 S Ct. 769, 225 U. S. 302, 56 L.Ed. 1099.

62. U.S—Seaboard Air-Line R. Co v. Railroad Commission of Alabama, C.C A.Ala., 155 F. 792.

Ind—Vandalia R Co v. Schnull 122 N.E 225, 188 Ind. 87, reversed on other grounds 41 S Ct. 324, 255 U. S. 113, 65 L Ed 539, conformed to 130 N E. 865, 190 Ind. 698

Mo.—Hackworth v. Missouri Southern R. Co., 227 S.W. 1032, 286 Mo. 282, 15 A L R. 170.

10 C.J. p 426 note 49.

63. U.S—Chicago & G. T. Ry. Co v. Wellman, Mich, 12 S Ct. 400, 143 U.S. 339, 36 L Ed. 176.

64. U.S—Southern R Co. v. Reid, N.C, 32 S Ct. 140, 222 U.S. 424, 56 L Ed. 257.

10 C.J. p 427 note 51.

Presumption in favor of findings of interstate commerce commission see C.J.S. title Commerce § 148, also 12 C J. p 137 note 70—p 138 note 87.

65. U S.—Banton v. Belt Line Ry. Corporation, N Y., 45 S Ct. 534, 268 U.S. 413, 69 L Ed. 1020—Bush v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., D C La, 290 F. 1008—Public Service Ry. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Commissioners, D.C.N J., 276 F. 979, appeal dismissed Board of Public Utility Com'rs of State of New Jersey v. Public Service R. Co, 45 S.Ct. 9, 266 U.S 636, 69 L Ed 481.

Ark.—Clear Creek Oil & Gas Co. v. Ft. Smith Spelter Co, 255 S W. 903, 161 Ark. 12, affirmed Ft. Smith Spelter Co. v. Clear Creek Oil & Gas Co., 45 S Ct. 263, 267 U S. 231, 69 L Ed. 588.

Fla—State v. Florida East Coast Ry. Co., 73 So. 171, 72 Fla. 379, Ann. Cas 1918E 1206.

Ill.—Illinois Commerce Commission v. Cleveland, C, C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 150 N E. 678, 320 Ill. 214

Ind.—Vandalia R Co. v. Schnull, 122 N E 225, 188 Ind 87, reversed on other grounds 41 S Ct. 324, 255 U.S 113, 65 L Ed 539, conformed to 130 N E. 865, 190 Ind. 698

Mass—Donham v. Public Service Commission, 122 N E. 397, 232 Mass. 309.

Mont—Sunburst Oil & Refining Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 7 P.2d 927, 91 Mont 216, certiorari granted Great Northern Ry. Co v. Sunburst Oil & Refining Co, 53 S Ct. 7, 287 U S 580, 77 L Ed. 508, affirmed 53 S Ct. 145, 287 U S 358, 77 L Ed 360, 85 A L R 254.

Tenn—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry v. Railroad and Public Utilities Commission, 32 S.W 2d 1043, 161 Tenn 592

Tex—Railroad Commission of Texas v. Houston Chamber of Commerce, 78 S W.2d 591, 124 Tex 375, affirming Houston Chamber of Commerce v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ App, 19 S.W 2d 583.

Va—Atlantic Coast Line R Co v. Commonwealth, 118 S E. 257, 136 Va 134

10 C J. p 427 note 52.

Over carrier's opposition

A rate established by a state regulatory commission after hearing, over the opposition of the railroad, is presumed reasonable—Bush v Texas & P. Ry. Co, D C La, 290 F. 1008.

Prior rates

In action involving question of whether rates fixed by statute were confiscatory, it will be presumed that the rates previously charged which were fixed by the state regulatory commission were reasonable—Hackworth v. Missouri Southern R Co, 227 S W. 1032, 286 Mo. 282, 15 A L R 170.

66. U.S—Oregon Short Line R. Co. v Teton Coal Co., C C A Idaho, 35 F.2d 919.

Carrier's published tariff

Prima facie carrier's published tariff is reasonable.—Oregon Short Line R. Co v. Teton Coal Co, C C.A Idaho, 35 F 2d 919.

67. Fla—State v. Florida East Coast Ry. Co, 73 So 171, 72 Fla. 379, Ann.Cas.1918E 1206.

the interstate commerce commission[68] or posted in compliance with a state statute;[69] and the mere filing of a schedule of rates raises no inference that the commission approves them.[70]

Although, in certain jurisdictions, it is held that the burden is on the carrier to show that the rates are reasonable and just and not excessive on appeal by the carrier from an order of the commission in proceedings instituted by customers of the carrier,[71] in general the burden is on the party assailing the rate to establish the invalidity of the order of the commission,[72] or the unreasonableness of the rate attacked,[73] especially where the rate has been in force for a long period, during which time the traffic has greatly increased in volume,[74] and it has been said that great difficulty in furnishing data to show the unreasonableness of rates established will not excuse a carrier which assails the rates from so doing where it has it in its power to present accurate data which would permit the court to draw correct conclusions.[75]

This presumption of reasonableness arises independently of any statute so providing,[76] but it is not conclusive and may be rebutted in proper proceedings had for determining the question of reasonableness,[77] as, for instance, by showing that the rate is noncompensatory.[78] Where a carrier, given the alternative of raising one rate or of lowering another in order to remove discrimination, elects to raise one of the rates, it has the burden of justifying its increase,[79] but in doing so it has the advantage of a presumption in favor of the reasonableness of maintaining the higher rate.[80] A carrier seeking from a state regulatory commission authority to increase its rate has the burden of showing that the increased rate proposed by it is not more than the service is reasonably worth.[81] On appeal from an order of a state regulatory commission refusing reparation, the making of the order, in the exercise of the powers conferred upon the commission by statute, is prima facie evidence of its reasonableness, and the burden of proving the contrary is on appellant.[82]

68. U S —Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commn., La., 27 S.Ct. 700, 206 U S. 441, 51 L Ed. 1128.
Tenn.—Rather v. Nashville, etc., R. Co, 174 S.W. 1113, 131 Tenn. 289
10 C J. p 428 note 70.

69. N.Y —Murphy v. New York Cent R. Co, 122 N.E. 700, 225 N Y 548, affirming 156 N.Y.S. 49, 170 App Div. 788.
10 C J. p 428 note 71.

70. Iowa.—Cramer v. Chicago, etc., R Co., 133 N.W. 387, 153 Iowa 103.

71. Ill —State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & W. T. Ry. Co, 114 N E. 325, 275 Ill. 555, Ann. Cas.1917C 50.

72. U S.—Banton v. Belt Line Ry. Corporation, N.Y., 45 S.Ct. 534, 268 U S 413, 69 L Ed. 1020.

73. U.S —Southern Pac. Co. v. Bartine, D C Nev., 1 F 2d 323—International Ry. Co. v Prendergast, D.C. N Y, 1 F Supp. 623—Public Service Ry Co v Board of Public Utility Commissioners, D.C.N J, 276 F 979, appeal dismissed Board of Public Utility Com'rs of State of New Jersey v. Public Service R. Co, 45 S Ct. 9, 266 U S. 636, 69 L. Ed 481—Seaboard Air Line Ry Co v. Railroad Commission of Alabama, C C Ala., 155 F. 792.
Ark —Clear Creek Oil & Gas Co. v Ft. Smith Spelter Co., 255 S W. 903, 161 Ark 12, affirmed Ft. Smith Spelter Co v Clear Creek Oil & Gas Co, 45 S Ct 263, 267 U.S. 231, 69 L Ed 588.
Fla.—State v Florida East Coast Ry. Co., 73 So 171, 72 Fla. 379, Ann. Cas 1918E 1206.
Ill.—Moline Consumers' Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Chicago, B & Q. R Co, 187 N E. 161, 353 Ill. 119—Chicago & E I Ry Co. v. Commerce Commission, 175 N E. 8, 343 Ill. 117—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry Co. v. Commerce Commission, 167 N E 831, 335 Ill. 624—Illinois Commerce Commission v. Illinois Traction, 167 N E. 38, 335 Ill. 247—Illinois Commerce Commission v. Cleveland, C, C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 150 N E. 678, 320 Ill. 214.
Pa —City of Philadelphia v. Public Service Commission, 84 Pa Super. 135.
Tenn —Nashville, C. & St L. Ry. v. Railroad and Public Utilities Commission, 32 S W 2d 1043, 161 Tenn. 592.

In New Mexico

(1) Where, under the state constitution, orders of the commission, made in accordance with the power and duty given it by the constitution to fix, determine, supervise, regulate, and control all charges and rates of railway and other companies, before being enforceable, must be passed upon by the supreme court, and such orders cannot be held valid and enforced by the court unless based upon sufficient evidence heard by the commission and preserved in the record, the burden is not cast upon the railway company to justify a rate or proposed tariff, but rests upon the commission to produce evidence warranting its action in fixing a rate, or other action taken —In re Coal Rates in New Mexico, 171 P. 506, 23 N M. 704.

(2) The state corporation commission cannot cast the burden of justifying a rate upon the carrier, by serving it with an order to show cause why a given rate should not be established.—In re Coal Rates in New Mexico, supra.

74. U S —Louisville & N R. Co v U. S, Tenn., 35 S Ct. 696, 238 U S. 1, 50 L.Ed 1177.

75. U.S —Minnesota Rate Cases, Minn, 33 S.Ct. 729, 230 U S 352 57 L Ed. 1511, Ann.Cas 1916A 18.

76. U.S —Minneapolis & St. L R Co v. State of Minnesota, 22 S Ct 900, 186 U S 257, 46 L.Ed 1151
10 C.J. p 427 note 56.

77. Fla —State v Florida East Coast Ry. Co, 73 So 171, 72 Fla 379, Ann Cas 1918E 1206.
10 C.J. p 427 note 57.

78. U S —Northern Pac R. Co v North Dakota, ex rel. McCue, N. D, 35 S Ct 429, 236 U S 585, 59 L Ed 735, Ann Cas.1916A 1.

79. Pa.—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Public Service Commission, 190 A 372, 126 Pa Super 1.

80. Pa —Pennsylvania R. Co. v Public Service Commission, supra.

81. N J.—New Jersey Central Traction Co v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 113 A 692, 96 N J Law 90
W Va —Hope Natural Gas Co v. Public Service Commission, 164 S E. 248, 112 W.Va. 223.

82. Pa —Chemical Lime Co. v Public Service Commission, 157 A. 820, 103 Pa Super 195, 197—Chemical Lime Co. v Public Service Commission, 157 A. 820, 103 Pa.Super. 194—Centre County Lime Co. v Public Service Commission of

Although in some states, under the statutes therein, on appeal from an order of the state commission relating to rates, the controversy as to the reasonableness of the rates is to be determined so far as the burden of proof is concerned by the rules governing in ordinary civil cases,[83] in general, to overcome the presumption the evidence must be clear and convincing,[84] every reasonable doubt being yielded in favor of the rate.[85] The fullest disclosure of all material facts must be made,[86] and mere speculative suggestions as to what might possibly result with no showing of an actual test are insufficient to overcome the presumption.[87] A carrier, however, may sufficiently maintain the burden of showing that a rate on a particular commodity is unreasonable or noncompensatory by whatever evidence is available, without undertaking to prove by facts and figures with the precision of a mathematical theorem that the rate is unreasonable or noncompensatory.[88] The presumption as to reasonableness may be overcome by admissions in pleadings which clearly show the invalidity of the order, or which admit that it is unreasonable and arbitrarily made without evidence or due consideration.[89] The presumption in favor of the finding of a master, based on evidence, and the results of actual operation under the rates in question is superior to the original presumption in favor of the reasonableness of the rates.[90] The presumption that rates for intra-state traffic established by a state regulatory commission are fair, just, and reasonable cannot be overcome by the voluntary act of the carrier in merely publishing rates which differ.[91]

Admissibility of evidence. In determining what are just and reasonable rates, great latitude is allowed in the admission of evidence.[92] A regula-

Pennsylvania, 157 A. 820, 103 Pa. Super. 192, 193—Centre County Lime Co. v. Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, 157 A. 815, 103 Pa.Super. 179.

83. Tex.—Railroad Commission of Texas v. Houston Chamber of Commerce, 78 S.W.2d 591, 124 Tex. 375, affirming Houston Chamber of Commerce v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 19 S.W.2d 583.

84. Fla.—State v. Florida East Coast Ry. Co., 73 So. 171, 72 Fla. 379, Ann.Cas.1918E 1206.
10 C.J. p 427 note 59.

Presumption not overthrown

Evidence held not to clearly show that order by railroad commissioners, affecting commodities in Class P, would compel defendant to carry the commodities at a loss or without substantial compensation—State v. Florida East Coast Ry. Co., 73 So. 171, 72 Fla. 379, Ann.Cas.1918E 1206.

85. Fla.—State v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 57 So. 175, 62 Fla. 315.

Beyond any doubt

To overcome the presumption in favor of the validity of a rate fixed by an administrative board, after a full hearing, the company, on an application for a preliminary injunction, must show beyond any just or fair doubt that the action of the board was in fact confiscatory—Public Service Ry. Co. v. Board of Public Utility Commissioners, D.C.N.J., 276 F. 979, appeal dismissed Board of Public Utility Com'rs of State of New Jersey v. Public Service R. Co., 45 S.Ct. 9, 266 U.S. 636, 69 L.Ed. 481.

86. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Kentucky R. Commission, D.C.Ky., 214 F. 465, affirmed 35 S.Ct. 146, 235 U.S. 601, 59 L.Ed. 379—Atlantic, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., 76 F. 186.
10 C.J. p 427 note 62.

87. Fla.—State v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 37 So. 658, 48 Fla. 150, 152, affirmed 27 S.Ct. 109, 203 U.S. 261, 51 L.Ed. 175.

88. Kan.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 172 P. 1022, 103 Kan. 111.

Testimony of witnesses unnecessary

In determining the reasonableness of a rule issued by a carrier which causes an increase of switching charges, it is not necessary that any witness should express an opinion that the rate fixed by the new rule was unreasonable or that any one should testify to the various details making up the cost of operation, but the commission can determine from the facts proved whether or not the tariff applied is reasonable—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago, P. & St. L. R. Co., 118 N.E. 427, 282 Ill. 158.

89. Fla.—State v. Florida East Coast R. Co., 59 So. 385, 64 Fla. 112.

Admission of record by party

Telegram from railroad company to state corporation commission reciting that company did not object to reduction in rates made by commission was properly made part of record, since telegram was in nature of pleading, and fact that other railway companies involved in proceeding were not notified of telegram was not error, where rate reduction was not based upon telegram.—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v. Commonwealth ex rel. Mathieson Alkali Works, 174 S.E. 85, 162 Va. 314.

90. U.S.—Shepard v. Northern Pac. R. Co., C.C.Minn., 184 F. 765, modified on other grounds 33 S.Ct. 729, 230 U.S. 352, 57 L.Ed. 1511, 48 L.R.A.,N.S., 1151, Ann.Cas.1916A 18.

91. Va.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 118 S.E. 257, 136 Va. 134.

92. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Bartine, D.C.Nev., 1 F.2d 323.
Minn.—Appeal of Great Northern Ry. Co., 62 N.W. 826, 60 Minn. 461.
Wis.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State R. Commn., 145 N.W. 216, 974, 156 Wis. 47.

In behalf of any interested party

The commission, and, on appeal, the court, may receive evidence and hear arguments in behalf of any person or corporation interested in the result.—Appeal of Great Northern Ry. Co., 62 N.W. 826, 60 Minn. 461—Steenerson v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 62 N.W. 826, 60 Minn. 461.

Opportunity to explain erroneous reports

In proceeding to fix rates, if reports of carrier were incorrect or manifestly erroneous, it should have been given opportunity to correct or explain same before they were used as basis for rates, and fixing of rates by department of public works without other evidence was arbitrary and unlawful—State v. Kuykendall, 228 P. 853, 130 Wash. 674, affirmed 232 P. 695, 132 Wash. 700.

Evidence held incompetent

That witness had traveled extensively on railroads and had testified many times before interstate commerce commission had no tendency to prove anything with regard to the operating conditions of the carrier whose rates were in question for freight rate purposes.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 167 N.E. 331, 335 Ill. 624.

tory commission is entitled to consider any and all evidence bearing on the question,[93] and is not limited by the strict rules as to the admissibility of evidence which prevail in suits between private parties.[94] Voluntary maintenance of rates by the carrier for a considerable period of time is evidence that such rates are reasonable.[95] On appeal from the decision of a regulatory commission, the determination of the interstate commerce commission as to the rates to be operative thereafter, invalid because of procedural errors, does not have the force of res judicata in respect of past transactions, but, nevertheless, is entitled to great respect, representing, as it does, the opinion of a body of experts upon matters within their special knowledge and experience.[96] A regulatory commission may not treat statements or decisions of another commission in other cases as evidence in a case before the commission.[97] On the question of whether the regulatory commissioners made an order as to rates without any evidence, they may be called as witnesses.[98]

Sufficiency of evidence. Whether a rate is reasonable or unreasonable must be decided in the light of the evidence and the decided cases, so that where there is evidence for, and no evidence against, a particular rate, and no decided case holding the particular rate to be unreasonable, the tribunal, whatever it may be, is compelled to the inference of reasonableness.[99] An order of a commission fixing a rate, or determining its reasonableness, must be based upon evidence presented to the commission.[1] Nothing can be treated as evidence which was not introduced as such.[2] The commissioners cannot act upon their own information, but are limited to a consideration of what has been admitted in evidence in the instant hearing,[3] and are entitled to assume that representatives of the Evidence held immaterial

(1) That railroad furnished cars on which shipper brought logs from Canada to point of shipment was immaterial on question of intra-state transportation charges.—State v. Department of Public Works, 270 P. 300, 149 Wash. 129, certiorari denied Chicago, M., St. P. & P. R. Co. v. Department of Public Works of Washington, 49 S.Ct. 350, 279 U.S. 854, 73 L.Ed. 996.

(2) That logs brought in from Canada were subject to tariff laws was immaterial on question of charges for intra-state transportation.—State v. Department of Public Works, supra.

Charge for parking showman's cars

In an action to recover back an amount paid a railroad company by a showman for parking his cars on its tracks for a period of forty-five days, where it had filed no schedule of charges for such service with the railroad commission, evidence that the charge made was a reasonable charge, and evidence as to the reasonable expense of moving the cars from place to place during the forty-five days, was erroneously excluded.—Ex parte Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 90 So. 502, 206 Ala. 400, 19 A.L.R. 978, reversing Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Wood, 90 So. 503, 18 Ala.App. 147.

93. Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & W. T. Ry. Co., 114 N.E. 325, 275 Ill. 555, Ann.Cas.1917C 50.
Ind.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Hunt, 83 N.E. 721, 42 Ind. 90.

94. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Bartine, D.C.Nev., 1 F.2d 323.

95. Idaho.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Idaho, 238 P. 970, 41 Idaho 181, certiorari granted 46 S.Ct. 201, 269 U.S. 550, 70 L.Ed. 406, reversed on other grounds 47 S.Ct. 604, 274 U.S. 344, 71 L.Ed. 1085.
10 C.J. p. 428 note 64.

96. U.S.—State of Florida v. U. S., D.C.Ga., 11 F.Supp. 36, reversed on other grounds Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. State of Florida, 55 S.Ct. 713, 295 U.S. 301, 79 L.Ed. 1451, rehearing denied 55 S.Ct. 918, 295 U.S. 769, 79 L.Ed. 1710, and State of Florida v. U. S., 55 S.Ct. 918, 295 U.S. 769, 79 L.Ed. 1710.

97. Ill.—Moline Consumers' Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission ex rel. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 187 N.E. 161, 353 Ill. 119.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 167 N.E. 831, 335 Ill. 624.

98. Fla.—State v. Florida East Coast Ry. Co., 73 So. 171, 72 Fla. 379, Ann.Cas.1918E 1206.

99. N.J.—O'Brien v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 105 A. 132, 92 N.J.Law 44, affirmed 106 A. 414, 92 N.J.Law 587.

Party offering no evidence cannot complain

Where increase in rates was just enough to enable railway to meet increased expense, forced upon it by order of war labor board of federal government, prosecutor who offered no evidence to contradict evidence of railway, but contented himself with urging that there was no evidence of the value of property of the railway, was in no position to complain.—O'Brien v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs, 105 A. 132, 92 N.J.Law 44, affirmed 106 A. 414, 92 N.J.Law 587.

1. Ill.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 167 N.E. 831, 335 Ill. 624.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 116 N.E. 696, 279 Ill. 194.

Commissioners making decision must hear evidence

Under L.1919 c. 194 § 10, a member of the board of railroad commissioners, who had attended the hearings on an application by carriers for a rate increase, could not properly assent to its order increasing rates without having heard the evidence, or read it, nor does anything in Transportation Act, Act Congr. Febr. 28, 1920, justify such consideration, in view of L.1919 c. 192, §§ 35, 43, providing that the findings of the commission shall be admissible as evidence in proceedings before the commissioners or in any court, and that they shall be conclusive evidence of the facts therein stated, and that on appeal no new evidence shall be taken and the lawfulness of the decision of the commissioners inquired into and determined on the record of the commission.—State v. Chicago & N.W. Ry. Co., 179 N.W. 378, 46 N.D. 313.

2. Ill.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 167 N.E. 831, 335 Ill. 624.

3. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Kentucky, D.C.Ky., 1 F.2d 805.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Bartine, D.C.Nev., 1 F.2d 323.
Ill.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 167 N.E. 831, 335 Ill. 624.
Pa.—City of Philadelphia v. Public Service Commission, 84 Pa.Super. 135.

Information in files

A commission cannot base a find-public taking part in the proceeding will fairly and sufficiently present such facts as are necessary to protect the public and need not assign their own experts to the task of obtaining such information and presenting it as evidence.[4] Thus, on an appeal from the decision of a regulatory commission, the presumption in favor of its order establishing a rate or determining the reasonableness thereof will be overcome and the order relieved against by the courts, where it is made to appear that the order was made without evidence, or upon evidence which clearly does not support it or is contrary to it;[5] but on such appeal a carrier is not in as strong a position to urge the insufficiency of evidence procured against it, where the facts are peculiarly within its knowledge, as if all possible knowledge as to the justness of the rates had been laid before the commission.[6]

No hard and fast rule can be laid down as to the quantum and quality of evidence necessary to support a finding that past rates were unjust and unreasonable, but the state regulatory commission in the exercise of a flexible limit of judgment must in each individual case determine, under the particular facts there developed, whether past rates have been unreasonable to the extent of involving elements of legal oppression and extortion.[7]

§ 300. Joint Rates and Division of Rates

a. In general
b. Establishment
c. Division and apportionment
d. Actions or proceedings for recovery or accounting

a. In General

A joint rate is one prescribed or established for the transportation of goods over the connecting lines of two ing upon the schedules and other general information which it has in its files, unless they were put in evidence in the particular proceeding —Illinois Cent. R Co. v. Railroad Commission of Kentucky, D C.Ky., 1 F.2d 805.

4. Pa.—City of Philadelphia v. Public Service Commission, 84 Pa.Super. 135.

5. U S.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Department of Public Works of Washington, 45 S Ct. 412, 268 U. S. 39, 69 L Ed 837, reversing 217 P. 507, 125 Wash. 584—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v Railroad Commission of Kentucky, D C Ky., 1 F. 2d 805—Chicago Rys Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, D.C. Ill., 277 F. 970.
Fla.—State v. Florida East Coast Ry. Co., 73 So. 171, 72 Fla. 379, Ann Cas.1918E 1206.
Ill.—Illinois Commerce Commission v. Cleveland, C, C. & St. L. Ry. Co, 150 N E 678, 320 Ill. 214.

Evidence held sufficient
U.S.—Illinois Cent R. Co. v. Vest, D C Ky, 39 F.2d 658—Baltimore & O R. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Del, 12 F. Supp. 261, appeal dismissed, C C.A., 87 F 2d 695
Ill.—Indiana Harbor Belt R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 172 N.E. 708, 340 Ill. 304—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 166 N E. 466, 335 Ill. 70—Illinois Commerce Commission v. Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co., 163 N E 664, 332 Ill. 243.
Ind.—New York, C. & St L R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Indiana, 199 N E 573
Kan.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co v. Public Utilities Commission, 172 P. 1022, 103 Kan. 111.
N.D.—State v. Great Northern Ry Co, 219 N.W. 295, 56 N D. 822.
Ohio.—Baltimore & O R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, 198 N E. 869, 130 Ohio St. 258—Marietta & V. R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 126 N.E. 889, 101 Ohio St. 29.
Okl.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Standard Paving Co., 224 P. 296, 98 Okl. 71—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. State, 206 P. 252, 86 Okl. 65.
Va.—Norfolk & W. R. Co. v. Commonwealth ex rel. Mathieson Alkali Works, 174 S.E 85, 162 Va. 314.

Evidence held insufficient
U S.—Illinois Cent. R Co. v. Railroad Commission of Kentucky, D C. Ky, 1 F 2d 805.
Ill.—Chicago & E. I Ry. Co. v. Commerce Commission, 175 N.E. 8, 343 Ill. 117—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v Illinois Commerce Commission, 173 N.E. 804, 342 Ill. 11—Illinois Commerce Commission v. Illinois Traction, 167 N E 38, 335 Ill. 247—State Public Utilities Commission v. Atchison, T & S F. Ry. Co., 116 N E. 696, 279 Ill 194.
La.—Alexandria & W. Ry Co. v. Railroad Commission of Louisiana, 79 So. 863, 143 La 1067.
Wash.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v Department of Public Works of Washington, 296 P 142, 161 Wash 29—State v. Public Service Commission of Washington, 163 P 1143, 95 Wash. 376, affirmed State v. Public Service Commission, 166 P. 793, 95 Wash 376

Evidence held to show rates excessive
Okl.—Atchison, T & S. F. Ry Co. v State, 200 P. 232, 82 Okl. 288—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. State, 198 P. 73, 81 Okl. 298.

Making order for experimental period unavailing
Invalidity of order of department of public works fixing railroad rates, because based on finding not supported by evidence, was not avoided by making the order, in terms, for an experimental period, where the railroad's evidence tended to show existing rates, although higher than those fixed by order, to be confiscatory—Northern Pac. Ry. Co v Department of Public Works of Washington, 45 S.Ct. 412, 268 U.S. 39, 69 L.Ed. 837, reversing 217 P. 507, 125 Wash. 584

Abolishment of switching charges held proper
Where a railroad and terminal switching company was absorbed by railroad company as a terminal switching facility, order of railroad and warehouse commission abolishing switching charges by the railroad and terminal company was not unlawful or unreasonable—Minneapolis Civic & Commerce Ass'n v Great Northern Ry. Co., 162 N W. 689, 137 Minn. 10, rehearing denied 163 N W 294, 137 Minn. 10, writ of error dismissed Great Northern R Co. v. Minneapolis Civic & Commerce Ass'n, 39 S Ct. 385, 249 U.S. 622, 63 L Ed 806

6. Colo.—Atchison, T. & S F Ry Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 188 P. 747, 68 Colo. 92.

7. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co v. Public Service Commission, 190 A. 367, 125 Pa Super. 558.

Evidence held sufficient
Pa.—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Public Service Commission, 190 A. 367 125 Pa.Super. 558.

or more carriers, and which is to be divided among them for the services rendered by each respectively.

A joint rate is one which has been prescribed or established for the transportation of goods over the connecting lines of two or more carriers, and which is to be divided among them for the service rendered by each respectively.[8]

The divisions made among themselves of a joint rate by the participating carriers are not of themselves standards by which the justness and reasonableness of the joint rate can properly be measured, for the whole rate may be just and reasonable, although some of the divisions may be unreasonable; but evidence of the divisions made of the rate is admissible on the question of what it costs each participating carrier to handle the traffic.[9]

The mere fact that one railroad company owns a controlling interest in the stock of another company owning and operating a connecting line does not authorize the application of rules as to traffic relations between them different from those applied to connecting lines.[10]

b. Establishment

(1) In general
(2) Under the Interstate Commerce Act
(3) Under state statutes

(1) In General

In the absence of applicable statute or regulation, the establishment of joint rates is a matter of contract or agreement between the participating carriers.

In the absence of an applicable statute or regulation prescribing such a rate, the establishment of a joint rate is ordinarily dependent on a contract or agreement between the carriers concerned;[11] and, as will be seen in § 315, if a rate of this character has not been established, the charges for a carriage over several lines is generally the total of the rates established by the participating carriers for their shares of the carriage.

Except where the charter of a carrier entitles it to fix rates only for transportation over its own lines,[12] connecting carriers may unite in establishing a joint through rate for the transportation of freight over their respective lines,[13] and the fact that such connecting carriers might be regarded as competing roads does not affect this right.[14]

(2) Under the Interstate Commerce Act

Under the Interstate Commerce Act, if interstate carriers do not establish joint rates by voluntary agreement, they may be compelled to do so by the interstate commerce commission.

Prior to the amendment of the Interstate Commerce Act in 1906 by the Mann-Elkins Act, interstate carriers were free to adopt or refuse to adopt joint through tariff rates,[15] the whole matter being left to the voluntary action of the carriers;[16] and it was well settled that no power resided in either court or commission to compel connecting carriers to unite in a joint tariff for interstate traffic.[17] However, under the act as presently amended, 49 U.S.C.A. § 15 (3), the interstate commerce commission has the power to establish joint classifications and joint rates as the maximum to be charged, and prescribe the division of such rates whenever the carriers themselves shall have refused or neglected to establish voluntarily such joint rates.[18]

Where connecting carriers make a joint rate on interstate shipments, each carrier is brought within the scope of the Interstate Commerce Act and rendered responsible for the rate so made without regard to the proportion thereof received for its own service.[19]

Carriers subject to the Interstate Commerce Act cannot make a joint rate with an ocean carrier, but the transportation within the country must be treat-

8. Ga.—Hill v. Wadley Southern Ry. Co., 57 S.E. 795, 128 Ga. 705.

9. Va.—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v. Commonwealth ex rel. Mathieson Alkali Works, 174 S.E. 85, 162 Va. 314.

10. U.S.—Georgia S. & F. Ry. Co. v. Georgia Public Service Commission, D.C.Ga., 289 F. 878.

11. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., Ct.Cl., 6 S.Ct. 772, 117 U.S. 355, 29 L.Ed. 920.

12. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Mississippi Cotton Seed Products Co., 148 So. 371, 166 Miss. 579.

13. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Brooks-Scanlon Co., La., 241 F. 445, 154 C.C.A. 277.
10 C.J. p. 428 note 74.

14. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commn., Cal., 26 S.Ct. 330, 200 U.S. 536, 50 L.Ed. 585.
10 C.J. p. 428 note 75.

15. U.S.—Express Cases, Ark., 6 S.Ct. 542, 628, 117 U.S. 1, 29 L.Ed. 791

16. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commn., Cal., 26 S.Ct. 330, 200 U.S. 536, 50 L.Ed. 585.
10 C.J. p. 428 note 80.

17. U.S.—U.S. v. Union Pac. Co., C.C.Utah, 188 F. 102, reversed on other grounds 33 S.Ct. 53, 226 U.S. 61, 57 L.Ed. 124.
10 C.J. p. 428 note 79.

18. U.S.—U.S. v. American Ry. Express Co., Ga., 44 S.Ct. 560, 265 U.S. 425, 68 L.Ed. 1087, reversing American Ry. Express Co. v. U.S., D.C., 293 F. 31—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. U.S., Ky., 38 S.Ct. 49, 245 U.S. 136, 62 L.Ed. 199, affirming, D.C., 234 F. 668.

Failure to fix division

An order establishing an additional route over connecting express lines is not subject to objection, because it does not fix the division of rates as between the express companies.—American Ry. Express Co. v. U.S., D.C.Ga., 293 F. 31, reversed on other grounds U.S. v. American Ry. Express Co., 44 S.Ct. 560, 265 U.S. 425, 68 L.Ed. 1087.

19. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ga., 118 F. 613.

ed as a separate transportation, subject to the terms of the act.[20]

As noted in § 302 (4) infra, joint rates agreed to by the carriers can become legally operative only by being filed and published as required by the Interstate Commerce Act.

(3) Under State Statutes

State statutes may authorize the establishment and regulation of joint rates for intra-state shipments by a state regulatory commission.

Under statutory provisions granting it such power a state commission may have the authority to establish joint rates for intra-state shipments over connecting lines,[21] provided the prescribed procedure has been pursued.[22] Commission orders relative to joint rates have been sustained as against the objection that they were an abuse of police power,[23] confiscatory,[24] or too uncertain.[25]

It has been held that, although the authorizing statute contains no express requirement to that effect, to justify the establishment of joint rates it must be made to appear that the lines affected by the rates are each common carriers having physical connections, and that there is an existing public necessity for through routes and joint rates between stations within the state on the lines of the connecting carriers. While it is not requisite that an absolute and indispensable necessity should be shown, it must at least appear that the reasonable accommodation and convenience of shippers and receivers of freight necessitates the establishment of such joint rates; and, if there is no sufficient evidence to show the existence of such a public necessity, an order for the establishment of joint rates cannot be sustained;[26] but a finding of public necessity may be sustained by the fact that only one person asked for the joint rate, as the existence of public necessity is not necessarily determined by the number of people asking for the rate.[27]

Proper statutes may permit the establishment of joint rates between connecting lines separately owned,[28] between a steam railroad and an interurban,[29] or between a lumber company carrier authorized to act as a common carrier and a standard carrier;[30] but it has been held that a common carrier cannot be compelled to adopt joint rates with a private carrier.[31] Where one carrier owns and operates 20. U.S.—Pacific Mail S. S. Co. v. Western Pac. R. Co., Cal., 251 F. 218, 163 C.C.A. 374.

Wis.—Waters v. Pfister & Vogel Leather Co., 186 N.W. 173, 176 Wis. 16.

21. Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Toledo, St. L. & W. R. Co., 122 N.E. 158, 286 Ill. 582.
Ind.—Indiana Harbor Belt R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Indiana, 121 N.E. 540, 187 Ind. 660
N.M.—San Juan Coal & Coke Co. v. Santa Fé, S. J. & N. Ry. Co., 2 P. 2d 305, 35 N.M. 512.
N.C.—Corporation Commission v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 121 S.E. 767, 187 N.C. 424.
Pa.—Lehigh Valley Transit Co. v. Public Service Commission, 78 Pa. Super. 105.
10 C.J. p. 429 note 84.

Intra-city shipments
A statute authorizing the commission to fix joint rates between points in the statute empowers it to fix a joint rate, although the services of the intermediate and delivering carriers are rendered wholly within the limits of one city.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 116 N.E. 620, 279 Ill. 110.

Statute valid
A state statute authorizing the railroad commission to order railroads to establish through routes and empowering the commission to establish joint rates, and to order that carload freight shall be carried by a different railroad without being transferred from the original cars, is not in violation of any federal or state constitutional provision, and an order of the commission establishing a joint rate for a given service and apportioning the rate between connecting carriers, leaving to them the practicable way of complying with the order either by sending the loaded cars through to their destination or by transferring the load from the cars of one carrier to those of the other at the connecting point, is not invalid as beyond the power of the commission to make.—State v. State Public Service Commn., 137 P. 132, 76 Wash. 625.

22. U.S.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, D.C.Ga., 274 F. 649.

Notice to carriers
Where an express company filed a schedule containing joint rates with another, and the public utility commission changed provisions of the schedule as to joint rates, making them more extensive, in the absence of thirty days' notice to carriers, as provided by statute, the joint rates are invalid.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, D.C.Ga., 274 F. 649

23. Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission of Washington, 163 P. 1143, 95 Wash. 376, affirmed State v. Public Service Commission, 166 P. 793, 95 Wash. 376.

24. Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 116 N.E. 620, 279 Ill. 110.
Or.—Valley & Siletz R. Co. v. Thomas, 48 P.2d 358, 151 Or. 80.

25. U.S.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, D.C.Ga., 274 F. 649.

26. Ind.—Indiana Harbor Belt R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Indiana, 121 N.E. 540, 187 Ind. 660.

Evidence held to show that through rates and joint rates between short freight line and through railroad were not necessary to accommodate reasonable requirements of shippers.—Public Service Commission of Indiana v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 121 N.E. 116, 188 Ind. 197.

27. Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission of Washington, 163 P. 1143, 95 Wash. 376, affirmed State v. Public Service Commission, 166 P. 793, 95 Wash. 376.

28. Ohio.—Hocking Valley Ry. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 140 N.E. 667, 107 Ohio St. 43.
Or.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. Corey, 252 P. 955, 120 Or. 517.

29. Ohio.—Hocking Valley Ry. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 140 N.E. 667, 107 Ohio St. 43.

30. N.C.—Raleigh Granite Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 121 S.E. 767, 187 N.C. 424.

31. Wash.—State v. Kuykendall, 228

another carrier as a part of its system and as a continuous line so that they are in effect but one road, a commission has been held without power to establish joint rates between such carriers;[32] but the establishment of a joint rate has been held authorized where the two carriers had separate directors and were operated separately, although one carrier owned all the stock and bonds of the other,[33] and, where the relationship between the two carriers is one of cooperation merely, the establishment of a joint rate has been held authorized.[34]

Where one carrier has united with another in a joint through traffic agreement, under which one carrier carries through shipments over the lines of the other, the connecting roads form practically a new and independent continuous line,[35] and a statute prescribing a general tariff as to all shipments over one continuous line, whether owned by two or more companies, or whether the line be created by joint traffic agreement, may constitutionally apply to a carrier so using the lines of another, and a statute fixing joint rates has no application to such a situation.[36] Also, where single-line and joint-line scales of rates have been established, two carriers under common management and control must apply the single-line scale of rates rather than the joint-line scale of rates.[37] On the other hand, a commission has been held without power, under the particular statutory and constitutional provisions involved, to prescribe a single continuous rate as to joint intra-state freight traffic moving over two connecting lines, owned and operated separately by different companies, merely because one company owned a controlling interest in the stock of the other.[38]

Method of fixing amount. It has been held that, under a statute authorizing a commission to establish joint rates, the amount of such a rate may be fixed by deducting some prescribed per centum from each of the local rates and adding together the two rates thus reduced, although such method is not exclusive.[39]

Modification or abrogation. A joint rate which has been put into effect in compliance with an order of the state commission cannot be modified or abrogated on an ex parte application by one of the carriers.[40]

c. Division and Apportionment

Joint rates are usually divided or apportioned among the participating carriers in accordance with the rate of division or apportionment agreed on by them or the divisions ordered by a duly authorized commission after proper proceedings have been entertained.

As a general rule, the participating carriers are entitled to have a joint rate divided or apportioned among them in accordance with the terms of their agreement,[41] or, in the absence of agreement, in accordance with a fair, just, and equitable division, so that each will receive a fair and reasonable compensation in proportion to the amount and cost of service rendered by it.[42] A carrier is entitled to participate in the division of a joint through rate over its own line, although the transportation involves a carriage of its own property.[43]

In view of the provisions of § 1 (4) of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 1 (4), interstate carriers have the right and duty to establish just, reasonable, and equitable divisions of joint rates by agreement.[44] If the parties have thus established a division they are entitled to have it adhered to so long as it has not been readjusted by

P. 853, 130 Wash. 674, affirmed 232 P. 695, 132 Wash. 700.

32. Mich.—Pontiac, O. & N. R. Co. v. Michigan Railroad Commission, 168 N.W. 927, 203 Mich. 258, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 136, 248 U.S. 584, 63 L.Ed. 432.
Minn.—State v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 158 N.W. 627, 133 Minn. 413.

33. Ga.—Hill v. Wadley Southern Ry. Co., 57 S.E. 795, 128 Ga. 705

34. Mich.—Pontiac, O. & N. R. Co. v. Michigan Railroad Commission, 168 N.W. 927, 203 Mich. 258, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 136, 248 U.S. 584, 63 L.Ed. 432.

35. Minn.—State v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 165 N.W. 869, 139 Minn. 55.

36. Minn.—State v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., supra.

37. Ala.—Western Ry. of Alabama v. Montgomery County, 153 So. 622, 228 Ala. 426.

38. U.S.—Georgia S. & F. Ry. Co. v. Georgia Public Service Commission, D.C.Ga., 289 F. 878.

39. Ga.—Hill v. Wadley Southern Ry. Co., 57 S.E. 795, 128 Ga. 705.

40. Neb.—Platte Sand & Gravel Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 238 N.W. 766, 121 Neb. 855

41. U.S.—Alton R. Co. v. United States, Ill., 53 S.Ct. 124, 287 U.S. 229, 77 L.Ed. 275, reversing, D.C., 58 F.2d 399—Northern Pac. Terminal Co. of Oregon v. Spokane, P. & S. Ry., C.C.A.Or., 79 F.2d 773.
Colo.—Denver & S. L. R. Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 171 P. 74, 64 Colo. 229

42. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Delaware & H. R. Corp., C.C.A.N.Y., 86 F.2d 721—Abilene & S. Ry. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Kan., 288 F. 102, affirmed U. S. v. Abilene & S. R. Co., 44 S.Ct. 565, 265 U.S. 274, 68 L.Ed. 1016—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., D.C.Md., 16 F.Supp. 647—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.Pa., 12 F.Supp. 720
Ga.—Hill v. Wadley Southern Ry. Co., 57 S.E. 795, 128 Ga. 705.
Tex.—Railroad Commission of Texas v. Rio Grande & E. P. Ry. Co., 230 S.W. 974, 111 Tex. 178, reversing Rio Grande & E. P. Ry. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 175 S.W. 1116.

43. Tex.—Railroad Commission of Texas v. Rio Grande & E. R. Ry. Co., supra them or by the interstate commerce commission,[45] and such an agreed division need not be filed with the commission in order to be effective if the commission has not undertaken to impose such a requirement.[46] It is proper and well established practice among carriers participating in a joint through haul to allow the carrier originating the business an advantage in such distributions or "divisions," for creating, so to speak, the traffic.[47]

44. U.S.—Abilene & S. Ry. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Kan., 288 F. 102, affirmed U. S. v. Abilene & S. R. Co., 44 S.Ct. 565, 265 U.S. 274, 68 L.Ed. 1016.

Under § 15 (6) of the Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 15 (6), the interstate commerce commission has the power, after full hearing on complaint or on its own initiative, to prescribe by order the just, reasonable, and equitable divisions to be received by the participating carriers, whenever it is of opinion that the applicable divisions are or will be unjust, unreasonable, inequitable, or unduly preferential or prejudicial as between the carriers.[48] Even prior to the enactment of this provision, it was held that the commission had the power to prescribe the allowance which trunk lines might make to tap lines out of joint rates,[49] but a tap line, in order to be entitled to share in a division of joint rates, must be a common carrier, and not a mere plant facility.[50] As the law presumes that the participating carriers performed their duty to agree on divisions and that their divisions were just and reasonable,[51] at least where the conditions remain unchanged,[52] the commission has no power to prescribe new divisions unless, after full hearing, it is of opinion that the existing divisions are unjust, and there is sufficient competent evidence presented to sustain such conclusion,[53] but a readjustment of established rates may be justified by a substantial change in conditions.[54]

By reason of state statute, state regulatory commissions often have the power to prescribe the apportionment or division of intra-state joint rates,[55]

45. U S—Alton R. Co. v. United States, Ill., 53 S.Ct 124, 287 U.S 229, 77 L Ed. 275, reversing, D C., 58 F 2d 399—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co v. Boston & M. R. Co., D C. Mass, 18 F Supp. 886.

Attempted reduction by part of carriers

Connecting carriers could not reduce intermediate carrier's divisions over its objection.—Alton R Co. v U S., Ill., 53 S Ct. 124, 287 U.S. 229, 77 L.Ed. 275, reversing, D C., 58 F 2d 399.

46. U S—Alton R. Co. v. U. S., D C Ill, 58 F 2d 399, reversed on other grounds 53 S Ct. 124, 287 U.S. 229, 77 L Ed. 275.

47. Tenn—Carolina Spruce Co. v. Black Mountain R. Co, 201 S.W. 154, 139 Tenn. 137, writ of error dismissed 39 S.Ct. 184, 248 U.S. 597, 63 L.Ed. 439

48. U.S.—U. S v. Abilene & S. Ry Co., Kan, 44 S Ct. 565, 265 U.S. 274, 68 L.Ed. 1016, affirming, D C., Abilene & S. Ry Co v. U S., 288 F. 102—Akron, C. & Y Ry. Co v U. S, D C N Y., 282 F. 306, affirmed 43 S.Ct 270, 261 U S. 184, 67 L Ed 605.

49. U S.—O'Keefe v U. S., La, 36 S Ct 313, 240 U S. 294, 60 L Ed. 651.
10 C.J p 429 note 83.

50. U S—St Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. S. H. Bolinger & Co, C.C A La, 279 F. 564.

51. U S—Abilene & S Ry. Co. v. U. S., D C Kan., 288 F. 102, affirmed U. S. v Abilene & S. R Co., 44 S Ct 565, 265 U.S. 274, 68 L.Ed. 1016.

52. U S—Akron, C. & Y Ry Co v U. S., D C.N.Y., 282 F. 306, affirmed 43 S Ct. 270, 261 U.S. 184, 67 L Ed. 605.

53. U S—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v U S., Va, 56 S Ct 797, 298 U S 349, 80 L.Ed 1209, affirming, D C, 9 F.Supp. 181—Abilene & S Ry Co. v. U S., D C Kan, 288 F. 102, affirmed U S v. Abilene & S R. Co., 44 S.Ct. 565, 265 U.S. 274, 68 L.Ed. 1016.

Insufficient evidence to show unjustness

(1) Exhibits at a hearing on the division of joint rates, which showed that the complaining carrier received, under the existing division, more per ton mile than the other carriers, without showing any extra service rendered by that carrier, or any ground for complaint, except that its revenues were insufficient to meet its operating expenses, did not alone show that the divisions of joint rates were unjust, so as to sustain an order of the commission prescribing new divisions.—Abilene & S. Ry. Co v. U. S, D C Kan, 288 F. 102, affirmed U. S v. Abilene & S. R. Co, 44 S.Ct. 565, 265 U S. 274, 68 L Ed 1016.

(2) Annual reports by connecting carriers to the interstate commerce commission, which showed that the connecting carriers all made a profit in their operation, while the carrier which objected to the division of the rates was operated at a loss, but which were based on total revenue, both freight and passenger, and joint and local, and showed that the objecting carrier received more per ton mile than any of the connecting carriers, and more per car mile and per train mile than some of the connecting carriers, did not show that the divisions were unjust—Abilene & S Ry. Co. v. U. S., supra.

Sufficiency of typical evidence

(1) Under § 15(6), the commission is authorized to base findings in respect of each division of each rate of every carrier in a particular group upon evidence typical in character and ample in quantity, as it must be assumed that congress knew of the practice of the commission to adjudicate comprehensively on substantially all rates in a large territory and knew that to require specific evidence and separate adjudication respecting each division of each rate would be tantamount to a denial of relief—Akron, C & Y Ry Co. v. U. S, N Y, 43 S Ct. 270, 261 U.S 184, 67 L.Ed. 605, affirming, D C., 282 F. 306.

(2) The Interstate Commerce Act, as thus construed, is not unconstitutional—Akron, C. & Y. Ry. Co v. U. S, supra.

(3) However, evidence as to averages or the aggregate traffic is insufficient—U S v Abilene & S. R. Co., Kan, 44 S Ct 565, 265 U S 274, 68 L Ed. 1016, affirming, D.C., Abilene & S. Ry Co. v. U. S., 288 F 102

54. U.S—Akron, C. & Y. Ry Co v. U S, D.C N.Y, 282 F. 306, affirmed 43 S.Ct 270, 261 U S. 184, 67 L. Ed 605

55. U S—Backus-Brooks Co v. Northern Pacific Ry, C C A Minn., 21 F.2d 4, certiorari denied 48 S. Ct. 120, 275 U S 562, 72 L Ed. 427—American Ry Express Co. v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, D C Ga, 274 F 649.
Colo.—Denver & S L R Co v Chicago, B & Q. R. Co., 171 P 74, 64 Colo. 229.
N.M—San Juan Coal & Coke Co. v. Santa Fé, S J. & N. Ry. Co., 2 P 2d 305, 35 N M. 512—San Juan Coal & Coke Co. v. Santa Fé, S.

provided all statutory restrictions and limitations, such as those requiring proper proceedings and due hearing, have fully been complied with.[56] A statute providing that the court reviewing an order of the commission relative to the division of rates shall enter judgment either affirming, setting aside, or modifying the order of the commission gives the court no authority to fix divisions, as that is entirely a rate-making function within the jurisdiction of the commission.[57]

Whether by reason of the provisions of the statutes involved, or otherwise, it is usually deemed requisite that a commission's order of division or apportionment be a just and reasonable one in view of all the factors and circumstances properly to be considered,[58] and that it be supported by sufficient competent evidence,[59] but the party attacking a division order has the burden of showing that it is unjust and unreasonable.[60] By express provision, the interstate commerce commission is required, in prescribing and determining the divisions of joint rates, to give due consideration, among other things, to the efficiency with which the carriers concerned are operated, the amount of revenue required to pay their respective operating expenses, taxes, and a fair return on their railway property held for, and used in, the service of transportation, and the importance to the public of the transportation services of such carriers; and also whether any particular participating carrier is an originating, intermediate, or delivering line, and any other fact or circumstance which would ordinarily, without regard to the mileage haul, entitle one carrier to a greater or less proportion than another carrier of the joint rate.[61] While the mileage covered by each carrier is an important factor which may and must be considered,[62] the division need not necessarily be in

J & N. Ry. Co., 291 P. 920, 35 N. M. 189.

Tex.—Railroad Commission of Texas v. Rio Grande & E. P. Ry. Co., 230 S.W. 974, 111 Tex. 178, reversing Rio Grande & E. P. Ry. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ. App., 175 S.W. 1116.

Implied authorization

State statute authorizing state railroad and warehouse commission to fix joint rates was held by implication to authorize commission to fix division of such rates.—Backus-Brooks Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Minn., 21 F.2d 4, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 120, 275 U.S. 562, 72 L. Ed. 427.

56. U.S.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, D.C.Ga., 274 F. 649.

57. Colo.—Denver & S. L. R. Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 171 P. 74, 64 Colo. 229.

58. U.S.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. U. S., Va., 56 S.Ct. 797, 298 U.S. 349, 80 L.Ed. 1209, affirming, D. C., 9 F.Supp. 181.

Colo.—Denver & S. L. R. Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 171 P. 74, 64 Colo. 229.

Division held unreasonable

(1) A division of freight rates between railroads by a public utilities commission that gives far less than the average ton-mile rate on the through haul to the railroad that has necessarily the highest ton-mile cost is unjust and unreasonable.—Denver & S. L. R. Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 171 P. 74, 64 Colo. 229.

(2) In making joint rates between express companies, a public utility commission may not require one express company to make short hauls for a pro rata share of the joint rate, since to do so would be to require the carrier making the short haul to render service for an unjust and unreasonable rate.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Railroad Commission of Georgia, D.C.Ga., 274 F. 649.

Division order held just and reasonable

Where a railroad commission established a joint through rate from one point to another, and where the terminal carrier purchased coal at the point of commencement for shipment between such points without an agreement with initial carrier as to division of the through rate, the commission's order, dividing the through rate for shipment of such coal in proportion to the local rates of the carriers, was valid, as against contention that terminal railroad was not entitled to a revenue prorate for hauling its own coal over its own line.—Texas-Mexican Ry. Co. v. Rio Grande & E. P. Ry. Co., Tex., 231 S.W. 308, reversing in part and affirming in part Rio Grande & E. P. Ry. Co. v. Texas-Mexican Ry. Co., Civ. App., 173 S.W. 236.—Railroad Commission of Texas v. Rio Grande & E. P. Ry. Co., 230 S.W. 974, 111 Tex. 178, reversing Rio Grande & E. P. Ry. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ. App., 175 S.W. 1116.

59. U.S.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. U. S., Va., 56 S.Ct. 797, 298 U.S. 349, 80 L.Ed. 1209, affirming, D.C., 9 F.Supp. 181.

Colo.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Colorado, 171 P. 86, 64 Colo. 263.—Denver & S. L. R. Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 171 P. 74, 64 Colo. 229.

Consideration of local rates not offered in evidence held improper.—Denver & S. L. R. Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 171 P. 74, 64 Colo. 229.

Evidence held sufficient to sustain findings of commission fixing division of coal rates between petitioner and initial carrier on same basis as that for division of rates between other railroad companies and initial carrier.—Chicago R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Colorado, 171 P. 86, 64 Colo. 263.

60. U.S.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. U. S., Va., 56 S.Ct. 797, 298 U.S. 349, 80 L.Ed. 1209, affirming, D.C., 9 F.Supp. 181.

Tex.—Railroad Commission of Texas v. Rio Grande & E. P. Ry. Co., 230 S.W. 974, 111 Tex. 178, reversing Rio Grande & E. P. Ry. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ. App., 175 S.W. 1116.

61. U.S.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. U. S., Va., 56 S.Ct. 797, 298 U.S. 349, 80 L.Ed. 1209, affirming, D.C., 9 F.Supp. 181.—U. S. v. Abilene & S. Ry. Co., Kan., 44 S.Ct. 565, 265 U.S. 274, 68 L.Ed. 1016, affirming, D.C., Abilene & S. Ry. Co. v. U. S., 288 F. 102.

Construction of provision

This provision of the Interstate Commerce Act § 15 (6), must be construed as not limited to the paragraph relating to authority to prescribe divisions of joint rates, but to the entire section, so that some of the elements therein mentioned, which are immaterial on the division of the rates, are not to be considered on that issue, but on issues arising under other paragraphs.—Abilene & S. Ry. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Kan., 288 F. 102, affirmed U. S. v. Abilene & S. R. Co., 44 S.Ct. 565, 265 U.S. 274, 68 L. Ed. 1016.

62. Colo.—Denver & S. L. R. Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 171 P. 74, 64 Colo. 229.

proportion thereto if there are other factors which would render a division in proportion to mileage inequitable.[63] Other important factors which may and should be considered are the services rendered by each carrier,[64] their respective expenses or costs of transportation,[65] the strategic position of the road of one of the carriers,[66] and the topography of the land[67] and the density of the traffic[68] in the area covered by a particular carrier's line. Also, it has been held that, in view of the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act, the interstate commerce commission need not make the division solely on the basis of the relative amount and cost of service, but that it may, in the public interest, take into consideration the financial needs of a weaker road, and give it a larger division than justice would seem to suggest, in order to maintain it in effective operation as part of an adequate transportation system, provided the share left to the other carriers is adequate to avoid a confiscatory result;[69] and that it may be just to give a prosperous carrier a smaller portion of an increased rate than of the original rate.[70] The fact that the act, as thus construed, permits the commission to consider the needs of particular carriers does not render it unconstitutional on the ground that it deprives carriers of their just share of the joint rate, as it is for the commission to determine what is just, reasonable, and equitable.[71] A participating carrier cannot complain of the commission's consideration of a particular condition or factor which it at the same time relies on to justify another division in its favor.[72] On the other hand, as a carrier may voluntarily agree to a division which it could not be required to accept,[73] it is erroneous to take into consideration a division previously agreed to by the carriers,[74] at least after a deduction of the joint rate,[75] and a carrier's acceptance of a prior division of rates, based on agreement, is not conclusive evidence of a division ordered by the commission after it reduced the joint through rate on the ground that it was too high.[76] It has been held that the relative number of cars furnished by the respective carriers on through hauls is not a factor to be considered in fixing a division of the joint rates, as such matter is one which is to be adjusted separately; and natural advantages of one of the carriers should not be made a basis for discriminating against it in the division.[77]

d. Actions or Proceedings for Recovery or Accounting

Except in so far as the remedy has been changed or modified by statute, a participating carrier may bring an action to recover its share of a joint rate, or, if the division has not been agreed on or prescribed, it may maintain a bill for an accounting, and a collecting carrier which has paid another carrier more than the share to which the latter is entitled may maintain an action to recover the overpayment so made.

If the carrier collecting a joint rate or charge fails or refuses to pay another participating carrier its proper or just proportion thereof, the latter may, as a general rule, bring an action for recovery or accounting;[78] and it has been held that, since the awarding of reparation for past unjust divisions is a judicial function, a proceeding to obtain such relief is not within the jurisdiction of a state regulatory commission.[79] In a suit by one carrier against another for an accounting of joint rates collected by the latter, the jurisdiction invoked is that of a court

63. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R Co. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co, D.C.Md., 16 F Supp. 647.

64. Colo.—Denver & S. L. R. Co. v. Chicago, B & Q. R. Co, 171 P. 74, 64 Colo. 229.

65. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co, D.C Md, 16 F. Supp. 647.
Colo.—Denver & S. L. R. Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 171 P. 74, 64 Colo. 229.

66. Colo.—Denver & S. L. R. Co v Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co, supra.

67. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., D.C.Md., 16 F Supp. 647.

68. U.S—Atlantic Coast Line R Co v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., supra.

69. U.S—U. S v. Abilene & S Ry Co., Kan, 44 S Ct. 565, 265 U.S 274, 68 L Ed 1016, affirming, D.C., Abilene & S Ry. Co. v. U. S., 288 F 102—Akron, C. & Y Ry. Co. v. U. S., N.Y., 43 S Ct. 270, 261 U.S. 184, 67 L.Ed. 605, affirming, D.C, 282 F. 306.

70. U.S.—Akron, C. & Y. Ry. Co. v. U. S, supra.

Supplement to increase order
Where the interstate commerce commission, at all times having the special needs of New England roads before it, granted an increase in rates to all roads in the Eastern group, and thereafter made an order increasing the share of New England roads in joint rates on traffic between New England and other parts of the country, the order may properly be deemed a supplement to, or modification of, the order granting the increase, and the fact that two orders, instead of one, were made, is of no legal significance.—Akron, C & Y Ry Co. v. U. S, N Y, 43 S.Ct. 270, 261 U S. 184, 67 L Ed. 605, affirming, D.C., 282 F. 306.

71. U.S.—Akron, C. & Y. Ry. Co. v U. S., supra.

72. Colo.—Denver & S. L. R. Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q R. Co., 171 P. 74, 64 Colo 229.

73. U S.—Baltimore & O. R. Co v. U. S, Va., 56 S Ct. 797, 293 U.S. 349, 80 L Ed 1209, affirming, D.C, 9 F Supp. 181.
Colo—Denver & S L. R Co. v. Chicago, B & Q. R Co., 171 P 74, 64 Colo 229

74. Colo.—Denver & S L. R Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co, supra.

75. Colo—Denver & S. L. R Co. v. Chicago, B & Q R. Co, supra.

76. Colo—Denver & S L R Co v. Chicago, B. & Q. R Co., supra.

77. Colo.—Denver & S. L. R Co v. Chicago, B. & Q R Co., supra.

78. U.S—Atlantic Coast Line R Co. v. Delaware & H. R Corp, C C A N Y., 86 F 2d 721—Atlantic Coast Line R Co v Boston & M. R. Co., D C Mass, 18 F.Supp. 886

79. Ill—Marion & Eastern R. Co. v Illinois Cent. R. Co., 245 Ill App. 83, certiorari denied 48 S Ct. 320, 276 U.S. 626, 72 L.Ed. 738.

of equity to enforce a fair account from one who has received money for another, or one who has engaged in a joint enterprise with another and collected more than his share of the profits, and, except so far as prevented by statute, the principles of equity used in such situations, or used at law in actions for money had and received, are applicable.[80]

While the right to enforce a binding division agreed to by the parties is not affected thereby,[81] according to some authority, the common-law remedy for an accounting to obtain a just division, where no division has been agreed on or established, is supplanted or modified by the Interstate Commerce Act.[82]

It has thus been held that a court will not entertain a suit by a participating carrier for an equitable division, unless and until the interstate commerce commission has made a finding and determination of the question involved.[83] Furthermore, in view of the provisions of § 15(6) of the Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 15(6), limiting the power of the commission to adjust divisions retroactively to the period subsequent to the filing of the complaint or the making of the order of investigation, it has been held that, as to charges collected prior to the date of the filing of the complaint or the making of the order for investigation, a participating carrier is without a remedy by which to attack a division made by the collecting carrier as unjust or unreasonable.[84] On the other hand, it has been declared that the right of a connecting carrier to its fair share of a joint rate established by the interstate commerce commission is an equitable right which exists wholly independent of the Interstate Commerce Act, and is neither conferred nor taken away by it, so that the enforcement of such right is in no way dependent on a prior determination by the commission as to what constitutes the carrier's fair share,[85] and that a bill for accounting will lie where the commission has prescribed no division or apportionment.[86] Also, it has been suggested that, after the commission has fixed on a just and reasonable division, the courts may award relief as to charges collected prior to the filing of the complaint or the order for investigation;[87] and that in a suit to obtain such relief the court may apply the determination of the commission as a basis of division.[88] An action for accounting, maintainable under the view expressed by these latter cases, has been held not governed by the limitation provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act relative to actions for charges, overcharges, or damages,[89] but rather by the state statute of limitations,[90] which does not commence to run until action has been taken by the commission with respect to the proper division;[91] and it has been held that such a suit is not barred by laches apparent on the face of the bill.[92] A bill of this character is not maintainable if other participating carriers are not made parties and no reason is given for their absence;[93] but additional collecting carriers are not indispensable parties where no relief is asked against them and they are not subject to service of process from the court in which the suit is brought;[94] and the fact that some of the traffic moved over the lines of carriers in addition to the complaining carrier does not require a dismissal of the bill for defect in parties, since the objection goes to only part of the bill.[95] In addition the courts have, in connection with such proceedings, passed on questions relating to the burden of proof,[96] the admissibility[97] and weight and suffi-

80. U.S.—Morgenthau v Sugar Land Ry. Co, C.C.A.Tex, 83 F.2d 72.

81. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R Co v Boston & M R. Co., D.C.Mass, 18 F.Supp. 886.

82. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v Delaware & H. R. Corp., C.C.A. N.Y, 86 F.2d 721.

83. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R Co. v Delaware & H R. Corp, supra—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Boston & M R. Co., D.C.Mass., 18 F. Supp. 886.

84. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R Co v Delaware & H. R Corp., C.C.A. N.Y., 86 F.2d 721.

85. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R Co. v. Pennsylvania R Co, D.C.Pa., 12 F.Supp. 720.

86. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R Co. v. Pennsylvania R Co., supra.

87. U.S.—Backus-Brooks Co. v. Northern Pac. R Co, C.C.A.Minn, 21 F.2d 4, 17—Atlantic Coast Line R Co v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., D.C.Md, 16 F.Supp 647

88. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R Co v. Baltimore & O. R. Co, supra.

89. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co v. Baltimore & O R. Co., D.C.Md, 12 F.Supp. 711.

90. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R Co v. Baltimore & O R Co., D.C.Md, 12 F.Supp 711.

91. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R Co v. Baltimore & O. R. Co, D.C.Md., 12 F.Supp. 711.

92. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.Pa., 12 F.Supp. 720.

93. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., supra.

94. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R Co. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., D.C. Md., 12 F.Supp. 711.

95. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Baltimore & O R. Co, supra.

96. Inequitable retention by defendant

Initial carrier suing delivering carrier for accounting and adjustment of joint rates collected by delivering carrier had burden to show that delivering carrier had retained moneys that equitably it was required to pay over to initial carrier—Atlantic Coast Line R Co. v Baltimore & O. R. Co., D.C.Md., 16 F.Supp. 647.

97. Evidence held admissible

In initial carrier's suit against delivering carrier for accounting and recovery of just division of joint rail rates for period prior to time interstate commerce commission had determined proper division, commission's divisional order was admissible evidence which court was required to consider, although commission's findings were not conclusive.—Atlantic ciency[98] of evidence, and the allowance of interest on the share recovered by plaintiff.[99]

The declaration, in an action by a participating carrier to recover its share in accordance with a division made by a regulatory commission, must allege or show a fulfillment of all conditions prescribed by statute;[1] and, if the declaration is thus defective, no recovery can be had on the ground that plaintiff is entitled to just compensation for services performed.[2]

Where a collecting carrier has paid another carrier a division or share of the charges to which the latter is not lawfully entitled, the payment so made may be recovered back; and, if such a payment would be in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act, the right of recovery cannot be defeated on the ground that the payment was voluntarily made with full knowledge of all the facts; and it has been held that the right of recovery is not affected by the fact that the payment was voluntarily made with full knowledge of all the facts, because, if a carrier were permitted to make voluntary payments, the purposes of the Interstate Commerce Act would be defeated, or the carrier would be violating the duties enjoined on it as a "public corporation;" but, if plaintiff is not entitled to all the payments so made, it must prove its case by showing the amounts to which it is entitled.[3] In a suit to recover funds, which it is claimed were erroneously paid as a division, the question whether a railroad is a participating carrier so as to share in revenues with a common carrier under a switching tariff should be determined by the intention of the railroad as to where the common carrier movement is to end.[4]

§ 301. Pooling Arrangements

Pooling arrangements are prohibited both at common law and under the express provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act, although where it is in the interest of better public service, the interstate commerce commission may authorize a pooling agreement if assented to by all the carriers involved.

Independent of any statutory provision on the subject, it is very generally held that pooling arrangements entered into between competing railroad companies or other common carriers, the purpose of which is to suppress or limit competition between the contracting companies in respect of the traffic covered by the agreement and to establish rates without regard to their reasonableness, are against public policy and void.[5]

Under special legislation. The Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 5(1), subject to an exception involving the approval of the commission, makes it unlawful for a carrier engaged in interstate commerce to enter into any contract, agreement, or to combine with any other common carrier or carriers for the pooling of freights of different and competing railroads, or to divide between them the aggregate or net proceeds of the earnings of such railroads or any portion thereof, and in any case of an agreement for the pooling of freights each day of its continuance is made a separate offense. This statute applies to freight as distinguished from passenger traffic,[6] and prohibits either a distribution of property offered for transportation among different and competing railroads in proportions and on percentages previously agreed on, or a money pool whereby the aggregate or net proceeds of certain different and competing railroads are divided among them.[7] Any arrangement, verbal or otherwise, which has for its purpose and eventuates in the pooling of freights of different and competing railroads is within the prohibition of the act.[8]

Coast Line R. Co. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., D.C.Md., 16 F.Supp. 647.

98. Evidence held sufficient to establish that amount of joint freight rates retained by delivering carrier was more than its fair, just, and equitable share as against initial carrier—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., D.C.Md., 16 F.Supp. 647.

99. Discretion of court

(1) Interest allowance to successful plaintiff carrier suing for just division of joint rail rates is discretionary and not as a matter of right—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., D.C.Md., 16 F.Supp. 647.

(2) In the exercise of such discretion plaintiff has been held entitled to interest on excess divisions retained by collecting carrier from dates several portions thereof were respectively payable.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., supra.

1. U.S.—Marion & Eastern R. Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 245 Ill.App. 83, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 320, 276 U.S. 626, 72 L.Ed. 738.

2. U.S.—Marion & Eastern R. Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., supra.

3. U.S.—Washington & C. Ry. Co. v. Mobile & O. R. Co., Ala., 255 F. 12, 166 C.C.A. 340, reversing, D.C., Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Washington & C. Ry. Co., 242 F. 531.

4. U.S.—Northern Pac. Terminal Co. of Oregon v. Spokane P. & S. Ry., C.C.A.Or., 79 F.2d 773.

Carrier held not "participating carrier"

Where railroad to which fuel oil was consigned had interchange track and unloading track on its own spur at point of designation named in bill of lading, designation in bill meant interchange track and common carrier movement ended there, since common carrier had no right to move over railroad's tracks beyond interchange track, and hence railroad was not "participating carrier" entitled to share in revenues pursuant to switching tariff.—Northern Pac. Terminal Co. of Oregon v. Spokane P. & S. Ry., C.C.A.Or., 79 F.2d 773.

5. La.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Southern Pacific R. Co., 6 So. 888, 41 La.Ann. 970, 17 Am.S.R. 445, affirmed 118 S.Ct. 10, 137 U.S. 48, 34 L.Ed. 614.
10 C.J. p. 429 note 85.

6. U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commission v. Southern Pac. Co., C.C.A.Cal., 132 F. 829.

7. U.S.—In re Pooling Freights, D.C.Tenn., 115 F. 588.

8. U.S.—In re Pooling Freights, supra.

A reserved right of routing shipments is not an illegal pooling, although the carrier promises fair treatment to connecting lines.[9]

The proviso in the act as amended authorizing the commission to permit pooling agreements if assented to by all the carriers involved does not require the assent of a carrier not a party to the proposed agreement.[10]

§ 302. Filing, Publication, and Posting of Rates

a. Interstate rates
b. Intra-state rates

a. Interstate Rates

(1) In general
(2) Requisites and sufficiency
(3) Operation and effect
(4) Joint rates

(1) In general

Under the Interstate Commerce Act, common carriers can establish interstate rates, and put them into effect, only by filing a proper and sufficient schedule with the interstate commerce commission and duly publishing the same; but a compliance with the requirement that copies of rate schedules be posted is not essential to the establishment of the rates.

Under the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act common carriers are required to file with the interstate commerce commission their schedules of rates for interstate transportation of freight,[11] and also to publish or promulgate or distribute the same for the information and benefit of the public.[12] Rates or charges not properly filed and published in accordance with these requirements cannot be collected.[13] In fact, a carrier must refuse to accept freight for which there is no rate or charge filed and published as required,[14] and where it has received such freight it must return it to the shipper on demand.[15] The liability of a carrier for an injury to an interstate shipment is not limited where the schedule of rates, although filed with the interstate commerce commission, was not published at the point of shipment.[16]

Posting. The Interstate Commerce Act requires that copies of rates for interstate transportation, filed with the interstate commerce commission, shall be kept posted in public and conspicuous places in every station where freight is received for transportation, and a noncompliance with this requirement renders the carrier liable to a penalty. The purpose of this requirement is to afford special facilities to the public for ascertaining the rates actually in force.[17] Nevertheless, it is well settled that post-

9. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commn., Cal., 26 S.Ct. 330, 200 U.S. 536, 50 L.Ed. 585.
10 C.J. p 429 note 89.

10. U.S.—Escanaba & Lake Superior R. Co. v. U. S., Mich., 58 S.Ct. 556, affirming, D.C., 21 F.Supp. 151.

Lessor of tracks
A railroad which contracted for use of its tracks by second railroad for carrying iron ore from certain mines was not a "carrier involved" in agreement between second railroad and third railroad for pooling iron ore traffic from such mines, to be carried over tracks of third railroad, and of receipts from interchange traffic with first railroad, within the Interstate Commerce Act respecting pooling agreements, and hence assent of first railroad to pooling agreement was unnecessary. Interstate Commerce Act § 5 (1), 49 U.S.C.A. § 5 (1).—Escanaba & Lake Superior R. Co. v. U. S., 58 S.Ct. 556, affirming 21 F.Supp. 151.

11. Ill.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Chicago Heights Terminal Transfer R. Co., 147 N.E. 666, 317 Ill. 65, error dismissed 46 S.Ct. 207, 270 U.S. 629, 70 L.Ed. 767.
Minn.—Schaff v. J. C. Famechon Co., 176 N.W. 197, 145 Minn. 108, error dismissed 42 S.Ct. 189, 258 U.S. 76, 66 L.Ed. 472.
10 C.J. p 429 note 91, p 430 note 97.

Shipment to foreign country
A shipment from the city of New York to Port au Prince in the republic of Haiti was not an interstate shipment, and the carrier was not required to file any tariff with the interstate commerce commission.—Achille Starace & Co. v. Raporel S. S. Line, 186 N.Y.S. 130, 114 Misc. 111.

Terminal railway
In view of Transportation Act § 400 par 3, amending Interstate Commerce Act § 1, where service rendered by terminal railway was that of common carrier, it was subject to rules and regulations to which common carriers are subject, including Interstate Commerce Act § 6, par 1, as amended by Act June 29, 1906, § 2 of which provides for filing schedule of rates, fares, and transportation charges.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Chicago Heights Terminal Transfer R. Co., 147 N.E. 666, 317 Ill. 65, error dismissed 46 S.Ct. 207, 270 U.S. 626, 70 L.Ed. 767.

12. U.S.—Swift & Co. v. U. S., C.C.A.Ill., 255 F. 291, 166 C.C.A. 461
Minn.—Schaff v. J. C. Famechon Co., 176 N.W. 197, 145 Minn. 108, error dismissed 42 S.Ct. 189, 258 U.S. 76, 66 L.Ed. 472.
10 C.J. p 429 note 91, p 430 note 97.

Purpose of requirement
The purpose of the statute in requiring such publication of rates is for the inspection, information, and advantage of the public.
U.S.—Swift & Co. v. U. S., Ill., 255 F. 291, 166 C.C.A. 461.
Minn.—Schaff v. J. C. Famechon Co., 176 N.W. 197, 145 Minn. 108, error dismissed 42 S.Ct. 189, 258 U.S. 76, 66 L.Ed. 472.
10 C.J. p 430 note 98

The publication intended by statute consists in promulgating and distributing the tariff in printed form preparatory to putting it into effect.—U. S. v. Miller, Ga., 32 S.Ct. 323, 223 U.S. 599, 56 L.Ed. 568.—10 C.J. p 430 note 97.

13. Va.—Norfolk Tidewater Terminals v. Norfolk & P. Belt Line R. Co., 195 S.E. 634.
10 C.J. p 429 note 92.

14. Tex.—Davis v. Bassett, Civ.App., 257 S.W. 601.—Payne v. Bassett, Civ.App., 235 S.W. 917.

15. Tex.—Davis v. Bassett, Civ.App., 257 S.W. 601.

16. Pa.—U. S. Horse Shoe Co. v. American Express Co., 95 A. 706, 250 Pa. 527.

17. U.S.—Swift & Co. v. U. S., C.C.A.Ill., 255 F. 291, 166 C.C.A. 461.
Ohio.—Lyman Perin & Co. v. Penning is not essential to the establishment of rates under the statute. Where a tariff of rates has been filed and published in accordance with the provisions of the statute, it is in force and operative notwithstanding a noncompliance by the carrier with the provisions requiring copies thereof to be posted.[18] While publication is a step toward establishing rates, posting is a duty arising out of the fact that they have been established.[19] The posting of copies of rates at a railroad station, where they are afterward torn down, is not a compliance with the act, it being no answer for their absence from public inspection that they have been removed.[20]

(2) Requisites and Sufficiency

The filed and published schedules of interstate rates and charges must be expressed in clear and plain terms, and must be framed and drawn in the manner, and contain all the information, required by the Interstate Commerce Act and the rules and regulations of the interstate commerce commission.

A carrier's filed and published schedules of interstate rates or charges must be expressed in clear and plain terms,[21] and must be framed in the manner,[22] and contain all the information,[23] required by the Interstate Commerce Act.

By express provisions of the act the schedules are required to show not only all the rates, fares, and charges for transportation between points on the carrier's own route,[24] but also between points on its own route and points on the route of any other carrier by rail, pipe line, or by water when a through route and a joint rate have been established,[25] and rates for transportation in commerce with foreign countries as well as transportation in commerce between the several states.[26] However, interstate rates to and from ports of entry must be published and filed as independent from ocean transportation, and classifications and schedules of inland carriers must be limited to inland transportation.[27]

The schedules must contain the classification of freight[28] and the rates[29] presently in force. The sylvania R. Co., 194 N.E. 398, 48 Ohio App. 339.

10 C.J. p 432 note 28.

18. U.S.—Payne v. Clarke, D.C.Cal., 271 F. 525.
Ill.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Cunningham, 224 Ill.App. 584.
Ky.—Blackford v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co., 203 S.W. 867, 181 Ky. 70.
Mo.—Bush v. Miller, 216 S.W. 989, 205 Mo.App. 38.
Ohio.—Lyman Perin & Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 194 N.E. 398, 48 Ohio App. 339.
S.C.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Wilmont Oil Mills, 89 S.E. 476, 105 S.C. 51
10 C.J. p 432 note 29.

19. U.S.—U. S. v. Miller, Ga., 32 S.Ct. 323, 223 U.S. 599, 56 L.Ed. 568

20. Mo.—Griffin v. Wabash R. Co., 91 S.W. 1015, 115 Mo.App. 549.

21. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Atlantic Bridge Co., C.C.A.Fla., 57 F.2d 654, affirming, D.C., Atlantic Bridge Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 56 F.2d 163.

22. U.S.—Alton & S. R. R. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 49 F.2d 414—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., D.C.Mo., 2 F.2d 291.

23. U.S.—Chandler v. Pennsylvania R. Co., C.C.A.Va., 11 F.2d 39, affirming, D.C., 9 F.2d 703—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., D.C.Mo., 2 F.2d 291.

24. Tex.—Davis v. Bassett, Civ.App., 257 S.W. 601.

25. U.S.—U. S. v. Munson S.S. Line, Md., 51 S.Ct. 360, 283 U.S. 43, 75 L.Ed. 830, affirming, C.C.A., 37 F.2d 681, which affirmed, D.C., 33 F.2d 211, and certiorari granted 50 S.Ct. 460, 281 U.S. 715, 74 L.Ed. 1136.

"Common arrangement" necessary

(1) Steamship line which maintained independent rates, issued separate contracts, and received direct instructions from shipper was not acting under "common arrangement" with railroads for rail and water shipments within statute requiring filing of schedules with interstate commerce commission.—U. S. v. Munson S. S. Line, Md., 51 S.Ct. 360, 283 U.S. 43, 75 L.Ed. 830, affirming, C.C.A., 37 F.2d 681, which affirmed, D.C., 33 F.2d 211, and certiorari granted 50 S.Ct. 460, 281 U.S. 715, 74 L.Ed. 1136.

(2) Although a common arrangement, within the meaning of the statute, may exist without the issuance of a through bill of lading or any particular formality, it is not to be inferred from circumstances which are entirely consistent with the independence which the statute recognizes.
U.S.—U. S. v. Munson S. S. Line, supra.

26. U.S.—Chandler v. Pennsylvania R. Co., C.C.A.Va., 11 F.2d 39, affirming, D.C., 9 F.2d 703
10 C.J. p 430 note 94.

Transportation from international boundary

Under the Interstate Commerce Act a railroad has a duty to publish a just and reasonable rate for the transportation of freight from the international boundary to points in the United States.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Sullivan, C.C.A.Minn., 72 F.2d 587, certiorari granted 55 S.Ct. 216, 293 U.S. 551, 79 L.Ed. 654, reversed on other grounds 55 S.Ct. 472, 294 U.S. 458, 79 L.Ed. 992

Unpublished through rate for foreign port

It has been held that a carrier which has never published or filed with the interstate commerce commission a through rate for a foreign port is neither required to make, nor can it make, a through rate to such port.—Stevens v. Atchison, T. & S.F. Ry. Co., 202 N.Y.S. 195, 207 App.Div. 442, affirmed 147 N.E. 200, 239 N.Y. 572, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 463, 267 U.S. 603, 69 L.Ed. 809—10 C.J. p 430 note 95.

27. N.Y.—Burke v. Union Pac. R. Co., 124 N.E. 119, 226 N.Y. 534, reversing 166 N.Y.S. 100, 178 App.Div. 783, certiorari granted Union Pac. R. Co. v. Burke, 40 S.Ct. 56, 251 U.S. 548, 64 L.Ed. 409, and affirmed 41 S.Ct. 283, 255 U.S. 317, 65 L.Ed. 656.

28. U.S.—U. S. v. Standard Oil Co., D.C.Ill., 170 F. 988.

Reference to classification of others

Freight rates required to be established by the statute are not established by tariffs naming class rates that do not contain a classification of freight, but merely refer to a classification published by other parties and subject to change by such parties.—U. S. v. Standard Oil Co., D.C.Ill., 170 F. 988.

Schedule applicable only to government property

There is no authority in law for a transportation company to publish a schedule of tariff rates applicable to government property only.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. U. S., 58 Ct.Cl. 182.

29. U.S.—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. U. S., N.Y., 166 F. 267, 92 requirement that the rates and charges for "transportation" be filed and published is not strictly limited to rates or charges for carriage service, but requires the filing and publication of the rates and charges for all services rendered in connection with a transportation or shipment.[30] Furthermore, it is expressly required that the schedules state separately all terminal charges,[31] icing charges,[32] and all other charges which the commission may require,[33] and all privileges or facilities granted or allowed and any rules or regulations which in any wise change, affect, or determine any part or the aggregate of the rates, fares, and charges, or the value of the service rendered to the shipper or consignee.[34] These requirements for the separate statement of various types of charges were not intended to set up a system of bookkeeping for interstate carriers.[35] The carrier may state separately its rate for the carriage of ordinary commodities of a particular class and its charge for icing cars when commodities of the same class are of a character requiring to be shipped under refrigeration, and its collection of both charges when refrigeration is used is lawful, provided each is reasonable and does not cover double compensation for the same service.[36] However, no duty rests on the carrier to publish the fact of free cartage in its schedule of rates, in the absence of any general order by the interstate commerce commission requiring such publication;[37] and trucking charges have been held sufficiently stated separately where the schedule disclosed a progressive charge for truckage and that truckage was free when the freight carried was of a certain weight.[38]

(3) Operation and Effect

When interstate rate schedules have been duly filed and published they have the force and effect of a statute binding upon the carrier and the members of the shipping public alike.

As a general rule, where a schedule or tariff of interstate rates has been duly filed and published as provided by the Interstate Commerce Act, the rates thereby established become the only legal lawful

C.C.A. 331, reversing D.C., 153 F. 630.

Tentative or obsolete rates not sufficient

The rates which the carrier is required to file and to publish are not alone those under which transportation has actually taken place, but those which the carrier has established as its present charges, as distinguished from those which are obsolete and tentative or perhaps only to take effect in the future, that is to say, they are the rates on which shipments may be made if offered.—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. U. S., N.Y., 166 F. 267, 92 C.C.A. 331, reversing, D.C., 153 F. 630.

30. U.S.—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M & St. P. Ry. Co., D.C.Mo., 2 F.2d 291—Aron v. Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 10 F.Supp. 756, affirmed, C.C.A., 80 F.2d 100, 103 A.L.R. 1367, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 680, 298 U.S. 658, 80 L.Ed. 1384.

Ill.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Chicago Heights Terminal Transfer R. Co., 147 N.E. 666, 317 Ill. 65, error dismissed 46 S.Ct. 207, 270 U.S. 629, 70 L.Ed. 767—Davis v. Naugle Pole & Tie Co., 238 Ill.App. 214.

Care and feeding of live stock

Charge made by carrier for services in connection with caring for live stock during stop-over was a charge for "transportation" within statute requiring carrier to file tariff with interstate commerce commission showing transportation charges.—Aron v. Pennsylvania R. Co., C.C.A. N.Y., 80 F.2d 100, 103 A.L.R. 1367, affirming, D.C., 10 F.Supp. 756, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 680, 298 U.S. 658, 80 L.Ed. 1384.

Rental for refrigerator car

To establish and render operative a five dollar rental for a refrigerator car, in which potatoes are shipped from points in Minnesota to points in Oklahoma, over connecting lines, the tariff schedule must be filed and published at the point of origin.—Schaff v. J. C. Famechon Co., 176 N.W. 197, 145 Minn. 108, error dismissed 42 S.Ct. 189, 258 U.S. 76, 66 L.Ed. 472.

Question of fact

Under statute requiring carrier to file tariff with interstate commerce commission showing transportation charges, whether certain services are within definition of transportation is not purely law question, but involves determination of fact.—Aron v. Pennsylvania R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 80 F.2d 100, 103 A.L.R. 1367, affirming, D.C., 10 F.Supp. 756, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 680, 298 U.S. 658, 80 L.Ed. 1384.

31. U.S.—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., D.C.Mo., 2 F.2d 291. 10 C.J. p. 430 notes 1, 6.

Necessary to validity

In order to avail itself of the principle that a reasonable terminal or other special charge cannot be condemned because, taken in connection with the prior charges for transportation, the total charge is unreasonable, the carrier must, under the provisions of the statute, separately state such terminal or other special charge.—Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Stickney, Minn., 30 S.Ct. 66, 215 U.S. 98, 54 L.Ed. 112.

32. U.S.—Alton & S. R. R. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 49 F.2d 414.

33. U.S.—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., D.C.Mo., 2 F.2d 291.

34. Okl.—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Wm. Bondies & Co., 166 P. 179, 64 Okl. 88.

35. U.S.—Alton & S. R. R. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 49 F.2d 414.

36. U.S.—Knudsen-Ferguson Fruit Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., Minn., 148 F. 968, 79 C.C.A. 46, certiorari denied 27 S.Ct. 786, 204 U.S. 671, 51 L.Ed. 672.

37. U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Detroit, G. H. & M. R. Co., Mich., 17 S.Ct. 986, 167 U.S. 633, 646, 42 L.Ed. 306, affirming 74 F. 803, 21 C.C.A. 103.

Reasons

The statute has in view only the transportation of property and passengers by rail, and when property has been discharged from the cars at the carrier's warehouse or station the duties and obligations cast on it by the statute are fulfilled and satisfied.—Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Detroit, G. H. & M. R. Co., Mich., 17 S.Ct. 986, 167 U.S. 633, 644, 42 L.Ed. 306, affirming 74 F. 803, 21 C.C.A. 103.

38. U.S.—Fitzhenry v. Erie R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 7 F.Supp. 880.

rates,[39] until properly changed[40] or set aside,[41] or until superseded or canceled by the filing and publication of a subsequent tariff.[42] The schedule or tariff has the force and effect of a statute[43] which 39. U.S.—Keogh v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 43 S.Ct. 47, 260 U.S. 156, 67 L.Ed. 183, affirming, C.C.A., 271 F. 444, in which certiorari is denied 41 S.Ct. 537, 256 U.S. 699, 65 L.Ed. 1177—Eagle Cotton Oil Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Miss., 46 F.2d 1006, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 51 F.2d 443, certiorari denied Southern R. Co. v. Eagle Cotton Oil Co., 52 S.Ct. 130, 284 U.S. 675, 76 L.Ed. 571—Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co. v. International Milling Co., C.C.A.Minn., 43 F.2d 93, affirming, D.C., 33 F.2d 636, and certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 89, 282 U.S. 885, 75 L.Ed. 781—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Merriam & Millard Co., C.C.A.Neb., 297 F. 1, certiorari denied Merriam & Millard Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 44 S.Ct. 637, 265 U.S. 592, 68 L.Ed. 1196, and error dismissed 45 S.Ct. 640, 268 U.S. 682, 69 L.Ed. 1155—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Lykes Bros., D.C.Tex., 294 F. 963.

Cal.—Frost v. Railroad Commission of California, 240 P. 26, 197 Cal. 230, affirmed 46 S.Ct. 605, 271 U.S. 583, 70 L.Ed. 1101.

Me.—Mason v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 110 A. 425, 119 Me. 195

Minn.—Reliance Elevator Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 165 N.W. 867, 139 Minn. 69.

Mo.—Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Southern Sawmill Co., 251 S.W. 434, 212 Mo. App. 117.

Ohio.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Peak, 6 Ohio App. 399.

Or.—Black v. Southern Pac. Co., 171 P. 878, 88 Or. 533.

Conclusively presumed legal

Interstate rate filed with commission and published is conclusively presumed to be lawful rate.—Magnolia Provision Co. v. Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co., D.C.Tex., 20 F.2d 384, affirmed Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Magnolia Provision Co., C.C.A., 26 F.2d 72, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 23, 278 U.S. 620, 73 L.Ed. 542.

40. Minn.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Van Dusen, Harrington Co., 214 N.W. 278, 170 Minn. 488, certiorari denied Van Dusen, Harrington Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 48 S.Ct. 116, 275 U.S. 554, 72 L.Ed. 422—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Van Dusen, Harrington Co., 212 N.W. 940, 170 Minn. 488—Reliance Elevator Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 165 N.W. 867, 139 Minn. 69.

Amendatory matter

Prior rates may be abrogated by amendatory matter in derogation thereof.—Lothrop v. Spokane, P. & S. Ry. Co., D.C.Or., 10 F.2d 225, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., Southern Pac. Co. v. Lothrop, 15 F.2d 486, certiorari denied Lothrop v. Southern Pac. Co., 47 S.Ct. 336, 273 U.S. 742, 71 L.Ed. 869, Lothrop v. Spokane, P. & S. R. Co., 47 S.Ct. 336, 273 U.S. 742, 71 L.Ed. 869, Lothrop v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co., 47 S.Ct. 336, 273 U.S. 742, 71 L.Ed. 869

Notice of change essential

(1) Under the act rates which have been properly filed and published may not be changed or altered except after thirty days' notice to the commission and to the public, unless this requirement is waived by the commission, on good cause shown.—Kanotex Refining Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 46 P.2d 16, 142 Kan. 139.

(2) A shipper in contracting with the carrier is charged with notice of this requirement.—Kanotex Refining Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., supra

41. U.S.—Keogh v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 43 S.Ct. 47, 260 U.S. 156, 67 L.Ed. 183, affirming, C.C.A., 271 F. 444, in which certiorari is denied 41 S.Ct. 537, 256 U.S. 699, 65 L.Ed. 1177.

Ind.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Talge Mahogany Co., 112 N.E. 890, 185 Ind. 11.

N.Y.—Mozier v. Barrett, 193 N.Y.S. 579.

Tex.—Clayton Oil & Refining Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 3 S.W.2d 197—Missouri-Kansas & T. R. Co. of Texas v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 3 S.W.2d 489, affirmed Producers' Refining Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. of Texas, Com.App., 13 S.W.2d 679, and 13 S.W.2d 680.

42. U.S.—Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co. v. International Milling Co., C.C.A.Minn., 43 F.2d 93, affirming, D.C., 33 F.2d 636, and certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 89, 282 U.S. 885, 75 L.Ed. 781.

Express cancellation unnecessary

Where such is the evident intention, the publication and filing of new rate tariffs may operate to cancel and abrogate the rates prescribed by an older tariff although it is not expressly stated that they shall be canceled or superseded.

U.S.—Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co. v. International Milling Co., C.C.A.Minn., 43 F.2d 93, affirming, D.C., 33 F.2d 636, and certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 89, 282 U.S. 885, 75 L.Ed. 781.

Minn.—Crookston Milling Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 242 N.W. 287, 185 Minn. 563.

43. U.S.—Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Farmers' Shipping Ass'n, C.C.A.Kan., 59 F.2d 657—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Atlantic Bridge Co., C.C.A.Fla., 57 F.2d 654, affirming, D.C., Atlantic Bridge Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 56 F.2d 163—American Ry. Express Co. v. American Trust Co., C.C.A.Ind., 47 F.2d 16, reversing, D.C., American Trust Co. v. American Ry. Express Co., 42 F.2d 272, and certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 13, 284 U.S. 629, 76 L.Ed. 536—Eagle Cotton Oil Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Miss., 46 F.2d 1006, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 51 F.2d 443, certiorari denied Southern R. Co. v. Eagle Cotton Oil Co., 52 S.Ct. 130, 284 U.S. 675, 76 L.Ed. 571—Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co. v. International Milling Co., C.C.A.Minn., 43 F.2d 93, affirming, D.C., 33 F.2d 636, and certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 89, 282 U.S. 885, 75 L.Ed. 781—Updike Grain Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Neb., 35 F.2d 486—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 25 F.2d 66—W. P. Brown & Sons Lumber Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., D.C.Ky., 7 F.Supp. 593, affirmed, C.C.A., 82 F.2d 94, certiorari granted 57 S.Ct. 14, 299 U.S. 524, 81 L.Ed. 385, affirmed 57 S.Ct. 265, 299 U.S. 393, 81 L.Ed. 301—North American Co. v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., D.C.Mo., 288 F. 612, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., Spiller v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., 14 F.2d 284, certiorari granted St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Spiller, 47 S.Ct. 111, 273 U.S. 680, 71 L.Ed. 837, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds 47 S.Ct. 635, 274 U.S. 304, 71 L.Ed. 1060—Moore v. Duncan, Ohio, 237 F. 780, 150 C.C.A. 534

Kan.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Young, 171 P. 1156, 102 Kan. 875.

La.—Breazeale v. American Ry. Exp. Co., 137 So. 585, 18 La.App. 59.

Mass.—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. York & Whitney Co., 119 N.E. 855, 230 Mass. 206, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds 41 S.Ct. 509, 256 U.S. 406, 65 L.Ed. 1016.

Mo.—Cicardi Bros. Fruit & Produce Co. v. Pennsylvania Co., 213 S.W. 531, 201 Mo.App. 609

Mont.—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209.

Ohio.—Anthony Carlin Co. v. Hines, 140 N.E. 99, 107 Ohio St. 328—New York, C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Miller City Tile Co., 19 Ohio N.P., N.S., 244

Pa.—Rau v. Wilkes-Barre & E. R. Co., 167 A. 230, 311 Pa. 510

W.Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Glogora Coal Co., 169 S.E. 471, 113 W.Va. 796, certiorari denied Glogora Coal Co. v. Chesapeake & controls the legal rights of the parties,[44] and enters into, and forms a part of, all contracts of carriage to which it is applicable,[45] notwithstanding any contrary requirement made by state statute,[46] and regardless of the fact that the carrier's line lies wholly within one state.[47] It is binding and conclusive upon the carrier, shipper, and consignee alike;[48] and each and all of them are as a matter of law charged with notice or knowledge of the contents of the schedule and the rates prescribed therein,[49] which, as more fully discussed in §§ 392–395 infra, cannot be departed from by contract or

O Ry. Co., 54 S.Ct. 73, 290 U.S. 658, 78 L.Ed. 569.

44. U.S.—Keogh v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 43 S.Ct. 47, 260 U.S. 156, 67 L.Ed. 183, affirming, C.C.A., 271 F. 444, in which certiorari is denied 41 S.Ct. 537, 256 U.S. 699, 65 L.Ed. 1177—Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Settle, 43 S.Ct. 28, 260 U.S. 166, 67 L.Ed. 189, affirming, C.C.A., Baltimore & O. S. W. R. R. v. Settle, 272 F. 675—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., C.C.A. Minn., 25 F.2d 66

Kan.—Kanotex Refining Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 46 P.2d 16, 142 Kan. 139.

Mo.—Cicardi Bros. Fruit & Produce Co. v. Pennsylvania Co., 213 S.W. 531, 201 Mo.App. 609.

45. U.S.—Union Wire Rope Corporation v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 66 F.2d 965, reversing, D.C., Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Union Wire Rope Corporation, 1 F.Supp. 399, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 122, 290 U.S. 686, 78 L.Ed. 591—American Ry. Express Co. v. American Trust Co., C.C.A. Ind., 47 F.2d 16, reversing, D.C., American Trust Co. v. American Ry. Express Co., 42 F.2d 272, and certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 13, 284 U.S. 629, 76 L.Ed. 536—Hartness v. Iberia & V. R. Co., D.C.La., 297 F. 622.

Ala.—Hurt v. Atlanta, B. & A. Ry. Co., 84 So. 631, 17 Ala.App. 241.

Del.—Windsor v. American Ry. Exp. Co., 143 A. 37, 4 W.W.Harr. 16.

Mich. — Thomas Canning Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 189 N.W. 210, 219 Mich. 388.

Mont.—Cook v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 203 P. 512, 61 Mont. 573.

N.Y.—D'Utassy v. Southern Pac. Co., 161 N.Y.S. 222, 174 App.Div. 547—Strahs v. New York Cent. R. Co., 184 N.Y.S. 362, 113 Misc. 273.

Contract with express company

Uniform express receipts prescribed by interstate commerce commission, pursuant to which shipment moved, together with classification schedules of carrier on file with commission, constitute contract of carriage.—Feynman v. American Ry. Exp. Co., 234 N.Y.S. 727, 134 Misc. 223—O. K. Display Fixture Co. v. American Ry. Exp. Co., 201 N.Y.S. 266, 121 Misc. 816.

Express incorporation in bill of lading

A clause in a bill of lading for an interstate shipment, making it subject to the tariffs then in effect, makes the tariffs a part of the contract of carriage.—McGuire v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 118 S.E. 225, 136 Va. 382

46. U.S.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hefley, Tex., 15 S.Ct. 802, 158 U.S. 98, 39 L.Ed. 910

47. La.—Louisiana R., etc., Co. v. Holly, 53 So. 882, 127 La. 615.

48. U.S.—Union Wire Rope Corporation v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 66 F.2d 965, reversing, D.C., Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Union Wire Rope Corporation, 1 F.Supp. 399, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 122, 290 U.S. 686, 78 L.Ed. 591—Eagle Cotton Oil Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Miss., 46 F.2d 1006, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 51 F.2d 443, certiorari denied Southern R. Co. v. Eagle Cotton Oil Co., 52 S.Ct. 130, 284 U.S. 675, 76 L.Ed. 571—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 25 F.2d 66—Moore v. Duncan, Ohio, 237 F. 780, 150 C.C.A. 534.

Colo.—Fort v. Denver & R. G. R. Co., 195 P. 109, 69 Colo. 441.

Ind.—Clark v. Southern Ry. Co., 119 N.E. 539, 69 Ind.App. 697.

Ky.—Blackford v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co., 203 S.W. 867, 181 Ky. 70.

Mass.—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. York & Whitney Co., 119 N.E. 855, 230 Mass. 206, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds 41 S.Ct. 509, 256 U.S. 406, 65 L.Ed. 1016

Mich. — Thomas Canning Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 189 N.W. 210, 219 Mich. 388.

Minn.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Van Dusen, Harrington Co., 214 N.W. 278, 170 Minn. 488, certiorari denied Van Dusen, Harrington Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 48 S.Ct. 116, 275 U.S. 554, 72 L.Ed. 422—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Van Dusen, Harrington Co., 212 N.W. 940, 170 Minn. 488

Mo.—Pioneer Trust Co. v. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co., 224 S.W. 109, 204 Mo.App. 328—Cicardi Bros. Fruit & Produce Co. v. Pennsylvania Co., 213 S.W. 531, 201 Mo. App. 609.

Mont.—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209.

Neb.—Fremont Milling Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 163 N.W. 331, 101 Neb. 362.

N.Y.—Haddad v. Southern Pac. Co., 173 N.Y.S. 256, 185 App.Div. 500—Mozier v. Barrett, 193 N.Y.S. 579—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Weyant, 165 N.Y.S. 391

Ohio.—Anthony Carlin Co. v. Hines, 140 N.E. 99, 107 Ohio St. 328—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Peak, 6 Ohio App. 399—New York, C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Miller City Tile Co., 19 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 244.

Pa.—Rau v. Wilkes-Barre & E. R. Co., 167 A. 230, 311 Pa. 510—Erie R. Co. v. Kreitner Bros., Inc., 3 Pa. Dist. & Co. 251.

Tenn.—Blow Stave Co. v. Hattendorf, 7 Tenn.Civ.App. 415

Tex.—Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Wolfson, Civ.App., 23 S.W.2d 455, error dismissed

Va.—Old Dominion S. S. Co. v. Blakeman, 105 S.E. 752, 129 Va. 206.

W.Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Glogora Coal Co., 169 S.E. 471, 113 W.Va. 796, certiorari denied Glogora Coal Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 54 S.Ct. 73, 290 U.S. 658, 78 L.Ed. 569.

Wis.—Bassett v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 171 N.W. 749, 168 Wis. 617, rehearing denied 171 N.W. 752, 168 Wis. 617.

10 C.J. p. 431 note 8.

Provisions as to diversion or reconsignment of shipment

Tariff rules and regulations in schedules filed with the interstate commerce commission, relating to conditions upon which a shipper might be permitted to divert or reconsign a shipment in transit by exchanging bills of lading are under the Interstate Commerce Act binding on the parties, this being a service in connection with the transportation.—Pioneer Trust Co. v. Nashville, C. & St. L. R. Co., 224 S.W. 109, 204 Mo.App. 328 agreement of the parties.

49. U.S.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Daniel, 46 S.Ct. 15, 269 U.S. 40, 70 L.Ed. 154, reversing 121 S.E. 686, 157 Ga. 731, certiorari granted 44 S.Ct. 461, 265 U.S. 576, 68 L.Ed. 1187, which affirmed 116 S.E. 660, 29 Ga.App. 780, vacated 132 S.E. 144, 35 Ga.App. 81—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., D.C.Mo., 2 F.2d 291, affirmed 46 S.Ct. 530, 271 U.S. 259, 70 L.Ed. 934.

Ala.—Emerson v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 72 So. 120, 196 Ala. 280, L.R.A. 1916F 120.

Ill.—See Jackson v. M. Piowaty & Sons, 205 Ill.App. 329.

The foregoing rules, requiring the duly scheduled and established rates to be adhered to, apply where connecting carriers engaged in interstate transportation, although not agreeing on any joint tariff, establish and publish in the manner prescribed by the statute separate rates covering such transportation,[50] and if freight is shipped over connecting lines which have agreed on a joint tariff of rates in compliance with the Interstate Commerce Act, the delivering line must collect the interstate commerce rate, and not that named in the bill of lading.[51]

It has been held, however, that binding and conclusive effect will not be given to a tariff or schedule which is without statutory authorization,[52] or which has not been filed and published as required by law;[53] and where, through a printing error, a rate different from that authorized by the commission is included in the published tariff, such rate does not become the lawful rate.[54]

Although a tariff is improperly drawn so as to act retroactively, it is not thereby rendered void in its prospective operation.[55]

(4) Joint Rates

Joint rates are required to be filed and published the same as other rates.

Joint rates, as well as other rates, are required by the Interstate Commerce Act to be filed and published;[56] and hence, where connecting carriers agree on a joint through rate, the rate so agreed on can become legally operative only by being filed and established as prescribed by the statute.[57] However, the statute does not require either of two connecting lines to publish its joint tariff at a noncompeting point;[58] and a carrier is not prohibited by the statute from receiving freight for transportation to another state by the fact that no through route and joint rates have been established between the points of shipment and delivery.[59]

Prior to the order of the interstate commerce

Ky.—Blackford v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co., 203 S.W. 867, 181 Ky. 70.

Mich.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Marcelletti, 240 N.W. 4, 256 Mich. 411, 78 A.L.R. 923.

Miss.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. F. A. Hulett & Son, 131 So. 814, 159 Miss. 333.

Mont.—Cook v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 203 P. 512, 61 Mont. 573.

N.M.—Enderstein v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 157 P. 670, 21 N.M. 548.

N.Y.—O. K. Display Fixture Co. v. American Ry. Exp. Co., 201 N.Y.S. 266, 121 Misc. 816—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Weyant, 165 N.Y.S. 391.

Okl.—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Wm. Bondies & Co., 166 P. 179, 64 Okl. 88.

Pa.—Kaplan v. Director General of Railroads, 78 Pa.Super. 195—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Whitney & Kemmerer, 73 Pa.Super. 588—West Jersey & S. R. Co. v. Whiting Lumber Co., 71 Pa.Super. 161—Erie R. Co. v. Kreitner Bros., Inc., 3 Pa.Dist. & Co. 251.

Tenn.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Hobbs, 190 S.W. 461, 136 Tenn. 512—Blow Stave Co. v. Hattendorf, 7 Tenn.Civ.App. 415.

Tex.—Shroyer v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., 222 S.W. 1095, 111 Tex. 24, reversing Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Shroyer, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 773, and modified on other grounds Shroyer v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., 226 S.W. 140, 111 Tex. 24.

Va.—Old Dominion S. S. Co. v. Blakeman, 105 S.E. 752, 129 Va. 206

Wis.—Bassett v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 171 N.W. 749, 168 Wis. 617, rehearing denied 171 N.W. 752, 168 Wis. 617.

10 C.J. p. 431 note 15.

Duty of carrier to quote correctly

Carrier, in delivering goods to point within state from point without state, was under no legal duty to correctly quote purchaser from consignee rates upon connecting line to another point within state, as such rates are matters of law of which both shipper and carrier are bound to take notice.—W. C. Goodnow Coal Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 162 N.W. 519, 136 Minn. 420.

50. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dimmitt, 42 S.W. 583, 17 Tex.Civ.App. 255

10 C.J. p. 431 note 13.

51. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Hefley, 15 S.Ct. 802, 158 U.S. 98, 39 L.Ed. 910—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Stoner, 23 S.W. 1020, 5 Tex.Civ.App. 50

52. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. U. S., 47 S.Ct. 123, 272 U.S. 445, 71 L.Ed. 343, affirming 60 Ct.Cl. 662, appeal dismissed and certiorari granted 46 S.Ct. 242, 270 U.S. 103, 70 L.Ed. 489.

53. Ky.—Andrews Steel Co. v. Davis, 276 S.W. 148, 210 Ky. 473

54. Minn.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Van Dusen, Harrington Co., 214 N.W. 278, 170 Minn. 488, certiorari denied Van Dusen, Harrington Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 48 S.Ct. 116, 275 U.S. 554, 72 L.Ed. 422—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Van Dusen, Harrington Co., 212 N.W. 940, 170 Minn. 488.

55. Mo.—Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Southern Sawmill Co., 251 S.W. 434, 212 Mo.App. 117.

56. U.S.—McFadden v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., Pa., 241 F. 562, 154 C.C.A. 338, affirming, D.C., Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. George H. McFadden & Bros., 232 F. 1000

10 C.J. p. 431 note 20.

Through rate only lawful rate

Where cotton consigned to the shipper's order was shipped over the lines of connecting carriers to B. in the state of origin, where it was compressed by the carrier and rebilled to points outside the state, the through rate from point of shipment was the legal rate, and a rate consisting of the initial carrier's intrastate rate to the junction point and the connecting carrier's interstate rate from that point was not a lawful rate for such shipment, under Interstate Commerce Act Feb. 4, 1887, c. 104, § 6, 24 U.S.St. at L. p. 380, Comp.St.1916, § 8569, requiring the filing of through rates when established; such intra-state rate not being filed with the interstate commerce commission.—McFadden v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., C.C.A.Pa., 241 F. 562, 563, affirming, D.C., Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. McFadden & Bros., 232 F. 1000

57. U.S.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. C. H. Albers Commn. Co., Kan., 32 S.Ct. 316, 223 U.S. 573, 56 L.Ed. 556

10 C.J. p. 428 note 76.

58. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Osborne, Iowa, 52 F. 912, 3 C.C.A. 347.

59. N.C.—Reid v. Southern R. Co., 69 S.E. 618, 153 N.C. 490.

commission of May, 1907, which requires connecting carriers to accept joint rates specifically, no formal acceptance, by a connecting carrier, of a through rate, filed with the commission by an initial carrier, was necessary, and the receipt of the tariff and the acceptance of freight thereunder were sufficient to put the joint rate into effect[60] as effectively as if the rate had actually been published and filed by the participating carrier.[61] By the order of the interstate commerce commission of May, 1907, connecting carriers are required to accept joint rates specifically;[62] but where a joint tariff is received and stamped by a connecting carrier which thereafter receives freight under the schedule of the filed tariff, the requirements of the rule are satisfied, and the rate thereby becomes a joint one, and there can be no departure therefrom.[63] The sanction, by connecting carriers, of through rates filed and published by another carrier is only essential to their application to the haul from common points,[64] and the failure of a connecting carrier to participate in the publication of a through rate will not render it inapplicable over its lines;[65] but one carrier may not bind a joint carrier by publication of special rate tariffs for its line.[66]

b. Intra-State Rates

Under state statutes similar to the Interstate Commerce Act, schedules of intra-state rates are often required to be filed with a state regulatory commission, and published.

Under state statutes more or less similar to the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act, carriers are often required to prepare and publish schedules of intra-state rates and file them with a designated state regulatory commission.[67] The main purpose of such statutes is to compel the establishment of uniform rates for all persons entitled to transport goods over the roads and to afford convenient facilities for ascertaining what are the established rates.[68] The schedules and rates so fixed and published have the same force and effect as those filed and published under the Interstate Commerce Act.[69] They are binding upon both the carrier and the members of the public,[70] are controlling upon the courts in determining the rights of the parties,[71] and the scheduled rate is the only lawful rate which may be charged;[72] but it has been held that the filing does not give notice to all the world or have any effect beyond preventing discrimination.[73] Under some statutes, however, a carrier is not prohibited from making a contract for the carriage of goods, where no tariff has been filed.[74]

Where the statute requires the filing of printed schedules, typewritten copies are insufficient,[75] but it is not necessary to show in the schedules the rate

60. U.S.—Dayton Coal & Iron Co v. Cincinnati, N. O. & T P. R. Co, Tenn, 36 S Ct. 137, 239 U S. 446, 60 L Ed. 375
10 C.J. p 431 note 22.

61. U S—U. S v. New York Cent & H R R. Co, N.Y., 29 S.Ct. 313, 212 U S 509, 53 L.Ed. 629.

62. U.S.—Dayton Coal & Iron Co v. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P R. Co., Tenn, 36 S Ct. 137, 239 U S. 446, 60 L.Ed 375.

Tap lines

To entitle a tap line to avail itself of the milling in transit privilege, it must make reports to the interstate commerce commission and file or concur in the controlling tariff—St Louis Southwestern Ry. Co v S H Bolinger & Co, C C A La, 279 F. 564.

63. U S—Dayton Coal & Iron Co. v. Cincinnati, N. O. & T P. R. Co, Tenn, 36 S Ct. 137, 239 U S. 446, 60 L Ed 375

64. U S.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. C H Albers Commn. Co, 32 S Ct 316, 223 U S. 573, 595, 56 L. Ed 556, reversing 99 P. 813, 79 Kan. 59.

65. U S—Montrose Oil Refining Co. v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co, D C.Tex., 25 F 2d 750, affirmed, C.C. A., St Louis-San Francisco Ry Co. v. Montrose Oil & Refining Co, 25 F 2d 755, certiorari denied 48 S. Ct. 560, 277 U.S. 598, 72 L Ed. 1007

66. Ky.—Rowan County Freestone Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 95 S W 2d 575, 264 Ky. 785.

67. Miss—E. L. Young Heading Co v. Payne, 89 So. 782, 127 Miss. 48
Vt—Simpson v. Central Vermont Ry. Co, 115 A. 299, 95 Vt. 388.
10 C J. p 432 note 32.

68. Wash.—United Artists Corporation v. Puget Sound Electric Ry., 211 P. 873, 122 Wash 537.
10 C J. p 432 note 33.

69. Ala.—T. R Miller Mill Co. v Louisville & N. R. Co, 92 So. 797, 207 Ala. 253.

70. U S—Woodrich v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co, C.C.A.N D, 71 F.2d 732, 97 A.L.R. 401.
Ala.—T R. Miller Mill Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 92 So. 797, 207 Ala. 253.

71. U S—Woodrich v. Northern Pac Ry. Co, C C A N D., 71 F.2d 732, 97 A.L.R. 401.

72. Ala.—T. R. Miller Mill Co v Louisville & N. R. Co., 92 So. 797, 207 Ala 253
N.Y.—Purcell v. New York Cent R Co, 275 N.Y.S. 70, 242 App.Div 292, affirmed 197 N E. 182, 268 N Y 164, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 173, 296 U.S. 545, 80 L.Ed. 387.

Approval by commission

(1) In view of Code 1907 §§ 5669, 5678, providing for changes of freight tariffs being effective only in the future, printed and published freight schedules being by § 5527 lawful rates when approved by the commission, such schedules cannot be made unlawful for and during the period of their approved operation by any subsequent retroactive finding and order of the commission—T R. Miller Mill Co v Louisville & N. R. Co, 92 So 797, 207 Ala 253.

(2) Where the carrier filed with the railroad commission a tariff covering a designated field, but not in harmony with the original requirements of the commission, and the commission approved the tariff as filed, its approval was ipso facto a cancellation of its previous order so far as it was inconsistent with the approved tariff, and by Code 1907 § 5525, the rates so approved became the lawful rate, binding on carrier and shipper alike until discontinued by a valid order of the commission. —T. R Miller Mill Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., supra.

73. Wash—United Artists Corporation v. Puget Sound Electric Ry., 211 P. 873, 122 Wash 537.

74. Miss.—Illinois Cent R. Co. v. King, 88 So. 322, 125 Miss. 734.

75. Mich.—Michigan R. Commn. v.

per mile, nor the distances between stations, in the absence of any law or rule of the commission requiring it.[76]

Where the jurisdiction of a commission to make an order requiring the filing of schedules depends upon whether the person against whom the order is directed is engaged in business as a carrier the commission has the power to determine the business in which such person is engaged.[77]

Under statutes specifically so providing, carriers may be required to post schedules of their rates in their stations,[78] or to file them in their offices.[79] Such a requirement as to posting is not complied with by binding the schedules together and leaving them open to the public on a prominent desk in the waiting room of the station; and it is not sufficient for the carriers to send schedules to their agents with instructions to post, but they must see that they are continually kept posted as required by law. However, the schedule of rates may be printed on two cards, so posted as to read as one, and the carrier is not required to post special rates which it is authorized to make for temporary use for particular persons and places.[80]

The failure of a carrier to post a statutory notice stating where the tariff may be examined, has been held not to invalidate the tariff.[81]

§ 303. Construction of Particular Tariffs

Generally, freight rate tariffs are construed according to the same rules as are other written documents, such as statutes and contracts.

The construction of a freight tariff is not a matter sui generis, but ordinarily presents questions similar to those presented when the construction of any other written document is in dispute.[82] Consequently, although there are a few rules of construction that are particularly applicable,[83] the rules commonly used in the construction of other documents, such as statutes and contracts may generally be resorted to.[84]

While the intention of the parties is the guiding factor,[85] it must be determined from the written language of the tariff,[86] which must be fairly and reasonably construed in accordance with the proper meaning of the words used.[87] In the absence of ambiguity, no effect will be given to an intention of the carrier not expressed in the language of the Detroit, etc., R. Co., 150 N.W. 861, 184 Mich 242.

76. Fla—State v. Pensacola, etc., R Co, 9 So 89, 27 Fla. 403.

77. U S—Producers' Transp Co. v Railroad Commission of California, 169 P. 59, 176 Cal. 499, affirmed 40 S.Ct. 131, 251 U S. 228, 64 L Ed 239.

A pipe line company engaged in transporting oil by means of pipe line held subject to Public Utilities Act, making order of railroad commission requiring it to show cause why it should not file rates and schedules warranted in view of St 1913 p 657, and Const. art 12 § 23 —Producers' Transp. Co. v. Railroad Commission of California, 169 P. 59, 176 Cal. 499, affirmed 40 S.Ct. 131, 251 U.S. 228, 64 L.Ed. 239.

78. Fla.—State v. Pensacola, etc., R. Co, 9 So. 89, 27 Fla. 403.
N.H—Locke v. Concord R. Corp, 60 N.H. 552.

79. Vt.—Simpson v. Central Vermont Ry. Co, 115 A. 299, 95 Vt 388.

80. Fla—State v Pensacola, etc., R. Co, 9 So. 89, 27 Fla. 403.

81. N.Y—Minturn v. New York Cent. R. Co, 220 N Y S. 789, 220 App Div 222.

82. U S—W. P. Brown & Sons Lumber Co v Louisville & N. R. Co, 57 S Ct. 265, 299 U S. 393, 81 L Ed 301, affirming, C C.A., 82 F 2d 94, which affirmed, D C, 7 F Supp 593, certiorari granted 57 S.Ct. 14, 299 U S. 524, 81 L Ed. 385—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co, C C A Minn., 25 F.2d 66.
Ky.—Louisville Water Co v. Louisville, H. & St L. Ry. Co, 110 S W 2d 668, 270 Ky. 833.

83. U.S—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co v. Great Northern Ry. Co., C C A Minn, 25 F.2d 66.

84. U.S—Wheelock v. Walsh Fire Clay Products Co, C C A.Mo, 60 F.2d 415—Chicago Great Western R. Co v Farmers' Shipping Ass'n, C C A.Kan, 59 F 2d 657—Hohenberg v. Louisville & N R. Co, C C A Ala, 46 F 2d 952, certiorari denied 52 S Ct. 6, 284 U S. 617, 76 L Ed 527—Updike Grain Co. v Chicago & N W Ry. Co., C C A Neb, 35 F 2d 486—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co v. Great Northern Ry Co, C C A Minn, 25 F 2d 66
Fla—Louisville & N. R Co. v Speed-Parker, Inc., 137 So. 724, 103 Fla 439.

85. N.C—Davis v. Latham-Bradshaw Cotton Co., 117 S E. 391, 185 N.C 387
10 C J. p 430 note 7.

86. U S—W P Brown & Sons Lumber Co v. Louisville & N. R Co, C C A Ky., 82 F.2d 94, affirming, D.C, 7 F Supp 593, certiorari granted 57 S Ct 14, 299 U S 524, 81 L Ed 385, affirmed 57 S Ct. 265, 299 U S. 393, 81 L Ed 301—Lothrop v. Spokane, P & S. Ry. Co, D C. Or., 10 F.2d 225, reversed on other grounds, C C A, Southern Pac. Co v. Lothrop, 15 F 2d 486, certiorari denied Lothrop v. Southern Pac Co, 47 S Ct 336, 273 U S 712, 71 L Ed. 869, Lothrop v. Spokane P & S. R Co, 47 S Ct 336, 273 U S. 742, 71 L Ed 869, and Lothrop v. Oregon-Washington R & Nav Co, 47 S Ct. 336, 273 U S. 742, 71 L Ed 869
Va—Smokeless Fuel Co v Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 128 S.E 624, 142 Va. 355.

87. U S—Atlantic Bridge Co v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., D.C Fla, 56 F 2d 163, affirmed, C C A, Atlantic Coast Line Co v. Atlantic Bridge Co, 57 F 2d 651—Western Grain Co. v. St Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., C C A Ala., 56 F.2d 160.
Utah—Jeremy Fuel & Grain Co v Public Utilities Commission, 226 P 456, 63 Utah 392.
Va—Smokeless Fuel Co v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co, 128 S E 624, 142 Va 355.

Tariff not applicable to international shipments

A tariff limited to shipments originating on carrier's line within United States does not apply to American part of transportation of international shipment on through bill of lading.—Lewis-Simas-Jones Co. v Southern Pac. Co, 51 S.Ct. 592, 283 U.S 651, 75 L.Ed 1333, reversing 289 P 643, 106 Cal App. 137, certiorari granted 51 S.Ct. 102, 282 U.S. 833, 75 L.Ed. 741.

tariff,[88] and the language of the tariff cannot be varied or defeated by a practical construction by the parties,[89] or by an announcement or construction by the carrier.[90] Nevertheless, where the actual meaning of a provision is open to construction in the connection used, the existing facts and circumstances attending its adoption,[91] the object sought to be accomplished thereby,[92] and the practical construction given it by the officers whose duty it is to administer the law under which it was adopted,[93] may be considered in its construction.

Generally the words used will be given their common meaning,[94] or the meaning which they might reasonably carry to the shippers to whom they are addressed.[95] If a tariff is addressed to a special class of shippers and uses words which have a particular or customary import among such class of shippers, that meaning should apply.[96] Technical terms used in the tariff must be given their full meaning.[97]

In construing a tariff, as in the case of other documents, the entire instrument must be visualized, and, if possible, effect must be given to every word, clause, and sentence[98] to the end that general and

88. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co v. Atlantic Bridge Co, C.C.A.Fla., 57 F.2d 654, affirming, D.C., Atlantic Bridge Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 56 F.2d 163—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Delmar Co, C C A Minn, 43 F.2d 780, affirming, D.C., Delmar Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co, 34 F.2d 221, certiorari granted Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Delmar Co., 51 S.Ct. 212, 282 U S. 836, 75 L Ed 742, reversed on other grounds 51 S.Ct. 579, 283 U S. 686, 75 L Ed. 1349—Southern Pac Co. v. Lothrop, C C A.Or., 15 F 2d 486, reversing, D.C, Lothrop v Spokane, P. & S. Ry. Co., 10 F. 2d 225, and certiorari denied Lothrop v. Southern Pac. Co, 47 S Ct. 336, 273 U.S. 742, 71 L Ed. 869, Lothrop v. Spokane, P. & S. R. Co, 47 S Ct. 336, 273 U.S. 742, 71 L Ed 869, and Lothrop v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co., 47 S.Ct. 336, 273 U S. 742, 71 L.Ed. 869.

Va.—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 128 S.E. 624, 142 Va. 355.

89. U S.—W. P. Brown & Sons Lumber Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co, C.C A.Ky, 82 F 2d 94, affirming, D C, 7 F Supp. 593, certiorari granted 57 S Ct. 14, 299 U.S 524, 81 L Ed 385, affirmed 57 S Ct. 265, 299 U.S. 393, 81 L Ed. 301—Lakewood Engineering Co v. New York Cent. R. Co., Ohio, 259 F. 61, 170 C.C.A. 129, error dismissed 41 S.Ct. 60, 254 U.S. 661, 65 L.Ed. 463.

90. Ala.—Priebe v. Southern Ry Co, 75 So. 409, 200 Ala. 81.

Fla.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Speed-Parker, Inc., 137 So. 724, 103 Fla. 439.

91. U S—Carpenter v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., C C.A.Tex, 89 F 2d 274.

Mich.—New York Cent. Ry. Co. v. Calvert, 193 N.W. 295, 222 Mich. 488.

92. Va.—Smokeless Fuel Co. v Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 128 S E. 624, 142 Va. 355.

93. Mich.—New York Cent. Ry. Co. v. Calvert, 193 N W. 295, 222 Mich 488

94. U S—American Ry Express Co v. Price Bros, C.C.A.Tex., 54 F 2d 67

Va—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O Ry. Co., 128 S E. 624, 142 Va. 355.

Wash—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v Sauk River Lumber Co., 295 P. 926, 160 Wash 691.

"Actual cost" of repairing cars

In carrier's tariff provision that, when material for repairing cars is furnished by shipper, carrier will pay actual cost of the same, the words "actual cost of the same" include cost of material and labor, but not of inspecting or cleaning cars, or of attaching grain doors—Rock Milling & Elevator Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F Ry. Co., 158 P 859, 98 Kan. 478, affirming 154 P. 254.

95. U S—Union Wire Rope Corporation v. Atchison, T & S. F. Ry. Co., C C A Mo., 66 F 2d 965, reversing, D.C., Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Union Wire Rope Corporation, 1 F Supp 399, certiorari denied 51 S Ct. 122, 290 U.S. 686, 78 L Ed 591.

Obvious meaning

A shipper who consults a tariff has a right to rely upon its obvious meaning He cannot be charged with knowledge of the intention of the framer's or the carrier's canons of construction or some other tariff not even referred to in the one carrying the rate.—Swift & Co. v. U. S., Ill., 255 F. 291, 166 C C A. 461.

96. Union Wire Rope Corporation v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C C A Mo, 66 F 2d 965, reversing, D.C, Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Union Wire Rope Corporation, 1 F Supp 399, and certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 122, 290 U.S 686, 78 L.Ed. 591.

97. Utah.—Jeremy Fuel & Grain Co v. Public Utilities Commission, 226 P. 456, 63 Utah 392.

98. U.S—Carpenter v. Texas & N. O R. Co, C C.A.Tex, 89 F 2d 274—W. P. Brown & Sons Lumber Co v. Louisville & N R. Co, C. C A Ky., 82 F.2d 94, affirming, D C, 7 F Supp 593, certiorari granted 57 S Ct 14, 299 U.S 524, 81 L. Ed 385, affirmed 57 S Ct 265, 299 U.S. 393, 81 L.Ed 301—Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Farmers Shipping Ass'n, C.C A Kan, 59 F. 2d 657—Updike Grain Corporation v St. Louis & S F. Ry Co, C. C A Neb, 52 F.2d 94—Updike Grain Co v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., C C A Neb, 35 F.2d 486—Van Dusen Harrington Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co, C.C.A Minn, 32 F 2d 466—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., C.C A Minn., 25 F 2d 66—Lothrop v. Spokane, P. & S. Ry Co, D C Or, 10 F.2d 225, reversed on other grounds, C C A., Southern Pac. Co v. Lothrop, 15 F.2d 486, certiorari denied Lothrop v. Southern Pac. Co., 47 S.Ct. 336, 273 U.S 742, 71 L.Ed. 869, Lothrop v. Spokane, P. & S R. Co, 47 S Ct. 336, 273 U. S. 742, 71 L Ed. 869, and Lothrop v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co, 47 S.Ct. 336, 273 U S 742, 71 L Ed. 869—Louisville Water Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co, D C.Ky, 14 F Supp. 301—Portland Cattle Loan Co. v. Oregon Short Line R Co., Or., 251 F. 33, 163 C C.A. 283, affirming, D C., Oregon Short Line R Co v. Portland Cattle Loan Co., 245 F 214.

Or—Black v. Southern Pac Co, 171 P 878, 88 Or. 533.

Va—Smokeless Fuel Co v. Chesapeake & O Ry. Co, 128 S.E. 624, 142 Va. 355.

In determining the meaning of part of the tariff, resort may be had to other parts, in order that the whole may stand.—Updike Grain Corporation v. St. Louis & S. F. Ry Co, C C A.Neb, 52 F 2d 94—Updike Grain Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., C C.A Neb., 35 F 2d 486—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. v Great Northern Ry. Co., C C.A Minn., 25 F.2d 66.

Tariff or supplement must be construed in its entirety, considering limitations on the title page and the rules therein.—Knight v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co, 207 N.W. 506, 114 Neb. 388—Knight v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co, 207 N W 505, 114 Neb. 387—McCaffrey Bros. Co. v. Chicago, specific provisions in apparent contradiction may subsist together,[99] and apparent inconsistencies be reconciled.[1] Similarly, where more than one tariff may be applicable to the same service, they must be considered together and conflicts avoided wherever possible.[2] Furthermore, a tariff must be construed in connection with the rules of a state commission, referred to on its title pages, in such a way as to harmonize therewith, unless irreconcilable conflict appears.[3]

General and specific provisions of the tariff must be construed so as to harmonize, where this is reasonably possible,[4] but the general rule that special provisions always control general provisions applies.[5] So, where general and specific provisions are in apparent contradiction, the specific is construed as qualifying and supplying exceptions to the general.[6]

Although a general rule of a state railroad commission has the force of general law,[7] it will not be held to set aside the provisions of a tariff schedule, unless the two are clearly inconsistent.[8]

Because the tariff is written by the carrier, all ambiguities or reasonable doubts as to its meaning must be resolved against the carrier,[9] and in favor of the shipper.[10]

Since, as noted in § 302 supra, a freight tariff has the force and effect of a statute where it is

B & Q. R. Co., 207 N.W. 503, 114 Neb. 382.

Footnotes and extraneous matters

While freight tariffs should be construed according to plain import of language employed, particular phrases or sentences in tariff sheet must be considered in connection with subject matter and circumstances to which language refers, such as footnotes or other extraneous matters.—Jeremy Fuel & Grain Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 226 P. 456, 63 Utah 392.

99. U S —Van Dusen Harrington Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Minn., 32 F.2d 466.

1. Va.—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 128 S E. 624, 142 Va. 355.

2. U.S.—Louisville Water Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., D.C.Ky., 14 F. Supp. 301.

3. Fla —Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Speed-Parker, Inc., 137 So. 724, 103 Fla. 439.

4. Fla.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Speed-Parker, Inc., supra.

5. U.S.—Louisville Water Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., D.C.Ky, 14 F. Supp. 301.

Tex.—Lutcher & Moore Lumber Co v. Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 33 S.W 2d 1077, affirmed, Com.App., 49 S.W.2d 726—King v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., Civ. App, 241 S.W. 180

6. U.S.—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., C C.A. Minn., 25 F 2d 66.

Ohio —New York, C. & St. L. R Co v. Miller City Tile Co, 19 Ohio N P ,N.S., 244.

7. Fla —Louisville & N. R. Co. v Speed-Parker, Inc., 137 So. 724, 103 Fla 439

Commission regulations govern tariff

Regulations contained in railroad commission's classification must govern, unless local intra-state tariff expressly provides otherwise, or contains inconsistent provisions.—Louisville & N. R Co v Speed-Parker, Inc, 137 So. 724, 103 Fla. 439.

8. Fla —Louisville & N. R Co v. Speed-Parker, Inc., supra.

9. U S.—Chicago & N. W Ry. Co. v. Wilcox Co., C C A.Ill, 68 F 2d 883, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 72, 293 U S. 560, 79 L Ed. 661—Union Wire Rope Corporation v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co, C.C A Mo, 66 F 2d 965, reversing, D C., Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co v. Union Wire Rope Corporation, 1 F Supp 399 and certiorari denied 54 S Ct. 122, 290 U.S 686, 78 L Ed. 591.

Ark —Swift & Co. v. Ft. Smith & W. Ry. Co., 16 S W.2d 1001, 179 Ark. 516.

Tex —Texarkana & Ft. S. Ry. Co. v Houston Gas & Fuel Co, 51 S W.2d 284, 121 Tex. 594—International-Great Northern R. Co v. Singer Iron & Steel Co, Civ.App., 96 S. W 2d 1003.

Va —Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O Ry. Co, 128 S E 624, 142 Va. 355.

Wash —Northern Pac. Ry. Co v. Sauk River Lumber Co, 295 P. 926, 160 Wash. 691.

Not entitled to liberal construction

Carrier, having prepared tariff schedule for interstate shipments, is not entitled to have them liberally construed in its own favor, and the rule of fair and reasonable construction applies.—Raymond Hadley Corporation v. Boston & M R R., 174 N Y S. 342, 186 App.Div. 341, appeal dismissed on condition 123 N E. 886, 226 N Y. 711, and affirmed 126 N.E 921, 227 N Y 648.

Diversion and reconsigning tariffs are construed strictly; the carrier, not being compelled to publish such tariffs in any particular terms, must abide by the terms he has chosen — Van Dusen Harrington Co. v Northern Pac. Ry Co, C C A.Minn., 32 F 2d 466.

10. U.S —Union Wire Rope Corporation v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co, C C.A Mo, 66 F 2d 965, reversing, D C, Atchison, T & S F. Ry. Co. v. Union Wire Rope Corporation, 1 F.Supp 399, certiorari denied 54 S Ct 122, 290 U S. 686, 78 L Ed. 591—Atlantic Bridge Co v Atlantic Coast Line R Co., D.C Fla., 56 F.2d 163, affirmed, C.C.A, Atlantic Coast Line Co v. Atlantic Bridge Co., 57 F 2d 654—American Trust Co v. American Ry Exp Co, D C Ind, 42 F 2d 272, reversed on other grounds, C C A, American Ry Express Co. v. American Trust Co, 47 F.2d 16, certiorari denied American Trust Co v American Ry Express Co, 52 S Ct. 13, 284 U S 629, 76 L Ed 536—Southern Pac Co v. Lothrop, C C A Or., 15 F 2d 486, reversing on other grounds, D C, Lothrop v. Spokane, P & S. Ry. Co., 10 F.2d 225, and certiorari denied Lothrop v. Southern Pac. Co, 47 S Ct. 336, 273 U S 742, 71 L Ed. 869, Lothrop v Spokane, P. & S. R Co, 47 S.Ct. 336, 273 U.S. 742, 71 L Ed. 869, and Lothrop v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co, 47 S Ct. 336, 273 U S. 742, 71 L Ed 869.

Ark.—Swift & Co. v. Ft. Smith & W Ry Co, 16 S.W 2d 1001, 179 Ark 516.

Or —Green Mountain Log Co. v. Columbia & N R R. R, 16 P 2d 1106, 141 Or 188.

Tex.—International-Great Northern R Co v. Singer Iron & Steel Co, Civ.App, 96 S W.2d 1003

Rates fixed by traffic bureaus and organizations are construed liberally in favor of shipper in case of ambiguity.—Lothrop v. Spokane, P. & S Ry. Co., D C Or., 10 F 2d 225, reversed on other grounds, C C.A., Southern Pac. Co v. Lothrop, 15 F. 2d 486, certiorari denied Lothrop v. Southern Pac Co, 47 S Ct 336, 273 U S 742, 71 L.Ed. 869, Lothrop v. Spokane, P. & S. R Co, 47 S Ct 336, 273 U.S 742, 71 L Ed 869, and Lothrop v Oregon-Washington R & Nav. Co, 47 S.Ct. 336, 273 U S. 742, 71 L. Ed. 869.

properly filed and published, it is often treated as a statute for purposes of construction.[11] Manifest omissions from a freight tariff may, in accordance with the rules stated in the C.J.S. title Statutes § 328, also 59 C.J. p 974 note 15, be supplied in order to avoid absurd consequences and to effectuate the intention as ascertainable from the context.[12] When its meaning is ascertained the tariff operates as law which the court must apply as any other law.[13]

Ordinarily, the construction of a tariff presents a question of law;[14] but the relation of tariffs one to another in a common territory is not entirely a question of law, but more in the nature of a mixed question of law and fact;[15] and the conformity of a special contract between carrier and shipper, to the controlling tariff, is a question of fact.[16]

Where the meaning of a freight rate tariff promulgated by a state commission is plain, there is no occasion to apply to the commission for a construction thereof;[17] but otherwise, it is a matter primarily for the commission.[18]

In an interstate carrier's suit in a state court to recover an alleged deficiency of freight charged under a published schedule, the state court has jurisdiction to construe the schedule filed with the interstate commerce commission to determine whether the rate so charged is illegal.[19]

§ 304. Proceedings to Enforce Compliance by Carrier with Rates Fixed by Statute or Railroad Commission

Independently of statute a court of equity has jurisdiction to enjoin a carrier from collecting other than the prescribed rates, which suit may be commenced by the state or representative thereof, but not in some states by a shipper, and may be instituted regardless of any laches in the commencement of the proceeding. The prescribed rate is presumed proper and the carrier has the burden of showing that it is unreasonable.

Independently of any remedy given by law, a court of equity has inherent jurisdiction to enjoin a carrier from collecting rates other than those prescribed by the legislature or regulatory commission,[20] and in a proper case may and should issue a preliminary injunction to compel the carrier to charge the prescribed rate until the determination of the suit.[21] An information in the nature of a 11. U.S.—Updike Grain Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Neb., 35 F.2d 486—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 25 F.2d 66.

12. Utah—Gunnison Sugar Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Utah, 256 P. 790, 69 Utah 521.

As to rate on sugar

Freight tariff was held to quote sugar rates in cents per hundred pounds, not per ton, as indicated at top of sheet containing last of stone schedule since rates in cents per ton would be absurdly unreasonable while such rates in hundred pounds would be appropriate and reasonable.—Gunnison Sugar Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Utah, 256 P. 790, 69 Utah 521.

13. Kan.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Young, 171 P. 1156, 102 Kan. 875.

14. U.S.—W. P. Brown & Sons Lumber Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 57 S.Ct. 265, 299 U.S. 393, 81 L.Ed. 301, affirming, C.C.A., 82 F.2d 94, affirming, D.C., 7 F.Supp. 593, certiorari granted 57 S.Ct. 14, 299 U.S. 524, 81 L.Ed. 385—Southern Ry. Co. v. Eichler, C.C.A.Mo., 56 F.2d 1010—Hohenberg v. Louisville & N. R. Co., C.C.A.Ala., 46 F.2d 952, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 6, 284 U.S. 617, 76 L.Ed. 527—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 25 F.2d 66—Davis v. Prairie Pipe Line Co., C.C.A.Kan., 298 F. 393.

Fla.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Speed-Parker, Inc., 137 So. 724, 103 Fla. 439.

15. U.S.—Davis v. Prairie Pipe Line Co., C.C.A.Kan., 298 F. 393.

16. Mich.—Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Mount Clemens Sugar Co., 269 N.W. 208, 277 Mich. 366.

Engine hire agreement

Whether the services contemplated in an engine hire agreement are identical with those covered by the controlling tariffs is a question of specific fact, not a mere matter of resemblance—Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Mount Clemens Sugar Co., 269 N.W. 208, 277 Mich. 366.

17. U.S.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. J. F. Hasty & Sons, Ark., 41 S.Ct. 269, 255 U.S. 252, 65 L.Ed. 614.

18. Wash.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Sauk River Lumber Co., 295 P. 926, 160 Wash. 691.

"Board measure"

(1) Meaning of words "board measure" in railroad's tariff was primarily for department of public works to determine, where not defined in tariff—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Sauk River Lumber Co., 295 P. 926, 160 Wash. 691.

(2) Such department's action in applying scaling bureau's construction of "board measure" was not arbitrary or capricious—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Sauk River Lumber Co., supra.

19. Wash.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Frye, 143 P. 163, 82 Wash. 9.

20. U.S.—People of Porto Rico v. American R. Co. of Porto Rico, C.C.A.Porto Rico, 254 F. 369, 165 C.C.A. 589, certiorari denied American R. Co. of Porto Rico v. People of Porto Rico, 39 S.Ct. 259, 249 U.S. 600, 63 L.Ed. 796

N.D.—State v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 179 N.W. 378, 46 N.D. 313.

10 C.J. p 433 note 46

Mandamus to enforce compliance by carrier with prescribed rate see C.J.S. title Mandamus § 231, also 10 C.J. p 433 note 56—p 434 note 61.

21. Md.—Towers v. Kensington Ry. Co. of Montgomery County, 102 A. 1011, 131 Md. 649.

Temporary injunction held proper

(1) In transit commission's proceeding against railroad under statute providing that subsidiary domestic railroad shall not charge rate within city exceeding rate charged by parent foreign corporation for similar service to adjacent state, granting of temporary injunction held proper exercise of discretion, in view of benefits enjoyed by defendant railroad for sixteen years under rates fixed by interstate commerce commission greater than those fixed by state statute.—Transit Commission v. Long Island R. Co., 288 N.Y.S. 938, 248 App.Div. 749, affirmed 3 N.E.2d 622, 272 N.Y. 27.

(2) Because of the many small sums which may be collected, rendering restitution practically impossible, injunction pendente lite should issue in suit by the state to enjoin express companies, as unauthorized, quo warranto against a railroad persistently charging, and threatening to charge in the future, rates in excess of the maximum fixed by the legislature affords no adequate remedy.[22] Such action may be maintained by the state[23] or by the state regulatory commission;[24] and, although in some states, an injunction will not lie on the suit of a shipper to compel a carrier to transport goods at the rate fixed by law,[25] in others, suits by shippers to restrain a carrier from charging and collecting any other than the prescribed rate have been maintained.[26] This right is not affected by the failure of the state, for a number of years, to institute proceedings to prevent the charging of rates in excess of those fixed by statute;[27] nor can its delay in instituting proceedings be construed as an acquiescence in the acts of the carrier in charging excessive rates, and as a waiver of its right to enforce compliance with the statute.[28] In such a proceeding the carrier can defend on the ground that the prescribed rates are not compensatory for the service rendered.[29] The court will start with the presumption that the statute is a valid and constitutional exercise of the legislative power;[30] and if the carrier makes the defense that the statute is unconstitutional, as prescribing rates which are unreasonable or confiscatory, the burden of proof is on it to show this fact by a clear preponderance of the evidence;[31] and it must make a full, fair, and complete disclosure of all the facts to enable the court to determine whether or not the rates are unreasonable.[32] In a proceeding by information before the commission because of violation by a railroad company of an order of the commission as to switching charges, the carrier will be permitted to introduce evidence to controvert the reasonableness of the regulations sought to be enforced.[33] In such a proceeding an answer will be construed reasonably and in the light of the complaint with reference to which it was drawn.[34] The fact that the bill does not show specific injury to the public will not prevent the granting of an injunction; it is sufficient that the facts alleged satisfy the court that defendant's disobedience of the law may be productive of public injury.[35]

Notice of hearing. Where a railroad company has had ample opportunity to be heard on an amendment to a rule of the railroad commissioners, it cannot complain, in a proceeding against it to en-from putting in effect higher rates, the complaint stating a cause of action.—State v. American Ry. Express Co., 170 N.W. 570, 41 S.D. 337.

22. N.H.—State v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 74 A. 542, 75 N.H. 327, 340.
10 C.J. p 433 note 47.

23. N.Y.—People v. Long Island R. R., 185 N.Y.S. 594, 113 Misc. 700, reversed on other grounds 186 N.Y.S. 589, 195 App.Div. 897.
10 C.J. p 433 note 48.

Institution of proceeding by attorney general

Under Const.1846 art 5 § 1, and Executive L. § 62, the attorney general was empowered to bring an action in the name of the people of the state to enjoin railroads from charging unlawful rates.—People v. Long Island R. R., 185 N.Y.S. 594, 113 Misc. Rep. 700, reversed on other grounds 186 N.Y.S. 589, 195 App.Div. 897.

24. Ind.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Indiana, 186 N.E. 330, 205 Ind. 253, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 123, 290 U.S. 688, 78 L.Ed. 592.

25. N.J.—Rogers Locomotive, etc., Works v. Erie R. Co., 20 N.J.Eq. 379.

26. U.S.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Schnull, 41 S.Ct. 324, 255 U.S. 113, 65 L.Ed. 539, reversing 122 N.E. 225, 188 Ind. 87, conformed to 130 N.E. 865, 190 Ind. 698.

27. N.H.—State v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 74 A. 542, 75 N.H. 327.
10 C.J. p 433 note 49.

28. N.H.—State v. Boston, etc., R. Co., supra.
10 C.J. p 433 note 50.

29. U.S.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Schnull, 41 S.Ct. 324, 255 U.S. 113, 65 L.Ed. 539, reversing 122 N.E. 225, 188 Ind. 87, conformed to 130 N.E. 865, 190 Ind. 698.

Failure to appeal from commission's order immaterial

Such defense is not prevented by the fact that the carrier had not appealed from the order of the commission as authorized by the state law, especially where the contention was first made in the United States supreme court on writ of error to the state court.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Schnull, 41 S.Ct. 324, 255 U.S. 113, 65 L.Ed. 539, reversing 122 N.E. 225, 188 Ind. 87, conformed to 130 N.E. 865, 190 Ind. 698.

30. Neb.—State v. Adams Express Co., 122 N.W. 691, 85 Neb. 25, 42 L.R.A.,N.S., 396.

31. Neb.—State v. Adams Express Co., supra.

Evidence held to show intra-state rate applicable

Evidence held to support finding that transportation of coal, purchased by railroad, from mine to point of interchange between buyer railroad and transporting railroad, where coal was diverted for consumption, constituted movement in "intra-state commerce," and therefore intra-state rate rather than interstate rate was controlling.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Indiana, 186 N.E. 330, 205 Ind. 253, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 123, 290 U.S. 688, 78 L.Ed. 592.

32. Neb.—State v. Adams Express Co., 122 N.W. 691, 85 Neb. 25, 42 L.R.A.,N.S., 396.

33. Okl.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. State, 109 P. 218, 26 Okl. 166.

34. U.S.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Schnull, 41 S.Ct. 324, 255 U.S. 113, 65 L.Ed. 539, reversing 122 N.E. 225, 188 Ind. 87, conformed to 130 N.E. 865, 190 Ind. 698.

Answer held not demurrable

In a suit by shippers to restrain a carrier from charging more than specified rates fixed by a state commission, an answer alleging that the rates so fixed were not compensatory was not demurrable for failing to allege that the cost of service referred to therein was the cost of service between the particular stations to which the rates apply, since the answer manifestly related to the rates and service referred to in the complaint, and was so regarded by the state supreme court, whose judgment was under review.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Schnull, 41 S.Ct. 324, 255 U.S. 113, 65 L.Ed. 539, reversing 122 N.E. 225, 188 Ind. 87, conformed to 130 N.E. 865, 190 Ind. 698.

35. Wis.—Atty-Gen. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 35 Wis. 425.

force observance of the rule, that the notice of hearing did not strictly comply with the statute.[36]

§ 305. Proceedings by Carrier for Relief against Unreasonable Rates

If prescribed rates are unreasonable a carrier cannot for that reason refuse to give service, but its remedy is to apply to the regulatory commission or the courts for relief, a remedy to which it is entitled even though it has put the rates into effect. The carrier must base its case on the unreasonableness of the rate as to itself, not as to others. A minority stockholder may, on a proper showing, bring a proceeding to secure a revision of rates.

If the rates fixed by a regulatory commission are unreasonable or confiscatory the carriers cannot retire from business, but their remedy lies in appeal to the commission and the courts for relief against the rates so established.[37] They may contest rates fixed by a state regulatory commission, if found to be confiscatory;[38] and this right is not impaired by their action in putting the rates into effect.[39] The question whether rates for transportation fixed by a state constitution, statute, or a railroad commission are so unreasonably low as to deprive the carrier of just compensation is a subject of judicial inquiry in a court of competent jurisdiction[40] which, as is shown supra § 284, is the final judge of what is reasonable, of what impairs the right of a corporation to reasonable compensation, or of what amounts to confiscation. A carrier must base its attack on prescribed rates on the ground that they are unreasonable or confiscatory as to it, and cannot avail itself of any grievance which other carriers may have because of such rates.[41] A carrier cannot recover on a quantum meruit basis for services performed for another carrier in intrastate commerce where the question as to the right to charge for such services and the amount therefor is pending before a state regulatory commission.[42]

In a shipper's action to enforce an award based on a prescribed rate, a carrier cannot assail as confiscatory such rate, but can do so only by an action for that purpose, as by a suit in equity, in a court having jurisdiction, which can for once and for all determine its validity.[43]

Proceedings by stockholder. A minority stockholder of a carrier may file a complaint with a state regulatory commission, and, on a proper showing, secure a revision of rates.[44]

§ 306. Injunction

a. Right to injunction
b. Jurisdiction
c. Suspension of rate or penalty pending suit
d. Defenses
e. Parties
f. Pleading and evidence
g. Decree

a. Right to Injunction

(1) In general
(2) Preliminary injunctions

(1) In General

On a bill filed by a carrier the courts, after ascertaining the facts, may enjoin the enforcement of rates which are clearly shown to be unreasonable and confiscatory; but they cannot enjoin the exercise by a regulatory commission of its power to fix rates.

36. Fla.—State v. Florida East Coast R. Co., 68 So. 729, 69 Fla. 480.

37. Colo.—Denver & S. L. R. Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 171 P. 74, 64 Colo. 229.

Increase in rate proper remedy

If the rate in force is not sufficient to compensate railroad company for service of stoppage in transit as to intra-state shipments, remedy is an increase in rate, rather than denial of the service.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Board of Railroad Com'rs, 199 N.W. 453, 47 S.D. 395, error dismissed 46 S.Ct. 485, 271 U.S. 645, 70 L.Ed. 1129.

38. U.S.—Augusta-Aiken Ry. & Electric Corporation v. Railroad Commission of South Carolina, C.C.A. S.C., 281 F. 977.

No estoppel

Under S.C.Civ.Code 1912 §§ 3174, 3175, authorizing the state railroad commission to fix reasonable rates, there is no contract between a railroad company and the state respecting rates so fixed which estops the company from contesting the reasonableness or asserting the confiscatory character of such rates.—Augusta-Aiken Ry. & Electric Corporation v. Railroad Commission of South Carolina, C.C.A.S.C., 281 F. 977.

39. U.S.—Allen v. St. Louis Southwestern R. Co., Ark., 33 S.Ct. 1030, 230 U.S. 553, 57 L.Ed. 1625.
Ind.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Blind, 105 N.E. 483, 182 Ind. 398.

40. U.S.—Montana, W. & S. R. Co. v. Morley, D.C.Mont., 198 F. 991.
10 C.J. p. 434 note 63.

41. Or.—Valley & Siletz R. Co. v. Thomas, 48 P.2d 358, 151 Or. 80.

42. Pa.—Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co. v. South Shore R. Co., 107 A. 680, 264 Pa. 162.

Switching services

If a railroad, operating only as a switching facility at a plant, has applied to a state public service commission to annul cancellation of an agreement as to compensation for the switching services by the line carrier and for the allowance of a fair compensation for such services in intra-state commerce, which application was pending at trial of action involving the charges, the switching company could not recover as to claims which may be disallowed by the commission.—Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co. v. South Shore R. Co., 107 A. 680, 264 Pa. 162.

43. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Greenbrier Distillery Co., 187 S.W. 296, 170 Ky. 775.

44. Joint rates

Minority stockholder of railroad may file complaint with state commission, and on proper showing secure revision of joint intra-state rates and divisions thereof.—Backus-Brooks Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 21 F.2d 4, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 120, 275 U.S. 562, 72 L.Ed. 427.

On a bill filed by a carrier the courts will enjoin the enforcement of rates which are clearly shown to be unreasonable in their operation against the carrier and of a confiscatory nature.[45] Nevertheless, courts have no power to enjoin the exercise by a board of commissioners of its power to fix rates; it is only when rates have been fixed that the court has power to review them.[46] However, when rates, either tentative or final, have been put in force and are maintained in actual operation under penalty of fines, the carrier is entitled to an injunction against their continuance, if shown to be confiscatory;[47] and it has been held that, where commissioners have advertised that a schedule prepared by them will be put in force on a day named, this will be sufficient to give a court of equity jurisdiction, on the application of a carrier before the expiration of the time to restrain the enforcement of the schedule.[48] In a proceeding in the federal court by a carrier to restrain the enforcement of an order made on application of a shipper by a state regulatory commission which canceled a prior order amending a tariff, which cancellation order was affirmed on appeal to the courts, if the state regulatory commission had jurisdiction to control the making or changing of the tariff, the procedure whereby it made the cancellation order and the appeal to the courts constituted the administrative action prerequisite to judicial action, so as to present a justiciable question to the federal court.[49]

When asked to enjoin the enforcement of rates as being unreasonable and confiscatory, the court must ascertain the facts on which the reasonableness of the rates depends,[50] it being of the utmost importance that the facts shall be clearly and accurately found.[51] In proceedings of this nature, the general rule, considered supra § 299, as to the burden of proof where a rate is attacked and the presumption of validity of a rate established or approved by act of the legislature or regulatory commission, applies so that the court starts with the presumption that the act of the legislature or of the regulatory commission is valid, and the burden of proving the contrary rests on the carrier,[52] especially where the rates complained of were adopted at the special request of the carrier and other railroad companies.[53] To authorize the issuance of an injunction it is essential that it be clearly shown that the rates are unreasonable and in violation of the carrier's constitutional rights;[54] and, as appears infra § 306, this is especially true in respect of injunctions before final hearing. The jurisdiction of the court should not be exercised except in a case reasonably free from doubt.[55] If there is room for a difference of intelligent opinion as to whether rates complained of will be remunerative, the courts should not interfere, but the reasonableness of the rates should be left to the test of experiment.[56] Where, by statute, the railroad commission is empowered to grant a rehearing in any case in which it has made a final order, or to modify any final order made by it, such statute must be construed as giving the commission unlimited power to effect or to modify any order, and to correct its own errors, and the court will not grant relief in the first instance where relief is within the power of the commission to give on proper application therefor.[57]

45. U.S.—Philadelphia & R. R. Co. v. U. S., Pa., 36 S.Ct. 354, 240 U.S. 334, 60 L.Ed. 675.
10 C.J. p 434 note 65.

46. U.S.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Winnett, Eighth Circuit, 162 F. 242, 89 C.C.A. 222.
10 C.J. p 435 note 66.

47. U.S.—Love v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., Okl., 185 F. 321, 327, 107 C.C.A. 403, affirming 174 F. 59, 177 F. 493.
10 C.J. p 435 note 67.

48. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Dey, C.C.Iowa, 35 F. 866, 1 L.R.A. 744.

49. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. R. Corporation in Nebraska v. Nebraska State Ry. Commission, C.C.A.Neb., 65 F.2d 557, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 72, 290 U.S. 656, 78 L.Ed. 568

50. U.S.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Alabama, C.C.Ala. 155 F. 792

51. U.S.—Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. v. Tompkins, S.D., 20 S.Ct. 336, 176 U.S. 167, 44 L.Ed. 417.

52. U.S.—Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. v. Tompkins, S.D., 20 S.Ct. 336, 176 U.S. 167, 44 L.Ed. 417.
Mich.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Wayne Cir. Judge, 120 N.W. 1073, 156 Mich. 459

53. U.S.—Bush v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., D.C.La., 290 F. 1008

54. U.S.—Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. v. Tompkins, S.D., 20 S.Ct. 336, 176 U.S. 167, 44 L.Ed. 417.
10 C.J. p 435 note 72.

55. U.S.—Ex p. Young, Minn., 28 S.Ct. 441, 209 U.S. 123, 52 L.Ed. 714, 13 L.R.A.,N.S., 932, 14 Ann.Cas. 764
10 C.J. p 435 note 74.

56. U.S.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Dey, C.C.Iowa, 38 F. 656.
10 C.J. p 435 note 75.

57. Ind.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State R. Commn., 95 N.E. 364, 175 Ind. 630.

Petition for rehearing condition precedent to jurisdiction

Where the statute provides that the filing of a petition for rehearing within twenty days after the entry of a final order by the regulatory commission is a condition precedent to a court's acquiring jurisdiction to review such order, a railroad not petitioning for rehearing within twenty days cannot have order fixing freight rates set aside and enforcement enjoined.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Public Service Commission of Indiana, 177 N.E. 260, 202 Ind. 618.

Probable delay in action by commission immaterial

Under a statute providing that the orders of the regulatory commission shall take effect not more than thirty days after entry thereof, unless suspended or modified by the commission, impliedly authorizes the commission to suspend the taking effect of any order pending a petition for rehearing or a modification thereof, so that a party aggrieved by an order

(2) Preliminary Injunctions

In accordance with the rules governing the granting of preliminary injunctions generally, the granting or refusal of a preliminary injunction against the enforcement of a rate or an order relating thereto rests in the sound discretion of the court. It will ordinarily be granted only where a reasonably clear showing is made that the rate attacked is unreasonable and will be invalidated on final hearing, and the failure to grant will cause irreparable injury.

Conformably to the rule applicable to preliminary injunctions generally, considered in the C.J.S. title Injunctions § 14, also 32 C.J. p 31 note 17, the granting or refusal of a preliminary injunction against the enforcement of rates or an order relating thereto rests in the sound discretion of the court.[58] Such an injunction may not be granted for merely the asking, but there must be at least a prima facie showing to the court that complainant has a right to the final relief asked.[59] It must be shown clearly that the rates are unreasonable and in violation of the carrier's constitutional rights.[60] A preliminary injunction against the enforcement of rates already in effect will be denied where the rate attacked is not violative of either the federal or state constitution and there is no conclusive proof offered that it is unreasonable,[61] or where complainant fails to introduce evidence to show that the order of the commission establishing the rate attacked was either arbitrary, unjust, unreasonable, or illegal, or which would overthrow the presumption of reasonableness which exists in favor of the action of the commission,[62] or where the alleged confiscatory rates have not gone into effect, and it is probable that a practical test will be required for the purpose of determining whether they are in fact confiscatory;[63] and where this state of facts exists the fact that bonds have been given by complainants to protect the interests of shippers will constitute no ground for granting the injunction in case the bonds do not afford adequate protection.[64] Where it is claimed on reasonable grounds and in good faith that the rates attacked are not confiscatory, the court should not destroy the status quo by issuing a preliminary injunction against the enforcement of rates already in force.[65] The fact that the penalty for violation of the orders of a regulatory commission fixing rates may be excessive or exorbitant affords no ground for a preliminary injunction, since such penalties are separable from the order of the commission, and it is not necessary for the court to pass judgment on the penalty provisions in advance of any attempt to enforce them.[66] However, where the rates fixed by a regulatory commission are subject to grave and serious doubt, an interlocutory injunction may be granted pending a judicial determination of the reasonableness of the rate.[67] Also, where the rates attacked are apparently so flagrantly unjust and so in conflict with experience and common knowledge as to what is right as to appear unfair and probably confiscatory on their face, a preliminary injunction may be granted in advance of an actual test to determine their reasonableness;[68] and in accordance with the principle that courts of equity may by a preliminary injunction effect a change in the status quo, if it is necessary to do so to avoid an irreparable injury from a continuing wrong, a preliminary injunction may be granted to restrain the further enforcement of rates established by a commission, and may be continued in force for a sufficient length of time to show that they are unreasonable and confiscatory.[69] Also, where a state of facts appears which shows a reasonable probability that the rates may be adjudged invalid on of the commission cannot resort to the courts merely on the ground that a petition for rehearing will not probably be acted on by the commission before the time fixed by the statute for the taking effect of the order unless suspended by the commission—Chicago, etc., R Co v. State R. Commn, 95 N.E 364, 175 Ind 630

58. U.S.—Trenton & Mercer County Traction Corp. v. Board of Public Utility Com'rs of New Jersey, N. J, 229 F 140, 143 C.C.A. 416.
10 C.J. p 435 note 77.

59. Ind.—Public Service Commission of Indiana v. Baltimore & O R Co., 169 N E. 530, 202 Ind 449, rehearing denied 176 N.E. 551, 202 Ind. 449.

60. U S—Winthrop v. Fellows, D.C. Mich., 230 F. 702.

61. U.S—Bush v. Texas & P. Ry Co, D C La, 290 F. 1008.

62. Ind.—Public Service Commission of Indiana v. Baltimore & O. R Co, 169 N E. 530, 202 Ind 449, rehearing denied 176 N.E. 551, 202 Ind 449.

63. U.S—Alabama R. Commn v Central of Georgia R Co., Ala, 170 F 225, 95 C.C.A. 117, reversing 161 F. 925
10 C.J. p 436 note 80.

64. U S—Alabama R. Commn v. Central of Georgia R Co, supra.

65. U S—Perkins v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co, C.C.Minn., 155 F 445.

In stockholders' suit

Where rates of charge by railroad companies for the intra-state carriage of commodities and passengers have been fixed by the state, and such rates have been accepted and put into operation by the railroad companies, a preliminary injunction will not be granted at suit of stockholders of such companies to restrain further enforcement of such rates by the state or obedience thereto by the companies, the legitimate purpose of such an injunction, except in cases of fraud, being to preserve the status quo pending a final hearing on the merits.—Perkins v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., C C.Minn., 155 F. 445

66. U.S.—Bush v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., D C.La., 290 F. 1008.

67. U.S.—Atchison, T. & S F R. Co. v Interstate Commerce Commn., C. C Kan., 182 F. 189.

68. U.S—Perkins v. Northern Pac. Ry Co., C.C Minn, 155 F. 445.
10 C.J. p 435 note 79.

69. U.S.—In re Arkansas R. Rates, C C.Ark., 163 F. 141.
10 C.J. p 435 note 78.

final hearing, and a prima facie case of irreparable injury is made out if the rates be not suspended, while the interests of the public can be protected by exacting bonds to refund the amount of any excess rate if complainants lose in the suit a preliminary injunction may be issued against the enforcement of rates fixed by statute.[70]

Pending appeal. Where the railroad company will lose but little if the rates are enforced pending appeal, the trial court will not restrain the enforcement of the order fixing the rates, but will leave that matter to the supreme court.[71]

It is not a violation of a temporary injunction against putting in force a schedule of rates, on the ground that they were unreasonably low, for the commissioners to make another schedule after investigating a complaint filed against rates charged by a railroad company, although the purpose of those making the complaint was to evade the injunction, and their conduct in attempting to procure a favorable decision on the complaint was improper, as the duty of the commissioners under the statute was to hear the complaint and to establish proper rates.[72]

b. Jurisdiction

State and federal courts have jurisdiction to enjoin the enforcement of rates found to be confiscatory, and to enjoin prosecuting officers from taking action to enforce rates pending the determination of their validity by the court.

State courts in the exercise of their equity powers have jurisdiction to enjoin freight rates promulgated by boards of state railroad commissioners if found to be confiscatory;[73] and the federal courts also have jurisdiction of a suit to enjoin the enforcement of a state statute or of an order by a state railroad commission regulating rates on the ground that the rates are confiscatory,[74] notwithstanding an objection that a court of equity cannot enjoin criminal prosecutions.[75]

Injunction against arrests and in aid of jurisdiction. A federal court of equity which has acquired jurisdiction of a suit to enjoin the enforcement of a state statute fixing railroad rates on domestic shipments, and has not only granted a preliminary injunction but has also, under authority given by the statute itself, suspended its operation pending a final hearing, has power, on the filing of an amended bill, also to enjoin the county solicitors and sheriffs from taking threatened action under such suspended statute either by civil or criminal proceedings against employees of a railroad company, the effect of which would be to interfere with the operation of its road and to obstruct both local and interstate commerce, and by which irreparable injury would be caused to complainant.[76]

c. Suspension of Rate or Penalty pending Suit

Penalties for violation of prescribed rates, but not the rates themselves, are suspended pending an injunction suit testing the validity of the rate.

During the pendency of an injunction suit testing the validity of a statute prescribing rates for carriers, the rates are not suspended while enforcement of the rates is enjoined by the court, but penalties for violation of the rates are suspended during the pendency of such suit.[77]

d. Defenses

It is not a defense to a suit to enjoin an unreasonable rate that the carrier may cease to do business when it becomes unprofitable, or that it can make up its losses through its other business, or that the carrier has acquiesced in the rates or delayed in seeking relief against them, or that the reduced rates may increase the volume of business to such an extent as to make the rate profitable.

It is not a defense to a proceeding to restrain the enforcement of an unreasonable rate that plaintiff is a foreign corporation doing business in the state only as a matter of grace, and may retire when the business ceases to be profitable,[78] or that it operates through other states where no rates are fixed, which will enable it to make a profit;[79] nor is it any reason to deny relief by injunction against rates claimed to be unreasonable that the carrier put into effect for a time the rates complained of, to save itself the imposition of drastic penalties to which it would otherwise be liable.[80] Compliance

70. U.S.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Alabama, C.C.Ala., 155 F. 792.

71. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Kentucky R. Commn., D.C.Ky., 214 F. 465, affirmed 35 S.Ct. 146, 235 U.S. 601, 59 L.Ed. 379.

72. U.S.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Dey, C.C.Iowa, 38 F. 656

73. U.S.—Ex p. Young, Minn., 28 S.Ct. 441, 209 U.S. 123, 52 L.Ed. 714, 13 L.R.A.,N.S., 932, 14 Ann.Cas. 764 and note.

Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. State R. Commn., 113 S.W. 741, 116 S.W. 795, 102 Tex. 338.

74. U.S.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. McLendon, C.C.Ga., 157 F. 961—Perkins v. Northern Pac. R. Co., C.C.Minn., 155 F. 445

75. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. California R. Comrs., C.C.Cal., 78 F. 236
10 C.J. p. 436 note 86

76. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Alabama R. Commn., C.C.Ala., 157 F. 944
10 C.J. p. 436 note 87.

77. Mo.—White v. Delano, 191 S.W. 1012, 270 Mo. 16.

78. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Dey, C.C.Iowa, 35 F. 866, 1 L.R.A. 744.
10 C.J. p. 436 note 88.

79. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Dey, supra.

80. U.S.—Love v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., Okl., 185 F. 321, 107 C.

with an order establishing rates for a period as long as five years will not estop the carrier from thereafter bringing suit to enjoin the enforcement of such rates as noncompensatory, where it is clearly shown that conditions are so changed by the increase of operating expense or otherwise that the net earnings on their entire intra-state business have ceased to be compensatory.[81] A suit by a carrier to restrain the enforcement of rates established by a regulatory commission is not barred by laches based on a statute of limitations providing that such suit shall be brought within a specified time after the order complained of is issued and becomes effective, since the orders, if in fact violative of the constitution as a taking of property without due process of law, constitute a continuous taking and plaintiff's remedy cannot be lost by delay in seeking relief;[82] nor is it a defense that the reduced rates may increase the volume of business and make it more remunerative than at present, as the court must determine rates on existing facts.[83]

e. Parties

The carrier, its stockholders or mortgage bondholders, or other parties having a proper interest, are proper parties to file a bill to enjoin the enforcement of rates, which bill may be brought against the members of a regulatory commission or other state officers having the duty of securing the enforcement of the rates attacked, who represent the shippers and other interested parties, although they may also be joined in the suit.

The carrier, its stockholders, its mortgage bondholders, or any other person or corporation having the proper interest is a proper party to file a bill in equity to enjoin the enforcement of rates.[84] Shippers of articles affected by the rates, the enforcement of which the carrier seeks to enjoin, can properly be joined as defendants as representatives of their class, on an allegation that unless enjoined they will attempt to enforce such rates.[85] Where, by the provisions of statutes fixing rates, the members of the railroad commission as well as the attorney general are charged with the duty of securing the enforcement of the statutes, they are the proper parties to a proceeding to enjoin the enforcement of the rates so fixed.[86] However, where the relation of the attorney general of a state to a state railroad commission and the enforcement of its orders is simply that of his general official relation as the principal law officer of the state, he is not a necessary or a proper party to a suit to enjoin the enforcement of an order made by the commission.[87] A shipper, although not made a party to proceedings by a carrier against a regulatory commission to enjoin the enforcement of rates fixed by the commission in which a preliminary injunction, with bond by the carrier, is issued, is entitled, where final decision is against the carrier, to come in by intervention in a reference before a master to determine damages and obtain restitution for overcharges during the continuance of the injunction, being the difference between what he paid and what he would have paid if the rates fixed by the commission had been charged.[88]

f. Pleading and Evidence

In a suit to enjoin rates the complaint should state clearly every fact which shows the unreasonableness or confiscatory nature of the rates attacked. Ordinarily, however, the suit will not be disposed of on demurrer. A preponderance of the evidence is sufficient to make out the carrier's case.

A complaint which seeks to enjoin rates as being unreasonable and confiscatory should state facts which show that the rates do not afford a fair return on the value of complainant's property.[89] For this purpose, every fact which would have a tendency to enable the court to arrive at the fair value of complainant's property devoted to the service to which the rates are applicable,[90] and the cost

C.A. 403, certiorari denied 31 S.Ct. 721, 220 U.S. 618, 55 L.Ed. 612
10 C.J. p 436 note 90.

81. U.S.—Arkansas Rate Cases, C.C. Ark., 187 F. 290, reversed on other grounds but approved on this 33 S.Ct. 1030, 230 U.S. 553, 57 L.Ed. 1625

82. U.S.—Bush v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., D.C.La., 290 F. 1008.

83. U.S.—Chicago & N.W. R. Co. v. Dey, C.C.Iowa, 35 F. 866, 1 L.R.A. 744.

84. U.S.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Winnett, Eighth Circuit, 162 F. 242, 89 C.C.A. 222.

Federal government as intervener

The Thurman Act of May 7, 1878, 20 U.S.St. at L. p. 59, U.S.Comp.St. 1901 p. 3570, giving to the United States government a substantial interest in the revenues of the Union and Central Pacific Railroad companies because of aid given by the government in the construction of the roads, authorizes an intervention by the government, in a proceeding involving the validity of an order made by state railroad commissioners reducing the rates chargeable by one of such companies.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Board of Railroad Com'rs, C.C.Cal., 71 F. 437.

85. U.S.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Lee, D.C.Wash., 199 F. 621.
10 C.J. p 437 note 93.

86. U.S.—Southern R. Co. v. McNeil, C.C.N.C., 155 F. 756.

87. U.S.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. McLendon, C.C.Ga., 157 F. 961.

88. U.S.—Arkadelphia Milling Co. v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., 39 S.Ct. 237, 249 U.S. 134, 63 L.Ed. 517, motion denied 39 S.Ct. 387.

Commission representative of shippers

The regulatory commission in defending the rates against the attack of the carrier represents all the shippers.—Arkadelphia Milling Co. v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., Ark., 39 S.Ct. 237, 249 U.S. 134, 63 L.Ed. 517, motion denied 39 S.Ct. 387.

89. Tex.—Houston Electric Co. v. City of Houston, Tex.Civ.App., 212 S.W. 198, error granted.
10 C.J. p 437 note 96.

90. U.S.—Houston & T.C.R. Co. v. Storey, C.C.Tex., 149 F. 499.
10 C.J. p 437 note 97.

of such service, should be alleged, as, in the absence of such data, it is impossible for the court to say whether the rates fixed are unreasonably low or not.[91] Where several orders are made reducing rates, a bill alleging that the effect of such orders is to take complainant's property without just compensation is not demurrable because it does not allege that each order taken by itself is confiscatory.[92]

For the purposes of a ruling on a motion for a temporary injunction, the allegations of the complaint are not to be taken as true;[93] and even if the complaint should be considered as a part of the evidence and taken as true, it would be insufficient to authorize a temporary injunction where it merely alleges the conclusion of the pleader that the rates attacked are unreasonable without alleging any facts from which the court could draw that conclusion.[94]

Demurrer. A suit to enjoin the enforcement of railroad rates established by a state commission is of such general importance and so far independent of the particular facts which may be developed by the proofs that it will not be disposed of on demurrer, unless the bill is clearly insufficient.[95] Allegations in a bill that the rate fixed by the commission is unreasonable, and that, if enforced, it will result in a large loss of revenue to complainant, are not in general to be considered as admitted by demurrer.[96] However, where defendant first filed answers tendering issue on the matters of fact, and testimony was taken, after which the answers were withdrawn and demurrers filed, it must be assumed that, on the taking of testimony, defendants became satisfied that the particular facts were as stated in the bill, and that the conclusions to be drawn from such facts could not be overthrown by any other matters.[97]

Evidence. A preponderance of the evidence, as in other civil cases, is sufficient to make out the carrier's case against the enforcement of rates.[98]

g. Decree

A decree enjoining the enforcement of a prescribed rate should permit defendant to obtain its vacation if altered circumstances render the rate reasonable. Provisions in a preliminary injunction order not carried forward into the final decree are not thereafter in force. The final decree need not expressly declare the conditions in a preliminary injunction bond violated where it in effect shows it.

In a suit to enjoin the enforcement of a prescribed rate as confiscatory, the decree should be without prejudice to the right to proceed in the future if altered circumstances render the rate upheld confiscatory or the rate enjoined no longer confiscatory.[99] Where in a suit to enjoin the enforcement of rates fixed by statute, a requirement in an order for temporary injunction for the carrier's preservation of waybills, pending the further hearing and determination of the case, is not carried forward in the final decree in favor of the carrier, the carrier's destruction of waybills after entry of the final decree is not a violation of any court order.[1] The condition of a bond given by a carrier on obtaining a preliminary injunction in a suit to enjoin rates prescribed by a regulatory commission, that the carrier should make refund if it should eventually be decided that the order inhibiting the enforcement of the commission rates should not have been made, does not require an express adjudication that the preliminary injunction should not have been made, but it is enough that the carrier fails to sustain its burden to show that the commission's rates are inadequate, since by such failure it shows that the injunction ought not to have been allowed.[2]

§ 307. Appeal from Order of Commission Fixing Rates

Under appropriate statutory provisions the carrier

91. U.S.—Oregon, R., etc., Co. v. Campbell, C.C.Or., 173 F. 957, affirmed 33 S.Ct. 1026, 230 U.S. 525, 57 L.Ed. 1604.

92. U.S.—Love v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R Co., Okl., 185 F. 321, 107 C.C.A. 403, certiorari denied 31 S.Ct. 721, 220 U.S. 618, 55 L.Ed. 612.
10 C.J. p 437 note 99.

93. Ind.—Public Service Commission of Indiana v. Baltimore & O. R Co., 169 N.E. 530, 202 Ind. 449, rehearing denied 176 N.E. 551, 202 Ind. 449.

94. Ind.—Public Service Commission of Indiana v. Baltimore & O. R Co, supra.

95. U.S.—Houston & T. C R. Co. v. Storey, C.C.Tex., 149 F. 499.

96. U.S.—Central of Georgia R Co. v. McLendon, C.C.Ga., 157 F. 961
10 C.J. p 437 note 2.

97. U.S.—Reagan v. Farmers' L & T. Co., Tex., 14 S.Ct. 1047, 154 U.S. 362, 38 L.Ed. 1014.

98. U.S.—Western R. Co. v. Alabama R. Commn, D.C.Ala., 197 F 954.
10 C.J. p 438 note 4.

Evidence held to show rate confiscatory
U.S.—Texas & N. O R. Co. v. Louisiana Public Service Commission, D.C.La., 2 F.Supp. 622.

99. U.S.—Darnell v. Edwards, Miss, 37 S.Ct. 701, 244 U.S. 564, 61 L.Ed. 1317.
10 C.J. p 438 note 6.

1. U.S.—Berthold-Jennings Lumber Co v St. Louis, I. M & S Ry. Co, C.C.A.Mo, 80 F.2d 32, 102 A.L.R. 688, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 591, 297 U.S. 715, 80 L.Ed. 1001.

2. U.S.—Arkadelphia Milling Co v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co, Ark., 39 S.Ct 237, 249 U.S. 134, 63 L.Ed. 517, motion denied 39 S.Ct. 387.

may have a remedy to review the order of a regulatory commission.

In a proceeding by a carrier to review an order of a state regulatory commission requiring it to charge intra-state rates on freight shipments instead of interstate rates which it claims to be proper, the rights of the parties depend on the status of their dealings which existed when the complaint was filed, and not on subsequent conditions or shipments.[3] On a writ to review an order of a regulatory commission requiring a carrier to file a schedule of rates, objections based on apprehension of results which may follow future action taken by the commission are immaterial and need not be considered, since the question presented is one as to the power of the commission, not as to its policy.[4] A statute authorizing any person affected by any order of the commission to apply for a writ of review applies to a carrier affected by an order of reparation, and the carrier need not wait to urge its contentions until the shipper brings suit to recover the amount awarded by the order of the commission when the findings and order of the commission will be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated.[5] A carrier's failure to appeal from the decision of a state regulatory commission holding lower rates proper is not a waiver of the right to resist in the United States supreme court, under a writ of certiorari, the enforcement of a subsequent order for reparation on the ground that the order of the state commission violated a federal statute prohibiting the reduction of railroad rates within a specified period following the termination of federal control, unless approved by the interstate commerce commission.[6]

Where an order of the commission as to rates is reversed on appeal and the cause remanded for another hearing, the commission has power to order any restitution which the new hearing may develop is due to the carriers who obeyed the original order pending appeal.[7]

§ 308. Action to Set Aside Order of Commission Fixing Rates or Ordering Refund

In a number of states carriers are empowered to maintain an action to set aside an order of the commission fixing rates, and in some, but not all, an order awarding reparation. The petition should state facts, which, if true, would show the rates to be unreasonable as a matter of law. In most states the court merely determines if there is any evidence to support the findings of the commission, although in a few the court hears the case de novo and weighs the evidence.

By the statutes of some states, carriers are empowered to maintain an action to set aside the orders of railroad commissions fixing rates,[8] and, in some of them, an order ordering a refund of excessive charges,[9] although in others, a court of equity does not have jurisdiction to set aside an order of the regulatory commission awarding reparation.[10] On the commencement of such action, the court may suspend the order of the commission during the pendency of the action on the giving of a proper bond by the carrier, the effect of which is merely a temporary suspension of the enforcement of the rate of the commission and not a vacation and nullification of it, so that where the order of the commission is upheld in the action the carrier becomes liable to refund the excess collected above the rate established by the commission.[11]

The petition should allege facts and circumstances which, if true, would authorize the court to adjudge the rates unjust and unreasonable as a matter of law.[12]

3. Mo.—Lusk v. Atkinson, 186 S.W. 703, 268 Mo. 109.

4. Cal.—Producers' Transp. Co. v. Railroad Commission of California, 169 P. 59, 176 Cal. 499, affirmed 40 S.Ct. 131, 251 U.S. 228, 64 L.Ed. 239.

5. Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission of Washington, 173 P 626, 102 Wash. 589.

6. U.S.—New York Cent. R. Co. v New York & Pennsylvania Co, 46 S Ct. 447, 271 U S. 124, 70 L Ed 865, reversing New York & Pennsylvania Co v New York Cent. R Co, 126 A. 382, 281 Pa. 257.

7. Colo.—Denver & S. L. R Co. v. Chicago, B & Q. R. Co., 185 P. 817, 67 Colo. 155

Compliance with order pending appeal immaterial

The fact that carriers appealing from an order of the public utilities commission fixing a division of joint rates complied with such order pending appeal is not a voluntary acceptance of the rates precluding restitution to such carriers, on setting aside of the order, since heavy penalties are provided for refusal to comply with commission's orders—Denver & S. L. R. Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co, 185 P. 817, 67 Colo. 155.

Failure to secure stay immaterial

The fact that carriers securing reversal of an order of the public utilities commission as to rates did not secure a stay of the order pending appeal does not prejudice their right of review by precluding restitution to them for the period the order was in effect.—Denver & S L R Co v Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 185 P 817, 67 Colo. 155

8. Or.—Hammond Lumber Co. v Public Service Commission, 189 P 639, 96 Or. 595, 9 A.L.R. 1223.

Tex.—Producers' Refining Co v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas, Com.App., 13 S W.2d 680, affirming Missouri, K & T. R. Co. of Texas v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App, 3 S W 2d 489.

10 C J. p 438 note 19

9. Wis.—Chicago, etc, R Co v. State R. Commn, 145 N W 216, 974, 156 Wis 47.

10. Or.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McColloch, 55 P 2d 1133.

11. Ohio—Big 4 Coal Co v Hocking Valley Ry Co., 11 Ohio App 88.

12. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R Co. v. Railroad Commn., 113 S W. 741, 116 S. W. 795, 102 Tex. 338.

10 C J p 439 note 24.

Complaint held sufficient

Or.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McColloch, 55 P 2d 1133.

A competing carrier which intervened in proceedings instituted by a regulatory commission to determine the reasonableness of reduced rates filed by a carrier is a proper party to petition the court to annul the order of the commission upholding the reduced rate.[13]

In some states, the function of the court is to review the proceedings of the commission and to ascertain if it has violated any principle of law or gone beyond the scope of its duty in making the order.[14] The only justiciable question is the reasonableness of the rate,[15] and the court will not assume the place of the commission or set its order aside on the court's conception of its wisdom.[16] The burden of proof is on the carrier to show that the rates are unreasonable by clear and satisfactory proof.[17] If there is any evidence to sustain the findings of the commission the court will not set them aside; but a finding without evidence or against the evidence is arbitrary and beyond the power of the commission, and an order based thereon is contrary to law and subject to be set aside by a court of competent jurisdiction,[18] although, it has been held, however, that the commission because of its administrative nature and expert knowledge may apply that knowledge in determining the reasonableness of rates, without having any basis therefor in evidence.[19] In other states, however, the court hears the case de novo and determines it from the evidence adduced at the trial, the findings of fact made by the commission not being conclusive on the court.[20]

Where the statute provides that the petition may set forth a particular cause of objection to the rates, or to either or all of them, the carrier is not required to attack all the rates but may attack one only.[21]

It has been held that an order for refund of charges is subject to review on appeal from the judgment of the court affirming the order of the commission.[22]

§ 309. Proceedings by Shipper or Consignee for Relief against Unreasonable Rates

a. Interstate rates
b. Intra-state rates

a. Interstate Rates

Shippers may bring an action in court to recover charges in excess of the established rate, but where they desire to recover an award on the ground that the rate charged was unreasonable and excessive they must apply to the Interstate Commerce Commission, within the time prescribed by statute, for an award of reparation, and if the award is not paid they may bring an action in court for its enforcement.

A shipper has the right in any appropriate proceeding to attack the rate or classification.[23] As appears infra § 320, an action lies at common law to recover an amount charged for transportation in excess of that fixed by law, which rule applies to charges in excess of the schedule of rates filed with the interstate commerce commission, and, as appears infra § 323, no prior application to the commission is necessary before bringing an action to recover the excess over the rate filed. However, a shipper who has not been charged rates in excess of those filed with the commission may complain that the rates are nevertheless excessive and unreasonable. As is shown supra § 302, where common carriers have adopted, filed, and published schedules of rates for interstate shipments, carriers, shippers, and consignees alike are bound thereby, and the courts must enforce the schedule rates in fixing the rights and liabilities of the parties.[24] Individual 13. Cal.—Lang v. Railroad Commission of California, 42 P.2d 639, 2 Cal.2d 550.

14. Or.—Valley & Siletz R Co. v. Thomas, 48 P.2d 358, 151 Or 80—Hammond Lumber Co. v. Public Service Commission, 189 P. 639, 96 Or. 595, 9 A.L.R. 1223

15. Or.—Hammond Lumber Co. v. Public Service Commission, supra.

16. Or.—Valley & Siletz R Co. v Thomas, 48 P 2d 358, 151 Or 80—Hammond Lumber Co v. Public Service Commission, 189 P. 639, 96 Or. 595, 9 A.L.R. 1223

17. Or.—Oregon-Washington R & Nav. Co. v. Corey, 252 P. 955, 120 Or. 517.

Carrier must show

Carrier, attacking intra-state rate established by commission, must show that order is not supported by substantial evidence or for some other reason is unlawful, unreasonable, or unjustly discriminatory—Oregon-Washington R & Nav. Co. v. Corey, 252 P. 955, 120 Or. 517.

Failure to show decrease in earnings

Where evidence did not show to what extent earnings of carriers had decreased because of new rates, court could not set aside or vacate rates on ground of their being confiscatory—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav Co. v. Corey, 252 P. 955, 120 Or. 517—10 C J. p 439 note 23.

18. Or.—Hammond Lumber Co. v. Public Service Commission, 189 P. 639, 96 Or. 595, 9 A.L.R 1223

19. Wis.—Chicago, etc, R. Co. v. State R. Commn, 145 N.W. 216, 974, 156 Wis. 47.

20. Ind.—Public Service Commission of Indiana v. Lake Erie & W R. Co., 133 N.E 492, 191 Ind. 436.

Public necessity for order not shown

Ind.—Public Service Commission of Indiana v Lake Erie & W. R. Co., 133 N E 492, 191 Ind. 436.

21. Tex.—Gulf, etc, R Co. v. Railroad Commn, 113 S W. 741, 116 S. W. 795, 102 Tex. 338.

22. Wis.—Minneapolis, etc, R Co. v. State R. Commn, 147 N.W 366, 158 Wis 102—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State R Commn, 145 N.W. 216, 974, 156 Wis. 47.

23. Colo.—Fort v Denver & R G. R Co., 195 P. 109, 69 Colo. 441.

24. U.S.—Great Northern R. Co. v. O'Connor, Minn., 34 S.Ct. 380, 232 U.S. 508, 58 L.Ed. 703.

shippers are not entitled to raise the question of the reasonableness of such rates in an action brought by them against the carrier, as that would result in discrimination.[25] It is well settled, as appears infra § 320, that the Interstate Commerce Act abrogates the common-law remedy for recovery of alleged unreasonable freight charges on interstate shipments where the rates charged are those duly fixed by the carrier according to the act and have not been found unreasonable by the interstate commerce commission. However, a shipper has the right by appropriate proceedings before the commission to attack the rate or the classification, and if either or both are held to be unreasonable, he may secure appropriate relief by a reparation order from the commission,[26] or, as appears infra § 323, by suit in court after a finding by the commission that the rates are unreasonable, and the making of a reparation order which the carrier fails to comply with. Although, an injunction will lie to restrain the enforcement of a schedule of unreasonable rates by a carrier or a change to unjust or unreasonable rates, pending a decision thereon by the interstate commerce commission,[27] primarily, redress must be sought through the interstate commerce commission which alone has power to alter an established schedule on the ground that the rates fixed therein are unreasonable.[28] This is so, even when the exaction of such excessive rates was the result of a combination and conspiracy made unlawful by the Sherman Anti-Trust Law.[29]

Time within which proceeding must be commenced. The provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act limiting the time within which a complaint for the recovery of damages may be filed with the interstate commerce commission, 49 U.S.C.A. § 16, are not mere statutes of limitation, but are jurisdictional, limiting the power of the commission;[30] and neither proceedings begun by other shippers nor findings of unreasonableness and orders issued thereon by the commission will save the rights of those who disregard it.[31]

b. Intra-State Rates

(1) In general
(2) Reparation
(3) Review of reparation proceeding

(1) In General

Except in states where a shipper is entitled to bring suit in a court of competent jurisdiction to set aside a rate prescribed by a state regulatory commission, a shipper's remedy against unreasonable rates is ordinarily by application to the proper regulatory commission for a reduction of the rates and not by a common-law action or a suit in equity.

In general a shipper's remedy against unreasonable rates is by application to the proper regulatory commission for reduction of the rates.[32] Common-

25. Tenn.—Rather v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 174 S.W. 1113, 131 Tenn. 289.

26. U.S.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. George A. Hormel & Co., Minn., 240 F. 381, 153 C.C.A. 307.
Colo.—Fort v. Denver & R. G. R. Co., 195 P. 109, 69 Colo. 441.
10 C.J. p. 439 note 35.

Allowance of interest

The interstate commerce commission may allow interest on rates found to be excessive when the charges have been paid under protest.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. George A. Hormel & Co., Minn., 240 F. 381, 153 C.C.A. 307.

27. U.S.—Kalispell Lumber Co. v. Great Northern R. Co., C.C.Mont., 157 F. 845.
Suit by shipper to enjoin railroad companies from filing with the interstate commerce commission and from enforcing a schedule of rates see C.J.S. title Commerce § 147, also 10 C.J. p. 63 note 32½—p. 64 note 37; 12 C.J. p. 135 notes 25–27.

28. U.S.—Skinner & Eddy Corporation v. U. S., Or., 39 S.Ct. 375, 249 U.S. 557, 63 L.Ed. 772.
10 C.J. p. 439 note 36.

29. U.S.—Meeker v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 162 F. 354.
10 C.J. p. 439 note 37.

30. U.S.—U. S. ex rel. Louisville Cement Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 38 S.Ct. 408, 246 U.S. 638, 62 L.Ed. 914, reversing 42 App. D.C. 514.

Time cause of action accrues

Prior to 1920, when § 16 subd. e was added to the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 16 (e), which provides that "The cause of action in respect of a shipment of property shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to accrue upon delivery or tender of delivery thereof by the carrier, and not after," it was held that a cause of action to recover damages for exacting an unreasonable rate accrued when such rate was paid, and not when the shipments were made.—U. S. ex rel. Louisville Cement Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 38 S.Ct. 408, 246 U.S. 638, 62 L.Ed. 914, reversing 42 App.D.C. 514.

Holding of commission construed

Where interstate commerce commission held that claim for overcharges could not be considered because complaint for recovery was not made within two years from time cause of action accrued, holding of commission must be interpreted, not as one that it had jurisdiction over claim and that it was barred by limitations, but that claim was without its jurisdiction.—U. S. ex rel. Louisville Cement Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 38 S.Ct. 408, 246 U.S. 638, 62 L.Ed. 914, reversing 42 App.D.C. 514.

31. U.S.—A. J. Phillips Co. v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co., Mich., 35 S.Ct. 444, 236 U.S. 662, 59 L.Ed. 774, affirming 195 F. 12, 115 C.C.A. 94.

32. U.S.—Woodrich v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., C.C.A.N.D., 71 F.2d 732, 97 A.L.R. 401.
Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission of Ill. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 115 N.E. 904, 278 Ill. 58.
Miss.—E. L. Young Heading Co. v. Payne, 89 So. 782, 127 Miss. 48.
Mont.—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209.
Pa.—Leiper v. Baltimore & P. R. Co., 105 A. 551, 262 Pa. 328.

Disposition of case on reversal on appeal

Where on objection by shippers to rates published by carrier which were less than the maximum prescribed by the regulatory commission, the commission suspended the rates and in its consideration of the reasonableness of the rates objected to held the burden of proof to be on the carrier, the commission committed error, and, on appeal from its law remedies are not available to him;[33] nor can he maintain a suit in equity to restrain a carrier from charging a higher rate than that fixed by a contract made with him, where the carrier is charging the regular rates filed with the regulatory commission.[34] However, in some states it is not necessary for a party aggrieved by a rate fixed by the regulatory commission first to apply to the commission to undo or modify it.[35] The commission cannot set aside, annul, or grant relief from the effect of, any rate it may make; it may modify or repeal, and so extend relief prospectively, but in so far as its orders already made are concerned, the courts alone can give relief.[36] A shipper may, in a direct proceeding, bring suit in a court of competent jurisdiction to set aside rates prescribed by a state regulatory commission as unfair and unreasonable.[37] In such case the trial is governed by the same rule as civil causes generally, and there is no limitation other than that which affects civil causes generally on the rights of the parties to be heard or to introduce evidence.[38] The shipper must show that the rate is unreasonable and unjust as to him;[39] and the inquiry is not limited to whether the rate is so unreasonable and unjust as to amount to the taking of property without due process of law.[40] The fact that the commission, in prescribing the rates attacked, failed to give the carriers notice of the hearing prior to the fixing of the rates, as required by the statute, cannot be taken advantage of by the shipper.[41] In accordance with the general rule that the courts have no power to fix and establish rates, considered supra § 280, a court has no power pending final determination of the shipper's suit to put in force a temporary rate in place of the rate attacked;[42] but when the rates attacked are suspended by injunction, the old rates which were supplanted by those attacked become effective and fix the charges to be made by the carrier.[43]

(2) Reparation

In jurisdictions wherein the regulatory commission has power to award reparations, shippers are entitled to apply therefor, provided they bring their proceedings within the time limit provided by statute. In such proceeding the statutory provisions applicable in the particular jurisdiction control the proceedings.

In jurisdictions where the regulatory commission has power to award reparation, considered supra § 278 a (4) (c), shippers who have been charged unreasonable rates are entitled to apply to the commission for an award of reparation.[44] As appears infra §§ 320, 323, under the statutory provisions ap-order, the court will remand the case to the commission with orders that the petition filed by the shippers in the proceeding before the commission be treated as a protest against the rates published by the carrier and further evidence heard as to the reasonableness of the rates.—State Public Utilities Commission of Ill. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 115 N.E. 904, 278 Ill. 58.

33. Mont.—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209.

Preservation of common-law rights immaterial

Although the Railroad Commission Law, L.1907 c. 37, Rev.Codes § 4398, provides that "this act shall not have the effect to release or waive any right of action . . . for any right, penalty or forfeiture which may have arisen, or may hereafter arise, under any law of this state," the remedies for enforcing such rights are exclusively governed by the act, so that the rates established by the commission cannot be attacked in a common-law action.—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209.

Common-law right of action for overcharge see infra § 320.

34. Pa.—Leiper v. Baltimore & P. R. Co., 105 A. 551, 262 Pa. 328

35. Tex.—Houston Chamber of Commerce v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 19 S.W.2d 583, affirmed Railroad Commission of Texas v. Houston Chamber of Commerce, 78 S.W.2d 591, 124 Tex. 375.

36. Tex.—Houston Chamber of Commerce v. Railroad Commission of Texas, supra.

37. Tex.—Producers' Refining Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas, Com.App., 13 S.W.2d 680, affirming Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. of Texas v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 3 S.W.2d 489, affirmed Producers' Refining Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas, Com.App., 13 S.W.2d 679—Texas Steel Co. v. Fort Worth & D. C. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 45 S.W.2d 794, certified questions answered 40 S.W.2d 78, 120 Tex. 597—Houston Chamber of Commerce v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ. App., 19 S.W.2d 583, affirmed Railroad Commission of Texas v. Houston Chamber of Commerce, 78 S.W.2d 591, 124 Tex. 375.

Proper court

Suit seeking to set aside tariffs adopted by railroad commission should be brought in district court of Travis county.—Texas Steel Co. v. Fort Worth & D. C. Ry. Co., Tex. Civ.App., 45 S.W.2d 794, certified questions answered 40 S.W.2d 78, 120 Tex. 597

38. Tex.—Houston Chamber of Commerce v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 19 S.W.2d 583, affirmed Railroad Commission of Texas v. Houston Chamber of Commerce, 78 S.W.2d 591, 124 Tex. 375.

39. Tex.—Texas R. Commn. v. Weld, 73 S.W. 529, 96 Tex. 394, reversing, Civ.App., 68 S.W. 1117.

40. Tex.—Texas R. Commn. v. Weld, supra.

10 C.J. p. 63 note 32

41. Tex.—Texas Steel Co. v. Fort Worth & D. C. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 45 S.W.2d 794, certified questions answered 40 S.W.2d 78, 120 Tex. 597.

42. Tex.—Railroad Commission of Texas v. Uvalde Const. Co., Civ. App., 49 S.W.2d 1113.

43. Tex.—Railroad Commission of Texas v. Uvalde Const. Co., supra.

44. Or.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McColloch, 55 P.2d 1133.

Shippers purchasing goods shipped on basis of freight rates

Fact that shippers, complaining of unreasonable rates charged by carriers, were grain brokers or dealers purchasing grain on basis of market prices at place of delivery, less freight charges thereto, did not bar their right to reparation.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McColloch, Or., 55 P.2d 1133.

plicable in many states, a shipper is not entitled to apply directly to the courts for reparation where the charges made were in accordance with the scheduled rates, but must first apply to the state regulatory commission, which is empowered by law to determine the reasonableness of the rates, the common-law remedy therefor having been abolished. It is essential to the recovery of such excess charges that there should be a complaint to the commission, and the fact that another shipper made complaint to the commission which found the charges excessive and ordered their reduction does not relieve the shipper suing to recover excess charges paid under the former rates from making complaint thereof to the commission.[45] The commission, however, is not given power to enforce the refund, but, as appears infra § 323, the party aggrieved may after the finding maintain an action in the courts to recover the amount of the excessive charge as found by the commission.[46]

In some states the regulatory commission is authorized to award reparation in the same proceeding in which the shipper makes application to the commission to fix a rate to be charged for a specific service, where he sets out facts entitling him thereto.[47] In others, proceedings for the determination of the reasonableness of existing and of past rates are separate and distinct and brought under different statutory provisions, so that findings on whether existing rates are then unreasonable and will be for the future furnish no basis for awarding or refusing reparation;[48] nor can the commission in a proceeding for the determination of the reasonableness of existing rates, in which it finds the existing rates unreasonable, include a finding as to past rates which will bar a subsequent proceeding for reparations.[49] The proceedings for the determination of the unreasonableness of the rates in the past and for the award of reparation may also be separate, it being proper to file the petition for reparation after final decision by the commission on the question of the reasonableness of the rates.[50] However, there is no objection against combining a complaint against past rates and a petition for reparation;[51]

45. Wis.—Graham Ice Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 140 N.W. 1097, 153 Wis. 145.

46. Ky.—Southern Ry. Co. of Kentucky v. Frankfort Distillery, 26 S.W.2d 1025, 233 Ky. 771, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 75, 282 U.S. 868, 75 L.Ed. 767—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Greenbrier Distillery Co., 187 S.W. 296, 170 Ky. 775.
Neb.—Central Bridge & Construction Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 262 N.W. 852, 129 Neb. 726, vacating former opinion 260 N.W. 172, 128 Neb. 779.
Or.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McColloch, 55 P.2d 1133.
Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission, 192 P. 1079, 112 Wash. 629.
Wis.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 215 N.W. 442, 194 Wis. 24.
10 C.J. p. 440 note 45.

Court action not prevented thereby

Railroad commission's order, permitting railroad to refund excess demurrage charges, did not deprive railroad company of right to have claims passed on by courts.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 215 N.W. 442, 194 Wis. 24.

Demurrage

Railroad commission had authority, under statute, to determine that excess payment for demurrage was erroneous, and to make order permitting refund.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 215 N.W. 442, 194 Wis. 24.

47. Okl.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. State, 206 P. 236, 85 Okl. 223.

48. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 190 A. 367, 125 Pa.Super. 558—Central Pennsylvania Lumber Co. v. Public Service Commission, 98 Pa.Super. 514—Atlantic Refining Co. v. Public Service Commission, 97 Pa.Super. 106—Centre County Lime Co. v. Public Service Commission, 96 Pa.Super. 590.

49. Pa.—Central Pennsylvania Lumber Co. v. Public Service Commission, 98 Pa.Super. 514—Centre County Lime Co. v. Public Service Commission, 96 Pa.Super. 590, 599.
"Question of reparation cannot properly be determined by the commission until it has been presented to it in the manner prescribed by the act, nor should it be prejudiced, or the door closed against it, by a declaration in advance of a hearing."—Centre County Lime Co. v. Public Service Commission, supra.

Order ineffective

Portion of order, reducing railroad rates, stating situation did not warrant reparation award, has no legal effect on subsequent proceeding for reparation.—Alan Wood Iron & Steel Co. v. Public Service Commission, 97 Pa.Super. 1.

Expunging findings

Petition for order directing public service commission to expunge from record, in proceeding against railroad, rates paragraph respecting reparation will be refused, since such paragraph is extraneous and irrelevant to the issues involved in that proceeding and without any legal effect.—Alan Wood Iron & Steel Co. v. Public Service Commission, 97 Pa.Super. 1.

Dismissal without hearing

Dismissal without hearing of petition for reparation after reduction of railroad rates and inclusion in commission's report of statement that case did not warrant reparation award, was not proper procedure.—Centre County Lime Co. v. Public Service Commission, 96 Pa.Super. 590.

50. Pa.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 110 A. 286, 267 Pa. 64.

Request for reparation in prior proceeding

The fact that a petitioner asking the public service commission to declare a carrier's rates unreasonable also asked to award a reparation for excessive charges collected, which should have been made by separate petition after the determination of unreasonableness, and did not ask a rehearing by the commission which found the rates unreasonable but properly did not award reparation, does not preclude petitioner from filing a subsequent petition for reparation.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 110 A. 286, 267 Pa. 64.

51. Pa.—Chemical Lime Co. v. Public Service Commission, 157 A. 820, 103 Pa.Super. 195, 197—Chemical Lime Co. v. Public Service Commission, 157 A. 820, 103 Pa.Super. 194—Centre County Lime Co. v. Public Service Commission, 157 A.

under such a complaint it is the duty of the commission to determine, in the first place, whether the rates were unreasonable in the past, and, if so, proceed, in the second place, to ascertain what damages, if any, complainant sustained, and make such an appropriate order awarding or refusing reparation as the evidence might warrant.[52] In such proceeding the carrier cannot raise again the issues determined against it in the prior proceedings in which the reasonableness of the rates was determined.[53]

The procedure followed by the commission must conform to constitutional and statutory requirements, and where it has power to adopt rules of practice and procedure, such rules must conform thereto, and be in conflict therewith. A regulatory commission may waive its rules as to the form in which complaints against carriers for refund of charges in excess of those legally collectable by the carrier must be presented.[54] In a reparation proceeding before a regulatory commission, before ordering reparation the commission must first find that the rates complained of are unreasonable.[55] Thus, the effect of an order of reparation by a state commission is to determine that the carrier has exacted more than reasonable rates and that it is not entitled to retain the excess, but is obliged to refund it.[56]

Under a statute which authorizes the regulatory commission to order reparations only where no discrimination will result, the supreme court, on writ of review, will not direct the commission to allow or disallow reparations on shipments where the shippers sold the commodities shipped to their customers in accordance with the tariff rates paid by them.[57]

In a proceeding to obtain reparation from an express company for allegedly unreasonable and excessive express rates, the commission may deny reparation, where the rates charged were in accordance with a contract between the express company and the railroad company over which the express was shipped, on the ground that the commission cannot impair the contractual rights of the express company and the railroad, particularly where the shipper knew of the contract between the express company and the railroad and deliberately chose to avail itself of the express rates, and during their existence failed to seek redress through the commission by a proceeding against the railroad and express company jointly.[58]

Time within which to bring proceeding. Statutory provisions limiting the time after the cause of action accrues within which proceedings for reparation may be brought before the regulatory commission, have been held restrictions on the jurisdiction of the commission which cannot be extended or suspended.[59] Proceedings for reparations or the recovery of overcharges must be instituted within the period provided by a statute of limitations.[60] For the purpose of determining the period of limi-

820, 103 Pa Super. 192, 193—Centre County Lime Co. v. Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, 157 A. 815, 103 Pa.Super. 179.

52. Pa.—Chemical Lime Co. v. Public Service Commission, 157 A. 820, 103 Pa.Super. 195, 197—Chemical Lime Co. v. Public Service Commission, 157 A. 820, 103 Pa Super. 194—Centre County Lime Co v. Public Service Commission, 157 A. 820, 103 Pa Super. 192, 193—Centre County Lime Co. v. Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, 157 A. 815, 103 Pa.Super. 179.

Procedure held proper

Order of public service commission reciting that past freight rates were unreasonable and that commission would conduct further hearing to ascertain damages complainant had sustained was proper—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 190 A. 367, 125 Pa.Super. 558.

Time to offer evidence as to damages

Evidence, at hearing before public service commission on complaint against past freight rates and petition for reparation, showing damages from allegedly excessive past rates, since offered before commission made finding as to whether past rates had been unreasonable, was properly excluded—Chemical Lime Co v Public Service Commission, 157 A 820, 103 Pa Super 195, 197—Chemical Lime Co. v. Public Service Commission, 157 A. 820, 103 Pa Super 194—Centre County Lime Co. v. Public Service Commission, 157 A. 820, 103 Pa.Super. 192, 193—Centre County Lime Co. v. Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, 157 A. 815, 103 Pa.Super. 179.

53. Pa.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co, 110 A. 286, 267 Pa. 64.

54. Cal.—Los Angeles & S L R Co. v. Railroad Commission of California, 277 P. 324, 207 Cal. 123

55. Or.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McColloch, 55 P.2d 1133.

56. Pa.—Allegheny Steel Co. v New York Cent. R. Co, 188 A 332, 324 Pa 353.

57. Utah—Jeremy Fuel & Grain Co v. Public Utilities Commission, 226 P. 456, 63 Utah 392

58. Ill—Pioneer Creamery Co v. American Ry. Express Co., 180 N.E. 406, 348 Ill. 30.

59. Wash.—Northern Pac Ry. Co. v. Department of Public Works, 211 P. 876, 122 Wash. 673.

Federal control

The limitation of two years, prescribed by Remington Code 1915 § 8626—91, for the presentation of a claim for reparations was not suspended during the period of federal control of the railroads.—Northern Pac. Ry Co. v. Department of Public Works, 211 P. 876, 122 Wash 673.

Statute not retroactive

Public Utilities Act § 56 (b), providing all complaints concerning excessive charges shall be filed with the commission within two years, does not apply to causes of action existing when the statute was passed so as to make it retrospective in operation, contrary to Const. art 2 § 11, despite general language of section—Bonfils v. Public Utilities Commission of Colorado, 189 P. 775, 67 Colo 563.

60. Cal—Los Angeles & S. L. R Co. v Railroad Commission of California, 277 P. 324, 207 Cal 123—Sunset Pacific Oil Co v Los Angeles & S. L R. Co., 290 P. 434, 110 Cal App. 773.

tations, the cause of action accrues when the charges are paid;[61] and, in states where the proceedings for the determination of the unreasonableness of the rates in the past and for the award of reparation may be separate, the proceeding is commenced when the complaint challenging as unreasonable the rates collected in the past is filed, whether brought by a shipper or a body representing shippers generally or instituted by the commission of its own motion, and not when the petition for an award of reparation is filed, which is after final decision by the commission on the question of the reasonableness of the rates.[62]

Measure of carrier's liability. In reparation proceedings, the measure of the carrier's liability is the excess of the rate collected above that found reasonable by the commission.[63]

(3) Review of Reparation Proceeding

The right to appeal from the decision of a regulatory commission in a reparation proceeding is dependent on the statutes in force in the particular jurisdiction, the right depending in certain states on whether the commission awarded or refused reparation.

No appeal lies from the action of the commission except as prescribed by statute, and this right of appeal cannot be extended to cases not within the statute.[64]

Under a statute authorizing an appeal from an affirmative order of the commission only, an appeal will not lie from an order of the commission denying reparation to a shipper from a railroad, even though the commission determined that the shipper has a right to reduced rates on future shipments.[65]

In states where an order of the regulatory commission awarding reparation is not enforceable as such, but an action must be brought thereon in a court of competent jurisdiction, although it is held, in at least one jurisdiction, that, if the decision is adverse to the shipper and an award of reparation refused or the amount awarded is less than he claims, the shipper is without remedy and cannot apply to the courts to have the refusal of the commission to award reparation reversed or the amount awarded increased,[66] in other jurisdictions, it is held that an appeal will lie from an order of the commission refusing reparation,[67] but that an appeal will not lie from an order of the commission awarding reparation;[68] and although, under the broad language of a statute rendering reviewable proceedings before the commission to recover from a railroad excessive charges, such proceedings are reviewable in the courts, such review is limited to questions which may be decided purely as questions of law, such as the jurisdiction of the commission, and does not include a review of the merits of the decision of the commission, since a review of the merits would be to try issues which must ultimately be tried in the action which may be brought to recover the award of the commission.[69] It has also been held that a court of equity has no jurisdiction to set aside an order awarding reparation to a shipper, but that a determination by the commission in the reparation proceeding as to the reasonableness of the rates complained of adverse to the carrier is subject to review in court.[70]

§ 310. Proceedings by Bondholders for Relief against Unreasonable Rates

A bondholder of a carrier cannot enjoin enforce-

Filing of informal complaint as tolling statute

(1) Letter to railroad commission setting forth claim against carrier for refund, and requesting commission to refer matter to carrier for purpose of bringing about informal adjustment, is not complaint avoiding limitation statute.—Los Angeles & S. L R Co v. Railroad Commission of California, 277 P. 324, 207 Cal. 123

(2) Reference in letter filed with railroad commission to avoidance of limitation did not make letter legal complaint within limitation statute —Los Angeles & S. L. R. Co. v. Railroad Commission of California, supra.

(3) Practice followed before railroad commission of filing informal complaint against carriers preceding formal complaint did not avoid effect of limitation statute, where no legal complaint was filed within time.—Los Angeles & S L. R. Co. v. Railroad Commission of California, supra.

Failure of commission to serve copy of complaint on carrier

Failure of railroad commission to serve copy of complaint presented to it on carrier will not prejudice complainant's rights—Los Angeles & S. L R. Co. v. Railroad Commission of California, 277 P. 324, 207 Cal. 123.

61. Pa.—Allegheny Steel Co. v. New York Central R. Co, 188 A. 332, 324 Pa. 353.

62. Pa.—Allegheny Steel Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., supra.

63. Pa.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent. R Co., 110 A. 286, 267 Pa. 64.

64. Mich.—Sparta Foundry Co v Michigan Public Utilities Commission, 267 N.W. 736, 275 Mich 562

65. Mich.—Sparta Foundry Co. v. Michigan Public Utilities Commission, supra.

66. Ky.—Southern Ry. Co of Kentucky v. Frankfort Distillery, 26 S. W.2d 1025, 233 Ky. 771, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 75, 282 U.S. 868, 75 L.Ed. 767.

67. Ill.—Terminal R. Ass'n of St. Louis v. Public Utilities Commission, 136 N.E 797, 304 Ill. 312

Pa.—Centre County Lime Co v. Public Service Commission, 96 Pa.Super. 590.

68. Ill.—Terminal R Ass'n of St. Louis v. Public Utilities Commission, 136 N.E 797, 304 Ill 312

Pa.—Centre County Lime Co v. Public Service Commission, 96 Pa.Super. 590.

69. Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission, 192 P. 1079, 112 Wash. 629.

70. Or.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McColloch, 55 P.2d 1133.

ment of a prescribed rate without showing that its enforcement will render his bonds noncollectable.

A person holding bonds of a railroad company secured by mortgage cannot enjoin enforcement of a statute prescribing rates by merely showing that rates are confiscatory; he must further show that the bonds will not be collectable if such rates are enforced.[71]

§ 311. Effect of Change of Rates after Shipment Has Commenced

A change of the rate in force after the contract of shipment becomes complete by execution and delivery of the bill of lading or after the shipment begins to move will not be applied to the shipment.

The rate applicable is that in force when the contract of shipment becomes complete by the execution and delivery of the bill of lading. This is so although movement of the shipment is not to commence until a later date; and the fact that a substitute bill of lading is issued on a subsequent reconsignment of the shipment does not prevent the application of the rate in force at the time the original bill is issued.[72] Thus, changes in freight rates of interstate shipments from the rate given in the tariff schedules in force at the time the shipment begins to move, will not be given a retroactive effect.[73]

2. Freight Charges and Liens

§ 312. Charges Generally

A carrier of goods or live stock may make proper charges for its services, and the obligation to pay for the same may be based on an express or implied contract or a liability imposed by law.

Carriers of goods or live stock have an undoubted right to impose or collect proper charges for their services.[74] Indeed, in order that the carrier may be chargeable as common carrier, the service must be for compensation, see supra § 3; and, as shown in § 376 infra, the rules against discrimination are usually held to prevent favoritism in the way of gratuitous services.

To entitle a carrier to collect or recover charges not paid in advance it is usually essential that there be some sort of a contract or undertaking to pay for the same.[75] However, a contract to compensate a carrier for its services may be either express or implied;[76] and the law will usually imply an agreement to compensate a carrier for its services in the absence of circumstances which would warrant an inference that the services were intended to be gratuitous.[77]

Problems relating to the making or establishment of the rates or tariffs on which the charges shall be based, including the respective powers of the carrier and federal or state rate-making bodies, have already been considered in §§ 275–311 supra. Where there is an applicable state or federal law requiring the carrier to charge for its services according to its properly established schedule or tariff, and the schedule or tariff has become binding on both the carrier and the public, see supra § 302, the obligation to compensate the carrier for its services is one imposed by law.[78] This obligation or liability cannot ordinarily be avoided or escaped through any contract with the carrier, see infra §§ 392–397; and it cannot estop itself from collecting

71. U.S.—Winthrop v. Fellows, D.C. Mich., 230 F. 702.

72. N.Y.—Rutland R. Co. v. Doud, 235 N.Y.S. 160, 134 Misc. 44

73. U.S.—Horton v. Tonopah & G. R. Co., D.C.Nev., 225 F. 406.
10 C.J. p 440 note 49.

74. U.S.—Hygrade Food Products Corporation v. Chicago, M., St P. & P. R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 85 F.2d 113, reversing, D.C., 10 F.Supp. 767—Van Dusen Harrington Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Minn., 32 F.2d 466—Central Warehouse Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 20 F.2d 828, affirming, D.C., Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Central Warehouse Co., 14 F.2d 123—Allen v. New York, P. & N. R. Co., C.C.A.Va., 15 F.2d 532, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 459, 273 U.S. 756, 71 L.Ed. 876—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Carnegie Steel Co., D.C.Pa., 251 F. 682.
Ala.—James v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 81 So. 582, 202 Ala. 640.
Cal.—Heath v. Judson Freight Forwarding Co., 190 P. 839, 47 Cal. App. 426
Kan.—Hebrlee v. Hawley, 211 P. 129, 112 Kan. 398.
La.—Morley Cypress Co. v. Hines, 107 So. 487, 160 La. 676.
N.Y.—Stevens v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 202 N.Y.S. 195, 207 App.Div. 442, affirmed 147 N.E. 200, 234 N.Y. 572, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 463, 267 U.S. 603, 69 L.Ed. 809
Pa.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 68 Pa. Super. 503
10 C.J. p 106 note 64.

75. N.D.—Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co. v. Washburn Lignite Coal Co., 168 N.W. 684, 40 N.D. 69, 12 A.L.R. 744, error dismissed 41 S.Ct. 140, 254 U.S. 370, 65 L.Ed. 310.

76. Ala.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Herring, 174 So. 502, 234 Ala. 238.
Cal.—Heath v. Judson Freight Forwarding Co., 190 P. 839, 47 Cal. App. 426.

77. Ala.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Herring, 174 So. 502, 234 Ala. 238.
Ill.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Lehigh Stone Co., 220 Ill.App. 563
Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Osborne, 153 S.E. 865, 154 Va. 477.

78. U.S.—Central Warehouse Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Minn., 20 F.2d 828, affirming, D.C., Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Central Warehouse Co., 14 F.2d 123
Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. De Marto, 90 Pa.Super. 216.

the charges;[79] but all conditions and terms prescribed by the tariff must be complied with before the rates or charges provided for therein can be collected,[80] and the carrier is not entitled to scheduled charges for which it has rendered no services or benefits.[81]

After the parties have agreed on the terms and conditions of the payment of the freight charges, and the shipment has been started, the terms or conditions so fixed cannot be changed or canceled without the consent of the carrier.[82]

Medium of payment. If the medium of payment is not specified, payment of the charges must ordinarily be made in the currency of the country where the payment is to be made or the contract fulfilled.[83] The freight charges on international shipments between United States and Canada are, under tariffs and regulations requiring payment of the scheduled rates in dollars and cents, payable in the money of the country where the collection is made regardless of any difference in the exchange value of the money of the respective countries.[84]

§ 313. Necessity for Prepayment

A carrier may demand payment of its charges in advance, but is not required to do so; and prepaid freight may be recovered back if the carrier fails to perform its contract.

A carrier has the right to demand that its charges be paid in advance,[85] and to refuse to accept the goods for carriage until such prepayment has been made, see supra § 31. This is on the principle that carriers have the same rights as individuals or other corporations to require payment for a service before it is rendered or to extend credit for such service.[86] This common-law rule is not abrogated by state and federal legislation for the supervision of common carriers.[87] However, as shown in § 372, it is usually held, although not without some difference of opinion, that the carrier may lawfully give credit to some parties and require prepayment of others; and it is not necessary that charges be tendered in advance unless demanded.[88] The right to prepayment of charges is deemed to have been waived where the carrier accepts the goods from the shipper for transportation without exacting payment in advance.[89] Liability will attach in such cases as though the freight were actually prepaid;[90] and it then becomes the duty of the carrier to transport the goods to their destination or to deliver them to the next receiving carrier.[91]

When the charges have been prepaid, the carrier is under a duty to deliver the goods without further exaction; and, where the charges have been prepaid on goods shipped with a view to export, the carrier cannot require that a transhipper, in whose hands the goods are placed by the consignee, refund or repay the freight charges.[92]

Prepaid freight, on failure of the carrier to perform the contract of carriage, may be recovered in an action for money had and received, no express contract to the contrary appearing.[93] The consid-

79. U.S.—Central Warehouse Co v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co, C C A Minn., 20 F.2d 828, affirming, D. C, Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Central Warehouse Co., 14 F 2d 123.
Minn.—Davis v. Aslesen, 206 N W. 405, 165 Minn. 239.
Issuance of bill of lading as "prepaid" by mistake held not to estop carrier from collecting lawful charges.—Central Warehouse Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co, C.C.A. Minn., 20 F 2d 828, affirming, D C, Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Central Warehouse Co., 14 F.2d 123.

80. U.S.—Van Dusen Harrington Co. v. Northern Pac Ry. Co., C.C.A Minn, 32 F 2d 466

81. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Johnson, 10 S W 2d 1104, 226 Ky. 322—Louisville & N. R Co v. Murphy, 206 S W. 268, 182 Ky. 136
N C.—W. L. Hall & Co v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 91 S E 607, 173 N.C. 108
Return of goods
A carrier of live stock, abandoning contract because of federal quarantine order, and returning stock to shipper at place of consignment, is not entitled to freight charges, under Interstate Commerce Act and state law, the transportation having resulted in no service or benefit to the shipper.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Murphy, 206 S W. 268, 182 Ky. 136

82. Pa.—Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Picard, 98 Pa Super. 134.

83. U S—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.2d 662.

84. U S—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. Davis, supra—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. Davis, D.C.Pa., 2 F 2d 858, affirmed, C.C.A., 9 F. 2d 911.

85. U S—Lowden v. Iroquois Coal Co, D C.Ill., 18 F Supp. 923.
Mo—Metzger v. Columbia Terminals Co., 50 S.W 2d 680, 227 Mo App. 135
Pa—Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Picard, 98 Pa Super. 134.
10 C J. p 359 note 7, p 441 note 52

86. Miss.—A. G. Russell Co. v. Miller, 53 So. 495, 98 Miss. 185

87. U S—Louisville & N R. Co. v Central Iron & Coal Co, Ala., 44 S Ct 441, 265 U.S. 59, 68 L Ed 900, affirming. C C A., 284 F. 250
Cal.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Frank H Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.
Tenn.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Murphree, 2 Tenn App. 482.
10 C.J. p 441 note 54.

88. Ind.—Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co. v. Diether, 37 N.E 39, 1069, 10 Ind. App. 206, 53 Am S R. 385.
10 C J. p 441 note 55

89. U.S.—Southern Indiana Express Co. v. U. S. Express Co., Ind., 92 F. 1022, 35 C.C.A. 172.
Mo—Gratiot St Warehouse Co. v. Missouri, etc., R Co., 102 S W. 11, 124 Mo.App 545.
10 C.J. p 359 note 7, p 441 note 56

90. Mo—Gratiot St. Warehouse Co. v. Missouri, etc., R. Co, 102 S.W. 11, 124 Mo App. 545.

91. U.S.—Southern Indiana Express Co. v. U S. Express Co., Ind., 92 F. 1022, 35 C.C A 172.

92. Md—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. S. M. Hamilton Coal Co, 125 A. 405, 144 Md. 556, 35 A L.R. 478.

93. Ala—Hunter v. Lauderdale Cotton Mills, 112 So. 215, 215 Ala. 638
Retention of bills of lading
However, in an action for money had and received, alleging breach eration for the advance payment having failed, the money paid becomes ex equo et bono the property of the shipper, and the law raises an implied contract to refund. Such right of recovery cannot be defeated by the fact that the carrier has already used the money in payment of its own obligations.[94] However, where the carrier has fully complied with its contract, but is unable to unload the shipment at the point of destination because of quarantine laws and returns the shipment at the request of the owner, the freight charges paid the carrier cannot be recovered back.[95]

§ 314. Amount Allowable

a. In general
b. Particular items or services

a. In General

The amount of the charges is ordinarily to be determined in accordance with the applicable scheduled or established rates; or, in the absence thereof, by the contract of the parties, or, if there is no express contract, by an ascertainment of what would constitute a reasonable compensation for the services rendered.

In the absence of special statutory regulation of rates to be paid or of a contract fixing the amount of compensation to be paid, the law implies a reasonable compensation to be determined in an action in which the question as to the amount of compensation arises, and to be measured by what is ordinarily charged for like services under like conditions;[96] and, as fully discussed in § 281 supra, both the carrier and the public have reciprocal rights to have the rate of compensation be a reasonable one so that the carrier cannot exact any more nor be compelled to take any less.

When the rates of compensation have been fixed or established by a regulatory body or by a properly filed and published schedule of tariffs, the carrier is ordinarily entitled to charge for its services in accordance therewith,[97] and shippers are required to know the contents of published tariffs, so that the carrier cannot be estopped from charging the lawful rate so shown or established.[98] Indeed, it is often the absolute duty of the carrier to charge according to the scheduled or established rates. So far as interstate shipments are concerned, the right of private contract as to rates between the shipper and the carrier has been entirely abrogated by the enactment of the Interstate Commerce Act. The schedules of rates filed with the interstate commerce commission are absolutely binding, both on the carriers and the shippers, see supra § 302; and any attempt to deviate from the rates so fixed is unlawful and ineffective, see infra §§ 392, 393. Also, the state, in the exercise of its regulatory powers, may take away the right of the parties to contract with reference to the rates for intra-state shipments, see supra § 278; and under state legislation similar to the Interstate Commerce Act it is often held that the parties are prohibited from departing from the established intra-state rate, see infra §§ 396, 397.

Where the rate prescribed by statute has been paid, there is no implied contractual undertaking to pay the carrier a reasonable rate in the event the statute is subsequently declared invalid,[99] nor is there any obligation to pay a reasonable rate as a matter of law.[1]

In the absence of prohibitory statutory provisions, under a contract to maintain a specified rate for the benefit of a certain shipper, the shipper may recover damages resulting from the refusal of the carrier to maintain the rate;[2] but, if an offered rate is not accepted when made, a shipper cannot complain that a higher rate was subsequently charged if the rate charged was not in excess of that al-of an affreightment contract by a carrier's failure to ship goods, plaintiff cannot retain the bills of lading, which may be negotiable, and recover the amount paid for freight on the theory that the goods were not timely shipped, particularly if carrier's obligation to carry continues—Calumet & Hecla Mining Co. v. Equitable Trust Co., 174 N.Y.S. 319, 186 App.Div. 330.

94. Ala.—Hunter v. Lauderdale Cotton Mills, 112 So. 215, 215 Ala. 638.

95. Tex.—Clement Grain Co. v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ.App., 35 S.W.2d 516.

96. U.S.—State of Florida v. U. S., D.C.Ga., 11 F.Supp. 36.
Ala.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Herring, 174 So. 502, 234 Ala. 238.
Cal.—Heath v. Judson Freight Forwarding Co., 190 P. 839, 47 Cal. App. 426.
10 C.J. p. 441 note 60.
Corpus Juris cited in State of Florida v. U. S., D.C.Ga., 11 F.Supp. 36, 42.

97. U.S.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Carnegie Steel Co., D.C.Pa., 251 F. 682, 684.
Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Sisk, 295 S.W. 55, 174 Ark. 168.
N.Y.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Rudolph Wurlitzer Mfg. Co., 225 N.Y.S. 652, 222 App.Div. 716.
10 C.J. p. 441 note 64 [a]
"If a transportation service be performed by the carrier, the rate applicable to such service as specified in tariffs relating thereto, which are duly filed and published, must be paid by the person for whom such service was rendered."—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Carnegie Steel Co., supra.

98. U.S.—Hygrade Food Products Corporation v. Chicago, M., St. P. & P. R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 85 F.2d 113, reversing, D.C., 10 F.Supp. 767

99. N.D.—Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co. v. Washburn Lignite Coal Co., 168 N.W. 684, 40 N.D. 69, 12 A.L.R. 744, error dismissed 41 S.Ct. 140, 254 U.S. 370, 65 L.Ed. 310.

1. N.D.—Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co. v. Washburn Lignite Coal Co., supra.

2. Ky.—Newport News, etc., Co. v. McDonald Brick Co., 59 S.W. 332, 109 Ky. 408, 22 Ky.L. 934.

lowed by law at the time of the shipment.[3]

A private carrier, which is not subject to the established rates and classifications applicable to common carriers, may be free to contract for such compensation as it can get;[4] and, where it has so contracted, it cannot charge in excess of the rate fixed by the contract.[5] After oral negotiations have been merged in the bill of lading, which becomes the contract of the parties, a carrier cannot be held to a prior oral quotation of a rate.[6]

b. Particular Items or Services

(1) Transportation or carriage
(2) Other items or services

(1) Transportation or Carriage

A carrier is ordinarily entitled to compensation for its service in carrying or transporting the shipment, the amount of such compensation or charge being determined by computation in accordance with the applicable rate.

The primary or ordinary service for which a carrier is entitled to compensation is that of carrying or transporting the goods or live stock involved between the point of shipment and the point of destination.[7] The amount of the charge for this service is usually determined by computation in accordance with the scheduled or established rate applicable to shipments of the type and between the points involved.[8] In computing freight charges, the rate applicable and the weight of the shipment are the usual factors in the equation.[9]

The application of a particular rate is ordinarily dependent on a proper construction of the governing tariffs or rate regulations in existence at the time when the shipment was made.[10] Where such factors are essential elements of the rate classifications made by the tariff or regulatory statute, the applicability of a particular rate in a given case may depend on whether, within the meaning of the tariff, as construed in accordance with the rules stated

3. Tex.—Dillingham v. Labatt, Civ. App., 30 S.W. 370.

4. Minn.—Northwest Tablet Co. v. Universal Carloading & Distributing Co., 250 N.W. 456, 189 Minn. 582.

5. Minn.—Northwest Tablet Co. v. Universal Carloading & Distributing Co., supra.

6. Wis.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Jewett, 171 N.W. 757, 169 Wis. 102.

7. U.S.—Nocatee Crate Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., C.C.A. Fla., 26 F.2d 670—Butler Motor Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Mo., 272 F. 683.
Ga.—Clemons v. Payne, 105 S.E. 623, 26 Ga.App. 142.
Kan.—Hebrlee v. Hawley, 211 P. 129, 112 Kan. 398.
N.Y.—Stevens v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 202 N.Y.S. 195, 207 App.Div. 442, affirmed 147 N.E. 200, 234 N.Y. 572, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 463, 267 U.S. 603, 69 L.Ed. 809.

8. U.S.—U. S. v. Gulf Refining Co., Okl., 45 S.Ct. 597, 268 U.S. 542, 69 L.Ed. 1082, affirming, C.C.A., Gulf Refining Co. v. U. S., 284 F. 90—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. J. F. Hasty & Sons, Ark., 41 S.Ct. 269, 255 U.S. 252, 65 L.Ed. 614—Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Farmers' Shipping Ass'n, C.C.A. Kan., 59 F.2d 657—Atlantic Bridge Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., D.C. Fla., 56 F.2d 163, affirmed, C.C.A., Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Atlantic Bridge Co., 57 F.2d 654—American Ry. Express Co. v. Price Bros., C.C.A. Tex., 54 F.2d 67—S. A. Gerrard Co. v. American Ry. Express Co., C.C.A. Ohio, 35 F.2d 861—Updike Grain Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Neb., 35 F.2d 486—Nocatee Crate Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., C.C.A. Fla., 26 F.2d 670—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Rea-Patterson Milling Co., C.C.A. Kan., 273 F. 518—Butler Motor Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Mo., 272 F. 683—Lakewood Engineering Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., C.C.A. Ohio, 259 F. 61, 170 C.C.A. 129, error dismissed 41 S.Ct. 60, 254 U.S. 661, 65 L.Ed. 463—In re Independent Sewer Pipe Co., D.C.Cal., 248 F. 547—Southern Pac. Co. v. U. S., 62 Ct.Cl. 391.
Ala.—Robert S. Armstrong & Bros. Co. v. Rowland, 118 So. 502, 22 Ala.App. 613.
Fla.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Speed-Parker, Inc., 137 So. 724, 103 Fla. 439.
Ga.—Clemons v. Payne, 105 S.E. 623, 26 Ga.App. 142.
Ind.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Johnson Butter Co., 187 N.E. 405, 97 Ind.App. 537.
Kan.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Red Star Milling Co., 251 P. 417, 122 Kan. 122.
La.—Louisiana Ry. & Nav. Co. v. Lawrence, 5 La.App. 722.
Minn.—Crookston Milling Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 242 N.W. 287, 185 Minn. 563.
Mont.—Sunburst Oil & Refining Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 7 P.2d 927, 91 Mont. 216, certiorari granted Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Sunburst Oil & Refining Co., 53 S.Ct. 7, 287 U.S. 580, 77 L.Ed. 508, and affirmed 53 S.Ct. 145, 287 U.S. 358, 77 L.Ed. 360, 85 A.L.R. 254.
N.H.—New York, N. H. & H. R. R. v. Tonella, 111 A. 341, 79 N.H. 464.
Pa.—Crane R. Co. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., 97 A. 1055, 253 Pa. 246.
Tex.—Texarkana & Ft. S. Ry. Co. v. Houston Gas & Fuel Co., 51 S.W.2d 284, 121 Tex. 594—San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. D. M. Picton & Co., Civ.App., 111 S.W.2d 842, error refused.

9. Fla.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Speed-Parker, Inc., 137 So. 724, 103 Fla. 439.
Ga.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. Lumberman's Co., 149 S.E. 128, 168 Ga. 351, reversing Lumberman's Co. v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 139 S.E. 116, 37 Ga.App. 176, vacated 149 S.E. 303, 40 Ga.App. 238, conformed to 149 S.E. 303, 40 Ga. App. 238.
Mont.—Sunburst Oil & Refining Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 7 P.2d 927, 91 Mont. 216, certiorari granted Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Sunburst Oil & Refining Co., 53 S.Ct. 7, 287 U.S. 580, 77 L.Ed. 508, and affirmed 53 S.Ct. 145, 287 U.S. 358, 77 L.Ed. 360, 85 A.L.R. 254.

Adoption of improper weight

That weighing coal on railroad scales would have required carrier to make an extra haul, which was impracticable under war-time conditions, did not excuse billing of coal without notice to consignee at inaccurate tipple weights, and carrier should have attempted to reach an agreement with consignee for a proper allowance, or made allowance in its best judgment subject to adjustment.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 124 A. 428, 280 Pa. 297.

10. Fla.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Speed-Parker, Inc., 137 So. 724, 103 Fla. 439.

in § 303 supra, the shipment is of a proper type of | goods or commodity,[11] is packed or crated in a par-

11. U S—U S. v. Gulf Refining Co., Okl, 45 S Ct 597, 268 U S. 542, 69 L.Ed. 1082, affirming, C.C A., Gulf Refining Co. v. U S., 284 F. 90—St Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. J. F. Hasty & Sons, Ark., 41 S Ct 269, 255 U.S 252, 65 L Ed. 614—Chesapeake & O Ry. Co. v. Indiana Fibre Products Co, D.C Ind, 6 F.Supp. 339, affirmed, C.C A., 75 F 2d 193—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v U. S, 74 Ct Cl. 154—Arizona Eastern R. Co. v. U. S., 63 Ct Cl. 60—Southern Pac Co. v. U. S, 62 Ct Cl 649.
Fla.—Louisville & N R. Co. v. Speed-Parker, Inc, 137 So. 724, 103 Fla 439
S.C—Gibbes Machinery Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 93 S E 718, 108 S.C. 159.
Tex.—Bedford-Carthage Stone Corporation v. Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. Co. of Texas, Civ.App., 25 S.W.2d 930.
Va—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Freeman Supply Corporation, 133 S.E. 817, 145 Va. 207.
10 C.J. p 430 note 7 [b].

Articles of foreign commerce

Commodity, purchased in and shipped from foreign country, took railway freight rate for articles of foreign commerce, and such character thereof was not changed by necessary incidents of transportation.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Indiana Fibre Products Co, D C.Ind., 6 F. Supp. 339, affirmed, C C.A., 75 F.2d 193.

Bomb sights and bomb release mechanisms for airplanes are analogous, for freight classification purposes, to scientific instruments, and subject to the same freight rate.—Erie R. Co. v. U. S., 79 Ct.Cl. 102.

Coal

(1) Under tariffs prescribing one rate for the shipment of coal generally and a lower rate for "furnace material," shipped to, and for the use of, pig iron furnace companies at a particular point, a shipment of coal by an iron and steel company from its mines to such point where it maintains a furnace is not entitled to the lower rate where the coal is not used at that point but is reconsigned to other points for use in iron ore mining—Republic Iron & Steel Co. v. Davis, 98 So. 197, 210 Ala. 361.

(2) "Prepared and anthracite briquettes and boulets" in carriers' tariff schedule included anthracite coal in native form in sizes above pea and briquettes and boulets made from anthracite coal, since "prepared coal in anthracite coal trade means sizes of coal above pea."—New York, N. H & H. R. Co. v. Salter, 134 A. 220, 104 Conn. 728.

Crêpe paper bandages, manufactured and intended for use as a paper bandage for surgical dressing, come within a rate classification for the transportation of "surgical bandages."—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. U. S, Ct.Cl, 42 F.2d 600.

Dunnage on automobile shipments, consisting of wooden braces and blocking used to keep the automobiles steady in cars, belongs to the category of crating and boxing employed to protect more valuable articles in shipping, the weight of which, unless some provision to the contrary appears, naturally takes the rate applicable to the contents, and hence, in the absence of other provision, the dunnage is subject to the automobile, rather than the lumber, rate, particularly where the tariff provides that, unless otherwise provided, "charges shall be computed on gross weights."—Butler Motor Co v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co, C. C.A.Mo, 272 F. 683.

Federal military equipment takes rates open to public for like transportation.—Houston E. & W. T. Ry. Co. v. U. S., 63 Ct.Cl. 576—Arizona Eastern R. Co. v. U. S., 63 Ct.Cl 60.

Lime Cola syrup has been held not to fall under the classification of "molasses and syrups," in a rate tariff, but instead under a higher rating given to "fountain syrups, fruit syrups, or syrups not otherwise indexed by name."—Louisville & N R. Co. v. Lime Cola Bottling Co., 101 So 678, 212 Ala. 52.

Logs, wood, and lumber

(1) A tariff of freight rates containing a table of "rough material rates applicable on rough lumber, staves, flitches, bolts and logs," conditional on the manufactured product being reshipped in specified proportions, and including, in the table of percentages applicable, "finished staves" and "staves and headings," gave the benefit of such milling in transit rates to rough material for heading for barrels, as the word "bolt" should be understood in its generic sense as meaning a mass or block of wood from which anything may be cut or formed.—St. Louis, I M. & S. Ry. Co. v J. F. Hasty & Sons, Ark, 41 S Ct. 269, 255 U.S. 252, 65 L.Ed. 614.

(2) However, in a shipper's suit for overcharge on shipments of rough sawed heading, where there were two tariffs on file with the railroad commission, one fixing the rate on heading bolts, and the other on rough sawed heading, and the testimony showed a substantial difference between the two, it was held that the tariff on the latter applied because dealing specifically with the identical materials shipped—E. L. Young Heading Co. v. Payne, 89 So 782, 127 Miss. 48.

(3) Log rate, and not fuel wood rate, is applicable to shipments of stave bolts and headings used in manufacture of barrels entitling railroad to recover alleged undercharge due on shipments thereof.—Reinschmidt v. Louisville & N. R. Co, 169 So. 491, 124 Fla. 814.

(4) Mahogany logs were embraced within class set forth in the governing rate tariff as "lumber, telegraph poles, or similar lading."—Cleveland, C, C. & St. L Ry. Co v. Talge Mahogany Co., 112 N.E. 890, 185 Ind 11.

(5) Redwood coffin stock planed and cut to size and shape comes under the freight classification of "lumber: built-up, combined or veneered wood, except woods of value," and the freight rates on carload lots thereof shipped from Santa Clara, Cal, to Minneapolis, Minn., in October, 1919, was ninety cents per hundred under the published tariffs then in force.—Minnesota-Koll Casket Co v. Payne, 188 N.W. 560, 152 Minn 238.

(6) Certain lumber brought from the Philippine Islands and commonly known as Philippine mahogany, when in fact it was not mahogany, being used as a substitute for, and costing less than, Mexican or African mahogany, is not "mahogany" within the meaning of the railway tariff for foreign woods including mahogany, such tariff schedule enumerating woods all of which are of tropical or subtropical nature and of high cost, and the denomination of the wood as Philippine mahogany is not conclusive of its character.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Warren Ross Lumber Co., 190 N.Y.S. 835.

(7) By analogy to Act Congr Oct. 3, 1913 c 16, § 4c, relating to tariff on goods shipped from the Philippine Islands and which distinguishes between the Philippine Islands and foreign countries, so that "Philippine mahogany" is not being included in the term "foreign woods" of the tariff schedule, it not being an expensive wood as compared with all the other foreign woods, Philippine mahogany does not fall within a railway rate schedule providing rates on "foreign woods (mahogany, etc.)"—New York Cent R Co v. Warren Ross Lumber Co., supra.

(8) In determining whether a commodity is to be classified as "wood pulp" or "wood pulp board" under a rate schedule, classifications by customs officials and railway company's solicitors and agents are persuasive, but not conclusive, in determining proper freight rate therefor.—Chesaticular manner,[12] is in carload or less than carload | lots,[13] whether the shipment is for export or domes-peake & O Ry. Co v. Indiana Fibre Products Co., D.C Ind., 6 F.Supp. 339, affirmed, C.C A., 75 F 2d 193.

Machinery and appendages

(1) Low rate assigned in exception to general tariff classification to "machines rated Sixth Class" is applicable to crane, hoisting engine, and "whirley," an apparatus combining steam engine and hoist with projecting arm, although general classification specifically described cranes and derricks as having sixth class rating —Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Atlantic Bridge Co., C.C.A Fla., 57 F 2d 654, affirming, D.C., Atlantic Bridge Co v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 56 F 2d 163

(2) A tank wagon necessary to use with a traction engine and shipped with the engine should be shipped under the same classification as to freight rates as the engine, and it is immaterial that each could be used without the other.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Newell, 77 So. 553, 201 Ala. 129.

(3) That all parties to such a shipment considered a tank wagon as part of a traction engine, and so treated it, may be considered in determining the proper classification of the tank in regard to freight rates.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Newell, supra.

(4) Used electrical machinery, parts of which were loaded on railroad cars after dismantling necessary for shipment, is erroneously classified in bills of lading as "scrap iron and steel" for purpose of computing freight charges, and carrier could reclassify shipment as second-hand machinery and demand lawful rates on its arrival at destination — Southern Ry. Co. v. Woodstock Mills, 161 So. 519, 230 Ala. 494.

(5) A shipper of partially burned engines to the factory for rebuilding cannot recover the difference between the rate on engines and that on scrap iron when at the factory it is discovered that the engines cannot be rebuilt —Gibbes Machinery Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 93 S E. 718, 108 S C 159

Personal effects and goods of United States army officers

(1) In determining whether a shipment of personal effects of army officers, changing location by orders of the war department, which includes boxes, barrels, packages of household goods, personal effects, and professional goods, comes within the higher rate classification of "household goods," or a lower rate classification as to "emigrant moveables," the same rules apply as if private individuals or shippers were involved —Chesapeake & O R. Co. v. U. S, D.C.Va., 1 F.Supp. 350.

(2) Such a shipment has been held subject to the "household goods" rate notwithstanding the inclusion of the officers' personal effects and professional books.—Chesapeake & O. R Co. v. U. S, supra.

"Pig lead"

As regards application of special freight rates for "pig lead," lead in pigs is "pig-lead," whether produced from lead ore or scrap lead —Yazoo & M V R. Co. v. A. Marx & Sons, 135 So 64, 17 La App. 172, rehearing denied 135 So. 675, 17 La.App. 172.

Scrap iron

(1) The Interstate Commerce Commission's interpretation of the tariff on scrap iron and scrap steel does not contemplate that pieces of iron or steel, tendered for shipment as scrap, must be mutilated, bent, or twisted in order to constitute scrap metal.—U. S. ex rel. Sonken-Galamba Corporation v. Missouri-Kansas-Texas R. Co., D.C.Mo., 21 F.Supp. 931.

(2) Scrap steel consisting chiefly of steel plates obtained from the dismantling of antiquated tanks for storing crude oil is entitled to be carried under tariff rates governing "scrap iron and scrap steel" as distinguished from "secondhand material," even though a negligible number of the old plates were used in constructing smaller, temporary oil tanks —U. S. ex rel Sonken-Galamba Corporation v. Missouri-Kansas-Texas R Co., supra.

Ship plates

Special reduced intra-state rates fixed by schedules for steel ship plates are not applicable to plates not intended for, and not used in, construction of ships.—Willamette Iron & Steel Works v. Baltimore & O R. Co, D.C.Or., 25 F.2d 522, affirmed, C.C.A., 29 F.2d 80.

Use of article

The intended use of an article may be helpful in determining whether it falls within one classification or another, but, if is intended for a use which would entitle it to be classified as a particular type of article, it is not deprived of that classification because it could be used for other purposes.—Pennsylvania R. Co v. U. S, Ct.Cl., 42 F 2d 600.

12. U S.—S. A. Gerrard Co. v. American Ry Express Co., C.C.A.Ohio, 35 F.2d 861.

13. U S.—David v. Kelly-Weber & Co., D C.La., 24 F.2d 708—Swift & Co. v. U. S, Ill., 255 F. 291, 166 C C A 461.
N C.—Corporation Commission v. Sea Board Air-Line System, 37 S E. 266, 127 N.C 283.
S C —Byrd v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 90 S.E. 181, 106 S.C. 1.

Carload character determined as of time of shipment

The carload character of a freight shipment must be determined at the time the shipment begins and cannot be changed, so far as the application of rates is concerned, by the subsequent conduct of either consignor or consignee —Swift & Co v. U. S, Ill, 255 F. 291, 166 C C.A. 461

Carload shipments of live stock

(1) Statute and tariff prescribing rates to be charged for carload shipments of mixed live stock construed and applied —Bennett Commission Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 261 N. W. 593, 195 Minn. 7.

(2) Where freight rate per hundred pounds for carload shipment of cattle was less than for hogs, but minimum weight allowed was greater, charge for mixed carload shipment of cattle and hogs, weighing less than either minimum, based on cattle rate per hundred pounds and accompanying cattle minimum weight, was permissible under statute prohibiting rate for mixed shipment in excess of highest rate and minimum weight charged by carrier for any kind of stock in car, the word "highest" modifying entire phrase "rate and minimum weight" —Bennett Commission Co v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co, 271 N.W 468, 190 Minn. 179.

(3) Carrier's schedules for live stock shipments on file with interstate commerce commission did not limit carload to twenty-eight horses, for other than rate purposes —Shaffer v. American Ry. Express Co., Mo. App., 282 S.W. 725.

Excess weight

(1) Where the applicable schedules or tariffs so provide, a carload shipper may be required to pay not only the carload rate, but also for an excess in weight over a specified carload weight in proportion to the carload rate
Fla.—Louisville & N R Co. v. Speed-Parker, Inc., 137 So. 724, 103 Fla. 439.
Ga.—Seaboard Air Line Ry Co v. Lumberman's Co., 149 S.E 128, 168 Ga. 851, reversing Lumberman's Co v. Seaboard Air Line Ry Co., 139 S E. 116, 37 Ga App. 176, vacated 149 S E. 303, 40 Ga.App 238, conformed to 149 S.E. 303, 40 Ga. App 238.

(2) Words "per car" in rate schedules, covering intra-state sand and gravel shipments, when read in connection with rule in railroad commission's classifications, governing carload shipments, necessarily mean a minimum car and do not preclude application of rule requiring any excess over minimum to be charged for in proportion.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v.

tic use,[14] is over a particular route,[15] or between particular points.[16] In a tariff providing that rates to a specified point will also apply to "directly intermediate points," a directly intermediate point is a point on a route reasonably direct from the point of origin to the specified destination and not one on a circuitous route, wholly outside and remote from the trade territory embraced in the tariff.[17]

Speed-Parker, Inc., 137 So. 724, 103 Fla. 439.

Separate ownership of different parts of shipment

(1) A carload lot presented for shipment by one person is entitled to be carried at carload rates, although all of the goods do not actually belong to one shipper.—Great Northern Ry Co. v. O'Connor, Minn., 34 S Ct. 380, 232 U.S. 508, 58 L.Ed. 703.

(2) A shipper making shipments in carload lots has the right to bill to a single consignee, although the contents of the car may be intended for different individuals, and may thereby obtain the benefit of carload rates —Swift & Co. v. U. S., Ill., 255 F 291, 166 C.C.A 461.

(3) Where a carload shipment has been received from one consignor under one bill of lading, consigned to himself as consignee and paid for at carload rates, the carrier cannot, under a tariff providing that the carload rate will apply only on shipments received from one consignor under one bill of lading, delivered under one expense bill to one consignee, collect more than the carload rate because part of the shipment was owned by another person and seized on replevin at the point of destination.—St. Louis & S F. R. Co. v. First Nat. Bank, 171 P. 467, 68 Okl. 68.

14. U S.—Carpenter v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., C C.A Tex., 89 F 2d 274.

Emergency export rates

(1) Under a tariff providing a reduced emergency export rate on wheat in order to effect a reduction of a surplus wheat supply and prevent a lowering of prices, and requiring, in order for the rate to apply, that there be proof of exportation at time of shipment, and that there be an actual exportation on or before a specified date, a shipper not complying with the conditions and limitations so imposed is not entitled to the benefit of the emergency rates — Carpenter v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., C. C.A Tex., 89 F.2d 274

(2) In determining whether a shipment is for export, so as to become entitled to such a rate, a predetermined intention of the shipper to export is an important element, but not to the exclusion of the giving of due consideration and effect to all parts of the contract of carriage —Carpenter v. Texas & N. O. R. Co, supra.

15. U S.—Western Grain Co v St Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co, C C A. Ala., 56 F.2d 160—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Delmar Co, Minn., 51 S.Ct 579, 283 U S 686, 75 L.Ed. 1349, reversing, C C A, 43 F.2d 780, which affirmed, D C, Delmar Co v Great Northern Ry. Co, 34 F.2d 221, certiorari granted Great Northern Ry. Co v. Delmar Co, 51 S.Ct 213, 282 U.S. 836, 75 L Ed 742—Chandler v. Pennsylvania R Co., C.C A Va, 11 F.2d 39, affirming, D C., 9 F.2d 703—Missouri Pac. R Co. v. Rea-Patterson Milling Co, C C A Kan, 273 F. 518—Oregon Short Line R Co. v. Portland Cattle Loan Co, D C Or, 245 F. 214, affirmed Portland Cattle Loan Co. v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 251 F. 33, 163 C.C.A. 233, and Portland Feeder Co v. Oregon Short Line R Co., 251 F. 36, 163 C C.A. 236— Wheeling & L. E Ry. Co. v. Standard Envelope Mfg. Co., D C Ohio, 2 F.Supp. 637

La.—Vicksburg, S. & P. Ry. Co. v. Kidd-Russ Trunk & Bag Co., 130 So. 630, 15 La App. 374.

10 C J p 430 note 7 [a].

Usual route

Railroad, by becoming party to intermediate tariff provision, merely agreed to handle shipments over its usual route between two named points for rate published —Lafond Motor Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., D.C Minn., 2 F.Supp. 658.

16. U S —International Milling Co v. Lowden, C.C A Minn., 91 F.2d 270 —Chicago Great Western R. Co v. Farmers' Shipping Ass'n, C.C.A Kan., 59 F.2d 657.

Ind.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Johnson Butter Co, 187 N.E. 405, 97 Ind App. 537.

Change in point of destination

If the contract of shipment contemplates the possibility of the goods being taken at an intermediate point, and the owner does thus take them, he is liable for the tariff schedule rate to that point, although more than a pro rata charge as computed on the charge for the entire transportation.—Sherman, S & S. R. Co. v. Beebe, 39 S W 1102, 15 Tex Civ App 685—Southern Pac R. Co. v. Haas, Tex.Civ.App, 21 S.W 1021.

Export rates held inapplicable to domestic shipment

(1) Under a tariff schedule containing three sections prescribing classes of rates for domestic shipments to the Pacific coast and a fourth section prescribing export rates for goods shipped to Hawaiian Islands, and containing alternative application clause to effect that rate of any other section should be applied if lower, the export rate is not applicable to domestic shipments — Southern Pac Co v. Lothrop, C C A. Or, 15 F.2d 486, reversing, D C, Lothrop v. Spokane, P. & S Ry Co, 10 F.2d 225, and certiorari denied Lothrop v. Southern Pac Co, 47 S Ct 336, 273 U S. 742, 71 L Ed 869, Lothrop v. Spokane, P. & S R Co, 47 S Ct. 336, 273 U.S. 742, 71 L Ed. 869 and Lothrop v. Oregon-Washington R & Nav. Co., 47 S Ct. 336, 273 U. S. 742, 71 L.Ed. 869.

(2) The abandonment by carrier of alternative application clause pending suit is not an implied admission that such clause made tariff on shipments to Hawaiian Islands applicable to other shipments.—Southern Pac. Co v. Lothrop, supra.

Long and short haul clause

Tariff sheet of railroad naming rates on coal between two points on its line to a common destination within the state, the higher rate being named for the shorter distance, the further clause appearing on the sheet, "On interstate traffic a higher rate must not be charged for a shorter than a longer distance over the same line," did not affect the named rates, and was not an offer to transport coal from the further point at the same rate charged from the point nearer the common destination, although the ultimate destination of the shipments was beyond the state. —Sunderland Bros. Co. v. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co., 190 S W. 650, 196 Mo App. 154.

Tariff specifically referring to points involved

Shipment of corn from Bondurant, Iowa, to Chicago, was held governed by specific rate of eighteen and five-tenths cents per hundred pounds provided in tariff schedule, and not by general provisions of supplemental tariff, fixing rate of sixteen cents per hundred pounds for shipments between certain other stations on the line and "intermediate points."—Chicago Great Western R. Co v. Farmers' Shipping Ass'n, C.C.A Kan, 59 F. 2d 657.

17. U S.—Standard Oil Co. v. Pennsylvania R Co, C C A Ill., 40 F.2d 52, certiorari denied Standard Oil Co (Indiana) v. Pennsylvania R. Co, 51 S Ct. 78, 282 U S 872, 75 L Ed 770—Updike Grain Corporation v. St. Louis & S. F. Ry. Co., C C.A.Neb., 52 F.2d 94

"Directly intermediate point"

A provision in a carrier's schedule of rates, under the heading, "Intermediate Application," that the rates will apply to directly intermediate points does not mean that the rates

Where a commodity shipped is included in more than one tariff designation, that which is more specific will be held applicable;[18] and, where two descriptions and tariffs are equally appropriate, the apply to localities between stations, the word "points" referring to stations, and "directly intermediate points" to parts of the schedule in which only a part of the stations are named.—Schanen-Blair Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 136 P. 886, 68 Or. 106.

"Intermediate points" construed

Points of destination of goods shipped on railway on one of whose not unduly circuitous routes such points lay between points of origin and point accorded specific rates therefrom by railway tariff were "intermediate points" within tariff provision making rates to intermediate points the same as to next more distant point accorded specific rates, as against contention that rates were determined by direct routes from points of origin to point accorded specific rates and thence to points of destination.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Wilcox Co., C.C.A.Ill., 68 F.2d 883, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 72, 293 U.S. 560, 79 L.Ed. 661.

Point held not intermediate

(1) Birmingham, Ala., was held not "directly intermediate" between shipping point in Nebraska and Vicksburg, Miss., under tariff, words quoted suggesting point on route reasonably direct from point of origin to specified destination.—Updike Grain Corporation v. St. Louis & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Neb., 52 F.2d 94.

(2) Tariff specifying rates to named Illinois and northwestern Indiana points, with provision for application to intermediate points of rate to first specified point beyond, did not fix rates to other Indiana points.—Standard Oil Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 40 F.2d 52, certiorari denied Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 51 S.Ct. 78, 282 U.S. 872, 75 L.Ed. 770.

Provision limited to unnamed intermediate points

A provision in a tariff to the effect that "Between stations on the C., M. & St. P. Ry. rates to and from intermediate stations will be the same as shown to or from the next more distant station to or from which rates are named" was held to apply only to shipping points to or from which a specific rate is not named and which points are between specifically named shipping points.

U.S.—National Elevator Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., Minn., 246 F. 588, 158 C.C.A. 558.

Minn.—Reliance Elevator Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 165 N.W. 867, 139 Minn. 69.

[18] U.S.—U.S. v. Gulf Refining Co., Okl., 45 S.Ct. 597, 268 U.S. 542, 69 L.Ed. 1082, affirming, C.C.A., Gulf Refining Co. v. U.S., 284 F. 90—Gideon-Anderson Lumber Co. v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 88 F.2d 232—American Ry. Express Co. v. Price Bros., C.C.A.Tex., 54 F.2d 67—Nocatee Crate Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., C.C.A.Fla., 26 F.2d 670—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 25 F.2d 66—Davis v. Prairie Pipe Line Co., C.C.A.Kan., 298 F. 393—Lakewood Engineering Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., Ohio, 259 F. 61, 170 C.C.A. 129, error dismissed, 41 S.Ct. 60, 254 U.S. 661, 65 L.Ed. 463.

Fla.—Reinschmidt v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 160 So. 69, 118 Fla. 237.

Miss.—E. L. Young Heading Co. v. Payne, 89 So. 782, 127 Miss. 48.

Exception

Where one rating is provided in tariff classification proper, and another in exception, exception takes precedence, although description in classification proper is more specific.—Atlantic Bridge Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., D.C.Fla., 56 F.2d 163, affirmed, C.C.A., Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Atlantic Bridge Co., 57 F.2d 654.

"Lumber" and "dressed lumber"

Under a tariff giving proportionate or lower rates on incoming lumber where a certain percentage or tonnage of the manufactured product is shipped out over the same road within a specified time, and classifying lumber as "lumber," "lumber dressed," and "lumber rough," and setting opposite each the varieties of manufactured products which must be shipped out in a certain tonnage to give the incoming commodity the lower rate, a shipper of "dressed lumber" must ship out the required tonnage of the types of manufactured products set opposite that class of lumber rather than the types set opposite "lumber," for the classification of dressed lumber is more specific and hence controlling.—Gideon-Anderson Lumber Co. v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 88 F.2d 232.

Onions

Small onions, having part of growing foliage on them when shipped, are subject to published rate on "onions, green," rather than higher rate for "plants, strawberry and vegetable."—American Ry. Express Co. v. Price Bros., C.C.A.Tex., 54 F.2d 67.

Short logs

Higher rate on logs under six feet is applicable to shipment of short logs, although lower rate was prescribed for logs generally.—Nocatee Crate Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., C.C.A.Fla., 26 F.2d 670.

"Steel rails and ties" and "portable railway tracks"

Where a manufacturer of portable railway track did not attach to the rails the plates and bolts, but shipped sections consisting of two steel rails and steel crossties, which were riveted together, it was held that the article was a "portable railway track set up in sections," within the tariff providing for that class of articles, and shipper was not entitled to a lower commodity tariff on iron and steel rails and crossties.—Lakewood Engineering Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., Ohio, 259 F. 61, 170 C.C.A. 129, error dismissed 41 S.Ct. 60, 254 U.S. 661, 65 L.Ed. 463.

Commodity and class rates or tariffs

(1) Where a commodity rate is made in a tariff, it supersedes the class rate, and is the only lawful rate that may be charged.—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Lykes Bros., D.C.Tex., 294 F. 963—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. U.S., 73 Ct.Cl. 250, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 12, 287 U.S. 599, 77 L.Ed. 522.

(2) Where common carriers published a "class" rate as applicable to "high explosives, viz. explosive projectiles," and a "commodity" rate as applicable to "fixed ammunition," and the article transported was both fixed ammunition and a high-explosive projectile, the "commodity" rate, under the published tariffs, and the regulations of the interstate commerce commission, governed.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. U.S., supra.

(3) Where an express company had established a general tariff of charges for merchandise, a tariff of rates for other classes of goods, and a commodities tariff, a provision of the commodities tariff, that all classes of business not rated higher than merchandise between certain localities are put on a commodities rate, applies only to those articles having a special classification, and not to articles under the general classification of merchandise, especially where such interpretation had been adopted by the carrier in making some of its charges.—Gimbel Bros., Inc., v. Barrett, D.C.Pa., 218 F. 880, reversed on other grounds 226 F. 623, 141 C.C.A. 379.

(4) A provision in the commodities tariff of an express company fixing a minimum rate on all classes of business between certain localities, the charges to be graduated according to the scale on shipments under one hundred pounds, applies only to shipments of the commodities class, and not to shipments classified generally as merchandise.—Gimbel Bros., Inc. v. Barrett, supra.

shipper is entitled to have applied the one specifying the lower rate.[19] Under an express company's rule that two or more packages forwarded at the same time from the same place to the same consignee must be charged for on the aggregate weight, if a lower charge is made thereby, not all of such shipments shall be taken in making up the aggregate on which the weight is based, but only such as will result in a reduced charge because of the aggregation.[20] If there is any doubt as to which rate is applicable, the court may be justified in considering how the rates claimed as applicable would operate as a matter of justice.[21] The shipper has the full right to refrain from assembling the ultimate product or to disassemble the same for shipment in any way which will make the shipment take a lower tariff rate than if the article were in final form.[22] A rule in tariff regulations that commodity rates shall govern only when lower than specified class rates is not abrogated by another rule providing that, when a commodity rate has been "established," it removes the application of the class rates to or from the same point on that commodity, where a commodity rate higher than an existing class rate can be established only on special authority from the commission having control of rates.[23]

If the shipper has selected the route, the rate prescribed for that route is applicable and recoverable, although there is another route on which the rate would have been less,[24] but the carrier is not entitled to additional charges for additional services rendered without the owner's consent by reason of sending the goods to their destination by a roundabout way,[25] or to additional charges incurred because of the carrier's sending the shipment over a route other than that designated by the shipper;[26] and, where the shipper designates the route over which the goods are to travel, he is not liable for a higher rate resulting from a combination of the local rates over a different route over which the goods were actually sent and over which there was no through rate.[27] Where throughout a tariff in-

19. U.S.—U. S. v. Gulf Refining Co., Okl., 45 S.Ct. 597, 268 U.S. 542, 69 L.Ed. 1082, affirming, C.C.A., Gulf Refining Co. v. U. S., 284 F. 90—International Milling Co. v. Lowden, C.C.A.Minn., 91 F.2d 270—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Atlantic Bridge Co., C.C.A.Fla., 57 F.2d 654, 656, affirming, D.C., Atlantic Bridge Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 56 F.2d 163—Western Grain Co. v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ala., 56 F.2d 160—American Ry. Express Co. v. Price Bros., C.C.A.Tex., 54 F.2d 67.

Ark.—Swift & Co. v. Ft. Smith & W. Ry. Co., 16 S.W.2d 1001, 179 Ark. 516.

Va.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Freeman Supply Corporation, 133 S.E. 817, 145 Va. 207.

"A carrier may not, under a tariff couched in general terms, which, if interpreted in one way, will produce a higher, in another a lower, rate, insist upon the interpretation which gives it the higher rate. In short, in a situation of that kind, the shipper who has to pay the freight may call the tune"—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Atlantic Bridge Co., supra.

Contemporaneous conflicting rates

(1) Where a carrier has published conflicting rates effective contemporaneously in the same tariff, the shipper is entitled to the lower of these rates.—Dreyfuss v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 153 N.Y.S. 966, 90 Misc. 581.

(2) A shipper is entitled to the lowest of two published charges equally applicable to the same shipment.—Louisville Water Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., D.C.Ky., 14 F.Supp. 301.

20. U.S.—Gimbel Bros., Inc. v. Barrett, D.C.Pa., 218 F. 880, reversed on other grounds 226 F. 623, 141 C.C.A. 379.

21. U.S.—Hohenberg v. Louisville & N. R. Co., C.C.A.Ala., 46 F.2d 952, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 6, 284 U.S. 617, 76 L.Ed. 527—Davis v. Prairie Pipe Line Co., C.C.A.Kan., 298 F. 393.

Fla.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Speed-Parker, Inc., 137 So. 724, 103 Fla. 439.

22. U.S.—Lakewood Engineering Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., Ohio, 259 F. 61, 170 C.C.A. 129, error dismissed 41 S.Ct. 60, 254 U.S. 661, 65 L.Ed. 463.

23. Va.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Freeman Supply Corporation, 133 S.E. 817, 145 Va. 207.

24. La.—Vicksburg, S. & P. Ry. Co. v. Kidd-Russ Trunk & Bag Co., 130 So. 630, 15 La.App. 374.

N.Y.—Davis v. Cayuga Operating Co., 216 N.Y.S. 186, 217 App.Div. 675

Tex.—E. W. & F. D. Jones Drilling Co. v. Baldwin, Civ.App., 97 S.W.2d 1022, error dismissed.

Wis.—Mellon v. Johnson Co., 219 N.W. 352, 196 Wis. 64.

Designation of rate

Where three routes are available, two of which carry a higher rate in the same amount and a third which has a lower rate, and the bill of lading, without designating a particular route, recites that the rate is that fixed for the two more expensive routes, this has been held a sufficient designation of the route to render the shipper liable for the highest rate rather than the lower rate which would have prevailed for the cheapest route.—Davis v. Cayuga Operating Co., 216 N.Y.S. 186, 217 App.Div. 675.

25. Me.—Jones v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 63 Me. 188

Neb.—Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago Lumber Co., 19 N.W. 451, 15 Neb. 390.

26. La.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Consolidated Companies, App., 151 So. 433, affirmed 156 So. 215, 180 La. 180.

27. Mo.—Lancaster v. Schreiner, 212 S.W. 19, 202 Mo.App. 459.

Responsibility for misrouting

(1) Where a shipper delivered an interstate shipment of goods to a carrier and directed it to be sent over a route having an established through charge, the initial carrier was charged with the duty to make necessary notations on the waybill, and the shipper had the right to assume compliance with that duty, and he was not responsible for any misrouting.—Lancaster v. Schreiner, 212 S.W. 19, 202 Mo.App. 459

(2) In case an interstate shipment of freight is misrouted so that the shipper or consignee is compelled to pay a larger amount of freight charges than the established through rate, the carrier or carriers, whether initial or connecting, which are guilty of the misrouting must stand the loss, and cannot collect the excess charges caused by the misrouting, and, if paid by the shipper or consignee, must refund the overcharge.—Lancaster v. Schreiner, supra.

(3) The spirit of the Interstate Commerce Act with the Carmack amendment, U.S.Comp.St. §§ 8604a, 8604aa, is to treat connecting lines complete routings are supplemented by the words "and lines beyond," a shipper may not complete a routing with the lines of other participating carriers, save where, in the tariff, the routing is followed by such words.[28]

Where a shipper has given no directions as to routing, he is entitled to have the goods moved by the cheapest available route and at the lowest rate applicable thereto;[29] and the same is true where the shipper has originally specified the route but has subsequently given a diversion order without specifying the diversion route.[30]

Application of through rate or of local rates to shipments. A through shipment between certain points may be entitled to the benefit of a through rate which is less than the total of the local rates between the intermediate points;[31] conversely, where through shipments are made, the rates applicable are through rates, even though a combination of intermediate rates would make a lower rate;[32] and the mere fact that the shipment was billed to an intermediate point and there reconsigned to its destination will not convert it into a local shipment so as to permit the local rates instead of the through rates to be charged,[33] but a practice of transportation as one line so far as the shipper is concerned, and to compel the different companies forming a through route to deal as a unit with the shipper, and then to adjust all differences as to individual liability among themselves, and thus, where a shipment was misrouted and the proper charges were paid to the terminal carrier, such terminal carrier should not be allowed to sue the shipper for the local established charges over the actual route of the shipment, but should be required to settle the matter with the other carriers, because to collect the money from the shipper would be to collect money for the benefit of an offending carrier, money which must again be returned to the shipper by the offending carrier.—Lancaster v. Schreiner, supra.

(4) A connecting carrier receiving a shipment of goods which was not routed over its line will be charged with knowledge that it was aiding in misrouting the shipment, where the bill of lading and waybill designated the proper route.—Lancaster v. Schreiner, supra.

(5) Where shipper ascertained through rate and designated the proper route and paid the correct amount of charges for the through shipment, the initial carrier was responsible for the through shipment, although part of the route was over a connecting carrier, the connecting carrier becoming in a measure at least the agent of the initial carrier to complete the shipment, and there was such contractual relation between the two carriers that the connecting carrier could hold the initial carrier for its lawful share of freight charges.—Lancaster v. Schreiner, supra.

Shipping papers presumed to designate route

In an action by a carrier to recover charges, where neither the bill of lading nor the waybill issued by the initial carrier was introduced in evidence, it must be presumed that they designated the routing of the shipment as stated in a receipt issued by such carrier to the shipper, especially in view of Interstate Commerce Act, § 20, U.S.Comp.St. §§ 8604a, 8604aa, providing a penalty for issuing a false bill of lading.—Lancaster v. Schreiner, 212 S.W. 19, 202 Mo. App. 459.

28. U.S.—Western Grain Co. v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ala., 56 F.2d 160—Updike Grain Corporation v. St. Louis & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Neb., 52 F.2d 94.

Actual tariff must exist

There must be actual tariff in existence at time of shipment and shipper cannot create one by his own piecing.—Western Grain Co. v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., C.C.A. Ala., 56 F.2d 160.

29. U.S.—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Lykes Bros., D.C.Tex., 294 F. 968.

Ala.—W. L. Shepherd Lumber Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 112 So. 323, 216 Ala. 89.

Iowa.—Miller v. Davis, 240 N.W. 743, 213 Iowa 1091, 78 A.L.R. 1541.

Alternative routes

Where a shipper delivers goods to a carrier, he is entitled to have them sent over the cheapest of two or more alternative routes, even without making a selection.—Lancaster v. Schreiner, 212 S.W. 19, 202 Mo. App. 459.

Initial carrier is not justified in forwarding a shipment over a route carrying a higher rate than another, because it will thereby obtain a greater portion of the haul.—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Lykes Bros., D.C.Tex., 294 F. 968.

30. Ala.—W. L. Shepherd Lumber Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 112 So. 323, 216 Ala. 89.

31. U.S.—State of Texas v. Anderson, Clayton & Co., C.C.A.Tex., 92 F.2d 104, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 265, 302 U.S. 747, rehearing denied 58 S.Ct. 366, 302 U.S. 780—Union Wire Rope Corporation v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 66 F.2d 965, reversing, D.C., Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Union Wire Rope Corporation, 1 F.Supp. 399, and certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 122, 290 U.S. 686, 78 L.Ed. 591.

Through rate held inapplicable

Carrier's error in computation of rate did not make through rates applicable where tariff merely made through rates apply in case of error of carrier in routing.—Lyman Perin & Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 194 N.E. 398, 48 Ohio App. 339.

32. U.S.—Marshall Mfg. Co. v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Tex., 29 F.2d 660—Davis v. Krauss Bros. Lumber Co., D.C.La., 25 F.2d 888.

33. U.S.—Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Settle, Ohio, 43 S.Ct. 28, 260 U.S. 166, 67 L.Ed. 189, affirming, C.C.A., Baltimore & O. S. W. R. R. v. Settle, 272 F. 675—Marshall Mfg. Co. v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Tex., 29 F.2d 660.

Minn.—Becher-Bartlett-Lockerby Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 197 N.W. 103, 158 Minn. 77.

N.C.—Davis v. Latham-Bradshaw Cotton Co., 117 S.E. 391, 185 N.C. 387.

Reconsigned shipments held through shipments

(1) Shipments from Iuka, Miss., to Memphis, Tenn., reconsigned to cities in Arkansas, were through shipments for rate purposes.—Davis v. Krauss Bros. Lumber Co., D.C.La., 25 F.2d 888.

(2) Where, under rates filed with, and approved by, the interstate commerce commission, shipments of cotton originating on the carrier's line were permitted to be forwarded to a concentration point and there unloaded, and later reshipped at a through rate, it was held that shipments of cotton which in fact started at various points other than those on the carrier's line, but which had been shipped to those points and from there rebilled in the same cars, with seals unbroken, to the point of concentration, did not "originate" on the carrier's line within the meaning of the statute and were not entitled to the reshipment privileges and reduced charges.—Davis v. Latham-whereby grain shipped to a primary market is given the benefit of a through rate, if subsequently reshipped, known as the through rates with transit privilege, cannot convert the subsequent independent shipment from the primary market on a new bill of lading of grain whose only destination, when shipped from a country point, was the primary market, into a through movement, as against the contention that an additional charge made in connection therewith, which was ordered canceled by the interstate commerce commission as unreasonable, was legally part of a through rate.[34] Although a through rate between two points is not expressly restricted in its application to the shorter and more direct of several available routes between such points, it will be construed to be so restricted where to construe it otherwise would result in a violation of the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act against charging more for a short haul than for a longer haul.[35]

Stoppage or milling in transit. A stoppage of the shipment at an intermediate point will not preclude the application of the through rate where such stoppage is in accordance with a transit privilege granted by the applicable tariff or schedule [36]

Bradshaw Cotton Co., 117 S.E. 391, 185 N.C. 387.

34. U.S.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry Co. v. U. S., Ill., 49 S.Ct. 494, 279 U.S. 768, 73 L.Ed. 947, affirming, D.C., 33 F.2d 345.

Interstate shipment cannot be converted into intra-state

A carrier cannot, by separating the rate into its component parts, charging local rates and issuing local waybills, convert an interstate shipment into intra-state transportation, and thereby deprive a shipper of an interstate rate.—Becher-Bartlett-Lockerby Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 197 N.W. 103, 158 Minn. 77.

Additional charge to primary market unreasonable

Additional charge for bringing merchandise into city, imposed only if merchandise is afterward shipped out over another railroad, is unreasonable.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 49 S.Ct. 494, 279 U.S. 768, 73 L.Ed. 947, affirming, D.C., 33 F.2d 345.

35. U.S.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Delmar Co., Minn., 51 S.Ct. 579, 283 U.S. 686, 75 L.Ed. 1349, reversing, C.C.A., 43 F.2d 780, which affirmed, D.C., Delmar Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 34 F.2d 221, certiorari granted Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Delmar Co., 51 S.Ct. 212, 282 U.S. 836, 75 L.Ed. 742.

36. U.S.—State of Texas v. Anderson, Clayton & Co., C.C.A.Tex., 92 F.2d 104, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 265, 302 U.S. 747, rehearing denied 58 S.Ct. 366, 302 U.S. 780.—Union Wire Rope Corporation v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 66 F.2d 965, reversing, D.C., Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Union Wire Rope Corporation, 1 F.Supp. 399, and certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 122, 290 U.S. 686, 78 L.Ed. 591.

La.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. H. D. Foote Lumber Co., 162 So. 16, 182 La. 372.

Minn.—Big Diamond Mills Co. v. Chicago, Great Western R. Co., 227 N.W. 430, 178 Minn. 432.

Mo.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Berthold & Jennings Lumber Co., App., 247 S.W. 219.

Tex.—Schaff v. Kennedy, Civ.App., 220 S.W. 223.

Wash.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Frye & Co., 186 P. 668, 109 Wash. 68.

Procedure for obtaining transit privilege

"In order to give manufacturers the equivalent of through freight rates, the Interstate and Intrastate Commerce Commissions have authorized what are called 'milling-in-transit' contracts. There are two modes of procedure under the tariffs by which a transit operator or manufacturer may avail himself of the 'milling-in-transit' privileges. The manufacturer may pay the normal nontransit rate from origin of the rough material to the mill and thereafter secure a refund down to the depressed rate by making reshipments of the finished product via the rails of the same carrier within one year. The manufacturer is given the option of executing a contract and bond guaranteeing the observance of the requirements of the tariff, thereby securing the right to have the rough materials delivered to him by the carrier upon payment of the depressed nontransit rate. Under this arrangement he must also reship the finished product over the contracting carrier's lines within one year, at the full published tariff rates, otherwise he must pay the full normal rate. The contract and bond arrangement gives the manufacturer the advantage of not having his capital tied up in freight charges subject to rebate."—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. H. D. Foote Lumber Co., 162 So. 16, 17, 182 La. 372.

Reshipment of products of different goods

Under a tariff giving a through rate on logs, with a milling-in-transit privilege if an equal amount of the manufactured product were shipped out over the carrier's lines, a shipper has been held entitled to the milling-in-transit rate, although the manufactured product shipped out by him was not derived from the identical logs delivered by the carrier.—Fletcher Paper Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 164 N.W. 528, 198 Mich. 469, affirmed Detroit & M. R. Co. v. Fletcher Paper Co., 39 S.Ct. 13, 248 U.S. 30, 63 L.Ed. 107.

Sale of finished product to carrier

Contracts for sale of finished lumber to railway company f. o. b. its rails at seller's mill for price based on depressed transit rates, collected by such company on shipments of rough lumber to seller under milling-in-transit contract, and regular commercial bills of lading under which finished lumber was shipped, obligate railway company as consignee, to pay or charge itself for freight, precluding railroad from collecting full commercial freight rate on previous inbound shipments of rough lumber, subject to credit of depressed transit rate already paid.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. H. D. Foote Lumber Co., 162 So. 16, 182 La. 372.

Stoppage for "reworking or reassembling"

(1) Under a tariff giving shippers of iron and steel articles the benefit of a joint through rate with a transit privilege entitling them to stop the shipment at a transit point for the purpose of "reworking or reassembling (called "fabrication" herein)" the article shipped, a shipper of steel rods who makes them into steel wire and wire rope at a transit point is entitled to the benefit of the joint through rates on his shipments of wire and rope from the transit point.—Union Wire Rope Corporation v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 66 F.2d 965, reversing, D.C., Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Union Wire Rope Corporation, 1 F.Supp. 399, and certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 122, 290 U.S. 686, 78 L.Ed. 591.

(2) In such a tariff the word "fabrication" includes making of wire and wire rope, although within some meaning of word "manufacture."—Union Wire Rope Corporation v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., supra.

The privilege of thus stopping a commodity in transit for the purpose of subjecting it to treatment and then to further transportation in its altered state, without losing the benefit of the through rate, is termed "milling in transit."[37] The object of the practice is to escape a local rate to and from the point of treatment, and to secure a through rate to the ultimate destination.[38] However, a transit privilege is not a matter of right;[39] and all conditions and limitations prescribed with reference to it must be observed;[40] and, if the transit privilege is availed of, the through rate applicable may, where it is so provided by the tariff, be greater than the ordinary through rate between the point of origin and the point of destination.[41] Hence, where the tariff provides that shipments from an intermediate point are entitled to transit privileges only on payment of the through rate from a point beyond, this is the rate applicable to a shipment from an intermediate point for which transit privileges have been exercised at the point of transit rather than the through rate from the true point of origin.[42] Under a tariff giving a milling privilege entitling the shipper to ship the finished product from the transit point to the point of destination for the difference between the rate paid to the transit station and the through transit rate from the point of origin to the point of destination, it has been held that, where wheat is milled into flour at the point of transit, the rate applicable on the flour shipment from the point of transit to the point of destination is the lower rate for wheat shipments rather than the flour rate.[43] Where partial carload shipments have been permitted to be concentrated at certain concentration points and there reloaded so as to reduce the number of cars, it has been held that the carrier is entitled to the through rates on the loads shipped through and the local rate on the abandoned cars from the loading point to the point of concentration.[44]

Where a party paying for a shipment on a through rate has unlawfully been granted the privilege of unloading part of a carload at an intermediate point, he is liable for the difference between the rate charged and the lawful rate consisting of the through rate on the entire car from the point of

(3) Also, the word "reworking" may mean and include "manufacture."—Union Wire Rope Corporation v Atchison, T & S F. Ry. Co, supra.

37. N C—Hilton Lumber Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 48 S E 813, 136 N C 479, 1 Ann.Cas 52.
10 C J. p 498 note 58 [a].

38. U S—Lewis v. Southern R. Co, Tenn, 217 F. 321, 133 C.C.A. 237.
10 C J p 499 note 59.

39. Ala—Priebe v Southern R. Co, 66 So 573, 189 Ala 427.
10 C J. p 499 note 61.

40. U.S—International Milling Co. v. Lowden, C C A Minn, 91 F.2d 270—Gideon-Anderson Lumber Co v St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co, C C A Mo, 88 F 2d 232
Ga.—Williamson-Inman Co. v. Nashville, C & St L. Ry Co, 160 S E. 687, 44 Ga App. 129.
Kan.—McCullough v. Missouri Pac. Ry Co., 160 P. 214, 98 Kan. 710.
10 C J p 499 note 62.

Assignment of right to refund

Purchaser of cotton need not assign concentration rights to owner having right to refund of freight paid for concentration on subsequent reshipment, where tariff required such indorsement or assignment only for refunds to other than original owner—Galveston, H. & S. A Ry Co v Wilson, Tex.Civ App., 1 S.W. 2d 480, certiorari denied 48 S Ct 529, 277 U S 594, 72 L Ed. 1005.

Conditions imposed

Provisions of carrier's tariff giving privilege of milling in transit "subject to conditions herein named" referred to conditions specified in preceding portions as well as in the same paragraph—McCullough v. Missouri Pac Ry. Co, 160 P. 214, 98 Kan 710.

Reshipment to proper point

Where the tariff gives the milling-in-transit privilege only if the product is reshipped to specified termini, a shipper who has reshipped to a terminal not so specified is not entitled to the benefit of the milling-in-transit privilege.—Priebe v. Southern Ry. Co, 75 So. 409, 200 Ala. 81.

Reshipment within time limit

Where the lower rate is conditioned on reshipment within a specified time after the date of the original inbound freight bill, except where the shipper has obtained an extension of time on written application therefor, a shipper who has not reshipped within the time specified is not entitled to the benefit of the lower rate, and amendments to the tariff, providing for an extension of time, are of no avail to him where the right to an extension is still conditioned on a written application which he has not made—Gideon-Anderson Lumber Co. v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., C C.A.Mo, 88 F 2d 232

Reshipment of required tonnage

Shipper's failure to reship tonnage required to entitle him to proportionate rates may not be asserted by the carrier where the shipper's failure in this respect is due to the failure of the carrier to furnish sufficient cars.—Davis v. Hampton Stave Co, 291 S.W. 979, 173 Ark. 70.

Transit rate an entirety

A milling-in-transit rate is an entirety and must be accepted and carried out in its entirety or not at all. It is applicable only when all of its substantial terms and provisions are observed. A shipper who fails to conform to these terms cannot claim the privilege.
U.S—Carson Lumber Co v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co, Okl., 209 F. 191, 126 C C A. 139.
Okl.—St Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Walton-Chandler Lumber Co., 145 P. 340, 44 Okl. 452

Effect of commission's order

Where carriers had accorded to grain shipments milling-in-transit privilege at some intermediate point on their individual lines, public service commission's order respecting joint rates, providing that it did not change existing rates, did not entitle miller to receive grain at Portland on one line and reship flour to point on another line under through rate with milling-in-transit privilege.—Crown Mills v. Oregon Electric Ry Co, 21 P 2d 214, 144 Or. 25.

41. U S—Updike Grain Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co, C C.A.Neb, 35 F 2d 486

42. U S—Updike Grain Co v Chicago & N. W. Ry Co, supra.

43. Minn—Big Diamond Mills Co v. Chicago, Great Western R Co, 227 N W 430, 178 Minn. 432.

44. Wash—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co v Frye & Co., 186 P. 668, 109 Wash 68.

shipment to the point of destination and the local rate on the goods unloaded at the intermediate point from the point of destination back to the intermediate point.[45]

Misrepresentation or fraud as to matters affecting amount of rate or charge. Where the amount of the rate is dependent on the kind, grade, or value of the property transported, the carrier has at common law the right to make such inquiry as to the kind, grade, or value of the property as will enable it to determine which rate is applicable; and it is the duty of the shipper to answer truthfully.[46] Although there is apparent authority to the contrary,[47] it is usually held that, if misrepresentations are made as to such matters, the carrier is entitled to collect in accordance with the rate properly applicable.[48] This is true however, only when the proper rate on the actual shipment, under the circumstances surrounding the transportation, can lawfully be collected by the carrier, and it has no right to collect the rate on a shipment which it could not lawfully make.[49] If goods which the carrier could not lawfully carry are represented to it as being a different kind of goods which could lawfully be handled, the carrier cannot collect the rate prescribed for goods of the type of which the shipment actually consisted,[50] but, if it acted innocently, it may collect the rate prescribed for the type of goods which it supposed to be in the shipment.[51]

Where, because of the fraud of the carrier's agent, false shipping receipts have been issued showing the shipment of the goods for a lesser distance than they were actually shipped, an innocent consignee who has paid the charges based on the distance as shown cannot subsequently be compelled to pay for the additional distance.[52]

Movement of privately owned empty cars. Under a rule of the interstate commerce commission providing that freight cars of private ownership will be moved empty without charge, except that the aggregate mileage of each owner's cars must be equalized as between empty or loaded movement by the owner, either by mileage equivalent in loaded movement or by payment for the excess mileage at a specified rate, refrigerator cars owned by a refrigerator line company are cars of private ownership on which excess mileage must be paid, although another railroad company has the prior but not the exclusive right to use the cars.[53] Such rule is not so vague and indefinite as to be incapable of enforcement as it sufficiently incorporates or indicates the rate to be paid by reference and discloses an intention to give the owner a reasonable time within which to make the equalization.[54]

Transportation of waste for disposal. Carriers are entitled to compensation for the disposition of waste slag or other materials;[55] and, where the transportation is for the purpose of disposing of waste material which the shipper desires to get rid of, the right of the carrier to recover at the established rate is not affected by the fact that the carrier used the waste material for its own purposes.[56]

United States government shipments. Under the Army Transportation Act, whereby congress provided for the movement of government troops and property over land grant railroads at fifty per centum of the rates charged the general public, and a "freight land grant equalization agreement," whereby a nonland grant railroad agreed to transport property moved by the quartermaster's department, United States army, United States interior department, or United States reclamation service at the re-

45. Miss.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. F. A. Hulett & Son, 131 So. 814, 159 Miss. 333.

46. Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Osborne, 153 S.E. 865, 154 Va. 477.

47. Minn.—U. S. Express Co. v. Koerner, 68 N.W. 181, 65 Minn. 540, 33 L.R.A. 600.
10 C.J. p 443 note 92.

48. U.S.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Sommers Bros. Mfg. Co., D.C.Idaho, 34 F.2d 56—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. U. S., 73 Ct.Cl. 250, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 12, 287 U.S. 599, 77 L.Ed. 522.
Ga.—Clemons v. Payne, 105 S.E. 623, 26 Ga.App. 142.
N.Y.—Gassman v. New York Cent. R. Co., 201 N.Y.S. 740, 207 App. Div. 15.
Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Osborne, 153 S.E. 865, 154 Va. 477.
10 C.J. p 443 note 91.

Discovery of fraud before delivery

Where the shipper misrepresents the character of the goods, and the carrier, without notice or knowledge that they are of a different kind, accepts the goods, and fixes and accepts the freight, and delivers to the consignor a bill of lading on the basis that the goods are of the character stated by the consignor when in fact the goods are of an entirely different character, on which the carrier would be lawfully entitled to charge a higher rate of freight, the carrier may, on discovering this fact before the goods are delivered to the consignee at the place of destination, charge the excess of the freight against the goods, and hold the shipment until the additional charges are paid.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Seitz, 73 N.E. 585, 214 Ill. 350, 105 Am.S.R. 108—10 C.J. p 443 note 91.

49. Ga.—Clemons v. Payne, 105 S.E. 623, 26 Ga.App. 142.

50. Ga.—Clemons v. Payne, supra

51. Ga.—Clemons v. Payne, supra

52. U.S.—American Express Co. v. Sweeney, D.C.Mass., 283 F. 691.

53. U.S.—North Western Refrigerator Line Co. v. Ervin, C.C.A.Miss., 78 F.2d 186, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 143, 296 U.S. 622, 80 L.Ed. 442.

54. U.S.—North Western Refrigerator Line Co. v. Ervin, supra.

55. Pa.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 68 Pa. Super. 503.

56. U.S.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Carnegie Steel Co., D.C.Pa., 251 F. 682.

duced rates effective on land grant railroads, the contracting railroad was held not required to transport fuel oil shipped by the Emergency Fleet Corporation at the reduced rates;[57] and an earlier federal statute making the quartermaster-general exclusively responsible for the transportation of government property did not bring the shipments by the Emergency Fleet Corporation within the carrier's agreement.[58]

(2) Other Items or Services

A carrier may ordinarily make an extra charge for additional items or services, unless they are a necessary element of the transportation service or included in the charge therefor, or they have been rendered necessary by reason of the carrier's negligence or default, or the owner or shipper has directed that they be not rendered.

In addition to the charges for transportation, the carrier is entitled to charge reasonable sums for other services incidental or accessorial to the transportation, which are not included in, or covered by, the transportation rate or charge,[59] provided, under the Interstate Commerce Act and state statutes similar thereto, such services and the charges therefor are properly provided for in the filed and published tariff, see supra § 302. Further, it has been said that the law implies an agreement by the owner to pay a reasonable charge for any extra services that may be necessitated by his exercise of his right to control the shipment;[60] and a charge may be made for items which the parties have properly contracted shall be paid to the carrier.[61] On the other hand, a carrier may not lawfully make a separate and additional charge for an item or service which is one of the necessary elements of the transportation,[62] or which is included in, and covered by, the line-haul or transportation charge fixed by the applicable tariff or rate order.[63] Also, it cannot make a charge for extra expense caused by the negligence or default of itself or its agents;[64] and where the carrier is instructed by the owner of a shipment to omit a service or the performance of a duty usually incident to the contract of carriage, it cannot demand compensation for the performance of the service or duty, unless it is a service or duty required by law.[65]

Car rental. The duty or authority of a carrier to make an extra charge for the rental of special cars depends on a proper construction of the governing tariff.[66] Where a movement of cars from one point in the same terminal to another is in itself a complete movement so as to be regarded as a transportation, the carrier cannot make a car rental charge in addition to the published rate denominated as a "switching charge," as the use of the car is one of the necessary elements of the transportation.[67]

Feeding and care of live stock. Generally, where the owner or shipper of live stock has failed to feed and care for the same in transit, the carrier is entitled to be reimbursed for expenses it has incur-

57. U.S.—U. S. v. New York, C. & St. L. R. Co., C.C.A.Ohio, 32 F.2d 887.

58. U.S.—U. S. v. New York, C. & St. L. R. Co., supra.

59. Ky.—Andrews Steel Co. v. Davis, 276 S.W. 148, 210 Ky. 473.
N.D.—State v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 219 N.W. 295, 56 N.D. 822.
10 C.J. p 442 notes 71, 78.

60. Cal.—Heath v. Judson Freight Forwarding Co., 190 P. 839, 47 Cal App. 426.

61. Tex.—Houston Belt & Terminal Ry Co. v. Davis, Civ.App., 273 S.W. 676.

Cost of compensating injured employee

Under contract for carriage of earth by railway, wherein contractor agreed to pay certain kinds of expenses, incurred by railway in carrying out contract, "and one-half all other expenses of every kind, which might be directly allocated to the use of such trains," it was held that the amount paid railway employee for injuries received by him while assisting in operation of a train in performing work undertaken under contract was an expense "which might be directly allocated" to use of railway's trains in carrying out contract; rule of ejusdem generis being inapplicable.—Houston Belt & Terminal Ry. Co. v. Davis, Tex.Civ.App., 273 S.W. 676.

62. D.C.—U. S. ex rel. Kroger Grocery & Baking Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 73 F.2d 948, 64 App.D.C. 43, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 508, 294 U.S. 712, 79 L.Ed. 1246.
Ky.—Andrews Steel Co. v. Davis, 276 S.W. 148, 210 Ky. 473.

63. U.S.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co., 46 S.Ct. 220, 270 U.S. 260, 70 L.Ed. 576, affirming 123 S.E. 352, 138 Va. 647, certiorari granted 45 S.Ct. 98, 266 U.S. 598, 69 L.Ed. 460.
Tex.—Houston Belt & Terminal Ry. Co. v. Davis, Civ.App., 273 S.W. 676.
Wash.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Frye & Co., 186 P. 668, 109 Wash. 68.
10 C.J. p 441 note 61 [a].

64. Mo.—Buschow Lumber Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 276 S.W. 409, 220 Mo.App. 743.
N.C.—W. L. Hall & Co. v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 91 S.E. 607, 173 N.C. 108.
10 C.J. p 443 note 88.

65. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Fields Bros., 203 S.W. 1036, 134 Ark. 273.
Mass.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Sturtevant & Haley Beef & Supply Co., 127 N.E. 509, 236 Mass. 16.
10 C.J. p 443 note 89.

66. U.S.—James v. Davis, C.C.A. Neb., 280 F. 780.

Tariff not abrogated by circular

A note in the printed tariff and classification filed by a railroad company, stating that it was not obligated to furnish special poultry cars, and requiring shippers to pay the rental for such cars, which the company did not own, was not abrogated by a circular containing exceptions to the "classification" which did not contain the note, but provided a different classification and a lower rate for live poultry in carload lots.—James v. Davis, C.C.A.Neb., 280 F. 780.

67. Ky.—Andrews Steel Co. v. Davis, 276 S.W. 148, 210 Ky. 473.

red in feeding or caring for the animals with the assent or acquiescence of the owner.[68]

Under the federal twenty-eight hour law, requiring shipments of live stock to be unloaded for water, feed, and rest at designated periods, and providing that animals so unloaded shall be properly watered and fed during such rest by the owner or person in charge, or, in case of his default, by the railroad at the reasonable expense of the owner, the carrier is entitled to recover the reasonable expense incurred in properly feeding a shipment of live stock during the rest period, if the shipper has not assumed the entire duty of providing feed. If the carrier has provided an amount of food which would otherwise be proper, its right to recover therefor cannot be lessened or decreased because the shipper has partially fed the stock at other times and places or placed feed in the car.[69] The statute, however, gives the carrier no right to recover for extra feed placed in the cars after the stock has been reloaded,[70] and, if recovery is to be had for such an expense, an express or implied contract to pay therefor must be properly asserted and established.[71] Where the carrier has been paid for feed furnished during the rest period and has been expressly requested not to place extra feed in the cars, it cannot recover therefor nor can it apply the prior payments on the car feedings and in turn seek to hold the owner or shipper for feed properly furnished.[72]

Reconsignment charges. Proper reconsignment charges have often been held recoverable,[73] at least where the tariff provides for the imposition or collection of such charges,[74] but if the tariff prescribes conditions precedent to the right to impose reconsignment charges, such conditions must be observed before the charges can be collected,[75] and the exaction of reconsignment charges is improper where the shipment comes within an express exception to the tariff provision providing for such charges.[76]

Refrigeration and icing charges. Where the rules and tariff so permit, the carrier may make an additional charge for icing or refrigeration service rendered at the instance or request of the owner or shipper,[77] or it may make a so-called service charge for the transportation of ice put in the car by the

68. Mass.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Sturtevant & Haley Beef & Supply Co., 127 N.E. 509, 236 Mass. 16.

69. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Swift & Co., D.C.Pa., 248 F. 315, reversed on other grounds 258 F. 289, 169 C.C.A. 305.

70. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Swift & Co., Pa., 258 F. 289, 169 C.C.A. 305, affirming in part and reversing in part, D.C., 248 F. 315.

71. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Swift & Co., C.C.A.Pa., 4 F.2d 61—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Swift & Co., Pa., 258 F. 289, 169 C.C.A. 305, affirming in part and reversing in part, D.C., 248 F. 315.

72. Mass.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Sturtevant & Haley Beef & Supply Co., 127 N.E. 509, 236 Mass. 16.

73. U.S.—Van Dusen Harrington Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 32 F.2d 466.
10 C.J. p. 442 note 77.

74. U.S.—Van Dusen Harrington Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., supra—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Cincinnati Grain & Hay Co., D.C.Ohio, 300 F. 674.

Delay in giving disposition order

Under a tariff providing that, when a disposition order with reference to cars held by the carrier is not given until after the expiration of free time allowed by the rules, a reconsignment charge of a certain amount shall be made, the reconsignment charges may be collected if the disposition order is not given before the expiration of the free time.—Van Dusen Harrington Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 32 F.2d 466.

75. U.S.—Van Dusen Harrington Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., supra.

Notice of location of cars

(1) Where the rules require as a basis for a reconsignment charge that the carrier give a notice showing the location of the tracks on which the cars are held, a failure of the notice to give the location will preclude the carrier from recovering the reconsignment charges.—Van Dusen Harrington Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 32 F.2d 466.

(2) Where a carrier's tariff, imposing a reconsignment charge on each car of coal reconsigned after it reached the city, required the carrier to notify the consignee when the cars passed certain points outside of the city, but the interstate commerce commission had found that the giving of such notice was impracticable, and that the requirement of such notice as a condition precedent would have worked inequitably with discriminatory results, the notice was held not a condition precedent to the recovery of the reconsignment charge, and such charge can be recovered, even though one railroad was both the carrier and delivering railroad within the meaning of that tariff—New York Cent. Ry. Co. v. Calvert, 193 N.W. 295, 222 Mich. 488.

Proper diversion or reconsignment

Under tariff provisions relative to inspection and reconsignment charges, and note making them applicable to particular track, subject to conditions as to switching charges, it was held that, on cars of hay unloaded on such track, no inspection or reconsignment charges could be made, and on reconsigned cars only the charges specified in the note could be collected—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Cincinnati Grain & Hay Co., D.C.Ohio, 300 F. 674.

76. Minn.—Merchants' Elevator Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 180 N.W. 105, 147 Minn. 251, certiorari granted Great Northern R. Co. v. Merchants' Elevator Co., 41 S.Ct. 322, 255 U.S. 567, 65 L.Ed. 789.

77. U.S.—Allen v. New York, P. & N. R. Co., C.C.A.Va., 15 F.2d 532, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 459, 273 U.S. 756, 71 L.Ed. 876.
Ark.—Swift & Co. v. Ft. Smith & W. Ry. Co., 16 S.W.2d 1001, 179 Ark. 516.
Ill.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Denney & Co., 237 Ill.App. 483.
Or.—Black v. Southern Pac. Co., 171 P. 878, 88 Or. 533.

Flat carload charge

Under a tariff requiring a shipper of strawberries on a carload lot basis to pay, in addition to the transportation charge, a flat charge per car for icing, a shipper taking a car at the carload rate is required to pay the flat charge for icing, although for the better preservation of the berries he does not choose to shipper in order to preserve the perishables being shipped.[78] However, the carrier cannot compel the shipper to pay the higher rate for an iced car, where the shipper has demanded the use of a common box car and it is practicable to ship the commodity involved in that way;[79] and it has been held that, where a refrigerator or other insulated car is the only proper and suitable type of car by which to transport a particular commodity during the entire year, the use of such equipment is included in the line-haul charge and a separate charge therefor is unauthorized.[80]

Return and reshipment expenses. If the consignee refuses to receive the goods, the carrier may recover from the consignor the expense of returning the goods, not exceeding their value,[81] or, if payment of the freight charges has been refused, the carrier is entitled to collect the charges for removing the goods from the point of destination to another place where a sale as provided by law may be effected.[82]

If a shipment miscarries due to the fault or negligence of the shipper, the carrier is entitled to collect any extra freight charges incurred in transporting the goods from the erroneous destination to the true destination.[83] If, however, the shipper is in no way at fault, he is under no legal duty to pay for the extra charges so incurred;[84] and a carrier which has, due to its own fault, carried the shipment beyond its point of destination cannot collect charges beyond that point,[85] nor can charges be made for a wrongful reshipment of the goods from their destination after they have been delivered there.[86]

Spotting. "Spotting" is the practice of hauling cars to points along the spur convenient to the shipper or consignee.[87] Where the service of spotting is included in the line-haul charge under both interstate and state tariffs, the carrier can make no additional charge for such service;[88] and the fact that there are abnormal conditions which would have relieved the carrier from giving such service does not entitle it to charge for the service if it is rendered notwithstanding such conditions.[89]

Storage. The entire compensation for transportation and storage may be included in a general charge, or the two services may be charged separately.[90] If proper provision has been made therefor in the tariff, a carrier is entitled to charge a reasonable sum for storage, where the consignee is not ready to receive the goods on arrival at destination,[91] or at the expiration of a certain stipulated load his car to the maximum.—Allen v. New York, P & N. R. Co., C.C.A. Va., 15 F.2d 532, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 459, 273 U.S. 756, 71 L.Ed. 876.

Rules of perishable protective tariff

A shipper of perishables, who has had the exclusive use of a refrigerator car under a contract entitling him to such use, is liable for the higher rate fixed by Rule 630 of the perishable protective tariff for refrigerator service under such circumstances, rather than the lower rate fixed by Rule 610 providing for scheduled refrigerator car service in less than carload lots.—Swift & Co. v. Ft. Smith & W. Ry. Co., 16 S.W.2d 1001, 179 Ark. 516.

78. U.S.—Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Baldwin, C.C.A. Tex., 63 F.2d 328, certiorari denied Baldwin v. Texas & N. O. R. Co., 53 S.Ct. 794, 289 U.S. 761, 77 L.Ed. 1504.

79. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Fields Bros., 203 S.W. 1036, 134 Ark. 273.

80. Minn.—J. C. Famechon Co. v. Hines, 187 N.W. 974, 151 Minn. 9, reversing 185 N.W. 941, 151 Minn. 9.

81. Mo.—Steamboat Keystone v. Moies, 28 Mo. 243, 75 Am.D. 123.

82. Tenn.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Murphree, 2 Tenn.App. 482.

83. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. James, 86 So. 906, 204 Ala. 604—James v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 81 So. 582, 202 Ala. 640—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Johnson, 88 So. 925, 18 Ala.App. 691.

84. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. James, 93 So. 701, 208 Ala. 6—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. James, 86 So. 906, 204 Ala. 604—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Johnson, 88 So. 925, 18 Ala.App. 691.

85. N.C.—W. L. Hall & Co. v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 91 S.E. 607, 173 N.C. 108.
10 C.J. p. 443 note 93.

Ratification of carrier's act

Acceptance of the goods and payment of freight thereon does not amount to a ratification of the carrier's act in transporting them beyond their destination, where the amount was paid under protest to get possession of the goods which defendant wrongfully withheld.—Wichman v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 84 S.E. 420, 100 S.C. 138.

86. W.Va.—Belknap v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 91 S.E. 656, 79 W.Va. 691, L.R.A.1917D 916.

87. N.Y.—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. General Electric Co., 114 N.E. 115, 219 N.Y. 227, 1 A.L.R. 1417.

88. U.S.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co., 46 S.Ct. 220, 270 U.S. 260, 70 L.Ed. 576, affirming 123 S.E. 352, 138 Va. 647, certiorari granted 45 S.Ct. 98, 266 U.S. 598, 69 L.Ed. 460—American Sheet & Tin Plate Co. v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 15 F. Supp. 711.

89. U.S.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co., 46 S.Ct. 220, 270 U.S. 260, 70 L.Ed. 576, affirming 123 S.E. 352, 138 Va. 647, certiorari granted 45 S.Ct. 98, 266 U.S. 598, 69 L.Ed. 460.

90. Conn.—Hurd v. Hartford, etc., Steamboat Co., 40 Conn. 48.

91. U.S.—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Freedom Oil Works, D.C.Pa., 247 F. 573, reversed on other grounds Freedom Oil Works Co. v. Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. R. Co., 254 F. 800, 166 C.C.A. 246.
Del.—In re Arlington Hotel Co., 98 A. 186, 11 Del.Ch. 137.
Ga.—Allen v. Southern Ry. Co., 126 S.E. 722, 33 Ga.App. 209.
Me.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Pleasant River Granite Co., 102 A. 298, 116 Me. 496.
N.Y.—Erie R. Co. v. F. Kieser & Son Co., 215 N.Y.S. 576, 216 App.Div. 500, reversing 211 N.Y.S. 362, 125 Misc. 283—Central Railroad of New Jersey v. Berry, 165 N.Y.S. 1041, 99 Misc. 560.
N.C.—Holloman v. Southern Ry. Co.,

time after arrival at the destination;[92] and this is so, although the freight has not actually been placed inside the depot or freight warehouse but remains in the cars.[93] Storage charges may be collected, notwithstanding the storage is rendered necessary by a strike which has prevented delivery of the goods to the steamship line which was to take them for export, and the export bill of lading relieves the carrier from liability for losses caused by strikes.[94] However, if the detention of the goods is wrongful the carrier, of course, has no valid claim for storage.[95] In order for a carrier to charge for storage, it is essential that storage and protection of the property in some reasonable degree be provided,[96] and it has been held that the carrier cannot charge the shipper storage for holding the shipment, pending the adjustment of a dispute between the shipper and the consignee, where the circumstances were such that the shipper was led to believe that no storage charge would be made.[97] A tariff provision providing for storage charges on certain types of freight does not justify the collection of such charges with respect to other types;[98] and a provision for storage charges on goods received for delivery, or held to complete a shipment, does not entitle the carrier to collect storage charges on account of goods placed on the carrier's premises but in no way delivered or intended to be delivered to the carrier for transportation.[99] Also, a provision for storage charges on freight received for delivery or held for forwarding directions and stored in or on railroad premises, does not justify the collection of storage charges on account of the fact that flat cars belonging to another have been left on the sidetracks of the carrier for a period of days.[1] Under a bill of lading providing for storage charges for property kept in car, depot, place of delivery, or warehouse, a carrier is not entitled to storage charges on property it has moved from its platform and placed in an unguarded spot along the right of way;[2] nor can a carrier charge for the storage of goods in a public street where charges are authorized by the tariff only for storage "in or on railroad premises."[3] Where the tariff provides for storage on goods left on a wharf at the point of destination, after expiration of the free period, 90 S.E. 292, 172 N.C 372, L.R.A. 1917C 416, Ann.Cas.1917E 1069.

Tex.—Reed v. Southern Pac. Co., Civ.App., 99 S.W.2d 1026, error dismissed.
10 C.J. p 442 note 72.

Claim not defeated by notice of sale
That carrier notified shipper that, unless disposition orders were received, refused merchandise would be sold at public auction to highest bidder without further notice, was not a sufficient act of dominion, inconsistent with shipper's title or carrier's rights as bailee, to constitute conversion and defeat carrier's claim for storage charges.—Erie R. Co. v. F. Kieser & Son, 211 N.Y.S. 362, 125 Misc. 283, reversed on other grounds 215 N.Y.S. 576, 216 App.Div. 500.

Goods for export
The tariffs of a railway filed with the interstate commerce commission, which included a storage charge on the goods for export after twenty days' free storage, and provided that such charges were in addition to transportation rate on all property passing over the company's wharves or stored in warehouses or storehouses, or on other property operated by the railway, authorizes the carrier to collect storage charges from goods for export held in its cars more than twenty days, the provision not being limited to goods which had been removed from the cars to warehouses.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. New Orleans Export Co., C.C.A.La., 271 F. 861.

Terminal company which contracted with railroad to transship, freight at certain rate, there being no provision requiring terminal company to furnish storage, is entitled to recover of road reasonable storage charges for carload of hay refused by consignee and stored at road's request for year till it could be sold.—Brooklyn Eastern Dist. Terminal v. Central R. Co. of New Jersey, 162 N.Y.S. 911, 176 App.Div. 352.

92. N.Y.—Raymond Hadley Corporation v. Boston & M. R. R., 174 N.Y.S. 342, 186 App.Div. 341, appeal dismissed 123 N.E. 886, 226 N.Y. 711, and affirmed 126 N.E. 921, 226 N.Y. 648.
10 C.J. p 442 note 73.

Nonexpiration of free period
Charges cannot be collected for storage where the period of free storage allowed by the tariff has not expired.—Raymond Hadley Corporation v. Boston & M. R. R., 174 N.Y.S. 342, 186 App.Div. 341, appeal dismissed 123 N.E. 886, 226 N.Y. 711, and affirmed 126 N.E. 921, 226 N.Y. 648.

93. Ga.—Dixon v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 35 S.E. 369, 110 Ga. 173.
10 C.J. p 442 note 74.

94. Mass.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 116 N.E. 260, 226 Mass. 509.

95. Tex.—Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hubbard, Civ.App., 190 S.W. 793.
10 C.J. p 442 note 76.

96. U.S.—Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Davis, D.C.Iowa, 1 F.2d 729.
Ind.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Buckley Rubber Co., 187 N.E. 353, 99 Ind.App. 191.
N.Y.—New England S. S. Co. v. Geo. H. Merrill Co. of New York, 194 N.Y.S. 908, 118 Misc. 715.

97. La.—Morley Cypress Co. v. Hines, 107 So. 487, 160 La. 676.

98. U.S.—Payne v. Rogers, C.C.A.Ohio, 4 F.2d 827.

Freight subject to damage by elements
Tariff schedule, fixing storage charges for storage of freight, which is liable to be damaged by the elements, and must be stored at carrier's risk, either in carrier's warehouse, or, at carrier's option, in public warehouse, was inapplicable to lumber piled on railroad's right of way, in view of note to tariff schedule rule providing for storage, free of charge, of freight which is not liable to damage from the elements, and is not to be handled through freighthouses on railroad's vacant land at owner's risk.—Payne v. Rogers, C.C.A.Ohio, 4 F.2d 827.

99. U.S.—Davis v. Continental Sugar Co., C.C.A.Ohio, 5 F.2d 420.
Wis.—Davis v. Williams Creamery Co., 202 N.W. 663, 186 Wis. 382, 38 A.L.R. 674.

1. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Kilby Car & Foundry Co., 75 So. 394, 200 Ala. 66.

2. U.S.—Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Davis, D.C.Iowa, 1 F.2d 729.

3. N.Y.—New England S. S. Co. v. Geo. H. Merrill Co. of New York, 194 N.Y.S. 908, 118 Misc. 715.

but because of a shipping emergency for which the tariff makes no provision, the carrier is compelled to move the goods to a public warehouse it can make no charge for the expense of removing and storing the goods elsewhere but it is entitled only to such storage charges as would have accrued had the goods remained on the wharf.[4]

Switching, terminal, and sidetracking charges. A carrier is not entitled to switching charges in addition to the through rate charged where the switching is essential to effect the delivery which the carrier has undertaken to make;[5] nor is a carrier entitled to a terminal charge in addition to the regular charge of transportation, where no additional service is rendered.[6] When the carrier could not make a switching or terminal charge if it directly owned the tracks over which the switching or terminal services are rendered, an additional charge cannot be made because the tracks are owned by a trunk line company where the entire stock of the latter is owned and controlled by the carrier.[7] If, however, the service involves a delivery or movement beyond that which the carrier has undertaken as a part of the transportation, it may properly collect a switching,[8] terminal,[9] or sidetracking[10] charge. Hence, where a carrier renders additional services in carrying freight to or from points on private or industrial sidetracks, it is entitled to recover reasonable additional compensation therefor,[11] and is not limited to the actual cost of the services rendered.[12] Also, switching services rendered entirely independently of any line transportation may properly be charged for in accordance with the published or established rates.[13] It has often been held, however, for the purpose of fixing the amount of the charges that a switching or transfer service as distinguished from a transportation service is one which precedes or follows a transportation service,[14] for which legal freight charges have already been earned or are to be earned,[15] and that an inde-

4. N.Y.—Raymond Hadley Corporation v. Boston & M. R. R., 174 N.Y.S. 342, 186 App.Div. 341, appeal dismissed 123 N.E. 886, 226 N.Y. 711, and affirmed 126 N.E. 921, 226 N.Y. 648.

5. U.S.—American Sheet & Tin Plate Co. v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 15 F. Supp. 711.

Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Whelen Springs Gravel Co., 49 S.W.2d 374, 185 Ark. 669, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 87, 287 U.S. 638, 77 L.Ed. 553

Tex.—Texas-Mexican Ry. Co. v. Rio Grande & E. P. Ry. Co., 231 S.W. 308, reversing in part and affirming in part Rio Grande & E. P. Ry. Co. v. Texas-Mexican Ry. Co., Civ.App., 173 S.W. 236.

Wash.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Frye & Co., 186 P. 668, 109 Wash. 68

6. U.S.—Camblos v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., C.C., 4 F.Cas.No.2,331, 4 Brewst., Pa., 563, 9 Phila., Pa., 411.

10 C.J. p. 443 note 87.

7. U.S.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Minneapolis Civic & Commerce Ass'n, 38 S.Ct. 553, 247 U.S. 490, 62 L.Ed. 1229, affirming Minneapolis Civic & Commerce Ass'n v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 158 N.W. 817, 134 Minn. 169.

8. Tex.—White Rock Gravel & Sand Co. v. International & G. N. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 188 S.W. 280, error refused.

10 C.J. p. 442 note 79.

9. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Stickney, Minn., 30 S.Ct. 66, 215 U.S. 98, 54 L.Ed. 112.

10. Fla.—Henderson v. Hines, 98 So. 333, 86 Fla. 494.

10 C.J. p. 442 note 82.

11. Ark.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Ft. Smith & V. B. Ry. Co., 191 S.W. 902, 127 Ark. 238

10 C.J. p. 442 note 83.

12. Fla.—State v. Florida East Coast Line R. Co., 68 So. 761, 69 Fla. 491.

13. Ariz.—Southern Pac. Co. v. State Corporation Commission, 3 P.2d 518, 39 Ariz. 1.

Between industries on own line

Under a contract whereby a company bound itself to switch cars between industries on its line at a certain charge, the words "on the line" refer to physical line, and it cannot be required to switch cars for the agreed charge, where to do so would necessitate the use of tracks of another company.—National Enameling & Stamping Co. v. Granite City & M. B. L. R. Co., Mo., 199 S.W. 238.

"Intra-plant and intra-terminal switching"

(1) Intra-plant switching is no duty of a common carrier and is not a part of "transportation."—Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Mount Clemens Sugar Co., 269 N.W. 208, 277 Mich. 366.

(2) The distinction between transportation and plant service is not dependent upon the distance that the goods are moved.—Louisiana & P. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Com.C., 209 F. 244, affirmed 34 S.Ct. 741, 234 U.S. 1, 58 L.Ed. 1185.

(3) Whether a particular hauling of goods is transportation or industrial depends upon whether, on the one hand, it is an interindustry act, a step in the manufacturing process, or, on the other hand, a movement of raw materials from without to the plant or finished products from the plant to the market.—Louisiana & P. Ry. Co. v. U. S., supra

(4) Under a tariff prescribing different rates for "intra-plant switching," "intra-terminal switching," and "inter-terminal switching," and defining the first type of service as a movement from one track to another within the same plant or industry, a movement of cars over a spur track from a mine of a mining company to a main line, a considerable distance over the latter, and thence over a spur to an ore-reducing mill of the company is subject to the higher rate of an "intra-terminal" movement.—Southern Pac. Co. v. State Corporation Commission, 3 P.2d 518, 39 Ariz. 1.

(5) The right of the carrier to collect such rate is dependent entirely upon the nature and character of the switching movements, and not at all upon the reasons for the shipment or the ability of the commodity to stand the charges.—Southern Pac. Co. v. State Corporation Commission, supra.

14. Ga.—Dixon v. Georgia Cent. R. Co., 35 S.E. 369, 110 Ga. 173.

Ky.—Andrews Steel Co. v. Davis, 276 S.W. 148, 210 Ky. 473

Ohio.—J. B. Doppes Sons Lumber Co. v. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. Ry. Co., 110 N.E. 640, 92 Ohio St. 206, L.R.A.1916D 452.—Richter Grain Co. v. Cincinnati, H. & D. Ry. Co., 16 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 81, affirmed 4 Ohio App. 22, 21 Ohio Cir.Ct., N.S., 49, 25 Ohio Cir.Dec. 453.

60 C.J. p. 1201 note 53.

15. La.—Vicksburg, S. & P. Ry. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Louisiana, 69 So. 161, 137 La. 747.

pendent movement, complete in itself, which neither precedes nor follows a transportation is itself a transportation service, rather than a switching or transfer service, although carried on within the limits of the same terminal or plant.[16] On this theory a movement between two points within the industrial or switching district of a carrier has been held subject to line haul rather than switching rates,[17] and a statute fixing the charge for switching service does not limit the rate which a carrier may charge for a movement from one track to another within the same terminal limits.[18] A switching rate for movements between connections of other lines and industries located on the tracks of the carrier, rather than a "line haul rate between stations," has been held applicable to a transfer from a connecting line to a point on an industrial track of the carrier although neither consignor nor consignee had an industry on such track.[19]

Unloading and weighing. Where the owner rescinds his order for the shipment of goods and requests that they be unloaded the law will imply an agreement to pay a reasonable charge for the unloading where it can be done without any great inconvenience or without involving an expense out of all proportion to the value of the goods.[20] If freight is unloaded for the consignee at unusual hours and in a special way, so as to convenience the consignee and to save him expense, imposing special expense on the carrier, it has a right to charge compensation for such services in addition to the freight rates, where it has given notice to the consignee that extra compensation would be charged for such services.[21]

Under § 15(5) of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 15(5), requiring a carrier of live stock to place the stock in suitable pens without extra charge to the consignee, the carrier can make no extra charge for services incident to the carriage and unloading of the stock including the ascertainment in some way of the accurate weight of the shipment which forms the basis of the transportation charge.[22] Furthermore, another person or corporation to whom the carrier has delegated the duty of maintaining proper yards or pens cannot make an extra charge for merely receiving or delivering the stock in and through the yards.[23] There is, however, nothing which requires the carrier to ascertain the weight in any particular manner.[24] If the carrier provides a proper and fair method of unloading Ohio.—J B Doppes Sons Lumber Co v Cincinnati, N. O & T. P Ry. Co, 110 N E 640, 92 Ohio St. 206, 212, L R.A 1916D 452.

16. Ga.—Dixon v. Central of Georgia R. Co, 35 S.E. 369, 110 Ga. 173, 180
Ky.—Andrews Steel Co. v. Davis, 276 S W 148, 210 Ky 473.
Ohio—Richter Grain Co. v. Cincinnati, H. & D Ry Co, 16 Ohio N.P., N S, 81, affirmed 4 Ohio App. 22, 21 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 49, 25 Ohio Cir. Dec. 453.

Use of main line not test

The test of the distinction between transportation and switching service is not whether the movement of cars involves the use of a portion of the company's main line or that of another, for there may be a transportation service over one or more spur tracks of the same company
Ky.—Andrews Steel Co. v. Davis, 276 S W 148, 210 Ky. 473.
La.—Vicksburg, etc, Ry Co v. Railroad Commission of Louisiana, 69 So. 161, 137 La 747
60 C.J p 1201 note 56.

17. Iowa.—Cummings Sand & Gravel Co. v. Minneapolis & St. L Ry. Co., 166 N.W. 354, 182 Iowa 955, L.R.A. 1918C 797

Movement within terminals of connecting carriers

Line-haul rather than switching tariff, was applicable to movement of intra-state coal shipment, originating in western Kentucky, from initial carrier's Louisville terminal over line of connecting carrier to destination within corporate limits of Louisville, where such destination was designated in bill of lading, although movement was solely within terminals of initial and connecting carriers.—Louisville Water Co. v Illinois Cent. R. Co., D C Ky., 14 F Supp. 301

The line-haul rather than the switching tariff applied to movement of intra-state coal shipments which were delivered by initial carrier to connecting carrier and by it transported to destination, where line haul rate to destination from point of receipt of shipment was definite, while area covered by switching district within which destination was allegedly included was not, and shipper over period of years had paid initial carrier the line haul tariff without objection.—Louisville Water Co. v. Louisville, H. & St. L. Ry. Co, 110 S W.2d 668, 270 Ky. 833.

18. Ohio.—Richter Grain Co. v. Cincinnati, H & D Ry Co, 16 Ohio N P.,N S, 81, affirmed 4 Ohio App. 22, 21 Ohio Cir.Ct,N S, 49, 25 Ohio Cir.Dec 453.

19. Ark.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co v. Ft. Smith & V. B. Ry. Co, 191 S W. 902, 127 Ark. 238.

20. Cal.—Heath v. Judson Freight Forwarding Co., 190 P. 839, 47 Cal App. 426.

21. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Goodrich, 163 Ill.App. 268.

22. U S.—Adams v. Mills, Ill, 52 S Ct 589, 286 U S. 397, 76 L Ed 1184, reversing, C C A., Adams v. Mellan, 51 F 2d 620, affirming, D.C., 39 F. 2d 80, and certiorari granted 52 S Ct. 208, 284 U S. 614, 76 L Ed 525.
D C.—U. S ex rel. Kroger Grocery & Baking Co, v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 73 F 2d 948, 64 App. D.C. 43, certiorari denied 55 S Ct 508, 294 U.S. 712, 79 L.Ed. 1246.

23. Mo.—Bozworth v. Wabash Ry Co, 58 S W 2d 448, 332 Mo 277, affirming Bosworth v. Wabash Ry. Co, App., 21 S.W.2d 1110—Burton v. Wabash Ry Co., App., 22 S W 2d 201, affirmed 58 S W.2d 443, 332 Mo. 268

24. D.C.—U. S. ex rel. Kroger Grocery & Baking Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 73 F.2d 948, 64 App D C. 43, certiorari denied 55 S Ct. 508, 294 U S. 712, 79 L.Ed. 1246

Tariff method held not exclusive

Tariff applicable to transportation of live stock, providing that, if proper facilities are furnished at destination for obtaining hoof weights, weights so obtained will be proper basis for assessing freight charges, is not mandatory and exclusive method of determining weight of live stock as basis for transportation charges.—U. S. ex rel. Kroger and weighing the stock without extra charge to the shipper this is all it is required to do, and if the shipper elects to unload or weigh in a different manner through a stock yards company these are properly stock yards services with which the carrier is not concerned and for which an extra charge may be made.[25]

§ 315. Charges as Affected by Transportation over Several Lines

a. In general
b. Payment and collection

a. In General

Where a shipment is transported over several lines, each of the carriers involved is entitled to be compensated for the services rendered by it, the charges of each carrier being fixed by its usual rates unless a joint through rate has properly been established or agreed upon.

In an ordinary case where a carrier has received goods or property for transportation to a destination beyond its own line, the succeeding carrier to whom the goods are offered is, in the absence of statute otherwise providing, in the same situation as an independent carrier, and is entitled to freight charges in accordance with its usual rates, regardless of any contract of the initial carrier of which it has no knowledge or by which it is not bound.[26] Especially is this the case where the initial carrier has charged a rate lower than that fixed by the railroad commission,[27] or a rate at which the connecting carrier cannot lawfully transport the goods.[28] If the first carrier has, without authority, contracted for the rate for the entire transportation, and the charges exacted by connecting carriers are such as to render the entire charge greater than that contracted for, the remedy of the consignor or owner is against the carrier with whom the contract was made.[29]

From the foregoing it results that, if a joint through rate has not in some manner properly been established, the charge for a shipment over several lines is usually the combination or total of the rates charged by each carrier between the points on its own line.[30] This has frequently been held to be the rule with respect to interstate shipments over several lines,[31] except in so far as modified by the so-called Jones-Kelley rule for constructing combination rates.[32] If, however, there is a joint through rate, which has been properly established

Grocery & Baking Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 73 F.2d 948, 64 App.D.C. 43, certiorari denied 55 S.Ct. 508, 294 U.S. 712, 79 L.Ed. 1246.

25. D.C.—U.S. ex rel. Kroger Grocery & Baking Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commission, supra.

26. U.S.—Ranier Brewing Co. v. Great Northern Pac. S. S. Co., Wash., 42 S.Ct. 436, 259 U.S. 150, 66 L.Ed. 868, affirming, C.C.A., 270 F. 436—Wheelock v. Walsh Fire Clay Products Co., C.C.A.Mo., 60 F.2d 415.
10 C.J. p. 443 note 97.

27. Tex.—Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Kerns, Civ.App., 108 S.W. 187.

28. U.S.—Ranier Brewing Co. v. Great Northern Pac. S. S. Co., Wash., 42 S.Ct. 436, 259 U.S. 150, 66 L.Ed. 868, affirming, C.C.A., 270 F. 436.

Carload transportation and delivery unlawful

Although a shipment has been given a carload rate at the point of origin, which has been paid, a connecting carrier is entitled to collect the difference between the carload and less than carload rates where it cannot lawfully transport the goods to the point of destination, and deliver them to the consignee, in carload lots.—Ranier Brewing Co. v. Great Northern Pac. S. S. Co., Wash., 42 S.Ct. 436, 259 U.S. 150, 66 L.Ed. 868, affirming, C.C.A., 270 F. 436.

29. Ga.—Goodin v. Southern R. Co., 54 S.E. 720, 125 Ga. 630, 636, 6 L.R.A.,N.S., 1054, 5 Ann.Cas. 573.
10 C.J. p. 444 note 99.

30. U.S.—Wheeling & L.E. Ry. Co. v. Standard Envelope Mfg. Co., D.C.Ohio, 2 F.Supp. 637
Va.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Freeman Supply Corporation, 133 S.E. 817, 145 Va. 207.

31. U.S.—Hygrade Food Products Corporation v. Chicago, M., St. P. & P. R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 85 F.2d 113, reversing, D.C., 10 F.Supp. 767—Davis v. Kelly-Weber & Co., D.C.La., 24 F.2d 708—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Rea-Patterson Milling Co., C.C.A.Kan., 273 F. 518—Portland Cattle Loan Co. v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., Or., 251 F. 33, 163 C.C.A. 283, affirming, D.C., Oregon Short Line R. Co. v. Portland Cattle Loan Co., 245 F. 214.
10 C.J. p. 428 note 81, p. 431 note 13 [a].

Intermediate rate applicable

In making up the through rate on such a shipment, where it appears that one of the connecting carriers had published a rate from one point to another on its line, for shipments originating in the first point, and a higher rate on commodities moving into the first point destined for the latter point, the higher rate must be taken in making up the combination.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Rea-Patterson Milling Co., C.C.A.Kan., 273 F. 518.

Through bill of lading

Where no applicable through rate has been established, shipments, although moving on through bills of lading, take the lawful rates lawfully established on each line unless displaced by lawful special agreement.
U.S.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. C.H. Albers Commn. Co., Kan., 32 S.Ct. 316, 223 U.S. 573, 56 L.Ed. 556.

32. Va.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Freeman Supply Corporation, 133 S.E. 617, 145 Va. 207.

Scope and applicability of rule

(1) The so-called "Jones Rules for Constructing Combination Rates," by which the flat increase in rates made by the director general of railroads in 1918 was rendered less than the aggregate of the increases on the several constitutent rates or factors in the case of a joint carriage by several carriers in order to avoid the duplication resulting in the increase when the through rate was a combination of intermediate rates to which the increase was applied, is, because of its express terms, inapplicable where all of the participating carriers have not concurred therein. — Hygrade Food Products Corporation v. Chicago, M., St. P. & P. R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 85 F.2d 113, reversing, D.C., 10 F.Supp. 767—Wheelock v. Walsh Fire Clay Products Co., C.C.A.Mo., 60 F.2d 415.

in accordance with the rules stated in § 300 supra, such rate is controlling;[33] and if there is a contract for a through rate which is binding on the last carrier, the consignee is entitled to the goods on tendering the agreed rate,[34] while the connecting carrier cannot subject the consignor to any greater liability than that undertaken by the latter in his contract with the initial carrier.[35]

In constructing a through rate by combining the local rates contained in one tariff with the local rates contained in another, the rule published by the initial carrier for the computation of the through rate is binding, notwithstanding the tariff of the connecting carrier does not contain such rule, it not being required in order to change a through combination rate by rule or regulation that such rule or regulation be actually contained in both tariffs, or made a part of both tariffs by cross reference.[36]

Under the statute which establishes the rule known as the "Jones" or "combination" rule for computing combination rates and provides that it is to be applied "where no published through rates are in effect from point of origin to destination," such rule has no application where lawfully published through rates are in effect from point of origin to destination,[37] even though shipments are made over routes from point of origin to destination different from the route covered by the through rate.[38]

Where connecting carriers act under joint arrangement as to rates, each is entitled to proportionate compensation out of the charge for the entire transportation.[39] Where several carriers have by agreement established combination rates, consisting of the sum of proportionals made by the respective carriers, each proportional is necessarily a part of the through rate and capable of use only as such. Such proportionals show the basis of division of the charges between the connecting carriers and serve precisely as do agreed divisions of charges based on joint rates. They differ from local rates in that they cover only terminal service at place or at place of delivery but cannot, as do local rates, cover both.[40]

A shipper who has contracted to pay the originating carrier a fixed rate is not entitled to have such rate reduced by allowances made the originating carrier out of the through rate by other participating carriers.[41]

(2) In other words, the rule is applicable only to rates contained in tariffs specifically referring to it—Hohenberg v. Louisville & N. R. Co., C.C.A.Ala., 46 F.2d 952, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 6, 284 U.S. 617, 76 L.Ed. 527.

(3) Both tariffs containing both rates or factors must refer to the rule and specify that it is applicable in order for both rates to be used as proportional factors or part of a combination transit rate—Wheelock v. Walsh Fire Clay Products Co., C.C.A.Mo., 60 F.2d 415—Hohenberg v. Louisville & N. R. Co., supra.

(4) Furthermore, in view of its clear wording to that effect, this rule has no application where there are published through rates from point of origin to point of destination.—W. P. Brown & Sons Lumber Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., Ky., 57 S.Ct. 265, 299 U.S. 393, 81 L.Ed. 301, affirming, C.C.A., 82 F.2d 94, affirming, D.C., 7 F.Supp. 593, certiorari granted 57 S.Ct. 14, 299 U.S. 524, 81 L.Ed. 385.

(5) In such a case the fact that combination tariff rates, if not reduced by combination rule for computing rates on lumber where no published through rates exist from point of origin to destination, might be prohibitively high cannot be considered in determining applicability of combination rule.—W. P. Brown & Sons Lumber Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., supra.

33. U.S.—State of Texas v. Anderson, Clayton & Co., C.C.A.Tex., 92 F.2d 104, certiorari denied 58 S.Ct. 265, 302 U.S. 747, rehearing denied 58 S.Ct. 366, 302 U.S. 780—Union Wire Rope Corporation v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 66 F.2d 965, reversing, D.C., Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Union Wire Rope Corporation, 1 F.Supp. 399, and certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 122, 290 U.S. 686, 78 L.Ed. 591.

34. Ind.—Evansville, etc., R. Co. v. Marsh, 57 Ind. 505.

35. U.S.—In re O'Gara Coal Co., C.C.A.Ill., 294 F. 89.

Change in point of destination

Where the consignor has contracted with the initial carrier for transportation to a particular point of destination on the connecting carrier's lines at the duly established rates, such contract is binding on the connecting carrier as agent for the initial carrier, and the connecting carrier cannot, without the consent of the consignor, subject him to a greater liability by delivering the shipment to the consignee at a point other than that specified by the consignor.—In re O'Gara Coal Co., C.C.A.Ill., 294 F. 89.

36. U.S.—Empire Refining Co. v. Davis, D.C.Okl., 6 F.2d 305.

Charges as affected by transportation over several lines see infra § 315

37. U.S.—W. P. Brown & Sons Lumber Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., D.C.Ky., 7 F.Supp. 593, affirmed, C.C.A., 82 F.2d 94, certiorari granted 57 S.Ct. 14, 299 U.S. 524, 81 L.Ed. 385, affirmed 57 S.Ct. 265, 299 U.S. 393, 81 L.Ed. 301.

D.C.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Domestic Hardwoods, 65 F.2d 488, 62 App.D.C. 142, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 64, 290 U.S. 647, 78 L.Ed. 561.

38. U.S.—W. P. Brown & Sons Lumber Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., Ky., 57 S.Ct. 265, 299 U.S. 393, 81 L.Ed. 301, affirming, C.C.A., 82 F.2d 94, certiorari granted 57 S.Ct. 14, 299 U.S. 524, 81 L.Ed. 385, affirming, D.C., 7 F.Supp. 593, and overruling in effect Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Domestic Hardwoods, 65 F.2d 488, 62 App.D.C. 142, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 64, 290 U.S. 647, 78 L.Ed. 561.

39. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.Pa., 12 F.Supp. 720

10 C.J. p. 443 note 95.

40. U.S.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Sullivan, Minn., 55 S.Ct. 472, 294 U.S. 458, 79 L.Ed. 992, reversing, C.C.A., 72 F.2d 587, certiorari granted 55 S.Ct. 216, 293 U.S. 551, 79 L.Ed. 654.

41. Tenn.—Carolina Spruce Co. v. Black Mountain R. Co., 201 S.W.

b. Payment and Collection

An initial carrier contracting for a through shipment may collect the charges for the entire transportation. A connecting carrier is entitled to demand that its charges be paid in advance; and it is not required to make advances or give credit for charges earned or paid by a preceding carrier, although it may properly do so and thereupon become entitled to collect not only its own charges at the end of the transportation, but also the other charges for which an advancement was made or credit given.

Where goods are accepted in an interstate shipment by a carrier on a through bill of lading to a point of destination upon the line of another carrier, the initial carrier, by reason of its contract to transport the goods to the point of destination, becomes entitled to collect the legal charges due for the entire transportation. This is true although the goods are entitled to a transit privilege and are carried from the point of transit by another carrier.[42] In receipting for the charges on a through shipment over several lines, the initial or receiving carrier acts as the agent for the others and they are bound thereby.[43]

A connecting carrier is entitled to demand prepayment of its charges before receiving or accepting the goods.[44] If it fails to do so, however, it is not entitled to demand payment until delivery of the goods;[45] but it may withhold delivery to a succeeding carrier until its charges have been paid, see infra § 410. If a succeeding carrier accepts delivery of goods on which charges have accrued, after notice has been given by the prior carrier that it will hold the succeeding carrier for such charges, the latter thereby impliedly contracts to pay the same.[46]

Ordinarily, a connecting carrier is under no obligation to make advances for charges earned or paid by a preceding carrier or to give credit therefor, even though it is customary so to do.[47] If it takes the shipment without paying the preceding carrier's charges, it may be regarded as the agent of the preceding carrier to collect such charges,[48] although in this event the charges are due to the preceding carrier and not to the connecting carrier.[49] Nevertheless a connecting carrier may advance the charges of the preceding carrier, including charges which the preceding carrier may have already advanced in the same way, and thereupon become entitled to collect or demand not only the full amount of its own charges, but also the advancements, at the end of the transportation,[50] unless it has notice or knowledge that, in the particular

154, 139 Tenn. 137, error dismissed 39 S.Ct. 184, 248 U.S. 597, 63 L.Ed. 439.

42. Ga.—Williamson-Inman Co. v Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 160 S.E. 687, 44 Ga.App. 129.

43. N.C.—Reidsville Paper Box Co. v. Southern Ry., 99 S.E. 23, 177 N.C. 351.

44. U.S.—Wadley Southern R. Co. v Georgia, Ga., 35 S.Ct. 214, 235 U.S. 651, 59 L.Ed. 405
10 C.J. p 441 note 52 [b] (1).

45. Ind.—Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co v. Diether, 37 N.E. 39, 1069, 10 Ind.App. 206.

46. Mass.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 116 N.E. 260, 226 Mass. 509.

47. U.S.—Southern Indiana Express Co. v. U. S. Express Co., C.C.Ind., 88 F. 659, affirmed 92 F. 1022, 35 C.C.A. 172
10 C.J. p 444 note 2.

48. N.Y.—Grand Trunk Ry. Co. of Canada v. Satuloff, 182 N.Y.S. 81.
N.C.—Reidsville Paper Box Co. v. Southern Ry., 99 S.E. 23, 177 N.C. 351.
10 C.J. p 444 note 3.

Receipt of terminal carrier binding on all

Where a shipment passes through the hands of several carriers and the last carrier presents a freight bill therefor and receipts it, it does so as agent, not only for itself, but for all the carriers among whom the freight charges are to be apportioned, and they are bound thereby.—Reidsville Paper Box Co. v. Southern Ry., 99 S.E. 23, 177 N.C. 351.

49. Mass.—Gould v. Newburyport R. Co., 14 Gray 472

50. U.S.—Granger v. Davis, C.C.A. Ohio, 2 F.2d 695—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Lykes Bros., D.C.Tex., 294 F. 968.
Cal.—Southern California Commercial Co. v Alberti, 207 P. 1023, 58 Cal.App. 84.
Ill.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Platt & Brahm Coal Co., 236 Ill.App. 150. See Crane v. Tooker Storage & Forwarding Co., 204 Ill.App. 354
Ind.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. S. J. Peabody Lumber Co., 131 N.E. 841, 76 Ind.App. 222.
Me.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Pleasant River Granite Co., 102 A. 298, 116 Me. 496.
N.Y.—Central Railroad of New Jersey v Berry, 165 N.Y.S. 1041, 99 Misc. 560—Grand Trunk Ry. Co. of Canada v. Satuloff, 182 N.Y.S. 81.
10 C.J. p 444 note 5

Breach of contract by preceding carrier

Where shipment was diverted from original consignee to parties who ordered further diversion, railroad then having shipment agreeing to deliver car in time for certain train on terminal road, but car was not so delivered in time, and parties to whom shipment had been diverted suffered damage thereby, terminal road, suing them for its and all prior charges, could collect those accruing to railroad which had been in default in failing to deliver car to terminal road in time for its train, such recovery not precluding parties from suing road in default directly to recover their damages.—Grand Trunk Ry. Co. of Canada v. Satuloff, 182 N.Y.S. 81.

Collection from consignor

A terminal carrier may pay the charges of preceding carriers and recover such charges, together with its own charges, from the consignor.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v Lovell, 180 N.Y.S. 922 111 Misc. 735—Central Railroad of New Jersey v Berry, 165 N.Y.S. 1041, 99 Misc. 560

Final carrier as consignee

Where a final carrier was to collect freight due on a shipment from a consignee, payment by it to the initial and the intermediate carriers of their part of the freight by operation of law constituted an assignment to the final carrier of the right of the initial and intermediate carriers to recover for the services rendered by them.—Southern California Commercial Co. v. Alberti, 207 P. 1023, 58 Cal.App. 84.

case the charge of the preceding carrier is unlawful,[51] or the charge is for services not constituting a part of the transportation of the particular consignment.[52] This, it is said, is a right long sanctioned by law and custom, and is founded on public convenience and common sense.[53] The doctrine has been held to apply notwithstanding the goods were improperly routed,[54] provided the connecting carrier had no knowledge or notice of the agreement between the owner of the goods and the initial carrier as to a different routing of the goods.[55] If the connecting carrier has knowledge or notice that the charges to the point of destination have been paid to the initial carrier, it is not justified, without express authority from the consignee, in paying charges claimed by preceding carriers,[56] especially where no question as to the correctness of the rate or the amount charged by the initial carrier is raised.[57] Also, it has been held that where a contract specifying a destination which would require carriage over a connecting carrier's line has been rescinded and a new contract made for transportation to a different destination not involving the use of the connecting carrier's lines, but the initial carrier has wrongfully shipped the goods in accordance with the abrogated contract, the connecting carrier cannot recover its charges from the shipper but its sole recourse is against the initial carrier,[58] and it has been held that where the shipment has been sent over a more expensive route than that designated by the shipper the connecting carrier cannot collect charges in excess of those which would have been due had the proper route been followed,[59] although the shipper in changing an original route designation to the one finally fixed failed to surrender his bill of lading as required by a rule of the carrier.[60]

§ 316. Who Liable for Charges

a. In general
b. Consignor
c. Consignee

a. In General

Only those persons are liable for freight charges who have by some sufficient voluntary act or undertaking subjected themselves to such liability.

In accordance with the underlying concept that a carrier's right to freight charges is dependent upon contract, see supra § 312, it may be stated generally that the liability of a particular person for the charges on a given shipment is dependent upon his having committed, or entered into, some sufficient voluntary act or undertaking.[61] Liability cannot ordinarily be imposed upon a person who has not in some manner expressly or impliedly undertaken to pay the freight charges;[62] but, on the other 51. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. James, 93 So. 701, 208 Ala. 6.

10 C.J. p. 444 note 6.

52. Ga.—Robinson v. Dover, etc., R. Co., 27 S.E. 713, 99 Ga. 480.

Services not part of transportation.
(1) The connecting carrier is not entitled to insist on payment of charges advanced for services not constituting a part of the transportation of the particular consignment.
Ga.—Robinson v. Dover, etc., R. Co., 27 S.E. 713, 99 Ga. 480.
Mo.—Steamboat Virginia v. Kraft, 25 Mo. 76.

(2) So, where the goods have reached the destination contemplated in the original contract of shipment, and another carrier, a volunteer, undertakes to transport them from the depot of the last carrier to the place of business of the consignee, it has no right to pay the charges and collect them from such consignee.—Kansas City Transfer Co. v. Neiswanger, 18 Mo.App. 103.

53. Cal.—Southern California Commercial Co. v. Alberti, 207 P. 1023, 58 Cal.App. 84.
10 C.J. p. 444 note 7.

54. Ala.—Ex parte Louisville & N. Ry. Co., 79 So. 139, 201 Ala. 667, reversing Oden-Elliott Lumber Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 77 So. 240, 16 Ala.App. 251.
Ind.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. S. J. Peabody Lumber Co., 131 N.E. 841, 76 Ind.App. 222.
10 C.J. p. 444 note 8.

55. Ga.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Southern Flour, etc., Co., 75 S.E. 654, 138 Ga. 604.

56. Ala.—Converse Bridge Co. v. Collins, 24 So. 561, 119 Ala. 534.
10 C.J. p. 444 note 10.

Constructive notice sufficient.
The rule of the text applies if the connecting carrier, although not having actual notice, has knowledge of facts which should put it on inquiry and which, if followed up, would lead to such notice.—Converse Bridge Co. v. Collins, 24 So. 561, 119 Ala. 534.—10 C.J. p. 444 note 12.

57. Ala.—Converse Bridge Co. v. Collins, 24 So. 561, 119 Ala. 534.

58. U.S.—Delaware, L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Johnson-Brown Co., D.C.Ga., 270 F. 679.

59. La.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Consolidated Companies, App., 151 So. 433, affirmed 156 So. 215, 180 La. 180.

60. La.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Consolidated Companies, supra.

61. U.S.—Wallingford Bros. v. Bush, Kan., 255 F. 949, 167 C.C.A. 241.
Iowa.—Des Moines & Central Iowa R. R. v. American Employers Ins. Co., 276 N.W. 56.
Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Perry Ice & Bottling Co., 10 S.W.2d 1091, 226 Ky. 286.
Minn.—Chicago Junction Ry. Co. v. Duluth Log Co., 202 N.W. 24, 161 Minn. 466.
N.J.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Townsend, 100 A. 855, 90 N.J.Law 75.
Pa.—Davis v. Richardson, 87 Pa.Super. 205.
Tenn.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Southern Coal & Coke Co., 248 S.W. 297, 147 Tenn. 433.

Corpus Juris cited and approved.
U.S.—Wallingford Bros. v. Bush, Kan., 255 F. 949, 950, 167 C.C.A. 241.
Minn.—Chicago Junction Ry. Co. v. Duluth Log Co., 202 N.W. 24, 25, 161 Minn. 466.
Tenn.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Southern Coal & Coke Co., 248 S.W. 297, 300, 147 Tenn. 433.

62. U.S.—Cincinnati Northern R. Co. v. Beveridge, D.C.Va., 8 F.2d 372—Wallingford Bros. v. Bush, Kan., 255 F. 949, 167 C.C.A. 241.
Ga.—Smith Bros. Co. v. Charleston & W. C. Ry. Co., 137 S.E. 115, 36 Ga.App. 480.
Ill.—Pere Marquette R. Co. v. American Coal & Supply Co., 239 Ill.App. 139.

hand, practically any person who has no undertaken to pay the charges is subject to liability therefor.[63]

Subject to the hereinafter discussed rules and statutes against discrimination,[64] the person or persons liable for freight charges may be determined by the express contract made between the parties,[65] as sometimes evidenced by the bill of lading.[66] Hence, a person may subject himself to liability by express contract, notwithstanding he is not the owner of the goods.[67] An express contract or undertaking is not, however, absolutely essential to the existence of liability.[68]

Unless the contract or intention of the parties is shown to have been otherwise,[69] the person who delivers the goods to the carrier for shipment impliedly assumes an obligation to pay the freight charges.[70]

Also, an obligation to pay the charges may generally be implied or incurred by reason of the fact that a person accepts or receives the shipment from the carrier,[71] or otherwise exercises dominion over

Iowa—Des Moines & Central Iowa R R v American Employers Ins Co, 276 N W. 56.
Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Perry Ice & Bottling Co., 10 S W 2d 1091, 226 Ky 286.
Mass—American Ry Express Co v Mohawk Co, 144 N.E 721, 250 Mass 1, 35 A L R 14.
Mo—Chicago, B & Q. R Co v. Evans, 228 S W. 853, 206 Mo App. 553
N J—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Townsend, 100 A. 855, 90 N J Law 75
Pa—Philadelphia & R R. Co. v. International Motor Co, 84 Pa Super 582—Dempsey v. Philadelphia & Reading R. Co, 14 Pa Dist. 111.
S C—Davis v Allen, 117 S.E 547, 124 S C 297
Tenn—Cleveland, C, C. & St L Ry Co v Southern Coal & Coke Co, 248 S.W 297, 147 Tenn. 433
10 C J p 446 note 26.

Corpus Juris cited in Wallingford Bros. v. Bush, Kan, 255 F. 949, 950, 167 C.C.A. 241

63. Cal.—New York Cent R Co. v Frank H Buck Co, 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal 2d 384.

64. U S—Louisville & N. R. Co. v Central Iron & Coal Co., Ala, 44 S Ct 441, 265 U S 59, 68 L Ed 900, affirming, C C A, 284 F 250—Lowden v. Iroquois Coal Co, D C Ill, 18 F Supp 923.
Ala.—Moss Lumber Co. v Michigan Cent R. Co, 123 So 90, 219 Ala 593, reversing 123 So. 89, 23 Ala. App 199
Cal.—New York Cent. R. Co v Frank H Buck Co, 41 P 2d 547, 2 Cal 2d 384
Mass.—Pennsylvania R Co v. Lord & Spencer, 3 N E 2d 231, 105 A L R 1211—American Ry Express Co v Mohawk Dairy Co, 144 N E 721, 250 Mass 1, 35 A L.R 14.
Mich—Michigan Cent R. Co. v. Saginaw Milling Co, 262 N.W. 425, 272 Mich 625
Pa—Chicago & N R. Co. v. Picard, 98 Pa.Super. 134.
Tenn—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry v. Murphree, 2 Tenn.App. 482.

65. U S.—Louisville & N R. Co. v. Central Iron & Coal Co., Ala., 44 S Ct 441, 265 U.S 59, 68 L Ed. 900, affirming, C C A, 284 F 250—Houston & T. C. R. Co. v Lee County Produce Co, D C.Tex., 14 F.2d 145—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co v. Republic Box Co, D.C Tex, 12 F 2d 441—Lowden v. Iroquois Coal Co, D C Ill., 18 F Supp. 923.
Ala.—Moss Lumber Co v. Michigan Cent. R. Co, 123 So. 90, 219 Ala 593, reversing 123 So. 89, 23 Ala. App. 199.
Cal—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Frank H Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal 2d 384
Ill—Chesapeake & Ohio Ry Co. v. Southern Coal, Coke & Mining Co., 254 Ill App. 238, certiorari denied 51 S Ct. 34, 282 U.S 860, 75 L Ed 761.
Mass—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Lord & Spencer, 3 N E 2d 231, 105 A L.R. 1211—American Ry Express Co v. Mohawk Dairy Co., 144 N E 721, 250 Mass 1, 35 A L.R. 14.
Mich—Michigan Cent. R Co v. Saginaw Milling Co., 262 N.W. 425, 272 Mich. 625
N.Y—Grand Trunk Western R. Co v. Makris, 255 N Y.S 443, 142 Misc. 807
Pa—Chicago & N R. Co. v Picard, 98 Pa Super. 134
Tenn—Nashville, C & St. L. Ry. v Murphree, 2 Tenn.App. 482.

66. U S—Louisville & N R Co v Central Iron & Coal Co, Ala, 44 S. Ct 441, 265 U S 59, 68 L Ed 900, affirming, C C.A, 284 F. 250
Cal—New York Cent R. Co v Frank H Buck Co, 41 P 2d 547, 2 Cal 2d 384.

67. Cal—New York Cent. R. Co. v Frank H Buck Co, supra.

68. U.S—Louisville & N. R. Co. v Central Iron & Coal Co, Ala, 44 S.Ct 441, 265 U.S 59, 68 L.Ed. 900, affirming, C.C.A, 284 F 250.
Ill—New York Cent R. Co v Platt & Brahm Coal Co, 236 Ill App. 150
Mich.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v Saginaw Milling Co, 262 N.W 425, 272 Mich 625.

69. U.S—Louisville & N. R. Co. v Central Iron & Coal Co, Ala., 44 S Ct 441, 265 U.S. 59, 68 L Ed 900, affirming, C.C A., 284 F. 250—Lowden v. Iroquois Coal Co., D.C.Ill, 18 F.Supp. 923.
Ala—Moss Lumber Co v. Michigan Cent. R. Co, 123 So. 90, 219 Ala. 593, reversing 123 So. 89, 23 Ala. App 199
Cal—New York Cent R Co. v. Frank H Buck Co, 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal 2d 384
Tenn.—Davis v. Hunt, Washington & Smith, 6 Tenn.App 292—Nashville, C. & St L. Ry. v. Murphree, 2 Tenn.App. 482.

70. U S—Louisville & N R Co. v Central Iron & Coal Co, Ala., 44 S.Ct. 441, 265 U S. 59, 68 L.Ed. 900, affirming, C C.A, 284 F. 250
Ala—Moss Lumber Co v. Michigan Cent R Co, 123 So 90, 219 Ala. 593, reversing judgment 123 So. 89, 23 Ala App 199.
Cal—New York Cent. R. Co. v Frank H Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal. 2d 384
Kan—Atchison, T & S F. Ry. Co. v. F H Stannard & Co, 162 P. 1176, 99 Kan. 730, L.R.A.1917C 1124.
Mass.—Pennsylvania R. Co v. Lord & Spencer, 3 N.E 2d 231, 105 A.L R. 1211.
Pa.—Delaware, L & W R. Co v. Ludwig, 94 Pa Super 289—Director General of Railroads v Birdsboro Stone Co, 86 Pa Super. 587.
W Va—Chesapeake & O. Ry Co. v. Glogora Coal Co., 169 S E 471, 113 W Va. 796, certiorari denied Glogora Coal Co v Chesapeake & O Ry. Co, 54 S Ct 73, 290 U S. 658, 78 L Ed 569.

71. U S.—Wabash Ry Co v Horn, C C A Ill, 40 F.2d 905—Dare v. New York Cent R Co, C C.A.N Y., 20 F.2d 379.
Ill—Atchison, T & S F. R. Co. v. Kirby, 280 Ill App. 481—Mellon v. Landeck, 248 Ill App. 353—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Platt & Brahm Coal Co, 236 Ill.App 150
Kan—Case v Union Pac. R. Co., 241 P. 693, 119 Kan. 706.
Mass—Pennsylvania R. Co v. Lord & Spencer, 3 N E.2d 231, 105 A.L. R. 1211—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co v York & Whitney Co., 119 N.E. 855, 230 Mass 206, affirmed in part and reversed in part

it while in the carrier's hands,[72] as by directing that it be reshipped or reconsigned.[73] If the person so accepting the shipment, or exercising control over it, holds himself out as the apparent owner of the goods, he may render himself subject to liability in this manner notwithstanding he is not the actual owner,[74] or has not been designated as consignee in the bill of lading.[75] In view of the Interstate Commerce Act, and similar state statutes, and the rules developed thereunder that estoppel, misrepresentation, or mistake cannot be asserted to defeat a carrier's right to collect the full amount of the duly published and established rates, see infra §§ 392–397, it is often held that a person who accepts, or exercises control over, the shipment impliedly agrees to pay or is liable for the full legal charges, notwithstanding he acted on the representation or understanding that the charges had been prepaid,[76] or he accepted the goods with the thought that the charges then demanded by the carrier and paid by him was the full amount lawfully due.[77]

Opposed to these authorities, however, are holdings to the effect that where a person who is neither consignor or consignee is induced to accept the shipment upon the representation that the charges have been prepaid is not subject to liability therefor because his acceptance cannot be said to constitute either an express or implied agreement to pay the same;[78] and that such a person who accepts the goods and pays all the charges demanded by the carrier is not liable for an undercharge,[79] or, at least not primarily, so that recovery may be had from him without first resorting to the shipper.[80]

On the other hand, a person is not ordinarily subject to liability merely because he is or was the owner of the goods involved,[81] or the holder or assignee on other grounds 41 S.Ct. 509, 256 U.S. 406, 65 L.Ed. 1016.

Mich.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Brown, 274 N.W. 715, 281 Mich. 74—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Saginaw Milling Co., 262 N.W. 425, 272 Mich. 625—Wabash Ry. Co. v. Bloomgarden, 180 N.W. 443, 212 Mich. 410.

Minn.—Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Schmit, 203 N.W. 618, 163 Minn. 194.

N.J.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Stanziale, 147 A. 457, 105 N.J.Law 593, reversing 143 A. 834, 6 N.J. Misc. 1116.

N.Y.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Maloney, 244 N.Y.S. 394, 137 Misc. 751—Central R. of New Jersey v. Williams, 180 N.Y.S. 925, 111 Misc. 730.

Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. De Marto, 90 Pa.Super. 216—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Young, 88 Pa.Super. 332—West Jersey & S. R. Co. v. Whiting Lumber Co., 71 Pa.Super. 161.

S.C.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Herndon, 179 S.E. 306, 175 S.C. 361.

W.Va.—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v. Williamson Grocery Co., 138 S.E. 102, 103 W.Va. 532.

72. Mich.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Brown, 274 N.W. 715, 281 Mich. 74.

Ohio.—C. L. Hils Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 162 N.E. 761, 28 Ohio App. 459.

Pa.—Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 156 A. 587, 102 Pa.Super. 31.

73. Ill.—Indiana Harbor Belt R. Co. v. Lieberman, 245 Ill.App. 503—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Platt & Brahm Coal Co., 236 Ill.App. 150.

Mich.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Guyan Coal & Coke Co., 274 N.W. 718, 281 Mich. 82.

74. Kan.—Farrar v. Perkins, 251 P. 440, 122 Kan. 141.

N.Y.—Erie R. Co. v. H. Rosenstein, Inc., 164 N.E. 37, 249 N.Y. 241, 61 A.L.R. 415, affirming 227 N.Y.S. 99, 222 App.Div. 509—Central R. of New Jersey v. Williams, 180 N.Y.S. 925, 111 Misc. 730.

75. Kan.—Farrar v. Perkins, 251 P. 440, 122 Kan. 141—Case v. Union Pac. R. Co., 241 P. 693, 119 Kan. 706.

76. U.S.—Central Warehouse Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 20 F.2d 828, affirming, D.C., Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Central Warehouse Co., 14 F.2d 123—Western & Atlantic R. Co. v. Underwood, D.C.Ga., 281 F. 891—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Hyder, D.C.Wash., 279 F. 783.

Mass.—New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. v. Lord & Spencer, 174 N.E. 179, 273 Mass. 583.

Tex.—Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Johnson, Com.App., 41 S.W.2d 14, 83 A.L.R. 241, reversing, Civ.App., 1 S.W.2d 706.

W.Va.—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v. Williamson Grocery Co., 138 S.E. 102, 103 W.Va. 532.

Wis.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. J. I. Case Plow Works, 180 N.W. 846, 173 Wis. 237.

77. Kan.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Wagner, 172 P. 519, 102 Kan. 817, L.R.A.1918D 1105.

Minn.—Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Schmit, 203 N.W. 618, 163 Minn. 194.

S.C.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Herndon, 179 S.E. 306, 175 S.C. 361.

78. U.S.—Cincinnati Northern R. Co. v. Beveridge, D.C.Va., 8 F.2d 372.

79. Ga.—Smith Bros. Co. v. Charleston & W. C. Ry. Co., 137 S.E. 115, 36 Ga.App. 480.

N.J.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Townsend, 100 A. 855, 90 N.J.Law 75.

10 C.J. p. 447 note 37.

Reasons for rule

(1) A carrier's "right and duty to collect the correct freight from some one . . . does not necessarily mean that . . . [it] should collect it from the person to whom . . . [it] delivered the goods. If that were true, every drayman, porter, employee, or servant who calls for and receives the goods of another would himself become liable for the freight charges. This would be stretching the law into an absurdity."—Smith Bros. Co. v. Charleston & W. C. Ry. Co., 137 S.E. 115, 118, 36 Ga.App. 480.

(2) "No doubt, if Townsend as assignee of the bill of lading had accepted and removed the goods without paying the charges, with knowledge that the carrier was giving up for his benefit a lien upon the goods for a stated amount, that would be cogent evidence from which to imply an agreement on his part to pay the known amount of the freight charges. But the mere acceptance and removal of goods by the assignee of a bill of lading, upon payment of the freight bill as made out by the carrier, without knowledge by the assignee that the same was an undercharge, does not create any further liability on his part, even though, by mistake of the carrier, the bill as rendered did not include the entire charge."—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Townsend, 100 A. 855, 856, 90 N.J.Law 75.

80. Neb.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. W. L. Stickel Lumber Co., 156 N.W. 1082, 99 Neb. 564.

10 C.J. p. 445 note 17 [a], p. 447 note 42.

81. U.S. — Wallingford Bros. v.

of the bill of lading covering the shipment,[82] or because he has used the goods after they have been delivered by the carrier,[83] and it has been held that the carrier cannot recover undercharges from one who merely purchases the shipment,[84] or the consignee's business,[85] after the shipment has been delivered to, and the charges demanded have been paid by, the consignee. Also, one who purchased, and exercised dominion over, a shipment only after it had been delivered at the point of destination and refused by the person to whom it was delivered has been held not liable for the freight charges to such point.[86] Of course, the owner may be rendered liable due to the fact that the shipment was made for his benefit or under his direction,[87] and the assignee or holder of a bill of lading who receives the goods or exercises dominion over them is generally held bound to pay the transportation charges[88] although he was ignorant that the carrier looked to him for payment.[89]

If a person has so acted or contracted as to make himself liable to the carrier under the foregoing rules he cannot avoid, or be relieved from, liability because some other person has likewise subjected himself to liability for the same charges,[90] or because of a direction to the carrier to collect the freight from such other person.[91] In such a case the carrier may recover the charges from either of the parties, if it has not in some manner restricted its rights to only one of them;[92] but the primary

Bush, Kan., 255 F. 949, 167 C C A. 241.

Ark.—Davis v. City Fuel Co., 248 S W 572, 157 Ark. 455

Mass.—American Ry. Express Co. v Mohawk Dairy Co., 144 N E. 721, 250 Mass. 1, 35 A L R 14.

N J.—New York Cent. R Co v. Stanziale, 143 A 834, 6 N J Misc. 1116, reversed on other grounds 147 A. 457, 105 N J.Law 593.

N.Y.—Central of Georgia Ry Co v. Lovell, 180 N.Y S. 922, 111 Misc. 735

Corpus Juris cited in Wallingford Bros. v. Bush, Kan., 255 F. 949, 950, 167 C C A. 241.

Ownership as test of liability

(1) Ownership of property is not of itself the test for determining liability for freightage—Chicago, B & Q. R. Co. v. Evans, 288 S.W. 73, 221 Mo.App. 757.

(2) "Ownership is important in connection with other factors in determining liability for transportation charges, but apart from other considerations is not decisive."—American Ry. Express Co v. Mohawk Dairy Co., 144 N E. 721, 724, 250 Mass. 1, 35 A L R. 14.

Ownership beginning and ending during transit is insufficient to fix liability

U S.—Wallingford Bros v. Bush, Kan., 255 F. 949, 167 C C A. 241.

Ark.—Davis v City Fuel Co., 248 S. W. 572, 155 Ark 455.

82. N C—Southern Ry. Co. v. W. A. Simpkins Co., 100 S E. 418, 178 N. C. 273.

83. Iowa—Des Moines & Central Iowa R. R. v American Employers Ins. Co., 276 N.W. 56.

84. N.Y.—Erie R Co. v. McDonald, 249 N.Y S. 323, 140 Misc 208.

85. Ky—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Perry Ice & Bottling Co., 10 S W. 2d 1091, 226 Ky 286.

Purchaser's debt to consignee does not entitle the carrier to recover unpaid freight charges from the purchaser where the carrier has not attached or otherwise subjected the fund—Louisville & N. R Co. v Perry Ice & Bottling Co., 10 S W 2d 1091, 226 Ky 286.

86. Tex—Texarkana & Ft S. Ry Co v. Brewer, Civ.App., 19 S W 2d 334.

87. U S—New York Cent. R. Co v. Union Oil Co of Pennsylvania, D C Pa., 53 F.2d 1066—Wabash Ry Co. v. Horn, C C A.Ill., 40 F 2d 905.

Ark.—Missouri Pac R Co v Pfeiffer Stone Co., 266 S W. 82, 166 Ark 226—Davis v. City Fuel Co., 248 S W. 572, 157 Ark 455.

Mass.—Boston & M. R R. v. National Orange Co., 122 N E. 313, 232 Mass 351.

Minn.—Chicago, M & St P. Ry. Co. v Greenberg, 166 N W. 1073, 139 Minn 428, L R.A 1918D 158, Ann Cas 1918E 456.

Or.—Southern Pac Co v. Oregon Growers' Co-op Ass'n, 272 P 281, 127 Or 364

Pa.—Philadelphia & R. R. Co. v. International Motor Co., 84 Pa.Super 582.

10 C J. p 447 note 38.

Corpus Juris cited in Chicago, M. & St P. Ry. Co. v. Greenberg, 166 N W. 1073, 1074, 139 Minn. 428, L.R.A 1918D 158, Ann.Cas.1918E 456.

Consignor held owner as to liability

As regards his liability for freight under a bill of lading providing that the owner or consignee shall pay the freight, a shipper who is both the consignor and consignee is the owner of the goods until a draft accompanying the bill of lading is paid, or the goods are delivered to the indorsee of such bill

U S.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v Hunt Bros. Fruit Co., D.C Mo., 34 F.2d 582.

Or.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Oregon Growers' Co-op. Ass'n, 272 P. 281, 127 Or. 364.

88. U.S.—Central Warehouse Co. v. Chicago, R. I & P. Ry. Co., C.C A Minn., 20 F 2d 828, affirming, D. C., Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Central Warehouse Co., 14 F 2d 123—Dare v New York Cent. R. Co., C C A.N.Y., 20 F.2d 379.

Kan.—Case v Union Pac. R. Co., 241 P. 693, 119 Kan. 706

N J.—Pennsylvania R Co v. Townsend, 100 A. 855, 90 N.J.Law 75

Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co v De Marto, 90 Pa.Super. 216—Pennsylvania R. Co. v A. J Cameron & Co., 78 Pa Super 497.

10 C J. p 447 note 39.

Assignee for security

(1) The fact that an assignee accepting delivery of the goods holds the bill of lading only as security does not prevent him from becoming subject to liability.—Dare v. New York Cent R. Co., C C.A.N.Y., 20 F. 2d 379.

(2) However, an assignee of the bill of lading for security only is not liable for freight beyond the value of the goods—Swett v. Black, D. C Mass., 23 F Cas No.13,691, 2 Sprague 49.

Rate specified in bill of lading

The assignee of bills of lading upon which are indorsed conditions as to the rate of exchange applicable to the payment of ocean freight charges obligates himself to pay the charges at the rates indicated where he uses the bills to obtain the goods. —Pennsylvania R Co v. A J. Cameron & Co., 78 Pa.Super. 497.

89. Mass.—New York, etc., R Co. v. Sampson, 110 N.E. 964, 222 Mass. 311.

90. Ill.—Atchison, T & S. F. R. Co. v. Kirby, 280 Ill App 481.

Kan.—Farrar v. Perkins, 251 P. 440, 122 Kan. 141

91. U.S.—Dare v New York Cent. R. Co., C.C A.N.Y., 20 F.2d 379.

92. Ga.—Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 95 S.E 251, 147 Ga. 646, affirming Southern Ry. Co. v. Southern Cotton Oil Co., 91 S.E.

liability and right of reimbursement as between the several parties who may be liable is dependent upon the contract or relationship existing between them.[93] An agent of the carrier who, to save his job, has paid the charges on a shipment taken by another without payment thereof is entitled to collect the charges from the recipient of the goods, irrespective of an illegal compromise, or the fact that the shipper of the goods had contracted to pay the charges.[94]

Agents and factors. A person who has taken some step or done some act which would otherwise subject him to liability may be excused therefrom by reason of the fact that he was acting merely as an agent or factor if such fact was properly made known to the carrier with whom the dealings were had.[95] If, however, the carrier had no knowledge or notice of the agency an agent or factor may become liable for the charges in the same manner and to the same extent as if he had been acting on his own behalf,[96] and even where the agency is known an agent or factor may render himself liable by an express undertaking.[97]

b. Consignor

Unless a contrary intention or contract is sufficiently shown or established, the consignor of a freight shipment is ordinarily primarily liable for the charges thereon.

The consignor, by or for whom the shipment is made, is ordinarily regarded as the party primarily liable for the payment of the full amount of the freight charges, whether or not he is the owner of the goods.[98] While a consignor's liability may arise

876, 19 Ga.App. 453—Central of Georgia Ry Co v Brown, 155 S.E. 787, 42 Ga.App. 278—Western & A. R. R. v. Legg, 123 S.E. 31, 32 Ga. App. 368—Seaboard Air Line Ry Co. v. Montgomery, 112 S.E. 652, 28 Ga.App. 639.

Miss.—Gulf, M. & N. R Co v Riverside Brick & Mfg Co., 107 So. 193, 141 Miss. 505.

N.Y.—New York Cent R Co. v. Federal Sugar Refining Co., 139 N.E. 234, 235 N.Y. 182, 26 A.L.R. 1312, reversing judgment 194 N.Y.S. 467, 201 App.Div. 467.

N.C.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Latham, 97 S.E. 234, 176 N.C. 417.

Pa.—Central Railroad Co of N. J. v. Vulcanite Portland Cement Co., 29 Pa.Dist. 20.

Wis.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Hocking Valley Fire Clay Co., 166 N.W. 41, 166 Wis. 465.

93. Ala.—Robert S. Armstrong & Bros Co v. Rowland, 118 So. 502, 22 Ala.App. 613.

La.—Hardin v Federal Rice Mill Co., 113 So. 760, 164 La. 49.

Mo.—State ex rel. City of St. Charles v. Becker, 83 S.W.2d 583, 336 Mo. 1187, modifying City of St. Charles v. Wabash Ry. Co., App., 65 S.W.2d 655.

94. Kan.—Farrar v. Perkins, 251 P. 440, 122 Kan. 141.

95. Ga.—Baltimore & O. R. Co v. Johnson-Battle Lumber Co., 141 S.E. 678, 37 Ga.App. 729—Smith Bros. Co. v Charleston & W C Ry Co., 137 S.E. 115, 36 Ga.App. 480.

La.—Davis v. Ducote, App., 145 So. 717.

N.Y.—New York Cent. R Co v. Sharp, 213 N.Y.S. 867, 215 App.Div. 794, affirming 206 N.Y.S. 755, 124 Misc.R. 265.

96. N.Y.—Erie R Co v. H. Rosenstein, Inc., 227 N.Y.S. 99, 222 App.Div. 509, affirmed 164 N.E. 37, 249 N.Y. 241, 61 A.L.R. 415—Central R of New Jersey v. Williams, 180 N.Y.S. 925, 111 Misc. 730.

Ohio—C. L. Hils Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 162 N.E. 761, 28 Ohio App. 459.

Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Rothstein, 176 A. 861, 116 Pa.Super. 156.

Diversion order itself must disclose the agency.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Rothstein, 176 A. 861, 116 Pa. Super. 156.

97. Cal.—New York Cent. R. Co v. Frank H. Buck & Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.

Shipper's agency, although known to the carrier, is not a defense to an action by the carrier against the shipper for freight charges where the shipper has expressly contracted, as consignor or consignee, or both, to pay such charges.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Frank H. Buck Co., 41 P. 2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.

98. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Central Iron & Coal Co., Ala., 44 S.Ct. 441, 265 U.S. 59, 68 L.Ed. 900, affirming, C.C.A., 284 F. 250—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Union Oil Co. of Pennsylvania, D.C.Pa., 53 F.2d 1066—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hunt Bros. Fruit Co., D.C.Mo., 34 F.2d 582—Maryland Casualty Co. v. Ohio River Gravel Co., C.C.A.W.Va., 20 F.2d 514, rehearing denied 21 F.2d 744, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 157, 275 U.S. 570, 72 L.Ed. 431—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Beatty Brokerage Co., D.C.La., 13 F.2d 950, affirmed Beatty Brokerage Co. v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A., 17 F.2d 480—Missouri-Pacific R. Co. v. Sorrell, D.C.Tex., 21 F.Supp. 886—Wells Fargo & Co. v. Cunes, D.C. N.Y., 241 F. 727.

Ala.—Moss Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 123 So. 90, 219 Ala. 593, reversing 123 So. 89, 23 Ala. App. 199.

Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Pfeiffer Stone Co., 266 S.W. 82, 166 Ark. 226.

Cal.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Frank H. Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384—Southern California Commercial Co. v. Alberti, 207 P. 1023, 58 Cal.App. 84.

Ga.—Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 95 S.E. 251, 147 Ga. 646, affirming Southern Ry. Co. v. Southern Cotton Oil Co., 91 S.E. 876, 19 Ga.App. 453—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Brown, 155 S.E. 787, 42 Ga.App. 278—Western & A. R. R. v. Legg, 123 S.E. 31, 32 Ga.App. 368—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. Montgomery, 112 S.E. 652, 28 Ga.App. 639.

Ill.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co., 121 N.E. 581, 286 Ill. 267, affirming 210 Ill.App. 267—Erie Railroad Co. v. Nieman Bros., 281 Ill.App. 45—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Lehigh Stone Co., 220 Ill.App. 563.

Kan.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. F. H. Stannard & Co., 162 P. 1176, 99 Kan. 720, L.R.A.1917C 1124.

La.—Davis v. Ducote, App., 145 So. 717.

Me.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Pleasant River Granite Co., 102 A. 298, 116 Me. 496.

Mass.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Lord & Spencer, 3 N.E.2d 231, 105 A.L.R. 1211—American Ry. Express Co. v. Mohawk Dairy Co., 144 N.E. 721, 250 Mass. 1, 35 A.L.R. 14—Boston & M. R. R. v. National Orange Co., 122 N.E. 313, 232 Mass. 351.

Mich.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Marcelletti, 240 N.W. 4, 256 Mich. 411, 78 A.L.R. 923.

Minn.—Chicago Junction Ry. Co. v. Duluth Log Co., 202 N.W. 24, 161 Minn. 466—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Greenberg, 166 N.W. 1073, 139 Minn. 428, L.R.A.1918D 158, Ann.Cas.1918E 456.

by reason of express agreement,[99] it is ordinarily predicated on the fact that, in the absence of circumstances to establish the contrary, the consignor by placing, or having the goods placed, in the hands of the carrier for the purpose of being transported thereby impliedly contracts to pay for such service.[1] As the liability of the consignor thus becomes fixed upon the acceptance of the goods for shipment, the enforcement of his liability is not conditional upon a delivery of the goods to the consignee,[2] or a prior suit against him.[3] However, the consignor is not liable for storage charges incurred at the point of destination by agreement between the carrier and the owner of the goods.[4]

Although there are a few cases which appear to have reached a contrary conclusion, on the ground that under the Interstate Commerce Act and similar statutes the mere fact of delivery of goods for shipment imports an absolute promise to pay the charges as a matter of law so that an agreement to the

Miss.—Gulf, M. & N. R. Co. v. Riverside Brick & Mfg. Co., 107 So. 193, 141 Miss. 505.

Mo.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Evans, 288 S.W. 73, 221 Mo.App. 757—Chicago & E. R. Co. v. Lightfoot, 232 S.W. 176, 206 Mo.App. 436—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Picher Lead Co., App., 190 S.W. 387.

Neb.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Queenan, 167 N.W. 410, 102 Neb. 391, L.R.A.1918D 946.

N.H.—New York, N. H. & H. R. R. v. Tonella, 111 A. 341, 79 N.H. 464.

N.J.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Stanziale, 143 A. 834, 6 N.J.Misc. 1116, reversed on other grounds 147 A. 457, 105 N.J.Law 593—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Townsend, 100 A. 855, 90 N.J.Law 75—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Singer Mfg. Co., 131 A. 111, 3 N.J.Misc. 1137.

N.Y.—Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Makris, 255 N.Y.S. 443, 142 Misc. 807—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Lovell, 180 N.Y.S. 922, 111 Misc. 735—Central Railroad of New Jersey v. Berry, 165 N.Y.S. 1041, 99 Misc. 560.

N.C.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Latham, 97 S.E. 234, 176 N.C. 417.

Ohio.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. McKenzie Lumber Co., 147 N.E. 8, 112 Ohio St. 80—C. L. Hils Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 162 N.E. 761, 28 Ohio App. 459.

Or.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Oregon Growers' Co-op. Ass'n, 272 P. 281, 127 Or. 364.

Pa.—Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Ludwig, 94 Pa.Super. 289—Lapat Co. v. Northern Metal Co., 92 Pa.Super. 63—Director General of Railroads v. Birdsboro Stone Co., 86 Pa.Super. 587—Chicago, B. & Q. R. R. v. Berry's Sons, 86 Pa.Super. 1—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. L. B. Foster Co., 81 Pa.Super. 304—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. General Crushed Stone Co., 76 Pa.Super. 186—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Whitney & Kemmerer, 73 Pa.Super. 588—Beecher v. Reading Co., 22 Pa.Dist. & Co. 364—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Parry, 18 Pa.Dist. & Co. 184—Chicago Great Western R. R. Co. v. Federal Stock Food Co., 8 Pa.Dist. & Co. 217—Erie R. Co. v. Kreitner Bros., Inc., 3 Pa.Dist. & Co. 251—Central Railroad Co. of N. J. v. Vulcanite Portland Cement Co., 29 Pa.Dist. 20.

S.C.—Davis v. Allen, 117 S.E. 547, 124 S.C. 297.

Tenn.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Southern Coal & Coke Co., 248 S.W. 297, 147 Tenn. 433—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Hazard Blue Grass Coal Co., 10 Tenn.App. 590.

Tex.—Miller & Vidor Lumber Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 192 S.W. 354.

Vt.—Montpelier & W. R. R. v. Charles Bianchi & Sons, 113 A. 534, 95 Vt. 81.

W.Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Glogora Coal Co., 169 S.E. 471, 113 W.Va. 796, certiorari denied Glogora Coal Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 54 S.Ct. 73, 290 U.S. 658, 78 L.Ed. 569.

Wis.—Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co. v. Peterson, 169 N.W. 558, 168 Wis. 193—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Hocking Valley Fire Clay Co., 166 N.W. 41, 166 Wis. 465.

10 C.J. p. 445 note 15.

The corresponding text statement in Corpus Juris is cited with approval.

Minn.—Chicago Junction Ry. Co. v. Duluth Log Co., 202 N.W. 24, 25, 161 Minn. 466—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Greenberg, 166 N.W. 1073, 139 Minn. 428, L.R.A.1918D 158, Ann.Cas.1918E 456.

Tenn.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Southern Coal & Coke Co., 248 S.W. 297, 300, 147 Tenn. 433.

Vt.—Montpelier & W. R. R. v. Charles Bianchi & Sons, 113 A. 534, 535, 95 Vt. 81.

Reason for rule as stated in Corpus Juris is quoted in Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Southern Coal & Coke Co., 248 S.W. 297, 300, 147 Tenn. 433.

Bond for prepayment

The consignor cannot escape liability where he has executed a surety bond for prepayment of the freight charges.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Oregon Growers' Co-op. Ass'n, 272 P. 281, 127 Or. 364.

99. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Central Iron & Coal Co., Ala., 44 S.Ct. 441, 265 U.S. 59, 68 L.Ed. 900, affirming, C.C.A., 284 F. 250.

Pa.—Chicago & N. R. Co. v. Picard, 98 Pa.Super. 134—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. General Crushed Stone Co., 76 Pa.Super. 186.

Storage charges

Consignor of interstate shipment held liable to delivering carrier for storage charges on goods not called for after arrival at destination, where bill of lading provided consignor should be liable for all lawful charges.—Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Makris, 255 N.Y.S. 443, 142 Misc. 807.

1. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Central Iron & Coal Co., Ala., 44 S.Ct. 441, 265 U.S. 59, 68 L.Ed. 900, affirming, C.C.A., 284 F. 250—Wells Fargo & Co. v. Cuneo, D.C.N.Y., 241 F. 727.

Ala.—Moss Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 123 So. 90, 219 Ala. 593, reversing 123 So. 89, 23 Ala.App. 199.

Cal.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Frank H. Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.

Me.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Pleasant River Granite Co., 102 A. 298, 116 Me. 496.

Mass.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Lord & Spencer, 3 N.E.2d 231, 105 A.L.R. 1211.

Neb.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Queenan, 167 N.W. 410, 102 Neb. 391, L.R.A.1918D 946.

N.J.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Singer Mfg. Co., 131 A. 111, 3 N.J.Misc. 1137.

Pa.—Director General of Railroads v. Birdsboro Stone Co., 86 Pa.Super. 587—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. General Crushed Stone Co., 76 Pa.Super. 186.

S.C.—Davis v. Allen, 117 S.E. 547, 124 S.C. 297.

Wis.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Hocking Valley Fire Clay Co., 166 N.W. 41, 166 Wis. 465.

10 C.J. p. 445 note 16.

2. Ill.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Lehigh Stone Co., 220 Ill.App. 563.

3. U.S.—Wells Fargo & Co. v. Cuneo, D.C.N.Y., 241 F. 727.

Tenn.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Hazard Blue Grass Coal Co., 10 Tenn.App. 590.

4. U.S.—Davis v. Adams, C.C.A.Cal., 293 F. 890.

contrary is void,[5] it now seems to be well settled that, notwithstanding such statutes, the consignor can avoid or rebut the implication or presumption of his assumption of primary liability for the charges by showing some special circumstance or contract to establish that the parties intended that he should not assume any liability whatsoever,[6] or that he should assume only a secondary liability.[7] However, the fact that the consignor was not the owner of the goods and acted solely for another in making the shipment does not prevent him from incurring liability where such fact was not disclosed to the carrier at the time of the shipment;[8] and stipulations or directions for the collection of the freight from, or payment by, the consignee are usually held not such special contracts as will defeat the liability

5. U.S.—Wells Fargo & Co. v. Cuneo, D.C.N.Y., 241 F. 727.
Tenn.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Southern Coal & Coke Co., 248 S.W. 297, 147 Tenn. 433.

Tariff requiring prepayment of the freight charges renders the consignor primarily liable for the freight irrespective of any agreement to the contrary.—Central Railroad Co. of New Jersey v. Vulcanite Portland Cement Co., 29 Pa.Dist. 20.

6. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Central Iron & Coal Co., Ala., 44 S.Ct. 441, 265 U.S. 59, 68 L.Ed. 900, affirming, C.C.A., 284 F. 250—Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Lee County Produce Co., D.C.Tex., 14 F.2d 145—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Republic Box Co., D.C.Tex., 12 F.2d 441—Lowden v. Iroquois Coal Co., D.C.Ill., 18 F.Supp. 923.
Ala.—Moss Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 123 So. 90, 219 Ala. 593, reversing 123 So. 89, 23 Ala. App. 199.
Cal.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Frank H. Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.
Mass.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Lord & Spencer, 3 N.E.2d 231, 105 A.L.R. 1211.
Mich.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Saginaw Milling Co., 262 N.W. 425, 272 Mich. 625—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Marcelletti, 240 N.W. 4, 256 Mich. 411, 78 A.L.R. 923—King v. Van Slack, 159 N.W. 157, 193 Mich. 105.
Miss.—Gulf, M. & N. R. Co. v. Riverside Brick & Mfg. Co., 107 So. 193, 141 Miss. 505.
Tenn.—Davis v. Hunt, Washington & Smith, 6 Tenn.App. 292.
Tex.—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Salvage & Supply Co., Civ.App., 15 S.W.2d 25.
10 C.J. p. 445 note 24.

"Ordinarily, the person from whom the goods are received for shipment assumes the obligation to pay the freight charges, and his obligation is ordinarily a primary one. This is true, even where the bill of lading contains, as here, a provision imposing liability upon the consignee, for the shipper is presumably the consignor, the transportation ordered by him is presumably on his own behalf, and a promise by him to pay therefor is inferred (that is, implied in fact), as a promise to pay for goods is implied, when one orders them from a dealer. But this inference may be rebutted, as in the case of other contracts. It may be shown, by the bill of lading or otherwise, that the shipper of the goods was not acting on his own behalf, that this fact was known by the carrier; that the parties intended not only that the consignee should assume an obligation to pay the freight charges, but that the shipper should not assume any liability whatsoever, therefor, or that he should assume only a secondary liability."—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Central Iron & Coal Co., Ala., 44 S.Ct. 441, 443, 265 U.S. 59, 68 L.Ed. 900, affirming, C.C.A., 284 F. 250.

Agreement of initial carrier

In action by delivering carrier against consignor for balance of freight due, where agent of initial carrier agreed to look to consignee alone to pay freight charges agent of initial carrier was agent of delivering carrier under through bill of lading issued by him under specific provisions of statute.—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Salvage & Supply Co., Tex.Civ.App., 15 S.W.2d 25.

Carrier's promise to pay

A shipper is not liable for express charges where he shipped goods at the order of the carrier and in reliance on the carrier's promise to pay the charges.—Frank Livery & Undertaking Co. v. American Ry. Express Co., Mo.App., 247 S.W. 1031.

Provision of uniform bill of lading

(1) The consignor may avoid liability by signing a provision of the uniform bill of lading relieving him of liability where the carrier delivers the shipment without demanding the charges from the person to whom delivery is made.
U.S.—Lowden v. Iroquois Coal Co., D.C.Ill., 18 F.Supp. 923.
Ill.—Chesapeake & Ohio Ry. Co. v. Southern Coal, Coke & Mining Co., 254 Ill.App. 238, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 34, 282 U.S. 860, 75 L.Ed. 761.
Mich.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Saginaw Milling Co., 262 N.W. 425, 272 Mich. 625.

(2) This has been held to be so although the receipts issued by the initial carrier did not contain such a provision, but stated merely that the shipment was subject to the terms of the uniform bill of lading.—Lowden v. Iroquois Coal Co., supra.

(3) However, a nonrecourse provision will not relieve the consignor from liability where he fails to sign a statement which the bill of lading requires him to sign in order to make the nonrecourse provision operative.
Mich.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Marcelletti, 240 N.W. 4, 256 Mich. 411, 78 A.L.R. 923.
N.Y.—Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Makris, 255 N.Y.S. 443, 142 Misc. 807.
W.Va.—Western Maryland Ry. Co. v. Cross, 123 S.E. 572, 96 W.Va. 666.

Regulation permitting credit

A regulation of the interstate commerce commission permitting carriers to extend limited credit to the consignee does not throw the liability for the charges back on the consignor when the consignee has failed to pay.—Lowden v. Iroquois Coal Co., D.C.Ill., 18 F.Supp. 923.

7. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Central Iron & Coal Co., Ala., 44 S.Ct. 441, 265 U.S. 59, 68 L.Ed. 900, affirming, C.C.A., 284 F. 250—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hunt Bros. Fruit Co., D.C.Mo., 34 F.2d 582—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Republic Box Co., D.C.Tex., 12 F.2d 441—Lowden v. Iroquois Coal Co., D.C.Ill., 18 F.Supp. 923.
Ala.—Moss Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 123 So. 90, 219 Ala. 593, reversing 123 So. 89, 23 Ala. App. 199.
Cal.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Frank H. Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.
Mass.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Lord & Spencer, 3 N.E.2d 231, 105 A.L.R. 1211.
Pa.—Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Ludwig, 94 Pa.Super. 289.

8. Ala.—Moss Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 123 So. 90, 219 Ala. 593, reversing 123 So. 89, 23 Ala.App. 199.
Pa.—Director General of Railroads v. Birdsboro Stone Co., 86 Pa.Super. 587.
Vt.—Montpelier & W. R. R. R. v. Charles Bianchi & Sons, 113 A. 534, 95 Vt. 81.
Wis.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Hocking Valley Fire Clay Co., 166 N.W. 41, 166 Wis. 465.
10 C.J. p. 445 note 15 [b].

of the consignor.[9] Further, many statements are to be found to the effect that the only way a consignor can be relieved from his primary liability is by full payment of the charges by himself or some other person who is legally liable therefor.[10] At any rate the liability of the consignor has been held not avoided or affected by reason of the fact that the consignee or another became liable for the charges by acceptance of the shipment or in some other manner,[11] that the carrier waived its lien

9. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Central Iron & Coal Co, Ala, 44 S Ct 441, 265 U S 59, 68 L Ed 900, affirming, C C A, 284 F. 250—New York Cent R Co. v. Union Oil Co of Pennsylvania, D C Pa, 53 F 2d 1066—Atchison, T & S F. Ry. Co v. Hunt Bros. Fruit Co., D.C Mo., 34 F 2d 582.

Ala.—Moss Lumber Co. v Michigan Cent. R. Co, 123 So. 90, 219 Ala. 593, reversing 123 So. 89, 23 Ala. App 199.

Ark.—Missouri Pac R. Co v. Pfeiffer Stone Co., 266 S.W. 82, 166 Ark. 226

Cal.—New York Cent R. Co. v. Frank H Buck Co, 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.

Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Brown, 155 S E. 787, 42 Ga App 278—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. Montgomery, 112 S E. 652, 28 Ga. App 639—Southern Ry Co v. Southern Cotton Oil Co., 91 S E. 876, 19 Ga App 453, affirmed Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Southern R. Co, 95 S E 251, 147 Ga. 646

Ill.—Erie Railroad Co. v. Neiman Bros, 281 Ill App. 45

Me—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Pleasant River Granite Co, 102 A 298, 116 Me. 496.

Mass.—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Lord & Spencer, 3 N.E 2d 231, 105 A.L R 1211.

Mich—Pennsylvania R Co v. Marcelletti, 240 N W. 4, 256 Mich. 411, 78 A.L R. 923

Minn—Chicago Junction Ry. Co. v. Duluth Log Co, 202 N.W 24, 161 Minn. 466

Mo.—Chicago & E R Co v. Lightfoot, 232 S.W. 176, 206 Mo App 436—Yazoo & M. V. R Co. v Picher Lead Co., App, 190 S W. 387.

Neb.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Queenan, 167 N W. 410, 102 Neb 391, L R A 1918D 946

N H.—New York, N H & H R. R. v. Tonella, 111 A. 341, 79 N H 464

N J.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Townsend, 100 A. 855, 90 N J Law 75.

N.Y.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Lovell, 180 N.Y.S. 922, 111 Misc. 735.

N.C.—Davis v. Ford, 137 S.E. 328, 193 N C. 444

Or.—Southern Pac. Co. v Oregon Growers' Co-op. Ass'n, 272 P. 281, 127 Or 364.

Pa.—Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Ludwig, 94 Pa Super. 289—Director General of Railroads v. Birdsboro Stone Co, 86 Pa.Super. 587—Baltimore & O R. Co. v. L. B. Foster Co., 81 Pa.Super. 304—Pennsylvania R Co v. Whitney & Kemmerer, 73 Pa Super 588—Beecher v. Reading Company, 22 Pa Dist. & Co 364—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Parry, 18 Pa.Dist. & Co. 184—Central Railroad Co. of N J v Vulcanite Portland Cement Co., 29 Pa. Dist. 20

Tenn—Cleveland, C, C. & St. L Ry. Co v Southern Coal & Coke Co., 248 S W 297, 147 Tenn. 433

Tex—Miller & Vidor Lumber Co. v Atchison, T. & S. F Ry. Co., Civ. App, 192 S W. 354

Vt—Montpelier & W. R. R. R v. Charles Bianchi & Sons, 113 A. 534, 95 Vt. 81

W Va.—Chesapeake & O Ry. Co. v Glogora Coal Co, 169 S.E. 471, 113 W Va 796, certiorari denied Glogora Coal Co. v Chesapeake & O Ry. Co, 54 S Ct. 73, 290 U.S. 658, 78 L Ed 569—Western Maryland Ry. Co v. Cross, 123 S E 572, 96 W Va 666.

Wis.—Chicago, I. & L Ry. Co v. Peterson, 169 N.W 558, 168 Wis 198—Great Northern Ry. Co v. Hocking Valley Fire Clay Co., 166 N W. 41, 166 Wis. 465.

10 C J. p 445 note 23.

Corpus Juris quoted

Tenn.—Cleveland, C, C. & St. L Ry Co. v Southern Coal & Coke Co, 248 S W 297, 300, 147 Tenn. 433.

Reason for rule

"Stipulations in a bill of lading that the goods are to be delivered to the consignee, 'he paying freight,' or any similar provision, are for the benefit of the carrier."

Ark.—Missouri Pac. R Co. v. Pfeiffer Stone Co., 266 S.W 82, 83, 166 Ark 226

N C—Davis v Ford, 137 S E. 328, 193 N C 444.

Carrier's direction to own agents to collect charges on shipments before delivery does not affect the consignor's primary liability for charges, such direction being for the benefit of the carrier, not of the consignor—Pennsylvania R Co. v. General Crushed Stone Co, 76 Pa Super. 186.

Custom requiring payment by consignee

The carrier's knowledge of a custom whereby the consignee was expected to pay the charges and deduct them from the purchase price due the consignor has been held not to preclude liability on the part of the consignor

Ala—Moss Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 123 So. 90, 219 Ala 593, reversing 123 So. 89, 23 Ala. App. 199.

Cal—New York Cent R Co v. Frank H Buck Co, 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.

10. Cal.—Southern California Commercial Co. v Alberti, 207 P. 1023, 58 Cal App. 84.

Ill—New York Cent R. Co. v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co., 121 N.E. 581, 286 Ill. 267, affirming 210 Ill.App. 267.

Tenn—Cleveland, C, C. & St L Ry. Co v. Southern Coal & Coke Co, 248 S.W. 297, 147 Tenn. 433—Cleveland, C., C & St. L Ry. Co. v. Hazard Blue Grass Coal Co., 10 Tenn App 590.

10 C J. p 445 note 17.

Corpus Juris is cited as authority for the text rule in Cleveland, C., C. & St. L Ry. Co v. Southern Coal & Coke Co, 248 S.W. 297, 300, 147 Tenn. 433.

11. Pa—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. General Crushed Stone Co, 76 Pa Super. 186—Pennsylvania R Co v. Whitney & Kemmerer, 73 Pa.Super. 588.

Vt—Montpelier & W R. R R v. Charles Bianchi & Sons, 113 A. 534, 95 Vt 81.

Wis.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Hocking Valley Fire Clay Co., 166 N W 41, 166 Wis. 465

10 C J p 445 notes 18–21.

Acceptance of shipment by consignee

U S—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Union Oil Co. of Pennsylvania, D.C. Pa., 53 F.2d 1066—Atchison, T. & S F. Ry Co. v. Hunt Bros. Fruit Co., D C Mo, 34 F 2d 582.

Ala—Moss Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent R. Co, 123 So. 90, 219 Ala. 593, reversing 123 So. 89, 23 Ala. App 199.

Ark—Missouri Pac R. Co v. Pfeiffer Stone Co., 266 S.W 82, 166 Ark. 226

Cal.—New York Cent R Co v. Frank H Buck Co., 41 P 2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.

N.J—New York Cent. R Co. v. Singer Mfg Co., 131 A 111, 3 N J. Misc. 1137

10 C J p 445 notes 15 [a] (2), 18.

Reconsignment of shipment by consignee—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry Co. v. Southern Coal & Coke Co., 248 S.W. 297, 147 Tenn. 433—10 C J. p 445 note 21.

Reason for rule

The two contracts are independent, and not inconsistent one with the other.

U.S.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry Co. v. Hunt Bros. Fruit Co., D.C.Mo., 34 F. 2d 582.

by delivering the goods to the consignee;[12] that the carrier permitted an inspection of the goods contrary to the consignor's instructions;[13] that the carrier attempted to collect the charges from the consignee,[4] or failed to notify the consignor that the consignee or the person to whom the shipment was delivered did not accept it[15] or pay the charges;[16] that the consignor transferred or assigned the bill of lading;[17] or that the carrier has delayed seeking to enforce the liability of the consignor until after the consignee has become insolvent so that the former's right of reimbursement against the latter has become worthless.[18] Also, a partial payment of the charges by the consignee has been held not to prevent the carrier's recovery of the balance from the consignor;[19] but other cases have deemed the partial collection from the consignee an election by the carrier to look to the consignee alone so as thereby to waive or defeat the right to recover from the consignor.[20]

Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Pfeiffer Stone Co., 266 S.W. 82, 166 Ark. 226

Me.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Pleasant River Granite Co., 102 A. 298, 116 Me. 496.

10 C.J. p. 445 note 19

12. Ala.—Moss Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 123 So. 90, 219 Ala. 593, reversing 123 So. 89, 23 Ala.App. 199

Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Pfeiffer Stone Co., 266 S.W. 82, 166 Ark. 226.

Ga.—Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 95 S.E. 251, 147 Ga. 646, affirming Southern Ry. Co. v. Southern Cotton Oil Co., 91 S.E. 876, 19 Ga.App. 453—Western & A. R. R. v. Legg, 123 S.E. 31, 32 Ga.App. 368—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. Montgomery, 112 S.E. 652, 28 Ga.App. 639

Minn.—Chicago Junction Ry. Co. v. Duluth Log Co., 202 N.W. 24, 161 Minn. 466.

N.J.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Singer Mfg. Co., 131 A. 111, 3 N.J. Misc. 1137

N.Y.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Federal Sugar Refining Co., 139 N.E. 234, 235 N.Y. 182, 26 A.L.R. 1312, reversing 194 N.Y.S. 467, 201 App. Div. 467.

Or.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Oregon Growers' Co-op. Ass'n, 272 P. 281, 127 Or. 364.

Tenn.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Southern Coal & Coke Co., 248 S.W. 297, 147 Tenn. 433.

Wis.—Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co. v. Peterson, 169 N.W. 558, 168 Wis. 193—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Hocking Valley Fire Clay Co., 166 N.W. 41, 166 Wis. 465.

10 C.J. p. 445 note 22.

Reason for rule

"The lien of the carrier upon the shipment for its charges is a right which is conferred exclusively upon the carrier and is for the carrier's benefit and not for the protection of the shipper"—Southern Pac. Co. v. Oregon Growers' Co-op. Ass'n, 272 P. 281, 284, 127 Or. 364

Extension of credit to consignee

(1) The consignor has been held not relieved from liability by reason of the fact that the carrier extended credit to the consignee.

Ala.—Moss Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 123 So. 90, 219 Ala. 593, reversing 123 So. 89, 23 Ala. App. 199.

Cal.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Frank H. Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.

Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Brown, 155 S.E. 787, 42 Ga.App. 273—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. Montgomery, 112 S.E. 652, 28 Ga. App. 639.

Ill.—See New York Cent. R. Co. v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co., 210 Ill.App. 267, affirmed 121 N.E. 581, 286 Ill. 267

Mass.—Boston & M. R. R. v. National Orange Co., 122 N.E. 313, 232 Mass. 351.

(2) The carrier's acceptance of the consignee's note for freight charges does not ordinarily relieve the consignor of its primary liability.

Cal.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Frank H. Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.

Wis.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Hocking Valley Fire Clay Co., 166 N.W. 41, 166 Wis. 465

(3) However, the rule has been said to be otherwise where the carrier accepts the note as payment—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Hocking Valley Fire Clay Co., supra

Statute prohibiting delivery without collection of all charges does not relieve the consignor of his primary liability

Minn.—Chicago Junction Ry. Co. v. Duluth Log Co., 202 N.W. 24, 161 Minn. 466.

W.Va.—Western Maryland Ry. Co. v. Cross, 123 S.E. 572, 96 W.Va. 666.

13. Cal.—Southern California Commercial Co. v. Alberti, 207 P. 1023, 58 Cal.App. 84.

14. Cal.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Frank H. Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.

N.Y.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Lovell, 180 N.Y.S. 922, 111 Misc. 735

Filing of claim by the carrier against the consignee's bankrupt estate does not relieve the consignor of his primary liability—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Frank H. Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.

15. U.S.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Beatty Brokerage Co., D.C.La., 13 F.2d 950.

16. U.S.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Beatty Brokerage Co., D.C.La., 13 F.2d 950, affirmed, C.C.A., Beatty Brokerage Co. v. Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co., 17 F.2d 480.

Cal.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Frank H. Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal. 2d 384.

Ill.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co., 121 N.E. 581, 286 Ill. 267, affirming 210 Ill.App. 267.

Kan.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. F. H. Stannard & Co., 162 P. 1176, 99 Kan. 720, L.R.A.1917C 1124.

Mass.—Boston & M. R. R. v. National Orange Co., 122 N.E. 313, 232 Mass. 351.

Tenn.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Southern Coal & Coke Co., 248 S.W. 297, 147 Tenn. 433.

17. Cal.—Southern California Commercial Co. v. Alberti, 207 P. 1023, 58 Cal.App. 84.

18. Ala.—Moss Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 123 So. 90, 219 Ala. 593, reversing 123 So. 89, 23 Ala.App. 199.

Ga.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Southern Cotton Oil Co., 91 S.E. 876, 19 Ga. App. 453, affirmed Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Southern R. Co., 95 S.E. 251, 147 Ga. 646.

N.H.—New York, N. H. & H. R. R. v. Tonella, 111 A. 341, 79 N.H. 464.

N.J.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Singer Mfg. Co., 131 A. 111, 3 N.J.Misc. 1137.

19. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Pfeiffer Stone Co., 266 S.W. 82, 166 Ark. 226.

N.H.—New York, N. H. & H. R. R. v. Tonella, 111 A. 341, 79 N.H. 464.

N.J.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Singer Mfg. Co., 131 A. 111, 3 N.J. Misc. 1137

N.Y.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. E. D. Morse & Son, 284 N.Y.S. 669, 157 Misc. 798.

20. U.S.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Republic Box Co., D.C. Tex., 12 F.2d 441—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Zemurray, La., 238 F. 789, 151 C.C.A. 639.

c. Consignee

The mere relationship of consignee imposes no liability for freight charges; but a consignee may assume such liability by an express or implied contract or undertaking.

In the absence of some sufficient agreement or undertaking, express or implied, the consignee of a shipment is generally not liable for the freight charges thereon,[21] since the mere designation of him as consignee creates no contractual relation or obligation to the carrier.[22] Under the rules stated in subsection a, supra, a consignee may usually render himself liable for the charges by an express contract or undertaking,[23] by reason of the fact that he is the owner of the goods and the shipment is made on his behalf or at his direction,[24] or by an acceptance of the shipment from the carrier,[25] and this latter is true irrespective of wheth-

Ala.—Western Ry. of Alabama v. Collins, 78 So. 833, 201 Ala. 455.

21. Mass.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Mohawk Dairy Co., 144 N.E. 721, 250 Mass. 1, 35 A.L.R. 14.

Mo.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Evans, 288 S.W. 73, 221 Mo.App. 757.

N.J.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Townsend, 100 A. 855, 90 N.J.Law 75—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Stanziale, 143 A. 834, 6 N.J.Misc. 1116, reversed on other grounds 147 A. 457, 105 N.J.Law 593.

Pa.—Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. International Motor Co., 84 Pa.Super. 582.

S.C.—Davis v. Allen, 117 S.E. 547, 124 S.C. 297.

10 C.J. p. 446 note 26.

Liability for return charges

(1) Where the parties' understanding and the custom of the trade is that the carrier by whom milk is carried shall return the empty cans free of charge to the point from which the milk is shipped, the consignee of the empty cans is not liable to the carrier for charges to some other point, especially where the consignee refused to accept the cans at such point.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Mohawk Dairy Co., 144 N.E. 721, 250 Mass. 1, 35 A.L.R. 14.

(2) A tag on empty milk cans, describing their former contents, but not mentioning their return, has been held not to constitute a shipping direction rendering the consignee and person named on the tag as owner liable for the return charges.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Mohawk Dairy Co., supra.

(3) Although an express receipt, containing the word "collect" on its face, indicated that shipper and carrier intended consignee should pay transportation charges, consignee was not rendered liable unless he authorized the shipper to act for him.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Mohawk Dairy Co., supra.

Shipment f. o. b. seller's station does not establish agreement rendering consignee liable to carrier for freightage.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Evans, 288 S.W. 73, 221 Mo.App. 757.

22. Mo.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Evans, 288 S.W. 73, 221 Mo.App. 757—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Evans, 228 S.W. 853, 206 Mo.App. 553.

N.J.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Townsend, 100 A. 855, 90 N.J.Law 75—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Stanziale, 143 A. 834, 6 N.J.Misc. 1116, reversed on other grounds 147 A. 457, 105 N.J.Law 593.

Pa.—Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. International Motor Co., 84 Pa.Super. 582—West Jersey & S. R. Co. v. Whiting Lumber Co., 71 Pa.Super. 161.

S.C.—Davis v. Allen, 117 S.E. 547, 124 S.C. 297.

10 C.J. p. 446 note 25.

The rule as stated in Corpus Juris

(1) Is quoted with approval in Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Evans, 288 S.W. 73, 221 Mo.App. 757.

(2) Is cited with approval in Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Evans, 228 S.W. 853, 854, 206 Mo.App. 553.

Reason for rule

"A contract on the consignee's part to pay the carrier's charges may not be implied from the mere presumption of ownership arising from his designation by the shipper as the consignee, since the indulgence of such implication would be tantamount to mounting a presumption upon a presumption."

Pa.—Philadelphia & R. R. Co. v. International Motor Co., 84 Pa.Super. 582, 586.

S.C.—Davis v. Allen, 117 S.E. 547, 548, 124 S.C. 297.

23. Cal.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Frank H. Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.

Mass.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Mohawk Dairy Co., 144 N.E. 721, 250 Mass. 1, 35 A.L.R. 14.

Pa.—Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 156 A. 587, 102 Pa.Super. 31.

C. o. d. shipment

A consignee who agrees that goods shipped to him, in which an understood charge is made, shall be shipped c. o. d., in effect agrees that he will pay the charge and that the shipper or his agent will retain possession until the payment is made.

N.Y.—Howatt v. Barrett, 137 N.Y.S. 915, 78 Misc. 156.

Or.—Pacific Aviation Co. v. Wells, 128 P. 438, 64 Or. 530.

24. Ga.—Southern Flour & Grain Co. v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 95 S.E. 997, 22 Ga.App. 403.

Mo.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Evans, 288 S.W. 73, 221 Mo.App. 757.

Pa.—Philadelphia & R. R. Co. v. International Motor Co., 84 Pa.Super. 582—Philadelphia & Reading Ry. Co. v. Parry, 66 Pa.Super. 49.

Consignee presumptive owner of shipment

Ill.—Elgin, J. & E. Ry. Co. v. Rockwell Lime Co., 213 Ill.App. 25.

Mass.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Mohawk Dairy Co., 144 N.E. 721, 250 Mass. 1, 35 A.L.R. 14.

Mich.—King v. Van Slack, 159 N.W. 157, 193 Mich. 105.

Minn.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Greenberg, 166 N.W. 1073, 139 Minn. 428, L.R.A.1918D 158, Ann.Cas.1918E 456.

N.Y.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Warren Ross Lumber Co., 137 N.E. 324, 234 N.Y. 261, 24 A.L.R. 1160, reversing 191 N.Y.S. 940, 200 App.Div. 851.

10 C.J. p. 446 note 31 [b].

25. U.S.—Adams v. Mills, Ill., 52 S.Ct. 589, 286 U.S. 397, 76 L.Ed. 1184, reversing, C.C.A., Adams v. Mellan, 51 F.2d 620, affirming, D.C., 39 F.2d 80, certiorari granted 52 S.Ct. 208, 284 U.S. 614, 76 L.Ed. 525—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. U.S., 45 S.Ct. 233, 267 U.S. 395, 69 L.Ed. 678, affirming 57 Ct.Cl. 268—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. York & Whitney Co., 41 S.Ct. 509, 256 U.S. 406, 65 L.Ed. 1016, affirming in part and reversing in part 119 N.E. 855, 230 Mass. 206—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Fink, 40 S.Ct. 27, 250 U.S. 577, 63 L.Ed. 1151, reversing Fink v. Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 2 Ohio App. 235, 19 Ohio Cir.Ct.R.,N.S., 103—Dare v. New York Cent. R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 20 F.2d 379—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Republic Box Co., D.C.Tex., 12 F.2d 441—Western & Atlantic R. Co. v. Underwood, D.C.Ga., 281 F. 891—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Hyder, D.C.Wash., 279 F. 783.

Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. A. N. Chappell & Co., 109 So. 574, 215 Ala. 31, reversing 109 So. 573, 21 Ala.App. 531.

Ill.—Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v.

er his contract with the shipper requires the latter to pay the charges,[26] or whether or not they are demanded at the time of delivery.[27] Also, it is often held that the consignee assumes liability by exercising some act of dominion over the shipment,[28] such as by reconsigning the goods or directing their delivery to a third person.[29] The assumption of liability in this latter instance has been

Kirby, 280 Ill App 481—Chesapeake & Ohio Ry. Co v. Southern Coal, Coke & Mining Co, 254 Ill App 238, certiorari denied 51 S Ct. 34, 282 U S. 860, 75 L Ed. 761—Mellon v. Landeck, 248 Ill App 353—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Belson, 237 Ill App. 425—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Platt & Brahm Coal Co, 236 Ill App 150—Elgin, J & E Ry Co. v Rockwell Lime Co, 213 Ill App. 25—Chicago, I. & S. R Co. v. D E McMillan & Bro. Coal Co., 207 Ill App. 58 See Jackson v. M Piowaty & Sons, 205 Ill.App. 329.

Ind—American Ry. Express Co. v. Johnson Butter Co., 187 N E 405, 97 Ind App. 537.

Mass—Pennsylvania R. Co v. Lord & Spencer, 3 N E.2d 231, 105 A. L R. 1211.

Mich—King v. Van Slack, 159 N.W. 157, 193 Mich 105.

Minn.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Greenberg, 166 N.W. 1073, 139 Minn. 428, L.R A.1918D 158, Ann. Cas 1918E 456.

Mo.—Bozworth v. Wabash Ry. Co., 58 S W.2d 448, 332 Mo. 277, affirming Bosworth v Wabash Ry. Co, App, 21 S W.2d 1110—Burton v. Wabash Ry Co., 58 S.W.2d 443, 332 Mo. 268, affirming, App, 22 S.W.2d 201—City of St. Charles v. Wabash Ry. Co, App., 65 S.W 2d 655, modified on other grounds State ex rel. City of St. Charles v. Becker, 83 S. W 2d 583, 336 Mo. 1187—Chicago, B & Q R. Co. v. Evans, 288 S. W. 73, 221 Mo App. 757—Mobile & O R. Co. v. Laclede Lumber Co., 216 S W. 798, 202 Mo App 630—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v Picher Lead Co., App., 190 S.W. 387.

N.J—Central R. Co of New Jersey v National Asbestos Mfg. Co, Sup, 127 A. 184.

N.Y.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Warren Ross Lumber Co., 137 N.E. 324, 234 N.Y. 261, 24 A L.R. 1160, reversing 191 N.Y.S. 940, 200 App. Div. 851—New York Cent R. Co v Maloney, 244 N.Y S. 394, 137 Misc. 751—American Ry. Exp Co. v. Heilbrunn, 198 N Y.S. 801, 120 Misc. 501.

N.C.—Davis v. Gulley, 188 N.C. 80, 123 S E. 318.

Ohio.—C. L Hils Co. v Louisville & N R. Co., 162 N E 761, 28 Ohio App 459.

Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. De Marto, 90 Pa.Super. 216—Philadelphia & R. R Co v. International Motor Co., 84 Pa.Super 582.

S.C—Southern Ry Co. v. Calhoun Twine Mill, 180 S.E. 557, 176 S.C. 538—Southern Ry. Co. v. Collins, 119 S E 833, 127 S.C 219—Davis v. Allen, 117 S E 547, 124 S C 297.

Tenn—Cleveland, C., C & St. L. Ry Co v. Southern Coal & Coke Co, 248 S W. 297, 147 Tenn 433—Nashville, C & St. L Ry. Co. v Commercial Nursery Co., 8 Tenn App 16.

Wis—Waters v. Pfister & Vogel Leather Co, 186 N W. 173, 176 Wis 16

10 C J: p 446 notes 31, 32.

The text of Corpus Juris is cited with approval

U. S—Duncan v. United Steel Co., D C.Ohio, 244 F 258, 260

Tenn.—Cleveland, C, C & St L Ry. Co. v Southern Coal & Coke Co, 248 S.W 297, 300, 147 Tenn 433.

Storage charges at destination

(1) Where he is otherwise liable for charges, the consignee's refusal to accept a shipment does not relieve him of liability for reasonable storage charges pending the carrier's disposition of the shipment for the freight and storage charges—Norfolk & S R Co. v New Bern Iron Works & Supply Co, 90 S E. 149, 172 N.C. 188

(2) A consignee who has claimed the goods as his own, but declined to accept them until certain damage is adjusted, becomes liable, if the goods are not so damaged as to be entirely worthless, for the reasonable storage charges from the time the carrier has refused to recognize any claim for damages—Holloman v Southern Ry. Co, 90 S E 292, 172 N C 372, L R A 1917C 416, Ann Cas 1917E 1069.

(3) Likewise, where the consignee accepts a shipment, pays the freight, and receives a portion of the goods, he is liable for storage charges accruing after his acceptance and pending negotiations with the vendor for the return of the shipment—Bailey v. Georgia R R, 126 S E 896, 33 Ga App 526.

26. U S—Pittsburgh, C, C & St. L Ry. Co. v Fink, 40 S Ct. 27, 250 U S. 577, 63 L Ed 1151, reversing Fink v Pittsburgh, C, C & St. L. Ry Co, 2 Ohio App 235, 19 Ohio Cir Ct R, N S., 103.

Mo.—Mobile & O R. Co v Laclede Lumber Co, 216 S.W. 798, 202 Mo App 630.

N.Y.—Transmarine Corporation v Delaware & H Co., 216 N.Y S. 623, 127 Misc. 812.

27. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Central Iron & Coal Co., Ala., 44 S Ct. 441, 265 U S 59, 68 L Ed. 900, affirming, C C A., 284 F. 250—Callaway v Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry Co, C C.A Mo, 35 F.2d 319

Cal—New York Cent R Co v. Frank H Buck Co., 41 P 2d 547, 2 Cal. 2d 384.

28. U S—Wabash Ry. Co v Horn, C C.A Ill, 40 F 2d 905—Dare v. New York Cent. R Co, C.C A N.Y., 20 F 2d 379

Ala—Western Ry. of Alabama v. Collins, 78 So 833, 201 Ala. 455.

Cal—New York Cent. R Co. v. Frank H Buck Co, 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal. 2d 384.

Ill—Indiana Harbor Belt R. Co. v. Lieberman, 245 Ill App. 503.

Mass—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Lord & Spencer, 3 N.E 2d 231, 105 A L. R. 1211.

Mich.—New York Cent. R Co. v. Guyan Coal & Coke Co, 274 N W. 718, 281 Mich. 82

N.J—New York Cent. R. Co v. Stanziale, 147 A. 457, 105 N J.Law 593, reversing 143 A 834, 6 N J Misc. 1116—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v National Asbestos Mfg. Co, Sup, 127 A 184.

N Y—New York Cent R. Co. v. Warren Ross Lumber Co., 137 N E 324, 234 N Y 261, 24 A.L.R. 1160, reversing 191 N.Y S. 940, 200 App. Div 851—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Maloney, 244 N.Y S. 394, 137 Misc 751—New York Cent R. Co. v Satuloff, 202 N Y.S. 297, 122 Misc 119

Ohio—Pennsylvania R Co. v Rice Coal Co, 148 N.E. 349, 113 Ohio St. 34.

Pa—Pennsylvania R. R. v. Rothstein, 165 A. 752, 109 Pa Super. 96—West Jersey & S. R Co v. Whiting Lumber Co, 71 Pa.Super 161—Chicago Great Western R. R Co. v Federal Stock Food Co., 8 Pa. Dist & Co 217.

29. Ill—Mellon v. Landeck, 248 Ill App. 353—Pere Marquette R Co. v American Coal & Supply Co, 239 Ill.App 139—New York Cent. R Co. v Platt & Brahm Coal Co, 236 Ill App 150

Mich.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Guyan Coal & Coke Co, 274 N.W. 718, 281 Mich 82—New York Cent. R Co v. Brown, 274 N W 715.

N J—New York Cent R. Co. v. Stanziale, 147 A. 457, 105 N.J Law 593, reversing 143 A. 834, 6 N J.Misc. 1116

Ohio.—S. A Gerrard Co. v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 176 N.E. 126, 39 Ohio App. 84.

Reason for rule

"When a consignee orders a reheld not defeated or avoided by reason of directions or stipulations for the collection of the charges from the person receiving the shipment,[30] or such person's partial payment of the charges.[31] However, there is some authority to the effect that the consignee does not subject himself to liability by directing or authorizing delivery of the shipment to another,[32] unless the latter accepts it as the consignee's agent;[33] and particularly has this been held where there are provisions or stipulations indicating an intention to have the carrier look solely to the recipient of the goods for the collection of the charges,[34] and such person accepts the shipment.[35]

Due to the Interstate Commerce Act and similar state statutes imposing an absolute duty on the carrier to collect the full amount of the lawful or established charges, see infra §§ 393 and 397, many cases have held that the consignee becomes liable for the full amount of the charges which the carrier is required by law to collect notwithstanding the consignee would not have accepted or exercised dominion over the shipment but for a representation that the charges had been prepaid,[36] or a mistaken understanding or belief that the charges demanded by, and paid to, the carrier at the time of the acceptance or delivery constituted the full amount of the charges that could and would be collected or de-shipment, acceptance of the shipment is necessarily implied"

Ill.—Mellon v Landeck, 248 Ill App. 353, 356.
N Y.—New York Cent R. Co. v. Ross Lumber Co, 137 N E. 324, 325, 234 N.Y. 261, 265, 24 A L R. 1160, reversing 191 N Y S. 940, 200 App Div. 851.

Notice of the failure of one to whom the shipment was delivered, on the consignee's order, to pay the freight is unnecessary to render the consignee liable therefor.—New York Cent. R Co. v Frank H. Buck Co, 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.

30. U S.—Wabash Ry. Co. v Horn, C C A Ill, 40 F 2d 905—Dare v New York Cent. R. Co, C.C.A N Y, 20 F.2d 379
Ala.—Western Ry of Alabama v. Collins, 78 So 833, 201 Ala 455.
Cal.—New York Cent. R Co. v. Frank H. Buck Co., 41 P 2d 547, 2 Cal. 2d 384.
Ill.—New York Cent. R Co. v. Platt & Brahm Coal Co., 236 Ill App. 150
Mass.—Pennsylvania R Co. v Lord & Spencer, 3 N E 2d 231, 105 A L R. 1211.
Mich.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Guyan Coal & Coke Co, 274 N W. 718, 281 Mich 82—New York Cent. R. Co. v Brown, 274 N W. 715, 281 Mich. 74.
N.J.—New York Cent. R. Co v. Stanziale, 147 A. 457, 105 N J.Law 593, reversing 143 A. 834, 6 N.J.Misc. 1116.
N.Y.—New York Cent. R. Co. v Warren Ross Lumber Co, 137 N E. 324, 234 N.Y 261, 24 A.L R. 1160, reversing 191 N Y S. 940, 200 App. Div. 851—New York Cent R Co v. Satuloff, 202 N.Y.S. 297, 122 Misc. 119.

Reason for rule
"The directions were for the benefit of the carrier, not for the benefit of the . . . [consignee.] The carrier was not bound at its peril to enforce payment of the freight from the . . . [person to whom it delivered the goods.] The language used . . . was not contractual Its effect was merely to give . . . [the carrier] an option to demand payment from the person to whom it delivered the goods."—New York Cent R. Co. v Ross Lumber Co, 137 N E. 324, 325, 234 N.Y 261, 266, 24 A L.R. 1160, reversing 191 N Y.S. 940, 200 App Div. 851.

Delivery held not grant of credit by carrier to purchaser of goods from consignee.—Wabash Ry. Co v. Horn, C C A Ill, 40 F.2d 905

31. Ill.—New York Cent. R. Co v. Platt & Brahm Coal Co., 236 Ill. App. 150.

32. Ark.—Davis v. City Fuel Co., 248 S W. 572, 157 Ark 455.
Ill.—Pere Marquette R. Co. v. American Coal & Supply Co., 239 Ill App 139.
Tenn.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Southern Coal & Coke Co., 248 S W. 297, 147 Tenn 433.
10 C J. p 446 note 27.

Reasons for rule
(1) "The fact that an original consignee reconsigns the goods shipped and that the railroad complies with the order, is no indication either actual or constructive, that the railroad is looking to the consignee for the payment of the freight, or that the railroad is giving up the lien it has upon the goods, for the amount of the freight charges."—Pere Marquette R. Co v. American Coal & Supply Co, 239 Ill.App. 139, 148.

(2) Further, it has been said that in such circumstances the consignment is in effect a single one from the point of origin to the last-named destination, that liability for the entire charges cannot be split, and that the consignee is not liable for any of the charges inasmuch as he ceases to be the consignee before the transportation service is completed.—Davis v. City Fuel Co., 248 S W 572, 157 Ark. 455.

Assignment of bill of lading
(1) Where a consignee, in a bill of lading stipulating that the owner or the consignee shall pay the freight, assigns the bill of lading before delivery, and the carrier makes delivery to the assignee who purchased the goods from the consignee, the consignee is not liable for the freight.—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Browne Grain Co., Tex Civ App, 166 S.W 40

(2) The rule as stated has been quoted from Corpus Juris.—Cleveland, C, C & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Southern Coal & Coke Co., 248 S W. 297, 301, 147 Tenn 433

33. Ill.—Chicago, I. & S. R Co. v. D. E. McMillan & Bro. Coal Co., 207 Ill App 58
Tenn.—Cleveland, C, C. & St. L. Ry Co v Southern Coal & Coke Co., 248 S.W. 297, 147 Tenn. 433
10 C J. p 446 note 28.

34. Ill.—Chesapeake & Ohio Ry. Co. v Southern Coal, Coke & Mining Co, 254 Ill App. 238, certiorari denied 51 S Ct. 34, 282 U S. 860, 75 L Ed 761—Chicago, I. & S R. Co. v. D E. McMillan & Bro Coal Co., 207 Ill.App 58.

Carrier held to have contracted to collect the charges from the person to whom the shipment is delivered, provided such person accepts the shipment.—Chesapeake & Ohio Ry. Co v. Southern Coal, Coke & Mining Co., 254 Ill.App. 238, certiorari denied 51 S Ct. 34, 282 U.S. 860, 75 L. Ed 761.

Direction that "charges follow"
Ill.—Chicago, I. & S. R. Co. v D E McMillan & Bro Coal Co., 207 Ill App. 58.

35. Ill.—Chesapeake & Ohio Ry Co. v. Southern Coal, Coke & Mining Co, 254 Ill App. 238, certiorari denied 51 S Ct. 34, 282 U.S. 860, 75 L Ed 761.

36. U S.—Western & Atlantic R Co. v. Underwood, D.C.Ga, 281 F. 891—Great Northern Ry. Co v. Hyder, D.C.Wash., 279 F 783.
Ohio.—Louisville & Nashville R. Co. v. Magnus Co., 13 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 305.
Tenn.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Commercial Nursery Co., 8 Tenn. App. 16.

manded;[37] and this is so although the carrier has delayed seeking to enforce the liability of the consignee until after the consignor who has agreed to pay the charges has become insolvent.[38] However, there are some cases to the effect that these statutes do not require that a consignee accepting the goods be held liable for the full legal charges under any and all circumstances.[39] The consignee has been held not liable where the carrier agreed to look solely to the consignor,[40] or the charges were such that the consignee had no actual or constructive knowledge thereof at the time of his acceptance;[41] and where the consignor was the owner of the goods, to the knowledge of the carrier, a consignee paying the full charges demanded when he accepts the goods has been held under no obligation to pay charges beyond the amount stated, although the carrier made a mistake as to the amount.[42]

Where no route has been designated, a consignee who has become liable for the charges can be held for the charges over the usual route,[43] and if the consignor has designated the route the consignee can be compelled to pay the charges over the route so designated, although a cheaper route was available,[44] but the consignee is not liable, despite his acceptance of the shipment, for additional charges over a route other than the one selected by the consignor.[45]

Freight charges may be recovered or collected from a consignee who has assumed liability therefor notwithstanding a failure of the carrier to exhaust its remedies against the consignor or show the latter to be insolvent.[46]

Agency of consignee. There are a number of cases to the effect that a consignee who, to the knowledge of the carrier, acts as an agent or factor in accepting or exercising dominion over the shipment does not become liable for the charges,[47] unless he has expressly undertaken to pay the same.[48] However, the agency of the consignee does not prevent him from becoming liable where the carrier has no knowledge or notice thereof at the time of the delivery and acceptance of the goods;[49] and in such a case if the carrier has made a mistake as to the amount of the charges and accepted less than the full amount it may subsequently recover the un-

37. U S —Adams v. Mills, Ill., 52 S Ct 589, 286 U.S. 397, 76 L Ed 1184, reversing, C C.A., Adams v Mellan, 51 F.2d 620, affirming, D. C., 39 F 2d 80, certiorari granted 52 S Ct. 208, 284 U S. 614, 76 L Ed. 525—Louisville & N R Co. v. Central Iron & Coal Co., Ala., 44 S Ct. 441, 265 U S 59, 68 L.Ed. 900, affirming, C.C A., 284 F. 250—New York Cent. & H. R. R Co. v. York & Whitney Co., 41 S Ct. 509, 256 U S 406, 65 L Ed 1016, affirming in part and reversing in part 119 N E. 855, 230 Mass. 206—Pittsburgh, C., C & St L Ry Co. v. Fink, 40 S.Ct. 27, 250 U.S. 577, 63 L Ed. 1151, reversing Fink v. Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L Ry. Co., 2 Ohio App 235, 19 Ohio Cir. Ct.,N.S , 103—Western Grain Co. v. St Louis-San Francisco Ry Co, C C.A.Ala., 56 F.2d 160—Callaway v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry Co., C. C A.Mo , 35 F 2d 319—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Republic Box Co, D.C Tex., 12 F.2d 441—Davis v. Akron Feed & Milling Co., C C. A Ohio, 296 F 675.

Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. A. N. Chappell & Co., 109 So. 574, 215 Ala. 31, reversing 109 So 573, 21 Ala App. 531.

Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Belson, 237 Ill.App. 425—Elgin, J. & E Ry. Co. v. Rockwell Lime Co, 213 Ill.App. 25.

Ind.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Johnson Butter Co, 187 N E. 405, 97 Ind.App. 537.

Kan.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Wagner, 172 P 519, 102 Kan 817, L R A 1918D 1105.

Mich.—King v Van Slack, 159 N.W. 157, 193 Mich 105

Minn.—Chicago, M & St. P. Ry. Co v. Greenberg, 166 N.W 1073, 139 Minn 428, L R.A 1918D 158, Ann Cas 1918E 456

Mo.—Mobile & O R Co v. Laclede Lumber Co., 216 S W. 798, 202 Mo. App 630—Yazoo & M. V. R Co. v Picher Lead Co, App., 190 S.W 387.

N.C —Davis v. Gulley, 188 N.C. 80, 123 S E. 318

Pa —Pennsylvania R. Co. v. De Marto, 90 Pa Super. 216.

S.C —Southern Ry Co v. Calhoun Twine Mill, 180 S E 557, 176 S C 538—Southern Ry Co v. Collins, 119 S.E. 833, 127 S C. 219.

Wis —Waters v. Pfister & Vogel Leather Co., 186 N.W 173, 176 Wis 16

10 C J. p 446 notes 30, 31, 35, p 447 note 36.

38. U S.—Callaway v. Atchison, T & S. F Ry. Co, C C.A.Mo., 35 F 2d 319

Mo.—Mobile & O. R Co v. Laclede Lumber Co, 216 S.W. 798, 202 Mo App 630.

39. Ohio —Cleveland, C., C. & St L Ry Co. v. McKenzie Lumber Co., 147 N.E 8, 112 Ohio St. 80.

40. Ohio —Cleveland, C., C. & St. L Ry Co. v. McKenzie Lumber Co, supra.

Pa.—Chicago Great Western R Co v. Federal Stock Food Co., 8 Pa Dist. & Co. 217.

41. Ohio.—Cleveland, C., C & St. L Ry. Co. v McKenzie Lumber Co, 147 N E 8, 112 Ohio St 80.

42. Ala —Central of Georgia R. Co v. Southern Ferro Concrete Co., 68 So. 981, 193 Ala 108, Ann.Cas 1916E 376.

10 C.J. p 447 note 37.

43. Pa.—Philadelphia & Reading Ry Co. v. Parry, 66 Pa Super. 49.

44. La.—Vicksburg, S & P. Ry. Co v. Kidd-Russ Trunk & Bag Co., 130 So 630, 15 La App 374.

45. La —Texas & P. Ry Co v Consolidated Companies, 156 So 215, 180 La. 180, affirming, App., 151 So 433

46. Tenn —Nashville, C & St L. Ry Co v. Commercial Nursery Co., 8 Tenn App. 16

47. Mass —Boston, etc, R Co. v. Whichter, 1 Allen 497.

N Y.—Dart v Ensign, 47 N Y 619.

10 C J. p 446 note 33.

48. U S —Rice v Louisville & N. R Co, C C A La., 264 F. 427.

49. Ill.—See Jackson v. M. Piowaty & Sons, 205 Ill App 329

Mass —Pennsylvania R Co. v. Lord & Spencer, 3 N E 2d 231, 105 A L. R 1211.

Pa.—Pennsylvania R R. v. Rothstein, 165 A. 752, 109 Pa Super. 96.

10 C J. p 446 note 34.

Prior notice insufficient

Mass —Pennsylvania R Co. v. Lord & Spencer, 3 N.E 2d 231, 105 A.L.R. 1211.

Pa.—Pennsylvania R. R. v. Rothstein, 165 A. 752, 109 Pa.Super. 96.

dercharge from the consignee.[50] Furthermore, it has often been held that, under the Interstate Commerce Act and similar state statutes, a consignee accepting or exercising dominion of the shipment is liable for the full legal charges, although he is, to the knowledge of the carrier, a mere agent or factor.[51] The provisions of § 3 (2) of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 3 (2) as amended March 4, 1927 c 510 § 1, 44 U.S.St. at L. p 1447, to the effect that a consignee shall not be legally liable for charges beyond those demanded of him at the time of the delivery if he is only an agent and prior to delivery of the property has notified the carrier in writing of such agency, have been held inapplicable where the consignee instead of accepting the goods refused to accept the shipment,[52] or reconsigned it to another who subsequently refused it, or where the charges were not of the type specified.[53]

§ 317. Payment of Charges at End of Transportation

If the charges have not been prepaid, the carrier's duty to deliver the goods and the consignee's duty to pay the charges at the end of the transportation are generally concurrent.

Where prepayment has not been demanded, see supra § 313, it is generally held, since a carrier has a lien for its charges, see infra § 325, that its duty to deliver the possession of the goods at the end of the transportation, and the consignee's duty to pay, are concurrent.[54]

In accordance with the foregoing, the carrier is not ordinarily entitled to its freight charges, until it is ready to fulfill its contract and make complete and final delivery of the possession of the goods,[55] in the condition in which they were received.[56] The interruption of delivery by some cause not the fault of the consignee will not excuse the complete delivery required as a condition to the right to freight,[57] but, when the consignee is notified of the arrival of the goods and the carrier's readiness to deliver, freight is due, although it may be necessary or desirable, in making actual delivery, to switch the car containing the goods to a particular track,[58] and the consignee cannot require delivery at an impossible place not in accordance with the contract.[59] Also, the carrier may be entitled to compensation, notwithstanding the transportation is not completed and the goods are not delivered at the terminus, if it was without negligence and the interruption or nondelivery was due to the wrong of the shipper.[60]

The consignee, on the other hand, must usually pay or tender the freight properly and lawfully due before he will be entitled to possession of the goods,[61] unless there has been a waiver of this requirement.[62] The amount due should be tendered,

50. Mass.—New York, etc., R. Co. v. York, etc., Co., 102 N.E. 366, 215 Mass. 36.
10 C.J. p. 446 note 35.

51. U.S.—Adams v. Mills, Ill., 52 S. Ct. 589, 286 U.S. 397, 76 L.Ed. 1184, reversing, C.C.A., Adams v. Mellan, 51 F.2d 620, affirming, D.C., 39 F.2d 80, and certiorari granted 52 S.Ct. 208, 284 U.S. 614, 76 L.Ed. 525—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. York & Whitney Co., 41 S. Ct. 509, 256 U.S. 406, 65 L.Ed. 1016, affirming in part and reversing in part 119 N.E. 855, 230 Mass. 206—Callaway v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 35 F.2d 319—Western & Atlantic R. Co. v. Underwood, D.C.Ga., 281 F. 891.
Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. A. N. Chappell & Co., 109 So. 574, 215 Ala. 31, reversing 109 So. 573, 21 Ala.App. 531.

52. Mass.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Lord & Spencer, 3 N.E.2d 231, 105 A.L.R. 1211.

53. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. R. v. Rothstein, 165 A. 752, 109 Pa.Super. 96

54. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Central Iron & Coal Co., Ala., 44 S. Ct. 441, 265 U.S. 59, 68 L.Ed. 900, affirming, C.C.A., 284 F. 250—Lowden v. Iroquois Coal Co., D.C.Ill., 18 F.Supp. 923
Ala.—Emerson v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 72 So. 120, 196 Ala. 280, L.R.A.1916F 120.
Pa.—Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Picard, 98 Pa.Super. 134.
10 C.J. p. 447 note 45.

55. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Johnson, 10 S.W.2d 1104, 226 Ky. 322.
N.J.—Jefferson Macaroni Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 154 A. 188, 9 N.J.Misc. 405, affirmed 160 A. 635, 109 N.J.Law 266
Tex.—Pittman v. Fort Worth Warehouse & Storage Co., 258 S.W. 1105, motion to recall mandate granted 263 S.W. 636.
10 C.J. p. 447 note 47.

Corpus Juris cited in Jefferson Macaroni Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 154 A. 188, 189, 9 N.J.Misc. 405, affirmed 160 A. 635, 109 N.J.Law 266.

Delivery to wrong person.
If prepayment has not been exacted a carrier is not entitled to its freight until it has transported and delivered the shipment in accordance with the bill of lading, and, if it converts the shipment by delivering it to one not the true owner, it cannot collect the freight from the true owner.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Johnson, 10 S.W.2d 1104, 226 Ky. 322

56. N.J.—Jefferson Macaroni Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 154 A. 188, 9 N.J.Misc. 405, affirmed 160 A. 635, 109 N.J.Law 266.

57. N.Y.—Rowland v. Miln, 2 Hilt. 150

58. Wis.—McDonald v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 266 N.W. 246, 221 Wis. 95
10 C.J. p. 447 note 48.

59. U.S.—O'Rourke v. Two Hundred and Twenty-One Tons of Coal, D.C.N.Y., 1 F. 619

60. Kan.—Hebrlee v. Hawley, 211 P. 129, 112 Kan. 398.

61. Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Woodstock Mills, 161 So. 519, 230 Ala. 494.
Ariz.—Wells Fargo & Co., Express, S. A. v. Tribolet, 50 P.2d 878, 46 Ariz. 311
Kan.—Strong v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 254 P. 405, 123 Kan. 161.
Okl.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. McNabb, 162 P. 811, 63 Okl. 87.
10 C.J. p. 447 note 52.

62. Ariz.—Wells Fargo & Co., Express, S. A. v. Tribolet, 50 P.2d 878, 46 Ariz. 311.
Pa.—Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Picard, 98 Pa.Super. 134.
10 C.J. p. 448 note 53.

even though excessive freight is demanded,[63] unless the extortionate charge is made under such circumstances as to make it clear that a tender of the lawful charges would be refused, or the carrier refuses unequivocally to accept any amount less than that demanded, under which circumstances the shipper is excused from making a formal tender before treating the carrier's refusal to deliver as a conversion, as the law does not require one to do a vain thing.[64]

The consignee has a right to examine the goods as to quantity, quality, and condition before accepting delivery and becoming liable for freight.[65] If the goods have been damaged, due to the fault of the carrier, neither the consignee nor the shipper is obliged to accept the damaged goods and pay freight thereon,[66] and, as discussed in § 318 infra, a claim for damages for which the carrier is liable may be offset against its claim for freight. A tender of freight has been held excused where the amount of damage to the consignment is greater than the freight,[67] and, if part of the goods has been damaged, the shipper or consignee is entitled to have the undamaged goods released from the carrier's lien on payment of the freight charges thereon, without payment of the freight on the damaged goods,[68] and the consignee is justified in refusing to receive the entire shipment on the refusal of the carrier to receive freight for the undamaged part and to make delivery thereof or to make allowance for the damage.[69] If, however, the contract is divisible, the carrier may be entitled to its charges for the transportation of that part of the shipment which has not been damaged or lost,[70] and, if the carrier has completely rendered the service required of it by its contract and unloaded the goods and tendered them to the owner, it is entitled to its freight, although the owner refuses to accept actual delivery of the goods because of their damaged condition, where the carrier is not responsible for such damage and no claim is made against it on account of the damage.[71] Where the tariff rules forbid an inspection on c. o. d. shipments without the consent of the shipper, a consignee who, on being denied a right of inspection because of lack of the shipper's consent, has paid the charges and accepted possession of the goods cannot thereafter recover the charges back on the theory that he was wrongfully denied an inspection.[72]

§ 318. Actions to Recover Charges

a. In general
b. Defenses and counterclaim or set-off
c. Limitations and time to sue
d. Pleadings
e. Evidence
f. Trial

a. In General

Actions to recover charges are generally in the nature of an action ex contractu, such as in assumpsit, and are governed by the rules relating to civil actions generally.

An action ex contractu, such as of assumpsit on the common counts, is generally the proper form of action by which a carrier may recover its charges from the person legally liable therefor;[73] and,

What constitutes a waiver

(1) Surety bond, given by owner of goods to carrier, which recited that carrier would transport goods without first exacting freight charges, has been held not extension of credit for shipments or a waiver of the carrier's lien, which would entitle owner to possession of goods without payment of freight charges, but only a waiver of prepayment of charges.—Wells Fargo & Co, Express, S A. v. Tribolet, 50 P.2d 878, 46 Ariz 311.

(2) Carrier does not waive its right to have freight charges paid before delivery of goods to owner because it directs owner to make demand for goods from consignee who is in possession of bills of lading.—Wells Fargo & Co., Express, S A. v. Tribolet, supra.

(3) Further illustrations see 10 C J. p 448 note 53 [a], [b].

63. Ark.—Loewenberg v. Arkansas, etc., R. Co., 19 S.W. 1051, 56 Ark. 439.

64. Kan.—Missouri Pac. R. Co v. Peru-Van Zandt Impl. Co, 85 P. 408, 87 P. 80, 73 Kan. 295, 117 Am. S R. 468, 6 L R A.,N.S., 1058, 9 Ann. Cas 790.
10 C J. p 448 note 57.

65. U S.—Brittan v. Barnaby, Cal., 21 How. 527, 16 L Ed. 177.
10 C J p 447 note 51.

66. N J.—Jefferson Macaroni Co. v. Pennsylvania R Co, 154 A. 188, 9 N J Misc 405, affirmed 160 A. 635, 109 N.J Law 266.
10 C J. p 448 note 60.

67. S C.—Miami Powder Co v Port Royal, etc., R. Co, 25 S.E 153, 47 S.C. 324, 58 Am S R. 880.
10 C J p 448 note 58

68. N J.—Jefferson Macaroni Co v Pennsylvania R Co, 154 A 188, 9 N J.Misc. 405, affirmed 160 A. 635, 109 N.J.Law 266.

69. N.J.—Jefferson Macaroni Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., supra.

70. Mass.—Boston, etc., R. Co. v Brown, 15 Gray 223.

Mo.—Dean v. Toledo, St. L. & W. R. Co, 128 S.W. 10, 148 Mo.App 428.

71. N Y.—Stevens v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co, 202 N.Y.S 195, 207 App Div 442, affirmed 147 N.E. 200, 234 N Y 572, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 463, 267 U.S 603, 69 L.Ed 809.

72. La.—Astugue v. American Ry. Express Co, 131 So. 62, 15 La.App. 347.

73. U.S.—Chicago, I. & L Ry. Co. v. International Milling Co., D.C. Minn, 33 F 2d 636, affirmed, C.C.A., 43 F 2d 93, certiorari denied 51 S. Ct. 89, 282 U S 885, 75 L Ed 781—Davis v Smutzinger, C.C.A.Pa., 281 F. 640
Ala.—Hurt v Atlanta, B & A Ry. Co, 84 So. 631, 17 Ala.App. 241.
N D.—Minneapolis, St P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co. v. Washburn Lignite Coal Co, 168 N W 684, 40 N D. 69, 12 A.L R. 744, error dismissed 41 S Ct. 140, 254 U S. 370, 65 L.Ed. 310.

Recovery on quantum meruit

Plaintiff's agreement with defendant railroad, as to compensation for for the most part, such actions are governed by the rules relating to ordinary civil actions.[74] Except in so far as such jurisdiction has been ousted by the Interstate Commerce Act, the state courts have jurisdiction of actions for charges on interstate transportation, and, where charges for intra-state transportation are involved, the state courts are not ousted of jurisdiction by an agreement that disputes as to rates should be adjusted by the interstate commerce commission.[75]

Parties. Usually, any carrier who could properly have collected the charges is a proper party plaintiff to bring an action for the recovery thereof.[76] Actions to recover charges for shipments over several lines have been held properly brought both by the initial,[77] and the terminal or delivering,[78] carrier; and the initial carrier has been held not a necessary party to the terminal carrier's action for charges, although charges advanced to the initial carrier are included and the shipper is asserting a claim based on the latter's negligence.[79] Either or all of the persons who may be liable for the charges, under the rules stated in § 316 supra, are proper parties defendant.[80]

Amount of recovery. Apart from the fact that interest may be allowed in the discretion of the court,[81] the amount recoverable, in an action for charges, is ordinarily fixed by the amount the carrier is entitled to collect or charge under the rules stated in § 314 supra. Where the applicable legal rate is established or proved, the amount of recovery is fixed thereby and no question can be raised, or inquiry made, as to its reasonableness.[82]

b. Defenses and Counterclaim or Set-Off

Defendant may assert any proper defense, or may enforce, by way of set-off or counterclaim, a valid claim or demand against the carrier.

Practically any matter which tends to defeat or diminish the carrier's right of recovery, either in whole or in part, may be asserted by way of defense,[83] provided it has been properly pleaded.[84] Also, it is generally held that defendant may set off, or counterclaim for, a valid claim or demand against the carrier, either to defeat or reduce its recovery,[85] or to obtain affirmative relief against switching of cars engaged in state traffic, that a dispute in rates should be adjusted by interstate commerce commission, did not oust the jurisdiction of the state courts, and recovery might be had against plaintiff on a quantum meruit, as to such cars, where it had made payments at scheduled rates which were less than actual cost of service.—Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co. v. South Shore R. Co., 107 A. 680, 264 Pa. 162.

74. U.S.—Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co. v. International Milling Co., D.C. Minn., 33 F.2d 636, affirmed, C.C.A., 43 F.2d 93, certiorari denied 51 S. Ct. 89, 282 U.S. 885, 75 L.Ed. 781.

75. Pa.—Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co. v. South Shore R. Co., 107 A. 680, 264 Pa. 162.

76. Tex.—United Hay Co. v. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 74 S.W.2d 766.

77. Ark.—St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Gramling, 133 S.W. 1129, 97 Ark. 353.

Tex.—United Hay Co. v. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 74 S.W.2d 766.

78. Ark.—Price v. New York, C. & St. L. R. Co., 300 S.W. 373, 175 Ark. 688.

Ill.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Cunningham, 224 Ill.App. 584.

La.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. A. Marx & Sons, 135 So. 64, 17 La.App. 172, rehearing denied 135 So. 675, 17 La.App. 172.

Minn.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Van Dusen, Harrington Co., 212 N.W. 940, 214 N.W. 278, 170 Minn. 488, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 116, 275 U.S. 554, 72 L.Ed. 422.

10 C.J. p. 449 note 68.

79. Ark.—Price v. New York, C. & St. L. R. Co., 300 S.W. 373, 175 Ark. 688.

10 C.J. p. 449 note 69.

80. Ga.—Clemons v. Payne, 105 S.E. 623, 26 Ga.App. 142.

81. Tenn.—Oman v. Tennessee Central Ry. Co., 7 Tenn.App. 141.

Wis.—Mellon v. Johnson Co., 219 N.W. 352, 196 Wis. 64.

82. Wis.—Mellon v. Johnson Co., supra.

10 C.J. p. 449 note 76.

83. U.S.—Fullerton Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M., St. P. & P. R. Co., Minn., 51 S.Ct. 227, 282 U.S. 520, 75 L.Ed. 502, reversing, C.C.A., 36 F.2d 180, certiorari granted 50 S.Ct. 249, 281 U.S. 709, 74 L.Ed. 1132.

Lack of notice or knowledge of bill of lading's contents

In an action for freight charges on an interstate shipment, where a statement sets forth a uniform bill of lading issued by all carriers under the federal law and containing notice of the various stipulations which, after approval in the manner provided by law, become binding on every party concerned, it is no defense that defendant never received a copy of the bill nor affirmative notice of its contents.—West Jersey & S. R. Co. v. Whiting Lumber Co., 71 Pa.Super. 161.

Payment constitutes a defense.

U.S.—Fullerton Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M., St. P. & P. R. Co., Minn., 51 S.Ct. 227, 282 U.S. 520, 75 L.Ed. 502, reversing, C.C.A., 36 F.2d 180, certiorari granted 50 S.Ct. 249, 281 U.S. 709, 74 L.Ed. 1132.

N.Y.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Weyant, 165 N.Y.S. 391.

84. Cal.—Southern California Commercial Co. v. Alberti, 207 P. 1023, 58 Cal.App. 84.

85. U.S.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Pioneer Grain Corporation, D.C. Minn., 26 F.2d 90.—Payne v. Clarke, D.C. Cal., 271 F. 525.

Ala.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Birmingham Sand & Brick Co., 64 So. 202, 9 Ala.App. 419.

N.Y.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Federal Sugar Refining Co., 194 N.Y.S. 467, 201 App.Div. 467.

10 C.J. p. 448 note 60.

Corpus Juris is cited in St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Morgan, Mo.App., 297 S.W. 717, 718.

Claim arising out of different shipment

(1) It has been held that damages from railroad's failure to accept cars cannot be set off against legitimate freight charges on different shipment.—New York Susquehanna & Western R. Co. v. Ruthven, 88 Pa.Super. 501.

(2) Other authority, however, has held defendant entitled to counterclaim for damages for goods lost on other shipments.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. E. C. Tecktonius Mfg. Co., D.C. Wis., 262 F. 715.

Counterclaim inconsistent with contract

Shipper's counterclaim for dam-

it for any excess.[86] It is now fairly well established that this right of set-off or counterclaim is not affected or restricted by the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act, or similar state statutes,[87] but prior to the decision of the United States supreme court in Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Lindell,[88] a number of cases, most of which may now be regarded as overruled, denied the right to maintain a counterclaim or set-off, on the theory that the allowance thereof would be to provide a means for avoiding statutory rules and restrictions against discrimination and rebates.[89] However, in the absence of some special contract or statutory provision changing the rule, the right of the consignee or owner to offset damages against freight charges cannot be asserted against the last carrier with reference to damages on the line of the preceding carrier, either as to the last carrier's charges or the charges which it has advanced to the preceding carrier, the remedy being against the carrier in whose hands the damage occurred.[90]

The defense of waiver or acquiescence is not available where the railroad accepted payment on the basis of a lower classification of the goods shipped but insisted on, and sued for, the balance claimed under a higher classification.[91]

c. Limitations and Time to Sue

While mere delay is not fatal, an action for charges may be barred if not brought within the time prescribed by the applicable statute of limitations.

While mere delay or laches does not necessarily bar a carrier's right to bring an action for charges,[92] such an action cannot be brought after the expiration of the time prescribed by an applicable statute of limitations.[93] In the absence of federal ages because of substitution was inconsistent with shipper's unconditional agreement, made after alleged damages accrued, to pay all tariff charges, and was accordingly denied. —Philadelphia & R. Ry Co. v. Taylor, 156 A. 587, 102 Pa. Super. 31.

Set-off between carriers

In assumpsit by plaintiff railroad, defendant railroad, a plant facility, switching cars for plaintiff, might set off the difference, if any, between the actual cost of service rendered in state traffic, and the amount received on account prior to the effectiveness of the Public Service Act, but the allowance of a set-off for services thereafter rendered, and for services in interstate traffic would require a new trial.—Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co. v. South Shore R. Co., 107 A. 680, 264 Pa. 162.

86. Ga.—Battle v. Atkinson, 71 S.E. 775, 9 Ga.App. 488.

87. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Lindell, 50 S.Ct. 200, 281 U.S. 14, 74 L.Ed. 670, followed in, C.C.A., 39 F.2d 1021—Wells Fargo & Co. v. Cuneo, D.C.N.Y., 241 F. 727.
N.Y.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. De May, 277 N.Y.S. 17, 154 Misc. 373—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Bellinger, 166 N.Y.S. 652, 101 Misc. 105.
Tenn.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Tennessee Mill Co., 227 S.W. 443, 143 Tenn. 237.
10 C.J. p. 448 note 62.

Formal counterclaim unnecessary before commission

In a proceeding before the interstate commerce commission to recover undercharges, defendant may recover an overpayment of freight charges to a carrier, notwithstanding the absence of a formal counterclaim —Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. U. S., 73 Ct.Cl. 250, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 12, 287 U.S. 599, 77 L.Ed. 522.

88. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Lindell, Cal., 50 S.Ct. 200, 281 U.S. 14, 74 L.Ed. 670.

89. U.S.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Carl & W. J. Prowaty, D.C.Ill., 36 F.2d 604—Fullerton Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M., St. P. & P. R. Co., Minn., 36 F.2d 180, certiorari granted 50 S.Ct. 249, 281 U.S. 709, 74 L.Ed. 1132, reversed on other grounds 51 S.Ct. 227, 282 U.S. 520, 75 L.Ed. 502—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. South Carolina Produce Ass'n, D.C.S.C., 25 F.2d 315—Johnson-Brown Co. v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., D.C.Ga., 239 F. 590—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. William S. Stein Co., D.C.Neb., 233 F. 716—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. W. L. Hoopes & Sons, D.C.Iowa, 233 F. 135.
Mo.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Morgan, 297 S.W. 717, 221 Mo.App. 43.
N.J.—Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Henry Nuhs Co., 111 A. 223, 93 N.J.Law 309.
Or.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. Cascade Contract Co., 197 P. 1085, 101 Or. 582, petition denied 200 P. 1034, 101 Or. 582.
Pa.—New York, Susquehanna & Western R. Co. v. Ruthven, 88 Pa. Super. 501—Adams Express Co. v. Albright Bros., 75 Pa. Super. 410.

90. Ark.—Price v. New York, C. & St. L. R. Co., 300 S.W. 373, 175 Ark. 688.
N.Y.—Grand Trunk Ry. Co. of Canada v. Satuloff, 181 N.Y.S. 81.
10 C.J. p. 449 note 63.

91. U.S.—Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Va., 1 F.Supp. 350.
92. Ill.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co., 121 N.E. 581, 286 Ill. 267, affirming 210 Ill.App. 267.
Tenn.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Southern Coal & Coke Co., 248 S.W. 297, 147 Tenn. 433.

Delay of fifteen months

The delay of the carrier for fifteen months in bringing its action to recover freight is of no importance so long as the action is commenced within the time allowed by statute. —Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Titus, 138 N.Y.S. 325, 78 Misc. 347, reversed on other grounds 142 N.Y.S. 43, 156 App.Div. 830, reversed on other grounds 109 N.E. 857, 216 N.Y. 17, L.R.A. 1916C 1127.

93. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Carolina Portland Cement Co., C.C.A.S.C., 16 F.2d 760—Button v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Okl., 1 F.2d 709, error dismissed Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Butten, 46 S.Ct. 349, 270 U.S. 670, 70 L.Ed. 791.
La.—Wight v. Zemurray, 91 So. 301, 150 La. 929—Davis v. O'Neal, 1 La.App. 681.

Action for erroneous rebate

Railroad's action against shipper to recover rebate erroneously allowed as the cost of loading freight was an action for "recovery of erroneous freight charges" within statute requiring such action to be brought within two years, and not an action within statute requiring personal actions not theretofore mentioned to be brought within ten years.—Wight v. Zemurray, 91 So. 301, 150 La. 929.

Estoppel to set up limitations

Fact that limitation period against carrier's action for recovery of freight charges ran while dispute as to charges was being considered by interstate commerce commission at shipper's request did not estop shipper from setting up defense of statute of limitations to carrier's action —Wisconsin Bridge & Iron Co. v. Illinois Terminal Co., C.C.A.Ill., 88 F.2d 459.

legislation thereon, an action to recover charges for an interstate shipment may be barred by a state statute of limitations;[94] but by the provision of the Interstate Commerce Act § 16 (3) (a), 49 U.S.C.A. § 16 (3) (a), requiring all actions at law by carriers for the recovery of their charges, or any part thereof, to be begun within a specified period from the time the cause of action accrues, congress created not only a bar of the remedy but a limitation or condition effecting a destruction of the liability or right itself after the lapse of the statutory period.[95] This statute, rather than the state law, now generally governs with respect to actions to recover charges for interstate shipments,[96] except that neither this statute, nor a state statute of limitations, applies to actions by the director general of Railroads on behalf of the United States in its governmental capacity,[97] and the statute does not apply retroactively to causes of action that were already in existence at the time the statute went into effect.[98] By express provision, the cause of action, for the purposes of this section, is deemed to accrue on delivery or tender of the shipment by the carrier and not thereafter.[99] An action by a carrier to recover an excessive refund on a freight overcharge is an action on an implied contract to refund money, and § 16(3) (a) has no application thereto.[1]

d. Pleadings

The pleadings, in actions by carriers to recover their charges, must meet the usual requirements as to form and contents.

The pleadings, in actions by carriers to recover their charges, must meet the usual requirements as to form and contents.[2] The petition, declaration, or complaint of the carrier must sufficiently allege all facts necessary to show a cause of action or right to recover,[3] but if it does this it is ordinarily sufficient.[4] It is not necessary to declare for the tolls

94. Miss.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v Willis, 71 So. 563, 111 Miss. 303.

95. U.S.—Wisconsin Bridge & Iron Co. v. Illinois Terminal Co, C.C. A Ill, 88 F.2d 459

96. U S.—Strawberry Growers' Selling Co. v. American Ry. Express Co, C C A.La., 31 F 2d 947.
Ill.—Cleveland, C, C & St L. R. Co v. Edgewater Coal Co, 272 Ill App. 149.

97. La.—Davis v. Selig & Baughman Hardware Co, 2 La.App. 665.

98. U S—New York Cent. R Co v Wheeling Can Co., 48 S Ct 33, 275 U S. 490, 72 L Ed 389, reversing 130 S E 288, 100 W.Va 132, certiorari denied 46 S Ct. 336, 270 U.S. 645, 70 L Ed. 778, and certiorari granted 46 S Ct. 470, 270 U S. 640, 70 L Ed. 775—U. S. v. St Louis, S. F. & T Ry Co, 46 S.Ct. 182, 270 U.S 1, 70 L Ed 435, affirming Wabash Ry. Co v U. S, 59 Ct.Cl. 322 and U. S. v St. Louis, S. F. & T. Ry. Co, 59 Ct.Cl. 975.

99. Wisconsin Bridge & Iron Co. v. Illinois Terminal Co., C.C.A Ill, 88 F.2d 459—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Carolina Portland Cement Co, C C. A S C., 16 F.2d 760.

Movement of empty oil tank cars

(1) Movement of empty oil tank cars is not "shipment" of property within act fixing time when cause of action for carrier's charges accrues. —Chicago, R I & P. Ry Co. v. Petroleum Refining Co., D.C Ky., 39 F 2d 629.

(2) Cause of action for carrier's charges for moving empty oil tank cars does not accrue when carrier merely parts with possession thereof, but such act must be a final separation from the carrier.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Petroleum Refining Co, supra.

1. U S—T. M. Partridge Lumber Co. v Michigan Cent R. Co, C C.A. Minn, 26 F.2d 615, reversing, D C., Michigan Cent R Co. v T. M. Partridge Lumber Co, 17 F.2d 657.

2. N Y.—Erie R Co. v F. Kieser & Son Co, 215 N Y S. 576, 216 App. Div. 500, reversing 211 N.Y.S 362, 125 Misc. 283.

3. Mo—Chicago, B & Q. R. Co. v. Evans, 228 S W. 853, 206 Mo App. 553.
N D—Minneapolis, St. P & S S M Ry. Co. v. Washburn Lignite Coal Co, 168 N.W. 684, 40 N.D. 69, 12 A L R 744, error dismissed 41 S.Ct 140, 254 U.S 370, 65 L Ed. 310

Allegations held insufficient

(1) In carrier's action to recover prescribed rates on ground that shipments originating in state were part of intended movement in interstate commerce, allegations that shipments did move in such commerce and that shipper knew in advance to what particular group of orders and group of cargoes shipments would be applied was not a sufficient allegation of the shipper's intent.—Oregon-Washington R & Nav Co v. Strauss & Co, C C A Or., 73 F 2d 912, certiorari denied 55 S Ct. 551, 294 U S. 723, 79 L Ed. 1255.

(2) A petition by a carrier against a consignee for freight was demurrable where it did not allege that defendant was a party to the contract of transportation or had received or accepted the freight, the relation of carrier and consignee not being sufficient, and ownership of goods not being determinative.—Chicago, B. & Q R. Co. v. Evans, 228 S. W. 853, 206 Mo.App. 553.

(3) Complaint in action against shipper for difference between rates under statute, and alleged reasonable rate not alleging circumstances from which contract might be implied in fact or any promise did not state a cause of action on contract implied in fact.—Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S M Ry. Co v Washburn Lignite Coal Co., 168 N W. 684, 40 N.D 69, 12 A. L.R 744, error dismissed 41 S.Ct. 140, 254 U S. 370, 65 L.Ed 310.

(4) Where petition in suit by carrier's receiver against original consignor to recover freight on interstate shipment showed carrier's failure to give notice to original consignor of refusal of a new consignee, under consignee's reconsignment of original bill of lading, to accept goods and carrier's disposition and conversion of proceeds to its own use, without showing that notice was impracticable under circumstances, a demurrer was properly sustained—Heed v. J. O. Dorris & Co., 100 S E. 717, 24 Ga.App. 293.

Undercharges

Where carrier, in accordance with Remington & Ballinger Code §§ 8627–8661, establishes and publishes uniform freight rates, such carrier may, where through inadvertence a shipper has been charged less than the established rate on an intra-state shipment, recover the amount of the undercharge, and a complaint, setting out such facts, is good against demurrer.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. Seattle Grain Co., 178 P 648, 106 Wash. 1, affirmed 185 P. 583, 106 Wash. 1.

4. U.S.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Sommers Bros. Mfg. Co, D C.Idaho, 34 F.2d 56—Duncan v. United Steel Co., D.C.Ohio, 244 F. 258.

as such, as they may be satisfactorily described in terms of the service or the like for which the tolls are charged.[5]

Defendant's answer should ordinarily either place the allegations of plaintiff's pleading in issue,[6] or sufficiently allege matters properly constituting a defense to the cause of action asserted by the carrier.[7] The carrier's failure to bring its action for charges within the time prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Act may properly be raised by demurrer, where the declaration or complaint shows on its face that the statutory period has expired.[8]

Subject to ordinary restrictions, proper amendments to the pleadings may be permitted.[9]

Under general rules as to issues, proof, and variance, it is usually essential that the pleadings be sustained by, and conform to, the proof,[10] except where the matter is one of law on which no proof is necessary.[11] In assumpsit on a claim for unpaid freight, the contention that the claim was not owned by plaintiff can be raised under the general issue.[12] It has been held that a petition by a carrier to recover transportation charges advanced by it to the initial carrier, its own charges, and charges advanced to the final connecting carrier, alleging that defendant requested plaintiff carrier to forward the cars over its own and connecting lines, and directed plaintiff to pay the charges, and promised to repay the sums so paid out, declares on an express contract as to a promise to repay plaintiff, but not as to the amounts of the charges to be paid, and it is not error to allow plaintiff to prove that the charges paid to the other carriers and its own were reasonable,[13] and that a carrier which has alleged an express agreement to pay a stated amount of freight may recover on the theory that, through a mutual mistake, the rate charged was less than that authorized by the tariff.[14]

e. Evidence

General rules of evidence apply.

Although the parties may be aided by proper presumptions or inferences, the same as in other actions,[15] the carrier generally has the burden of proving all the essential elements of its cause of

Ala.—Hurt v. Atlanta, B. & A. Ry. Co., 84 So. 631, 17 Ala App. 241

Tex.—United Hay Co. v. St. Louis, B & M. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 74 S.W.2d 766

Allegations held unnecessary

In an action by a railroad to recover from the consignor the freight charge for carrying a carload of coal in interstate commerce, the declaration was not demurrable because it failed to name the consignee, or to aver the delivery of the coal to, or nonpayment of the freight charge by, the consignee, where it shows the coal was shipped by consignor, that he made an unconditional promise to pay the freight charges, and has failed and refused to pay it.—Western Maryland Ry. Co. v. Cross, 114 S.E. 438, 92 W.Va. 9.

5. N.H.—Manchester, etc., R. Co. v. Fisk, 33 N.H. 297.

6. N.Y.—Erie R. Co. v. F. Kieser & Son Co., 215 N.Y.S. 576, 216 App. Div. 500, reversing 211 N.Y.S. 362, 125 Misc. 283.

Answer held sufficient

In carrier's suit against shipper to recover alleged undercharges, allegations of plea was sufficient to put in issue allegation of declaration, in effect, that defendants had not paid lawful tariff rate.—Reinschmidt v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 150 So. 266, 112 Fla. 267.

7. N.Y.—Erie R. Co. v. F. Kieser & Son Co., 215 N.Y.S. 576, 216 App. Div. 500, reversing 211 N.Y.S. 362, 125 Misc. 283.

Pa.—Crane R. Co. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., 97 A. 1055, 253 Pa. 246—Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. Picard, 98 Pa.Super. 134—Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. Andrews Bros. Co., 90 Pa.Super. 574—Davis v. Kehota Mining Co., 86 Pa.Super. 443—Chicago, B. & Q. R. R. v. Berry's Sons, 86 Pa.Super. 1—West Jersey & S. R. Co. v. Whiting Lumber Co., 71 Pa.Super. 161—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. A. J. Cameron & Co., 30 Pa.Dist. 721, affirmed 124 A. 638, 280 Pa. 458.

Lack of joint liability

Where declaration showed joint liability of defendants for freight charges, affidavit of defense that defendants were separate corporations, owning their own railroads, failed to show that there was not joint liability.—Crane R. Co. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., 97 A. 1055, 253 Pa. 246.

Answer held sufficient

(1) Answer alleging shipment to another place and sale there, in violation of statute, without notifying shipper of consignee's refusal to pay charges as excessive, was sufficient as against prayer for recovery of demurrage, reconsignment and freight charges accruing after car reached destination.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. S. J. Peabody Lumber Co., 131 N.E. 841, 76 Ind.App. 222.

(2) In carrier's action for inadvertent undercharge on interstate flour shipment, affidavit of defense was held sufficient which averred that defendant as consignee's agent sold flour and delivered bill of lading to buyer.—Davis v. Richardson, 87 Pa.Super. 205.

8. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Carolina Portland Cement Co., C.C.A.S.C., 16 F.2d 760.

9. Ga.—Williamson-Inman Co. v. Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 160 S.E. 687, 44 Ga.App. 129.

Amendment held proper

In carrier's suit for undercharge, permitting amendment to petition alleging that acts of connecting carrier in connection with reshipment were done as plaintiff's agent was not error.—Williamson-Inman Co. v. Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 160 S.E. 687, 44 Ga.App. 129.

10. La.—Davis v. Selig & Baughman Hardware Co., 2 La.App. 665.

11. La.—Davis v. Selig & Baughman Hardware Co., supra.

12. Ala.—Hurt v. Atlanta, B. & A. Ry. Co., 84 So. 631, 17 Ala.App. 241.

13. Mo.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Bay Shore Lumber Co., 119 S.W. 973, 140 Mo.App. 52.

14. N.C.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Latham, 97 S.E. 234, 176 N.C. 417

15. U.S.—Southern Cotton Oil Co. v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., Ga., 228 F. 335, 142 C.C.A. 627, affirming, D.C., 204 F. 476.

Ill.—Indiana Harbor Belt R. Co. v. Lieberman, 245 Ill.App. 503—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Lehigh Stone Co., 220 Ill.App. 563.

N.J.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Singer Mfg. Co., 131 A. 111, 3 N.J.Misc. 1137

Carrier's compliance with legal requirements

(1) In a suit to recover the bal-action,[16] while defendant has the burden on all matters of affirmative defense.[17] The admissibility of evidence,[18] and its weight and sufficiency,[19] are ance of freight charges due, proof of the filing with the interstate commerce commission of a supplemental tariff changing rates previously in force prima facie establishes that the carrier had taken all steps required to make the new rates valid.—New York, N. H & H R. Co. v. Salter, 134 A. 220, 104 Conn. 728.

(2) Where it is admitted that schedule of rates was duly filed and approved by interstate commerce commission, the presumption is that the rates were duly published, and against there being a violation of the Elkins Act imposing penalties for failure to publish rates.—Atchison, T & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Wagner, 172 P. 519, 102 Kan. 817, L.R.A.1918D 1105.

Identity of shipper and consignor

In the absence of rebutting evidence, a person who ships or handles the goods is ordinarily presumed to be the consignor.

N.J.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Singer Mfg. Co., 131 A. 111, 3 N.J.Misc. 1137.

Tenn.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Murphree, 2 Tenn. App. 482.

Payment presumed from delivery

When the property has been delivered to the consignee, a presumption arises that the freight has been paid.—Shea v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 65 N.W. 458, 63 Minn. 228.

16. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. U. S., 47 S.Ct. 123, 272 U.S. 445, 71 L.Ed. 343, affirming 60 Ct.Cl. 662, appeal dismissed and certiorari granted 46 S.Ct. 242, 270 U.S. 103, 70 L.Ed. 489.—Gideon-Anderson Lumber Co. v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 88 F.2d 232.

Ill.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Denney & Co., 246 Ill.App. 22. See St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. H. H. Hall Const. Co., 194 Ill.App. 146.

La.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Rivers, 130 So. 641, 15 La.App. 167.

Tenn.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Murphree, 2 Tenn.App. 482.

Tex.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Magnolia Fish & Oyster Co., Civ.App., 255 S.W. 459.

Classification or applicability of particular rate

(1) The carrier has the burden of showing that the rates sought to be charged by it were legally established as required by law.

U.S.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. U. S. Pipe Line Co., 1 F.2d 866, affirming, D.C., 290 F. 983.

N.Y.—Erie R. Co. v. F. Kieser & Son Co., 215 N.Y.S. 576, 216 App.Div. 500, reversing 211 N.Y.S. 362, 125 Misc. 283.

(2) In a suit to recover an undercharge, the carrier has the burden of proving that the shipper's exclusive use of a refrigerator car warranted the application of a certain tariff covering perishables.—Swift & Co. v. Ft. Smith & W. Ry. Co., 16 S.W.2d 1001, 179 Ark. 516.

(3) A carrier claiming remaining unpaid charges because of its agent's undercharge for a shipment has the burden of showing by a preponderance of evidence that the shipment was erroneously classified by its agent as was claimed by it.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Magnolia Fish & Oyster Co., Tex.Civ.App., 255 S.W. 459.

(4) Where a carrier by cross action sought to recover freight charges under an interstate rate, and plaintiff traversed, as required by statute, that the freight was such as to fall within the rate, the burden was on the carrier to prove the fact.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Carter, Tex.Civ.App., 180 S.W. 663.

Delivery of shipment

In an action for freight charges, the burden is on the carrier to show that the goods were delivered to the consignee.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. H. H. Hall Constr. Co., 194 Ill.App. 146.

Proof necessary for prima facie case

In action to collect balance due for freight, plaintiff, to establish a prima facie case, must prove that carload was delivered as alleged, what correct amount of freight charges were, what balance was due, demand for payment, and refusal to pay.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Weyant, 165 N.Y.S. 391.

17. La.—Green v. Hawkins & Antoon, App., 142 So. 742, modified on other grounds 144 So. 271.—Louisiana Ry. & Nav. Co. v. Lawrence, 5 La.App. 722.

Nonapplicability of regular tariff rate

La.—Louisiana Ry. & Nav. Co. v. Lawrence, 5 La.App. 722.

18. Evidence held admissible

(1) Evidence of state law providing for sale of goods for charges.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Schick, C.C.A.Pa., 38 F.2d 968.

(2) In carrier's action against live stock shippers to recover charges for car feedings in transit, evidence as to feeding of animals before they left point of shipment, instructions to initial carrier, and, plaintiff's change in method of feeding in its yard at intermediate point.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Sturtevant & Haley Beef & Supply Co., 127 N.E. 509, 236 Mass. 16.

(3) Duly filed and published tariff schedules or rate classifications.

Ala.—Emerson v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 72 So. 120, 196 Ala. 280, L.R.A.1916F 120.

Ill.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Denney & Co., 237 Ill.App. 483.

Mich.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Claspy, 226 N.W. 216, 247 Mich. 549.

(4) An expense bill submitted by carrier.—See St. Louis I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. H. H. Hall Const. Co., 194 Ill.App. 146.

(5) Where bill of lading stated that specified weight of shipment was subject to correction, and carrier brought action to recover freight charges on the theory of a mistake in the weight of the shipment, both parties were entitled to introduce evidence as to the correct weight, and have that issue submitted to the jury.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Collins, 119 S.E. 833, 127 S.C. 219.

(6) Where plaintiff relied on a special promise to pay made by defendant before the car had gone forward, but after a bill of lading had been issued, providing that the consignee should pay the freight, the bill of lading is admissible as a step in the transaction.—Montpelier, etc., R. Co. v. Macchi, 52 A. 960, 74 Vt. 403.

Evidence held inadmissible

(1) In action for amount of freight undercharge computed by schedule in force and governing the subject, it was error to receive and consider proof that commodities shipped were not correctly classified in schedule.—Atchison, T & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Young, 171 P. 1156, 102 Kan. 875.

(2) Evidence of ownership of shipment by one other than defendant is inadmissible in the absence of proof of any notice to the carrier of such fact.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Belson, 237 Ill.App. 425.

(3) In an action by a carrier against the consignors of certain goods to recover freight charges, evidence as to plaintiff's agreement to accept goods on condition of collecting the freight charges from the consignee is inadmissible, as tending to vary the terms of the written bill of lading.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Reifel, 154 N.Y.S. 203, 90 Misc. 696.

(4) In an action for balance due on freight shipments of coal, evidence of the practice under similar tariffs is properly excluded because the construction of the tariff is a matter of law, and an improper usage could not justify an incorrect construction.—Republic Iron & Steel Co. v. Davis, 98 So. 197, 210 Ala. 361.

19. Evidence held sufficient

(1) To support or authorize recovery by plaintiff.

usually determined in accordance with the general rules stated in the title Evidence.

f. Trial

The trial, in actions by carriers for their charges, is governed by ordinary rules.

In actions by carriers to recover charges for goods transported, as in other actions, questions of law are ordinarily for the court,[20] while questions of

Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co v. City Supply Co, 135 S E 767, 36 Ga App 104.

Ill.—See Chicago, I. & L Ry. Co v. Monarch Lumber Co, 202 Ill.App. 20.

Okl.—Chicago, R. I. & P Ry Co. v. Howe-McCurtain Coal & Coke Co, 247 P 986, 119 Okl. 49, certiorari denied 47 S Ct 243, 273 U S. 734, 71 L Ed. 865.

Tenn.—Oman v. Tennessee Central Ry. Co, 7 Tenn.App. 141

(2) To sustain verdict or findings generally.

U.S.—Kimball v Chicago, R I. & P. Ry. Co., C C A Neb, 271 F 469.

Ark.—Swift & Co. v. Ft Smith & W. Ry Co, 16 S.W 2d 1001, 179 Ark 516.

Kan.—Atchison, T & S. F. Ry Co. v Boyle Commission Co., 178 P. 614, 104 Kan 166.

Mass.—New York Cent. & H. R. R Co v York & Whitney Co., 119 N. E. 855, 230 Mass. 206.

(3) To show that shipments were made under through bills of lading and were such shipments as would make initial railroad's connecting carriers its agents in performing interstate shipping contracts, so as to authorize initial carrier to sue for undercharges in transporting shipments.—United Hay Co v. St. Louis, B & M. Ry. Co., Tex Civ.App., 74 S. W.2d 766.

(4) To establish that person paying freight was agent of buyer from consignee, not of consignee, hence buyer was liable for additional freight charges because of error in original charges.—Erie R Co v. McDonald, 249 N.Y.S. 323, 140 Misc. 208.

(5) To establish special contract for movement of garbage cars for city at specified rate which could not be abrogated without formal notice.—New Orleans & N. E R. Co. v City of New Orleans, 123 So. 323, 168 La. 781.

(6) To show that commodity transported was clay, and not sand, to which a different rate applied.—In re Independent Sewer Pipe Co, D.C Cal, 248 F. 547

(7) To show that goods, although not exceeding seventeen thousand one hundred pounds, constituted a carload liable for carload rates fixed by interstate commerce commission based on weight of twenty-four thousand.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Pleasant River Granite Co., 102 A. 298, 116 Me. 496.

(8) To justify finding that two corporations were separate entities as respects right of marketing corporation to benefit of lower rate on lumber, reshipped over lines of carrier seeking to recover undercharges, but wherein required contract was executed only by manufacturing corporation.—Gideon-Anderson Lumber Co. v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co, C C A.Mo, 88 F.2d 232.

(9) To sustain finding that damage to watermelon shipment was not caused by unreasonable delay of railroad in transporting shipment.—Sowega Melon Growers' Ass'n v Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 194 S E 917, 57 Ga.App. 225

(10) To support finding that oral ore hauling contract wherein mining company guaranteed certain tonnage was not variation of original written contract not containing tonnage guaranty, but new and independent agreement.—Dover Copper Mining Co v. Doenges, 12 P 2d 288, 40 Ariz 349.

(11) Evidence that a car was delivered at a place about a mile from its destination, the usual place of delivery of cars consigned to the destination, justified a finding that the car was duly delivered to the destination — Southern California Commercial Co. v Alberti, 207 P 1023, 58 Cal.App. 84.

(12) Where it appeared that, at the time a conveyance of right of way was made to a carrier, no charge was made by the carrier for ferrying service for any shipper, and the object of the shipper was to secure a contract for such service, the evidence sustained a finding that the promise to make no charge was not the consideration for the conveyance, since, under the circumstances, that agreement was simply to secure the service on the same terms as other shippers.—Boston & M. R. R v. Great Falls Mfg. Co., 111 A 691, 79 N H. 467.

(13) Finding that consignee only is responsible for charges is warranted if consignor merely loaded shipment, it being intended that consignor should not be liable, and receiving railroad knew facts.—T. S Faulk & Co. v Chicago, I. & L. Ry Co., 111 So. 196, 21 Ala.App 617, certiorari denied 111 So. 199, 215 Ala. 488.

(14) A showing that a railroad, seeking to recover freight on an import shipment at the normal rate of exchange provided for in bill of lading rather than at current rate, had paid steamship at the normal rate, established that it was not attempting to recover for itself alone.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Cameron, 124 A. 638, 280 Pa. 458, 33 A L R. 1281.

(15) To show shipper did not promise to pay the freight.—Davis v Hunt, Washington & Smith, 6 Tenn App 292.

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To show that consignee of empty milk cans, although owner thereof, had assumed by his conduct obligation to pay charges.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Mohawk Dairy Co, 144 N.E 721, 250 Mass 1, 35 A L R 14.

(2) To make seller party to contract and bind it for payment of hauling.—Reeves v G. & G. Pumping Co, La App, 151 So. 679

(3) To sustain carrier's burden of proving additional charge due for carrying freight, in action against shipper.—St Louis Southwestern Ry Co. v Rivers, 130 So. 641, 15 La App. 167

(4) To compel a finding that carrier knew that defendant, a commission company, in making a shipment was acting solely as owner's agent, even if that were a fact.—Atchison, T. & S F Ry Co. v. Boyle Commission Co, 178 P. 614, 104 Kan 166.

(5) To show that the conveyance of the land to the carrier was substantially equivalent in value to the carrier's agreement in perpetuity to make no charge against the grantor for ferrying.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Great Falls Mfg. Co, 111 A. 691, 79 N.H 467.

(6) To sustain verdict for shipper sued for undercharge in freight rates, shown by undisputed evidence to be less than tariffs on file with interstate commerce commission.—Western & A. R. R v. Aiken, 139 S E. 914, 37 Ga.App. 271.

20. Fla.—Reinschmidt v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 160 So. 69, 118 Fla. 237.

Va.—Eastern Coal & Export Corporation v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 138 S E 471, 148 Va 140, certiorari denied 48 S Ct. 207, 276 U.S 615, 72 L.Ed. 732.

Construction of tariffs and classifications is a matter of law for the court.

Fla.—Reinschmidt v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 160 So. 69, 118 Fla. 237.

fact[21] and mixed questions of law and fact[22] are for the jury under proper instructions from the court,[23] unless the state of the evidence is such as to justify or require the taking of the case or question from the jury by the direction of a verdict or otherwise.[24]

Ill.—Davis v. Naugle Pole & Tie Co., 238 Ill.App. 214.

21. U.S.—Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Settle, Ohio, 43 S.Ct. 28, 260 U.S. 166, 67 L.Ed. 189, reversing, C.C.A., 272 F. 675—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. New Orleans Export Co., C.C.A.La., 271 F. 861.

Ga.—Sowega Melon Growers' Ass'n v. Pere Marquette Ry. Co., 194 S.E. 917, 57 Ga.App. 225—Western & A. R. R. v. Legg, 123 S.E. 31, 32 Ga.App. 368.

Md.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Quality Products, 189 A. 200, 171 Md. 291.

Mass.—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. York & Whitney Co., 119 N.E. 855, 230 Mass. 206, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds 41 S.Ct. 509, 256 U.S. 406, 65 L.Ed. 1016.

Mich.—Wabash Ry. Co. v. Bloomgarden, 180 N.W. 443, 212 Mich. 410.

N.J.—West Jersey & S. S. R. Co. v. Lake & Risley Co., 145 A. 336, 105 N.J.Law 314—Atlantic City R. Co. v. Packman, 147 A. 635, 7 N.J.Misc. 945.

N.C.—Davis v. Ford, 137 S.E. 328, 193 N.C. 444.

Pa.—Erie R. Co. v. Kreitner Bros., Inc., 3 Pa.Dist. & Co. 251.

S.C.—Boney v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 126 S.E. 46, 130 S.C. 439, 37 A.L.R. 1331.

Tex.—Reed v. Southern Pac. Co., Civ.App., 99 S.W.2d 1026, error dismissed.

Questions held for jury

(1) Whether seller, directing shipment by another, was consignor, and liable for freight charges.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. H. H. Lineaweaver Co., C.C.A.Pa., 27 F.2d 25.

(2) Whether interstate shipment was delivered to railroad by defendant sued for charges, or by consignee's agent.—T. S. Faulk & Co. v. Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co., 111 So. 196, 21 Ala.App. 617, certiorari denied 111 So. 199, 215 Ala. 488.

(3) Whether consignor of interstate shipment was merely agent for consignee.—T. S. Faulk & Co. v. Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co., supra.

(4) Whether interstate bill of lading was properly made out and whether signature was authorized.—T. S. Faulk & Co. v. Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co., supra.

(5) Whether consignor and consignee of interstate shipment intended that consignor should not be liable.—T. S. Faulk & Co. v. Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co., supra.

(6) Whether railroad knew that consignor of interstate shipment was consignee's agent and intended that consignor should not be liable for charges.—T. S. Faulk & Co. v. Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co., supra.

(7) Whether melons were to be classified for charges by a carrier as a vegetable or a fruit.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Magnolia Fish & Oyster Co., Tex.Civ.App., 255 S.W. 459.

(8) Whether two small samples of metal showed shipments to be white metal alloy scrap.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Fox & London, C.C.A.N.Y., 93 F.2d 669, certiorari denied Fox & London v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 58 S.Ct. 949.

(9) Whether particular shipments of stave bolts and headings sued for were within general class of shipments of short pieces of wood, or within special class of shipments of wood for fuel, bearing special lower rate, not whether shipments were in all respects analogous to shipments of wood for fuel.—Reinschmidt v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 160 So. 69, 118 Fla. 237.

(10) Whether a shipment of coal a short distance from the railroad would be "at the point of destination."—Republic Iron & Steel Co. v. Davis, 98 So. 197, 210 Ala. 361.

(11) Whether the shipper's failure to strip the percentage of its finished product required by a contract granting a special rate to the company on rough material was due to lack of cars.—Davis v. Hampton Stave Co., 291 S.W. 979, 173 Ark. 70.

(12) Whether contract between shipper of cotton linters on export bill of lading and railroad whereby railroad agreed to absorb cost of ordinary compression if cotton were compressed to high density at point of shipment, was for benefit of railroad or was a disguised rebate so as to entitle railroad to recover amount paid by it for such compression.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Williamson, C.C.A.Ga., 87 F.2d 34.

22. Pa.—West Jersey & S. R. Co. v. Whiting Lumber Co., 71 Pa.Super. 161.

Questions held mixed questions of law and fact

(1) Whether rate was prescribed by tariffs approved by railroad commission, and whether shipper paid applicable rate.—Reinschmidt v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 150 So. 266, 112 Fla. 267.

(2) Whether a charge was uncalled for and unreasonable, under all the circumstances of the case.—West Jersey & S. R. Co. v. Whiting Lumber Co., 71 Pa.Super. 161.

23. U.S.—Baltimore & O. S. W. R. R. v. Settle, C.C.A.Ohio, 272 F. 675, affirmed 43 S.Ct. 28, 260 U.S. 166, 67 L.Ed. 189.

Ill.—See Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co. v. Monarch Lumber Co., 202 Ill.App. 20.

Pa.—West Jersey & S. R. Co. v. Whiting Lumber Co., 71 Pa.Super. 161.

Instructions held proper

(1) In a carrier's action against consignor for balance due on freight, plaintiff's instruction, fixing the property as being shipped from Missouri to New York, did not mislead the jury, where the evidence clearly showed the whole transaction, and that some of the cars were shipped from Chicago, and only one from Missouri.—Chicago & E. R. Co. v. Lightfoot, 232 S.W. 176, 206 Mo.App. 436.

(2) In a carrier's action against consignor for balance due for freight on an interstate shipment, defended on the ground that the carrier had agreed to collect the freight from others, to whom consignor sold the cars while in transit, it was proper to instruct that the tariffs were fixed by the interstate commerce commission, and if through a mistake a lesser rate was collected the difference between such rate and the regular rate is still due and collectible from consignor.—Chicago & E. R. Co. v. Lightfoot, supra.

24. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Sisk, 295 S.W. 55, 174 Ark. 168.

Mich.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Claspy, 226 N.W. 216, 247 Mich. 549.

Pa.—Railway & Express Co. v. DeRoy, 167 A. 444, 110 Pa.Super. 138.

Tenn.—Frazier & Crews v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 13 Tenn.App. 387.

Direction of verdict against carrier

Directed verdict against railroad, suing for balance due on correct freight charge was proper, in absence of competent evidence of shipments and weights.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Sisk, 295 S.W. 55, 174 Ark. 168.

Direction of verdict for carrier

(1) Under statutes requiring the published rate to be collected, the carrier has been held entitled to affirmative charge in action against consignee for difference between freight paid and published rate.—Emerson v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 72 So. 120, 196 Ala. 280, L.R.A.1916F 120.

(2) However, a directed verdict for railroad suing for unpaid freight charges was held error under con-

§ 319. Overcharges

As proceedings before the interstate commerce commission or state regulatory commissions to obtain a reparation order or relief from unreasonable rates have already been fully considered in § 309, this and the sections immediately following will be limited to the recovery of excessive charges by court action.

§ 320. Right to Recover

Except in so far as such right has been abrogated or modified by applicable state or federal statute, a person who has involuntarily paid a carrier an excessive charge for its services is entitled to recover the overcharge by common-law action.

It is a well settled general rule that, where a carrier refuses to accept goods offered for transportation, or to deliver goods accepted for transportation, unless paid a sum in excess of what is reasonable, or in excess of an amount fixed by law or contract, and the sum so demanded is paid under protest, an action lies at common law in favor of the consignor or the consignee, as the case may be, to recover back the unlawful excess.[25] According to a number of decisions, any payment made in accordance with the demands of a carrier is not voluntary in the legal sense, and such excess may be recovered even where no protest was made at the time of payment,[26] but other decisions take the view that the payment of excessive freight charges without protest is a voluntary payment, and that the excess cannot be recovered back, in the absence of fraud or deception.[27] Excessive charges paid to a common carrier, without knowledge that they are in excess of those charged other shippers, and in reliance on the representation of the carrier that all its charges are uniform, are not voluntary payments, and the excess over the lawful charge may therefore be recovered from the carrier.[28] Where the consignor and the consignee agree that the latter shall pay the freight and deduct it from the purchase price, and the carrier collects freight in excess of the amount which it agreed with the consignor should be charged, the consignee, being in ignorance of such agreement, cannot be said to have made a voluntary payment of the excess and may recover it back.[29] If, however, a shipper has other facilities for transportation at a reasonable cost and merely used the facilities afforded by defendant because it was more convenient to him, the fact that he paid charges which he claimed to be exorbitant under protest does not make his act other than a voluntary one, and he cannot recover back the charges.[30] A payment of charges is voluntary and cannot be recovered back if there is no duress and the goods have previously been delivered or surrendered to the payor;[31] and a voluntary settlement of alleged excess charges with full knowledge of all flicting evidence of proper classification of interstate shipment.—Southern Gravure Corporation v. Cleveland, C., C. & St L. R. Co., 142 S. E. 190, 37 Ga App. 805.

25. Ala.—W. L. Shepherd Lumber Co. v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 112 So. 323, 216 Ala. 89.
Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Fields Bros., 203 S.W. 1036, 134 Ark. 273.
Colo.—Bonfils v. Public Utilities Commission of Colorado, 189 P. 775, 67 Colo. 563.
Fla.—Florida East Coast Ry. Co. v. State, 82 So. 136, 77 Fla. 571.
Ky.—Southern Ry. Co. of Kentucky v. Frankfort Distillery, 26 S.W.2d 1025, 233 Ky. 771, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 75, 282 U.S. 868, 75 L.Ed. 767.
La.—McAdams v. Wells Fargo & Co. Express, 71 So. 945, 139 La. 681.
Me.—S. D. Warren Co. v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 135 A. 526, 126 Me. 23.
Mich.—Fletcher Paper Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 164 N.W. 528, 198 Mich. 469, affirmed Detroit & M. R. Co. v. Fletcher Paper Co., 39 S.Ct. 13, 248 U.S. 30, 63 L.Ed. 107.
Mo.—Sonken-Galamba Corporation v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 40 S.W.2d 524, 225 Mo.App. 1066.
Mont.—Montana Horse Products Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 7 P.2d 919, 91 Mont. 194.
Neb.—Central Bridge & Construction Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 262 N.W. 852, 129 Neb. 726.
N.Y.—Baldwin v. Liverpool & G. W. S. S. Co., 74 N.Y. 125, 30 Am.R. 277, affirming 11 Hun 496.
Okl.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Gist, 190 P. 878, 79 Okl. 8.
Tenn.—West Const Co. v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 210 S.W. 633, 141 Tenn. 342.
Tex.—Bowers v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ.App., 241 S.W. 509.
10 C.J. p 449 note 79
Proceedings by shipper or consignee for relief against unreasonable rates see supra § 309.

26. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. California Adjustment Co., Cal., 237 F. 954, 150 C.C.A. 604, certiorari dismissed California Adjustment Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 39 S.Ct. 182, 248 U.S. 595, 63 L.Ed. 438, and affirming, D.C., 226 F. 349.
Cal.—California Adjustment Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 175 P. 682, 179 Cal. 140, 13 A.L.R. 274.
Me.—S. D. Warren Co. v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 135 A. 526, 126 Me. 23.
10 C.J. p 449 note 80.

Corpus Juris quoted in Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Department of Public Works, 217 P. 13, 14, 125 Wash. 428.

27. N.Y.—Murphy v. New York Cent. R. Co., 122 N.E. 700, 225 N.Y. 548, affirming 156 N.Y.S. 49, 170 App.Div. 788.—Henry L. Hunter, Inc., v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 166 N.Y.S. 237, 179 App. Div. 52, affirming 161 N.Y.S. 10, 97 Misc. 26.
10 C.J. p 450 note 82

28. Iowa.—Cook v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 46 N.W. 1080, 81 Iowa 551, 25 Am.S.R. 512, 9 L.R.A. 764.

29. Ga.—Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Crossley, 57 S.E. 97, 128 Ga. 35.

30. N.C.—Bernhardt v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 47 S.E. 427, 135 N. C. 258.
10 C.J. p 450 note 85.

31. U.S.—Knudsen-Ferguson Fruit Co. v. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. Ry. Co., Wis., 149 F. 973, 79 C.C.A. 483, certiorari denied 27 S.Ct. 786, 204 U.S. 670, 51 L.Ed. 672.

the facts, where payment has not been exacted as a condition of acceptance or delivery of the goods, will preclude recovery back of the charges paid.[32] Moreover, a carrier has been held not liable for an overcharge from which it received no benefit, and which, unknown to the carrier, was fraudulently collected by its agent in collusion with an employee of the shipper for their own purposes;[33] but there is authority to the effect that the carrier may be liable for excess charges paid upon fraudulent misrepresentations of the carrier's agent where the latter is acting within the scope of his authority, although for his own benefit,[34] provided the person paying the charges acts in good faith and without negligence.[35]

The right to recover overcharges cannot be defeated or limited by a clause in the bill of lading limiting the carrier's liability for loss,[36] except, perhaps, where, due to the status or nature of the pleadings, the action is regarded as being founded on the contract evidenced by the bill of lading.[37]

Foreign transportation. At common law no action will lie against a common carrier for unreasonable and excessive charges for foreign transportation.[38]

Lien. In the absence of statute providing therefor, an overcharge in freight rates does not entitle the person overcharged to a lien on the carrier's roadbed, and a statute giving a lien to persons sustaining loss or damage to property for which the carrier is liable has no application to excess payments of freight rates.[39]

Payment of a refund to an authorized agent of the person entitled to recover the same discharges the carrier from liability therefor, notwithstanding a subsequent conversion or embezzlement of the proceeds by the agent.[40]

Under state statutes. The common-law remedy for excessive freight charges is not abrogated by a statute authorizing the recovery of charges collected in excess of the rates properly chargeable under a railroad commission law,[41] or by state rate-regulating statutes which provide penalties only for their enforcement and furnish no civil remedy therefor.[42] In such cases, the common-law remedy remains and may be enforced, even though the statutory remedy is extinguished by lapse of time.[43] Observance by a railroad company of a schedule rate fixed by the railroad commissioners will not defeat a common-law action for charges in excess of a reasonable rate, where the statute provides that the schedule so fixed by the commissioners shall be prima facie evidence that the rates therein fixed are reasonable.[44] Under state statutes similar to the Interstate Commerce Act, the right to recover exorbitant and unreasonable charges on intra-state shipments remains,[45] but if such charges are in accord with the scheduled rates the common-law remedy is abrogated and the party aggrieved must first bring reparation proceedings before the state commission within the time prescribed by statute for the institution of such proceedings,[46] and obtain a proper and sufficient order for refund,[47] although 32. Wash.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Department of Public Works, 217 P. 13, 125 Wash. 428, error dismissed Tacoma Grain Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 44 S.Ct. 401, 264 U.S. 571, 68 L.Ed. 855.

33. U.S.—Scullin Steel Co. v. North American Co., Mo., 255 F. 945, 167 C.C.A. 237.

34. Wis.—Ripon Knitting Works v. Railway Express Agency, 240 N.W. 840, 207 Wis. 452.

35. Wis.—Ripon Knitting Works v. Railway Express Agency, supra.

36. N.Y.—Meyer v. Central R. Co. of New Jersey, 174 N.Y.S. 93, 185 App. Div. 812.

37. S.D.—J. F. Anderson Lumber Co. v. Davis, 212 N.W. 917, 51 S.D. 146.

38. U.S.—Geraty v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., D.C.S.C., 211 F. 227.

39. Ark.—Gallup v. St. Louis, I.M. & S. R. Co., 215 S.W. 586, 140 Ark. 347.

40. U.S.—Acme-Evans Co. v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ind., 78 F.2d 543.

41. Fla.—Cullen v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 58 So. 182, 63 Fla. 122.

Mich.—Fletcher Paper Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 164 N.W. 528, 198 Mich. 469, affirmed Detroit & M. R. Co. v. Fletcher Paper Co., 39 S.Ct. 13, 248 U.S. 30, 63 L.Ed. 107.

Utah.—Jeremy Fuel & Grain Co. v. Denver & R. G. R. Co., 207 P. 155, 60 Utah 153.

The Corpus Juris text is quoted with approval in Jeremy Fuel & Grain Co. v. Denver & R. G. R. Co., 207 P. 155, 158, 60 Utah 153.

42. Neb.—Central Bridge & Construction Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 262 N.W. 852, 129 Neb. 726.

43. Utah.—Jeremy Fuel & Grain Co. v. Denver & R. G. R. Co., 207 P. 155, 60 Utah 153.

10 C.J. p. 451 note 89.

44. Iowa.—Barris v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 71 N.W. 339, 102 Iowa 375, 63 Am.S.R. 449.

10 C.J. p. 451 note 90.

45. Colo.—Bonfils v. Public Utilities Commission of Colorado, 189 P. 775, 67 Colo. 563.

Ky.—Southern Ry. Co. of Kentucky v. Frankfort Distillery, 26 S.W.2d 1025, 233 Ky. 771, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 75, 282 U.S. 868, 75 L.Ed. 767.

Neb.—Central Bridge & Construction Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 262 N.W. 852, 129 Neb. 726.

46. Ill.—Des Plaines Lumber & Coal Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 249 Ill.App. 383.

Wash.—Hewitt Logging Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 166 P. 1153, 97 Wash. 597.

47. U.S.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Sauk River Lumber Co., C.C.A. Wash., 82 F.2d 519, certiorari denied Sauk River Lumber Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 57 S.Ct. 10, 299 U.S. 547, 81 L.Ed. 403—Woodrich v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., C.C.A.N.D., 71 F.2d 732, 97 A.L.R. 401.

Ill.—Medusa Portland Cement Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 5 N.E.2d 782, 287 Ill.App. 549.

after a refund or reparation order is obtained he may then bring an action to enforce the same in accordance with the provisions of the applicable statute providing for such an action.[48] Such statutes do not affect the right to maintain a common-law action to recover overcharges in excess of the lawfully established rate,[49] and it has been held that a bond given, in accordance with statute, to secure repayment of any excess collected during the stay of an order fixing the rate while its validity is contested provides merely an additional or cumulative remedy which does not preclude a common-law action independently of the bond.[50] Statutes making the filed rates of the carrier the only lawful and proper rates to be charged until changed by the commission, and containing no provision permitting the commission to order a refund, have been held to provide an exclusive remedy and completely abrogate any right to bring a court action to recover alleged unreasonable charges which are in accordance with the rates on file.[51] Under a statute empowering a state commission to fix rates and hear complaints, and giving the person aggrieved by rates the right to complain and to recover excess charges paid, the common-law remedy is not saved, and one who has made no complaint to the commission cannot recover excess charges;[52] and the fact that another shipper had made complaint to the commission which had found the charges excessive and had ordered their reduction does not relieve a shipper, suing to recover excess charges paid under the former rates from making complaint thereof to the commission.[53]

A statute providing for recovery of damages produced by violation of any rule or regulation made by the state regulatory commission, gives a right of action for the recovery of charges paid on intrastate shipments in excess of the rates and tariff fixed by the state commission;[54] but a statute imposing liability for mere nonfeasance in omitting to do any act required by an order of the commission does not impose liability for the positive acts of charging and collecting freight in excess of the rates and tariffs fixed by the commission.[55]

Under Interstate Commerce Act. The right to maintain an action at common law to recover the excess of freight charged on an interstate shipment, over the duly published or established rate

Ky.—Southern Ry. Co. of Kentucky v Frankfort Distillery, 26 S W.2d 1025, 233 Ky. 771, certiorari denied 51 S Ct. 75, 282 U S 868, 75 L.Ed 767.

Miss—E. L Young Heading Co. v. Payne, 89 So. 782, 127 Miss. 48.

N M—Kemp Lumber Co. v. Atchison, T. & S F. Ry. Co., 9 P.2d 387, 36 N M. 126.

Wash—Belcher v. Tacoma Eastern R. Co., 168 P. 782, 99 Wash. 34.

Order held insufficient

Order of department of public works notifying carrier to pay to department as reparation all sums in excess of stated amount paid by shipper to carrier on logs shipped between certain dates, together with interest, but not determining amount of such excess, was held insufficient basis for shipper's action to recover alleged overcharge.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Sauk River Lumber Co, C.C A Wash, 82 F.2d 519, certiorari denied Sauk River Lumber Co v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 57 S.Ct 10, 299 U S. 547, 81 L.Ed. 403.

Reduction of award on rehearing

Where order was made by commerce commission determining railroad rate charged shipper to be unreasonable and discriminatory and on rehearing commission made new order determining amount to be returned to shipper, which was less than amount due under original order, shipper which accepted amount repaid in compliance with second order was held not entitled subsequently to bring common-law action against carrier for excessive amount charged, based on commission's first order—Medusa Portland Cement Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 5 N.E 2d 782, 287 Ill App 549.

Statute saving common law remedies

A provision, similar to that found in the Interstate Commerce Act and providing that "Nothing in this act shall in any way abridge or alter the remedies now existing at common law or by statute, but the provisions thereof are in addition to such remedies," has been held not to prevent the abrogation of common-law actions to recover allegedly unreasonable rates where they are charged in accordance with filed schedules—Woodrich v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., C C A.N.D., 71 F 2d 732, 97 A.L R. 401.

Statute so abrogating common law remedy held valid

Wash—Hewitt Logging Co. v. Northern Pac Ry. Co., 166 P. 1153, 97 Wash 597.

48. U S—Sauk River Lumber Co v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., D C. Wash., 56 F 2d 656

Me—S. D Warren Co. v. Maine Cent. R. Co, 135 A. 526, 126 Me. 23

Pa—Allegheny Steel Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 188 A. 332, 324 Pa. 353.

49. Ill—A. L Jones Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 213 Ill.App. 283.

Mich—Fletcher Paper Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co, 164 N.W. 528, 198 Mich. 469, affirmed Detroit & M. R. Co. v. Fletcher Paper Co., 39 S Ct. 13, 248 U S 30, 63 L Ed 107.

Neb—Central Bridge & Construction Co. v. Chicago & N. W Ry. Co, 262 N.W. 852, 129 Neb 726.

50. Ohio—Big 4 Coal Co. v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co, 11 Ohio App 88.

51. Mo—Sonken-Galamba Corporation v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 40 S W 2d 524, 225 Mo App. 1066.

N Y—Purcell v New York Cent. R Co., 197 N.E 182, 268 N Y. 164, affirming 275 N Y S 70, 242 App. Div. 292, and certiorari denied 56 S Ct 173, 296 U S 545, 80 L Ed. 387.

52. Mass.—Gurney Heater Mfg. Co. v. New York, N. H & H. R. Co, 162 N E. 897, 264 Mass 427.
10 C.J p 451 note 91.

Corpus Juris cited in E. L. Young Heading Co v. Payne, 89 So. 782, 786, 127 Miss. 48.

53. Wis—Frank A. Graham Ice Co. v. Chicago, etc, R. Co., 140 N.W. 1097, 153 Wis. 145.

54. Ga—Atlantic Log & Export Co v Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 155 S E. 525, 171 Ga. 175, answers to certified questions conformed to 155 S.E. 530, 42 Ga.App. 256.

55. Ga—Atlantic Log & Export Co. v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., supra.

is not affected by any of the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act;[56] and it has been held that a charge in excess of the rate fixed by contract between the parties may be recovered as an overcharge where the rate in accordance with which the charge is made is not on file with, or approved by, the interstate commerce commission.[57] The common-law right to recover the difference between the amount of a reasonable charge and the amount of an exorbitant charge coercively exacted by a carrier still remains,[58] but, if the charges have been made in accordance with filed and published rates, the common-law remedy for the enforcement of such right is abrogated, and the enforcement thereof is dependent upon the injured party's first filing a timely complaint with the interstate commerce commission and obtaining a finding by that body that the rate charged was unreasonable, and the amount of the overcharge.[59] In a common-law action the only question between the shipper and the carrier is what were the legal published rates and regulations, and not what they should have been.[60] A prior application to the commission is necessary not only where the overcharge is asserted because of the alleged unreasonableness of the rate but where the alleged overcharge is due to the alleged unreasonable practice of the carrier in sending the shipment over the longer and more expensive of two available routes one of which is interstate and the other intra-state.[61] Excessive charges may be recovered by common-law action, however, where the carrier has failed to post, file, and establish a rate as required by the act;[62] and, if a reparation order finding the scheduled rates unreasonable has been obtained in accordance with the rules stated in § 309, then a court action may be brought to enforce the award or to recover the overcharge found by the commission to exist.[63]

Under provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act requiring that a carrier's charges be just and reasonable, and providing that a person injured by the carrier's violation of any of the provisions of the act may recover the actual damages sustained, it is well established that the exaction of an unreasonable and exorbitant charge constitutes a tort,[64] and justifies a recovery of the difference between an ex-

56. U S—Macon, D. & S R Co v General Reduction Co., C C A Ga, 44 F 2d 499, certiorari denied 51 S Ct. 345, 283 U S 821, 75 L Ed 1436

Mo—Mobile & O R. Co. v. Southern Sawmill Co, 251 S.W. 434, 212 Mo App. 117.

S C—Huddy v Railway Express Agency, 188 S E. 247, 181 S.C. 508.

10 C.J. p 451 note 93.

Corpus Juris quoted in Kemp Lumber Co. v Atchison, T & S. F Ry. Co, 9 P 2d 387, 391, 36 N M 126.

57. Tex—Bowers v Missouri, K & T Ry Co of Texas, Civ App., 241 S W. 509

58. U.S.—Swift & Co. v. New York Cent R Co, C C A N.Y, 16 F 2d 17, reversing, D C, 3 F.2d 826—Cocke v Morgan's Louisiana & Texas R. & S S. Co, C C A.Miss, 4 F.2d 961, certiorari granted Morgan's Louisiana & Texas R. & S S Co. v. Cocke, 45 S Ct 639, 268 U S 685, 69 L Ed. 1156, and reversed on other grounds 47 S Ct. 342, 273 U.S. 656, 71 L Ed 825

59. U S.—Lewis-Simas-Jones Co. v Southern Pac. Co, 51 S.Ct. 592, 283 U S 654, 75 L Ed. 1333, reversing 289 P. 643, 106 Cal App. 437, certiorari granted 51 S.Ct. 102, 282 U.S. 833, 75 L Ed. 741—Spiller v. St. Louis & S F. R. Co, C.C A. Mo, 14 F 2d 284, reversing, D.C., North American Co. v St. Louis & S. F. R. Co, 288 F. 612, and certiorari granted St. Louis & S. F R. Co. v. Spiller, 47 S.Ct. 111, 273 U. S. 680, 71 L Ed. 837, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds, St. Louis & S. F. R. Co v. Spiller, 47 S Ct. 635, 274 U S 304, 71 L Ed 1060, motion denied 48 S.Ct 96, 275 U.S 156, 72 L Ed 214.

Okl—Chicago, R I. & P. Ry. Co. v Gist, 190 P 878, 79 Okl. 8.

10 C J p 451 note 94.

Corpus Juris quoted in Kemp Lumber Co v. Atchison. T & S. F Ry. Co., 9 P.2d 387, 391, 36 N M. 126.

Provision saving common-law remedies

A provision of the Interstate Commerce Act, that nothing therein "shall in any way abridge or alter the remedies now existing at common law or by statute, but the provisions of this act are in addition to such remedies," cannot be construed as continuing in the shippers a common-law right, the continued existence of which would be absolutely inconsistent with the other provisions of the statute—Texas, etc., R. Co v. Abilene Cotton Oil Co., 27 S Ct. 350, 204 U.S 426, 51 L Ed. 553, 9 Ann.Cas. 1075, reversing 85 S.W. 1052, 38 Tex Civ.App. 366.

60. U.S.—Carson Lumber Co. v. St. Louis, etc, R Co, D C.Okl, 198 F 311, affirmed 209 F. 191, 126 C.C A 139.

61. U S—Northern Pac. R. Co. v Solum, 38 S Ct. 550, 247 U S 477, 62 L Ed. 1221, reversing Monarch Elevator Co. v Northern Pac. Ry Co, 157 N.W. 998, 133 Minn. 461, and Solum v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co, 157 N.W 996, 133 Minn. 93.

62. U.S—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v Lewellen, Tex, 192 F. 540, 113 C C A. 414, certiorari denied 32 S.Ct 835, 225 U.S. 701, 56 L Ed 1264.

10 C J. p 452 note 95.

63. U S—Lewis-Simas-Jones Co. v Southern Pac. Co. 51 S.Ct. 592, 283 U S. 654, 75 L.Ed. 1333, reversing 289 P. 643, 106 Cal.App. 437, certiorari granted 51 S.Ct. 102, 282 U. S 833, 75 L Ed 741.

64. U.S—Adams v Mills, Ill, 52 S. Ct 589, 286 U S. 397, 76 L.Ed. 1184, reversing, C C.A., Adams v. Mellon, 51 F.2d 620, affirming, D. C, 39 F.2d 80, and certiorari granted 52 S Ct. 208, 284 U S. 614, 76 L Ed. 525—Lewis-Simas-Jones Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 51 S.Ct. 592, 283 U.S. 654, 75 L Ed. 1333, reversing 289 P 643, 106 Cal.App. 437, certiorari granted 51 S Ct. 102, 282 U S. 833, 75 L Ed. 741—Great Northern Ry. Co v Sullivan, C.C A Minn, 72 F.2d 587, certiorari granted 55 S Ct. 216, 293 U S. 551, 79 L.Ed 654, reversed on other grounds 55 S Ct. 472, 294 U S. 458, 79 L.Ed. 992—Spiller v. St. Louis & S F R. Co., C.C.A. Mo, 14 F.2d 284, reversing, D.C., North American Co. v. St. Louis & S F. R. Co., 288 F. 612, and certiorari granted St Louis & S. F. R Co. v. Spiller, 47 S.Ct. 111, 273 U S. 680, 71 L.Ed 837, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds St Louis & S. F.

cessive or unlawful charge and a reasonable or lawful one.[65] Also, where a charge is collected which is not provided for in the schedule or tariff as required by the act, recovery may be had for the difference between a reasonable charge and the charge collected;[66] but only the excess over a reasonable charge for the service may be recovered.[67] Before an action can be maintained for damages alleged to have been caused by the exaction of excessive rates,[68] or charges not provided for in the schedule or tariff,[69] the reasonableness of the rate or charge exacted must first be passed on and determined by the interstate commerce commission. If the commission determines that the rates charged were not unreasonable no recovery can be had.[70] Where a through charge for an international shipment is reasonable as a whole, the shipper has no right to recover damages or an alleged excess from the United States carrier on the ground that its proportional of the through rate is unreasonable and it receives an undue proportion of the charges.[71]

§ 321. What Constitutes an Overcharge

Where the rates have been fixed by law, there usually is, and can be, a recoverable overcharge only to the extent that the charges exceed the rates so fixed, but, if the rates have not been so fixed, an overcharge may consist of an excess over the charge fixed by contract or a reasonable charge

Practically any charge in excess of the amount which the carrier is entitled to collect, under the rules stated in §§ 312–314 supra, constitutes an overcharge to the extent of the excess,[72] while sums which the carrier was lawfully entitled to collect cannot ordinarily be recovered as an overcharge,[73] although they were in excess of the rates charged a favored shipper.[74] Thus, there may be an over-

R Co. v. Spiller, 47 S.Ct. 635, 274 U.S. 304, 71 L.Ed. 1060, motion denied 48 S.Ct. 96, 275 U.S. 156, 72 L.Ed. 214—Jones v. Alton & S. R. Co., D.C.Ill., 6 F.Supp. 807.

65. U.S.—Lewis-Simas-Jones Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 51 S.Ct. 592, 283 U.S. 654, 75 L.Ed. 1333, reversing 289 P. 643, 106 Cal.App. 437, certiorari granted 51 S.Ct. 102, 282 U.S. 833, 75 L.Ed. 741—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Sullivan, C.C.A.Minn., 72 F.2d 587, certiorari granted 55 S.Ct. 216, 293 U.S. 551, 79 L.Ed. 654, reversed on other grounds 55 S.Ct. 472, 294 U.S. 458, 79 L.Ed. 992—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co., C.C.A.Ala., 295 F. 53, affirmed 46 S.Ct. 73, 269 U.S. 217, 70 L.Ed. 242

66. U.S.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Sullivan, Minn., 55 S.Ct. 472, 294 U.S. 458, 79 L.Ed. 654, reversing, C.C.A., 72 F.2d 587, certiorari granted 55 S.Ct. 216, 293 U.S. 551, 79 L.Ed. 654—Aron v. Pennsylvania R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 80 F.2d 100, 103 A.L.R. 1367, affirming, D.C., 10 F.Supp. 756, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 680, 298 U.S. 658, 80 L.Ed. 1384.

67. U.S.—Aron v. Pennsylvania R. Co., supra
10 C.J. p. 501 note 90 [a].

68. U.S.—Lewis-Simas-Jones Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 51 S.Ct. 592, 283 U.S. 654, 75 L.Ed. 1333, reversing 289 P. 643, 106 Cal.App. 437, certiorari granted 51 S.Ct. 102, 282 U.S. 833, 75 L.Ed. 741

69. U.S.—Aron v. Pennsylvania R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 80 F.2d 100, 103 A.L.R. 1367, affirming, D.C., 10 F. Supp. 756, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 680, 298 U.S. 658, 80 L.Ed. 1384.

70. U.S.—Aron v. Pennsylvania R. Co., supra

71. U.S.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Sullivan, Minn., 55 S.Ct. 472, 294 U.S. 458, 79 L.Ed. 992, reversing, C.C.A., 72 F.2d 587, certiorari granted 55 S.Ct. 216, 293 U.S. 551, 79 L.Ed. 651

72. U.S.—International Milling Co. v. Lowden, C.C.A.Miss., 91 F.2d 270.
Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Fields Bros., 203 S.W. 1036, 134 Ark. 273.
Iowa.—Miller v. Davis, 240 N.W. 743, 213 Iowa 1001, 78 A.L.R. 1541.
Mich.—Fletcher Paper Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 164 N.W. 528, 198 Mich. 469, affirmed Detroit & M. R. Co. v. Fletcher Paper Co., 39 S.Ct. 13, 248 U.S. 30, 63 L.Ed. 107.
Neb.—Central Bridge & Construction Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 262 N.W. 852, 129 Neb. 726.

Acquiescence or continued habit or course of conduct between shipper and railroad would not operate to relieve railroad from its obligation to furnish service at the applicable tariff rates.—Louisville Water Co. v. Louisville, H. & St. L. Ry. Co., 110 S.W.2d 668, 270 Ky. 833.

73. Fla.—Henderson v. Hines, 98 So. 333, 86 Fla. 494.
Ga.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. Lumberman's Co., 149 S.E. 128, 168 Ga. 851, reversing Lumberman's Co. v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 139 S.E. 116, 37 Ga.App. 176, vacated 149 S.E. 303, 40 Ga.App. 238, conformed to 149 S.E. 303, 40 Ga.App. 238.
Kan.—Goffee & Carkener v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 276 P. 834, 128 Kan. 245.
Neb.—Fred F. Shields Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 276 N.W. 925.
S.C.—Gibbes Machinery Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 93 S.E. 718, 108 S.C. 159

Additional charges agreed on
When unexpected difficulties occur in the transportation of property by a carrier, and the consignor agrees, in view of them, to pay a sum for the carriage, in addition to what had previously been fixed on, and pays the same, he cannot recover it back as paid without consideration.—Detroit, etc., R. Co. v. McKenzie, 5 N.W. 1031, 43 Mich. 609.

Charges of connecting carrier
A consignee is bound on an implied contract to reimburse a forwarding line for demurrage charges which it was obliged to pay to a connecting railroad, and cannot complain of such charges as an overcharge.—Quanah, etc., R. Co. v. Drummond, Tex.Civ.App., 147 S.W. 728.

74. Wash.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. Department of Public Works, 275 P. 87, 89, 151 Wash. 142.
'Mere discrimination, it seems to us, is not of itself sufficient to call for reparation, however much it may call for some other relief or disciplinary measures against the offending carrier. The right of reparation in favor of a complaining shipper, as we understand the law in this state, results only from an overcharge exacted from the complaining shipper, and not from an insufficient charge made to some other favored shipper. If this is not the law, then a carrier's giving a rebate, or making less than a regular tariff shipping charge, to a favored shipper, would mean that the offending carrier would have to make reparation accordingly to all shippers who had paid the regular, charge because the rate or charge applied violates a contract between the parties,[75] is unreasonable,[76] is above the lawful tariff rate[77] or in excess of the rate fixed by law,[78] because an error was made by the carrier in the figuring of the mileage covered by the carriage,[79] more goods were charged for than were actually carried,[80] the charges were computed on the basis of a weight which was inaccurate and improper,[81] the charges included an additional charge for an item or service for which the carrier is not entitled to be compensated,[82] or because the carrier has shipped the goods over a longer route and charged the tariff rate therefor when a shorter and cheaper route was available.[83] A charge in excess of the lawfully established rate is an overcharge which may be recovered back, although it is collected pending a contest by the carrier of the validity of the rate so fixed,[84] and the enforcement of the rate has been enjoined or stayed during that period.[85] On the other hand, a charge made in accordance with the rates fixed by the lawful rate-making authority cannot generally be said to constitute an overcharge,[86] although such authority subsequently determines that it is excessive,[87] or the legally established tariff during the same period, the shipments being accompanied by the same conditions." — Oregon-Washington R & Nav Co v. Department of Public Works, supra.

75. Ala.—Southern R. Co. v. Lowe, 54 So. 51, 170 Ala. 598

76. N.Y.—Purcell v New York Cent. R. Co., 197 N.E. 182, 268 N.Y. 164, affirming 275 N.Y.S. 70, 242 App.Div. 292, and certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 173, 296 U.S. 545, 80 L.Ed. 387.

77. Mo.—Greenslade Oil Co. v. Roxana Petroleum Corporation, App., 6 S.W.2d 1020.

Ohio.—Beeghly v. Public Utilities Commission, 135 N.E. 641, 104 Ohio St. 158 — Taylor-Williams Coal Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, 119 N.E. 459, 97 Ohio St. 234—Crook v. Baltimore & O.R. Co., 167 N.E. 899, 32 Ohio App. 263.

Or.—Black v. Southern Pac. Co., 171 P. 878, 88 Or. 533

46 C.J. p. 1161 note 33.

78. Ala.—Western Ry. of Alabama v. Montgomery County, 153 So. 622, 228 Ala. 426.

Kan.—Ft. Morgan Bean Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q.R. Co., 288 P. 589, 130 Kan. 859, affirmed 293 P. 526, 131 Kan. 679.

La.—McAdams v. Wells Fargo & Co. Express, 71 So. 945, 139 La. 681.

Mich.—Fletcher Paper Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 164 N.W. 528, 198 Mich. 469, affirmed Detroit & M.R. Co. v. Fletcher Paper Co., 39 S.Ct. 13, 248 U.S. 30, 63 L.Ed. 107

N.D.—C.L. Merrick Co. v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S.S.M. Ry. Co., 160 N.W. 140, 35 N.D. 331, error dismissed 41 S.Ct. 142, 254 U.S. 376, 65 L.Ed. 312

10 C.J. p. 452 note 2—46 C.J. p. 1161 note 34.

79. Neb.—Central Bridge & Construction Co. v. Chicago & N.W. Ry. Co., 262 N.W. 852, 129 Neb. 726.

80. Iowa.—Coad v. Pennsylvania Ry. Co., 175 N.W. 344, 187 Iowa 1025.

Negligence unnecessary

The liability of a carrier for an overcharge, resulting from its having charged for more goods than it actually carried, is not affected by the fact that the absence of the excess goods for which it had charged was in no way due to its negligence.—Coad v. Pennsylvania Ry. Co., 175 N.W. 344, 187 Iowa 1025.

81. Pa.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 124 A. 428, 280 Pa. 297—Brown v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 66 Pa. Super. 483.

Tex.—Gulf, C. & S.F. Ry. Co. v. Minton, Civ.App., 14 S.W.2d 888, reversed on other grounds, Com.App., 24 S.W.2d 12.

Inaccuracy of weight held not established

Tex.—Gulf, C. & S.F. Ry. Co. v. Minton, Com.App., 24 S.W.2d 12, reversing, Civ.App., 14 S.W.2d 888.

82. Ala.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. McWhorter, 108 So. 242, 214 Ala. 472

Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Fields Bros., 203 S.W. 1036, 134 Ark. 73

N.C.—W.L. Hall & Co. v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 91 S.E. 607, 173 N.C. 108.

Tex.—Texas & N.O.R. Co. v. H. & C. Newman, Civ.App., 273 S.W. 335.

Care and feeding of live stock

A shipper of cattle, who is obliged to pay a feed bill in order to obtain possession of them from the carrier, is entitled to recover from the carrier the amount of such bill, with interest, if the cattle were not in fact fed, or if they were fed contrary to the shipper's directions not to feed them en route.—Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Botts, Tex.Civ.App., 70 S.W. 113.

Expenses due to carrier's negligence

Excess freight which the owner of goods is compelled to pay by reason of a misshipment of the goods, due to the negligence of the carrier, is an overcharge for which a recovery may be had.—Read v. Central Vermont R. Co., 86 A. 161, 76 N.H. 555

83. Iowa.—Miller v. Davis, 240 N.W. 743, 213 Iowa 1091, 78 A.L.R. 1541.

However, it has been held, in view of Acts 1909 p. 210 § 2, prohibiting carriage charge greater or less than specified in published rates, that a shipper whose lumber is carried to destination by roundabout, and not by most direct, route cannot recover difference between lawful rate over roundabout route and lower lawful rate over direct route.—Oden-Elliott Lumber Co. v. Louisville & N.R. Co., 79 So. 400, 16 Ala.App. 495, certiorari denied 78 So. 989, 201 Ala. 700.

Lack of published rate for more direct route

Where a carrier sends goods by a more circuitious route and charges the established rates therefor, because there is no published or established rates for the more direct route over which the shipper requests the shipment to be made, there is an overcharge which the shipper is entitled to recover to the extent that the charges for the circuitous route are in excess of what would be a reasonable charge for the direct route.—Swift & Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 16 F.2d 17, reversing, D.C., 3 F.2d 826.

84. Mich.—Fletcher Paper Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 164 N.W. 528, 198 Mich. 469, affirmed Detroit & M.R. Co. v. Fletcher Paper Co., 39 S.Ct. 13, 248 U.S. 30, 63 L.Ed. 107.

85. Mo.—White v. Delano, 191 S.W. 1012, 270 Mo. 16.

Ohio.—Big 4 Coal Co. v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co., 11 Ohio App. 88.

86. U.S.—Woodrich v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., C.C.A.N.D., 71 F.2d 732, 97 A.L.R. 401.

Ohio.—Crook v. Baltimore & O.R. Co., 167 N.E. 899, 32 Ohio App. 263.

87. U.S.—El Paso & S.W.R. Co. v. Arizona Corporation Commission, D.C.Ariz., 51 F.2d 573.

Va.—Mathieson Alkali Works v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 137 S.E. 608, 147 Va. 426.

carrier subsequently requests that it be permitted to reduce such rates;[88] and where, under the statutes of the particular jurisdiction, the rates filed by the carrier are the only lawful rates which may be charged or collected, charges made in accordance therewith are not overcharges, although the filed rates are subsequently determined to be unreasonable.[89] Under the Interstate Commerce Act and state enactments similar thereto, an alleged unreasonable or exorbitant charge, which is in accordance with the scheduled rates or tariffs initiated and filed by the carrier, will not constitute an overcharge,[90] unless it has been so determined by the proper regulatory commission;[91] and this is so, although by mistake of the carrier's agent a rate lower than that filed was quoted to the shipper,[92] or although the parties have contracted for lower rates.[93]

§ 322. Liability of Connecting Carriers for Overcharge

A carrier participating in the carriage of goods over several lines may be liable for overcharges on such shipment where it has collected the same or they have been collected by another carrier as its agent; and, under the Interstate Commerce Act and state statutes similar thereto, all carriers participating in the establishment of a joint rate which is exorbitant and unreasonable are jointly and severally liable for the entirety of the excess charge.

A carrier participating in a carriage over several lines may be subject to liability for overcharges on the shipment where it has collected or received the benefit of the same,[94] another has collected the charges as its agent,[95] or the excessive charge is due to its fault or misconduct,[96] and, under the Interstate Commerce Act and other statutes similar thereto, making the exaction of unreasonable and exorbitant charges a tort for which damages may be recovered, carriers which have participated in the establishment of an unreasonable and exorbitant joint rate are each jointly and severally liable for the entirety of the excess or all damages sustained.[97] A delivering carrier who is a party to a contract of through shipment, made by the initial carrier having authority to make such contract, is Nevertheless, it has been held that, if previously the state supreme court has erroneously construed the applicable statutes as permitting a recovery of the excess over reasonable charges, although the charges made were in accordance with the rates fixed by the commission, a judgment permitting such recovery will be sustained notwithstanding the supreme court reverses itself as to the construction of the statute.—Sunburst Oil & Refining Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 7 P.2d 927, 91 Mont. 216, certiorari granted Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Sunburst Oil & Refining Co., 53 S.Ct. 7, 287 U.S. 580, 77 L.Ed. 508, affirmed 53 S.Ct. 145, 287 U.S. 358, 77 L.Ed. 360, 85 A.L.R. 254.

88. Mont.—Montana Horse Products Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 7 P.2d 919, 91 Mont. 194.

89. N.M.—Kemp Lumber Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 9 P.2d 387, 36 N.M. 126.

Wash.—State ex rel. Standard Oil Co. of California v. Department of Public Works, 53 P.2d 318, 185 Wash. 235.

Different substantive right held not created by amendment dealing with the procedure for the recovery of overcharges.—State ex rel. Standard Oil Co. of California v. Department of Public Works, 53 P.2d 318, 185 Wash. 235.

Retrospective operation of order

Order of Texas railroad commission, recognizing that rates published by agent for director general of railroads had been continuously applied and recognized by the commission, could have no retroactive effect, and hence could not affect rates on shipments theretofore made as respects right to recover alleged overcharge by shipper.—San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co. v. D. M. Picton & Co., Tex.Civ.App., 111 S.W.2d 842, error refused.

90. U.S.—Adams v. Mellon, C.C.A. Ill., 51 F.2d 620, modifying, D.C., 39 F.2d 80, and certiorari granted 52 S.Ct. 208, 284 U.S. 614, 76 L.Ed. 525, reversed on other grounds Adams v. Mills, 52 S.Ct. 589, 286 U.S. 397, 76 L.Ed. 1184.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.2d 662

Miss.—E. L. Young Heading Co. v. Payne, 89 So. 782, 127 Miss. 48

Or.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. Cascade Contract Co., 197 P. 1085, 101 Or. 582, petition denied 200 P. 1034, 101 Or. 582

91. Ky.—Southern Ry. Co. of Kentucky v. Frankfort Distillery, 26 S.W.2d 1025, 233 Ky. 771, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 75, 282 U.S. 868, 75 L.Ed. 767.

92. Ohio.—Cleveland Store Fixture Co. v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 1 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 242

10 C.J. p. 452 note 6.

93. Miss.—Brookhaven Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Mississippi Cent. R. Co., 122 So. 472, 154 Miss. 303

94. U.S.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Sullivan, Minn., 55 S.Ct. 472, 294 U.S. 458, 79 L.Ed. 992, reversing, C.C.A., 72 F.2d 587, certiorari granted 55 S.Ct. 216, 293 U.S. 551, 79 L.Ed. 654

95. U.S.—Ingalls v. Maine Cent. R. Co., D.C.Me., 49 F.2d 631.

96. Pa.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 124 A. 428, 280 Pa. 297.

97. U.S.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Sullivan, Minn., 55 S.Ct. 472, 294 U.S. 458, 79 L.Ed. 992, reversing, C.C.A., 72 F.2d 587, certiorari granted 55 S.Ct. 216, 293 U.S. 551, 79 L.Ed. 654.—Lewis-Simas-Jones Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 51 S.Ct. 592, 283 U.S. 654, 75 L.Ed. 1333, reversing 289 P. 643, 106 Cal.App. 437, certiorari granted 51 S.Ct. 102, 282 U.S. 833, 75 L.Ed. 741.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co., Ala., 46 S.Ct. 73, 269 U.S. 217, 70 L.Ed. 242, affirming, C.C.A., 295 F. 53.—Glens Falls Portland Cement Co. v. Delaware & Hudson Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 66 F.2d 490, affirming, D.C., 55 F.2d 971, and certiorari denied Delaware & Hudson Co. v. Glens Falls Portland Cement Co., 54 S.Ct. 132, 290 U.S. 697, 78 L.Ed. 599.—World Pub. Co. v. Davis, D.C.Okl., 16 F.2d 130, affirmed, C.C.A., Mellon v. World Pub. Co., 20 F.2d 613, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 119, 275 U.S. 561, 72 L.Ed. 426.

W.Va.—Kanawha Black Band Coal Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 148 S.E. 855, 107 W.Va. 469, certiorari denied Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Kanawha Black Band Coal Co., 50 S.Ct. 85, 280 U.S. 602, 74 L.Ed. 647.

Reasons for rule

"It is true that participation in joint rates does not make connecting bound to pay back to the shipper any excess of freight charges received,[98] and it cannot escape liability for excess charges collected, because the railroad commission did not apportion the rates fixed by it between the initial and the delivering carriers, or because when it received the cars from the initial carrier it also received statements of the freight charges at the unlawful rates and paid to the initial carrier a part or all of the excess freight collected.[99] However, a carrier which contracts to transport goods for a certain sum is not liable for the excess over that amount paid by the consignee to the delivering carrier on its refusal to deliver the goods on other terms, where it is not shown that defendant received any part of the sum so collected,[1] and, where no freight charges were paid in advance, but each succeeding carrier advanced to its predecessor the charges up to its own line, so that the terminal carrier collected all charges at destination, plaintiff, in order to recover for an overcharge from the initial carrier, must show that parts of the alleged overcharge by the terminal carrier reached the initial carrier.[2] If the total freight charges paid by the consignee to the last carrier were in excess of the legal charges for transportation by the cheapest route because of a misrouting by the initial carrier, but none of the carriers received more than the lawful rate for carrying the goods over the route by which they were actually sent, the remedy of the consignee is not against the last carrier.[3] A shipper who billed goods through at a guaranteed freight rate, sold them in transit, and changed the delivery accordingly, without the consent of the initial carrier, while the goods were in the hands of connecting carriers, and who expected when the shipment was made so to change the delivery, cannot recover from the initial carrier its proportion of the amount charged by the connecting carriers in excess of the guaranteed rate, but only the difference between the amount received by the initial carrier and the amount it would have received had the goods originally been billed to the points where they were delivered.[4]

§ 323. Actions for Overcharge

a. In general
b. Jurisdiction and venue
c. Conditions precedent
d. Limitations and time to sue
e. Parties
f. Pleadings
g. Evidence
h. Trial
i. Judgment and items or amount of recovery

a. In General

Actions for overcharges are for the most part governed by the rules relating to civil actions generally, and may be in the form either of an action of assumpsit or an action ex delicto.

Under the common law an action of assumpsit as for money had and received is ordinarily regarded as the proper form of action by which to recover back an illegal overcharge exacted by a carrier.[5] carriers partners and that each does not become liable like a partner for every tort of any of the others engaged in the common enterprise. . . . But the establishment of a joint rate by the concurrence of connecting carriers is necessarily the act of each, because the establishment of the rate is done by their joint agreement . . . The liability in the case at bar arises out of the wrongful exaction from the shipper, not out of the unlawful receipt or unjust enrichment by the carrier. Every carrier who participates in the infliction of this wrong is liable in solido like every other joint tort-feasor."—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co., Ala., 46 S.Ct. 73, 78, 269 U.S. 217, 70 L.Ed. 242, affirming, C.C.A., 295 F. 53

International shipment

A United States carrier establishing an excessive joint rate with a Canadian carrier for international shipments is liable for the full amount of the excess collected without regard to the proportion of the charges attributable to the foreign transportation or paid to the foreign carrier.—Lewis-Simas-Jones Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 51 S.Ct. 592, 283 U.S. 654, 75 L.Ed. 1333, reversing 289 P. 643, 106 Cal.App. 437, certiorari granted 51 S.Ct. 102, 282 U.S. 833, 75 L.Ed. 741.

Last carrier

Where by statute recovery of excessive charges is by way of damages as for tort, the last connecting carrier is liable for the entire damage, although the freight charged was for transportation over different lines.—Osborne v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., C.C.Iowa, 48 F. 49, reversed on other grounds 52 F. 912, 3 C.C.A. 347.

98. S.C.—Reynolds v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 62 S.E. 445, 81 S.C. 383.

99. Ind.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Shirk, 104 N.E. 864, 56 Ind.App. 42.

10 C.J. p 453 note 11.

1. Tex.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Henderson, Civ.App., 73 S.W. 36.

2. Iowa.—McManus v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 136 N.W. 769, 156 Iowa 359.

10 C.J. p 453 note 15

3. Ala.—Ex parte Louisville & N. R. Co., 79 So. 139, 201 Ala. 667, reversing Oden-Elliott Lumber Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 77 So. 240, 16 Ala.App. 251.

10 C.J. p 453 note 16.

4. Tex.—Sherman, etc., R. Co. v. Beebe, 39 S.W. 1102, 15 Tex.Civ.App. 685.

5. Ill.—A. L. Jones Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 213 Ill.App. 283

Mich.—Fletcher Paper Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 164 N.W. 528, 198 Mich. 469, affirmed Detroit & M. R. Co. v. Fletcher Paper Co., 39 S.Ct. 13, 248 U.S. 30, 63 L.Ed. 107.

Tex.—Bowers v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ.App., 241 S.W. 509.

Utah.—Jeremy Fuel & Grain Co. v. Denver & R. G. R. Co., 207 P. 155, 60 Utah 153.

10 C.J. p 454 note 36.

Proceedings by shipper or consignee for relief against unreasonable rates see supra § 309.

This form of action has been held to be proper whether the charges are in excess of reasonable rates at common law or of rates prescribed and made prima facie reasonable under statutory authority.[6] In accordance with the general rule that the shipper has an election to bring an action in contract or in tort for the carrier's breach of a duty imposed by law, see the C.J.S. title Actions § 49 e (4), it is held that the party aggrieved is not limited to assumpsit or a contractual action for the overcharge, but may sue in tort.[7] A bill in equity to recover overcharges has been held nonmaintainable on the ground that the liability is purely a legal one,[8] but equity may have jurisdiction where the remedy at law is inadequate;[9] and it has been held that, after a judgment based upon an award has been recovered, an equitable proceeding may properly be brought in aid of the judgment to impress a trust on the excess exactions in the hands of the carrier as a trustee ex maleficio,[10] and that the Interstate Commerce Act does not preclude such remedy.[11]

It has been said that an action under the Interstate Commerce Act and similar state statutes for the recovery of damages resulting from the exaction of unreasonable or exorbitant charges by a carrier is in the nature of a tort or penal action;[12] but it has been held that, if plaintiff so elects, he may waive the tort and sue in assumpsit to recover the excess found by the commission to be an unreasonable charge.[13] The basis of such an action is not the award, which is simply a condition precedent to suit and evidentiary in character, but the original tort or wrong of the carrier in exacting the excessive charges.[14]

Where a state statute providing for reparation awards, and the court procedure to enforce the same, is complete in itself, the remedy afforded thereby is exclusive, and an action for enforcement cannot be brought under other statutory provisions providing for the recovery of damages from carriers failing to comply with applicable laws or regulations.[15]

b. Jurisdiction and Venue

Jurisdiction and venue for actions to recover overcharges are determined by ordinary rules and applicable statutory and constitutional provisions.

If a carrier charges for an interstate shipment more than the rate set out in the published schedule, nothing in the act will prevent the bringing of an action in a state court for the difference between the schedule rate and that charged;[16] and indeed the right of action in the state court is reserved by the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act.[17] Moreover, an action by a shipper of an interstate shipment to recover freight charges paid under protest in excess of the charges specified in the contract of shipment is within the jurisdiction of a state court, where the carrier does not show that any rate was ever filed with, or approved by, the interstate commerce commission or in any manner promulgated as a lawful freight rate.[18] Under the express terms of the Interstate Commerce Act, state courts of general jurisdiction have jurisdiction of actions to recover excessive charges for which an award has been made by the commission.[19] The jurisdiction of the courts of an action to recover an illegal overcharge in plain violation of law is not ousted by statutes establishing commis-

6. Fla.—Cullen v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co, 58 So. 182, 63 Fla. 122.

7. Wis.—Smith v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 5 N.W. 240, 49 Wis. 443.

8. N.J.—Scott v. Erie R. Co., 34 N. J.Eq. 354.
10 C.J. p 454 note 39.

9. U.S.—Standard Oil Co of Kentucky v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, D.C.Ky., 13 F.2d 633, modified on other grounds, C.C.A., Atlantic Coast Line R Co v. Standard Oil Co. of Kentucky, 16 F.2d 441, certiorari granted Standard Oil Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 47 S.Ct 475, 273 U.S. 691, 71 L.Ed. 842, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds Atlantic Coast Line R. Co v. Standard Oil Co, 48 S.Ct. 107, 275 U.S. 257, 72 L.Ed. 270.

10. U.S.—Spiller v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 14 F.2d 284, reversing, D.C., North American Co v. St. Louis & S F. R. Co, 288 F. 612, and certiorari granted St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v Spiller, 47 S.Ct. 111, 273 U.S. 680, 71 L Ed. 837, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds St. Louis & S F R. Co. v. Spiller, 47 S.Ct. 635, 274 U.S. 304, 71 L.Ed. 1060, motion denied 48 S.Ct. 96, 275 U.S. 156, 72 L.Ed 214.

11. U.S.—Spiller v. St Louis & S F. R. Co., supra.

12. U.S.—Ingalls v. Maine Cent R Co., D.C.Me, 49 F.2d 631—Louisville & N. R Co v. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co, C.C.A.Ala, 295 F. 53, affirmed 46 S.Ct. 73, 269 U. S. 217, 70 L.Ed. 242.

13. U.S.—Jones v. Alton & S. R. Co., D.C.Ill., 6 F.Supp. 807.

14. U.S.—Lewis-Simas-Jones Co. v Southern Pac. Co, 51 S.Ct 592, 283 U.S. 654, 75 L.Ed. 1333, reversing 289 P. 643, 106 Cal.App. 437, certiorari granted 51 S.Ct. 102, 282 U.S. 833, 75 L.Ed 741.
D.C.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co., 92 F.2d 292, 67 App.D.C 309.

15. Ill.—Medusa Portland Cement Co v. Illinois Cent R. Co., 5 N.E 2d 782, 287 Ill.App. 549.

16. Ark.—Chicago, etc, R. Co v. Lena Lumber Co., 137 S.W. 562, 99 Ark 105.
10 C.J p 453 note 18.

17. W.Va.—Robinson v. Baltimore, etc, R Co., 63 S.E 323, 64 W. Va 406.

18. Mo.—Mott Store Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R Co., 168 S.W. 322, 184 Mo.App. 50.
10 C.J p 453 note 20.

19. U.S.—Darnell v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., Tenn, 32 S.Ct. 760, 225 U.S. 243, 56 L.Ed. 1072.

sions with power to fix rates and to award reparation;[20] but where an order of the state commission awarding reparation for charges in excess of reasonable rates is reviewable only by the state supreme court, the lower court, in an action to recover the amount of the award, has no jurisdiction to review or annul the order of the commission.[21]

An action to recover an excess of freight charged may be brought in the county in which the contract for shipment was made, although the freight was not paid there;[22] but, under a state venue statute, it has been held that a suit against a carrier which is a foreign corporation can be brought only in the county where the cause of action arose by reason of payment of the overcharge,[23] regardless of whether the action is regarded as ex delicto or ex contractu.[24]

c. Conditions Precedent

All statutory conditions and limitations must be complied with as conditions precedent to suit, but the action may be brought without a prior demand or the doing of other acts not essential to the existence of the right of action.

If payment has been made, no demand for the return of the excessive freight is necessary before bringing action.[25] All lawful conditions and limitations prescribed by statute must be complied with;[26] and as heretofore shown in § 319, under the Interstate Commerce Act and similar state statutes, if the right of action is predicated on the alleged unreasonableness of the established or published rates it is a condition precedent to suit that there first have been reparation proceedings before the commission and a proper order and findings obtained. However, if an action is brought to recover an excess over the rate filed with the interstate commerce commission, no prior application to the interstate commerce commission is necessary,[27] although under the Interstate Commerce Act it is permissible to make such application and thereafter to enforce such award as the commission may make by action brought in the circuit court.[28]

d. Limitations and Time to Sue

Mere delay does not bar the right to bring an action for overcharges, but the action must ordinarily be brought within the time prescribed by the applicable statute of limitations unless the bar has been waived or removed by the making of a new promise.

Unless there is a new promise which is sufficient to remove the statutory bar,[29] an action to recover overcharges must be brought within the period prescribed by the applicable statute of limitations,[30] but if it is commenced within the period thus prescribed the action is generally timely,[31] and mere delay which is not of itself unreasonable or inequitable will not of itself bar the right to bring the action.[32] If the action is based on a statute requiring it to be brought within a specified time after the alleged overcharge is made, the time thus limited is a condition precedent to the suit, and is a part of the right of action, and after it has elapsed the right of action is extinguished.[33] A statute relating 20. Cal.—Southern Pac Co. v. Kern County Super Ct., 150 P. 397, 404, 27 Cal.App 240.

10 C.J. p 453 note 21.

21. Cal.—Carter v. Southern Pac Co., 49 P.2d 1132, 9 Cal.App.2d 290.

22. Ky.—Conn v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 51 S.W. 617, 21 Ky.L. 469.

23. Ga.—Drake v. Davis, 116 S.E. 552, 29 Ga.App. 795
Mont.—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209.

24. Ga.—Drake v. Davis, 116 S.E. 552, 29 Ga.App. 790.

25. Ind.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Shirk, 104 N.E. 864, 56 Ind.App. 42.
10 C.J. p 454 note 31.

26. Ohio.—Crook v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 167 N.E. 899, 32 Ohio App. 263.

27. U.S.—National Pole Co. v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co., Wis., 211 F. 65, 127 C.C.A. 561.
Ark.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. Tonn, 143 S.W. 577, 102 Ark. 20
10 C.J. p 454 note 34.

28. U.S.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Feintuch, Cal., 191 F. 482, 112 C.C.A. 126.

29. Minn.—Big Diamond Milling Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 171 N.W. 799, 142 Minn. 181, 8 A.L.R. 1254.

Conditional promise to pay properly supported claims for overcharges held sufficient to remove bar of statute of limitations with respect to claim which plaintiff attempted to prove to carrier but carrier rejected solely on the ground that it was unable to verify the correctness of the claim due to the destruction of its records.—Big Diamond Milling Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 171 N.W. 799, 142 Minn. 181, 8 A.L.R. 1254.

30. U.S.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Wolf, Mo., 43 S.Ct. 259, 261 U.S. 133, 67 L.Ed. 571, reversing, C.C.A., 272 F. 681.
Cal.—Sunset Pacific Oil Co. v. Los Angeles & S. L. R. Co., 290 P. 434, 110 Cal.App. 773
N.Y.—Cuneo Importing Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 170 N.Y.S. 940.
Wash.—Hewitt v. Logging Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 166 P. 1153, 97 Wash. 597.

31. Neb.—Central Bridge & Construction Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 362 N.W. 852, 129 Neb. 726.
Pa.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 150 A. 480, 300 Pa. 242

32. Pa.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., supra.

Delay of approximately seven years from time of decision of public service commission determining rates charged by carriers to be unlawful to time of bringing suit to recover reparations is not unreasonable.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 150 A. 480, 300 Pa. 242.

33. U.S.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Wolf, Mo., 43 S.Ct. 259, 261 U.S. 133, 67 L.Ed. 571, reversing, C.C.A., 272 F. 681.
Ga.—Atlantic Log & Export Co. v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 155 S.E. 525, 171 Ga. 175, answers to certified questions conformed to 155 S.E. 530, 42 Ga.App. 256.
10 C.J. p 454 note 32.

to or affecting the time within which the attorney general may bring suit for excess charges has no application to an action by a shipper.[34] A statutory limitation on the time complaints must be filed with a state commission for the reparation of excessive charges has been held to have no application to actions for excessive charges filed ab initio in the state courts;[35] and a statute limiting the time for bringing actions to recover triple damages on account of unlawful discrimination or rebates has no application to an action to recover overcharges.[36] However, the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act, which existed prior to amendment by the Transportation Act of 1920, and provided that a complaint or petition for reparation must be filed with the commission within two years after the cause of action accrued and a petition for enforcement of an order of reparation within one year from the date of the order, were held to bar an action for overcharges not brought within two years, although the overcharge consisted of an excess over the filed and published tariff rates so that a prior application to the commission was not essential to the maintenance of the action.[37] Since the amendment, by the addition of § 16(3) (c), 49 U.S.C.A. § 16(3)' (c), an action for overcharges arising out of a violation of the Interstate Commerce Act is timely if brought within three years from the date the cause of action accrued, and if the claim for the overcharge has been sufficiently presented to the carrier in writing within the three-year period the time may be extended six months from the time of the rejection of the claim;[38] but the time for bringing an action which has already been barred by the expiration of the two-year period at the time the amendment took effect is in no way extended by the provisions of § 16(3) (h), although the action is sought to be brought in a state court.[39]

For the purposes of limitations the cause of action is ordinarily regarded as having accrued at the time the freight charges were paid or collected.[40] Thus, the cause of action for charges collected in excess of the rate fixed by the state regulatory body accrues when the overcharges are collected, and the running of the statute of limitations is not tolled pending a contest of the validity of the rate fixed.[41] A statute requiring actions to enforce a reparation order to be brought within a specified time from "the date of the order," has been held not to start running until the date the order becomes of binding effect, so as to be capable of enforcement, although made prior to that time.[42]

As shown in § 309 supra, a complaint or petition for reparation must be filed with the proper commission within the time prescribed by applicable statute; and in an action to enforce a reparation order defendant may defend on the ground that the petition for reparation was not filed with the commission within the time required, although such defense was not raised in the reparation proceeding.[43]

e. Parties

Questions relating to parties are usually resolved in accordance with the general rules relating to that subject. According to most cases, a person who has either paid the charges or ultimately borne the expense of the transportation is a proper party plaintiff to bring the action.

An action to recover overcharges can be maintained only by a proper party in interest.[44] As a general rule, the person who has borne the expenses of the transportation is a proper party plaintiff to bring an action to recover overcharges thereon, either at common law[45] or under statutes permitting damages to be recovered for the exaction of unreasonable or exorbitant charges,[46] but on this

34. Minn.—Big Diamond Milling Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 171 N.W 799, 142 Minn. 181, 8 A.L.R. 1254.

35. Cal.—Sunset Pacific Oil Co. v. Los Angeles & S. L. R Co., 290 P. 434, 110 Cal.App., Supp., 773.

36. Or.—Service Lumber Co. v. Sumpter Valley R. Co, 135 P. 539, 67 Or. 63.

37. U.S.—Kansas City Southern Ry Co. v Wolf, Mo, 43 S Ct 259, 261 U S 133, 67 L Ed. 571, reversing, C C.A, 272 F 681.
Md.—Peninsula Produce Exchange v. New York, P. & N. R., 137 A. 350, 152 Md. 594, affirmed 48 S Ct. 322, 276 U.S 599, 72 L Ed. 724.
S.D.—J. F. Anderson Lumber Co. v. Davis, 212 N.W. 917, 51 S D 146.

38. D.C.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Domestic Hardwoods, 65 F.2d 488, 62 App D C. 142, certiorari denied 54 S.Ct. 64, 290 U S. 647, 78 L Ed 561.

39. Md.—Peninsula Produce Exchange v New York, P. & N. R. Co, 137 A. 350, 152 Md 594, affirmed 48 S Ct. 322, 276 U S. 599, 72 L.Ed 724

40. Pa.—Allegheny Steel Co v. New York Cent. R. Co, 188 A. 332, 324 Pa. 353.

41. Fla.—State v. Florida East Coast Ry., 86 So. 691, 80 Fla. 411.

42. Pa.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co, 150 A. 480, 300 Pa 242.

43. Pa.—Allegheny Steel Co. v. New York Cent. R Co., 188 A. 332, 324 Pa. 353.

44. Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v. Bartlett, Civ App., 75 S W 56

45. Minn.—Jennison Bros. & Co. v. Chicago & N W Ry. Co., 158 N. W. 398, 133 Minn. 268
Mo.—Cobbs v. Joyce-Watkins Co., 228 S W. 504, 287 Mo. 39.
Principal
Where agent purchased and shipped railroad ties to principal who paid freight thereon, the principal, and not the agent, was entitled to recover the excess freight charges.—Joyce-Watkins Co. v. P. R. Walsh Tie & Timber Co., Mo.App., 236 S.W. 1105.

46. U.S.—Gulf, M & N. R. Co. v. Merchants' Specialty Co, C C.A Miss, 50 F.2d 21—Louisville & N. R Co. v. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co., C.C.A.Ala., 295 F. 53, af-latter point there is some authority to the effect that the party who physically pays the freight is the only one who has the cause of action.[47] On the other hand, it is frequently held that a person who has advanced or paid the charges is a proper party to bring the action, although he has been reimbursed or has passed the loss or expense on to another,[48] but as to this there is some contrary authority;[49] and the person bearing the expense is the one ultimately entitled to the overcharges so that if they are recovered or collected by one who has merely advanced or paid them they may in turn be recovered from him by the former.[50]

In accordance with the foregoing, one with whom a contract of carriage is made, and who is described therein as the consignor, consignee, and sole owner, may maintain an action for overcharges.[51] A shipper or consignor who has paid the excess charges is entitled to sue,[52] regardless of whether, in the course of his business, he has recouped the loss or passed it on to others;[53] and a consignor may be a proper party plaintiff to recover an overcharge paid by the consignee, where the freight, pursuant to a contract between the parties, is charged against the consignor as payment on the purchase price.[54] It has been held, however, that a seller of goods who has voluntarily reimbursed the purchaser for storage charges wrongfully exacted by the carrier and paid by the purchaser cannot sue to recover damages on account of the exaction of such charges.[55] A consignee who has paid the charges is entitled to recover an overcharge,[56] although he is a purchaser who has been given credit for the freight on the purchase price,[57] or a commission merchant who reimbursed himself from the proceeds of the sale of the principal's shipment;[58] but if a consignee, who has received a refund on an overcharge has been given credit for the freight charges by the consignor, the latter is entitled to sue the consignee for the overcharges so refunded.[59] However, a statute authorizing the party aggrieved

firmed 46 S.Ct. 73, 269 U.S. 217, 70 L.Ed. 242

Mo.—McGrew Coal Co. v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., 217 S.W. 984, 280 Mo. 466, 13 A.L.R. 283, affirmed Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. McGrew Coal Co., 41 S.Ct. 404, 256 U.S. 134, 65 L.Ed. 864.

47. U.S.—Johnson v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., D.C.Tex., 17 F.Supp. 720.

48. U.S.—Adams v. Mills, Ill., 52 S.Ct. 589, 286 U.S. 397, 76 L.Ed. 1184, reversing, C.C.A., Adams v. Mellon, 51 F.2d 620, affirming, D.C., 39 F. 2d 80, and certiorari granted 52 S.Ct. 208, 284 U.S. 614, 76 L.Ed. 525—Southern Pac. Co. v. Darnell-Taenzer Lumber Co., Tenn., 38 S.Ct. 186, 245 U.S. 531, 62 L.Ed. 451, affirming 229 F. 1022, 143 C.C.A. 663—Consolidated Cut Stone Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., D.C. Okl., 39 F.2d 661, affirmed, C.C.A., Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Consolidated Cut Stone Co., 47 F. 2d 226, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 490, 283 U.S. 843, 75 L.Ed. 1453—New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. v. Ballou & Wright, Or., 242 F. 862, 155 C.C.A. 450.

Colo.—Bonfils v. Public Utilities Commission of Colorado, 189 P. 775, 67 Colo. 563.

49. Ill.—Andalman v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 153 Ill.App. 169.

Vt.—State v. Central Vermont R. Co., 71 A. 193, 81 Vt. 459, 21 L.R.A., N.S., 949.

50. Mo.—Cobbs v. Joyce-Watkins Co., 228 S.W. 504, 287 Mo. 39—Joyce-Watkins Co. v. P. R. Walsh Tie & Timber Co., App., 236 S.W. 1105.

10 C.J. p. 453 note 26.

51. Wis.—Waterman v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 21 N.W. 611, 61 Wis. 464, 50 Am.R. 145.

52. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Vest, D.C.Ky., 39 F.2d 658.

53. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Darnell-Taenzer Lumber Co., Tenn., 38 S.Ct. 186, 245 U.S. 531, 62 L.Ed. 451, affirming 229 F. 1022, 143 C.C.A. 663—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Vest, D.C.Ky., 39 F.2d 658.

Colo.—Bonfils v. Public Utilities Commission of Colorado, 189 P. 775, 67 Colo. 563.

54. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co., C.C.A.Ala., 295 F. 53, affirmed 46 S.Ct. 73, 269 U.S. 217, 70 L.Ed. 242

Va.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Freeman Supply Corporation, 133 S.E. 817, 145 Va. 207.

Assignment from consignee unnecessary

Va.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Freeman Supply Corporation, 133 S.E. 817, 145 Va. 207.

10 C.J. p. 453 note 27.

Effect of contract provision

Where a commodity was sold, to be delivered at destination, freight to be paid by consignee and deducted from the purchase price, a provision of the contract that consignee should have the benefit, or bear the burden, of any change in the freight rate, does not preclude the consignor from recovering reparation on account of an unjust and unreasonable rate charged, where there was no change in the rate making such provision operative.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co., C.C.A.Ala., 295 F. 53, affirmed 46 S.Ct. 73, 269 U.S. 217, 70 L.Ed. 242.

55. Mo.—Luck Const. Co. v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 207 S.W. 840, 200 Mo. App. 450

56. U.S.—Adams v. Mills, Ill., 52 S.Ct. 589, 286 U.S. 397, 76 L.Ed. 1184, reversing, C.C.A., Adams v. Mellon, 51 F.2d 620, affirming, D.C., 39 F.2d 80, and certiorari granted 52 S.Ct. 208, 284 U.S. 614, 76 L.Ed. 525—Gulf, M. & N. R. Co. v. Merchants' Specialty Co., C.C.A.Miss., 50 F.2d 21.

Shipper reimbursed

Overcharges of freight on interstate shipments, although paid by the shipper, may be recovered by the consignee, under reparation orders of the interstate commerce commission, where the consignee has reimbursed the shipper and bears the burden of the unlawful charge.—Gabbert v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Tex., 93 F.2d 562, reversing Johnson v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 17 F. Supp. 720

57. U.S.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Consolidated Cut Stone Co., C.C.A.Okl., 47 F.2d 226, affirming, D.C., Consolidated Cut Stone Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 39 F. 2d 661, and certiorari denied Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Consolidated Cut Stone Co., 51 S.Ct. 490, 283 U.S. 843, 75 L.Ed. 1453.

58. U.S.—Adams v. Mills, Ill., 52 S. Ct. 589, 286 U.S. 397, 76 L.Ed. 1184, reversing, C.C.A., Adams v. Mellon, 51 F.2d 620, affirming, D.C., 39 F. 2d 80, and certiorari granted 52 S.Ct. 208, 284 U.S. 614, 76 L.Ed. 525.

59. Minn.—Jennison Bros. & Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 158 N.W. 398, 133 Minn. 268.

to recover from a carrier an overcharge for freight has been held not to permit a buyer to sue a carrier for an overcharge collected from the seller for transporting the goods, and included by the seller in the price, and paid to him by the buyer.[60]

A statute providing that all persons having an interest in the subject of the action and in obtaining the relief demanded may be joined as plaintiffs does not permit several persons having distinct and separate claims against a carrier for overcharges to join as plaintiffs in a suit in equity to impress a trust on the property and assets of the carrier, whether to prevent a multiplicity of suits or otherwise.[61] Where, pending the determination by the United States supreme court of the validity of state statutes fixing the maximum railroad rates for intra-state transportation, a railroad exacted rates in excess of those fixed by the statutes, the state, suing, after determination of the validity of the rate statutes, in its private capacity on the relation of the attorney-general, to recover the excessive charges paid by it, cannot join as parties plaintiff with it private parties likewise charged excessive rates, praying a general accounting against the road to impound all excess charges exacted during the period of the illegal rates, since, while the state may maintain such a suit by itself in its private capacity, when it does so it is bound by the established rules of pleading and practice, as any private litigant, and each illegal exaction gives rise to an individual right of action, several or all of which may not be joined.[62]

Defendants. The liability of the delivering carrier, in an action to recover excess freight charges collected by it, does not depend on whether the terminal and initial carriers were joint tort-feasors; and hence the initial carrier need not be joined as a defendant in such action.[63] It has been held that an intermediate carrier, which did not participate in the fixing of the combination rates fixed by the initial and terminal carriers, but which has received compensation from the charges made by the other carriers and paid by plaintiff, is a proper and necessary party defendant to an action to recover the overcharges so paid.[64] Where the assets of the carrier which made the overcharge, and against whom the order of reparation was entered, have been taken over by another carrier which has assumed and agreed to pay its liabilities the latter carrier may, with the permission of the court, properly be made a party defendant.[65]

f. Pleadings

The form and sufficiency of the pleadings and other matters of pleading, such as issues, proof and variance, are governed by the ordinary rules.

It is generally essential that the petition, declaration, or complaint of plaintiff sufficiently allege all facts necessary to state a cause of action and show his right to recover,[66] and if it does this that is usually all that is required.[67] It is not necessary to allege that a demand was made before suit[68] but the declaration or complaint must state or show that the charge collected was excessive or unlawful,[69] and either that plaintiff paid the excessive

60. Vt.—State v. Central Vermont R Co., 71 A. 193, 81 Vt. 459, 21 L R.A.,N S., 949.

61. Mo.—Ballew Lumber & Hardware Co. v. Missouri Pac Ry. Co., 232 S.W. 1015, 288 Mo. 473

62. Mo.—State v. Chicago, etc, R. Co., 178 S W 129, 265 Mo 646, L. R A.1916C 309

63. Ind.—Baltimore, etc, R Co. v. Shirk, 104 N.E. 864, 56 Ind App 42.

64. U S.—Hygrade Food Products Corporation v. Chicago, M, St. P. & P R Co., D C.N Y, 10 F.Supp 767, reversed on other grounds, C C.A., 85 F 2d 113.

65. U S.—Jones v Alton & S. R. Co, D.C.Ill., 6 F Supp. 807.

66. U S—Northern Pac Ry. Co. v Sauk River Lumber Co., C C A Wash, 82 F.2d 519, certiorari denied Sauk River Lumber Co v Northern Pac Ry Co, 57 S Ct 10, 299 U.S. 547, 81 L Ed 403—Louisville & N. R Co. v Hussey-Hobbs Tie Co., C C A Mo., 47 F.2d 1061.

Ga.—Payne v. Monroe, 110 S E. 34, 28 Ga App. 6

Idaho.—Campbell v. Oregon Short Line R Co., 275 P. 576, 47 Idaho 223.

Or.—Crown Mills v. Oregon Electric Ry Co., 21 P 2d 214, 144 Or 25.

Pa.—Campbell Coal & Coke Co v Pennsylvania R Co, 142 A 210, 293 Pa. 243—Shenango Limestone Co v Buffalo, R & P. Ry Co, 105 A. 558, 262 Pa 446

Compliance with tariff provisions

In an action by a shipper to recover a rebate allowed by a tariff, upon the production of evidence satisfactory to the carrier that coal shipped thereunder has been placed in government naval vessels, the shipper must allege and prove either that the carrier was satisfied with the evidence produced or that its dissatisfaction therewith was arbitrary or capricious.—Campbell Coal & Coke Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 142 A. 210, 293 Pa. 243

67. Ga.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co v Daugherty-McKey & Co., 149 S E. 92, 40 Ga App. 190.

Miss.—Southern Ry. Co in Mississippi v. Buckeye Cotton Oil Co, 89 So 228, 126 Miss. 562

10 C.J p 454 note 40 [a], [b].

Unnecessary allegations

In an action against a carrier to recover demurrage charges paid under protest, it is not necessary to allege that demurrage has been exacted in excess of the amount due under the interstate commerce commission rules where the cause of action was not for excessive demurrage but to recover demurrage improperly exacted.—Meyer v. Central R. Co of New Jersey, 174 N Y.S 93, 185 App. Div. 812

68. Ind.—Baltimore, etc., R Co v. Shirk, 104 N E 864, 56 Ind App. 42

69. Ga.—Southern Ry. Co. v Morris, 95 S E 284, 147 Ga 729, reversing Morris v Southern Ry. Co., 91 S E 878, 19 Ga App. 495, conformed to 95 S.E. 741, 22 Ga App. 154.

Mo.—Sonken-Galamba Corporation v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 40 S.W.2d 524, 225 Mo.App. 1066.

rate or that it was paid by some one for him;[70] and if the action for overcharge is based on a statute, the declaration must state every fact necessary to constitute a cause of action within the statute.[71] In an action to recover charges asserted to be in excess of lawful interstate rates, plaintiff must, by clear and unmistakable allegations, show that the rates alleged to be the proper ones were properly established and filed with the interstate commerce commission.[72] An allegation that, if the rate charged was the true tariff rate, then defendant, through its agent, falsely and wrongfully stated the rate to plaintiff at a lesser sum, which he paid at the time of making the shipment, was consistent with the fact that the agent made a mistake or gave a lower rate to favor plaintiff, in either of which events the rate would be "false" and "wrongful."[73] In an action to recover for overcharges on an interstate shipment for which an award of damages has been made by the interstate commerce commission, an allegation that such charges were unjust, unreasonable, and in violation of law is one largely of fact and is sufficiently specific as against a general demurrer.[74] Under a statute providing that, if an award for overcharges by a railroad commission is not satisfied within ten days, the chairman shall file a copy of the award in the circuit court and a summons shall be issued as in other cases, the copy of the award is a sufficient basis for the action, and a petition need not be filed.[75]

The answer of defendant must usually allege sufficient facts to constitute a defense;[76] but an affidavit of defense which does this is sufficient to prevent the entry of a judgment against defendant for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense.[77]

Joinder of causes. A complaint that plaintiff who was compelled to ship his lumber over defendant's road was charged excessive and unreasonable rates and more than those to competing shippers sought only to recover money had and received in the form of freight overcharges, and was not an action for damages for discrimination between shippers, and hence was not objectionable as stating two causes of action or joining them in one count.[78] It has been held that where several shipments and overcharges have been made each transaction constitutes a separate cause of action and should be separately stated and numbered in plaintiff's pleading in order that the issue of alleged overcharge may be met with respect to each cause of action.[79]

Striking out averments. Where evidence as to the rate on logs was admissible in determining the reasonableness of the rate on lumber, the allegation in a shipper's action to recover overcharges on lumber that shippers of logs were charged a lesser rate was merely a pleading of evidence, and, redundancy not having been urged, the court below was justified in overruling the motion to strike out such allegation as immaterial.[80]

Variance. The general rule requiring the proof to conform with the pleading applies in actions of this nature.[81] Where, after a carrier quoted a rate on an interstate shipment and the animals to be transported were loaded in cars, the carrier quoted a higher rate which the shipper paid under protest, in an action for excess charges defendant cannot show under the general issue that the rate first quoted was less than the established rate and therefore illegal.[82] It has been held, however, that defendant may show and rely on the fact that the contract relied upon to establish the excessiveness of the charge is illegal as being in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act, although the defense of illegality is not alleged or pleaded in the answer.[83]

70. U.S.—Davis v. Mobile & O. R. Co., Miss., 194 F. 374, 114 C.C.A. 8. 10 C.J. p 454 note 41.

71. Mont.—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209. 10 C.J. p 455 note 43

72. U.S.—Bushwick McPhilben Corporation v. Bush Terminal R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Supp. 684.

73. Iowa.—Herminghausen v. Adams Express Co., 149 N.W. 234, 167 Iowa 230.

74. U.S.—Denver & R.G.R. Co. v. Baer Bros. Mercantile Co., Colo., 209 F. 577, 126 C.C.A. 399

75. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Greenbrier Distillery Co., 187 S.W. 296, 170 Ky. 775.

76. N.Y.—Meyer v. Central R. Co. of New Jersey, 174 N.Y.S. 93, 185 App.Div. 812.

Averments insufficient

Under Ky.St. § 829, averments of want of evidence before the railroad commission to support its findings, or of evidence that the shipper suffered damages in the amount of the award, did not constitute a defense to recovery of judgment on the award, since the amount paid was a proper inquiry in the trial court, and, if put in issue, the carrier would have been entitled to a jury trial.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Greenbrier Distillery Co., 187 S.W. 296, 170 Ky. 775.

77. Pa.—Campbell Coal & Coke Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 135 A. 650, 288 Pa. 36.

78. Or.—Service Lumber Co. v. Sumpter Valley R. Co., 135 P. 539, 67 Or. 63

79. U.S.—Bushwick McPhilben Corporation v. Bush Terminal R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 8 F.Supp. 684.

80. Or.—Service Lumber Co. v. Sumpter Valley R. Co., 135 P. 539, 67 Or. 63

81. Pa.—Shenango Limestone Co. v. Buffalo, R. & P. Ry. Co., 105 A. 558, 262 Pa. 446. 10 C.J. p 455 note 48.

Fatal variance

No recovery may be had upon the basis of a breach of covenant where the pleadings rest plaintiffs' cause of action upon an agreement to pay rent.—State Line & S. R. Co. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 120 A. 829, 277 Pa. 227.

82. Or.—Baldwin Sheep, etc., Co. v. Columbia R. Co., 114 P. 469, 58 Or. 285.

83. Kan.—Kanotex Refining Co. v.

g. Evidence

For the most part, the general rules of evidence are applicable in actions for overcharges.

In accordance with the general rules discussed in the title Evidence, all reasonable and proper presumptions or inferences will be indulged in an action for overcharges,[84] and plaintiff has the burden of proving all the essential elements of his cause of action,[85] while defendant has the burden on all matters of affirmative defense.[86] By requiring the fixing and publication of freight rates to be charged by common carriers, the Interstate Commerce Act supplies prima facie evidence of the contract rate which can be overcome only by evidence in avoidance thereof;[87] and a freight charge made by a common carrier, which conforms to the schedule of rates required to be fixed and published by the Interstate Commerce Act, is prima facie a reasonable charge.[88] Usually it is incumbent upon plaintiff to establish the amount of his damages or the overcharges with reasonable certainty;[89] but in an action under the Interstate Commerce Act and similar statutes for reparation awarded by a commission on account of charges of excessive rates on interstate shipments, payment of unreasonably excessive charges is presumptive evidence of damage to plaintiff to the extent of such excessive charges,[90] and recovery may be had without proof of specific pecuniary loss.[91] Where the action is to recover an overcharge, rather than damages on ac-

Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 46 P.2d 16, 142 Kan. 139.

84. U.S.—Jones v. Alton & S. R. Co., D.C.Ill., 6 F.Supp. 807.
Mont.—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209.

Custom as to routing

Where a custom as to the routing of shipments is proved, it will be inferred, in the absence of contrary evidence, that the carrier followed this custom in routing the particular shipment involved.—Berthold-Jennings Lumber Co. v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 80 F.2d 32, 102 A.L.R. 688, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 591, 297 U.S. 715, 80 L.Ed. 1001

Lawfulness of action presumed

It will be presumed that a railroad in charging a freight rate has complied with the law and that the rate charged is in accordance with the published and approved tariff.
Ind.—St. Louis Southern Ry. Co. v. J. S. Patterson Const. Co., 104 N.E. 512, 181 Ind. 304.
Iowa.—Herminghausen v. Adams Express Co., 149 N.W. 234, 167 Iowa 230.
Mont.—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209.

Negligence not presumed from mere delay

Mere showing of delay in transportation does not give rise to presumption of negligence, but if some cause for delay, unexplained by carrier, is shown such a presumption will arise.—Buschow Lumber Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 276 S.W. 409, 220 Mo.App. 743.

Presumption against carrier adopting wrong weight

(1) Where a carrier wrongfully fails to weigh a shipment, and adopts the weights given by the shipper, thereby overcharging the consignee, all reasonable doubts and presumptions will be resolved against the carrier.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 124 A. 428, 280 Pa. 297.

(2) Hence, in such a case, it has been held that a carrier is entitled to be paid on basis of minimum carload weights only, in absence of evidence of greater weights, it being presumed that the actual weights were no greater than the minimum.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., supra.

85. U.S.—Berthold-Jennings Lumber Co. v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 80 F.2d 32, 102 A.L.R. 688, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 591, 297 U.S. 715, 80 L.Ed. 1001—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Hussey-Hobbs Tie Co., C.C.A.Mo., 47 F.2d 1061.
Idaho.—Campbell v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 275 P. 576, 47 Idaho 223.

Special privilege

Shipper, claiming special rate privilege under contract with carrier, has burden of bringing itself within provisions of statute authorizing such contracts for protection and development of new industries.—Hawkeye Portland Cement Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 201 N.W. 16, 198 Iowa 1250.

Excessiveness of charge

Where it is alleged that the amount charged by defendant is in excess of the rate specified in the tariffs filed with a state railroad commission, the burden is on plaintiff to prove it.—Blalock Hardware Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 86 S.E. 1025, 170 N.C. 395.

86. U.S.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Thompson, C.C.A.La., 288 F. 167.

Illegality of rate violated or exceeded

(1) If the carrier desires to relieve itself from the consequences of collecting an excess over the contract rate on the ground that the contract was illegal under the Interstate Commerce Law, the burden is on it to prove such fact.—Southern Kansas R. Co. v. J. W. Burgess Co., Tex.Civ.App., 90 S.W. 189

(2) Where, in an action against a carrier to recover an overcharge on its proportion of a joint rate, the carrier alleged that the joint rate was unlawful because in conflict with legally established rates, the burden is on it to establish that fact.—Kansas City Southern R. Co. v. C. H. Albers Commn. Co., 99 P. 819, 79 Kan. 59.

87. N.Y.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. La Due, 108 N.Y.S. 659, 57 Misc. 614, reversed on other grounds 112 N.Y.S. 964, 128 App.Div. 594
N.C.—Blalock Hardware Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 86 S.E. 1025, 170 N.C. 395

88. U.S.—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Sullivan, Minn., 55 S.Ct. 472, 294 U.S. 458, 79 L.Ed. 992, reversing, C.C.A., 72 F.2d 587, certiorari granted 55 S.Ct. 216, 293 U.S. 551, 79 L.Ed. 654—State of Florida v. U. S., D.C.Ga., 11 F.Supp. 36, reversed on other grounds Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. State of Florida, 55 S.Ct. 713, 295 U.S. 301, 79 L.Ed. 1451, rehearing denied 55 S.Ct. 918, 295 U.S. 769, 79 L.Ed. 1710, and State of Florida v. U. S., 55 S.Ct. 918, 295 U.S. 769, 79 L.Ed. 1710.
10 C.J. p. 455 note 53.

89. U.S.—Berthold-Jennings Lumber Co. v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 80 F.2d 32, 102 A.L.R. 688, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 591, 297 U.S. 715, 80 L.Ed. 1001—State of Florida v. U. S., D.C.Ga., 11 F.Supp. 36, reversed on other grounds Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. State of Florida, 55 S.Ct. 713, 295 U.S. 301, 79 L.Ed. 1451, rehearing denied 55 S.Ct. 918, 295 U.S. 769, 79 L.Ed. 1710, and State of Florida v. U. S., 55 S.Ct. 918, 295 U.S. 769, 79 L.Ed. 1710
Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Minton, Com.App., 24 S.W.2d 12, reversing, Civ.App., 14 S.W.2d 888.

90. Pa.—Allegheny Steel Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 188 A. 332, 324 Pa. 353
10 C.J. p. 455 note 54.

91. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co., Ala., 46 S.Ct. 73, 269 U.S. 217, 70

count of an overcharge, plaintiff need prove only the overcharge and proof of special damages is unnecessary.[92] Under the Interstate Commerce Act and similar state statutes a sufficient reparation order finding the charges collected to be unreasonable makes out a prima facie case against the carrier which it must overcome by evidence,[93] but the findings and determination of the commission are usually held to have only a prima facie status and are not conclusive or in the nature of a judgment[94] although, in view of the wording of the particular statute involved, it has also been held that the carrier cannot introduce evidence to show that the rates charged were not in fact unreasonable as found by the commission.[95] While the parties to an interstate transportation contract cannot, by agreement, mistake, or otherwise fix a rate different from any established under the Interstate Commerce Act, nevertheless proof that a rate less than that charged by the carrier at destination was contracted for, and inserted by, the carrier's agent in the bill of lading, and that plaintiff paid the increased rate at destination under protest, is sufficient to establish a prima facie case, the burden then shifting to the carrier to show that the higher rate has been established in accordance with the requirements of the Interstate Commerce Act.[96]

For evidence offered to be entitled to admission, it is essential that it be competent and relevant to the issues involved;[97] and if it has these characteristics it is usually admissible.[98]

L.Ed. 242, affirming, C.C.A., 295 F. 53—Southern Pac. Co. v. Darnell-Taenzer Lumber Co., Tenn., 38 S.Ct. 186, 245 U.S. 531, 62 L.Ed 451, affirming 229 F. 1022, 143 C.C.A. 663—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Spiller, Mo., 249 F. 677, 161 C.C.A. 587, modifying 246 F. 1, 158 C.C.A. 227, reversed on other grounds Spiller v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 40 S.Ct. 466, 253 U.S. 117, 64 L.Ed. 810.

92. Kan.—Ft. Morgan Bean Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 288 P. 589, 130 Kan. 859, affirmed 293 P. 526, 131 Kan. 679.

U.S.—Jones v. Alton & S. R. Co., D.C.Ill., 6 F.Supp. 807—Corray v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., D.C.Ill., 2 F.Supp. 829.

Ky.—Southern Ry. Co. of Kentucky v. Frankfort Distillery, 26 S.W.2d 1025, 233 Ky. 771, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 75, 282 U.S. 868, 75 L.Ed. 767.

Pa.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 110 A. 286, 267 Pa. 64.

93. Neb.—Central Bridge & Construction Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 262 N.W. 852, 129 Neb. 726.

Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission, 192 P. 1079, 112 Wash. 629.

Wis.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 215 N.W. 442, 194 Wis. 24.

94. Pa.—Allegheny Steel Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 188 A. 332, 324 Pa. 353.

95. Mo.—Hunter v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 150 S.W. 733, 167 Mo.App. 624.

96. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Hussey-Hobbs Tie Co., C.C.A.Mo., 47 F.2d 1061.

Wash.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Sauk River Lumber Co., 295 P. 926, 160 Wash. 691.

Amendment of rate schedule

In suit to recover alleged overcharges on intra-state carload shipments, railroad's amendment of rate schedule after controversy arose was held irrelevant and inadmissible.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Speed-Parker, Inc., 137 So. 724, 103 Fla. 439.

Evidence as to reasonableness or propriety of rates held inadmissible

(1) On the question of the reasonableness of charges, evidence of charges of another carrier for hauling similar material, although under different conditions, is not admissible.—Anniston Mfg. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 40 So. 965, 145 Ala. 351.

(2) Evidence that plaintiff, in an action to recover an overcharge on an interstate shipment three years prior to the shipment in question, had secured a lower rate is irrelevant and inadmissible to show the correct rate at the time of shipment.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Dickson, Tex.Civ.App., 167 S.W. 33.

(3) The question as to what was considered among railroad men as a reasonable rate, the question not being limited to the rate between the points in issue, is properly disallowed.—Anniston Mfg. Co. v. Southern R. Co., supra.

(4) In an action to recover freight overcharges on an interstate shipment, evidence as to the rate on a shipment based on two local rates, and not on a through shipment at a through rate, is inadmissible.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Dickson, supra.

Opinions or decisions of interstate commerce commission

(1) In an action against a railroad for overcharges on a shipment of "ties" which it was claimed that defendant had, by a special agreement to carry "lumber," contracted to carry at a certain rate, an opinion of the interstate commerce commission to the effect that ties should be put in the same classification as lumber is irrelevant and prejudicial.—Greason v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 86 S.W. 722, 112 Mo.App. 116.

(2) In an action to recover an overcharge on the theory that the shipment of wastes, overflows, and traps was brass goods, subject to a lower scheduled rate than plumber's supplies, the rate charged, a decision of the interstate commerce commission that the mixing of wastes and overflows with conceded plumbers' supplies, under the rule that, where several articles are shipped in one box, the rate which is applicable is that applicable to the highest rated article in the box, is irrelevant.—Wolverine Brass Works v. Southern Pac. Co., 153 N.W. 778, 187 Mich. 393.

Immaterial contract

Evidence of contract between timber company and railroad company concerning sale of timber scaled in accordance with commercial scale is inadmissible in action against railroad company for overcharges based on freight scale of logs shipped.—Green Mountain Log Co. v. Columbia & N. R. R. R., 16 P.2d 1106, 141 Or. 188.

98. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Camody, 85 So. 846, 17 Ala.App. 370, conforming to 84 So. 824, 203 Ala. 522, which reversed 82 So. 648, 17 Ala.App. 158.

Iowa.—Coad v. Pennsylvania Ry. Co., 175 N.W. 344, 187 Iowa 1025.

Evidence as to reasonableness of rates held admissible

(1) In a common-law action to recover for an overcharge, evidence as to the usual and customary rate for transporting the same commodity for a like distance is admissible, subject to the carrier's right to show dissimilarity in the circumstances and conditions affecting the rates, such as the greater expense of the transportation, the difference in the cost of construction and operation, or the volume of business.—Kindel

General rules as to the weight and sufficiency of evidence are applicable and, in accordance therewith, the evidence in actions against carriers for overcharges has been held sufficient[99] and has been

v. Colorado, etc., R. Co., 139 P. 1105, 57 Colo. 1, Ann Cas 1916A 57.

(2) In a shipper's action to recover overcharges, evidence as to rates paid by another shipper during the same time is admissible as being in the nature of an admission against the road's interest, the inference being that, as it would not likely charge less than was reasonable in its dealings with such other shipper, the greater rate exacted from plaintiff was unreasonable.—Service Lumber Co. v Sumpter Valley R Co, 135 P. 539, 67 Or. 63.

(3) In an action for overcharges on shipments of lumber, the fact that defendant classified logs and lumber under the same tariff rates is admissible on the question of the reasonableness of the rates for lumber, and the rate for logs is also admissible.—Service Lumber Co. v. Sumpter Valley R. Co, supra.

(4) Where a common-law right of action to recover freight charges collected in excess of reasonable charges exists and is shown by proper pleadings, the rates fixed by the commissioners may be given in evidence to show prima facie what was a reasonable rate, that being the effect of the provision of the statute making the commission rates prima facie evidence of reasonable rates in "all suits brought against any railroad corporation wherein is involved the rates of any such railroad corporation for the transportation of freight."—State of Florida v. U. S, D C Ga, 11 F Supp. 36, reversed on other grounds Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. State of Florida, 55 S Ct 713, 295 U S. 301, 79 L.Ed 1451, rehearing denied 55 S Ct. 918, 295 U S. 769, 79 L Ed. 1710, and State of Florida v. U S., 55 S Ct. 918, 295 U.S. 769, 79 L Ed 1710.
10 C.J. p 456 note 59.

Letter quoting rate

Where a shipper and a carrier have agreed on a rate to be charged, admission of a letter from the carrier's general freight agent to the shipper, written in accordance with the agreement and quoting such rate, is not erroneous.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Leatherwood, 69 S W. 119, 29 Tex.Civ. App. 507.

Misconduct of plaintiff

In an action against a carrier to recover demurrage charges exacted on lumber shipped, it was error to exclude evidence by defendant that the delay in the delivery of the lumber on which the charges were founded was the result of tortious or unlawful conduct of plaintiff.—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Camody, 85 So. 846, 17 Ala.App 370, conforming to 84 So. 824, 203 Ala 522, which reversed 82 So 648, 17 Ala App. 158

Plaintiff's knowledge of meaning of tariff

In action for alleged overcharges on log shipments, testimony that, at plaintiff's request, there had been rescale of certain rafts for freight purposes in accordance with "freight scale" is admissible as tending to show plaintiff knew railroad's tariff contemplated making of "freight scale," not "commercial scale."—Green Mountain Log Co. v. Columbia & N R. R R, 30 P 2d 1047, 146 Or. 461.

Printed tariff schedule

Printed tariff schedule of railroad rates produced by the railroad company under subpœna duces tecum, and shown to be identical with its posted rates, is admissible in an action for overcharges to show the existence of a milling-in-transit privilege as an admission by the company—Priebe v. Southern Ry. Co, 66 So. 573, 189 Ala. 427.

Rebuttal evidence

When shipper, suing railroad company for overcharges based on "freight scale" of logs shipped, introduced evidence that defendant based charges for certain other shipments on "commercial scale," in order to establish a custom, it was proper for defendant to show circumstances under which latter shipments were made and relationship between shipper and carrier—Green Mountain Log Co. v. Columbia & N. R R R, 16 P.2d 1106, 141 Or. 188.

99. Evidence held sufficient

(1) To afford sufficient basis for finding, in action for excess demurrage and penalty charges paid, that carrier allowed cars to remain at original consignment point without consignee's knowledge—Buschow Lumber Co v Union Pac R. Co, 276 S.W. 409, 220 Mo App. 743.

(2) To establish proof of service on defendant of order of interstate commerce commission directing railroad to pay such excessive charges.—Jones v Alton & S. R. Co, D.C.Ill., 6 F.Supp. 807.

(3) To establish that defendant railways operated under common management, requiring application of single-line rate for shipments of gravel.—Western Ry. of Alabama v. Montgomery County, 153 So 622, 228 Ala 426.

(4) To prove that defendant purchased and shipped ties to plaintiff as plaintiff's agent, and that plaintiff paid the freight—Joyce-Watkins Co v. P. R Walsh Tie & Timber Co, Mo App, 236 S W 1105.

(5) To show that parties in hearing before interstate commerce commission examiner understood that commission's finding and order in similar case were in record so that they could be looked to for support of order subsequently entered—Corray v. Baltimore & O. R Co, D.C Ill, 2 F Supp 829.

(6) To show that rates were "established" rates as required by Interstate Commerce Act—Foster Lumber Co. v Atchison, T. & S F Ry. Co, 194 S.W. 281, 270 Mo. 629, L.R A.1918A 768.

(7) To show that wheat rate, and not wheat products rate, applied to shipments of wheat with milling in transit privilege—Sheffield King Milling Co v. Chicago Great Western R Co., 210 N W. 232, 168 Minn 402.

(8) To support finding that certain railroad line was direct line within tariff rule for ascertaining correct rate, in absence of specified rate.—Thomas v. Chicago, B & Q R Co, 273 P. 451, 127 Kan. 326, 64 A.L.R. 322.

(9) To support master's finding of reasonable charge applicable in determining amount of restitution to shippers after reversal of order upholding intrastate rates on logs fixed by interstate commerce commission.—State of Florida v. U. S, D.C.Ga., 11 F Supp 36, reversed on other grounds Atlantic Coast Line R Co v. State of Florida, 55 S.Ct 713, 295 U S 301, 79 L Ed 1451, rehearing denied 55 S Ct 918, 295 U S 769, 79 L. Ed. 1710, and State of Florida v. U. S., 55 S Ct. 918, 295 U S. 769, 79 L. Ed. 1710.

(10) To sustain allegation of overcharge for demurrage and freight—Buschow Lumber Co. v. Union Pac. R Co., supra.

(11) To sustain allegations of carrier's negligence in not reconsigning goods on consignee's order and notifying latter of such failure.—Buschow Lumber Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co, supra.

(12) To sustain finding of overcharges.—Sheffield King Milling Co. v. Chicago Great Western R Co, supra

(13) To warrant the referee in finding that one defendant bought the ties as agent for another defendant after, as well as before, expiration of a contract between them, and paid all the freight charges on the ties bought by it prior to the appointment of receivers for the railroad which carried the ties—Cobbs v. Joyce-Watkins Co., 228 S W. 504, 287 Mo 39.

Persuasive influence

In shipper's suit against initial carrier for alleged excess freight held insufficient.[1] A deficiency in plaintiff's proof may be cured by evidence introduced by defendant.[2] The schedules of freight rates prescribed and certified as required by law must in all suits brought against any railroad, including the common-law action to recover excess charges, be deemed prima facie evidence that such rates are just and reasonable.[3] The interstate commerce commission is regarded by the courts as a technical authority on the question of railroad rates, and its decisions as to the matters which may properly be considered in determining a reasonable rate are given great weight.[4]

h. Trial

The trial is usually conducted in the same manner as ordinary civil trials, questions of fact being for the jury and questions of law for the court.

Under statutes so providing, the trial of an action to enforce a reparation order is conducted in the same manner as trial of ordinary civil cases;[5] and a constitutional provision providing for summary trial of cases involving a contest of commission orders fixing rates, tolls, fares, or charges has no application.[6] Under some statutes the hearing in the court in an action on an award of reparation is de novo, but on the evidence submitted to the railroad commission, although additional evidence, in the trial court's discretion, may be heard.[7] The carrier, in such a trial, has no right to require the shipper to file a record of all the proceedings before the railroad commission where the statute does not require the shipper to do so.[8]

Questions of law are for the court,[9] while, if there is sufficient evidence thereon, questions of fact are usually for the jury.[10] In a common-law action to recover the excess above a reasonable charge, the question of reasonableness is for the jury.[11] The interstate or intra-state character of the shipment involved is likewise a question of fact for the jury, unless the evidence thereon is conclusive; and a bill of lading is not conclusive, so that the court's construction thereof would be decisive, but is only evidence of the character of the shipment.[12] It is not necessary, however, to submit the question of the reasonableness of an increased rate paid by plaintiff where there is no proof of its unreasonableness and where the shipper voluntarily charges based on theory that switching tariff which initial carrier had agreed to absorb applied and not the line haul tariff, conduct of parties and interpretation they placed upon tariff of connecting carrier had a persuasive influence in determining and giving effect to intention and meaning of tariff provisions; at least where switching tariff was of doubtful application, and rate charged under line haul tariff was specific—Louisville Water Co v Louisville, H & St L Ry Co., 110 S W.2d 668, 270 Ky. 833.

1. Evidence held insufficient

(1) To overcome interstate commerce commission's finding that specific rates were unreasonable, particularly in absence of evidence as to comparative conditions prevailing in districts where higher rates were charged according to evidence offered by defendant—Corray v. Baltimore & O R Co., D.C.Ill., 2 F.Supp. 829

(2) To sustain finding that rates collected by railroad had been prescribed by interstate commerce commission—Eagle Cotton Oil Co. v. Southern Ry Co., 51 F.2d 443, reversing judgment, D.C., 46 F.2d 1006, and certiorari denied Southern R. Co. v Eagle Cotton Oil Co., 52 S Ct. 130, 284 U.S. 675, 76 L.Ed. 571.

(3) Penal laws with respect to false weights were inapplicable as to alleged freight overcharge on shipments weighed by shipper at point of origin and furnished no evidence of the inaccuracy of weights declared by the shipper.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry Co. v. Minton, Tex Com. App., 24 S W 2d 12, reversing, Civ. App., 14 S.W 2d 888

2. Mo.—Buschow Lumber Co. v. Union Pac. R Co, 276 S.W 409, 220 Mo App. 743.

3. Fla.—Cullen v. Seaboard Air Line R Co, 58 So. 182, 63 Fla. 122.

4. Colo.—Kindel v. Colorado, etc., R. Co., 139 P. 1105, 57 Colo. 1, Ann.Cas 1916A 57.

5. La.—Henderson Cotton Oil Co v. Louisiana Ry. & Nav. Co., 97 So. 751, 154 La. 504.

6. La.—Henderson Cotton Oil Co. v. Louisiana Ry. & Nav. Co., supra.

7. Ky.—Southern Ry Co. of Kentucky v. Frankfort Distillery, 26 S.W.2d 1025, 233 Ky. 771, certiorari denied 51 S Ct. 75, 282 U.S. 868, 75 L Ed. 767.

Waiver of right

In action in court on a reparation award, carrier's failure, on transfer to circuit court of proceedings before railroad commission for reparation order covering extortionate rates, to offer additional evidence constitutes waiver of right.—Southern Ry. Co of Kentucky v Frankfort Distillery, 26 S W 2d 1025, 233 Ky. 771, certiorari denied 51 S Ct. 75, 282 U.S. 868, 75 L Ed. 767

8. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Greenbrier Distillery Co., 187 S.W. 296, 170 Ky 775.

9. Or.—Service v. Sumpter Valley Ry. Co., 171 P. 202, 88 Or. 554.

Construction of tariff

Under Lord L § 136, specifying what questions are to be decided by court, in action to recover excess freight charges paid railroad, it is province of court to construe tariff provisions involved, and it is error to permit rate experts to construe them.—Black v. Southern Pac. Co, 171 P. 878, 88 Or. 533.

10. Ark.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Bull, 179 S W. 172, 120 Ark. 43.

Iowa.—Coad v. Pennsylvania Ry Co, 175 N W 344, 187 Iowa 1025

Mich.—Mt Clemens Sugar Co v. Grand Trunk Ry Co., 166 N.W 531, 200 Mich. 33, certiorari denied Grand Trunk Ry Co. of Canada v. Mt Clemens Sugar Co, 39 S.Ct. 9, 248 U.S 568, 63 L Ed. 425

N C.—W. L Hall & Co v Norfolk Southern R. Co, 91 S.E 607, 173 N C. 108.

Evidence held to make jury question

Admissions in duplicate bills of lading and shipping receipts with evidence regarding calculations and measurements made at destination have been held to make a jury question whether defendant carrier charged freight on a greater weight of gasoline than it delivered to the consignee.—Coad v. Pennsylvania Ry. Co., 175 N W. 344, 187 Iowa 1025.

11. Fla.—Florida East Coast Ry. Co. v. State, 82 So. 136, 77 Fla. 571.

12. Or.—Service v. Sumpter Valley Ry. Co., 171 P. 202, 88 Or. 554

paid it, thereby implying its reasonableness.[13]

Where the case is tried on an agreed statement of facts issues or questions which are concluded thereby cannot be raised or considered.[14]

i. Judgment and Items or Amount of Recovery

The judgment should conform to the pleadings and proof. The ordinary measure of recovery is the amount by which the charges collected or exacted exceed those the carrier was lawfully entitled to collect, together with interest; but attorney's fees may also be allowed the plaintiff under statutes providing therefor.

The judgment must be supported by, and conform to, the pleadings and the proof.[15] A judgment for plaintiff is properly rendered on findings of the trial court showing a charge in excess of the lawfully established rates,[16] while a judgment for defendant is sustained by a finding of a fact which shows that the rate relied on by plaintiff to establish the alleged overcharge is inapplicable.[17]

As already implied by the statements contained in § 319 supra, the usual measure of recovery is the amount by which the charges collected or exacted exceed the lawful or reasonable charges which the carrier was entitled to collect;[18] and this is so although the action is not at common law but is under the Interstate Commerce Act or similar state statutes for damages resulting from excessive charges as evidenced by a reparation order or award made by the proper commission.[19] In an action for overcharges arising out of the carrier's improperly weighing the shipment, damages which do not naturally flow from the carrier's wrong and are not within its contemplation cannot be recovered.[20] The fact that the wrong weighing has resulted in the consignee's being overcharged on the purchase price for the shipment is a new and independent wrong and the carrier is not liable for this loss.[21]

Attorney's fees. In the absence of applicable statutory provision providing therefor, attorney's fees are ordinarily not recoverable.[22] However, statutes providing for the allowance of a reasonable attorney's fee to the plaintiff to be taxed and collected as a part of the costs, if he finally prevails in an action to enforce a reparation award or recover damages resulting from the exaction of unlawful charges, are constitutional,[23] and will justify an allowance of attorney's fees,[24] provided a proper application is made to the trial court.[25] Where a carrier brings error to review the judgment in such a suit, which is affirmed, an allowance of attorney's fees on account of the appellate proceedings may properly be made in addition to that made by the trial court.[26]

The amount to be allowed for attorney's fees is a reasonable one,[27] and is to be fixed with reference to the amount actually recovered rather than the amount claimed.[28]

Interest. Plaintiff, in a suit for overcharges, is usually entitled to interest on the sums recovered,[29] although the right to such interest has 13. N Y—Strough v. New York Cent., etc, R. Co., 87 N.Y S. 30, 92 App Div. 584, affirmed 73 N E. 1133, 181 N.Y. 533.

14. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Mississippi Cotton Seed Products Co., 148 So 371, 166 Miss. 579.

15. Tex—Gulf, C & S. F. Ry. Co v. Minton, Com.App, 24 S W.2d 12, reversing, Civ.App., 14 S.W.2d 888.

16. Kan—Hodgson-Cauthorn Grain Co v. Chicago, R I & P. Ry. Co., 293 P. 520, 131 Kan. 695

17. U S.—S A. Gerrard Co. v. American Ry. Express Co., C.C A. Ohio, 35 F 2d 861

18. U S—State of Florida v. U. S., D.C Ga., 11 F.Supp. 36, reversed on other grounds Atlantic Coast Line R Co v. State of Florida, 55 S.Ct. 713, 295 U S 301, 79 L Ed. 1451, rehearing denied 55 S Ct. 918, 295 U. S 769, 79 L Ed 1710, and State of Florida v. U. S, 55 S.Ct. 918, 295 U.S 769, 79 L Ed. 1710.
Mo.—White v Delano, 191 S W. 1012, 270 Mo 16.
Neb.—Central Bridge & Construction Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co, 262 N.W. 852, 129 Neb. 726.
Pa.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent R. Co., 124 A. 428, 280 Pa. 297.

19. U S.—Louisville & N. R Co. v Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co, Ala., 46 S Ct. 73, 269 U.S. 217, 70 L Ed. 242, affirming, C C A, 295 F. 53—New York, N. H. & H. R Co v Ballou & Wright, Or., 242 F. 862, 155 C.C A. 450.
Cal—Sunset Pacific Oil Co. v. Los Angeles & S. L R Co., 290 P. 434, 110 Cal.App. 773.

20. Pa.—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 124 A. 428, 280 Pa. 297.

21. Pa—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., supra.

22. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. R. v. Connell, 151 So. 381, 111 Fla. 572, supplementing 149 So. 596, 111 Fla. 572

23. Neb—Smith v. Chicago, St. P, M. & O Ry. Co., 157 N W. 622, 99 Neb. 719.
10 C J. p 440 note 40.

24. U S.—Lothrop v. Spokane, P. & S Ry. Co, D C.Or, 10 F 2d 225, reversed on other grounds, C.C A, Southern Pac. Co. v. Lothrop, 15 F.2d 486, certiorari denied Lothrop v. Southern Pac Co, 47 S.Ct. 336, 273 U S 742, 71 L.Ed. 869, Lothrop v Spokane, P & S. R. Co, 47 S Ct. 336, 273 U.S. 742, 71 L Ed 869, and Lothrop v Oregon-Washington R & Nav. Co, 47 S.Ct. 336, 273 U.S. 742, 71 L Ed. 869—Ingalls v. Maine Cent. R. Co, D C Me, 51 F.2d 310.
Ala—W. L. Shepherd Lumber Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R Co, 112 So. 323, 216 Ala. 89.
Kan.—Thomas v. Chicago, B & Q. R Co., 273 P. 451, 127 Kan. 326, 64 A L R. 322.
Neb—Smith v. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. Ry. Co., 157 N.W. 622, 99 Neb. 719.

25. U.S—Swift & Co. v. New York Cent. R Co., C C.A.N.Y., 16 F.2d 17, reversing, D.C., 3 F 2d 826.

26. U.S—Louisville & N. R Co. v. Dickerson, 191 F. 705, 112 C C.A. 295, affirming, C.C, 187 F. 874.

27. U S.—Ingalls v. Maine Cent. R. Co., D.C Me., 51 F 2d 310.

28. U.S.—Ingalls v. Maine Cent. R. Co., supra.

29. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. R. v. Connell, 151 So. 381, 111 Fla. 572, supplementing 149 So. 596, 111 Fla. 572.

sometimes been denied.[30] Various conclusions have been reached as to the date from which the interest should be allowed. Usually it would seem that interest should be allowed from the date the overcharges were paid,[31] but it has been held that interest should be calculated from the date of the judgment in the lower court rather than from the date of the judgment in the appellate court,[32] and, where the suit was brought to recover both for excess sums collected prior to the date of an order by the state commission for the repayment thereof, and sums collected subsequent to such order in excess of the rates fixed by it, it was held that interest on the first sums ran from the date the order required the refund to be made, and interest on the latter sums from the date of the collection.[33] In a suit for damages under the Interstate Commerce Act it has been held permissible for the court in its discretion to allow interest on the excess charges from the date of their payment, and at a rate fixed by the court.[34]

§ 324. Liens

As will be seen in the succeeding sections carrier's liens may be founded on the common-law right of tradesmen, artisans, and other bailees to retain the property in their possession until paid for their services, on statutory enactment, or on contractual stipulations between the parties.

§ 325. Right to Lien

A carrier has a lien on the goods or property transported for the freight and other charges or expenses lawfully incurred in connection with that particular shipment or transaction.

It is a well settled common-law rule that a common carrier of goods, like any other tradesman, artisan, or bailee has a right to a specific lien on the property or shipment in its hands;[35] which entitles it to withhold or retain the same until all lawful charges have been tendered or paid.[36] This lien has been said to attach when the goods come into the possession of the carrier,[37] or at the time and place where the carrier first began performance of the transportation contract.[38] The carrier is not, however, entitled to assert a lien or retain the goods if for some reason it is not lawfully entitled to collect the charges claimed;[39] and in such

Me.—S D Warren Co. v. Maine Cent R Co, 135 A. 526, 126 Me 23.

30. Or—Service v. Sumpter Valley Ry Co., 171 P. 202, 88 Or 554.

31. U.S.—Arkadelphia Milling Co. v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., 39 S.Ct. 237, 249 U S 134 63 L.Ed. 517, motion denied St. Louis, I M & S. R. Co v Southern Cotton Oil Co, 39 S Ct 387—Atlantic Coast Line R Co v Standard Oil Co of Kentucky, C C.A Ky, 16 F 2d 441, modifying, D C., Standard Oil Co of Kentucky v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 13 F 2d 633, certiorari granted 47 S Ct 475, 273 U S 691, 71 L Ed 842, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds Atlantic Coast Line R Co v. Standard Oil Co, 48 S Ct 107, 275 U S 257, 72 L Ed. 270.

32. Miss.—Gulf & S I. R Co. v. Laurel Oil & Fertilizer Co, 160 So 564, 172 Miss. 630, correcting 159 So 838, 172 Miss. 630, amending and overruling suggestion of error 158 So. 778, 172 Miss. 630.

33. Me—S. D. Warren Co v. Maine Cent. R Co, 135 A. 526, 126 Me 23

34. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co, 295 F. 53, affirmed 46 S Ct. 73, 269 U.S. 217, 70 L.Ed. 242

35. U.S.—Pittsburgh, C, C. & St. L Ry. Co v. Fink, 40 S Ct 27, 250 U S 577, 63 L Ed 1151, reversing Fink v. Pittsburgh, C, C. & St L Ry. Co, 19 Ohio Cir Ct ,N.S, 103—Central R Co. of New Jersey v Schick, C C.A Pa., 38 F.2d 968.

Kan.—Swinson v Atchison, T. & S F. Ry. Co., 230 P 1046, 117 Kan 258, 39 A.L.R. 165.

Ohio.—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Gentile Bros. Co., 191 N E. 369, 47 Ohio App. 162, error dismissed 190 N E 578, 128 Ohio St 50.

Tex.—Jackson v State, 298 S.W 907, 107 Tex Cr. 557—Brown v. State, 298 S.W 907, 107 Tex.Cr 559

10 C J. p 456 note 71, p 457 note 80.

36. U S—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Schick, C C.A.Pa, 38 F 2d 968.

Ariz.—Wells Fargo & Co, Express, S A, v Tribolet, 50 P 2d 878, 46 Ariz 311.

Del.—State v Ætna Casualty & Surety Co., 145 A 172, 4 W.W Harr 158

Ga.—Powell v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 90 S.E. 980, 19 Ga.App 91.

Kan.—Swinson v. Atchison, T. & S F. Ry. Co, 230 P. 1046, 117 Kan 258, 39 A.L R. 165

Ky.—Blackford v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co 203 S.W. 867, 181 Ky 70

Me.—Northern Pac Ry. Co. v. Pleasant River Granite Co., 102 A. 298, 116 Me 496.

Mo.—Yazoo & M. V. R Co. v Picher Lead Co., App, 190 S W. 387.

N C.—Hammer Lumber Co v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 102 S E 508, 179 N.C 359.

Ohio.—Pennsylvania R Co. v Gentile Bros. Co., 191 N E 369, 47 Ohio App. 162, error dismissed 190 N.E 578, 128 Ohio St 50.

Tex.—Jackson v. State, 298 S.W. 907, 107 Tex.Cr. 557—Brown v. State, 298 S W. 907, 107 Tex.Cr. 559.

10 C J. p 457 note 72

Corpus Juris is cited with approval in Blackford v. St Louis, I. M. & S. Ry Co, 203 S W. 867, 869, 181 Ky. 70

Mere right of retention

"What is a carrier's lien? It is simply the right to hold the consignee's cargo until payment is made for the work of transporting it. In simple terms it is the right to withhold the enjoyment by another of the fruits of work done in his behalf until he pays therefor. The carrier is authorized by the law of liens to say in substance what an ordinary laborer or vendor of goods is in position to say, viz, pay me for my labor in advance or for my goods before delivery, otherwise you shall not enjoy the benefits of the one or possess the other. The carrier, notwithstanding the cargo is the consignee's, can similarly say—before I complete the labor of transportation by delivery to you, pay me for my work. That is all the lien is. It does not follow the goods when delivered, nor can the consignee be compelled to pay until they are delivered."—State v. Ætna Casualty & Surety Co., 145 A. 172, 176, 4 W.W.Harr., Del., 158.

37. Ala.—Southern Ry Co v. Woodstock Mills, 161 So. 519, 230 Ala. 494

38. Tex.—Trans-Continental Freight Co. v. Packard North Texas Motor Co., Civ App, 11 S W.2d 362.

39. Kan.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v.

a case, an action of trover may be maintained against the carrier for recovery of the goods without payment of the freight.[40] Hence, a carrier has no lien, if by reason of damage to the goods to an amount exceeding the freight it is not entitled to collect any charges,[41] or if it is in default for having failed to complete its contract.[42]

A carrier is entitled to a lien not only to secure the payment of the charges or costs of the transportation or carriage;[43] but also for all such other legal charges and expenses as may have been properly incurred in connection with the care, custody, or preservation of the shipment.[44] The lien, however, is a specific, and not a general, lien; that is, it attaches to the goods involved in one transaction, or constituting a part of one consignment, for charges relating to that transaction, or connected with that consignment, and does not extend to charges for other shipments under a separate contract.[45] Nevertheless, if one consignment covers several lots or parcels of goods, there is a lien on each lot or parcel for the charges for the whole consignment.[46] Also, a reconsignment or diversion of the goods in transit does not so sever the connection with the original transaction as to prevent the carrier from asserting a lien for the charges accruing during the whole transportation.[47]

Under statutes. The carrier's right to a lien may be based on statutory provisions which are mainly declaratory of the common-law rule discussed above,[48] or, where mechanics' lien and public works laws are construed as giving a lien for transportation services, see the C.J.S. title Mechanics' Liens § 50, also 40 C.J. p 87 note 3, a carrier which has transported materials and supplies to a building or construction project may become entitled to a lien giving it the right to have the transportation charges accorded prior payment out of the property which is being improved or the proceeds of the building contract.[49] However, a statute, giving persons who labor or furnish the material for the carrying on of a mill a lien on the same for the amount due them therefor, has been held to give a carrier no lien for its freight charges in transporting ore belonging to another to an ore mill.[50] Under the Federal Twenty-Eight Hour Law, a carrier which has cared for live stock during the required rest periods has a "lien upon such animals for food, care, and custody furnished, collectible at their destination in the same manner as the transportation charges are collected."[51]

§ 326. Carriers Entitled to Lien in General

Practically any carrier having the status or position

Peru-Van Zandt Impl. Co., 85 P. 408, 87 P. 80, 73 Kan. 295, 117 Am. S.R. 468, 6 L.R.A.,N.S., 1058, 9 Ann. Cas. 790.

40. Kan.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Peru-Van Zandt Impl. Co., supra.

41. Ky.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Avey, 191 S.W. 460, 173 Ky. 598.
10 C.J. p 457 note 75

42. Ga.—Breed v. Mitchell, 48 Ga. 533.
10 C.J. p 457 note 77

43. Ariz.—Wells Fargo & Co., Express, S. A., v. Tribolet, 50 P.2d 878, 46 Ariz. 311.
Ark.—Mays v. Missouri & N. A. Ry. Co., 271 S.W. 977, 168 Ark. 908.
Me.—Brown v. Railway Express Agency, 188 A. 716, 134 Me. 477.
N.C.—Hammer Lumber Co. v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 102 S.E. 508, 179 N.C. 359.
10 C.J. p 456 note 71.

44. Ariz.—Wells Fargo & Co., Express, S. A. v. Tribolet, 50 P.2d 878, 46 Ariz. 311.
Ga.—Dixon v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 35 S.E. 369, 110 Ga. 173.
Mass.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 116 N.E. 260, 226 Mass. 509.
N.C.—Hammer Lumber Co. v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 102 S.E. 508, 179 N.C. 359.
10 C.J. p 457 notes 79, 80.
Demurrage charges see infra § 346.

Import duties

(1) A common carrier has, under the laws of the United States, a lien on goods in transit over its lines entitling it to possession until paid for legal import duties paid thereon by it.—Wabash R. Co. v. Pearce, Mo., 24 S.Ct. 231, 192 U.S. 179, 48 L.Ed. 397—10 C.J. p 457 note 83.

(2) This is so whether the duties have been paid directly to the government or to a connecting carrier which has already paid the same.—Wabash R. Co. v. Pearce, supra.

Storage charges

U.S.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Schick, C.C.A.Pa., 38 F.2d 968.
Ga.—Dixon v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 35 S.E. 369, 110 Ga. 173.
Mass.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 116 N.E. 260, 226 Mass. 509.
10 C.J. p 457 note 81.

45. N.C.—Hammer Lumber Co. v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 102 S.E. 508, 179 N.C. 359.
10 C.J. p 457 note 73

46. Ga.—Dixon v. Georgia Cent. R. Co., 35 S.E. 369, 110 Ga. 173.—Pennsylvania Steel Co. v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 21 S.E. 577, 94 Ga. 636.

47. N.C.—Hammer Lumber Co. v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 102 S.E. 508, 179 N.C. 359.

48. Ga.—Powell v. Sea-Board Air Line Ry., 90 S.E. 980, 19 Ga.App. 91.
Okl.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. McNabb, 162 P. 811, 63 Okl. 87.

In Louisiana

(1) Civil Code art. 3217 par. 9 gives a carrier a privilege on the thing carried for the carrier's charges and accessory expenses, including necessary charges and expenses paid by the carrier.—Kocke v. Garnier, 131 So. 198, 15 La.App. 461.

(2) This privilege must be strictly construed.—Green v. Hawkins & Antoon, App., 144 So. 271, modifying 142 So. 742.

49. N.J.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Gallena-Poole, Inc., 152 A. 251, 107 N.J.Eq. 267, affirmed 160 A. 507, 110 N.J.Eq. 559
Wash.—Siler Mill Co. v. Charles Nelson Co., 162 P. 590, 94 Wash. 477.

50. Ariz.—Santa Fé, etc., R. Co. v. Arizona Smelting Co., 108 P. 256, 13 Ariz. 95.

51. Mass.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Sturtevant & Haley Beef & Supply Co., 127 N.E. 509, 236 Mass. 16 of a common carrier is entitled to a lien for its charges; and a connecting carrier may assert a lien for all advances made to other carriers as well as its own charges.
N.H.—Terrill v. Payne, 124 A. 462, 81 N.H. 164.

Practically any carrier occupying the position or status of a common carrier is entitled to the benefit of a lien for its charges.[52] While an examination of the cases cited in the preceding section will disclose that in most of them the carrier involved, and in whose favor the lien was recognized, was a railroad company, the right to a lien is not limited to common carriers of this type. Railway express agencies,[53] transfer and forwarding companies,[54] and public cartmen[55] have been held entitled to a lien to secure their compensation for services rendered by them as common carriers. However, a transfer and forwarding company has no right to a lien under circumstances showing that the company is not acting as a carrier,[56] as where it is merely the agent of the last carrier,[57] or where it has no contract, express or implied, to receive and carry the goods.[58] Likewise, for a cartman to be entitled to a lien, the services for which the lien is sought to be enforced must have been rendered by the cartman as carrier.[59] No lien can be enforced for such services as loading goods on a car.[60] In New York, a public cartman, seeking a lien on property under the ordinances of New York city, must convey the property to the property clerk of the police department or to a convenient storage warehouse and not keep it in his own possession,[61] and he must also send a notice in writing, with a brief statement of the particulars, to the bureau of licenses;[62] but he is not entitled to such lien where the goods are damaged in transit to an amount in excess of the charges for cartage.[63]

Connecting carriers. A connecting carrier is ordinarily entitled to a lien not only for its own charges, but also for all charges and expenses properly advanced by it to the preceding carrier.[64] Although there is some authority apparently to the contrary,[65] the right of a connecting carrier to a lien for its own charges and those advanced is usually not affected by the fact that they exceed the charge for the entire transportation as contracted for by the first carrier,[66] unless it has notice of the first carrier's contract.[67] Also, the lien will not be affected by the fact that the previous carrier has been in default by reason of damage to the goods,[68] nor by the fact that the settlement of the proportionate freight charges due to the connecting carriers was made at stated intervals instead of being paid at the junctional point by the receiving to the delivering line.[69] However, the last carrier cannot hold the shipment for charges advanced by it on claims other than for carriage charges where it has been notified by the consignee not to make such advances.[70]

If a carrier orders the return of goods not received by the consignee or not delivered by reason of misdirection, the carrier who returns the goods may recover not only the charges therefor, but also the charges on the first transportation.[71] The fact that it may have failed to perform its own part of the transportation and had no lien for charges for transportation performed by itself will not prevent a lien attaching for advances made by it for charges of preceding carriers.[72]

Where the initial carrier wrongfully disobeys routing instructions, and the connecting carrier over whose line the goods are shipped in disobedience of the routing instructions is aware of this fact, it is not entitled to a lien either for advances made to preceding carriers or for its own charges for trans-

52. Me.—Brown v. Railway Express Agency, 188 A. 716, 134 Me. 477.
N.C.—Hammer Lumber Co. v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 102 S.E. 508, 179 N.C. 359.

53. Me.—Brown v. Railway Express Agency, 188 A. 716, 134 Me. 477.

54. Ill.—Judson Freight Forwarding Co. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 163 Ill.App. 22.
10 C.J. p. 459 note 1.

55. N.Y.—Taylor v. Smith, 84 N.Y.S. 13, 87 App.Div. 78.

56. Mo.—Kansas City Transfer Co. v. Neiswanger, 18 Mo.App. 103.

57. Mo.—Kansas City Transfer Co. v. Neiswanger, supra.

58. Mo.—Kansas City Transfer Co. v. Neiswanger, supra.

59. N.Y.—Taylor v. Smith, 84 N.Y.S. 13, 87 App.Div. 78.

60. N.Y.—Taylor v. Smith, supra.

61. N.Y.—Taylor v. Smith, supra.—Browning v. Belford, 82 N.Y.S. 489, 83 App.Div. 144, 13 N.Y.Ann.Cas. 154.

62. N.Y.—Browning v. Belford, supra.

63. N.Y.—Browning v. Belford, supra.

64. N.C.—Hammer Lumber Co. v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 102 S.E. 508, 179 N.C. 359.
10 C.J. p. 457 note 86.

65. D.C.—Beasley v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 27 App.D.C. 595, 6 L.R.A., N.S., 1048.

66. Conn.—Rowland v. New York, etc., R. Co., 23 A. 755, 61 Conn. 103, 29 Am.S.R. 175.
10 C.J. p. 458 note 88.

67. Ga.—American Nat. Bank v. Georgia R. Co., 23 S.E. 898, 96 Ga. 665, 51 Am.S.R. 155.
10 C.J. p. 458 note 89.

68. Ky.—Thomas v. Frankfort, etc., R. Co. 76 S.W. 1093, 116 Ky. 879, 25 Ky.L. 1051.
10 C.J. p. 458 note 90.

69. Ga.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Southern Flour, etc., Co., 75 S.E. 654, 138 Ga. 604.

70. Ind.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson Tool Co., 103 N.E. 102, 180 Ind. 453, 49 L.R.A.,N.S., 749, Ann.Cas.1916B 1217 and note.

71. Ill.—U. S. Express Co. v. Haines, 67 Ill. 137.
Mass.—Briggs v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 6 Allen 246, 83 Am.D. 626.
R.I.—Vaughan v. Providence, etc., R. Co., 13 R.I. 578.

72. N.Y.—Western Transp. Co. v. Hoyt, 69 N.Y. 230, 25 Am.R. 175.

portation;[73] and some decisions hold without qualification that it has no lien, irrespective of knowledge or absence of knowledge of the diversion,[74] but other cases have ruled that, if the connecting carrier receives the goods in good faith in the ordinary and usual course of business between connecting lines without notice of any special directions on the part of the consignor, it will have a lien for reasonable charges for transporting the goods over its line, and also for such reasonable charges as it may have advanced to preceding carriers, notwithstanding the initial carrier's disobedience of routing instructions.[75] Also, a terminal carrier will have a lien for charges advanced where the diversion of the shipment, if it amounted to such, was due to an emergency[76] and in no way affected the substantial rights of the shipper.[77]

§ 327. · Private Carrier

A private carrier is generally held to have no right to a lien for his services, unless such right is given by statute or special agreement.

While no good reason has apparently been assigned therefor, it has generally been held that a private carrier has no lien for his charges on goods transported by him,[78] unless a lien is reserved by special agreement,[79] or the right to a lien is, by statute, given to all carriers without regard to whether they are common or private carriers.[80]

§ 328. · Property Subject to Lien

All property included in the shipment or consignment for which the charges were incurred is subject to the lien for such charges, unless the person placing the property in possession of the carrier had no right or authority to do so.

The lien of a carrier is generally limited to the property received and transported under the particular consignment or contract pursuant to which the charges asserted were incurred,[81] but the lien extends to the whole of such property,[82] even though the goods may be delivered in different parcels and at different times;[83] and the carrier may detain any portion of the goods as a lien on the whole, even if it has delivered a part.[84]

A carrier has a lien for freight charges on government property carried by it.[85]

Property wrongfully delivered or possessed. In order for the lien to exist, the relation of debtor and creditor must exist between the owner of the goods and the carrier, so that an action may be maintained for the payment of the charges sought to be enforced by the lien claimed;[86] and there is no lien in favor of the carrier, where the goods have been received by it from one who has come into their possession tortiously or from one not authorized to ship them.[87] A limitation of this principle, however, is that the carrier may still claim a lien, although the goods were so delivered, where the real owner by his own negligent act clothes another with apparent authority over his goods and thus enables him to defraud the carrier.[88]

§ 329. · Priority of Lien over Other Claims

If the goods have rightfully been acquired from, or with the authority of, the lawful owner, the carrier's lien thereon is superior to the rights and claims of the owner, his general creditors, and persons acquiring liens or rights while the goods are in the carrier's possession; but the lien is inferior to the claims or rights of third

73. Colo.—Denver, etc, R. Co v. Hill, 21 P 914, 13 Colo 35, 4 L R A. 376
Ga.—Bird v. Georgia R. Co., 72 Ga. 655.
Tex.—Liefert v. Galveston, etc, R. Co, Civ App., 57 S W. 899.
10 C.J. p 458 note 94.

74. U.S.—Marsh v. Union Pac R. Co, C C.Colo., 9 F 873, 3 McCrary 236
Mich.—Fitch v. Newberry, 1 Dougl 1, 40 Am.D. 33.
10 C.J. p 458 note 95.

75. Ill.—Crane v. Taft, 203 Ill.App. 253—See Crane v. Tooker Storage & Forwarding Co, 204 Ill.App. 354
10 C.J. p 458 note 96.

76. Wash.—Andus v. Columbia, etc., Steamboat Co., 92 P. 128, 47 Wash. 333.

77. Wash.—Andus v. Columbia, etc., Steamboat Co., supra.

78. Mo.—Campbell v. A. B. C. Storage, etc., Co, 174 S.W. 140, 187 Mo.App 565
10 C J p 39 note 27.

79. Pa.—Fuller v. Bradley, 25 Pa. 120.

80. La.—Gulf Motor Lines v European Agencies, App, 155 So 523—Brown v David, App., 141 So 418—Kocke v Garnier, 131 So. 198, 15 La App. 461.

81. La.—Green v. Hawkins & Antoon, App, 142 So. 742, modified on other grounds 144 So. 271
Wash.—Contractors' Machinery & Storage Co v Gueguen, 260 P. 669, 145 Wash 430.
10 C J. p 459 notes 16, 17.

82. Ill.—Knapp v. McCaffrey, 52 N E 898, 178 Ill. 107, 69 Am S R. 290, affirmed 20 S Ct 824, 177 U.S. 638, 44 L Ed. 921
Tex.—Texas, etc, R. Co. v. Rucker, 88 S.W. 815, 38 Tex.Civ App. 591.
10 C.J p 459 note 13.

83. Ill.—Knapp v. McCaffrey, 52 N. E. 898, 178 Ill. 107, 69 Am S.R. 290, affirmed 20 S Ct. 824, 177 U S 638, 44 L.Ed 921.

84. Ill.—Knapp v. McCaffrey, supra

85. Wyo.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. U S., 2 Wyo. 170.

86. Kan.—Swinson v. Atchison, T. & S F Ry. Co, 230 P 1046, 117 Kan. 258, 39 A.L.R 165.
10 C.J p 459 note 18

87. Ga.—Ocean S S Co. v. Southern States Naval Stores Co, 89 S E. 838, 145 Ga. 798.
Kan.—Swinson v Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co, 230 P. 1046, 117 Kan. 258, 39 A L R. 165.
N J.—Hudson Motor Car Co of New York v Erie R Co., 162 A. 604, 109 N.J.Law 431
10 C J. p 459 note 19.

88. Mich.—Hoffman v. Lake Shore, etc., R Co, 84 N.W. 55, 125 Mich. 201.
R I.—Vaughan v. Providence, etc., R. Co, 13 R I 578.
10 C.J. p 460 note 20.

persons holding preexisting liens or mortgages of which the carrier had actual or constructive notice.

If the goods have rightfully been acquired from, or with the authority of, the lawful owner, the carrier's lien thereon is ordinarily superior not only to the rights or claims of the owner,[89] but also to the rights of the latter's general creditors,[90] and any claims of a pledgee of the goods whose rights accrue while they are in the carrier's possession.[91] Hence, the lien is usually prior to the rights of the seller, as against whom the carrier may insist on retaining possession until the charges are paid.[92] In so far as the carrier's lien exists merely for freight charges on the particular transportation in progress, when the right of stoppage in transit is exercised, the lien of the carrier is superior and may be asserted as against the seller attempting to exercise that right;[93] but the carrier's lien is inferior to the right of the seller to stop goods in transit, in so far as it exists, for a general balance due to it from the consignor or the consignee provided for by special contract.[94]

Under a statute requiring the privilege of a carrier to be recorded to be effective against "third persons," a lessor of personal property which has been shipped by the lessee is bound by, and subject to, an unrecorded carrier's privilege for the charges so incurred, if the lessor was present when the contract of carriage was entered into and witnessed the same,[95] or consented to the imposition of the carrier's privilege as an incident to the contract of carriage,[96] for in such cases the lessor is not a "third person," within the protection of the recording statute. Such a statute, however, renders an unrecorded carrier's privilege inferior to the claims of a third person to whom the property is subsequently sold by the shipper.[97]

As shown in the preceding section, where the goods have been placed in the carrier's possession wrongfully or without authority from the true owner, the latter's rights are superior to those of the carrier. Also the carrier's lien is inferior to the right of a mortgagee of the property under a preexisting mortgage of which the carrier has actual or constructive knowledge;[98] and to the lien of a warehouseman for storage, the goods having been delivered by the carrier to the warehouseman without requiring advancement of freight charges.[99]

§ 330. Waiver or Forfeiture of Lien

The right of a carrier to a lien may be lost by waiver or forfeiture.

The common-law lien of the carrier, being a mere right to retain the goods until payment of the charges due thereon, may be waived.[1] Such a waiver may be effected in many ways.

The parties may make an express agreement for the waiver of the lien. However, a written contract of shipment does not waive the lien unless it contains provisions inconsistent with the assertion of the lien, or unless an intent to waive is clearly shown.[2]

Continuance of a common-law lien is ordinarily dependent on the carrier's retention of dominion, possession, or control, over the goods involved;[3] and, hence, one of the easiest and most common ways in which a carrier's lien can be lost or waived is by a delivery or surrender of possession of the goods without first exacting payment of the charges against them.[4] After such a surrender or delivery, the carrier is remanded or restricted to its personal

89. La.—Brown v. David, App., 141 So. 418.

90. Me.—Newhall v. Vargas, 15 Me. 314, 33 Am.D. 617.
10 C.J. p 460 note 22.

91. Minn.—Cooley v Minnesota Transfer R. Co., 55 N.W 141, 53 Minn. 327, 39 Am.S.R 609.

92. Kan.—Rucker v Donovan, 13 Kan 251, 19 Am R 84.

93. Ga.—Pennsylvania Steel Co. v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 21 S.E. 577, 94 Ga 636
10 C.J. p 460 note 31.

94. N.C.—Farrell v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 9 S.E 302, 102 N.C 390, 11 Am.S.R. 760, 3 L.R.A. 647.
Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. American Oil Works, 17 A. 671, 126 Pa. 485, 12 Am.S.R. 885.

95. La.—Brown v. David, App., 141 So. 418.

96. La.—Brown v. David, supra.

97. La.—Reeves v. G. & G. Pumping Co., App., 151 So. 679.

98. Ill.—Hayden v Wabash Ry Co., 269 Ill.App. 356, transferred 180 N.E. 795, 348 Ill 126
Mo.—Metzger v. Columbia Terminals Co., 50 S.W.2d 680, 227 Mo.App. 135.
N.J.—Hudson Motor Car Co. of New York v Erie R. Co., 162 A. 604, 109 N.J Law 431
Tex.—Trans-Continental Freight Co. v Packard North Texas Motor Co., Civ.App., 11 S.W.2d 362.
10 C.J. p 460 note 29.

Law by which priority determined

Law of forum is applicable in determining whether chattel mortgagee's lien or carrier's lien on mortgaged automobile taken into another state and shipped back to mortgagee was superior.—Metzger v Columbia Terminals Co., 50 S.W.2d 680, 227 Mo. App. 135.

99. La.—Powers v. Sixty Tons of Marble, 21 La.Ann. 402.

1. Ark.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Chastain, 25 S.W.2d 28, 181 Ark. 192
10 C.J. p 460 note 35.

2. Kan.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Hinsdell, 90 P. 800, 76 Kan. 74, 12 L.R.A.,N.S., 94, 13 Ann.Cas. 981.
10 C.J. p 460 note 38.

3. Ark.—Mays v. Missouri & N. A. Ry. Co., 271 S.W 977, 168 Ark. 908.
Fla.—Beckwith v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 73 So 593, 72 Fla. 522.
Tex.—Whaley Lumber Co. v. Reliance Brick Co., Civ.App., 2 S.W.2d 911.

4. U.S.—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v Fink, 40 S.Ct 27, 250 U.S 577, 63 L.Ed. 1151, reversing Fink v. Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 19 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 103.
Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Pfeifor contract rights against the person liable for the charges,[5] and a lien so lost is not reacquired by reason of the fact that the carrier subsequently regains possession of the goods.[6] For the lien to be lost or waived in this manner, however, it is essential that the delivery or surrender of possession be complete and absolute;[7] and the carrier's change of character into that of an agent to keep the goods for the buyer is not at all inconsistent with the right to retain the goods in its custody until its lien on them for carriage or other charges is satisfied.[8] The lien is not lost by a delivery of only a part of the goods,[9] unless the carrier so intended;[10] nor does a delivery to the assignee of the owner, who has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, operate as a waiver of the lien.[11] Where the goods are not delivered by the carrier but the owner takes them from the carrier without its consent, the lien is not lost;[12] nor is the lien divested where the consignor obtains possession of the goods by legal process.[13] Also, if the receiver of the goods obtains possession by fraud, the right to pursue the goods still remains.[14] If the consignee fails or refuses to receive and the carrier stores the goods in its own warehouse, or with some independent warehouseman not the consignee's agent, its lien is not thereby lost,[15] but may be enforced with the lien of the warehouseman added;[16] and it is immaterial whether the carrier deposited the goods in its own name or in that of the owner subject to its lien.[17] The parties may agree that the goods may be deposited in the warehouse of the consignee or the owner and that the transfer and deposit shall not be regarded as a waiver of the lien.[18] Furthermore, a statutory lien, in the nature of a maritime or mechanics' lien which attaches to the finished building or structure for which the carrier has carried materials, is not lost by a delivery or surrender of possession of the materials carried.[19]

In addition to the foregoing, a carrier's lien has been held defeated or lost by reason of its failure to set up a lien either when the property was demanded or a suit in replevin brought,[20] its conversion or illegal sale of the goods,[21] the giving of credit,[22] or the carrier's refusal of the consignee's demand for possession accompanied by a tender of the full amount of freight properly due.[23] If a lien is claimed for an excessive amount, the consignee may recover possession of the goods or sue for conversion without a formal tender of the fer Stone Co., 266 S.W. 82, 166 Ark. 226.

Fla.—Beckwith v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 73 So. 593, 72 Fla. 522.

Mass.—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. York & Whitney Co., 119 N.E. 855, 230 Mass. 206, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds 41 S.Ct. 509, 256 U.S. 406, 65 L.Ed. 1016.

Tex.—Whaley Lumber Co. v. Reliance Brick Co., Civ.App., 2 S.W.2d 911.

Wash.—Contractors' Machinery & Storage Co. v. Gueguen, 260 P. 669, 145 Wash. 430.

Wis.—Madden Bros. v. Jacobs, 235 N.W. 780, 204 Wis. 376.

10 C.J. p. 460 note 40.

5. Mass.—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. York & Whitney Co., 119 N.E. 855, 230 Mass. 206, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds 41 S.Ct. 509, 256 U.S. 406, 65 L.Ed. 1016.

10 C.J. p. 461 note 41.

6. Wash.—Contractors' Machinery & Storage Co. v. Gueguen, 260 P. 669, 145 Wash. 430.

Wis.—Madden Bros. v. Jacobs, 235 N.W. 780, 204 Wis. 376.

7. Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Woodstock Mills, 161 So. 519, 230 Ala. 494.

10 C.J. p. 461 note 42.

Placement on tracks without surrender of bill of lading

No waiver occurs where goods are placed on a private track at the request of the consignee's officers but the carrier has not surrendered the bill of lading, duly indorsed.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Woodstock Mills, 161 So. 519, 230 Ala. 494.

8. N.H.—Hall v. Dimond, 3 A. 423, 63 N.H. 565.

9. Mass.—Sheppard v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 116 N.E. 556, 227 Mass. 234.

10 C.J. p. 461 note 43.

10. Mass.—Sheppard v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., supra.

Jury question

It is ordinarily a question for the jury whether a carrier in delivering a portion of the consignment before payment of its charges intended to waive its lien.—Sheppard v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 116 N.E. 556, 227 Mass. 234.

11. Ky.—Caye v. Pool, 55 S.W. 887, 108 Ky. 124, 21 Ky.L. 1600, 94 Am. S.R. 348, 49 L.R.A. 251.

10 C.J. p. 461 note 44.

12. U.S.—In re British American Cedar Co., D.C.Wash., 217 F. 163.

Mo.—Darlington v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 72 S.W. 122, 99 Mo.App. 1.

Tex.—Hahl v. Laux, 93 S.W. 1080, 42 Tex.Civ.App. 182.

10 C.J. p. 461 note 45.

13. Me.—Newhall v. Vargas, 15 Me. 314, 33 Am.D. 617.

14. N.J.—Lembeck v. Jarvis Terminal Cold Storage Co., 59 A. 360, 68 N.J.Eq. 492, affirmed 63 A. 257, 69 N.J.Eq. 781, 7 Ann.Cas. 960.

10 C.J. p. 461 note 47.

15. U.S.—Mordecai v. Lindsay, S.C., 5 Wall. 481, 18 L.Ed. 486.

10 C.J. p. 462 note 53.

16. Ill.—Gregg v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 35 N.E. 343, 147 Ill. 550, 37 Am.S.R. 238.

10 C.J. p. 462 note 53.

17. N.Y.—Western Transp. Co. v. Barber, 56 N.Y. 544.

18. U.S.—Mordecai v. Lindsay, S.C., 5 Wall. 481, 18 L.Ed. 486.—Sears v. Wills, Mass., 1 Black 108, 17 L.Ed. 35.—Costello v. 734,700 Laths, etc., D.C.N.Y., 44 F. 105.

19. Wash.—Siler Mill Co. v. Charles Nelson Co., 162 P. 590, 94 Wash. 477.

20. Cal.—Yokohama Specie Bank v. Trans-Oceanic Co., 202 P. 346, 54 Cal.App. 533.

21. Ga.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. Roberds, 159 S.E. 742, 43 Ga.App. 558.

22. Mass.—Sears v. Wills, 4 Allen 212.

10 C.J. p. 461 note 48.

23. N.Y.—Neustadt v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 144 N.Y.S. 911, 159 App.Div. 667.

Liability to consignee

In such a case the carrier becomes liable to the consignee in either replevin or trover.—Neustadt v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 144 N.Y.S. 911, 159 App.Div. 667.

amount to which the carrier is entitled,[24] provided it appears that he was ready and willing to pay the just charges.[25] If the carrier asserts a right to retain possession of the goods on another ground than that of a lien for charges, it cannot afterward assert a right of possession under a claim for such lien;[26] and, if it claims a lien for a debt other than transportation charges on the goods, for which it is not entitled to a lien, the consignee may replevy the goods without tendering the amount of transportation charges.[27] On the other hand, it has been held that suing for freight charges and attaching other goods for the debt will not waive the lien possessed by the carrier.[28]

§ 331. Enforcement of Lien

At common law a carrier could enforce its lien only by retention of the goods or by proper court proceedings; but statutes in many states now permit the lien to be enforced by a sale of the goods, provided all statutory terms and conditions are strictly complied with.

At common law, the carrier's lien, like other bailees' liens, see the C.J.S. title Bailments § 35 e, gives only a right of possession or detention until the charges legally due are paid, without the right or power to sell the goods,[29] unless such a right has been given by special agreement;[30] and if the carrier sells the goods without such a special provision it is liable to the owner in an action for damages for the market value, less the amount of the charges under the lien.[31]

Nevertheless, the lien is enforceable in a proper court by a proceeding in rem.[32] Also, a lien may be enforced by an ordinary action at law against the owner or the consignee in which the goods may be subjected to the carrier's demand by attachment or execution.[33] However, a bill in equity for the enforcement of the lien lies only when a proper case for equitable enforcement is made out.[34]

Where title is vested in the consignee, and he refuses to receive the goods, the carrier may, with the consent of the consignee, sell the goods to satisfy its lien for freight and other charges;[35] and, in the absence of any statutory prohibition, the carrier may take the property off the hands of the shipper in payment of the carrying charge where the consignee refuses to receive it, provided the transaction involved no discrimination or rebate.[36]

Under statutes. By virtue of statutes which have been adopted in many jurisdictions, a carrier may be entitled to enforce his lien by a sale of the goods after a specified time if the freight remains unpaid;[37] and especially is this true in the case of perishable goods.[38] If the statutory provisions are strictly complied with, the carrier is not liable as for conversion.[39] It is essential, however, that there be strict compliance with all material provisions,[40] such as those relating to notice to the owner[41] or advertisement of the sale;[42] and, unless there has been a waiver of the statutory requirements by the owner of the goods,[43] a sale of property by the carrier amounts to a conversion when it is not made in accordance with the statute au-

24. Wash.—Contractors' Machinery & Storage Co. v. Gueguen, 260 P. 669, 145 Wash. 430.
10 C.J. p. 462 note 51.

25. Ill.—Schumacher v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 108 Ill.App. 520, affirmed 69 N.E. 825, 207 Ill. 199.

26. Ohio—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. O'Donnell, 32 N.E. 476, 49 Ohio St. 489, 34 Am.S.R. 579, 21 L.R.A. 117 and note.
10 C.J. p. 462 note 59.

27. U.S.—Sicard v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 22 F.Cas.No.12,831, 15 Blatchf. 525.
Mass.—Adams v. Clark, 9 Cush. 215, 57 Am.D. 41.
S.C.—Blair v. Jeffries, 23 S.C.L. 59.

28. Me.—Barnard v. Wheeler, 24 Me. 412.

29. Del.—State v. Aetna Casualty & Surety Co., 145 A. 172, 4 W.W.Harr. 158.
10 C.J. p. 462 note 62.

30. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Rucker, 88 S.W. 815, 38 Tex.Civ.App. 591.

31. Mass.—Briggs v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 6 Allen 246, 83 Am.D. 626.

32. U.S.—In re British American Cedar Co., D.C.Wash., 217 F. 163.
Va.—Galt v. Archer, 7 Gratt. 307, 48 Va. 307.

33. Va.—Galt v. Archer, supra.

34. Ala.—Crass v. Memphis, etc., R. Co., 11 So. 480, 96 Ala. 447.
10 C.J. p. 462 note 69.

35. Pa.—Mull v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 38 Pa.Super. 416.

36. Pa.—Pennsylvania Co. v. Kissock, 55 Pa.Super. 196.

37. Ga.—Morgan v. J. B. Colt Co., 130 S.E. 600, 34 Ga.App. 630.
N.C.—Norfolk & S. R. Co. v. New Bern Iron Works & Supply Co., 90 S.E. 149, 172 N.C. 188.
S.C.—Thomas v. Northwestern R. Co. of South Carolina, 98 S.E. 336, 111 S.C. 475.
10 C.J. p. 462 note 71.

Length of time not unreasonable
Provision of statute requiring carrier to hold goods for six months before selling goods for freight and other charges held not unreasonable—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Schick, C.C.A.Pa., 38 F.2d 968.

Statute not repealed
State statute providing for sale of goods for freight and other charges held not superseded or repealed by statute relating to amount of demurrage.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Schick, C.C.A.Pa., 38 F.2d 968.

38. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. North Texas Grain Co., 74 S.W. 567, 32 Tex.Civ.App. 93.
10 C.J. p. 463 note 72.

39. Okl.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Tulsa Rig, Reel & Mfg. Co., 225 P. 696, 99 Okl. 40.
10 C.J. p. 463 note 75.

40. Ga.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. Roberds, 159 S.E. 742, 43 Ga.App. 558.
Tex.—Reed v. Southern Pac. Co., Civ.App., 99 S.W.2d 1026, error dismissed.
10 C.J. p. 463 note 73.

41. U.S.—Davis v. Smutzinger, C.C.A.Pa., 281 F. 640.
10 C.J. p. 463 note 76.

42. Ala.—Western R. Co. v. Rembert, 50 Ala. 25.

43. Tex.—Reed v. Southern Pac. Co., Civ.App., 99 S.W.2d 1026, error dismissed.

thorizing it.[44] Where there are different provisions for the enforcement of bailee's liens generally, and carrier's liens, a carrier which has a claim for storage only must proceed in accordance with the provisions relating to the enforcement of bailee's liens rather than those relating to the enforcement of carrier's liens.[45] Notwithstanding a statute authorizes the sale of goods for the satisfaction of a lien, no valid sale can be made pending an adjustment of the carrier's claims for freight and without affording the consignor an opportunity to pay all just demands.[46]

It has been held that it is the carrier's duty to sell the goods for the best market price available at the time and place of sale;[47] and it seems also that the sale is to be of the contents of the packages, and not of the packages unopened.[48] The statute being silent as to the place of sale, the sale need not be made at the point of destination, but may be made at some point where the carrier might be able to sell the goods at less cost and for a better price.[49] A waiver by the owner of the required statutory notice and advertisement of sale does not of itself exempt the carrier of its duty to give such notice and make the sale in such manner and at such place as will reasonably assure that the goods will bring their fair market value.[50]

If the goods sell for more than the amount of the charges due, the carrier is liable or accountable to the owner of the goods for the balance of the proceeds,[51] and may be chargeable with interest on the proceeds in excess of the freight while they are withheld from the shipper.[52] When a carrier offers to carry the goods of a shipper for a certain price per carload and the shipper accepts such offer and ships his goods thereunder, the carrier is bound thereby and cannot be heard to say that it will not abide by its terms; and if a greater sum is retained by the carrier on the sale of the goods, it will be required to respond to the shipper for such excess.[53] On the other hand, where the carrier waives prepayment and the consignee refuses to take the goods and pay the transportation charges, and the carrier in strict conformity with law sells the goods to enforce its lien for charges, and there is still a balance due, the consignor is liable to the carrier therefor,[54] and this liability of the consignor under such circumstances applies as much to a charge for demurrage as to a freight or other lawful charge which the carrier is bound to collect.[55]

In Louisiana it has been held that the proper method by which to enforce a carrier's privilege is by a writ of sequestration rather than a provisional seizure;[56] but the mistaken procurement of a provisional seizure will not deprive the carrier of an admitted privilege which is alleged and proved,[57] nor will an attempt to enforce the privilege as a laborer's or mechanic's privilege[58] It is essential, however, that the privilege be clearly alleged and proved;[59] and before a sale can legally be made the registered notice required by statute must properly be given to the consignee.[60]

§ 332. Assignability of Lien

A carrier's lien can neither be sold nor assigned.

The lien of a carrier for freight is neither property nor a debt, but a mere right to have a debt satisfied out of certain specified property, and is a personal right which cannot be sold or assigned.[61]

44. Ga.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. Roberds, 159 S.E. 742, 43 Ga.App. 553
Mo.—Bufton v. Southern Express Co., App., 217 S.W. 630.
10 C.J. p. 463 note 74.

45. Ga.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. Roberds, 159 S.E. 742, 43 Ga.App. 553—Netzow Mfg. Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 66 S.E. 399, 7 Ga.App. 163.

46. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Born Steel Range Co., 55 S.E. 173, 126 Ga. 527.
10 C.J. p. 463 note 80.

47. Pa.—Long Island R. Co. v. Keystone Iron & Metal Co., 5 Pa.Dist. & Co. 257.

48. Ala.—Nathan v. Shivers, 71 Ala. 117, 46 Am.R. 303.
Pa.—Adams Express Co. v. Schlessinger, 75 Pa. 246.
10 C.J. p. 463 note 79.

49. Tex.—Slayden-Kirksey Woolen Mill v. Houston, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 132 S.W. 77.

50. Tex.—Reed v. Southern Pac. Co., Civ.App., 99 S.W.2d 1026, error dismissed.

51. N.C.—Temple v. Southern R. Co., 129 S.E. 815, 190 N.C. 438

52. Kan.—Stevens-Scott Grain Co. v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 149 P. 744, 96 Kan. 1, rehearing denied 150 P. 524, 96 Kan. 133.

53. Neb.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 21 N.W. 451, 16 Neb. 661.

54. Ga.—Bewley-Darst Coal Co. v. Western, etc., R. Co., 87 S.E. 702, 17 Ga.App. 464—Jelks v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 80 S.E. 216, 14 Ga.App. 96.

55. Ga.—Jelks v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., supra.

56. La.—Green v. Hawkins & Antoon, App., 142 So. 742, modified on other grounds 144 So. 271.

57. La.—Green v. Hawkins & Antoon, supra.

58. La.—Green v. Hawkins & Antoon, supra.

59. La.—Green v. Hawkins & Antoon, App., 144 So. 271, modifying 142 So. 742.
Petition held sufficient
La.—Green v. Hawkins & Antoon, App., 144 So. 271, modifying 142 So. 742.

60. La.—New Orleans & G. N. R. R. Co. v. Cousin, 4 La.App. 638.

61. Tex.—Whaley Lumber Co. v. Reliance Brick Co., Civ.App., 2 S.W.2d 911.
10 C.J. p. 463 note 87.
Corpus Juris is cited with approval in Whaley Lumber Co. v. Reliance Brick Co., Tex.Civ.App., 2 S.W.2d 911, 914.

§ 333. Liability of Carrier While Retaining Goods under a Lien for Charges

A carrier retaining goods under a lien is ordinarily liable only for loss or injury resulting from its failure to exercise due care for the protection and preservation of the goods; and it cannot be held responsible for loss resulting purely and solely from the detention.

The carrier is bound to exercise ordinary care for the protection of goods retained under its lien for charges and is responsible for any loss or injury which such care might have avoided.[62] However, the right to a lien on the goods carried necessarily implies the right to retain such goods until the proper charges are paid, and the carrier is not liable for any loss which results purely from such detention.[63] In such case the loss is regarded as directly attributable to the fault of the consignee in not paying the charges and securing the goods, and he cannot fix the responsibility on the carrier.[64]

So long as the carrier acts with reasonable prudence and discretion it may incur necessary and reasonable expenses in keeping possession and caring for the property.[65]

3. Demurrage

§ 334. Definition, Nature, and Object of Demurrage Charges

Demurrage is a charge by a carrier for the detention of cars beyond a reasonable time, for the purpose of compensating the carrier and of securing a prompt release of cars. Reciprocal demurrage is a charge by a shipper for a carrier's delay in furnishing cars.

While the term "demurrage" originated in the maritime law,[66] and its use was perhaps originally confined to carriers by water,[67] its application to carriers by rail is now undoubted, and as so applied it ordinarily means or denotes a charge made by the carrier for an unreasonable detention of cars in which goods are shipped.[68] Such a charge is permitted and recognized not only because it may afford compensation to the carrier for an additional service,[69] but because of the usefulness and importance of its main object, which is to obtain a prompt release of cars and thus prevent interference with the general traffic of the carrier.[70] In view of this latter purpose a demurrage charge is not objectionable as being a device or pretext for exacting from the shipper or consignee more than the rate prescribed by law and fixed by schedule.[71]

For most purposes demurrage charges are regarded as something apart and separate and distinct from the transportation charges as they do not arise, if at all, until the transportation is ended.[72] Rather, they have been said to be more closely anal-

62. S.D.—Dunlap v. Great Northern R. Co., 148 N.W. 529, 34 S.D. 320.
10 C.J. p. 464 note 88.

63. Ga.—Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Murrah, 11 S.E. 779, 85 Ga. 343

64. Ga.—Georgia R., etc., Co. v. Murrah, supra.

65. Me.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Pleasant River Granite Co., 102 A. 298, 116 Me. 496.

66. W.Va.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. West Virginia Eagle Coal Co., 148 S.E. 493, 107 W.Va. 429
10 C.J. p. 464 notes 92, 95 [b].

67. Okl.—Gault Lumber Co. v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 130 P. 291, 37 Okl. 24.
10 C.J. p. 464 note 5.

68. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Camody, 84 So. 824, 203 Ala. 522, reversing 82 So. 648, 17 Ala. App. 158, conformed to 85 So. 846, 17 Ala. App. 370
Mich.—Grand Rapids & I. Ry. Co. v. Cobbs & Mitchell, 168 N.W. 961, 203 Mich. 133.
Miss.—Vanderbilt v. Planters' Oil Mill & Gin Co., 106 So. 14, 140 Miss. 427.
N.J.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Gallena-Poole, Inc., 152 A. 251, 107 N.J.Eq. 267, affirmed 160 A. 507, 110 N.J.Eq. 559.
Va.—James v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 129 S.E. 321, 143 Va. 865.
10 C.J. p. 464 notes 93–95, p. 465 note 6.

The text of Corpus Juris is cited in Cumberland Pipe Line Co. v. Commonwealth, 79 S.W.2d 366, 370, 258 Ky. 90.

69. U.S.—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., Mo., 46 S.Ct. 530, 271 U.S. 259, 70 L.Ed. 934, affirming, D.C., 2 F.2d 291.
La.—City of New Orleans, by and through Public Belt Railroad Commission, v. New Orleans Coal & Bisso Towboat Co., 124 So. 693, 12 La. App. 124, transferred from 123 So. 724, 168 La. 1093.
N.J.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Gallena-Poole, Inc., 152 A. 251, 107 N.J.Eq. 267, affirmed 160 A. 507, 110 N.J.Eq. 559.
10 C.J. p. 464 note 99

70. U.S.—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., Mo., 46 S.Ct. 530, 271 U.S. 259, 70 L.Ed. 934, affirming, D.C., 2 F.2d 291.
Mich.—Grand Rapids & I. Ry. Co. v. Cobbs & Mitchell, 168 N.W. 961, 203 Mich. 133.
Ohio.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Mayer, 7 Ohio App. 44.
Va.—Eastern Coal & Export Corporation v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 138 S.E. 471, 148 Va. 140, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 207, 276 U.S. 615, 72 L.Ed. 732—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 128 S.E. 624, 142 Va. 355.
W.Va.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. West Virginia Eagle Coal Co., 148 S.E. 493, 107 W.Va. 429.
10 C.J. p. 464 note 1.
"It is not intended that . . . [demurrage charges] shall be so liberal as to defeat the end sought to be attained, but to stimulate the shipper to release cars, and thus enable the carrier to serve all shippers"—Pennsylvania, etc., R. Co. v. Fraser Co., 175 Ill.App. 645, 648.

Revenue not purpose of demurrage charges—Eastern Coal & Export Corporation v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 138 S.E. 471, 148 Va. 140, certiorari denied 48 S.Ct. 207, 276 U.S. 615, 72 L.Ed. 732—10 C.J. p. 464 note 1 [a].

71. Va.—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Adams, 18 S.E. 673, 90 Va. 393, 44 Am. S.R. 916, 22 L.R.A. 530.

72. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Berwind-White Coal Min. Co., 171 Ill. App. 302, affirmed 35 S.Ct. 131, 235 U.S. 371, 59 L.Ed. 275. See Pittsogous to a "storage" charge.[73] As will be noted in the following section, however, it has often been held that for the purposes of the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act, and similar state statutes, which regulate transportation rates and charges without express mention of demurrage charges, the latter are to be regarded as part and parcel of the transportation charges and subject to the same rules and regulations.

Reciprocal demurrage. Charges recoverable by a shipper from a carrier for delay in furnishing cars have been termed reciprocal demurrage.[74]

§ 335. Right to Demurrage Charges in General

Subject to proper and applicable rules and regulations, a carrier has a right to exact a reasonable demurrage charge for the detention of cars beyond a reasonable time; and under statute a shipper may be entitled to recover what is called a reciprocal demurrage charge for delay of the carrier in furnishing cars.

While some of the earlier cases were inclined to deny the right of a carrier by rail to demurrage, in the absence of statute or special contract,[75] it is now well settled that, subject to proper and applicable regulatory measures, a carrier by rail has, independent of statute or special contract, the right to impose and collect a reasonable charge for the detention of its cars or vehicles beyond a reasonable time;[76] and, of course, such a charge is permissible where specially provided for by contract,[77] or authorized by statute.[78] Demurrage may be collected for detention at initial points as well as at points of destination.[79] Furthermore the right to such charges is not limited to cases involving the carrier's own cars, but exists also as to other cars in the carrier's service.[80] Thus the carrier may collect demurrage charges for the detention of other carriers' cars transported by it,[81] or for the detention of privately owned cars in its service,[82] even burgh, C., C & St L. Ry. Co. v. Hedrich, 202 Ill App. 48.

Va.—Norfolk & W R. Co v. Adams, 18 S E 673, 90 Va 393, 44 Am S.R 916, 22 L R A. 530.
10 C J. p 464 note 96.

73. La.—City of New Orleans, by and through Public Belt Railroad Commission v. New Orleans Coal & Bisso Towboat Co., 124 So 693, 12 La App. 124, transferred from 123 So 724, 168 La 1093

74. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Melton, 65 S E. 665, 133 Ga. 277.

75. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Jenkins, 103 Ill. 588, 600—Cleveland, etc., R Co. v. Lamm, 73 Ill. App 592—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Holden, 73 Ill App. 582
Neb.—Burlington, etc, R. Co. v. Chicago Lumber Co., 19 N.W. 451, 15 Neb. 390.
10 C.J p 464 note 5.

76. U S.—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry Co, Mo, 46 S Ct. 530, 271 U S. 259, 70 L.Ed. 934, affirming, D. C., 2 F.2d 291—Krauss Bros Lumber Co. v. Mellon, C C.A.-Ala, 30 F 2d 901, conforming to mandate 48 S.Ct. 358, 276 U S. 386, 72 L Ed. 620, which reversed, C C.A., 18 F. 2d 369, certiorari granted 48 S.Ct. 35, 276 U.S. 513, 72 L.Ed. 400, judgment as to costs amended 48 S Ct. 527, 72 L.Ed. 1018, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 513, 279 U S. 872, 73 L.Ed 1008.
Ala.—Louisville & N R Co v. Camody, 84 So. 824, 203 Ala. 522, reversing 82 So. 648, 17 Ala App. 158, conformed to 85 So. 846, 17 Ala. App. 370
Md.—Penn Oil Co. v. Triangle Petroleum & Gasoline Co, 111 A. 482, 136 Md. 559
Okl.—Atchison, T & S. F. Ry. Co v Johnson, 225 P 939, 99 Okl. 72
S C.—Thomas v. Northwestern R Co. of South Carolina, 98 S.E. 336, 111 S C. 475.
Tex.—Reed v. Southern Pac Co., Civ App, 99 S W.2d 1026, error dismissed—Ft. Worth & D. C Ry. Co. v. W. A Nabors Fruit Co., Civ. App., 200 S.W. 420.
Va.—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 128 S.E 624, 142 Va. 355
W.Va.—New York Cent. R. Co. v West Virginia Eagle Coal Co., 148 S.E. 493, 107 W Va 429
10 C.J. p 465 notes 6, 9.

So-called penalty exacted for detention of cars containing interstate shipment of lumber awaiting reconsignment may be held in essence an additional demurrage charge, not improperly exacted, having been found reasonable by interstate commerce commission.—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v Chicago, M & St P. Ry. Co., Mo., 46 S Ct. 530, 271 U. S 259, 70 L.Ed. 934, affirming, D C., 2 F.2d 291.

77. Miss.—Yazoo, etc, R Co v. Searles, 37 So 939, 85 Miss. 520, 68 L R A 715
10 C.J. p 65 note 50, p 465 note 7.

78. Miss.—Vanderbilt v. Planters' Oil Mill & Gin Co., 106 So. 14, 140 Miss. 427.
10 C.J. p 465 note 8.

Demurrage prior to acceptance
Prior to a carrier's acceptance of a shipment for transportation, a shipper's loading of cars and refusal to unload has been held not to constitute a use of cars for transportation under a statute authorizing a carrier to charge demurrage for such use.—Chicago & N W. Ry Co v Pulp Wood Co, 159 N.W. 734, 164 Wis 200

Switching carrier
A statute permitting a railroad company to charge demurrage has been held not to authorize such charges by a carrier which only switches cars, but to authorize them only by carriers from whom cars are ordered or by whom they are hauled.—Chicago, R I & P. Ry Co. v Ball & Philpot, 203 S.W. 284, 134 Ark. 142.

79. U S.—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co v. Mellon, C.C.A Ala, 30 F 2d 901, conforming to mandate 48 S Ct 358, 276 U.S 386, 72 L Ed. 620, which reversed, C C.A, 18 F 2d 369, certiorari granted 48 S Ct 35, 275 U.S 513, 72 L Ed 400, judgment as to costs amended 48 S.Ct 527, 72 L Ed. 1018, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct 513, 279 U S. 872, 73 L Ed. 1008

80. U S.—Swift & Co v. Hocking Valley Ry Co, 37 S Ct. 287, 243 U S 281, 61 L.Ed. 722, affirming 112 N E 212, 93 Ohio St 143—Pittsburgh, C, C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Freedom Oil Works, D C.Pa, 247 F. 573, reversed on other grounds Freedom Oil Works Co. v. Pittsburgh, C, C & St. L R Co., 254 F. 800, 166 C C A. 246.

81. Md.—Penn Oil Co. v. Triangle Petroleum & Gasoline Co, 111 A. 482, 136 Md. 559.
10 C J p 465 note 11.

82. U.S.—Swift & Co. v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co, 37 S.Ct. 287, 243 U. S. 281, 61 L.Ed. 722, affirming 112 N E. 212, 93 Ohio St. 143—Pitts-though the cars are detained on private tracks[83] Under a contract between defendant and plaintiff railroad, making a switch track plaintiff's property, and limiting defendant's use thereof to shipment purposes, defendant cannot use it for storing its own cars, without being subject to demurrage charges.[84]

For the purpose of fixing the terms and conditions of such a charge, the carrier has the right to establish reasonable demurrage rules and regulations;[85] and the shipper or his consignee are deemed to have impliedly contracted to submit to the same,[86] so that where the terms and conditions of the rules and regulations have been fulfilled the carrier is entitled to recover its demurrage charges in accordance therewith.[87] The carrier's right to recover the charges so fixed is not affected by the fact that the person sought to be charged was not consulted with reference to the framing of the demurrage rules and regulations.[88]

The right to demurrage applies equally to cars in intra-state and in interstate commerce,[89] at least where proper provision is made therefor in the applicable tariff.[90] However, under the Interburgh, C, C. & St. L. Ry. Co v. Freedom Oil Works, D.C Pa, 247 F. 573, reversed on other grounds Freedom Oil Works Co. v. Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. R. Co., 254 F. 800, 166 C.C.A. 246.

La.—Kansas City Southern Ry. v. Baker Gasoline Co., 127 So. 442, 13 La App. 106.

Miss.—Vanderbilt v. Planters' Oil Mill & Gin Co., 106 So. 14, 140 Miss. 427.

10 C.J. p 466 notes 12, 13.

Corpus Juris is cited with approval in Vanderbilt v. Planters' Oil Mill & Gin Co., 106 So. 14, 16, 140 Miss. 427.

83. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Waverly Oil Works, 58 Pa.Super. 154.

10 C.J. p 466 note 13.

84. U.S.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. National Refining Co., D. C.Ohio, 226 F. 357.

85. U.S.—Emmons Coal Mining Co. v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., Pa., 47 S.Ct. 254, 272 U.S. 709, 71 L.Ed. 485, affirming, C.C.A., 3 F.2d 525—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry Co., D.C.Mo., 2 F.2d 291, affirmed 46 S. Ct. 530, 271 U.S. 259, 70 L.Ed. 934.

10 C.J. p 65 note 50.

86. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Camody, 84 So. 824, 825, 203 Ala 522, reversing 82 So 648, 17 Ala. App. 158, conformed to 85 So. 846, 17 Ala App 370

To same effect New York Cent. R. Co. v. West Virginia Eagle Coal Co., 148 S.E. 493, 107 W.Va. 429.

87. U.S.—Emmons Coal Mining Co. v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., Pa., 47 S.Ct. 254, 272 U.S. 709, 71 L.Ed. 485, affirming, C.C.A., 3 F.2d 525—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., Mo., 46 S.Ct. 530, 271 U.S. 259, 70 L.Ed 934, affirming, D.C., 2 F. 2d 291—Swift & Co. v. Hocking Valley Ry. Co., 37 S.Ct. 287, 243 U.S. 281, 61 L.Ed 722, affirming 112 N.E. 212, 93 Ohio St. 143—Becher-Barrett-Lockerby Co. v. Northern Pac Ry Co., C.C.A.Minn., 89 F.2d 752—Central R. Co of New Jersey v. Schick, C.C.A.Pa., 38 F.2d 968—Davis v. Timmonsville Oil Co., C.C.A.S.C., 285 F. 470—Sinclair Refin. Co. v. Schaff, C.C.A.Kan., 275 F. 769—Minneapolis, St. P. & S. M. Ry. Co. v. Van Dusen Harrington Co., C.C.A.Minn., 272 F. 255—Pittsburgh, C. C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Freedom Oil Works, D.C.Pa., 247 F. 573, reversed on other grounds Freedom Oil Works Co. v. Pittsburgh, C. C. & St. L. R. Co., 254 F. 800, 166 C.C.A. 246—Chesapeake & Ohio Coal & Coke Co. v. Toledo & O. C. Ry. Co., W.Va., 245 F. 917, 158 C.C.A. 205, affirming, D.C., Toledo & O. C. Ry. Co. v. Chesapeake & Ohio Coal & Coke Co., 238 F. 629, error allowed 247 F. 1002, 159 C.C.A. 662, and error dismissed Chesapeake & Ohio Coal & Coke Co. v. Toledo & O. C. Ry. Co., 39 S.Ct. 289, 249 U.S. 585, 63 L.Ed. 788—Denver & R. G. R. Co. v. U. S., 53 Ct.Cl. 155.

Ill.—Davis v. Keystone Steel & Wire Co., 148 N.E. 47, 317 Ill. 278

La.—Davis v. Ferguson, 132 So. 289, 17 La.App. 149, avoided on other grounds 136 So. 293, 173 La. 132—Kansas City Southern Ry. v. Baker Gasoline Co., 127 So. 442, 13 La. App. 106

Md.—Penn Oil Co. v. Triangle Petroleum & Gasoline Co., 111 A. 482, 136 Md. 559

N.Y.—Henry L. Hunter, Inc., v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 166 N.Y.S. 237, 179 App.Div. 52, affirming 161 N.Y.S. 10, 97 Misc. 26.

N.C.—Davis v. Greensboro Warehouse & Storage Co., 120 S.E. 462, 186 N.C. 676, certiorari denied Greensboro Warehouse & Storage Co. v. Davis, 44 S.Ct. 453, 264 U.S. 594, 68 L.Ed. 866

Okl.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Johnson, 225 P. 939, 99 Okl. 72.

Pa.—Bessemer & L. E. R. Co. v. Ford Collieries Co., 116 A. 802, 273 Pa. 166.

Va.—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 140 S.E. 823, 149 Va. 13—James v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 129 S.E. 321, 143 Va. 865—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 128 S.E. 624, 142 Va. 355.

W.Va.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. West Virginia Eagle Coal Co., 148 S.E. 493, 107 W.Va. 429—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Dellslow Co., 127 S.E. 43, 98 W.Va. 194.

Wis.—Chicago, St. P., M. & O. Ry. Co. v. New Dells Lumber Co., 197 N.W. 713, 183 Wis. 309.

Holding cars on consignee's order

(1) Thus, under a tariff rule so providing, cars held by a carrier on the order of the consignee prior to placement are subject to demurrage charges.

U.S.—Denver & R. G. R. Co. v. U. S., 53 Ct.Cl. 155.

N.Y.—Henry L. Hunter, Inc., v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 166 N.Y.S. 237, 179 App.Div. 52, affirming 161 N.Y.S. 10, 97 Misc. 26.

(2) Moreover the consignee is estopped to assert, in such circumstances, that the carrier ought not have complied with the former's order to hold the cars—Denver & R. G. R. Co. v. U. S., supra.

Charges after release or unloading of car

Where the rules of a car service association, regularly filed with the interstate commerce commission, prohibited agents from storing carload freight in warehouses, or on ground belonging to the railroad company, without adding car service charges, the same as though the freight had been left in the car, the carrier's right to collect demurrage does not end when the shipment is unloaded and the car is released for service, the rule being obligatory on the carrier—Horton v. Tonopah, & G. R. Co., D.C.Nev., 225 F. 406.

88. Ky.—Kentucky Wagon Mfg. Co. v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 32 S.W. 595, 98 Ky. 152, 17 Ky.L. 726, 56 Am.S.R. 326, 36 L.R.A. 850.

Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co v. Midvale Steel Co., 51 A. 313, 201 Pa. 624, 631, 88 Am.S.R. 836

10 C.J. p 467 note 25.

89. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Waverly Oil Works, 58 Pa.Super. 154.

90. N.C. — Davis v. Greensboro Warehouse & Storage Co., 120 S.

state Commerce Act, and similar state regulatory statutes discussed more fully in § 302 supra and §§ 392–397 infra, the right of a carrier to collect demurrage has been held subject to all provisions regulating and restricting transportation charges, although not expressly mentioned therein, on the theory that for the purposes of such statutes demurrage charges are to be regarded as part and parcel of the transportation charges.[91] By virtue of such statutes it may be the right and duty of the carrier to establish its demurrage charges and rules in its duly filed and published tariff, see infra § 339; and such charges are not a matter of mere contract between the parties.[92] It becomes not only the right, but the absolute duty, of the carrier to collect or enforce the demurrage so fixed or provided for;[93] and such right and duty cannot be avoided or affected by matters which might otherwise give rise to a waiver or estoppel.[94]

Amount of charges and period for which made. Ordinarily the demurrage charges may and must be reasonable in amount.[95] However, under the Interstate Commerce Act and similar state statutes, the rate fixed in the filed and published tariff is conclusively presumed to be a reasonable one until proper action has been taken thereon by the commission.[96]

Demurrage charges can usually be made only for a reasonable length of time, for thereafter it becomes the duty of the carrier to unload the cars and terminate the detention,[97] and, if the shipper notifies the carrier to unload, the carrier is entitled to demurrage only until it has had a reasonable time to comply with such order.[98]

Changes in rates and tariffs. Where the free period allowed by the tariff on file has expired, the demurrage rates may be advanced and collected after that time without being objectionable as affecting

E. 462, 186 N C 676, certiorari denied Greensboro Warehouse & Storage Co. v Davis, 44 S Ct. 453, 264 U S. 594, 68 L Ed 866.

91. U.S —Davis v. Timmonsville Oil Co, C C A S C., 285 F 470—Michie v New York, N. H. & H. R. Co, C C Mass, 151 F 694
Ill —Davis v Keystone Steel & Wire Co., 148 N E 47, 317 Ill 278.
La.—Davis v. Ferguson, 132 So. 289, 17 La App 149, avoided on other grounds 136 So. 293, 173 La 132.
Mo.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Morgan, 297 S.W. 717, 221 Mo.App 43.

92. U.S —Davis v. Timmonsville Oil Co., C C A S C, 285 F. 470—Sinclair Refining Co. v. Schaff, C. C.A Kan., 275 F 769.
Va.—Smokeless Fuel Co v Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 128 S E 624, 142 Va. 355

Contract not within statute

Contract between railroads, if construed as not entitling one of them to charge demurrage on cars loaded with ties of the other at creosoting plant, held not to result in violation of provision of Interstate Commerce Act as to discrimination, since the contract was for service not within the scope of the carrier's duty as such.—Cleveland, C, C. & St L. Ry. Co. v New York, C & St L. Ry. Co, C.C.A Ind, 11 F 2d 850.

93. U S.—Norfolk & W Ry. Co v Emmons Coal Mining Co., D.C.Pa., 287 F. 168, affirmed, C C A, Emmons Coal Mining Co. v. Norfolk & W. Ry Co., 3 F.2d 525, affirmed 47 S Ct. 254, 272 U.S. 709, 71 L. Ed. 485—Davis v. Timmonsville Oil Co, C C A.S.C, 285 F 470—Sinclair Refining Co v. Schaff, C C.A Kan., 275 F. 769.
La —Davis v. Ferguson, 132 So 289, 17 La App 149, avoided on other grounds 136 So. 293, 173 La 132

94. U S —Davis v. Timmonsville Oil Co, C C A S C., 285 F. 470
Minn.—Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry Co. v Reeves Coal Co., 181 N W. 335, 148 Minn 196, 14 A. L.R. 405
Va.—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co, 128 S E. 624, 142 Va 355
W.Va.—New York Cent R Co. v West Virginia Eagle Coal Co., 148 S E. 493, 107 W Va. 429

95. U S.—Michie v. New York, N H. & H R. Co, C C Mass., 151 F. 694.
10 C J. p 466 note 20.

Barge rates

Where there is no prohibition in the shipping contract against using a water route for part of the transportation, and it appears that it would have been difficult to make delivery without the use of water transportation, the carrier is entitled to base its demurrage charges on barge instead of car rates, although the barge rates are considerably higher than car rates —Levenson Wrecking Co v. New York Cent, etc, R. Co, 156 N Y.S. 656, 93 Misc 75.

Under a bill of lading providing that the demurrage charges shall not exceed a designated amount, the carrier can charge only for an unreasonable detention within the limit fixed by the contract, and only a reasonable amount within such limit —McGee v. Chicago, etc., R Co., 71 Mo.App. 310.

96. N.J.—Erie R. Co. v. Wanaque Lumber Co, 69 A. 168, 75 N J. L. 878.

97. Me —Northern Pac. Ry. Co v. Pleasant River Granite Co, 102 A 298, 116 Me 496
Wis —Waters v. Becker, 186 N.W. 167, 175 Wis. 621.

Refusal of consignee to accept

Where consignee refuses to accept car, carrier must make disposition thereof within reasonable time and demurrage charge can be made for only reasonable time.—Toledo & Ohio Central Ry Co v Wilson, 26 Ohio Cir.Ct ,N S, 476, 28 O C D 154, affirming 15 Ohio N P ,N.S, 513

Unloading held unreasonably delayed

Where terminal carrier knew that shipper was unlikely to order disposition of shipment, its keeping of goods on flat car at demurrage charge for eighty-six days was unreasonable, and after twenty-six days it should have unloaded goods and released car, so that its right to demurrage ceased thereafter — Northern Pac Ry. Co. v. Pleasant River Granite Co., 102 A. 298, 116 Me 496.

Effect of bill of lading provision as to storage

A bill of lading covering a shipment of coal, and giving the carrier the right to make a reasonable charge for storage of property not removed within forty-eight hours, gives it no right to store the coal in the cars for six months after the consignee refused to accept it and charge storage therefor, where the refusal to accept was due to an excessive freight rate.—Waters v. Becker, 186 N.W. 167, 175 Wis. 621.

98. Tex.—Reed v. Southern Pac. Co, Civ App., 99 S.W.2d 1026, error dismissed.

preexisting rights;[99] and a tariff shortening the free period may apply to cars received for transportation before the tariff was issued and filed with the commission.[1]

Car service associations. A carrier may enforce demurrage charges through a combination of carriers, commonly known as a car service association, organized for that purpose, and such a combination is not rendered invalid by the fact that all members agree to make a uniform charge for detention.[2] Hence the fact that a bill for demurrage charges due a railroad was made out by direction of a car service association to which the railroad intrusted its business in the collection of demurrage, and on its letter heads, does not justify the consignee in refusing to pay such demurrage.[3]

Reciprocal demurrage. So-called reciprocal demurrage statutes or regulations have often been held valid and effective to give a shipper the right to recover damages from the carrier on account of its delay in furnishing cars.[4] However, the applicability of such a statute may be limited to cases where there has been a violation of the carrier's public duty irrespective of contract;[5] and in one jurisdiction a reciprocal demurrage statute, imposing an additional fine or penalty to be paid to the injured party, has been held violative of a constitutional provision requiring that all fines and penalties arising under the general laws go exclusively to the school fund.[6]

Apart from statute, the owner of a car negligently detained by a carrier is entitled to recover the reasonable rental of such car during the period of unnecessary detention, and the amount of recovery is not limited by a rule of the interstate commerce commission fixing the amount of compensation due from a carrier for the use of private cars.[7]

§ 336. Conditions Precedent to Right

Demurrage charges cannot be collected until all conditions precedent have been complied with.

Demurrage charges cannot be collected until the terms and conditions of the carrier's demurrage rules and regulations, and all duties imposed by law as conditions precedent, have been complied with.[8]

§ 337. Reasonableness of Rules and Regulations

To entitle a carrier to recover demurrage charges in accordance with its rules and regulations, such rules and regulations must be reasonable.

To justify a carrier in collecting demurrage charges, the rules and regulations providing for these charges must be reasonable.[9] Thus it has been held that a carrier's demurrage rules and regulations must be reasonable as regards the classification of freight,[10] the amount of the charges, see supra § 335, the cars made subject to such charges,[11] and the time allowed for loading or unloading.[12]

99. U.S.—Horton v. Tonopah & G. R. Co., D.C.Nev., 225 F. 406

1. U.S.—Chesapeake & Ohio Coal & Coke Co. v. Toledo & O. C. Ry. Co., W.Va., 245 F. 917, 158 C.C.A. 205, affirming, D.C., Toledo & O. C. Ry. Co. v. Chesapeake & Ohio Coal & Coke Co., 238 F. 629, and error allowed 247 F. 1002, 159 C.C.A. 662, error dismissed Chesapeake & Ohio Coal & Coke Co. v. Toledo & O. C. Ry. Co., 39 S.Ct. 289, 249 U.S. 585, 63 L.Ed. 788.

2. Ky.—Kentucky Wagon Mfg. Co. v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 32 S.W. 595, 98 Ky. 152, 17 Ky.L. 726, 56 Am.S.R. 326, 36 L.R.A. 850

10 C.J. p. 466 note 16.

3. Miss.—Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Searles, 37 So. 939, 85 Miss. 520, 68 L.R.A. 715.

4. Kan.—Offerle Grain & Supply Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 182 P. 405, 105 Kan. 272.

Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission, of Washington, 162 P. 523, 94 Wash. 274.

Apparent attempt to regulate interstate commerce

Where it is plain that the purpose of a rule of the public service commission providing reciprocal demurrage charges was merely to regulate intra-state commerce, the fact that the language of such rule is broad enough to apply to interstate commerce will not render it unconstitutional.—State v. Public Service Commission of Washington, 162 P. 523, 94 Wash. 274.

5. Ga.—Georgia Northern R. Co. v. Snellgrove, 85 S.E. 790, 16 Ga.App. 344.—Georgia Coast, etc., R. Co. v. Durrence, 65 S.E. 583, 6 Ga.App. 615.

6. Neb.—Sunderland Bros. Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 177 N.W. 156, 104 Neb. 319, rehearing overruled 179 N.W. 546, 104 Neb. 319.

7. Ill.—Gustafson v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 218 Ill.App. 402, affirmed 129 N.E. 516, 296 Ill. 41.

Reason for rule

"Damages caused by the negligence of a carrier are not within the act of Congress to regulate interstate commerce."—Gustafson v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 218 Ill.App. 402, 407, affirmed 129 N.E. 516, 296 Ill. 41.

8. Mo.—Milne Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., App., 57 S.W.2d 732.

Tex.—Hill County v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., Civ.App., 31 S.W.2d 868.

9. U.S.—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., D.C.Mo., 2 F.2d 291, affirmed 46 S.Ct. 530, 271 U.S. 259, 70 L.Ed. 934

10 C.J. p. 65 note 50 [a], p. 466 note 19.

10. U.S.—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., supra.

Differentiation between kinds of freight

A demurrage rule prohibiting a discrimination between persons and providing that if car service be collected from one person, it must be collected from all who are liable, does not prevent demurrage being collected for cars loaded with certain kinds of freight, although not charged for cars loaded with other kinds.—New Orleans, etc., R. Co. v. George, 35 So. 193, 82 Miss. 710.

11. U.S.—Emmons Coal Mining Co. v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., Pa., 47 S.Ct. 254, 272 U.S. 709, 71 L.Ed. 485, affirming, C.C.A., 3 F.2d 525.

12. Ky.—Kentucky Wagon Mfg. Co. v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 32 S.W. 595,

In determining whether demurrage rules and regulations are reasonable, regard is had not only to the rights and interests of the shippers, but also to the rights and interests of the carrier and of the general public.[13] A rule is not unreasonable merely because it does not excuse a detention in circumstances which are exceptional or beyond the control of the shipper or consignee, such as unfavorable weather,[14] or a sudden business depression,[15] since to be beneficial to all alike, the rule must be of universal application.[16] A rule which authorizes a substitution of cars as among the members of a shippers' organization, and demurrage charges against the owners of such cars, is not unreasonable where it inures to the benefit of shippers as well as of the carrier and harms no one.[17]

Under the Interstate Commerce Act and similar state statutes, the reasonableness of demurrage rules and regulations contained in a properly filed and published tariff cannot be determined by a court until they have first been passed on by the proper commission.[18]

§ 338. Notice of Demurrage Rules or of Contract Provisions

Before demurrage charges can be collected the person sought to be charged must ordinarily have notice or knowledge of the rules or regulations providing for the imposition.

To entitle a carrier to collect demurrage charges, the person sought to be charged must usually have had notice of the demurrage rules, or regulations providing for the imposition, since a person cannot be deemed to have agreed to rules of which he has no notice.[19]

Some authority appears to require actual knowledge on the part of the person sought to be charged.[20] Other decisions have held, however, that notice to the particular person to be charged is unnecessary.[21] In any event, a shipper is sufficiently charged with knowledge of a demurrage rule by the regular rendering to it of bills for violation thereof.[22] Rules contained in the bill of lading are binding upon consignees, although they are in fact ignorant of the existence of such rules, since, having been embodied in the contract, the law will impute knowledge of their terms.[23] Also, the law will impute notice of demurrage rules included in the carrier's tariff filed with the interstate commerce commission and available for inspection at the carrier's stations.[24]

§ 339. Filing Tariff Schedules and Posting Demurrage Rules

While, under the Interstate Commerce Act and similar regulatory statutes, the tariff schedules containing the demurrage rules and regulations properly may and should be filed and posted, a failure to do so has been held not to defeat the right to recover the charges so provided for.

Under the Interstate Commerce Act, a demurrage charge stands upon the same footing as any other charge made by a carrier in connection with the transportation of property, and it and the rules and regulations pertaining thereto may, and properly should, be included in the tariff or schedule required to be filed and published, in accordance with the rules stated in § 302 supra;[25] and should be posted and kept open for inspection at all stations by all interested, especially shippers.[26] Nevertheless, it has been held that, while the carrier

98 Ky 152, 17 Ky L 726, 56 Am. S.R 326, 36 L.R.A. 850
10 C.J. p 466 note 19.

13. U.S.—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M. & St P. Ry Co, D.C Mo, 2 F 2d 291, affirmed 46 S Ct. 530, 271 U S 259, 70 L.Ed. 934

14. Ky.—Kentucky Wagon Mfg Co v. Ohio, etc., R. Co, 32 S W. 595, 98 Ky. 152, 17 Ky.L. 726, 56 Am S.R. 326, 36 L R.A. 850

15. Va.—Smokeless Fuel Co v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 140 S. E 823, 149 Va. 13.

16. Ky—Kentucky Wagon Mfg. Co. v. Ohio, etc, R. Co, 32 S W. 595, 98 Ky. 152, 17 Ky.L 726, 56 Am S R. 326, 36 L.R A. 850.

17. U S.—Emmons Coal Mining Co. v. Norfolk & W Ry. Co., Pa, 47 S.Ct. 254, 272 U.S 709, 71 L Ed. 485, affirming, C C A., 3 F.2d 525.

18. U.S.—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v. Emmons Coal Mining Co., D C.Pa, 287 F. 168

19. Tex.—Baumbach v. Gulf, etc, R. Co., 23 S.W 693, 4 Tex.Civ App 650.

20. Ohio—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Fisher, 5 Ohio S & C P. 659, 3 Ohio N.P. 122
10 C.J. p 467 note 24.

21. Miss.—Yazoo, etc, R Co. v. Searles, 37 So. 939, 85 Miss 520, 68 L.R A 715.
10 C J. p 467 notes 25, 26.

22. Pa—Pennsylvania R. Co v. Midvale Steel Co., 51 A. 313, 201 Pa. 624, 88 Am S R. 836

23. Miss.—Yazoo, etc., R Co. v. Searles, 37 So. 939, 85 Miss. 520, 523, 68 L R.A 715.

24. W.Va—Baltimore & O R. Co v. Dellslow Coal Co., 127 S E 43, 98 W Va. 194.

Notice of exemption

A shipper is charged with notice of a provision of the carrier's demurrage tariff that unless the shipper brings itself within the carrier's car distribution rule it will not be exempted from the operation of the demurrage rules—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Dellslow Coal Co., 127 S.E. 43, 98 W.Va. 194.

25. Ill.—Davis v Keystone Steel & Wire Co, 148 N E. 47, 317 Ill 278.

Demurrage rules of coal exchange

Where demurrage rates charged by carrier against coal exchange, as general consignee, were based solely on its tariffs, recourse to rules and regulations of exchange to determine amount of demurrage was not necessary, and it was not necessary for the rules and regulations of the exchange relating to demurrage charges to be filed with the interstate commerce commission.—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co, 128 S E. 624, 142 Va. 355

26. W.Va.—Baltimore & O. R. Co.

may thereby subject itself to penalties imposed by law, its right to collect demurrage is not defeated by reason of the fact that it has failed to file its tariff schedules as required,[27] or has failed to post the demurrage rules in its stations.[28]

§ 340. Delivery

Usually a proper and sufficient delivery of the cars is a condition precedent to the right to collect demurrage for their detention.

Inasmuch as the primary duty of a carrier in carrying goods includes delivery of the goods to the proper person, as shown supra § 160, it is generally not entitled to charge demurrage on cars until it has made a proper and sufficient delivery thereof,[29] unless the delivery is not completed because of the fault of the other party or his agent.[30] If the other party is not at fault or in some way responsible therefor, the duty to make a sufficient delivery is not avoided or dispensed with because such delivery has become impossible due to the insufficiency of the carrier's trackage,[31] or because of conditions beyond the carrier's control and for which it is in no way responsible.[32]

While the propriety or sufficiency of a delivery for the purpose of fixing the right to demurrage may be dependent upon, and determined by, the construction or operation of an applicable statute,[33] a custom[34] or agreement[35] between the parties, or

v. Dellslow Coal Co., 127 S.E. 43, 98 W.Va. 194

27. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Berwind-White Coal Min. Co., 171 Ill.App. 302

Rules of coal exchange

Where the carrier's tariffs on file with the interstate commerce commission provide for every essential element of the claim for demurrage, it is immaterial that the rules of a coal exchange, by compliance with which the shipper brought itself within the terms of the tariff, were not filed with such commission.—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v. Emmons Coal Mining Co., D.C.Pa., 287 F. 168.

28. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Berwind-White Coal Min. Co., 171 Ill.App. 302.

29. U.S.—Granger v. Davis, C.C.A.Ohio, 2 F.2d 695.

Ala.—U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 147 So. 891, 226 Ala. 606, 87 A.L.R. 1028

Ga.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. Daugherty-McKey & Co., 149 S.E. 92, 40 Ga.App. 190.

N.Y.—Lee v. Erie R. Co., 158 N.Y.S. 730, 173 App.Div. 75.

Ohio—A. M. Lewin Lumber Co. v. Louisville & N. Ry. Co., 19 Ohio App. 152

Okl.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. State, 186 P. 234, 77 Okl. 63.

Pa.—Bessemer & L. E. R. Co. v. Ford Collieries Co., 116 A. 802, 273 Pa. 166—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Coles, 87 Pa.Super. 432.

Tex.—Hill County v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., Civ.App., 31 S.W.2d 868.

Va.—North Shore Improvement Co. v. New York, P. & N. R. Co., 108 S.E. 11, 130 Va. 464.

Wash.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McGoldbrick Lumber Co., 204 P. 1059, 119 Wash. 119.

10 C.J. p 467 note 32.

30. S.C.—Thomas v. Northwestern R. Co. of South Carolina, 98 S.E. 336, 111 S.C. 475.

31. Ala.—U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 147 So. 891, 226 Ala. 606, 87 A.L.R. 1028.

10 C.J. p 467 note 32 [a].

32. Wash.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McGoldbrick Lumber Co., 204 P. 1059, 119 Wash. 119.

33. Ala.—U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 147 So. 891, 226 Ala. 606, 87 A.L.R. 1028

Statute relating to track deliveries construed

(1) Under a statute requiring the carrier, in case of "track delivery," to "place loaded cars at an accessible place for unloading within twenty four hours after arrival," and carload shipments for track delivery to be placed at an accessible place for unloading, the words "track delivery" and "accessible" refer to team or sidetracks where the carrier has only such sidetracks for unloading at the point of delivery.—U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 147 So. 891, 226 Ala. 606, 87 A.L.R. 1028.

(2) The placement required is an actual placement consisting of a spotting of the cars in an accessible place for unloading.—U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., supra

(3) The carrier cannot make a constructive placement which will satisfy the requirements of such a statute, and entitle it to charge demurrage, by reason of the fact that it has assigned particular tracks for delivery without the express or implied consent of the consignee and then kept the place assigned constantly filled with other cars so as to prevent the unloading of the cars on which the demurrage is sought to be charged.—U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., supra.

34. U.S.—Raleigh Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Virginian Ry. Co., C.C.A.Va., 43 F.2d 555

Wash.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McGoldbrick Lumber Co., 204 P. 1059, 119 Wash. 119.

10 C.J. p 467 note 32 [b].

Consignee's boom

Where it is customary to place cars of logs at such a point that they can be unloaded into the consignee's boom, cars placed where they cannot be so unloaded without further moving are not delivered.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McGoldbrick Lumber Co., 204 P. 1059, 119 Wash. 119.

Holding yards

Cars are delivered, for purposes of demurrage, where they have arrived at yards within which cars are customarily held awaiting unloading at a point several miles away.—Raleigh Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Virginian Ry. Co., C.C.A.Va., 43 F.2d 555—10 C.J. p 467 note 32 [b].

Custom cannot vary written contract

Although it was the custom of carriers to tender delivery of cars consigned to Norfolk at Port Norfolk, yet where a bill of lading called for a delivery at a particular siding in Norfolk, the custom cannot modify the written contract of the parties, and until delivery is made at such siding demurrage cannot be charged.—North Shore Improvement Co. v. New York, P. & N. R. Co., 108 S.E. 11, 130 Va. 464.

35. N.Y.—Lee v. Erie R. Co., 158 N.Y.S. 730, 173 App.Div. 75.

Va.—North Shore Improvement Co. v. New York, P. & N. R. Co., 108 S.E. 11, 130 Va. 464

Wis.—Chicago, St. P., M. & O. Ry. Co. v. New Dells Lumber Co., 197 N.W. 713, 183 Wis. 309

Bill of lading provision

A bill of lading, providing that the carrier may charge for the detention of cars after they have been held forty-eight hours for unloading, and may hold the property subject the rules or regulations of the carrier,[36] if the requirements have not been so lessened or varied, the delivery must normally be made at the point of destination,[37] and in such a manner as to permit the goods to be received and unloaded without inconvenience, delay, or interruption.[38] However, if a car has been placed and kept in a suitable place for unloading for the free period without being unloaded by the consignee, he will be liable for car service thereafter, although the car may not at all times thereafter be in a convenient place for unloading, provided he is not thereafter unreasonably hindered and delayed in unloading.[39] Also, the fact that terminal yards in which the cars stood were six miles in length, so that the cars were not actually on the pier at their final destination, does not prevent the cars from being subject to demurrage while standing in such yards awaiting the convenience of the consignee or the arrival of the vessel into which they were to be loaded, since the leaving of the cars in the yards does not prejudice the consignee.[40]

Delivery to a private or designated assigned track may be required by custom, agreement, or special regulation;[41] and, if the other party is not at fault, such a delivery is not ordinarily excused because it is rendered impossible by conditions beyond the carrier's control.[42] If, however, the consignee has required, or expressly or impliedly contracted for, the delivery of the cars to private or designated tracks, and the placement of the cars on such tracks is rendered impossible because of the fault or conduct of the consignee, the carrier will then be justified in making a "constructive placement" at the destination or some near available hold point which will entitle it to demurrage thereafter.[43] Indeed, to a lien therefor, merely authorizes the carrier to charge demurrage when the cars have been held for unloading, and not to give such right where they have been placed on a storage track awaiting switching to a place where they could be unloaded—Carrizzo v New York, etc, R. Co, 123 N.Y.S 173, 66 Misc 243, reversed on other grounds 129 N.Y.S. 914, 145 App Div. 566.

36. U.S.—Davis v. Timmonsville Oil Co., C C A S C, 285 F 470.
Wis.—Chicago, St. P, M & O. Ry Co v. New Dells Lumber Co., 197 N.W. 713, 183 Wis. 309.
10 C J. p 468 note 44 [a], [b].

Exemption under tariff providing for cartage delivery

(1) Under a cartage tariff providing for cartage delivery to the premises of the consignee by a cartage agent as agent of the carrier, and providing that "Shipments so handled will not be subject to car service or storage charges, accruing through failure on part of this company to make delivery within specified free time," the consignee is exempt from liability for demurrage under the demurrage tariff only if the company or its agent by its own default failed to make cartage delivery within the specified free time.—Michigan Cent. R. Co v. U. S., Mich., 246 F 353, 158 C.C.A. 417, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 333, 246 U.S. 663, 62 L.Ed. 928.

(2) The delivery referred to is the cartage delivery to be made by the company's cartage agent from the car duly placed and to the terminal cartage point.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. U S., supra.

(3) Consequently, such a tariff does not exempt a consignee from liability on a cartage shipment where the carrier has duly placed the cars on the delivery track, but the consignee has refused to accept cartage delivery from the cartage agent who was ready and willing to perform.—Michigan Cent R. Co. v. U. S., supra.

Placement for inspection

A tariff providing for the accrual of demurrage within a specified time following the placement of cars for inspection, and notice of arrival, has been held to be applicable only to cars actually placed and bulletined, not to cars held out because of congestion on the tracks to which they were consigned or ordered.—Granger v. Davis, C C.A.Ohio, 2 F 2d 695.

37. U S—U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co, D.C.Pa, 232 F. 953.
Pa.—Bessemer & L. E R. Co. v Ford Collieries Co, 116 A 802, 273 Pa. 166.

38. Ala.—U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 147 So 891, 226 Ala 606, 87 A.L.R. 1028.
Ga.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v Daugherty-McKey & Co., 149 S E 92, 40 Ga.App 190.
N Y—Lee v. Erie R. Co., 158 N Y. S. 730, 173 App Div. 75.
Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Coles, 87 Pa.Super 432.
Wash.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McGoldbrick Lumber Co., 204 P. 1059, 119 Wash. 119.
10 C.J. p 467 notes 32 [a] (1), 33.

39. Ohio.—Baltimore, etc, R Co. v Fisher, 5 Ohio S. & C.P. 659, 3 Ohio N P. 122

40. Va.—Citizens' Bank v. Norfolk, etc, R. Co., 78 S E. 568, 115 Va. 45.

41. N Y.—Lee v. Erie R Co, 158 N. Y S 730, 173 App Div. 75.
Okl.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. State, 186 P. 234, 77 Okl. 63
Wash.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v McGoldbrick Lumber Co., 204 P. 1059, 119 Wash 119.
10 C J. p 467 note 33 [a] (1).

Unavailability

Where the shipper notifies the carrier to deliver a carload at a designated place which is afterward found unavailable, failure of the carrier to notify the shipper that such place is unavailable is not a defense to a claim for demurrage while holding the car for further orders where the charges of the carrier have been approved by the state public service commission.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Silberman, 29 Pa. Dist. 605.

42. Wash.—Oregon-Washington R & Nav Co v. McGoldbrick Lumber Co, 204 P. 1059, 119 Wash. 119

Flood conditions

Where, because of unprecedented flood conditions, cars of logs could not be delivered at the usual and customary unloading place on a spur track next to the boom connected with consignee's mill plant, but were left at a distance outside consignee's mill premises, there was no delivery, and therefore there could be no demurrage.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co v. McGoldbrick Lumber Co, 204 P. 1059, 119 Wash. 119.

43. Ala.—U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 147 So. 891, 226 Ala. 606, 87 A L.R 1028.

Order by consignee

Where carrier knows that consignee wishes cars placed on assigned tracks or private tracks, and there are no other accessible tracks, consignee will be considered to have ordered cars so placed, and, if they cannot be so placed through consignee's fault, he is liable for demurrage.—U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Central of Georgia Ry.

the rules and regulations of the carrier may justify a "constructive placement" whenever delivery or placement on the private or designated tracks is rendered impossible by reasons or circumstances beyond the carrier's control,[44] or when such tracks are "full;"[45] and, in such a case, if the consignee refuses to accept delivery on other than the designated track the carrier is not even bound to place the cars elsewhere before the commencement of the running of the time after which demurrage is to be charged.[46] A rule providing for constructive placement of cars consigned or ordered to "other than a public delivery track," may be applicable even though the track or yard involved is not strictly a private one.[47] Nevertheless, a "constructive placement" is not justified, nor sufficient to form a basis for demurrage, if the consignee has not ordered, or expressly impliedly agreed to, delivery to a private or specified track;[48] or if actual placement is not rendered impossible by circumstances beyond the carrier's control;[49] and in making a constructive placement the carrier must comply with all demurrage rules relating thereto.[50]

Where coal is shipped to be delivered into vessels, a contract that the shipper is to pay all demurrage charges assessed by a pooling exchange organized to facilitate the loading of vessels is not invalid on the ground that the carrier furnished a limited service without giving the shipper the option of a lower rate, as the service contracted for and performed is the transportation of coal and its delivery into the vessel, and the value of the service to the shipper is not lessened or impaired, nor the liability of the carrier in any way diminished by dumping the cars out of order of arrival, in accordance with the rules of the exchange.[51]

§ 341. Notice of Readiness to Deliver

Notice of the arrival of the cars, or of their placement for purposes of unloading, is often a condition precedent to the right to collect demurrage charges; and, before the consignor can be held responsible for demurrage on cars which the consignee or other person directed to unload them has refused to accept, the consignor must be given notice of such nonacceptance.

Notice of the arrival of the cars may be a condition precedent to the right to collect demurrage thereon, where such notice is required by statute[52]

Co., 147 So 891, 226 Ala. 606, 87 A.L.R 1028.

44. U S—Davis v. Timmonsville Oil Co, C.C.A.S C, 285 F. 470 Wis.—Chicago, St P, M & O. Ry Co v. New Dells Lumber Co, 197 N.W. 713, 183 Wis 309—Wooley v. Chicago, etc., R Co, 136 N.W. 616, 150 Wis 183.

Option to place in or outside consignee's yards

(1) Under rules, made part of agreement between carrier and consignee, it has been held that, where consignee's regular unloading track was occupied by loaded cars used for ballast purposes during a flood, carrier could at its option make constructive placement either by actually delivering the incoming car at other points in consignee's yards instead of giving notice, or by placing the cars elsewhere and giving notice, but that the option belonged to it and not to the consignee—Chicago, St. P, M. & O. Ry. Co v. New Dells Lumber Co., 197 N W. 713, 183 Wis 309.

(3) Hence, in such a case, the fact that the carrier, on learning that loaded cars were occupying a portion of defendant's spur track upon which prior shipments had been unloaded, did not offer to place the incoming cars upon other parts of defendant's spur tracks where unloading would have been possible, is insufficient to prevent demurrage, where consignee was promptly informed that carrier considered its use of the spur track as inability to receive new shipments.—Chicago, St P., M & O. Ry. Co. v. New Dells Lumber Co, supra.

45. U S—Menasha Paper Co. v Chicago & N. W Ry Co., 36 S Ct 501, 241 U S. 55, 60 L Ed. 885, affirming Chicago & N. W. Ry Co v Menasha Paper Co., 149 N.W. 751, 159 Wis 508.

Meaning of "full"

A private switch track is "full" within carrier's rules relating to car service and demurrage charges, where, although the track will hold more cars, there are upon it all the cars that the consignee can unload —Menasha Paper Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 36 S.Ct. 501, 241 U S 55, 60 L.Ed. 885, affirming Chicago & N. W Ry Co. v Menasha Paper Co, 149 N.W. 751, 159 Wis. 508.

46. Wis.—Wooley v. Chicago, etc, R Co., 136 N.W. 616, 150 Wis 183.

Corpus Juris cited in United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v Central of Georgia Ry. Co, 147 So 844, 891, 226 Ala 606, 87 A L R 1028.

47. U.S—Granger v. Davis, C.C.A Ohio, 2 F.2d 695.

Yard leased to hay and grain exchange

Within the meaning of such a rule a yard leased to a hay and grain exchange for exclusive use by its members was "other than a public delivery track," irrespective of whether or not all hay and grain dealers in the locality were eligible to membership.—Granger v. Davis, C C A Ohio, 2 F.2d 695.

48. Ala—U. S Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co, 147 So 891, 226 Ala. 606, 87 A L R. 1028

Assignment of tracks by carrier alone

(1) A carrier cannot limit the unloading space of a consignee, without his consent, and charge demurrage on cars not unloaded because such space is constantly filled.—U. S Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co, 147 So. 891, 226 Ala. 606, 87 A.L.R. 1028.

(2) Hence, where a carrier for its own purposes, and without the express or implied consent of the consignee, designates certain tracks for delivery of the consignee's cars, and declares that it will not spot the cars elsewhere although other accessible track is available, it cannot make a charge for demurrage upon constructive placement merely because such assigned space is kept filled, without spotting on accessible tracks, nor attempting to do so.—U. S Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co, supra

49. U.S—Granger v. Davis, C.C.A. Ohio, 2 F.2d 695.

50. Tex.—Hill County v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co, Civ.App, 31 S W.2d 868.

51. Va.—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 128 S E. 624, 142 Va 355

52. La—New Orleans & G N. R. R. Co. v. Cousin, 4 La.App. 638.

or the demurrage rules of the carrier,[53] and the same is true of notice of the placement of the cars for the purpose of unloading them;[54] but it has been held that, under rules requiring notice of both arrival and placement, a failure to give notice of arrival does not defeat the right to demurrage where notice of placement is subsequently given,[55] and that failure to give notice of arrival will defeat recovery only where it is shown that the consignee had been prejudiced or had no actual notice.[56] However, in the absence of some provision therefor, notice of arrival has been held unnecessary, even where it was customary to give such notice;[57] but as to this latter there is some authority to the contrary.[58] Of course, a notice of arrival does not fix liability for demurrage until the car has actually arrived.[59]

If no formal requirements are expressly prescribed, the notice required under the foregoing rules need be in no particular form, and it is sufficient if the consignee is adequately advised of the arrival of the cars or their location as the case may be;[60] and a party may be precluded from questioning the sufficiency of a notice by his acts or conduct.[61] Where, however, the form and manner of the notice are prescribed by rule or statute, they must ordinarily be in conformity therewith,[62] but a 53. U.S.—Virginian Ry. Co. v. Lake & Export Coal Corporation, C.C.A. Va., 5 F.2d 496.

Ill.—See Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Templeton, 210 Ill.App. 377.
La.—Davis v. Ferguson, 136 So. 293, 173 La. 132, avoiding 132 So. 289, 17 La.App. 149.
Mo.—Milne Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., App., 57 S.W.2d 732.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Fowler, 27 S.W.2d 72, 224 Mo.App. 736.
Pa.—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v. Swift & Co., 69 Pa.Super. 132.
Tex.—Hill County v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., Civ.App., 31 S.W.2d 868.
10 C.J. p. 468 note 36.

Computation of free time

Where, under an agreement between the carrier and the members of a coal exchange, cars are deemed to have arrived on the day notice of arrival is given, a carrier is not entitled to collect demurrage from a particular member where, because of a failure of the carrier to give notice of arrival as to a large number of cars, the carrier is unable to compute the days of credit to which such member is entitled, and, consequently, the sum, if any, owed by such member.—Virginian Ry. Co. v. Lake & Export Coal Corporation, C.C.A. Va., 5 F.2d 496.

Placement on private tracks

Sidetracks constituting a part of the carrier's system, although used exclusively for the consignee's business, are not "private tracks" within the meaning of a carrier's rule providing that placement on private tracks shall constitute a sufficient notice of arrival.—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v. Swift & Co., 69 Pa.Super. 132.

54. Pa.—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v. Swift & Co., 69 Pa.Super. 132.
Tex.—Hill County v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., Civ.App., 31 S.W.2d 868.
10 C.J. p. 468 note 36.

Failure to place on public delivery track

Under a carrier's tariff so providing, notice of placement must be given where the carrier does not place the cars on a public delivery track within a specified time after giving notice of their arrival.—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v. Swift & Co., 69 Pa.Super. 132.

Want of space at destination

Under a carrier's rule to such effect, a consignee is not chargeable with demurrage where there is no space at the point of destination for unloading, unless he is given notice of the place where his car can be unloaded, as well as notice of its arrival.—Hill County v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 31 S.W.2d 868.

55. U.S.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. U. S., Mich., 246 F. 353, 158 C.C.A. 417, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 333, 248 U.S. 663, 62 L.Ed. 928.

56. La.—Kansas City Southern Ry. v. Baker Gasoline Co., 127 So. 442, 13 La.App. 106.

57. U.S.—Chesapeake & Ohio Coal & Coke Co. v. Toledo & O. C. Ry. Co., W.Va., 245 F. 917, 158 C.C.A. 205, affirming, D.C., Toledo & O. C. Ry. Co. v. Chesapeake & Ohio Coal & Coke Co., 238 F. 629, error allowed 247 F. 1002, 159 C.C.A. 662, error dismissed 39 S.Ct. 289, 249 U.S. 585, 63 L.Ed. 788.

58. Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Galbraith, Civ.App., 39 S.W.2d 91.

59. U.S.—U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., D.C.Pa., 232 F. 953.

60. U.S.—U. S. v. Erie R. Co., D.C. N.Y., 209 F. 283.
10 C.J. p. 468 note 38.

61. Va.—Citizens' Bank v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 78 S.E. 568, 115 Va. 45.

Statement to carrier

Where a bank which had agreed to pay the freight and demurrage charges on coal shipments stated, in answer to a communication from the carrier as to what kind of notification it desired of the consignments, that notification of the shipments in transit was sufficient, the bank could not afterward claim that demurrage could not be recoverable unless it was notified of the arrival of the cars by a notice containing the point of shipment, initials, numbers, and contents.—Citizens' Bank v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 78 S.E. 568, 115 Va. 45.

62. La.—Davis v. Ferguson, 136 So. 293, 173 La. 132, avoiding 132 So. 289, 17 La.App. 149.—New Orleans & G. N. R. R. Co. v. Cousin, 4 La.App. 638.
Mo.—Milne Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., App., 57 S.W.2d 732.
Pa.—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v. Swift & Co., 69 Pa.Super. 132.
Tex.—Hill County v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., Civ.App., 31 S.W.2d 868.

Registered mail required to be used.—New Orleans & G. N. R. R. Co. v. Cousin, 4 La.App. 638.

Notice to wrong person

(1) Where the carrier's tariff requires that notice of placement be sent to the consignee, notice to an agent of the consignee not authorized to receive such notice is insufficient.—Hill County v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 31 S.W.2d 868.

(2) Where the consignee was a county, it was held that notice must be sent to the county judge or the commissioners' court, and that notice to the county auditor was not notice to the county, since the auditor was without authority to bind the county in such matters.—Hill County v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., supra.

Use of proper address

It has been held, under a tariff providing for mailing in case the consignee's address does not appear on the billing and is unknown, that such notice must be mailed to the consignee's address where such ad-

notice thus made is, of course, sufficient;[63] and, according to some authority, substantial compliance appears to be all that is necessary,[64] at least where the consignee accepts the notice as given, and acts thereon without objection.[65] A rule providing for notice either in the manner prescribed therein, or as otherwise agreed, justifies any type of notice to which the parties have agreed,[66] whether expressly or by implication;[67] or, if it is so stipulated, the notice may be given in accordance with the practice "in vogue."[68]

Notice of nonacceptance. Whether or not so pro-dress is specified in the billing, and that a mailing to the point of destination is insufficient—Milne Lumber Co v Michigan Cent. R. Co, Mo. App, 57 S.W 2d 732.

Written notice

(1) Where the rules so provide, written notice is essential

La.—Davis v Ferguson, 136 So. 293, 173 La 132, avoiding 132 So. 289, 17 La App 149.

Pa—Norfolk & W Ry. Co v. Swift & Co, 69 Pa Super. 132.

(2) This requirement is not dispensed with by the consignee's knowledge that the cars have arrived and his payment of the storage—Davis v. Ferguson, supra.

(3) The carrier's oral request that the consignee accept delivery will not dispense with written notice—Davis v. Ferguson, supra.

63. U S—Becher-Barrett-Lockerby Co v Northern Pac. Ry. Co, C. C A Minn, 89 F 2d 752—Davis v. Timmonsville Oil Co, C C A S C., 285 F. 470—Minneapolis, St P & S. S M. Ry Co. v. Van Dusen Harrington Co., C C.A.Minn, 272 F 255—Michigan Cent R Co. v. U S, Mich., 246 F. 353, 158 C.C. A 417, certiorari denied 38 S Ct. 333, 246 U.S. 663, 62 L Ed. 928.

Ga—Payne v. Monroe, 110 S E 34, 28 Ga App 6.

Ind—Ross v. Indiana Natural Gas & Oil Co, 131 N E 794, 78 Ind. App 219, denying rehearing 130 N E 440, 78 Ind App 219.

N C—Davis v. Greensboro Warehouse & Storage Co, 120 S E 462, 186 N.C. 676, certiorari denied Greensboro Warehouse & Storage Co. v Davis, 44 S.Ct. 453, 264 U. S. 594, 68 L Ed 866

Ohio.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry Co. v. Mayer, 7 Ohio App 44

S C—Boney v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 126 S E. 46, 130 S.C. 439, 37 A.L.R. 1331.

Notice by mail

(1) Under rules providing therefor, notice by mail may be sufficient

Ga—Payne v. Monroe, 110 S.E. 34, 28 Ga App. 6.

S C.—Boney v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 126 S E 46, 130, S C. 439, 37 A L.R. 1331

(2) Hence, under demurrage rules in tariff filed with interstate commerce commission, providing for notice to consignee within twenty-four hours after arrival of shipment as condition precedent to imposition of demurrage charges, and for deposit of notice in United States mail, "when address of consignee does not appear on billing and is not known," deposit of notice in mail is sufficient, if both conditions exist—Boney v. Atlantic Coast Line R Co, supra.

(3) As provided by a rule of the railroad commission, where a consignor ships goods to himself or to his order, notice mailed to the consignee at the point of delivery is sufficient whether or not the consignee actually receives such notice. —Payne v. Monroe, supra.

64. U S—Davis v. Timmonsville Oil Co, C C.A.S.C, 285 F. 470

N C—Davis v. Greensboro Warehouse & Storage Co, 120 S E. 462 186 N C 676, certiorari denied Greensboro Warehouse & Storage Co v. Davis, 44 S.Ct. 453, 264 U S. 594, 68 L.Ed. 866.

Notice of constructive placement

(1) It has been held that a provision of the carrier's tariff permitting constructive placement on written notice to the consignee is sufficiently complied with where the consignee has received adequate information as to the identity, location, and date of arrival of the car

U S—Davis v. Timmonsville Oil Co, C C A.S.C., 285 F. 470.

N.C.—Davis v Greensboro Warehouse & Storage Co., 120 S.E 462, 186 N C. 676, certiorari denied Greensboro Warehouse & Storage Co v. Davis, 44 S Ct. 453, 264 U S 594, 68 L Ed. 866

(2) Hence, failure to give formal written notice was held not fatal, where notice was given by telephone, on receipt of waybills, of the car numbers and initials, number of bales of cotton, and marks thereon, where it was from, and any other information asked for, followed by the carrier's signature of a form on which the information was entered by the traffic manager in duplicate —Davis v. Greensboro Warehouse & Storage Co, supra.

(3) Also, it has been held that a notice of constructive placement is not rendered insufficient by the mere fact that it fails to state that actual placement was prevented by the consignee's inability to receive actual placement—Davis v. Timmonsville Oil Co, supra

65. Pa—Davis v. Carroll-Porter Boiler & Tank Co, 119 A. 742, 276 Pa. 71.

66. U.S—Minneapolis, St. P & S. S. M. Ry Co v. Van Dusen Harrington Co, C C A.Minn, 272 F. 255—Michigan Cent R Co v. U. S, C.C.A.Mich, 246 F. 353, 158 C C A. 417, certiorari denied 38 S Ct. 333, 246 U S. 663, 62 L Ed. 928

Ind—Ross v. Indiana Natural Gas & Oil Co, 131 N E 794, 78 Ind App. 219, denying rehearing 130 N.E. 440, 78 Ind App 219.

67. U S—Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co. v. Van Dusen Harrington Co., C C A Minn., 272 F. 255

Acquiescence in general practice

(1) Under the demurrage rule which recognizes the validity of agreements in lieu of the written notice required by the rule, a general practice existing at a terminal, for the mutual benefit of consignees and carriers, and generally acquiesced in by the former, is equivalent to an agreement.—Minneapolis, St. P & S. S. M. Ry Co v. Van Dusen Harrington Co., C.C.A.Minn., 272 F 255

(2) Thus, where the carrier, the state commission, and the representatives of shippers, in order to avoid congestion at a terminal, have agreed that cars of wheat shall be inspected at outside points before arrival, and that manifests sent to shippers shall be in lieu of the written notice of arrival required by the carrier's tariff, a shipper who has acquiesced in such practice by receiving such manifests and paying demurrage is liable for demurrage on subsequent shipments until he gives notice of refusal to abide by such practice, although he previously paid demurrage on cars the arrival of which he had personal knowledge—Minneapolis, St. P & S S. M Ry Co v. Van Dusen Harrington Co, C C.A.Minn, 272 F. 255

Acting on information without objection

Notice is given in accordance with the parties' agreement, within the meaning of the rule of the text, where the party to whom the shipment is directed has received all the information to which he is entitled and acts on it without objection.—Ross v. Indiana Natural Gas & Oil Co., 131 N E 794, 78 Ind App. 219, denying rehearing 130 N.E 440, 78 Ind App 219.

68. U.S.—Becher-Barrett-Lockerby

vided by the demurrage rules, a carrier generally cannot charge a consignor or shipper with demurrage on a carload shipment, which the consignee or person to whom it was directed has refused to accept, until the consignor has been properly notified of such nonacceptance [69] However, it has been held that any notice is sufficient which informs the consignor that the shipment has not been accepted, even though the carrier's tariff requires that notice be given in a particular manner,[70] and this is especially so where the circumstances render it impossible to give notice in the particular manner prescribed.[71]

A statute requiring notice to the consignor by telegraph when the shipment has remained unclaimed for a certain number of days has application only where an effort is made to hold the consignor for demurrage charges, and compliance therewith is in no way essential when the liability is asserted against the consignee.[72]

§ 342. Failure of Consignee to Unload in Required Time

The right to demurrage accrues only where the cars have not been unloaded within the time required by the carrier's rules, because of the fault of the person whose duty it is to unload them.

Although it may be otherwise where the cars are used under such circumstances that there is no right to a free period for loading or unloading,[73] or where the charge is for detention at the initial point, as noted in § 335 supra, as a general rule, the right to demurrage accrues only where, because of the fault of a person other than the carrier whose duty it is to unload them, the cars have not been unloaded within the free period allowed or the time required by the rules of the carrier after a proper delivery has been made.[74] Hence, the carrier is not

Co v. Northern Pac. Ry., C.C.A. Minn., 89 F.2d 752

Posting on bulletin board

The practice of posting a notice of the location of a car on a bulletin board is "in vogue," within the meaning of a carrier's reconsignment tariff permitting notification by such means where such practice is in vogue, and a notice so given is sufficient, where the carrier has followed such practice for two years, even though such practice may not have been followed by carriers generally.—Becher-Barrett-Lockerby Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., C.C.A. Minn., 89 F.2d 752.

69. Ala.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry Co. v. Winters Bros., 135 So. 403, 24 Ala App. 342.
Mo.—Chicago, B. & Q. R Co. v. Fowler, 27 S.W.2d 72, 224 Mo. App. 736
Okl.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co v. Waldo, 216 P. 911, 90 Okl. 185, 32 A.L.R. 638
10 C.J. p 468 note 39.

Shipment to consignor's order with directions to notify third person

Where goods are shipped to the consignor's order with directions to notify another person, if such person refuses to accept the shipment, it is the duty of the carrier to notify the consignor of such refusal, and the consignor is not liable for demurrage until he is so notified of such refusal.—Chicago, R. I. & P Ry Co v. Waldo, 216 P. 911, 90 Okl 185, 32 A.L.R. 638.

70. Mo.—Chicago, B. & Q. R Co v. Fowler, 27 S.W.2d 72, 224 Mo App 736

Notice by mail

(1) Notice by mail has been held to be sufficient, even though the carrier's tariff provides that notice shall be by wire.—Chicago, B & Q. R Co. v. Fowler, 27 S.W.2d 72, 224 Mo App 736.

(2) The only effect of a carrier's notification of a consignor by mail, rather than by wire, as provided for in a rule of the carrier, is to defer the time when demurrage begins to accrue.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry Co v. Winter Bros., 135 So. 403, 24 Ala App. 342.

71. Ala.—Nashville, C. & St L. Ry. Co. v. Winter Bros., supra.

Impossibility of notice by wire

Where there is no telegraphic service in the consignor's community, notice to the consignor by mail is sufficient, even though a rule of the carrier provides that notice shall be sent to the consignor by wire—Nashville, C. & St L. Ry Co. v. Winter Bros., 135 So. 403, 24 Ala App 342.

72. S.C.—Boney v. Atlantic Coast Line R Co., 126 S.E 46, 130 S.C. 439, 37 A.L.R. 1331

73. Mich.—Saginaw Valley Lumber Dealers' Ass'n v Michigan Public Utilities Commission, 218 N.W 695, 242 Mich. 383

Use in industrial plant

Where cars are used by an industry in intra-plant service, there is no "loading" or "unloading" within the meaning of a tariff allowing a free period for loading and unloading, and there is liability for demurrage without any free-time allowance.—Saginaw Valley Lumber Dealers' Ass'n v Michigan Public Utilities Commission, 218 N.W 695, 242 Mich 383

74. U.S.—Cleveland, C, C. & St. L Ry. Co v New York, C. & St L Ry Co., C.C.A Ind, 11 F.2d 850.
Ala.—U S Fidelity & Guaranty Co v. Central of Georgia Ry Co, 147 So. 891, 226 Ala 606, 87 A.L.R. 1028—Louisville & N R Co v Camody, 84 So 824, 203 Ala 522, reversing 82 So 648, 17 Ala App. 158, conformed to 85 So. 846, 17 Ala App. 370—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry Co. v. Winters Bros, 135 So. 403, 24 Ala App. 342
Miss.—Lexington Compress & Oil Mill Co v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co., 95 So 92, 131 Miss 49.
N.J.—New York, S & W. R. Co. v. Taylor-Fichter Steel Const Co., 189 A 52, 117 N.J Law 425, affirming 186 A 462, 14 N.J Misc. 567
Okl.—Garrison Coal Co v. Hines, 247 P. 62, 118 Okl. 251, 46 A.L.R 1151—Atchison, T. & S. F Ry Co. v. Johnson, 225 P 939, 99 Okl. 72.
Tex.—Payne v White House Lumber Co., Civ.App, 231 S.W 417.
10 C.J. p 468 notes 40–42.

Carrier's agreement to unload

An agreement by which a carrier is to unload cars cannot render the consignee liable for demurrage charges in the absence of a showing that the delay in unloading is attributable to the fault of the consignee.—New York, S & W R Co. v. Taylor-Fichter Steel Const. Co, 189 A. 52, 117 N.J Law, 425, affirming 186 A. 462, 14 N.J Misc 567.

Timely unloading held to preclude demurrage

Where the rules of a carrier provided that forty-eight hours' free time would be allowed on all commodities for loading and unloading, and the carrier had led a consignee to believe that freight would not be due until a car was delivered on a siding, the consignee had forty-eight hours, after the car was placed on such siding in a proper position for entitled to demurrage merely because it is unable to handle incoming cars immediately,[75] or because a car is not unloaded immediately after placement;[76] and, as will be seen in § 345 infra, it is usually held that the payment of demurrage is excused if the detention or delay in unloading for which the charge is sought to be made was due to the fault of the carrier or vis major.

§ 343. Construction of Demurrage Rules and Contracts

Demurrage rules and contracts are to be given such effect as was intended by the parties.

Generally speaking, demurrage rules or contracts are to be given such effect as was intended by the parties.[77] In order to ascertain such intention, resort is to be had primarily to the language of the rule or contract.[78] Where it is clear and unambiguous, the language used is conclusive, and the rule or contract will be enforced according to its terms.[79] In such circumstances, an intention or understanding at variance with that clearly expressed by the language employed,[80] such as a usage or custom of the parties to other effect,[81] is immaterial and of no effect.

On the other hand, if the language employed is ambiguous, resort will be had to construction in order to ascertain and give effect to the parties' intention.[82] In such a case the intention of the parties may be gathered not only from the language as unloading, within which to unload the car and pay the freight charges, and, where the freight charges were paid and the car was unloaded within the forty-eight hours, demurrage was improperly collected.—Fennell Infirmary v. Southern R. Co., 85 S.E. 237, 101 S C 134.

Penalty for failure to unload within required time see infra § 513.

75. Ala.—U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co, 147 So. 891, 226 Ala. 606, 87 A.L R 1028.

76. Wis.—Wooley v. Chicago, etc., R Co., 136 N W. 616, 150 Wis. 183.

77. U S.—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M. & St P Ry Co., Mo., 46 S Ct 530, 271 U. S 259, 70 L Ed. 934, affirming, D C, 2 F.2d 291—Menasha Paper Co. v Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co, 36 S. Ct 501, 241 U S. 55, 60 L.Ed 885, affirming Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co v. Menasha Paper Co, 149 N.W 751, 159 Wis. 508—Raleigh Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Virginian Ry. Co., C.C A.Va., 43 F 2d 555—Krauss Bros Lumber Co v. Mellon, C C A Ala., 30 F 2d 901, conforming to mandate 48 S.Ct 358, 276 U.S 386, 72 L Ed. 620, which reversed, C C A., 18 F.2d 369, certiorari granted 48 S Ct 35, 275 U.S. 513, 72 L Ed. 400, amended 48 S.Ct. 527, 72 L Ed. 1018, certiorari denied 49 S Ct 513, 279 U S 872, 73 L Ed 1008—Main Island Creek Coal Co. v Chesapeake & O. Ry Co, C C A Ky, 23 F. 2d 248—Emmons Coal Mining Co v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., C C A.Pa, 3 F 2d 525, affirmed 47 S Ct 254, 272 U S 709, 71 L.Ed 485—Granger v. Davis, C C.A Ohio, 2 F.2d 695—Toledo & O C. Ry. Co v Chesapeake & Ohio Coal & Coke Co., D C.W.Va., 238 F 629, affirmed Chesapeake & Ohio Coal & Coke Co v. Toledo & O. C Ry Co, 245 F 917, 158 C C.A 205, error allowed Chesapeake & Ohio Coal & Coke Co. v. Toledo & O. C Ry. Co., 247 F. 1002, 159 C.C.A. 662, and error dismissed 39 S.Ct 289, 249 U S. 585, 63 L.Ed. 788—National Refining Co v St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co., C.C A Ohio, 237 F. 347, 150 C. C.A. 361, affirming, D.C, St. Louis, I M & S Ry. Co. v. National Refining Co, 226 F. 357.
Ala.—U. S Fidelity & Guaranty Co v. Central of Georgia Ry Co., 147 So 891, 226 Ala. 606, 87 A.L R 1028.
Cal.—Southern Pac Co. v Grangers' Business Ass'n, 1 P.2d 477, 115 Cal App 256.
Ind.—Davis v. Steele, 146 N E. 425, 83 Ind App. 300, petition denied 147 N E 632, 83 Ind App 300.
La.—Mellon v. J. M. Burguieres Co., 120 So. 15, 167 La 583, mandate conformed to, App, 121 So. 215—Davis v. Ferguson, 132 So. 289, 17 La App. 149, avoided on other grounds 136 So. 293, 173 La. 132—Kansas City Southern Ry. v. Baker Gasoline Co, 127 So. 442, 13 La. App. 106.
Mo.—Milne Lumber Co v. Michigan Cent. R. Co, App, 57 S.W.2d 732.
N J.—New York, S. & W. R. Co v. Taylor-Fichter Steel Const. Co., 186 A. 462, 14 N J Misc. 567, affirmed 189 A 52, 117 N J.Law 425.
Ohio—Baltimore & O. S R. Co v. Proctor & Gamble Co, 31 Ohio N. P.,N S, 169.
Va.—Smokeless Fuel Co v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 140 S.E 823, 149 Va 13—James v. Norfolk & W Ry Co, 129 S E 321, 143 Va 865—North Shore Improvement Co v New York, P. & N. R Co., 108 S E. 11, 130 Va. 464
Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission of Washington, 162 P. 523, 94 Wash 274.

78. U.S.—Main Island Creek Coal Co v Chesapeake & O Ry. Co, C. C A Ky, 23 F 2d 248
Cal.—Southern Pac. Co v. Grangers' Business Ass'n, 1 P.2d 477, 115 Cal App. 256
Ind.—Davis v. Steele, 146 N.E. 425, 83 Ind App. 300, petition denied 147 N.E. 632, 83 Ind.App. 300.
Ohio.—Baltimore & O. S R Co. v. Proctor & Gamble Co., 21 Ohio N. P.,N S, 169
Va.—North Shore Improvement Co. v. New York, P. & N. R. Co, 108 S.E. 11, 130 Va. 464.
10 C J. p 468 note 44.

79. U.S.—Main Island Creek Coal Co v. Chesapeake & O. Ry Co., C C.A.Ky, 23 F 2d 248.
Cal.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Grangers' Business Ass'n, 1 P.2d 477, 115 Cal App. 256.
Ind.—Davis v. Steele, 146 N.E. 425, 83 Ind App 300, petition denied 147 N E. 632, 83 Ind App. 300
Mo.—McGee v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 71 Mo App. 310
Ohio.—Baltimore & O. S. R. Co. v. Proctor & Gamble Co, 21 Ohio N. P.,N S, 169
Va.—North Shore Improvement Co. v. New York, P. & N R. Co., 108 S E. 11, 130 Va. 464.

80. U.S.—Main Island Creek Coal Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry Co, C. C.A Ky., 23 F 2d 248
Ohio.—Baltimore & O. S. R. Co v. Proctor & Gamble Co, 21 Ohio N. P.,N.S, 169.
Va.—North Shore Improvement Co v. New York, P. & N. R. Co, 108 S E. 11, 130 Va. 464.

81. U S.—Main Island Creek Coal Co v. Chesapeake & O Ry. Co, C. C A Ky, 23 F 2d 248
Va.—North Shore Improvement Co. v. New York, P. & N. R. Co., 108 S E 11, 130 Va. 464

82. U S.—Raleigh Smokeless Fuel Co v. Virginian Ry. Co, C C.A Va., 43 F 2d 555—National Refining Co. v. St Louis, I M & S. Ry. Co, Ohio, 237 F. 347, 150 C C.A. 361, affirming, D C, St. Louis, I M & S. Ry Co. v National Refining Co, 226 F. 357
Ala.—U S Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co, 147

a whole,[83] but consideration may be given to extrinsic circumstances,[84] such as the purpose sought to be achieved,[85] or a custom or usage of the parties[86]

If the ambiguity occurs in a rule promulgated by the carrier, such rule will be construed most strongly against the carrier and in favor of the person whose duty it is to load or unload and who had no part in the formulation of the rule;[87] and the court will not give a rule a broader construction than its language indicates, unless the reason of the thing and the surrounding circumstances require it so to do.[88]

Where a demurrage rule or contract is reasonably susceptible of two constructions, one of which is legal and the other of which would render it illegal, the courts will ordinarily adopt the construction which will sustain the legality of the rule or contract,[89] since an illegal result will not be presumed to have been intended.[90]

A joint practical construction acquiesced in by the carrier during the existence of an emergency is not available to the shipper with respect to a demurrage claim arising after the emergency has passed and the carrier has given notice that the practice will be discontinued.[91]

If the parties have agreed that a proposed demurrage agreement shall not be effective until the carrier has furnished the other party a signed copy of it, the receipt of an unsigned copy imposes no liability although it is accompanied by a letter stating that it has been signed.[92]

Pursuant to the foregoing rules, and the rules already discussed in § 303 supra, the courts have construed and given effect to demurrage rules or provisions relating to the period or time during which the demurrage tariff should be in effect,[93] the time from which the free period for unloading should be computed,[94] the length of such period,[95] the time when, and circumstances under which, a car should be regarded as released,[96] the particular type of

So 891, 226 Ala. 606, 87 A.L.R 1028.

83. U S —Emmons Coal Mining Co. v Norfolk & W. Ry Co, C C A Pa, 3 F.2d 525, affirmed 47 S Ct. 254, 272 U.S. 709, 71 L Ed. 485.

Va.—Smokeless Fuel Co v. Chesapeake & O Ry. Co, 140 S.E. 823, 149 Va. 13.

84. U S —Raleigh Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Virginian Ry Co, C C A.Va., 43 F.2d 555—National Refining Co v. St Louis, I. M. & S Ry. Co, Ohio, 237 F. 347, 150 C C.A. 361, affirming, D C., St. Louis, I M. & S Ry Co v. National Refining Co., 226 F. 357.

85. U S.—National Refining Co. v St. Louis, I. M. & S Ry. Co, supra

86. U S —Raleigh Smokeless Fuel Co. v Virginian Ry. Co, C C A Va., 43 F.2d 555.

87. Ala.—U. S Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v Central of Georgia Ry Co, 147 So. 891, 226 Ala 606, 87 A.L.R 1028.
10 C.J. p 468 note 44

88. U S.—Raleigh Smokeless Fuel Co. v Virginian Ry. Co, C C.A.Va., 43 F 2d 555
Ala.—U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co v. Central of Georgia Ry Co, 147 So 891, 226 Ala. 606, 87 A.L R. 1028.
10 C.J. p 468 note 44.

89. Wash —State v Public Service Commission of Washington, 162 P 523, 94 Wash 274

Illegal application to interstate commerce

A reciprocal demurrage rule has been held not to be applicable to cars in interstate commerce where it is not expressly applicable thereto, and, if applicable, would be illegal. —State v Public Service Commission of Washington, 162 P. 523, 94 Wash. 274.

90. Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission of Washington, supra.

91. U S.—Main Island Creek Coal Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co, C.C.A.Ky, 23 F 2d 248.

92. N.J —New York, S & W. R. Co. v. Taylor-Fichter Steel Const. Co, 186 A. 462, 14 N.J Misc. 567, affirmed 189 A. 52, 117 N.J.Law 425.

93. Seasonal tariff

A local tariff providing special demurrage rules and charges on particular property held for transhipment during a specified season of the year has been held to be only a seasonal tariff, and not to preclude the recovery of demurrage on shipments commenced between such seasons, although such recovery is based on a tariff which does not go into effect until after the commencement of such shipments —Toledo & O C Ry. Co v. Chesapeake & Ohio Coal & Coke Co., D C W Va., 238 F. 629, affirmed Chesapeake & Ohio Coal & Coke Co v. Toledo & O C Ry. Co, 245 F. 917, 158 C C A. 205, error allowed Chesapeake & Ohio Coal & Coke Co v Toledo & O C Ry. Co., 247 F 1002, 159 C C A 662, and error dismissed 39 S Ct 289, 249 U.S. 585, 63 L.Ed. 788.

94. Computation from day after arrival

(1) Under the rules of the interstate commerce commission, demurrage must be computed from seven A. M. of the day following the arrival of the car in the railroad yard, thus excluding the day on which the car actually arrives, but including the day of its release —New Jersey Cent R. Co v Morrisdale Coal Co, 22 Pa Dist. 712, 714.

(2) Such method of computing the free time is in accordance with a statutory provision that, "time in all cases shall be so computed as to exclude the first and include the last days of any such prescribed period or duration of time."—New Jersey Cent. R Co. v Morrisdale Coal Co, supra.

95. Length of time dependent on "capacity" of cars

The word "capacity" in a statute allowing a specified time for unloading cars of a particular capacity has been held to mean, not the estimated carrying capacity of the car, but the weight of the load —E R. Darlington Lumber Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co, 116 S W 530, 216 Mo 658.

96. Release and substitution of cars held by coal exchange

(1) A coal tariff providing for demurrage until coal is ordered out by the shipper has been construed to authorize the charging of demurrage against a member of a shippers' coal exchange until he has ordered out a quantity of coal equal to that shipped by him, notwithstanding his cars have already been ordered out by another member, where, in accordance with an agreement of the members of the coal exchange, substituted cars are held awaiting the order of the first member car[97] or holding[98] for which demurrage is to be charged, or the type of place or track on which the cars must be held or detained to be subject to, or exempt from, demurrage.[99] The construction of provisions relating to matters specifically dealt with in the preceding and following sections on demurrage will be found considered in those sections.
U.S —Emmons Coal Mining Co. v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co, C.C.A.Pa.,

§ 344. Who Liable for Demurrage

As a general rule, the person primarily liable for 3 F.2d 525, affirmed 47 S.Ct. 254, 272 U.S. 709, 71 L.Ed. 485.

Va.—James v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 129 S.E. 321, 143 Va. 865—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 128 S.E. 624, 142 Va. 355

(2) In such a case, the shipping member is not relieved by a tariff rule providing that coal car should be deemed released when vessel registered for cargo or fuel supply, "except that, when cars are unloaded before vessel registers, such cars shall be released when unloaded."
U.S.—Emmons Coal Mining Co. v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., supra.
Va.—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., supra.

(3) Such a practice does not constitute the giving of a service to members not given to nonmembers under the tariff, since the substitution does not essentially change the situation between the shipper and the carrier from what it was prior to substitution, in that the carrier continues to have its cars detained and the shipper continues to have title to an amount of coal equal to that originally shipped by him.
U.S.—Emmons Coal Mining Co. v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., supra.
Va.—James v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., supra—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., supra.

(4) Moreover, this is so although the amount paid by a particular member is different from what it would be if he were a nonmember where the rate charged by the carrier is the same irrespective of whether the shipper is a member or nonmember.—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., supra.

Unloading in order of arrival

(1) Under a tariff and agreement not requiring a carrier to unload cars in the order of their arrival demurrage may be computed by any rule not increasing its aggregate amount over what it would be were cars unloaded in the order of arrival.—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 140 S.E. 823, 149 Va. 13.

(2) Thus, although not expressly authorizing demurrage on cars not unloaded in the order of arrival, a coal tariff providing for settlement on the basis of detention of cars released during a month has been construed to authorize the charging of demurrage, computed in accordance with an "average demurrage agreement" of the members of a shippers' coal exchange, on cars not unloaded by the carrier in the order of arrival, provided the aggregate amount of such charge is not increased over what it would be were the cars unloaded in the order of arrival.—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., supra.

97. "Cars in railroad service"

(1) Cars to which a carrier may resort for the purpose of discharging its duty to supply cars necessary to accommodate the traffic passing over its road have been held to be "in railroad service" within the meaning of a carrier's tariff imposing demurrage on such cars.—National Refining Co. v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co., Ohio, 237 F. 347, 150 C.C.A. 361, affirming, D.C., St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. National Refining Co., 226 F. 357.

(2) In accordance therewith, private cars used for transportation purposes by the carrier with the owner's consent have been held to be "in railroad service" within the meaning of such tariff.—National Refining Co. v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co., supra.

Nature or type of load

(1) A tariff providing for demurrage except as to cars loaded with specified types of freight has been held to authorize demurrage on cars loaded with types of freight not expressly excepted.—Davis v. Ferguson, 132 So. 289, 17 La.App. 149, avoided on other grounds 136 So. 293, 173 La. 132.

(2) Thus a tariff not expressly excepting from its operation cars loaded with hay has been held to authorize demurrage on cars so loaded.—Davis v. Ferguson, supra.

"Private cars"

(1) A demurrage tariff provision, exempting "private cars," including leased cars, from demurrage, is not limited in its application to cars leased from an owner other than a railroad.—Mellon v. J. M. Burguieres Co., 120 So. 15, 167 La. 583, mandate conformed to, App., 121 So. 215.

(2) Hence, railroad cars, assigned exclusively to sugar manufacturer for sugar-making season, are "private cars" within such exemption.—Mellon v. J. M. Burguieres Co., supra.

98. Holding for reconsignment or reshipment

(1) Cars consigned to members of hay and grain exchange, whose yards could not hold them, necessitating storage by railroad elsewhere, although not intended to be unloaded in plugging yard of consignee but merely to be plugged and inspected for resale on sample, are subject to demurrage, under a demurrage tariff imposing such charge on "cars held for or by consignors or consignees for loading, unloading, forwarding directions, or for any other purposes."—Granger v. Davis, C.C.A. Ohio, 2 F.2d 695.

(2) In such a case, since the cars are merely "plugged" or unloaded to the extent necessary for inspection they are not cars held for "loading or unloading."—Granger v. Davis, supra.

(3) They are, however, cars held for "reshipment or reconsignment" and are governed by rule published in demurrage tariff providing for free time where cars "are held" for consignment or reshipment in same car, the words "are held" meaning held either by consignors or consignees.—Granger v. Davis, supra.

Reconsignment to embargo points

A rule providing that demurrage is not collectable, under tariffs containing no restrictions against reconsignment to embargo points, has been held inapplicable to shipper intending to evade embargo.—Krauss Bros. Lumber Co. v. Mellon, C.C.A.Ala., 30 F.2d 901, conforming to 48 S.Ct. 358, 276 U.S. 386, 72 L.Ed. 620, which reversed, C.C.A., 18 F.2d 369, certiorari granted 48 S.Ct. 35, 275 U.S. 513, 72 L.Ed. 400, amended 48 S.Ct. 527, 72 L.Ed. 1018, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 513, 279 U.S. 872, 73 L.Ed. 1008.

99. Cars held at "mine sidings"

Carrier's yard tracks one hundred miles from the shipper's mines have been held not to constitute "mine sidings," within the meaning of a tariff excepting loaded coal cars held at mine sidings from demurrage, even where by usage such yards had been regarded as mine sidings for the purposes of such tariff.—Main Island Creek Coal Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ky., 23 F.2d 248.

Privately owned tracks

(1) A track owned by the carrier is not a private track within the meaning of a tariff excepting private cars from demurrage where held on tracks owned by the owner of the cars.—Kansas City Southern Ry. v. Baker Gasoline Co., 127 So. 442, 13 La.App. 106.

(2) Furthermore, this is so although the track is situated on the consignee's premises.—National Refining Co. v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co., Ohio, 237 F. 347, 150 C.C.A. 361, affirming, D.C., St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. National Refining Co., 226 F. 357.

demurrage charges is the one through whose default or breach of duty the detention or delay in unloading occurred.

As a general rule, the person primarily liable for demurrage charges is the one through whose default or breach of duty the detention or delay in unloading occurred.[1]

Very often the consignee is the person held liable for demurrage charges due to the fact that, in accordance with the rules stated in § 316 supra, he has in some sufficient manner assumed the responsibility therefor or the duty to unload the shipment.[2] Moreover, if the consignee has bound himself to accept the shipment, he cannot relieve himself from liability for demurrage charges thereon by requesting the carrier not to make delivery,[3] or by refusing to accept the goods,[4] nor can he escape liability for such charges by setting up lack of notice of the rescission of an illegal embargo.[5] Also, if the consignee assumes liability by exercising control over the shipment, his liability is not affected by the fact that the goods contained in the shipment do not conform to the contract between him and the consignor.[6] The consignee is not liable for demurrage, however, if he has in no manner authorized the shipment to be made in his behalf or assumed to exercise control or dominion over it; and he cannot be held responsible for demurrage if he countermands his order for the shipment before the goods have been delivered to the carrier and refuses to accept them upon their arrival.[7] It has been held that a consignee accepting and unloading a shipment does not impliedly contract to pay unknown demurrage charges which accrued because the cars were kept out of service at intermediate points; and that the carrier may be estopped to collect such charges from the consignee where it delays for many years and instructs him to pay the full purchase price to the vendor who was primarily responsible for the charges.[8] A shipping exchange or association, which received shipments only as agent for the shippers and owners, is not liable for demurrage, although named as consignee in the bills of lading, where the contract with the carrier clearly contemplated that the members of the exchange rather than the exchange itself should be liable for demurrage.[9]

It has been said that a person who is both consignor and consignee is the party primarily responsible for demurrage; and the carrier may collect the charges from him after the goods have been delivered to a third person at his positive and unconditional direction.[10] The shipper or consignor may be subject to liability where the consignee has refused to receive the shipment and the former has been given notice of such nonacceptance,[11] or

1. U.S.—Emmons Coal Mining Co. v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., C C A Pa., 3 F 2d 525, affirming, D.C., Norfolk & W. Ry. Co v. Emmons Coal Mining Co, 287 F. 168, affirmed 47 S Ct. 254, 272 U.S 709, 71 L Ed 485
Miss.—Vanderbilt v. Planters' Oil Mill & Gin Co, 106 So. 14, 140 Miss. 427.
Pa.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v L. B Foster Co, 81 Pa Super. 304.
W.Va.—Davis v. Lawrence Oil & Gas Co., 117 S E 692, 94 W.Va. 73, 30 A.L R 163

2. U S—Davis v. Timmonsville Oil Co., C C A S.C, 285 F 470.
Ill.—Indiana Harbor Belt R Co. v. Lieberman, 245 Ill App. 503
N C.—Davis v Greensboro Warehouse & Storage Co., 120 S E 462, 186 N.C. 676, certiorari denied Greensboro Warehouse & Storage Co. v. Davis, 44 S.Ct. 453, 264 U. S. 594, 68 L.Ed 866
Ohio.—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Rice Coal Co., 148 N E. 349, 113 Ohio St 34—S. A. Gerrard Co v New York, N H & H R Co, 176 N E 126, 39 Ohio App. 84
S C.—Boney v Atlantic Coast Line R Co, 126 S E. 46, 130 S C 439, 37 A L R- 1313
Va.—Eastern Coal & Export Corporation v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co, 138 S.E. 471, 148 Va. 140, certiorari denied 48 S Ct 207, 276 U.S 615, 72 L Ed 732.
W.Va—Davis v Lawrence Oil & Gas Co, 117 S.E 692, 94 W Va 73, 30 A L R. 163.
10 C.J. p 470 note 69.

Acceptance and unloading of cars by consignee renders him liable for demurrage charges although the shipment was unauthorized and he did everything within his power to prevent it from being made.—Davis v Timmonsville Oil Co., C C A S C, 285 F. 470.

Original consignee giving diversion order held liable for demurrage charges where consignee in diversion order refused shipment.—S. A Gerrard Co. v. New York, N. H & H R Co., 176 N.E 126, 39 Ohio App. 84

3. U.S.—Menasha Paper Co v. Chicago & Northwestern Ry. Co., Wis, 36 S.Ct. 501, 241 U S. 55, 60 L Ed. 885.

4. Ga—Southern Flour & Grain Co v. Seaboard Air Line Ry, 95 S E. 997, 22 Ga.App. 403.

5. U S.—Menasha Paper Co. v. Chicago & Northwestern Ry. Co., Wis, 36 S Ct. 501, 241 U S. 55, 60 L Ed 885

6. W Va—Davis v Lawrence Oil & Gas Co, 117 S.E. 692, 94 W.Va 73, 30 A.L.R. 163

7. S C—Davis v. Allen, 117 S.E 547, 124 S C 297

8. Ohio—Cleveland, C, C. & St. L Ry Co v McKenzie Lumber Co, 147 N E. 8, 112 Ohio St. 80

9. U S—In re Tidewater Coal Exch, D C.Va, 292 F 225, affirmed, C.C A, 296 F. 701, certiorari denied Davis v. Coyle, 44 S.Ct. 454, 264 U S. 596, 68 L Ed. 868.
Va—James v Norfolk & W. Ry. Co, 129 S E 321, 143 Va. 865.

10. Pa—Baltimore & O R. Co. v. L. B Foster Co., 81 Pa Super. 304.

11. Ohio—S. A. Gerrard Co v. New York, N H & H. R Co., 176 N E. 126, 39 Ohio App 84—Moores Lime Co v Norfolk & W. Ry. Co, 6 Ohio App 159.
Tex.—Reed v. Southern Pac. Co., Civ. App., 99 S W 2d 1026, error dismissed
10 C J. p 469 note 53.

After rejection by reconsignee

Where the consignor has notice that a consignee had refused to accept carloads of goods, and directs the carrier to reship them, with direction "to allow all charges to follow," and the second consignee also refuses to accept the goods, the consignor will be liable for demurrage. —Baltimore, etc, R. Co. v. Samuel, 48 Pa Super. 274.

where the shipper knows that the consignee cannot pay for the goods, and that he himself is expected to pay for the use of the car while the goods are in it, and he allows them to remain on the tracks until sold to another party.[12] Under a tariff providing for the collection of demurrage charges from the owner or consignee, the carrier does not waive its right to collect demurrage from the consignor, as owner, by collecting the regular charges from the consignee without demanding the payment of demurrage by the latter.[13] A consignor cannot be held for demurrage charges where the carrier fails to comply with an order of the director of railroads requiring goods to be sold before the charges thereon equalled or exceeded their value.[14]

A person, who is neither the consignor nor consignee, may assume liability for demurrage charges by express contract or undertaking,[15] or by accepting or exercising dominion over the shipment;[16] and it is immaterial that he was acting as an agent for the consignor or consignee if he entered into the contract as a principal.[17] However, in the absence of special arrangement, a railroad normally has no right to collect demurrage from a vessel which has discharged the cargo into the cars, or the owner of such vessel.[18]

The assignee of the bill of lading who receives the goods thereunder is liable for demurrage when demurrage is due,[19] and it is immaterial that the purchase of the freight by obtaining the bills of lading properly indorsed was made after the arrival of the freight which had been shipped to the order of the consignor.[20] Moreover, the assignee of the bill of lading is not relieved from liability by reason of the fact that notice of arrival was only given to the consignee as required by the terms of the bill of lading.[21]

One carrier detaining the cars of another road may be liable to the latter for their use during such detention.[22]

Stockyards company. Under a carrier's demurrage rules, a stockyards company operating a terminal railroad may be liable for demurrage on cars delivered to it as consignee, but not on cars delivered to it as a connecting carrier for transportation to consignees whose plants were reached by such terminal company's lines.[23]

A cotton compress company which does not authorize shippers to consign cotton to it and does not

Sale for charges

A consignor is liable for demurrage charges from the date it receives notice of the consignee's refusal to accept the shipment to the date on which the carrier is entitled, under a statute, to sell the shipment for its charges—Lancaster & Wallace v Louisiana Cypress Lumber Co, 7 La App. 9.

Necessity of notice of nonacceptance to hold shipper see supra § 341

12. Tex.—Hunt v. Missouri, etc, R. Co, Civ App, 31 S W 523.

13. U.S—Main Island Creek Coal Co v. Chesapeake & O Ry. Co, C C.A Ky., 23 F.2d 248

14. U S—Davis v. Smutzinger, C C. A Pa, 281 F 640

15. U S—Emmons Coal Mining Co v. Norfolk & W Ry. Co., Pa, 47 S Ct. 254, 272 U.S 709, 71 L Ed 485, affirming, C C A, 3 F 2d 525, affirming, D C, Norfolk & W. Ry. Co v Emmons Coal Mining Co., 287 F. 168

Cal—Southern Pac. Co. v Grangers' Business Ass'n, 1 P 2d 477, 115 Cal App 256

Va—James v Norfolk & W Ry. Co, 129 S.E 321, 143 Va. 865

Shipping exchange

(1) Member of shipping exchange may assume liability for demurrage on shipments of which exchange is consignee by contract entered into when he became a member of the exchange.

U S—Emmons Coal Mining Co. v Norfolk & W. Ry. Co, Pa., 47 S Ct. 254, 272 U S. 709, 71 L Ed 485, affirming, C.C A., 3 F 2d 525, affirming, D C, Norfolk & W. Ry Co v. Emmons Coal Mining Co., 287 F 168.

Va.—J Aron & Co. v. Chesapeake & O Ry Co, 151 S E 126, 153 Va 691—Smokeless Fuel Co v Chesapeake & O Ry Co., 140 S E. 823, 149 Va 13—James v. Norfolk & W Ry. Co., 129 S.E. 321, 143 Va 865.

(2) Where the pooling agreement prohibits a transfer of shipments after they are placed in the pool, a member cannot relieve himself from liability for subsequently accruing demurrage by a transfer of his shipment to another member, although the tariff provides that the transfer of a shipment will relieve the transferor from liability for subsequently accruing demurrage, as such provision applies only where the right to transfer has not been surrendered by contract

U S—Emmons Coal Mining Company v Norfolk & W Ry. Co, C C A.Pa, 3 F 2d 525, affirming, D C, Norfolk & W Ry. Co v Emmons Coal Mining Co, 287 F 168, and affirmed 47 S.Ct. 254, 272 U.S 709, 71 L Ed 485

Va—Eastern Coal & Export Corporation v Norfolk & W. Ry. Co, 138 S E. 471, 148 Va. 140, certiorari denied 48 S Ct. 207, 276 U.S. 615, 72 L Ed 732.

16. N.Y.—New York Cent. R Co. v. Hendel, 207 N.Y S. 234, 123 Misc. 907.

Pa.—Pennsylvania Railroad Co. v. Young, 88 Pa Super 332.

17. Cal.—Southern Pac Co. v Grangers' Business Ass'n, 1 P 2d 477, 115 Cal App. 256.

Warehouseman may be liable for demurrage on cars shipped by others in its care, where it contracts as principal to be liable for such charges—Southern Pac Co v. Grangers' Business Ass'n, 1 P.2d 477, 115 Cal App. 256

18. U.S—California & Eastern S S Co. v. 138,000 Feet of Lumber, D C Md, 23 F.2d 95.

19. N.Y—New York Cent. R Co. v Hendel, 207 N Y S. 234, 123 Misc. 907.

Okl—Atchison, T & S F. Ry. Co v. Johnson, 225 P 939, 99 Okl 72. 10 C J. p 469 note 55.

20. Ohio—Cincinnati, etc, Tract Co. v Norfolk, etc, R. Co, 28 Ohio Cir. Ct 543

21. Okl.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co v Johnson, 225 P. 939, 99 Okl. 72

22. Ky.—Kentucky Wagon Mfg Co. v. Ohio, etc, R. Co., 32 S.W. 595, 98 Ky. 152, 17 Ky.L. 726, 56 Am.S. R 326, 36 L R A 850.

23. U.S—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Union Stockyards Co., Neb., 204 F. 757, 123 C C.A. 131.

accept cotton as a consignee, but as an agent of the owners delivers cotton to a railroad for transportation and collects from it the compress charges, is not liable to the carrier for demurrage.[24]

§ 345. Excuses for Nonpayment

The payment of demurrage charges may be excused or avoided if the detention or delay in unloading for which the charge is sought to be made was due to the fault of the carrier or the intervention of vis major.

Payment of demurrage is usually excused or avoided if the detention or delay in unloading for which the charge is sought to be made was due to the fault of the carrier rather than a default or breach of duty of the consignee or shipper;[25] and it has also been held that the fact that the detention or delay was due to the intervention of vis major may constitute an excuse, where the obligation to pay is imposed by law instead of by express contract between the parties,[26] but there is other authority to the effect that if the demurrage rules provide no exception from liability under such circumstances the courts can make none.[27]

In accordance with the foregoing, it has been held that a carrier is not entitled to collect demurrage for a detention or delay due to the fact that the carrier detained the cars because of a strike on another line;[28] that the carrier failed to perform its contract to unload the shipment;[29] that the carrier failed to notify the shipper of an embargo until after cars were loaded;[30] that the carrier had gotten into a controversy with associated carriers as to the division of joint rates;[31] that the carrier placed obstructions in the way of the unloading by delivering the cars in unreasonably large numbers or otherwise choking or overtaxing the consignee's unloading facilities;[32] that the carrier refused to sur-

24. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Capital Compress Co., 110 S.W. 1014, 50 Tex.Civ.App. 572.

25. U.S.—Cleveland C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. New York, C. & St. L. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ind., 11 F.2d 850—Granger v. Davis, C.C.A.Ohio, 2 F.2d 695.
Ark.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Ft. Smith Compress Co., 210 S.W. 147, 138 Ark. 1.
Miss.—Lexington Compress & Oil Mill Co. v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co., 95 So. 92, 131 Miss. 49.
Mo.—Milne Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., App., 57 S.W.2d 732—Buschow Lumber Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 276 S.W. 409, 220 Mo.App. 743.
N.Y.—Lee v. Erie R. Co., 158 N.Y.S. 730, 173 App.Div. 75.
Ohio—Troy Wagon Works Co. v. C., H. & D. Ry. Co., 3 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 412.
Pa.—Clark v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 79 Pa.Super. 159.
Tex.—Hill County v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., Civ.App., 31 S.W.2d 868—Davis v. Martin, Civ.App., 287 S.W. 113.
Va.—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 140 S.E. 823, 149 Va. 13.
10 C.J. p. 469 notes 60–62.

Limitation of rule

"Fault on the part of the carrier, does not preclude the collection of demurrage from the consignee for detention for which the latter is responsible, but it does preclude the collection of demurrage for detention due to the fault of the carrier"—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 140 S.E. 823, 829, 149 Va. 13.

Default under contract with compress company

(1) A stipulation, in an agreement between a railroad and a cotton compress company, that latter would not hold railroad for penalties or damages for failure to furnish cars, was not an agreement on part of compress company not to set up as a defense, in a suit by the railroad for demurrage on unloaded cars, that it was prevented from carrying out its contract to unload cars by refusal of railroad to furnish cars to load out cotton already compressed.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Ft. Smith Compress Co., 210 S.W. 147, 138 Ark. 1.

(2) In view of the evidence it was held that, under such a contract, it was not contemplated that compress company was to depend upon other railroads for empty cars to be loaded with outbound cotton, so as to relieve the contracting railroad of duty to furnish such cars.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Ft. Smith Compress Co., supra.

(3) The fact the compress company did not give written notice of congestion in accordance with contract provision that compress company could by giving written notice of a congestion refuse to receive more cotton, did not entitle carrier to recover demurrage on unloaded cars due to congestion, where its agents had knowledge of congestion at all times and that situation was being constantly accentuated.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Ft. Smith Compress Co., supra.

Provision of a demurrage tariff, that no demurrage charges shall be assessed for detention of cars through railroad errors or omissions, refers to such errors and omissions after placement of the cars on delivery track and notice thereof.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. U. S., Mich., 246 F. 353, 158 C.C.A. 417, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 333, 246 U.S. 663, 62 L.Ed. 928.

26. U.S.—Southern Ry. Co. v. White, C.C.A.Tenn., 284 F. 560, 26 A.L.R. 1429.
Ohio.—Joslin-Schmidt Co. v. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co., 6 Ohio App. 193.
W.Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Board, 130 S.E. 524, 100 W.Va. 222, 44 A.L.R. 826.

Reason for rule

"Demurrage charges are assessed by operation of law, and are not the result of contract between carrier and consignee. It is a well-established principle of law that, while an 'act of God,' unavoidable accident, or the stress of circumstance, may not excuse the nonperformance of an obligation created by contract, they will excuse the nonperformance of a duty imposed by law."—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Board, 130 S.E. 524, 525, 100 W.Va. 222, 44 A.L.R. 826.

27. U.S.—North American Coal Corporation v. Wheeling & L. E. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ohio, 49 F.2d 253, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 33, 284 U.S. 655, 76 L.Ed. 555.

28. Mo.—Buschow Lumber Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 276 S.W. 409, 220 Mo.App. 743.

29. U.S.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. New York, C. & St. L. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ind., 11 F.2d 850.

30. Tex.—Davis v. Martin, Civ.App., 287 S.W. 113.

31. Ohio.—Maynard Coal Co. v. Chicago, K. & S. Ry. Co., 4 Ohio App. 459.

32. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Kolp, Civ.App., 88 S.W. 417.
10 C.J. p. 469 note 62.

Tariff provision relative to "bunching"

Under provision of a demurrage render the shipment or permit it to be unloaded except on the payment of excessive or improper charges;[33] that armed insurrectionists prevented the unloading of the cars by threats and force;[34] or that the destruction of a bridge by storm delayed the return of loaded cars to the carrier.[35]

On the other hand, a person has been held not excused or released from liability for demurrage because the detention or delay resulted from a strike by his employees,[36] his mere inability to receive and unload the cars within the free time allowed, after notice of their arrival,[37] or an injunction restraining the carrier from delivering the shipment;[38] or because of the fact that the carrier, due to a flood, could not have made use of the cars had they been delivered or released during the free time,[39] that he has an unadjusted claim for damages against the carrier,[40] that the carrier demanded excessive charges where it offered to deliver the shipment upon payment of the amount admittedly due,[41] that the carrier had knowledge that a delay would occur,[42] that by the carrier's act the shipper is prevented from earning credit days to offset the debit days,[43] or because the carrier transferred the shipment from one car to another during the period of detention.[44] If the bill of lading contains a stipulation as to the time for unloading the cars, the consignee is not excused from unloading within that time because of unfavorable weather conditions;[45] and a person who has entered into an average agreement not exempting him from liability for demurrage under such circumstances is not excused because the delay was due to a bunching of cars which was wholly caused by conditions created by a heavy snowfall, severe storms, and protracted intensely cold weather;[46] but an average agreement waiving the benefit of a tariff "bunching" provision exempting from liability for demurrage where the delay is due to a "bunching" through "act or neglect of the" carrier does not waive the right to be relieved from liability for demurrage on account of a delay tariff for extra free time in case of bunching as the direct result of the act or neglect of the carriers, bunching as the result of the consignee's previous fault in not accepting will not avail.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. U. S., Mich., 246 F. 353, 158 C.C.A. 417, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 333, 246 U.S. 663, 62 L.Ed. 928.

33. Miss.—Lexington Compress & Oil Mill Co. v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co., 95 So. 92, 131 Miss. 49.
Mo.—Milne Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., App., 57 S.W.2d 732.
Wis.—Waters v. Becker, 186 N.W. 167, 175 Wis. 621.
10 C.J. p. 469 notes 60, 61.

Necessity of tender of proper charges

When a carrier demands from consignee excessive freight on a car containing goods consigned to him, he is under no duty to tender to the carrier the correct amount of freight due on the car in order to relieve himself from liability for demurrage for delay in unloading, but the carrier, to charge the consignee with demurrage, must put him in default by tendering to him the car either on payment of the amount actually due for transporting it or without such payment in advance leaving the amount thereof if in dispute to be thereafter adjusted.—Lexington Compress & Oil Mill Co. v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co., 95 So. 92, 131 Miss. 49.

Express exception in demurrage rules

(1) Under a demurrage rule providing that no demurrage will be collected for the detention of cars due to the demand of the carrier for the payment of "transportation charges" in excess of the tariff authority, the term "transportation charges" includes demurrage charges and demurrage cannot be collected for a detention due to the carrier's demand for excess demurrage charges.—Milne Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., Mo.App., 57 S.W.2d 732.

(2) However, the demand for the excess payment must be the proximate cause of the detention or delay.—Milne Lumber Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., supra.

34. W.Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Board, 130 S.E. 524, 100 W.Va. 222, 44 A.L.R. 826.

35. U.S.—Southern Ry. Co. v. White, C.C.A.Tenn., 284 F. 560, 26 A.L.R. 1429.

36. U.S.—Sinclair Refining Co. v. Schaff, C.C.A.Kan., 275 F. 769.
Ill.—Davis v. Keystone Steel & Wire Co., 148 N.E. 47, 317 Ill. 278.

37. Ind.—Davis v. Steele, 146 N.E. 425, 83 Ind.App. 300, petition denied 147 N.E. 632, 83 Ind.App. 300.
10 C.J. p. 469 note 63.

Inapplicability of provision excusing because of weather conditions

Carrier's demurrage rules, providing that when condition of weather made it impossible to unload cars without serious injury to freight free time should be extended, was inapplicable to delay in unloading car of oil for use on streets, because consignee, who had no storage facilities, could not, under his contract, place oil on streets while it was raining or while streets were not in fit condition due to rain.—Davis v. Steele, 146 N.E. 425, 83 Ind.App. 300, petition denied 147 N.E. 632, 83 Ind. App. 300.

38. Mo.—Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Fowler, 27 S.W.2d 72, 224 Mo.App. 736.

39. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Kittanning Iron & Steel Mfg. Co., 106 A. 207, 263 Pa. 205, reversed on other grounds 40 S.Ct. 532, 253 U.S. 319, 64 L.Ed. 928.

40. Miss.—Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Searles, 37 So. 939, 85 Miss. 520, 564, 68 L.R.A. 715.
10 C.J. p. 469 note 65.

41. Miss.—Lexington Compress & Oil Mill Co. v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co., 95 So. 92, 131 Miss. 49.

Conditional tender of admitted charges

Where the carrier offers to make delivery on payment of the amount admitted by such person to be due, the fact that such person tenders such amount on the condition that the carrier promises not to attempt to collect the difference thereafter, and that the carrier declines to make such promise, does not relieve such person of liability for demurrage in case he fails to unload.—Lexington Compress & Oil Mill Co. v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co., 95 So. 92, 131 Miss. 49.

42. Pa.—Baltimore & Ohio R. Co. v. Noah H. Swayne & Co., 26 Pa. Dist. 946.

43. Ohio.—Harmon v. Jewett, Bigelow & Brooks, 9 Ohio App. 350.

44. U.S.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Schick, C.C.A.Pa., 38 F. 2d 968.

45. Mo.—Darlington v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 72 S.W. 122, 99 Mo. App. 1, 18.
10 C.J. p. 469 note 64.

46. Ohio.—Anthony Carlin Co. v. Hines, 140 N.E. 99, 107 Ohio St. 328.

resulting from a "bunching" brought about by an act of God.[47] Also, it has been held that, although the carrier may, upon learning that the consignor's possession of the goods is claimed to be wrongful, refuse to deliver to the consignee unless the latter furnishes a sufficient bond, the failure or refusal of the consignee to make such a bond cannot be attributed to him as a fault and neither the shipper or consignee can be held responsible for demurrage incurred solely because of the failure or refusal to give such a bond.[48] The fact that the tariff made it the duty of the carrier to load and unload the cars does not prevent it from charging demurrage for delay, where the warehouseman sought to be charged had as a matter of practice handled the placing and unloading of cars in his warehouse.[49]

A rule exempting the consignee from liability for demurrage for detention beyond the "free time . . . when shipments are frozen while in transit so as to prevent unloading during the prescribed free time," has been held not to exempt carloads of ore frozen in transit from demurrage where the consignee had facilities for unloading a limited number of cars of frozen ore daily and the delay in unloading beyond the free time was due not to the frozen condition of the ore but to there being so great an accumulation of cars as to exceed the unloading capacity.[50]

§ 346. Lien

Although there are some cases recognizing the carrier's right to a common-law lien for demurrage charges, the more usually accepted view seems to be that there is no right to a lien therefor unless it is authorized or allowed by statute, contract, or custom.

Although there are a number of cases which might be said to recognize a carrier's right to a common-law lien for demurrage charges,[51] the more usually accepted rule appears to be that, in the absence of usage, statute, or contract providing for it, a carrier, although entitled to charge demurrage for unreasonable delay in unloading cars, has no lien for such demurrage,[52] it being considered as a mere breach of contract for which the party must seek his redress in the ordinary manner, and not by a detention of the goods.[53] However, a carrier is entitled to a lien for demurrage, where express provision therefor is made by the contract of shipment or the bill of lading,[54] where there is a usage by which a demurrage charge of a fixed amount per car for each day during which the car is unloaded is known to the consignee,[55] or where such a lien is authorized by statute.[56] It has been held that demurrage is one of the "other charges" authorized by the Interstate Commerce Act, so that a carrier has the right thereunder to a lien on shipments for demurrage as well as for freight or other terminal charges.[57] A statute which gives a lien for freight and storage, coupled with a power to sell therefor, applies to, and gives a lien for demurrage charges for delay in unloading cars. The lien so given exists only while the carrier retains dominion or control of the cars, and is lost if the carrier surrenders possession of them. Furthermore, the lien cannot be sold or assigned, and is completely discharged by a payment of the demurrage charges by the person responsible therefor.[58]

While a mechanics' or works' lien law, giving a lien to those who perform labor or furnish materials, may afford a carrier protection with respect to its transportation charges, see supra § 325, such a law gives no lien for demurrage charges as they cannot be regarded as for labor performed.[59]

Demurrage on several cars. Where a lien for demurrage is enforceable and demurrage is due on several cars constituting the shipment, the charge for each car need not be enforced against it separately, but enough cars may be retained to satisfy the charge against all.[60]

§ 347. Enforcement of Demurrage Charges

Claims for demurrage charges or demurrage overcharges ordinarily may and must be enforced in accordance with the rules relating to actions for the recovery of charges or overcharges respectively.

47. Ohio—Joslin-Schmidt Co v. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co, 6 Ohio App 193.

48. Ala.—Louisville & N R. Co. v Camody, 84 So 824, 203 Ala 522, reversing 82 So. 648, 17 Ala.App. 158, conformed to 85 So 846, 17 Ala App. 370.

49. Cal.—Southern Pac. Co. v Grangers' Business Ass'n, 1 P 2d 477, 115 Cal.App 256

50. U.S.—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Kittaning Iron & Steel Mfg Co., 40 S Ct 532, 253 U.S 319, 64 L Ed 928, reversing 106 A 207, 263 Pa. 205

51. N.C.—Hammer Lumber Co. v Seaboard Air Line Ry., 102 S.E. 508, 179 N.C 359.

S.C.—Thomas v. Northwestern R. Co of South Carolina, 98 S E 336, 111 S.C 475

10 C.J p 470 note 72.

52. Pa.—Nicolette Lumber Co. v People's Coal Co., 62 A 1060, 213 Pa. 379, 3 L.R.A.,N.S., 327, 110 Am S.R 550, 5 Ann.Cas. 387, reversing 26 Pa.Super 575

10 C.J p 470 note 73.

53. N.Y.—Crommelin v. New York, etc, R Co, 1 Abb Dec 472, 4 Keyes 90.

54. Ohio—Thomas Phillips Co. v. Erie R Co, 27 Ohio Cir.Ct 486.

10 C.J p 470 note 76

55. Mass.—Miller v. Mansfield, 112 Mass 260

56. Ga.—Powell v. Seaboard Air Line Ry., 90 S.E. 980, 19 Ga.App. 91

57. Okl.—Gault Lumber Co. v. Atchison, etc, R. Co., 130 P 291, 37 Okl. 24.

58. Miss.—Vanderbilt v. Planters' Oil Mill & Gin Co., 106 So. 14, 140 Miss 427

10 C.J p 470 note 78.

59. N.J.—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. Gallena-Poole, Inc, 152 A 251, 107 N.J.Eq 267, affirmed 160 A. 507, 110 N.J.Eq. 559.

60. Ga.—Pennsylvania Steel Co. v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 21 S.E. 577, 94 Ga. 636

Miss.—New Orleans, etc, R. Co. v. George, 35 So. 193, 82 Miss. 710.

10 C.J. p 471 note 82.

A carrier ordinarily may and must enforce payment of its claims for demurrage by an appropriate action or proceeding,[61] and not by a refusal to furnish facilities for shipment in contravention of its common-law obligations;[62] but it has been held that, on an arbitrary refusal to pay demurrage charges accruing in the past, the carrier is warranted in refusing to switch and place cars at the warehouse of a consignee.[63]

An action for the recovery of demurrage charges is ordinarily ex contractu in nature,[64] and may be in the form of an action of assumpsit on the common counts.[65]

Such an action may properly be brought only by a carrier who is entitled to collect the demurrage charges sued for; and one carrier cannot recover demurrage which belongs to another which is a separate and distinct corporation, although they are both part of the same unincorporated railway system.[66] Where the members of a shipping exchange have agreed, by assenting to the rules and regulations of the exchange, to be liable for the share of demurrage charges apportioned to them by the commissioner of the exchange, a carrier, in whose favor demurrage charges have been incurred by the exchange as consignee, may, under a statute permitting suits by a third party beneficiary, maintain an action against the members of the exchange for the amount of demurrage charges apportioned to them; and after a cause of action has thus accrued in favor of the carrier it is not affected by a subsequent attempt of the exchange to rescind its apportionment of demurrage charges among the members.[67] Both consignor and consignee may be joined as parties defendant where they have a common interest or are jointly liable.[68]

The period of limitations prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Act for actions to recover "charges or any part thereof," is applicable to a carrier's action to recover demurrage charges, and the same must be brought within the prescribed time after the cause of action accrues,[69] unless the parties have properly extended the time by agreement.[70]

A state court has no jurisdiction to pass on a claim for demurrage, the validity of which rests on an interpretation of interstate tariffs, which is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the federal courts and the interstate commerce commission.[71]

For the most part, the usual rules and those prevailing with respect to actions to recover charges generally, see supra § 318, are determinative of questions relating to the form and sufficiency of the pleadings,[72] such as a petition, declaration, or statement of claim,[73] or an affidavit of defense;[74] ques-

61. U S—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v Emmons Coal Mining Co, D.C.Pa., 287 F 168

62. Miss.—Yazoo, etc., R. Co v. Searles, 37 So. 939, 85 Miss 520, 68 L.R.A. 715.
Tenn—Dunlap Lumber Co. v. Nashville, etc, R. Co, 165 S.W 224, 129 Tenn 163
10 C J p 471 note 85

63. Miss.—Yazoo, etc, R. Co. v. Searles, 37 So 939, 85 Miss. 520, 68 L.R A 715
10 C J p 471 note 81.

64. U S—Pennsylvania R. Co. v Susquehanna Collieries Co, D C Ohio, 23 F.2d 499.

65. W Va—Davis v Lawrence Oil & Gas Co., 117 S E 692, 94 W Va. 73, 30 A.L R. 163.

66. Mich—Detroit, G H & M. Ry. Co v. Owosso Sugar Co, 159 N. W 378, 192 Mich. 533.

67. Va—Smokeless Fuel Co. v. Chesapeake & O Ry. Co, 128 S E. 624, 142 Va. 355.

68. La—Morgan's Louisiana & Texas R R & S. S Co v Godchaux Sugars, Inc., 3 La App 236

69. Pa—Philadelphia, B & W. R Co. v. Quaker City Flour Mills Co., 127 A 845, 282 Pa. 362.

Operation of statute on preexisting causes of action

As Transportation Act, 49 U S.C.A. § 16 (3), requiring that "all actions" for carriers' charges be prosecuted within three years "from the time the cause of action accrues," specifies no time in future when it is to be operative, it affects all causes of action from date of enactment and gives causes already accrued full three years from passage, if not barred in less time by state statute in effect when cause accrued, although cause arose more than three years before passage of federal act.—Philadelphia, B. & W R. Co. v. Quaker City Flour Mills Co, 127 A. 845, 282 Pa 362

70. U S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Susquehanna Collieries Co, D.C Ohio, 23 F.2d 499.

71. Ohio—Hines v Anthony Carlin Co, 23 Ohio N.P.,N S., 457.

72. U S.—Davis v Smutzinger, C C A Pa. 281 F. 640

73. Petition, declaration, or statement held sufficient

(1) A declaration alleging that plaintiff and defendant were parties to a contract of shipment over plaintiff's road and that since the demurrage rule was adopted it had formed part of the contract of shipment, sufficiently alleges an implied contract to pay demurrage.—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Midvale Steel Co, 51 A. 313, 201 Pa. 624, 88 Am S.R 836.

(2) As a lien for demurrage exists independently of contract, in those jurisdictions where such a lien is recognized, see supra § 346, it is not necessary to allege or to prove a special contract with reference thereto.—Pittsburgh, etc, R Co. v H L. Mooar Lumber Co, 27 Ohio Cir Ct. 588.

Petition, declaration, or statement held insufficient

(1) In an action for demurrage, where it did not appear in the statement of the claim that carrier notified shipper of consignee's refusal, as required by the demurrage rules, the statement of claim was insufficient—Davis v. Smutzinger, C C.A. Pa., 281 F 640

(2) Averment that demurrage was for detention of car on interchange tracks will not support charge for time between arrival of car and placement.—Pennsylvania R Co v. Coles, 87 Pa.Super. 432.

(3) Carrier has been held not entitled to recover demurrage, where number of cars held at receiving point, because consignee's track was filled, was not shown—Hill County v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., Tex Civ.App., 31 S W 2d 868

74. Affidavit of defense held sufficient

(1) Where the action is based on a rule of the carrier's own making, tions relating to presumptions and burden of proof,[75] and the admissibility[76] and weight and sufficiency of evidence;[77] and matters pertaining to an affidavit of defense specifically denying the existence of the rule is sufficient to prevent judgment for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense—Pennsylvania Co. v Marquis Limestone, etc, Co., 31 Pa Super. 198

(2) So an affidavit of defense alleging that defendant was not in default as respects the detention of any of the cars, that he wished to unload them within the free time allowed, but was prevented from doing so by the railroad company, stating the causes which brought about such prevention, is sufficient.—Pennsylvania R. Co v. Keally, 81 A. 646, 232 Pa. 567.

Affidavit of defense held insufficient

(1) In an action to recover demurrage charges on an interstate commerce shipment, where the statement sets forth that plaintiff received for shipment certain cars of coal from consignor, which consignee refused to accept, the consignor is liable for the demurrage charges, and an affidavit of defense is insufficient which admits that the cars were shipped at the order of defendants and does not specifically deny they were the shippers of the coal.—Pennsylvania R Co v. Whitney & Kemmerer, 73 Pa.Super 588.

(2) Furthermore, the fact that coal was shipped by another company at the order of the defendants did not constitute a defense, where the affidavit admitted that defendants had ordered the coal company to make the shipment, as that would confer upon that company authority to name defendants as consignors, or if the coal company had made the shipment in its own name, it was the agent of the defendants, and the latter were undisclosed consignors, and consequently liable for the demurrage which accrued when the consignee refused to accept the shipment.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Whitney & Kemmerer, supra.

75. Inference of owner's liability

Where a builder arranged with the carrier to store steel until used, the owner, in seeking to avoid liability for storage charge, was bound to show that by its contract with the builder he was ultimately liable for such charges, and if he does not the inference arises that he was ultimately liable—In re Arlington Hotel Co, 98 A. 186, 11 Del Ch. 137

Burden of proof

(1) Where a carrier under a rule entitling it to demurrage on cars of coal held at a certain harbor at the terminus of its line "or intermediate storage yards for transshipment," sues for demurrage on cars consigned to such place, but held in transit at storage yards fourteen miles therefrom, it must plead and prove such rule, and that consignee did not have facilities at the dock to receive the freight during the time for which demurrage was claimed—Bessemer & L E R Co. v Ford Collieries Co, 116 A 802, 273 Pa 166.

(2) A party relying on an exception to make out his defense, such as the fact that a car on a private track is not subject to the demurrage rules of the carrier, has the burden of alleging and proving facts necessary to bring him within the exception—Davis v. Steele, 147 N E 632, 83 Ind App 300, denying petition 146 N.E 425, 83 Ind.App 300

(3) Where the carrier contracted with the consignee to store certain steel, and sought to hold the owner liable for the charges, it had the burden of showing that the consignee acted as the owner's agent in the contract—In re Arlington Hotel Co, 98 A. 186, 11 Del Ch 137.

(4) A carrier may make a prima facie case for the recovery of demurrage charges, by showing a delay in unloading after the lapse of the freetime period—Garrison Coal Co. v. Hines, 247 P 62, 118 Okl 251, 46 A.L.R. 1151.

(5) However, the consignee may make out a prima facie defense by showing displacement of the cars during such time and then the burden is on the carrier to show that the displacement of cars resulted from reasonable conduct—Garrison Coal Co. v. Hines, supra.

76. Evidence held admissible

(1) In an action to recover demurrage charges on an interstate shipment, the court may properly permit the introduction in evidence of a state law providing for the sale of goods for charges.—Central R. Co of N. J. v. Schick, C C.A Pa, 38 F 2d 968.

(2) Testimony by agent that he mailed notices that certain cars were held for demurrage has been held admissible, although agent's notice was based on information received from other sources—Hill County v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., Tex. Civ App., 31 S W 2d 868

(3) In action by director general of railways to recover demurrage charge, it was held error to exclude testimony undertaking to show period of time cars were interfered with by carrier through switching within forty-eight hours' free time for unloading shipment—Garrison Coal Co. v. Hines, 247 P. 62, 118 Okl. 251, 46 A.L.R. 1151.

(4) A person suing for a carrier's unreasonable detention of a private car is entitled to introduce evidence as to the reasonable rental value of the car—Gustafson v. Michigan Cent. R Co, 218 Ill App. 402, affirmed 129 N E. 516, 296 Ill 41.

Evidence held inadmissible

(1) Schedule of demurrage charges not authorized by state public service commission was properly rejected in railway suit against shipper for demurrage on intra-state shipment.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v Trask, 136 S.E. 106, 36 Ga. App. 236.

(2) Testimony that carrier did not place cars at places convenient for unloading was inadmissible in suit for demurrage, where no such defense was pleaded.—Kansas City Southern Ry. v. Baker Gasoline Co., 127 So 442, 13 La App 106.

(3) Testimony as to agreement by consignee's employee to pay demurrage charges claimed prior to time car was delivered to consignee—A M. Lewin Lumber Co. v Louisville & N. Ry Co., 19 Ohio App 152

77. Ill—Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co. v. Hales & Hunter Co., 233 Ill. App 109—Gustafson v. Michigan Cent. R. Co, 218 Ill App. 402, affirmed 129 N E. 516, 296 Ill. 41. See Chicago & A R. Co. v. Woolner Distilling Co., 196 Ill.App. 412. 10 C J p 471 note 94

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To go to the jury.—Norfolk & S. R. Co v Albemarle Fertilizer Co., 124 S E 127, 188 N C 137.

(2) To show that railroad to which cars had been delivered under an agreement was either the agent or part of the plant equipment of defendant steel company — Pittsburgh & L. E R Co. v Clinton Iron & Steel Co, 101 A. 1048, 258 Pa. 338

(3) To show that scrap iron was delivered in railroad cars at "ship-side."—International-Great Northern R. Co. v. Singer Iron & Steel Co, Tex.Civ.App, 96 S.W 2d 1003.

(4) To show that ten days was a reasonable time for unloading and storing coal.—Waters v. Becker, 186 N.W. 167, 175 Wis 621.

(5) To show that warehouseman received notice of arrival of cars as required by tariffs—Southern Pac. Co v Grangers' Business Ass'n, 1 P 2d 477, 115 Cal App. 256

(6) To support finding that cars were held in order to permit railroad to determine applicable tariff rates.—Pacific Electric Ry. Co v Petroleum Midway Co., 282 P. 402, 101 Cal.App. 715.

the trial.[78] The reasonableness or correctness of the charges claimed cannot be passed on where such issue or question has not been raised by the pleadings or evidence,[79] nor can the reasonableness of the demurrage rules be submitted to the jury in the absence of evidence thereon,[80] and a shipper sued on a check given by him for demurrage charges which he considered illegal in order to obtain a release of the cars, and upon which he subsequently stopped payment, is estopped to question the validity of the demurrage charges in the absence of a showing of fraud or concealment of material facts.[81]

Amount of recovery and interest thereon. Where there are several possible rules under which the amount of the demurrage charges might be computed, the carrier cannot be compelled to elect the rule of computation to be applied, but it is entitled to have the rule applied which fits the facts.[82] Interest has been held allowable on the theory that one of the purposes of demurrage charges is to afford compensation to the carrier.[83]

Set-off and counterclaim. In accordance with the general rule stated in § 318 e, supra, a defendant sued for demurrage charges has been held to have the right, under general statutes relating to set-offs and counterclaims, to assert a set-off or counterclaim based on a claim for damages for which the carrier is liable;[84] and in an action for demurrage charges imposed under a rule of the carrier, independently of statute, defendants may set up as a counterclaim that the delay in unloading the cars was due to the failure of plaintiff to furnish them sufficient cars in which to ship their grain, and that, for that reason, their elevator became filled and they were unable to unload the grain shipped to them.[85] In a number of cases, however, the right to assert a set-off or counterclaim has been denied, either because of the minority view, now discredited by the United States supreme court, see supra § 318 e, that to permit the same would be to violate state or federal statutes against discrimination and

(7) To support finding that the consignee did not refuse to accept delivery on other than a particular track—Wooley v. Chicago, etc, R Co, 136 N.W. 616, 150 Wis. 183

(8) To sustain finding that track on which cars were delivered was "industrial track," rendering notification to consignee unnecessary to recover demurrage. — Kansas City Southern Ry. v. Baker Gasoline Co., 127 So 442, 13 La App. 106.

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To establish charges authorized by state public service commission.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co v Trask, 136 S E 106, 36 Ga App. 236

(2) To excuse unloading delay of approximately a month under rule extending time for bad weather.—Davis v. Steele, 146 N E 425, 83 Ind App. 300, petition denied 147 N E 632, 83 Ind App. 300

(3) To show that demurrage commenced before expiration of free time.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Grangers' Business Ass'n, 1 P.2d 477, 115 Cal App. 256.

78. Instructions

In action by railroad's receivers to recover against drawer of check given in payment of demurrage charges of freight delivered to drawer, instructions that if check was given to obtain merchandise, and if payment on check was thereafter stopped, and if railroad gave sufficient notice of arrival, drawer was liable, were proper.—Suffolk Fertilizer Co. v. Powell, 180 S E. 149, 164 Va. 425.

Nonsuit

Railway suing for demurrage charges on intra-state shipment was properly nonsuited, in absence of schedule authorized by state public service commission.—Seaboard Air Line Ry Co v. Trask, 136 S E. 106, 36 Ga App. 236.

Questions of law and fact

(1) Questions of law are for the court.—Garrison Coal Co. v. Hines, 247 P. 62, 118 Okl. 251, 46 A L R 1151.

(2) On the other hand, questions of fact are for the jury.

Pa.—Davis v. Carroll-Porter Boiler & Tank Co., 119 A 742, 276 Pa. 71 —Long Island R. Co v. Keystone Iron & Metal Co, 5 Pa Dist & Co. 257.

Va.—Smokeless Fuel Co v Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 140 S E 823, 149 Va 13.

(3) And the same is true of mixed questions of law and fact.—Garrison Coal Co v. Hines, supra.

(4) The question of whether the car was delivered at a place reasonably accessible for unloading is for the jury—Hines v. Thomasville Light & Power Co, 90 So. 316, 206 Ala. 420.

(5) In an action for demurrage charges on three cars of lumber tendered by defendant to plaintiff, but refused by plaintiff because of a war department embargo on the shipment, the right of plaintiff to recover demurrage charges, resisted on the ground that defendant's notice to plaintiff's agent of its refusal to unload the cars on the ground imposed a duty on plaintiff to minimize its loss by itself having the cars unloaded, was a jury question, there being evidence that defendant would not allow plaintiff's agent to go on the premises for the purpose of unloading the cars—Davis v Hilton Lumber Co., 117 S E. 50, 185 N.C 227.

79. Pa.—Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co. v. Clinton Iron & Steel Co, 101 A. 1048, 258 Pa. 338.
10 C.J. p 471 note 93.

80. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Joseph Furnace, etc., Co., 93 A. 22, 247 Pa 99

81. Va.—Suffolk Fertilizer Co. v. Powell, 180 S.E. 149, 164 Va. 425

82. Mich.—Grand Trunk Western R Co v. Mount Clemens Sugar Co., 269 N.W. 208, 277 Mich. 366.

83. La.—City of New Orleans, by and through Public Belt Railroad Commission, v New Orleans Coal & Bisso Towboat Co, 124 So 693, 12 La.App. 124, transferred 123 So. 724, 168 La 1093

84. Ind.—Cleveland, C, C & St. L Ry Co v. Partlow, 123 N E 838, 70 Ind.App. 616.

Reconsignee's claim for delay

One to whom coal in transit was reconsigned at consignee's request must be treated as consignee, in whom title presumptively vests, and hence entitled, in action against him for demurrage, to counterclaim for damages for failure to transport with promptness required by Burns St.Annot.1914 § 5205.—Cleveland, C., C & St L. Ry. Co v. Partlow, 123 N E. 838, 70 Ind App 616.

85. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co v. Waller, 159 S.W. 590, 154 Ky. 811.

rebates,[86] because the claims were not mutual due to the fact that the claim for demurrage was founded on statute while the set-off was based on the carrier's breach of its common-law duties,[87] or because the contract on which the defendant's claim was founded was illegal and void.[88]

Overcharges. A person who has been charged demurrage in excess of that to which the carrier is lawfully entitled has a right to bring an action for the excess[89] against the carrier which has collected the same,[90] and such an action is governed by the rules discussed in § 323 supra, which prevail with respect to actions to recover overcharges generally.[91]

T. DISCRIMINATION

1. In General

§ 348. Prohibition of Discrimination Generally

Prohibition of discrimination at common law is hereinafter discussed in § 349, and prohibition by constitution or statute is discussed in § 350.

§ 349. At Common Law

At common law it is the duty of a carrier of goods and live stock to serve the public without unreasonable discrimination.

Although, as shown in § 376 infra, there are a few decisions in which it is held or said that a common carrier may discriminate with respect to rates of transportation, at common law the decided weight of authority is that the right to the transportation service of the common carrier is a common right belonging to everyone alike, and that it is the duty of a common carrier to serve the public impartially and without unreasonable discrimination in any respect,[92] and no length of time or habit of deal-

86. Mo—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co v. Morgan, 297 S W 717, 221 Mo.App. 43.

87. U S—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Empire State Chemical Co, C.C.A. Ga, 189 F. 174

88. Mich—Grand Rapids & I. Ry Co. v Cobbs & Mitchell, 168 N W 961, 203 Mich. 133.

89. Miss—Southern Ry Co in Mississippi v Buckeye Cotton Oil Co., 89 So 228, 126 Miss 562

Tex—Davis v. Martin, Civ.App., 287 S W 113.

Lack of protest

Receivers of interstate carload freight could recover improper demurrage charges from railroad, although payments were voluntarily made without protest.—Wilson v. Long Island R. Co, 165 N.Y S. 913, 178 App Div. 799.

90. Ga.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co v. Daugherty-McKey & Co., 149 S. E 92, 40 Ga.App. 190.

91. Who entitled to sue

Consignor selling at delivered prices may sue carrier for demurrage illegally exacted of purchaser at destination—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co v. Daugherty-McKey & Co., 149 S E 92, 40 Ga.App 190.

Admissibility of evidence

National car demurrage rules and charges held inadmissible in action by shipper to recover demurrage charges improperly exacted—Davis v Martin, Tex.Civ App., 287 S.W. 113.

Action on reparation order

(1) Under state statutes providing for reparation proceedings before a state commission, a direct review of the commission's order by writ of review, and that the pendency of a writ of review shall not of itself stay or suspend the operation of the order although the court might issue a stay in its discretion, and further providing that, if the carrier does not comply with the order for payment of the overcharge within the time limited in such order, suit may be instituted in any court of competent jurisdiction to recover the same, an independent suit may be instituted in a state court to enforce a reparation order for an excess demurrage charge although a writ for the review of such order is pending if a stay has not been issued.—Tacoma Grain Co v Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 213 P. 22, 123 Wash 664.

(2) In such case the objection that the order of the commission is a judgment which must be enforced in accordance with other statutes relating to the enforcement of judgments cannot be sustained—Tacoma Grain Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry Co, supra.

(3) Nor will the contention be sustained that the review proceedings constitute a further proceeding in the same action which divests any court of jurisdiction to proceed in another action to determine the lawfulness of the order.—Tacoma Grain Co. v. Northern Pac Ry. Co, supra.

92. U S—Michigan Public Utilities Commission v. Duke, Mich, 45 S Ct. 191, 266 U S 570, 69 L.Ed. 445, 36 A.L R 1105

Fla.—State v. Jacksonville Terminal Co., 106 So. 576, 90 Fla. 721.

Ky—Casteel v American Airways, 88 S W 2d 976, 261 Ky 818.

Mo.—McGrew Coal Co. v. Mellon, 287 S W 450, 315 Mo 798, certiorari denied 47 S Ct. 456, 273 U S 752, 71 L Ed 874.

N H—Boston & M R R. v. Great Falls Mfg Co., 111 A. 691, 79 N.H 467

N J—National Radiator Co. v Pennsylvania R. Co., 143 A. 85, 6 N J Misc. 778

N Y.—Burgess Bros Co v Stewart, 184 N Y S 199, 112 Misc 347, affirmed 185 N.Y S. 85, 194 App Div 813

Utah—Jeremy Fuel & Grain Co. v Denver & R G R Co, 207 P 155, 60 Utah 153

10 C J. p 471 note 98, p 472 note 1

Penalties and statutory damages for unjust discrimination see infra §§ 510–512

Corpus Juris text has been cited and the rule as there stated followed in

Fla—State v. Jacksonville Terminal Co, 106 So 576, 584, 90 Fla. 721

Utah.—Jeremy Fuel & Grain Co v Denver & R. G R. Co, 207 P. 155, 157, 60 Utah 153.

Affirmative duty

Common carriers have an affirmative duty to perform impartial service, and cannot lawfully discriminate against and subject a shipper to undue prejudice—Burgess Bros. Co v Stewart, 184 N.Y.S. 199, 112 Misc 347, affirmed 185 N Y.S 85, 194 App Div 913.

Discrimination by agents

A common carrier is bound to see that no discrimination is practiced by any of its employees or agents.

ing[93] or contract or practice to the contrary[94] will discharge a carrier's duty to serve the public without discrimination. The failure to perform such duty is a tort.[95]

§ 350. By Constitution or Statute

Under state and federal statutes and some state constitutions, it is the duty of a carrier of goods and live stock to serve the public without unreasonable discrimination.

Under the Interstate Commerce Act and amendments thereto, unjust discrimination[96] of every form[97] is prohibited, regardless of which side profits.[98] The primary purpose of this legislation is to secure equality of treatment and prevent unjust favoritism and discrimination,[99] and the actual situation underlying the shipment, rather than recitals in the shipping documents, control its application.[1]

State constitutions and statutes. It is clearly —Spencer Kellogg & Sons v. Delaware, L & W R Co, 195 N Y S 69, 119 Misc. 174, affirmed 197 N Y. S 380, 204 App Div 243.

Inequalities in carrier rates are never sustained except for compelling reasons. — Norfolk Tidewater Terminals v. Norfolk & P Belt Line R Co., Va., 195 S E 684.

Under illegal embargo

That a railroad embargo was illegal does not make discriminatory transportation under it legal—U. S v Lehigh Valley Ry. Co, D C N Y, 254 F 332

93. Ky.—Crescent Coal Co. v. Louisville etc., R. Co., 135 S W. 768, 143 Ky 73
10 C.J p 472 note 99.

94. Fla—State v. Jacksonville Terminal Co, 106 So. 576, 90 Fla. 721

95. N.Y.—Burgess Bros. Co v. Stewart, 184 N Y.S 199, 112 Misc. 347, affirmed 185 N Y.S. 85, 194 App Div. 913.

96. Miss—Pitman v Yazoo & M V. R. Co, 158 So 547, 171 Miss 799.
Mo.—Foster Lumber Co v Atchison, T & S F. Ry. Co, 194 S W 281, 270 Mo. 629, L R.A.1918A 768
Tex.—Shroyer v. Chicago, R. I & G. Ry. Co, 222 S W. 1095, 111 Tex 24, reversing Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Shroyer, Civ App, 197 S.W 773, and modified on other grounds Shroyer v. Chicago, R I & G Ry Co, 226 S W 140, 111 Tex 24—Neubert v. Chicago, R. I & G. Ry. Co, 296 S W 1090, 116 Tex. 644, 53 A L R. 1224—Houston & T C. R Co v. Johnson, Com. App., 41 S W 2d 14, 83 A L R 241, reversing, Civ.App, 1 S W 2d 706
Wash—State v Public Service Commission, 192 P. 1075, 112 Wash. 520
Wis—Chicago & N W Ry Co. v. J. I Case Plow Works, 130 N W 846, 173 Wis 237
10 C J. p 472 note 2.

Second Cumming Amendment to the Interstate Commerce Act passed Aug. 9, 1916, U S Comp St. § 8604a, authorizing express companies to limit their liability for the loss of property carried on the basis of its declared or agreed value, does not conflict with the Interstate Commerce Act, U S Comp St. §§ 8564, 8565, prohibiting preferences and unjust discrimination—Lindenburg v. American Railway Express Co, 106 S.E. 884, 88 W.Va. 439, certiorari granted American Ry. Express Co. v. Lindenburg, 42 S Ct 52, 257 U.S. 627, 66 L.Ed. 404, and reversed on other grounds 43 S.Ct. 206, 260 U.S. 584, 67 L.Ed. 414.

Contracts containing unlawful preferences and discriminations are void—Fort Worth & R. G. Ry. Co v Burns, Tex Civ.App., 242 S.W. 295

97. U.S—Chesapeake & O Ry Co. v U. S, D.C.W.Va., 11 F Supp. 588, affirmed 56 S.Ct 164, 296 U S. 187, 80 L Ed. 147.

98. U.S—China Fire Ins. Co. v. Davis, C.C A.N.Y., 50 F 2d 389, 76 A L R 1259, certiorari denied Mellon v China Fire Ins Co., 52 S. Ct 36, 284 U.S. 658, 76 L.Ed 558.

99. U.S—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v U. S., Tex., 53 S.Ct. 768, 289 U S 627, 77 L Ed. 1410—Chesapeake & O Ry Co. v. U S, D.C W Va., 11 F Supp. 588, affirmed 56 S Ct. 164, 296 U.S 187, 80 L.Ed. 147.
N.Y—Rothschild v American Ry Express Co, 234 N.Y S. 454, 226 App Div 187
Tex—Fort Worth & R G Ry. Co. v. Burns, Civ App., 242 S W 295
Wash—State v Public Service Commission, 192 P. 1075, 112 Wash 520
W Va.—William F. Mosser Co v. Payne, 114 S.E. 365, 92 W Va 41
10 C J p 472 note 2 [a], p 475 note 29 [a]

Purpose of Act

(1) "The purpose of sections 2, 3, and 4, 49 U S C A §§ 2–4, as exhibited by committee reports and explained by those in charge of the bill in Congress, was to prevent unjust discrimination resulting from existing practices Similar commodities were, without reason or excuse, carried at different rates Shippers similarly situated were put on unequal terms Producers and consumers at points of origin and destination were prejudiced by unequal treatment in the matter of rates or services. Obviously localities of origin or destination might also be prejudiced by undue discrimination One of the most prevalent and reprehensible practices at which the act was aimed was the charging of a less or an equal rate for a longer haul upon the same line or route. The act was passed for the protection of those who pay or bear the rates The standards it establishes are transportation standards, not criteria of general welfare."—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Tex., 53 S.Ct. 768, 772, 289 U.S. 627, 77 L Ed. 1410.

(2) "Besides, the purpose of the act was not merely to compel honest competition among railroads engaged in interstate commerce, but to prevent unjust discrimination among shippers, to prevent one customer from obtaining in freight rates on interstate shipments an undue advantage of another customer; to promote, as far as the carriers affected the situation, free competition and equality of opportunities among the shippers engaged in maintaining industries which have need of the carriers' lines. Congress in passing the act doubtless had in mind the many instances within the common knowledge where large dealers, by reason of rebates and drawbacks and the advantages derived from them, were enabled to crush out smaller competitors who had no such advantage"—Foster Lumber Co v Atchison, T & S. F. Ry Co, 194 S W. 281, 285, 270 Mo. 629, L R.A.1918A 768.

Purpose of Elkins Act was to eliminate every form of discrimination, favoritism, and inequality and to prohibit all rebates, concessions, or discrimination with respect to railroad transportation—U S. v. Altman, D C N Y., 8 F Supp. 880.

"In order to prevent rebates and discrimination, the Act to Regulate Commerce, U S.Comp St. § 8563 et seq., and the tariffs, rules, and regulations promulgated in pursuance thereof, constitute the contract of affreightment between the carrier and shipper, which can neither be altered or amended by agreement or conduct of the parties, and has been so imbedded in the law of interstate commerce as never to be questioned."—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v. Nottingham & Wrenn, 124 S.E. 398, 400, 139 Va. 748.

1. U.S.—Merchants' Warehouse Co.

within the legislative power of a state to enact regulations by which unjust discriminations by common carriers may be prevented and redressed,[2] and in many jurisdictions statutes or constitutional provisions exist prohibiting unjust discrimination by common carriers.[3] Such statutes, to be valid, must, of course, be certain,[4] and must not transcend the guaranties laid down by the constitution of the United States.[5]

Where such statutes are penal in character they must be strictly construed,[6] but they will always be construed according to their true intent and meaning.[7] Legislation of this character is, of course, applicable to intra-state shipments only, whether in terms so limited or not,[8] and conversely, federal legislation has no application except to shipments not intra-state. Some of such provisions supersede the common law,[9] while others are merely declaratory thereof.[10]

Where a state delegates its power to prohibit unjust discrimination to a commission, it may promulgate rules requiring carriers to afford all persons equal facilities in transportation without unjust discrimination.[11] Under some statutes, a street railway engaged in the carrying of light freight in addition to passengers is subject to regulation by such a commission.[12] The laws creating such a commission and prescribing its powers and jurisdiction are to be liberally construed to effect the purposes for which they were created.[13]

§ 351. Nature of Discrimination Prohibited; Unjust Discrimination

Generally, only unjust or unreasonable discrimination is prohibited by the common law and state and federal legislation.

At common law only unjust discrimination by carriers is condemned,[14] and the constitutional and

v. U S., D C Pa., 44 F.2d 379, affirmed 51 S Ct 505, 283 U.S 501, 75 L Ed. 1227—Terminal Warehouse Co. of Baltimore City v. U. S, D C Md, 31 F.2d 951.

2. Fla—State v. Burr, 84 So. 61, 79 Fla. 290.
10 C J. p 53 note 91, p 473 note 3.

Duty to serve public

A common carrier by organizing under a general railroad act of a particular state, assumes a duty to serve the public without discrimination and subject to the full regulatory power vested in the general assembly.—Kenna v Calumet, H. & S. E R Co, 206 Ill.App. 17, affirmed 120 N E. 259, 284 Ill. 301.

3. Fla—State v Jacksonville Terminal Co., 106 So 576, 90 Fla. 721.
N H.—Milford Quarry & Construction Co v. Boston & M. R R., 151 A. 336, 84 N H 407—Boston & M R R v. Great Falls Mfg Co, 111 A. 691, 79 N H. 467.
N.J.—National Radiator Co. v Pennsylvania R. Co, 143 A. 85, 6 N J.Misc. 778
Ohio.—Johnson Coal Mining Co v Hocking Valley R. Co., 1 Ohio N P,N.S., 385
10 C.J. p 472 note 2.

Corpus Juris text is cited in State v. Jacksonville Terminal Co., 106 So. 576, 584, 90 Fla 721.

Idea prominent in Texas legislation as to receiving and transporting freight is equality, and carriers are not permitted to exercise their charter rights so as to benefit an individual of the community to detriment of another—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co v. Moore, Tex Civ App, 189 S.W 322, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

Elementary principle underlying Florida system of public regulation of intra-state carriers is uniformity of treatment and elimination of unjust discriminations—Louisville & N. R Co v Speed-Parker, Inc., 137 So 724, 103 Fla 439.

Preëxisting contracts

A statute making discrimination by common carriers unlawful, did not exempt from its operation special contracts existing at the time of its enactment, which were not common to all shippers for a like kind of traffic—Grand Rapids & I Ry. Co. v. Cobbs & Mitchell, 168 N. W. 961, 203 Mich. 133

4. Ky—Com. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co, 46 S.W. 700, 20 Ky.L. 491.
10 C.J. p 473 note 5.

5. Tex.—Texoma Natural Gas Co v. Railroad Commission of Texas, D.C Tex, 59 F.2d 750

Private pipe line carriers

An act requiring both common and private pipe line carriers to purchase gas without discrimination between producers was held to be unconstitutional under the constitution of the United States.—Texoma Natural Gas Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas, D.C.Tex., 59 F.2d 750.

6. Mo.—Tucker v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry Co, 250 S W 390, 298 Mo 51, affirming, App., 233 S. W 512—Alexander v. Chicago, M & St. P. R Co., 221 S W. 712, 282 Mo. 236, 11 A.L.R 867.

7. Mo—Alexander v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co, supra.

8. Mo—Fairley v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry Co, App., 32 S.W 2d 109
10 C.J. p 473 note 6.

Shipments of live stock

Statute requiring that live stock be shipped speedily without discrimination applies only to intra-state shipments—Fairley v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., Mo App, 32 S.W.2d 109.

9. Ill—Medusa Portland Cement Co v Illinois Cent. R. Co, 5 N. E 2d 782, 287 Ill App 549—Terminal R Ass'n of St. Louis v Public Utilities Commission, 136 N E 797, 304 Ill 312
Mont—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co, 199 P. 432, 60 Mont 209.

10. Mo—Canary Taxicab Co. v. Terminal Ry. Ass'n of St. Louis, 294 S W. 88, 316 Mo 709.
N.H.—Milford Quarry & Construction Co v Boston & M R. R., 151 A 336, 84 N H. 407.
Ohio—Johnson Coal Mining Co. v. Hocking Valley R. Co., 1 Ohio N. P,N.S, 385.
10 C.J. p 472 note 98 [d].

11. Ga—Augusta Brokerage Co. v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 48 S. E. 714, 121 Ga 48

12. Pa.—Lehigh Valley Transit Co. v. Public Service Commission, 78 Pa Super. 105.

13. Ark—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v Whelen Springs Gravel Co., 49 S W 2d 374, 185 Ark. 669, certiorari denied 53 S Ct. 87, 287 U.S. 638, 77 L Ed. 553.

14. Mo.—Brunswig v. Bush, 221 S W 759, App, certiorari dismissed Bush v Brunswig, 41 S Ct. 9, 254 U S. 660, 65 L Ed. 462.
10 C.J p 473 note 14.

Corpus Juris text has been cited with approval in Brunswig v. Bush, Mo.App., 221 S.W. 759, 761, certiorari dismissed 41 S.Ct. 9, 254 U.S. 660, 65 L.Ed. 462.

statutory provisions of the state and federal governments prohibiting discrimination are very generally held to prohibit only undue, unreasonable, or unjust discrimination.[15] The fact that the statute omits the word "unjust" makes no difference; the word "discrimination" implies an unjust or unfair distinction.[16] To constitute actionable discrimination, the law contemplates an undue preference, or some undue, unjust, or unreasonable discrimination.[17] There can be no objectionable discrimination between those whose situations and relations to the carrier with reference to the commodity to be shipped are so different as to justify or demand a difference in treatment.[18] The full measure of the duty of the carrier is to furnish equal facilities to all persons similarly situated.[19] Application of these rules to particular classes of cases will be subsequently discussed in §§ 364-385.

§ 352. Unjust Discrimination as Question of Law or Fact

Generally, the question of whether there is unjust discrimination is one of fact.

Usually, the question of whether there is an unjust discrimination is a question of fact for the jury, or for the court acting in its stead,[20] but when the facts are ascertained the question of unreasonable discrimination is one for the court.[21] Where it is difficult to point out clearly the circumstances or conditions which produce the dissimilarity, the doubt should be resolved in favor of the object of the law, and the circumstances and conditions should be taken as substantially similar.[22]

Where the matter is before the interstate commerce commission for decision, the determination is also to be made, as a question of fact, on the matters proved in the particular case.[23] The com-

15. U.S.—U. S v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., Miss, 44 S.Ct 189, 263 U.S. 515, 68 L.Ed. 417—Nashville, C. & St L. Ry. v. State of Tennessee, Tenn., 43 S.Ct. 583, 262 U.S 318, 67 L.Ed. 999, reversing, D.C., State of Tennessee v. U. S., 284 F. 371—Archibald McNeil & Sons Co, of New York v Western Maryland Ry. Co., D.C.Pa., 42 F.2d 669, affirmed, C.C.A., 51 F.2d 1073, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct 41, 284 U.S 665, 76 L.Ed. 563—Berwind-White Coal-Mining Co. v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 9 F.2d 429, reversed on other grounds, Assigned Car Cases, 47 S Ct 727, 274 U.S. 564, 71 L.Ed. 1204.

Ill.—Illinois Cent. R Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 173 N.E 804, 342 Ill 11—Atchison, T. & S. F Ry. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 166 N.E 466, 335 Ill. 70.

Me.—Willband v. Knox County Grain Co., 145 A. 405, 128 Me. 62

Neb.—State v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 199 N.W. 534, 112 Neb. 248.

Ohio.—Bennett v. Pennsylvania Co., 25 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 335, 27 Ohio Cir.Dec. 413, reversing 17 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 42.

Tex.—Dallas Power & Light Co. v. Carrington, Civ.App., 245 S.W. 1046.

Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission, 192 P. 1075, 112 Wash 520

W.Va.—Baltimore & O. R Co v. Public Service Commission, 94 S.E 545, 81 W.Va 457, L.R.A.1918D 268

10 C.J. p 473 note 15.

"Undue" discrimination, as used in a statute, has been defined as "excessive, inordinate, and disproportionate" "Unreasonable" is used in such statute in the sense of not having any sound basis or justification in reason.—Houston Chamber of Commerce v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 19 S.W.2d 583, affirmed Railroad Commission of Texas v Houston Chamber of Commerce, 78 S.W.2d 591, 124 Tex 375

Unjust discrimination forbidden by federal statutes is different treatment of persons of the same class, under like or similar conditions—Lindenburg v American Ry. Express Co., 106 S.E. 884, 88 W.Va. 439, certiorari granted American Ry. Express Co v. Lindenburg, 42 S.Ct 52, and reversed on other grounds 43 S.Ct. 206, 260 U.S. 584, 67 L.Ed 414.

Existing contracts

Discrimination by a common carrier may be as unjust and unfair, when provided for in a contract existing at the time a law prohibiting such discrimination went into effect, as though indulged in without prearrangement, and, in the absence of a provision to the contrary, such contracts are not exempt from the operation of an act of this character—Grand Rapids & I. Ry. Co. v. Cobbs & Mitchell, 168 N.W. 961, 203 Mich. 133.

16. U.S.—U. S v. Wells-Fargo Express Co., C.C.Ill., 161 F 606, affirmed 29 S.Ct. 315, 212 U.S. 522, 53 L.Ed. 635.

10 C.J. p 474 note 16.

17. Ark.—Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. State, 84 S.W. 502, 92 S.W 26, 73 Ark 373

Mo.—Wynn v. Wabash R Co, 86 S.W. 562, 111 Mo.App. 642.

18. U.S.—U. S. v. Oregon R., etc., Co, C.C.Or., 159 F 975.

Ark.—Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v State, 84 S.W. 502, 92 S.W. 26, 73 Ark. 373

10 C.J. p 474 note 19.

Under statute

The duty of a common carrier under a statute prohibiting any "undue or unreasonable preference" to any shipper or locality or to any particular description of traffic, applies only to circumstances or conditions substantially similar.—Cleveland Provision Co v. Public Utilities Commission, 135 N.E 612, 104 Ohio St. 253, 23 A.L.R. 404.

19. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Dixie Cotton Oil Co., 165 S.W. 251, 112 Ark 147.

10 C.J. p 474 note 20

20. U.S.—Archibald McNeil & Sons Co. of New York v Western Maryland Ry. Co, D.C.Pa., 42 F.2d 669, affirmed, C.C.A., 51 F.2d 1073, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 41, 284 U.S. 665, 76 L.Ed. 563

10 C.J. p 508 note 75.

Circumstances considered

In determining whether a carrier has unjustly discriminated, a court acting in a fact-finding capacity may properly take into consideration, besides the mere differences in charges, various elements, such as the convenience of the public, the fair interest of the carrier, the relative quantities or volume of the traffic involved, the relative cost of the services and profit to the company, and the situation and circumstances of the respective customers with reference to each other, as competitive or otherwise—Archibald McNeil & Sons Co. of New York v Western Maryland Ry Co, D.C. Pa, 42 F.2d 669, affirmed, C.C.A., 51 F.2d 1073, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 41, 284 U.S. 665, 76 L.Ed 563

21. Mo.—McGrew v. Missouri Pac. R Co., 132 S.W. 1076, 230 Mo. 496.

Pa.—Hoover v. Pennsylvania R. Co, 27 A. 282, 156 Pa. 220, 36 Am.S.R. 43, 22 L.R.A. 263.

22. U.S.—Missouri Pac R. Co. v. Texas, etc., R. Co., C.C.La., 31 F. 862.

23. U.S.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry.

mission may conclude that a preference given is not unreasonable, undue, or unjust, where it does not, in fact, result in any prejudice or disadvantage to any other person, locality, commodity, or class of traffic.[24] On the other hand, preferential treatment of a class, ordinarily harmless, may become undue, because under the special circumstances, it results in prejudice or disadvantage to some other person, commodity, or locality, or to interstate commerce.[25]

§ 353. Offer of Discrimination

A mere offer of discrimination is not illegal.

In the absence of a statute to the contrary, the mere making or offering of a discriminating rate, under which it is not shown that any shipment was ever made, constitutes no legal injury to a shipper who is charged a higher rate.[26]

§ 354. Who Amenable to Law against Discrimination

Generally, all common carriers are amenable to the law against unjust discrimination.

As will be seen from the rules already discussed in §§ 349–350, all common carriers whether by land or water are amenable to the law against unjust discrimination. Where two or more carriers owning connecting lines of road voluntarily unite in a joint through tariff, they virtually form for the connected roads a new and independent line, and as such become subject to the law against unreasonable discrimination.[27] An initial carrier which has become a party to a joint through rate for the transportation of property over its own and connecting lines between two points in different states, which rate has been filed and published as required by the act, cannot lawfully transport property between such points at a less and unpublished rate over another route and with different connections.[28] However, a connecting carrier which takes the cars as they are delivered to it by the initial carrier is not liable for a discrimination in favor of shippers of products in tank cars and against shippers of the same products in barrels, which may be practiced by the initial carrier, merely because the connecting carrier has participated in the adoption of a joint through rate for barrel shipments, which is in itself reasonable.[29]

Companies engaged in switching. A railroad company holding itself out to the public as ready to do switching, which requires it to have its own rails and right of way, and to go on the rails and right of way of another company with which it has no express contract relating either to compensation for switching or to track rights, is a common carrier, and as such must switch cars without discrimination against a disfavored shipper.[30]

§ 355. In Whose Favor Law against Discrimination Operative

Although particular statutes may be applicable only to particular persons or facilities, ordinarily the rule against unjust discrimination is one of general application.

Common carriers owe an affirmative duty to perform impartial service and it is unlawful to subject any individual to undue prejudice;[31] but statutes and constitutional provisions against discrimination as to particular facilities or services protect only those who have a right to demand and receive such facilities or services from the carrier.[32]

Under the Interstate Commerce Act a carrier cannot discriminate between warehousemen, and a competing warehouse company which is so discriminated against is entitled to complain.[33]

v. State of Tennessee, Tenn., 43 S.Ct. 583, 262 U.S. 318, 67 L.Ed 999, reversing, D.C., State of Tennessee v U. S., 284 F. 371—Manufacturers' Ry. Co v. U. S., Mo., 38 S.Ct. 383, 246 U.S 457, 62 L.Ed 831.

24. U.S.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry v. State of Tennessee, supra

25. U.S.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry v. State of Tennessee, supra

26. U.S.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v Rainey, C.C.Pa., 112 F. 487.
10 C.J. p 474 note 22.

27. U.S.—Cincinnati, etc., R. Co v Interstate Commerce Commn., Ga., 16 S.Ct 700, 162 U.S 184, 40 L.Ed. 935, affirming 9 C.C.A. 689, reversing, C.C., 56 F. 925.
10 C.J. p 474 note 25.

28. U.S.—U. S v. Vacuum Oil Co., D.C.N.Y., 153 F 598.

29. U.S.—Penn Refining Co. v. Western New York, etc., R. Co., Pa., 28 S.Ct 268, 208 U.S. 208, 52 L.Ed. 456, affirming 137 F. 343, 70 C.C.A. 23.
10 C.J. p 474 note 27.

30. Kan.—Larabee Flour Mills Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 88 P. 72, 74 Kan. 808
10 C.J. p 475 note 28.

31. N.Y.—Burgess Bros Co. v. Stewart, 184 N.Y.S. 199, 112 Misc. 347, affirmed 185 N.Y.S. 85, 194 App.Div. 813.

32. Mo.—Canary Taxicab Co. v. Terminal Ry. Ass'n of St Louis, 294 S.W. 88, 316 Mo 709.

Discrimination between individuals
A statute inhibiting discrimination in charges or facilities "between transportation companies and individuals," being penal in character, must be strictly construed, and the quoted section cannot be held to apply in cases of discrimination between individual shippers—Tucker v. St Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 250 S.W. 390, 298 Mo. 51, affirming, App., 233 S.W. 512.

Steel for railroad's use
Statute forbidding discrimination by railroads between shippers of freight was inapplicable, where railroad demanded that steel company's steel be tested before it would permit its use in construction of railroad bridge—Texas Steel Co v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 62 S.W.2d 670, error refused.

33. U.S.—Terminal Warehouse Co of Baltimore City v. U. S., D.C. Md., 31 F.2d 951.

§ 356. Shippers

The law against discrimination operates in favor of all shippers.

The doctrine of the common law as well as the provisions of statutes against undue preferences are for the benefit of all shippers.[34] On the other hand, the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act inhibiting undue discrimination are not violated where the persons injured by the carrier's alleged discriminatory acts are not shippers.[35]

§ 357. Connecting Carriers

The rule as to unjust discrimination operates in favor of connecting carriers.

The common-law obligations of a railroad company to a connecting line, as will be hereinafter discussed in § 449, are the same as to reception, transportation, and delivery of freight as those existing between a railroad and an individual shipper; and there must be no discrimination in rates, charges, and facilities in favor of one connecting line or against others; equal rates and facilities for equal service must be given to all,[36] although there are no direct physical connections between the two lines.[37] However, whatever rights or privileges other than those belonging to a natural person are claimed by one railroad company against a connecting company must be found either in the charters of the company or arise from contract.[38] At common law a carrier is not bound to carry except on its own line; if it contracts to go beyond, it may, in the absence of statutory regulation, determine for itself what agencies it will employ,[39] and the Interstate Commerce Act does not take away this right.[40] In consequence a railroad company, by contracting for the shipment and delivery of goods beyond its own terminus over a particular one of its connecting lines, will not be treated as unjustly discriminating against another connecting line, because the first mentioned company refuses to issue through bills of lading for the shipment over the latter of goods consigned to the same point of destination.[41] Also, in the absence of constitutional or statutory provisions to the contrary, the carrier may enter into a contract with one connecting carrier for through transportation, through traffic, through billing, and for the division of through freights, without being obligated to enter into a similar contract with another connecting carrier.[42] A provision in a state constitution which forbids a railroad company to make discrimination in rates is not violated by refusing to give to a connecting road the same arrangements as to through rates which are given to another connecting line, unless the conditions as to the service are substantially alike in both cases.[43]

§ 358. Telegraph Companies

The rule against discrimination operates in favor of telegraph companies.

Where a railroad company is voluntarily transporting and delivering, between stations on its line, employees and freight for an incorporated public telegraph company, and refuses similar service to others without sufficient excuse, it is guilty of unjust discrimination, and may be compelled to perform such service for a reasonable compensation to another incorporated public telegraph company, although the service rendered is under a contract, where it does not differ from that performed for other shippers, except as to delivery between stations.[44] A contract to perform such services for one telegraph company and not to perform similar services for another is against public policy and void.[45]

§ 359. Express Companies

In the absence of a statute to the contrary, railroad companies generally are not obliged to furnish an express company with facilities for doing an express business on their lines of road, such as they provide for themselves or afford to other express companies.

34. N.J.—National Radiator Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 143 A. 85, 6 N.J Misc 778.
10 C.J. p 475 note 29.

35. Ky.—Indian Refining Co v Kellar, 263 S.W. 9, 203 Ky. 720.

36. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R Co. v. U S, Tenn, 35 S Ct 696, 238 U. S 1, 51 L.Ed. 1177, affirming, D. C, 216 F. 672.
10 C.J. p 476 note 40.
Liability of connecting carriers for unjust discrimination see infra § 401

37. U.S.—Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co v. U S, Ind, 46 S Ct. 226, 270 U. S. 287, 70 L.Ed. 590.

38. Ky.—Shelbyville R. Co. v. Louisville, etc., R Co, 82 Ky. 541.
10 C J. p 476 note 41.

39. U.S.—Atchison, etc, R. Co. v. Denver, etc, R Co., Colo, 4 S.Ct. 185, 110 U S 667, 28 L Ed 291.
10 C.J. p 476 note 42

40. U.S.—Prescott, etc. R. Co. v. Atchison, etc, R. Co, C.C N Y, 73 F 438—Little Rock, etc, R Co v. St. Louis, etc, R. Co., C.C.Ark., 41 F. 559, appeal dismissed 13 S. Ct. 1049, 149 U.S 779, 37 L Ed 963.

41. Ga.—State v. Wrightsville, etc, R. Co., 30 S.E. 891, 104 Ga. 437.
Traffic arrangements between carriers as affecting connecting carriers see infra § 448.

42. U S.—Gulf, etc, R Co v Miami SS Co, Tex, 86 F. 407, 30 C.C.A. 142.
10 C.J p 476 note 44.

43. U S.—Atchison, etc., R Co v. Denver, etc., R Co., Colo., 4 S. Ct. 185, 110 U S. 667, 28 L.Ed 291.

44. Fla.—State v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 40 So 875, 51 Fla 578—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 41 So. 529, 51 Fla. 543.

45. La.—Cumberland Tel, etc, Co. v. Morgan's Louisiana, etc., R. Co., 24 So. 803, 51 La.Ann. 29, 72 Am. S.R. 442.

It is generally held, in the absence of statute or usage, that railroad companies are not obliged to furnish an express company with facilities for doing an express business on their lines of road, such as they provide for themselves or afford to another express company under special agreement;[46] that to entitle an express company to facilities for transacting its express business on a railroad a special contract is necessary;[47] and that it is not enough to establish a usage to carry for some express company or to furnish the public in some way with the advantages of an express service over the road.[48] The basis for this rule is that railroad companies are not required by usage or common law to transport the traffic of independent express companies over their lines in the manner in which the traffic is usually carried and handled,[49] and that they perform their whole duty to the public at large and to each individual when they afford the public all reasonable express accommodations.[50] The rule is not affected by a statute making it unlawful for any common carrier to give any unreasonable preference to any particular person, company, or locality, or to any particular description of traffic, or to subject any person, company, or locality, or any particular description of traffic, to any undue disadvantage,[51] nor by a rule of a railroad commission providing that no railroad company shall, by reason of any contract with any express or other company, refuse to act as a common carrier to transport any article proper for transportation by the train for which it is offered.[52] A statute requiring each railroad company to give all persons or companies reasonable and equal terms and facilities for transportation does not preclude a railroad company from carrying on the express business itself to the exclusion of all other parties.[53]

On the other hand, in some jurisdictions, frequently because of statutory provision, railroad companies cannot grant special facilities for transportation to one express company and deny them to another, but must extend equal facilities to all.[54] The validity of such statutes has been upheld.[55] A limitation imposed on the right by some statutes is that an express company requesting the facilities must obligate itself to perform the same services for the carrier that the other express companies to whom the facilities have been extended perform.[56]

§ 360. Discrimination as to Localities

Common carriers must not unjustly discriminate in favor of one locality to the disadvantage of another.

The rule both at common law and under statutes prohibiting unjust discrimination is that common carriers must not unjustly discriminate in favor of the business of one locality or station to the disadvantage of other localities or stations,[57] even though the rate complained of is, if considered by itself, reasonable.[58] However, neither at common law nor under the statutes, state or federal, is the carrier prohibited from giving a preference or advantage, or from discriminating between localities, provided such preference, advantage, or discrimination is not unreasonable,[59] although it is no justification for 46. U.S.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Southern Express Co., Ark., 6 S.Ct. 542, 628, 117 U.S. 1, 29 L.Ed. 791, reversing, C.C., Southern Express Co. v. St. Louis & I. M. & S. R. Co., 10 F. 210, 869.

10 C.J. p. 477 note 50.

47. U.S.—Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Southern Express Co., Ark., 6 S.Ct. 542, 628, 117 U.S. 1, 29 L.Ed. 791.
Ind.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Keefer, 44 N.E. 796, 146 Ind. 21, 58 Am.S.R. 348, 38 L.R.A. 93.

48. U.S.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Southern Express Co., Ark., 6 S.Ct. 542, 628, 117 U.S. 1, 29 L.Ed. 791
10 C.J. p. 477 note 52.

49. U.S.—Memphis, etc., R. Co. v. Southern Express Co., supra
10 C.J. p. 476 note 48.

50. U.S.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Southern Express Co., supra.

51. N.C.—Atlantic Express Co. v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 16 S.E. 393, 111 N.C. 463, 32 Am.S.R. 805, 18 L.R.A. 393.

52. N.C.—Atlantic Express Co. v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., supra.
10 C.J. p. 477 note 54.

53. Mass.—Sargent v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 115 Mass. 416.

54. Me.—International Express Co. v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 16 A. 370, 81 Me. 92.
10 C.J. p. 477 note 56, p. 478 note 57.

55. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Empire Express Co., Civ.App., 173 S.W. 222—Trinity, etc., R. Co. v. Empire Express Co., Civ.App., 173 S.W. 217
10 C.J. p. 478 note 58.

56. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Empire Express Co., Civ.App., 173 S.W. 222

57. Okl.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. State, 206 P. 236, 85 Okl. 223.
10 C.J. p. 475 note 31.

In Missouri, it has been said that the common law did not make unlawful mere unjust discriminations between localities, although it made such discriminations between individual shippers unlawful. The manifest purpose of the act of 1872 prohibiting discriminations was to make it unlawful for railroads to discriminate unjustly between localities.—McGrew Coal Co. v. Mellon, 287 S.W. 450, 315 Mo. 798, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 456, 273 U.S. 752, 71 L.Ed. 874.

58. Okl.—Kansas, O. & G. Ry. Co. v. State, 260 P. 468, 127 Okl. 240.

59. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 173 N.E. 804, 342 Ill. 11.
10 C.J. p. 475 note 32.

Where no undue discrimination by defendant carrier against the shipper or the locality of its plant is found, and the community declared to be prejudiced by the established conditions has not complained and is not a party to the proceeding, and the rate complained of is intrinsically reasonable, the mere fact that other carriers have adopted a lower schedule from the shipper's district to points other than the one designated affords no foundation for a finding by the interstate commerce commission that discriminating in favor of one locality and against another that the latter is possessed of greater natural advantages than the former.[60] Likewise, a carrier is not justified in discriminating in favor of one locality to the disadvantage of another because of the fact that the former has made subscriptions in aid of building its road.[61] The element of distance may be a controlling factor in determining whether a carrier's rates to different localities similarly situated are discriminatory, but this is not invariably true.[62]

"Locality," as used in the Interstate Commerce Act prohibiting unreasonable preferences to localities, denotes the origin or destination of traffic and the shipping, producing, and consuming areas affected by rates and practices of carriers. The word, however, is not intended to cover a junction, a way station, a gateway, or a port, as respects traffic passing through it.[63]

§ 361. Discrimination as to Particular Commodities

Carriers must not unjustly discriminate against particular commodities.

Under the third section of the Interstate Commerce Act, which prohibits carriers from giving any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular description of traffic, and under state legislation of similar import, there may be an unjust discrimination as to particular commodities as well as against particular shippers.[64] However, discrimination by a carrier against a particular commodity is not necessarily unlawful, if reasonable grounds therefor can be shown;[65] and proper classification of freight according to its character and value is not discrimination, although differences in charges and in the terms of conditions of carriage are made between the different classes.[66] Ordinarily, the rates on raw material should not be higher than on the manufactured product, but a rate on the manufactured article resulting from genuine competition and natural conditions is not necessarily undue and unreasonable discrimination against a manufacturing community, merely because it is lower than the rate on the raw material.[67] It has also been held that a rule promulgated by a state railroad commission that carriers shall afford all persons, in the conduct of their interstate business, equal facilities in the transportation and delivery of freight, prohibits discrimination only against shippers and not against commodities, and a carrier may discriminate against a particular commodity, provided all shippers of that commodity are treated alike.[68]

An express company may not refuse to receive and carry intoxicating liquors C. O. D., and to collect and return the purchase money from the consignee in accordance with the general custom of the business, where it follows such custom with respect to other commodities;[69] but a rule of an express company by which it declines to receive shipments of liquor C. O. D. is reasonable and valid where it applies to all shippers and all localities alike, and where it is shown that the acceptance of such business has resulted in loss to the company and detriment to its business through unclaimed packages, delays in deliveries, rendering its places of business such rate is unreasonable and discriminatory as matter of law—Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Pa., 36 S.Ct. 354, 240 U.S. 334, 60 L.Ed. 675, reversing, D.C., 219 F. 988.

60. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 173 N.E. 804, 342 Ill. 11.
Tex.—Railroad Commission of Texas v. Houston Chamber of Commerce, 78 S.W.2d 591, 124 Tex. 375, affirming Houston Chamber of Commerce v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 19 S.W.2d 583.
10 C.J. p. 473 note 12, p. 475 note 34.

Group rates

While statute permits group rates for railroads and they are applied both by interstate commerce commission and state commissions in proper cases, they must not be unjustly discriminatory, although locality may possess advantage over other localities because of location or some other reason.—Railroad Commission of Texas v. Houston Chamber of Commerce, 78 S.W.2d 591, 124 Tex. 375, affirming Houston Chamber of Commerce v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 19 S.W.2d 583.

61. Or.—Portland R., etc., Co. v. State R. Commn., 105 P. 709, 109 P. 273, 56 Or. 468.

62. Conn.—Turner v. Connecticut Co., 101 A. 88, 91 Conn. 692.

63. U.S.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Tex., 53 S.Ct. 768, 289 U.S. 627, 77 L.Ed. 1410, reversing, D.C., 42 F.2d 281.

Ports are not "localities," susceptible of undue preference or prejudice by carriers, as respects export and import traffic routed through them, under the Interstate Commerce Act § 3 (1), 49 U.S.C.A. § 3 (1).—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Tex., 53 S.Ct. 768, 289 U.S. 627, 77 L.Ed. 1410, reversing, D.C., 42 F.2d 281.

64. U.S.—American Tie, etc., Co. v. Kansas City Southern R. Co., Tex., 175 F. 28, 99 C.C.A. 44.
10 C.J. p. 478 note 61.

65. U.S.—Davis Hotel Co. v. Platt, C.C.W.Va., 172 F. 775.—Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., C.C.Ill., 141 F. 1003, affirmed 28 S.Ct. 493, 209 U.S. 108, 52 L.Ed. 705.

66. Mo.—Wynn v. Wabash R. Co., 86 S.W. 562, 111 Mo.App. 642.
10 C.J. p. 478 note 63 [a].

67. U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., Ill., 28 S.Ct. 493, 209 U.S. 108, 52 L.Ed. 705.

68. Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Augusta Brokerage Co., 50 S.E. 473, 122 Ga. 646, 69 L.R.A. 119.—Augusta Brokerage Co. v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 62 S.E. 996, 5 Ga.App. 187.
10 C.J. p. 479 note 68.

69. U.S.—Crescent Liquor Co. v. Platt, C.C.W.Va., 148 F. 894.

unpleasant to other patrons, and in other ways, such as to justify the rule as a business regulation.[70]

§ 362. Services outside Scope of Carrier's Duty as Such

The rule against unjust discrimination does not apply to services outside the scope of the carrier's duty as such.

The rules, both common law and statutory, prohibiting discrimination, do not apply to services outside the scope of a common carrier's duty as such.[71] Accordingly, a statute inhibiting discrimination does not apply to a contract between a railroad company and a construction company for a reduced rate of transportation of men and materials required by the company in grading an extension, and entered into in good faith,[72] nor to a contract for the transportation of a circus train providing that the carrier should furnish motive power, etc., and, in consideration of a reduced rate, should not be liable for injuries caused by its negligence in performing the contract.[73] Contracts of this character lie outside the purpose of the statutes,[74] and should not be held to embrace services which common carriers have never been obligated to perform, but which they have rendered to the public from time to time under special contracts.[75]

§ 363. Competition as Justifying Discrimination

Competition of a substantial character between carriers generally justifies them in discriminating between shippers.

Competition between common carriers, when it is of a substantial and real nature, is very generally held, in the absence of an express statute to the contrary, to justify carriers in discriminating between shippers in respect of facilities furnished for the shipment of goods, rates of freight charges, etc.[76] The basis for this rule is that a carrier is entitled to a fair return on its capital judiciously and honestly expended, and is entitled to meet competition;[77] and the prohibition of the rule is directed against unjust discrimination arising from the voluntary and wrongful act of the carrier, and does not relate to acts which are the result of conditions beyond the control of the carrier.[78]

Under the Interstate Commerce Act the phrase

70. U.S.—Davis Hotel Co. v. Platt, C.C.W.Va., 172 F. 775

71. Ga.—Williams-Thompson Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 126 S.E. 833, 159 Ga. 793.
10 C.J. p. 479 note 69.

Coal bin

Refusal by railroad to permit coal dealer to construct coal bin along sidetrack, which had been given to others, does not constitute discrimination, which applies only to discharge of "carrier service" duties—Browning v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 281 S.W. 490, 213 Ky. 376, 44 A.L.R. 1522.

Loading freight

(1) Since a railroad company is not bound as a common carrier to furnish facilities for loading freight at points between stations, it may grant that privilege to one person to the exclusion of all others.—Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Crawford, 65 So. 462, 107 Miss. 355, L.R.A.1915C 250.

(2) Thus, the fact that a railroad company had for a long time allowed private individuals to engage in the business of loading logs at points between stations, and that plaintiff had built up a profitable business under that arrangement, does not give plaintiff any right to insist that it be continued, and he cannot object that the railroad company thereafter gave another the exclusive license to load logs between stations—Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Crawford, supra.

Parking of cars

A statute requiring the schedules of a common carrier filed with the railroad commission to contain all charges for track and car service or rental, and for switching, demurrage, terminal, and transfer service, and for rendering any other service in connection with the transportation of passengers and property, refers to such rental and service as are to be performed in its capacity as a common carrier, and does not extend to a charge made to a showman for parking his cars on the carrier's tracks for a period of forty-five days, and it is entitled to make such charge, although not contained in its schedules—Ex parte Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 90 So. 502, 206 Ala. 400, 19 A.L.R. 978, reversing Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Wood, 90 So. 503, 18 Ala.App. 147.

Warehouse facilities

Where a railroad acquired land from city for terminals, and on portion remaining after such use erected building, which it divided into sections and leased to produce merchants who utilized its lines for shipping, it was held that this use of the building was merely to facilitate the railroad's business as carrier, and refusal to renew lease was not unjust discrimination, within Interstate Commerce Act, 1887, §§ 2, 3, U.S.Comp.St. §§ 8564, 8565, and § 1, subd. 6, as amended by Act Feb. 28, 1920, U.S.Comp.St.Annot.Suppl., 1923, § 8563, or within the Georgia constitution art. 4 § 2 par. 1.—Williams-Thompson Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 126 S.E. 833, 159 Ga. 793.

72. U.S.—Santa Fe, etc., R. Co. v. Grant Bros. Constr. Co., 33 S.Ct. 474, 228 U.S. 177, 57 L.Ed. 787, reversing 108 P. 467, 13 Ariz. 186.

73. U.S.—Sager v. Northern Pac. R. Co., C.C.Minn., 166 F. 526.

74. U.S.—Santa Fe, etc., R. Co. v. Grant Bros. Constr. Co., 33 S.Ct. 474, 228 U.S. 177, 57 L.Ed. 787, reversing 108 P. 467, 13 Ariz. 186.

75. U.S.—Sager v. Northern Pac. R. Co., C.C.Minn., 166 F. 526.

76. U.S.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. U.S., Tex., 53 S.Ct. 768, 289 U.S. 627, 77 L.Ed. 1410, reversing, D.C., 42 F.2d 281.
10 C.J. p. 479 note 77
Competition as justifying greater charge for short than for long haul see infra § 378.

Equalization of export or import rates by railroad lines serving several ports in order to meet competition is not prohibited by Interstate Commerce Act § 3 (1), 49 U.S.C.A. § 3 (1)—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. U.S., Tex., 53 S.Ct. 768, 289 U.S. 627, 77 L.Ed. 1410, reversing, D.C., 42 F.2d 281.

77. Or.—Service Lumber Co. v. Sumpter Valley R. Co., 135 P. 539, 67 Or. 63

78. U.S.—East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commn., Tenn., 21 S.Ct. 516, 181 U.S. 1, 45 L.Ed. 719.
10 C.J. p. 480 note 79.

"under substantially similar circumstances and conditions," as used in the second section of the act which prohibits discrimination in charges, refers to the matter of carriage, and does not include competition between rival routes which therefore cannot be considered.[79] However, it is well settled that, in considering whether the circumstances and conditions are substantially similar, within the meaning of the third and fourth sections, relating to undue preferences and to long and short hauls, competition is one of the most important conditions which may and must be taken into consideration.[80] The advantageous position of one trader in having his works so placed that he has two competing routes is as much a circumstance to be taken into consideration as the geographical position of another trader who, although he has not the advantage of competition, is situated at a point on the line nearer the market.[81] Potential water competition, although there is at the time but little actual competition, is a circumstance to be considered.[82] In the case of traffic originating in foreign countries, the courts may and must take into consideration, as constituting dissimilar conditions, circumstances existing beyond the seaboard of the United States, such as competition by ocean freights, as well as conditions prevailing within the United States.[83]

The mere existence of competition, however, does not necessarily exempt the carrier from the restraint of the act, without regard to the nature and extent of the competition.[84] It is, of course, essential that the competition be genuine and not a pretense,[85] and that it be not artificial, or merely conjectural, but material and substantial, as will be subsequently discussed in § 378. Discrimination in favor of particular shippers to induce them not to divert traffic from the carrier, or to induce them to transfer traffic from one carrier which would otherwise go to another carrier, is unlawful and cannot be justified on the ground of profit to the carrier allowing them.[86]

2. Particular Kinds of Discrimination

§ 364. In General

Generally speaking, the inhibition of discrimination extends to virtually any act or conduct of either carrier, shipper, or consignee producing such a result.

Under the Interstate Commerce Act, individual shippers may not secure any special advantage or discrimination by contract or otherwise.[87] The provisions of this act are sufficiently broad in their scope to bar not only inequality of charges and inequality of facilities, but also the giving of prefer-

79. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn v. Alabama Midland R. Co., Ala., 18 S.Ct. 45, 168 U.S. 144, 42 L.Ed. 414
10 C.J. p 480 note 80

80. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn v. Alabama Midland R. Co., supra
10 C.J. p 480 note 81.

81. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn v Baltimore, etc., R. Co., Ohio, 12 S.Ct. 844, 145 U.S. 263, 36 L.Ed. 699—Interstate Commerce Commn. v Louisville, etc., R. Co., C.C.Tenn., 73 F. 409.
10 C.J. p 480 note 82.

82. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Alabama Midland R. Co., Ala., 74 F. 715, 21 C.C.A. 51, affirmed 18 S.Ct. 45, 168 U.S. 144, 62 L.Ed. 414.

83. U.S.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v Interstate Commerce Commn., N.Y., 16 S.Ct. 666, 162 U.S. 197, 40 L.Ed. 940.
10 C.J. p 480 note 84

84. U.S.—State of Ohio v. U. S., D.C.Ohio, 6 F.Supp. 386, vacated U.S. v. State of Ohio, 54 S.Ct. 452, 291 U.S. 644, 78 L.Ed. 1041, and U.S. v. Wheeling & L.E.R. Co., 54 S.Ct. 452, 291 U.S. 644, 78 L.Ed. 1041, affirmed State of Ohio v. U.S., 54 S.Ct. 792, 292 U.S. 498, 78 L.Ed. 1388, rehearing granted 55 S.Ct. 66, 293 U.S. 627, 79 L.Ed. 714, affirmed 55 S.Ct. 146, 293 U.S. 528, 79 L.Ed. 638.
10 C.J. p 480 note 87.

85. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., Ill., 28 S.Ct. 493, 209 U.S. 108, 52 L.Ed. 705.
10 C.J. p 480 note 85.

86. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Texas & P. R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 52 F. 187, affirmed 57 F. 948, 6 C.C.A. 653, reversed on other grounds Texas & P. R. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commn., 16 S.Ct. 666, 162 U.S. 197, 40 L.Ed. 940
10 C.J. p 480 note 88.

87. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. A. H. Cleaver & Co., 101 So. 597, 211 Ala. 661.

Contracts held discriminatory

(1) Contract of interstate carrier to furnish rails, lay ballast, operate trains and haul logs at specified rate on logging company's line, was held to be void as giving undue preference under the Interstate Commerce Act as amended, 49 U.S.C.A. § 1 et seq.—Holt Lumber Co. v Duluth, S. S. & A. Ry. Co., 238 N.W. 839, 206 Wis. 77.

(2) The liability of the carrier being fixed by the federal law to the amount of damage caused by it, where purchaser, en route, of strawberries consigned from Mississippi to Ohio entered into collateral agreement with carrier's agent to accept berries, pay charges, and dispose of them at best price obtainable, if carrier would pay his claim for loss resulting from damaged condition of berries, such contract on which purchaser sought to recover from carrier was held to be violative of the Interstate Commerce Act as an evasion of the whole scheme of uniformity of rates and dealings.—Carollo v. Railway Express Agency, 3 N.E.2d 659, 52 Ohio App. 272

Judgment for damages to shipment held not to be discriminatory within the federal statutes.—Kuney v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 197 N.W. 708, 183 Wis. 569.

Mistakes of agent

Express company is not liable for mistake of its agent in violating rules of interstate commerce commission, regarding special instructions concerning delivery of shipment, where so to hold would nullify rules and regulations on file, for that would work discrimination among shippers.—Wall v. American Ry. Express Co., 272 S.W. 76, 220 Mo.App. 989.

ences by means of consent judgments or the waiver of defenses open to the carrier,[88] or the waiver of any requirement of the Act or any stipulation or contract made pursuant thereto.[89] Accordingly, the terms of an interstate bill of lading or shipping contract cannot be modified or waived by the parties thereto, nor can the carrier by its conduct give the shipper a right to ignore the terms thereof,[90] as this would constitute a discrimination, void as against public policy.[91] Also, although there is authority to the contrary,[92] it is generally held that stipulations in such contracts requiring a written claim or notice of loss or damage to be presented within a specified time,[93] or limiting the time with-

88. U.S.—Phillips Co. v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co., Mich., 35 S.Ct. 444, 236 U.S. 662, 59 L.Ed. 774.

89. Tex.—Shroyer v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., 222 S.W. 1095, 111 Tex. 24, reversing Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Shroyer, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 773, and modified on other grounds Shroyer v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., 226 S.W. 140, 111 Tex. 24.

Liability of initial carrier for damages caused by connecting carriers of interstate shipment under Cummins amendment, U.S.Comp.St. § 8604a, are not ordinarily subject to waiver by carrier or shipper.—Burd v. San Antonio Southern Ry. Co., Tex.Com.App., 261 S.W. 1021, modifying San Antonio Southern Ry. Co. v. Burd, Civ.App., 246 S.W. 1060.

90. U.S.—Georgia, F. & A. Ry. Co. v. Blish Milling Co., 36 S.Ct. 541, 241 U.S. 190, 60 L.Ed. 948, affirming 82 S.E. 794, 15 Ga.App. 142.

Cal.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Frank H. Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.

Ga.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Harrell & Murphy, 120 S.E. 35, 31 Ga.App. 126—American Ry. Express Co. v. Roberts, 111 S.E. 744, 28 Ga.App. 510.

Ind.—Herran v. Chicago & E. R. Co., 135 N.E. 235, 78 Ind.App. 253.

Mo.—Cudahy Packing Co. v. Bixby, 205 S.W. 865, 199 Mo.App. 589, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 19, 248 U.S. 577, 63 L.Ed. 429—Barton v. Louisville & N. R. Co., App., 196 S.W. 379.

N.Y.—American Cotton Products Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 255 N.Y.S. 672, 142 Misc. 821—Grand Trunk Western R. Co. v. Makris, 255 N.Y.S. 443, 142 Misc. 807.

N.C.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Armfield Co., 127 S.E. 557, 189 N.C. 581.

S.D.—Christensen v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S.S.M. Ry. Co., 252 N.W. 738, 62 S.D. 264.

Tenn.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Lewis & Adcock Co., 201 S.W. 131, 139 Tenn. 37, L.R.A.1918C 976.

Tex.—Burd v. San Antonio Southern Ry. Co., Com.App., 261 S.W. 1021, modifying San Antonio Southern Ry. Co. v. Burd, Civ.App., 246 S.W. 1060.

Va.—Southern Produce Co. v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 132 S.E. 360, 144 Va. 422.

W.Va.—Hubbard Grocery Co. v. Payne, 118 S.E. 152, 94 W.Va. 273.—William F. Mosser Co. v. Payne, 114 S.E. 365, 92 W.Va. 41.

Damages

(1) The terminal carrier of an interstate shipment by rail, when sued for damage to the shipment, could not waive provision of the standard form bill of lading fixing the damages as the invoice price of the goods shipped, where the bill was issued as required by an order of the interstate commerce commission pursuant to the Carmack amendment of the Interstate Commerce Act.—Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Reichardt & Schulte Co., Tex.Civ.App., 212 S.W. 208.

(2) Where the shipping contract provides that the carrier shall not be liable for losses not occurring on its own road, the carrier is guilty of an illegal discrimination violative of the Interstate Commerce Act if it agrees to pay for losses not occurring on its road.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Lewis & Adcock Co., 201 S.W. 131, 139 Tenn. 37, L.R.A.1918C 976.

Person liable for freight charges

A custom whereby an interstate carrier, contrary to the express terms of the bill of lading, holds the person to whom certain commodities are shipped liable for the freight charges thereon rather than the shipper, is an illegal discrimination under the Interstate Commerce Act.—Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co. v. Peterson, 169 N.W. 558, 168 Wis. 193.

91. Ind.—Herran v. Chicago & E. R. Co., 135 N.E. 253, 78 Ind.App. 253.

92. Ill.—Doster & McKibben v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 196 Ill.App. 49. But see Simpson v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 210 Ill.App. 269—Hart v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 207 Ill.App. 290.

Sole benefit of carrier

"The stipulation as to notice was for the sole benefit of the carrier, and before the passage of the act the courts repeatedly held that similar provisions could be waived, and as the present one was not determinative of the rate in the contract, we fail to see any good reason for holding that it would be a violation of the act for the defendant to waive the same."—Doster & McKibben v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 196 Ill.App. 49, 64.

93. U.S.—Georgia, F. & A. Ry. Co. v. Blish Milling Co., 36 S.Ct. 541, 241 U.S. 190, 60 L.Ed. 948, affirming 82 S.E. 784, 15 Ga.App. 142—Olson v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., Iowa, 250 F. 372, 162 C.C.A. 442.

Ark.—Hines v. Mason, 221 S.W. 861, 144 Ark. 11.

Colo.—Denver & R. G. R. Co. v. Caddo Realty Co., 182 P. 877, 66 Colo. 403.

Ga.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Harrell & Murphy, 120 S.E. 35, 31 Ga.App. 126—American Ry. Express Co. v. Roberts, 111 S.E. 744, 28 Ga.App. 510.

Ind.—Herran v. Chicago & E. R. Co., 135 N.E. 253, 78 Ind.App. 253.

Iowa.—Fay v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 173 N.W. 69, 186 Iowa 573.—Keeney v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 167 N.W. 475, 183 Iowa 522.

Kan.—Abell v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 164 P. 269, 100 Kan. 238, L.R.A.1918E 782.

Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Johnson, 206 S.W. 633, 182 Ky. 418.

Md.—Bronstein v. Payne, 113 A. 648, 138 Md. 116.

Mass.—Metz Co. v. Boston & M. R. R., 116 N.E. 475, 227 Mass. 307.

Minn.—Carbic Mfg. Co. v. Western Express Co., 184 N.W. 35, 149 Minn. 467.

Mo.—Mt. Arbor Nurseries v. American Ry. Express Co., 300 S.W. 1051, 221 Mo.App. 241—Cudahy Packing Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., App., 201 S.W. 596—Johnson v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., App., 187 S.W. 282—Donoho v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., 187 S.W. 141, 193 Mo.App. 610, transferred, Sup., 184 S.W. 1149—Kemper Mill Co. v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., 186 S.W. 8, 193 Mo.App. 466, transferred Kemper Mill & Elevator Co. v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., Sup., 178 S.W. 502—Banaka v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 186 S.W. 7, 193 Mo.App. 345.

Mont.—Wall v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 161 P. 518, 53 Mont. 81, L.R.A.1917C 433.

N.Y.—Browning, King & Co. v. Davis, 199 N.Y.S. 775, 120 Misc. 520.

N.C.—Rogers & Co. v. East Carolina Ry., 118 S.E. 885, 186 N.C. 86.

Okl.—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Ladd, 178 P. 125, 72 Okl. 55—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Sparks, 178 P. 90, 72 Okl. 53—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Brockmeier, 168 P. 1011, 66 Okl. 280—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Gray, 165 P. 157, 65 Okl. 181.

in which the shipper may sue for damages,[94] cannot be waived by the carrier, even where the shipper is also a common carrier.[95] Likewise, since the Interstate Commerce Act makes it unlawful for a shipper to receive any benefit or advantage to which all other shippers are not entitled at the hands of a carrier, an estoppel cannot be invoked to obtain an unlawful preference for an interstate shipper.[96] However, particular acts of the carrier are not necessarily discriminatory merely because they work to its advantage, as where it adopts a particular method of settling for damages to goods transported.[97] Neither does an interstate carrier unduly discriminate when it exercises its discretion in employing agents and employees to perform transportation services,[98] and the mere granting of privileges which are incidentally part of the compensation for services rendered, is not unlawful as preferential as against others who are not thus selected.[99]

While the Interstate Commerce Act does not undertake to define the particular acts which constitute unlawful discrimination, it undoubtedly commits that to the interstate commerce commission and its findings are conclusive.[1]

State statutes. Generally, the statutes prohibiting unjust discriminations by carriers do not attempt to list the specific discriminations condemned as unjust, and each case must be decided on its own facts.[2] Accordingly, under the facts in the case,

Pa.—Scattergood v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 69 Pa.Super. 367—Concordia Silk Hosiery Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 69 Pa.Super. 361.

S.C.—Dean v. Southern Ry. Co., 91 S.E. 1042, 107 S.C. 25.

Tex.—Schaff v. Ike Exstein & Bro., Civ.App., 270 S.W. 589—Mexico Northwestern Ry. Co. v. Williams, Civ.App., 208 S.W. 712, affirmed, Com.App., 229 S.W. 476, certiorari denied 42 S.Ct. 54, 257 U.S. 644, 66 L.Ed. 413—Houston E. & W. T. Ry. Co. v. Houston Packing Co., Civ.App., 203 S.W. 1140.

Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., v. National Fruit Products Co., 155 S.E. 630, 155 Va. 438, 72 A.L.R. 878.

W.Va.—Hubbard Grocery Co. v. Payne, 118 S.E. 152, 94 W.Va. 273. 10 C.J. p. 340 note 73.

Acceptance of claim

Railroad by accepting shipper's claim for loss after elapse of time stipulated and by declining to pay on other grounds than want of notice cannot commit discrimination by waiving requirement of notice in four months.—Banaka v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., 186 S.W. 7, 193 Mo.App. 345.

Provision of uniform express receipt requiring shipper to notify carrier of nondelivery within a reasonable time cannot be waived by carrier.—Stern v. American Railway Express Co., 198 N.Y.S. 531, 120 Misc. 110.

Door opened to discrimination and favoritism

Common carriers could not be allowed to waive provisions of a bill of lading covering an interstate shipment, requiring the giving and filing of notice and of a verified claim within times specified without opening wide the door to discrimination and favoritism.—Cunningham v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., Mo.App., 219 S.W. 1003.

Injuries to caretaker

Where notice of injuries received by a caretaker accompanying an interstate shipment of live stock was a condition precedent to recovery, such notice cannot be waived by the carrier, for to do so would work a discrimination.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Lynn, 161 P. 1058, 62 Okl. 17.

Same rule as rates

Under the federal decisions the carrier can no more release the shipper from such a stipulation as to notice than it could excuse him from the payment of the established freight rate.—Concordia Silk Hosiery Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 69 Pa.Super. 361.

94. Ill.—Indian Refining Co. v. Mellon, 246 Ill.App. 580.

Ind.—American Ry. Exp. Co. v. Shideler, 165 N.E. 336, 88 Ind.App. 645.

Kan.—Easdale v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 164 P. 164, 100 Kan. 305.

N.M.—Mersfelder v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 174 P. 989, 24 N.M. 518.

Okl.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Patterson, 182 P. 701, 75 Okl. 204.

S.C.—Spartan Mills v. Davis, 119 S.E. 905, 126 S.C. 312.

Tex.—Shroyer v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., 222 S.W. 1095, 111 Tex. 24, reversing Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Shroyer, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 773, and modified on other grounds Shroyer v. Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co., 226 S.W. 140, 111 Tex. 24—Cudahy Packing Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ.App., 206 S.W. 854, error refused.

Vt.—N. Pelaggi & Co. v. Central Vermont Ry. Co., 121 A. 441, 97 Vt. 1.

W.Va.—William F. Mosser Co. v. Payne, 114 S.E. 365, 92 W.Va. 41.

Carrier bound to set up defense

The provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act respecting uniformity require an interstate carrier to set up in an action against it for damages to an interstate shipment the defense that the period of limitations fixed by the contract had expired before the suit was brought.—N. Pelaggi & Co. v. Central Vermont Ry. Co., 121 A. 441, 97 Vt. 1.

95. Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. National Fruit Products Co., 155 S.E. 630, 155 Va. 438, 72 A.L.R. 878.

96. Tenn.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Lewis & Adcock Co., 201 S.W. 131, 139 Tenn. 37, L.R.A.1918C 976.

Provision limiting liability

A connecting carrier is not estopped to rely on a provision in a bill of lading limiting liability to loss occurring on its own lines to defeat recovery on an unlawful contract made by its agent to pay such loss on interstate shipment, since estoppel cannot be invoked to obtain for shipper an illegal preference.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Lewis & Adcock Co., 201 S.W. 131, 139 Tenn. 37, L.R.A.1918C 976.

97. Mo.—Amber v. Davis, 282 S.W. 459, 221 Mo.App. 448.

98. U.S.—Merchants' Warehouse Co. v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 44 F.2d 379, affirmed 51 S.Ct. 505, 283 U.S. 501, 75 L.Ed. 1227—Terminal Warehouse Co. of Baltimore City v. U. S., D.C.Md., 31 F.2d 951.

Selection of exclusive agent

Carrier may select its own agents to perform transportation service in its behalf, and employ one exclusively without violating the Interstate Commerce Act.—Terminal Warehouse Co. of Baltimore City v. U. S., D.C. Md., 31 F.2d 951.

Performance of part of services

U.S.—Merchants' Warehouse Co. v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 44 F.2d 379, affirmed 51 S.Ct. 505, 283 U.S. 501, 75 L.Ed. 1227.

99. U.S.—Merchants' Warehouse Co. v. U. S., supra.

1. U.S.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Va., 249 F. 368, affirmed 41 S.Ct. 24, 254 U.S. 57, 65 L.Ed. 129.

2. Mo.—McGrew v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., 132 S.W. 1076, 230 Mo.

particular acts[3] and contracts[4] have been held to constitute unjust discriminations.

Under some statutes, two kinds of discrimination are prohibited; first, the giving of an unreasonable preference to a particular person, and second, the subjecting of a person to an unreasonable prejudice.[5] Subjecting a person to an unreasonable prejudice does not contemplate malicious intent on the part of the carrier toward the person prejudiced.[6]

Under statutes merely prohibiting discrimination as to charges for transportation, a carrier is not guilty of unlawful discrimination in waiving a contractual limitation on the time within which a shipper may sue for damages to the freight;[7] and the rule permitting knowledge of the loss or injury to supply the place of a written notice is not a discrimination between railroads, nor is it a preference in favor of a particular shipper at the expense of others, as it is a mode of proof, applicable alike to all railroads and in favor of all shippers.[8]

§ 365. Discrimination in Furnishing Facilities for Transportation

A common carrier must not discriminate unjustly between shippers in furnishing facilities for transportation.

Both at common law and under federal and state legislation, a common carrier is bound to furnish facilities for transportation to all persons without discrimination for service under like conditions,[9] and under the Interstate Commerce Act an interstate carrier is not permitted to extend to a shipper any facilities in the transportation of property, except such as are specified in tariffs prepared and filed as therein prescribed.[10] Particular acts by carriers constituting unreasonable discrimination in furnishing facilities for transportation include: refusing to transport the product of one shipper while at the same time transporting the product of other shippers from practically the same territory, at the same rates, to the same territory;[11] discontinuing a

496—Brunswig v. Bush, App., 221 S.W. 759, certiorari dismissed Bush v. Brunswig, 41 S.Ct. 9, 254 U.S. 660, 65 L.Ed 462

3. Mich.—Federal Gravel Co. v. Detroit & M Ry. Co., 248 N.W. 831, 263 Mich 341

Organization and operation of gravel company

Acts of railroad carrier in organizing, financing, and managing corporation to remove and sell gravel from land owned by carrier for nominal consideration, for primary purpose of securing freight revenue, was held to constitute unjust discrimination under Comp.L.1929 §§ 11032–11035—Federal Gravel Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co, 248 N.W. 831, 263 Mich. 341.

4. N.J.—Lehigh Valley R Co. v. Maas & Waldstein Co., 131 A. 884, 102 N.J.Law 332.

Agreement to waive provisions of Railroad Act, Pub.L.1907 p 648, 3 Comp.St.1910 p 4242 § 47, limiting intra-state demurrage charges to one dollar per day, was held illegal and unenforceable—Lehigh Valley R Co. v. Maas & Waldstein Co., 131 A 884, 102 N.J Law 332

5. Mo.—Alexander v Chicago, M. & St P. R Co, 221 S.W. 712, 282 Mo. 236, 11 A.L.R 867

6. Mo.—Alexander v. Chicago, M. & St P R Co, supra

7. N.M.—Mersfelder v. Atchison, T. & S. F Ry. Co, 174 P. 989, 24 N. M. 518

8. La.—Jennings v. Missouri Pac. R Co., 134 So 694, 172 La. 522.
10 C.J p 339 note 54.

9. Fla.—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 119 So. 110, 96 Fla. 646.

Iowa.—Northern Gravel Co. v Muscatine North & S Ry. Co, 171 N W. 787, 185 Iowa 1259

Ohio.—Quinn Coal Co. v Hocking Valley Ry, 20 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 420—Johnson Coal Mining Co v. Hocking Valley R. Co, 1 Ohio N.P, N.S, 385.

Okl.—Bromide Crushed Rock Co. v. Dolese Bros. Co., 247 P. 74, 121 Okl. 40.

10 C.J. p 480 note 90.

"Facilities"

Term "facilities," as used in statutory and constitutional provision regarding discrimination, includes only those employed in transportation and which railroad undertakes to furnish as common carrier—Canary Taxicab Co v Terminal Ry. Ass'n of St. Louis, 294 S.W. 88, 316 Mo. 709.

Lessee railways

Railroad companies, created and organized as common carriers to which a railroad is leased, are required to furnish reasonably adequate shipping facilities to the public without discrimination—Barlotti & Son v Public Utilities Commission, 134 N.E 468, 103 Ohio St. 647.

Special services

Whatever special services a railway carrier may extend to a shipper of goods must be open to all shippers alike, pursuant to freight tariffs and schedules of charges for such services filed with the public service commission and the interstate commerce commission—Parker Corn Co v. Chicago, B & Q R. Co, 244 P 240, 120 Kan 484.

10. La.—Davis v. Ferguson, 132 So 289, 17 La.App 149, avoided 136 So 293, 173 La. 132.

Miss.—Pitman v Yazoo & M. V R Co, 158 So 547, 171 Miss 799

S.C.—May v. Seaboard Air Line Ry Co, 96 S.E 482, 110 S C 84

Wis.—Northern Wisconsin Produce Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co, 234 N.W. 726, 203 Wis. 549.

Heating cars

(1) An interstate carrier's action in heating particular cars constitutes a discrimination violative of the Interstate Commerce Act, where such carrier's posted and published tariff rates make no provision therefor.

Ill.—Northwestern Fruit Exchange v. Erie R. Co, 248 Ill.App. 193.

Mass.—W. H Blodget Co. v. New York Cent. R Co., 159 N.E. 45, 261 Mass 365.

Mo.—Clemons Produce Co. v Denver & R. G. R. R., 219 S.W. 660, 203 Mo App. 100.

(2) This rule applies under the Interstate Commerce Act, notwithstanding Cummins amendment of 1915, U.S.Comp St. § 8604a, making interstate carriers liable for loss, damage, or injury to property caused by such carrier or connecting carrier, despite limitation of liability, such amendment not affecting the requirement that the loss, to render carrier liable, shall have been caused by the carrier.—Clemons Produce Co. v. Denver & R G R. R., supra.

(3) Under the Interstate Commerce Act, a carrier is obligated not to furnish heat for less than a carload interstate shipment of eggs, where the tariff does not call for such service on less than carload shipments—Northern Wisconsin Produce Co. v. Chicago & N. W Ry. Co., 234 N.W 726, 203 Wis 549.

11. U.S.—U. S. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., Com.C., 195 F. 88.

particular service as to one and continuing it as to others;[12] and contracting with a corporation or individual to give exclusive rights to the use of any portion of its main line or general system of railway so as to prejudice other patrons or the public in general.[13] Carriers are not excused from their duty to furnish equal facilities by reason of unusual traffic conditions attendant on a general strike.[14]

On the other hand, under the express provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act and some state constitutions, these rules do not apply to the carriage, storage, or handling of property of the United States, states, or municipal governments.[15] Also, the duty of the carrier extends only to such transportation facilities as it owns or controls.[16] Different facilities furnished under circumstances essentially different do not constitute an unjust discrimination, when the difference in the facilities furnished is in accordance with the difference in circumstances and not intended to injure another shipper or to give one shipper material advantages over another in competitive business.[17] In this connection, a difference in the character of commodities offered for shipment, because of which one is easier to handle than the other, will justify the carrier in refusing to furnish equal facilities for the shipment of the two kinds of commodities.[18] Thus, the difference between live stock and inanimate freight is such as to justify a refusal to deliver or receive live stock in carload lots on sidetracks at private stockyards,[19] and where a railroad company has by contract with a stockyards company made adequate provision for the discharge of its duty as a common carrier with respect to live stock shipped over its line to a city, it is not required by the common law, or by state or federal legislation relating to discrimination, to make deliveries of stock to other stockyards in the same city.[20]

A carrier cannot be required, at its own expense, to provide such equal facilities and conveniences between private persons or corporations as to overcome or equalize disadvantages caused by dissimilarity of location; and this rule is not affected by a constitutional provision that the state corporation commission shall require carriers to establish and maintain such public facilities as may be reasonable and from time to time to make and enforce such requirements and regulations as may be necessary

Connecting carrier

Under Rev.St 1911 arts 6670, 6671, carrier was liable for damages for discrimination in refusing delivery to connecting carrier, although shipment is not a through shipment.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co v. Warren, Tex.Civ.App., 184 S.W. 232.

Embargo as to some shippers

Transportation pursuant to authorizations given one shipper while an embargo was enforced against others is an unlawful "discrimination."—U. S v Lehigh Valley Ry. Co, D.C.N Y., 254 F. 332.

12. Ala.—Agee v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 37 So. 680, 142 Ala. 344.
10 C.J. p 481 note 92.

13. Okl.—Bromide Crushed Rock Co v Dolese Bros. Co, 247 P. 74, 121 Okl. 40

14. Pa.—Minds v. Pennsylvania R. Co, 77 A. 909, 228 Pa. 575.

15. La.—Miller Engineering Co. v Louisiana Ry & Nav. Co, 81 So. 314, 144 La. 786

16. Ala.—Alabama Cent. R. Co. v. Alabama Public Service Commission, 76 So. 862, 200 Ala. 536, L.R.A 1918C 293.

17. Mo.—Brunswig v. Bush, App., 221 S.W. 759, certiorari dismissed Bush v. Brunswig, 41 S.Ct. 9, 254 U.S. 660, 65 L.Ed. 462
Ohio.—Cleveland Provision Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 135 N.E. 612, 104 Ohio St. 253, 23 A.L.R. 404.
10 C.J. p 481 note 94.

Corpus Juris text is cited with approval in Porter v Long Island R. Co., 225 N.Y.S. 365, 368, 221 App. Div. 713, affirmed 164 N.E. 595, 249 N.Y. 591.

Coal cars

In so far as Code 1916 c 54 § 66c, contemplates equality of transportation facilities among shippers of coal, in point of mere convenience, not reasonable means of transportation, within carrier's ability, it applies only to mining industries having usual equipment for loading coal cars.—Baltimore & O R Co v. Public Service Commission, 94 S.E. 545, 81 W.Va. 457, L.R.A 1918D 268.

Later registered vessel

Common carrier's permitting later registered vessel to load cargo at its coal pier before vessel which previously registered because of yard congestion and the construction of the ships and the rights of other shippers, was not "undue preference or unreasonable discrimination"—Archibald McNeil & Sons Co. of New York v Western Maryland Ry. Co., D.C.Pa., 42 F.2d 669, affirmed, C.C.A., 51 F.2d 1073, certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 41, 284 U.S. 665, 76 L.Ed. 563.

Transportation without reloading

Where a carrier agreed to transport corn from a point in the United States into Mexico without reloading into other cars, the provision, even if discriminatory, will not render the contract invalid, the discrimination in no sense being unjust.—Brunswig v. Bush, Mo.App., 221 S.W. 759, certiorari dismissed Bush v. Brunswig, 41 S.Ct. 9, 254 U.S. 660, 65 L.Ed 462

Yard of delivery

Insertion in bills of lading, without interstate commerce commission's consent, of particular yard in general terminal to which cars were deliverable, was not illegal, as discriminatory.—Porter v Long Island R. Co., 225 N.Y.S 365, 221 App.Div. 713, affirmed 164 N.E. 595, 249 N.Y. 591

18. U.S.—Butchers', etc., Stock-Yards Co v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., Tenn., 67 F. 35, 14 C.C.A. 290.
Tenn.—Smith v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 175 S.W. 557, 131 Tenn 531, L.R.A.1916A 1107.

19. U.S.—Butchers', etc., Stock-Yards Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., Tenn., 67 F. 35, 14 C.C.A. 290.

Tenn.—Smith v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 175 S.W. 557, 131 Tenn. 531, L.R.A 1916A 1107
10 C.J. p 482 note 96

20. U.S.—Central Stock Yards Co v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., Ky., 24 S.Ct. 339, 192 U.S. 568, 48 L.Ed 565, affirming 118 F. 113, 55 C.C.A. 63, 63 L.R.A. 213—Butchers', etc., Stock-Yards Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., Tenn., 67 F. 35, 14 C.C.A 290.
Tenn.—Smith v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 175 S.W. 557, 131 Tenn. 531, L.R.A.1916A 1107.
10 C.J. p 482 note 97.

to prevent unjust or unreasonable discrimination in favor of any person, locality, etc., in the matter of car service or efficiency of transportation[21] Also, the rule was not intended to require that precisely the same accommodation should be made for freight traffic at every station on a line or road, irrespective of its size or importance.[22]

Express companies. In the absence of any showing of a reason therefor, an express company may not furnish a pick-up service to some shippers and decline it to others.[23]

§ 366. Distribution of Cars

The rule against unjust discrimination applies to the distribution of cars by carriers.

It is the duty of the carrier to give a fair and impartial car service as between different shippers and localities, having regard to all the circumstances, and any failure to do so constitutes unjust discrimination.[24] Accordingly, in the distribution of cars, shippers similarly situated at the same place must be treated alike,[25] and their rights are necessarily equal when they are applying for cars under the same circumstances from stations of equal importance.[26] Shippers located on branch or lateral lines of a railroad are entitled to the same treatment as is accorded to those whose business is situated on the main line[27] As between different stations, cars should be distributed as nearly as may be, in proportion to the ordinary business requirements at the time, in order that shipments may be made with reasonable celerity.[28] Where, from causes not within its control, the carrier cannot supply a sufficient number of cars temporarily made necessary by unusual demands therefor, it is not only entitled, but is also bound, to apportion its cars in a fair and equitable manner among patrons similarly situated, and cannot be compelled to provide one shipper with cars to the exclusion of others.[29]

A carrier does not unjustly discriminate by furnishing cars to be loaded by a wagon on its tracks at a station, with coal for shipment in one direction to points within the state, while it refuses to furnish cars to be so loaded for interstate shipments in the opposite direction, where the order under which the cars are furnished applies to all persons alike;[30] nor does a refusal of a carrier to grant permission to a shipper to purchase and use on the carrier's line a number of cars of a kind used by other shippers on such line amount to a discrimination in the distribution of cars, so as to entitle the shipper to recover damages[31] A contract requiring that cars be supplied on reasonable demand therefor is not discriminatory,[32] and a contract by a carrier

21. Okl.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. State, 99 P. 901, 23 Okl. 94.
10 C J. p 482 note 98.

22. U.S.—Michie v. New York, etc., R. Co., C C Mass., 151 F. 694.
10 C J p 475 note 33.

23. S.D.—John Morrell & Co. v American Ry. Express Co., 187 N W. 724, 45 S.D. 399.

Order proper

Where the evidence showed that an express company furnished pick-up and delivery service to places in the same city as petitioner which were situated farther from appellee's place of business than the petitioner, and which did not furnish as much business as petitioner, and that it furnished similar services to several of plaintiff's competitors in other cities, although they were situated farther from its offices than was petitioner, and that pick-up and delivery service within reasonable limits was included in the service for which charge was made, an order requiring the company to furnish pick-up and delivery service to petitioner was reasonable.—John Morrell & Co. v. American Ry Express Co., 187 N.W. 724, 45 S D 399.

24. U S.—James v. Davis, C.C.A Neb., 280 F. 780
Ark.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry Co. v. Watts, 271 S W. 464, 168 Ark 804.
10 C J. p 482 note 1.
Duty to furnish cars generally see supra §§ 35–39.

Regulations held reasonable

Railroad regulations applicable to all mines, assigning open-top cars to properly equipped mines and box cars to those loading without tipples, etc, during car shortage, were neither unreasonable nor unjustly discriminatory.—Baltimore & O R Co v Public Service Commission, 94 S E. 545, 81 W.Va. 457, L.R.A.1918D 268.

25. Pa.—Wright v Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 32 Pa Super 5.

26. Mo.—Howell v. Hines, App., 236 S W 886
10 C J. p 483 note 3.

27. Ark.—Chicago, R I. & P. Ry. Co v. Sims, 256 S.W. 33, 161 Ark. 289
10 C J. p 483 note 6

28. Wis.—Ayres v Chicago, etc., R Co., 37 N W. 432, 71 Wis. 372, 5 Am S R 226

29. Ark.—Dickinson v. Robertson, 223 S W. 12, 144 Ark. 515
La.—George H. Koepp, Inc., v. New Orleans Great Northern R Co., 110 So. 729, 162 La. 487.
Mich.—Anderson v. Chicago, M. & St P Ry. Co., 175 N.W. 246, 208 Mich 424.
10 C J p 483 note 5.

30. U S.—Harp v Choctaw, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ark., 118 F. 169, affirmed 125 F. 445, 61 C C A. 405.

31. Pa.—Walnut Coal Co. v. Pennsylvania R Co., 85 A. 440, 237 Pa. 410
10 C.J p 483 note 10

32. U S.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. St Paul & Tacoma Lumber Co., C.C.A.Wash., 4 F 2d 359, reversing, D C, St Paul & Tacoma Lumber Co. v Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 296 F 749.

Contract for shipment of lumber

A contract made in 1888 by a manufacturer of lumber to ship a certain proportion of its product over the lines of a railroad company, which implied an agreement by the railroad company to furnish cars for such shipments, was not invalid as in violation of Interstate Commerce Act, prohibiting discrimination and undue preferences, as requiring the company to furnish the cars regardless of the rights of other shippers, but its obligation is to be construed as one to furnish cars on reasonable and lawful demand therefor.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. St Paul & Tacoma Lumber Co., C C A.Wash., 4 F. 2d 359, reversing, D.C., St. Paul & to furnish a specified number of cars on specified dates and at specified places does not constitute an unjust discrimination, unless the contract if performed will extend to that shipper an undue preference over other shippers,[33] although, under the Interstate Commerce Act, such a contract is deemed to involve an undue preference if it imposes a greater obligation on the carrier than that implied in the tariff.[34] Further, a contract binding a carrier to receive cars of another carrier and to deliver them to the shipper for the reception of his freight is not invalid as creating an unjust discrimination, in the absence of any showing that the contract gave the shipper a preference over shippers of other similar freight who could secure cars from other carriers;[35] and a judgment requiring a carrier to furnish more cars than its rules prescribe does not create a discrimination, where other shippers under similar circumstances would have the same right.[36]

Discrimination in furnishing cars to shippers for transportation of freight in interstate commerce is governed exclusively by the acts of congress and the state law has no application.[37] If an interstate carrier has established a rule for the distribution of cars, and administers it fairly and equally between applicants, the authority to determine whether the rule is reasonable rests with the interstate commerce commission and no court has jurisdiction until the commission has determined that question.[38] This commission may promulgate reasonable rules governing the distribution of coal cars generally,[39] or of privately owned coal cars assigned by the owner, known technically as "assigned cars,"[40] which in its judgment are necessary to prevent unjust discrimination among shippers of coal

Matters to be considered in determining correct apportionment. Any inequality in the matter of the distribution of cars must be justified by a difference of circumstances and situation.[41] Where all shippers in the same situation at a given point are treated alike in the matter of furnishing cars, the mere fact that shippers who own spur tracks or who furnish cars are given preference over those who do not own tracks, but require the use of a railroad company's sidetracks which are needed by it to conduct its general business and to serve the public, is not an unjust discrimination.[42] Where, however, a railroad company permits the building of grain warehouses along its track, in which warehouses the warehouse proprietors store, for hire, the grain of producers, as well as grain which they have themselves purchased, the relative circumstances and conditions of the warehousemen as producers and exporters of grain are not materially dissimilar to those of the producers for whom they store the grain and do not warrant a discrimination in the distribution of cars for the transportation of the grain.[43] Also, in the distribution of cars, the Tacoma Lumber Co. v Northern Pac. Ry Co, 296 F 749.

33. Iowa—Vander Zyl v. Chicago, R I & P. Ry. Co, 189 N W. 953, 195 Iowa 901, error dismissed Chicago, R I. & P Ry Co. v. Vander Zyl, 45 S Ct. 10, 266 U S. 636, 69 L.Ed 481
10 C J p 213 notes 54, 55, p 483 note 7.

Contract not discriminatory

A contract to furnish a car for a certain date, to be carried by a train regularly operating over the carrier's line is not unduly discriminatory—Stewart v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 151 N W. 485, 172 Iowa 313

34. U.S—Davis v. Cornwell, 44 S Ct 410, 264 U S. 560, 68 L.Ed 848, reversing Cornwell v. Davis, 213 P. 218, 66 Mont 100, mandate conformed to Cornwell v. Davis, 226 P. 1117, 70 Mont. 608.
Tenn—Louisville & Nashville R Co. v. Hardiman, 5 Tenn App. 289.

Contracts discriminatory

(1) A contract to furnish cars on certain day imposes greater obligation than that implied in tariff, in that proof of due diligence would not excuse a failure to perform, and hence is illegal preference, although no preference actually resulted.

U S.—Davis v Cornwell, 44 S.Ct. 410, 264 U.S. 560, 68 L Ed 848, reversing Cornwell v. Davis, 213 P. 218, 66 Mont 100
Mo—Dollinger v. Missouri Pac. R Co., App, 282 S.W 1047.

(2) To guarantee that a special car will be furnished at a particular time and place, for the transportation of a common commodity and thereby create an advantage or preference which is not available to all, and which is not provided for in the published tariffs, constitutes a violation of the Interstate Commerce Act—American Ry. Express Co v Peninsula Produce Exch, 130 A 346, 148 Md 465

(3) A station agent of a railroad operating under federal control has no authority to make an absolute and unconditional contract to have cattle cars ready at a certain place or date, irrespective of the government's needs or of general service to the public, such a contract being special and discriminatory, and violative of the Commerce Act—Underwood v. Hines, Mo App, 222 S.W. 1037

35. Tex.—Texas, etc., R Co v Shawnee Cotton Oil Co, 118 S W 776, 55 Tex.Civ.App. 183

36. Iowa—Baird Bros. v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 165 N.W. 412, 181 Iowa 1104.

37. U.S—Missouri Pac R. Co v. Stroud, 45 S.Ct. 243, 267 U.S. 404, 69 L Ed. 683, reversing Stroud v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 254 S W 111, 212 Mo.App 512, certiorari granted Missouri Pac. R. Co v Stroud, 44 S Ct. 37, 263 U S. 694, 68 L Ed. 510.

38. Ill—State Public Utilities Commission v Baltimore & O S W. R. Co, 118 N.E. 81, 281 Ill 405

39. U S.—U. S v. New River Co, W Va., 44 S Ct 610, 265 U S 533, 68 L Ed 1165, reversing, D.C, New River Co v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 293 F. 460.

40. U S.—Assigned Car Cases, Pa., 47 S Ct. 727, 274 U S. 564, 71 L Ed. 1204, reversing, D C, Berwind-White Coal-Mining Co. v. U. S., 9 F.2d 429.

41. Pa.—Wright v Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 32 Pa Super. 5.

42. U S.—Harp v Choctaw, etc, R. Co, Ark, 125 F. 445 161 C.C.A. 405, affirming, C C., 118 F. 169.
Ark—Choctaw, etc., R Co. v State, 84 S.W 502, 92 S.W. 26, 73 Ark. 373.

43. U.S.—U. S. v. Oregon R., etc., Co, C.C Or., 159 F. 975.
10 C.J. p 484 note 14.

cars owned by the carrier, those of other carriers on its line to be loaded, and cars owned by any individual shipper must be placed absolutely on the same basis as together forming the available car equipment of the road as a whole;[44] and it is no justification for giving a shipper a preference that the preference arises from the fact that the carrier chose to purchase its coal or fuel supply from that particular shipper.[45] Each shipper is entitled to his percentage of all the available cars, whether owned by the company or individually, in so far as it will not interfere with the right of individual owners to the exclusive use of their own cars,[46] and in determining the percentage of cars to which a particular shipper is entitled, the carrier should be guided by the capacity of the shipper to furnish freight for shipment.[47] The allowance of an extra percentage of cars to a shipper who during the preceding month has unloaded and returned his cars within a certain average time, such practice having been adopted instead of the imposition of a demurrage charge to encourage prompt return of cars and to enlarge the supply available for use, and being open to all alike, has nevertheless been condemned as giving an undue preference or advantage in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act.[48]

Embargo at consignee's request. An embargo by which a carrier at the request of a consignee, and not by reason of any conditions on its line necessitating it, refuses to furnish cars to the consignors for shipments to the consignee is an unlawful discrimination, and, in the absence of any agreement that notice shall be given of the removal of the embargo, no duty rests on the carrier to notify the consignee before raising it.[49]

§ 367. Switch Connections and Services

The rule prohibiting unjust discrimination applies to the furnishing of switch connections and services by carriers.

A common carrier cannot lawfully deny switch connections or service to one person, locality, or kind of traffic which it furnishes to others similarly situated;[50] and the fact that a carrier's line is congested is not an excuse for refusing a siding to one shipper while affording siding facilities to others.[51] However, only such discriminations in the furnishing of switch connections and services as are undue or unreasonable are illegal,[52] and there can be no unjust discrimination in this regard as between 44. U S — Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Illinois Cent. R Co, Ill., 30 S Ct. 155, 215 U.S 452, 54 L Ed. 280—U S. v. Baltimore, etc., R Co, Md, 165 F. 113, 91 C.C.A. 147, reversed on other grounds 30 S.Ct. 164, 215 U S 481, 54 L Ed. 292.

10 C J. p 484 note 17.

45. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn v. Illinois Cent R. Co., Ill, 30 S Ct. 155, 215 U.S. 452, 54 L.Ed. 280.
10 C.J p 484 note 15.

46. U.S.—U. S. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., Md., 165 F. 113, 91 C.C A. 147, reversed on other grounds 30 S.Ct. 164, 215 U.S 481, 54 L Ed 292.
10 C.J p 484 note 16.

47. U.S —U. S. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co, Md., 165 F. 113, 91 C.C.A. 147, reversing, C C, 154 F. 108, and reversed on other grounds 30 S.Ct. 164, 215 U S. 481, 54 L Ed. 292—U S v. West Virginia R Co, C.C. W Va., 125 F. 252, affirmed 134 F. 198, 67 C C.A 220.
10 C J p 484 note 18.

48. U S—U. S v Baltimore, etc., R. Co., Md, 165 F 113, 91 C C.A. 147, reversing, C C, 154 F 108, and reversed on other grounds 30 S Ct 164, 215 U.S 481, 54 L Ed. 292.

49. U S—Menasha Paper Co v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 36 S.Ct 501, 241 U S. 55, 60 L.Ed 885, affirming Chicago & N W Ry. Co v. Menasha Paper Co., 149 N.W 751, 159 Wis. 508.

50. Ga.—Augusta Brokerage Co. v. Central of Georgia R Co, 48 S.E. 714, 121 Ga. 48.
Iowa.—Northern Gravel Co v. Muscatine North & S Ry. Co., 171 N W. 787, 185 Iowa 1259.
Ohio—Quinn Coal Co. v. Hocking Valley Ry., 20 Ohio Cir Ct.,N S, 420—Johnson Coal Mining Co. v. Hocking Valley R Co., 1 Ohio N P, N S, 385.
10 C J. p 484 note 22
Furnishing facilities by carrier to connecting lines see infra § 449.

Spur track

Where a railroad company has constructed a spur track for the convenience of shippers in a limited territory, it cannot grant, nor can a particular shipper acquire, a right to the use of such spur track for his particular business of shipping sand and gravel to the exclusion of other shippers engaged in similar business.
Ark—Missouri Pac. R Co. v. Whelen Springs Gravel Co, 49 S W 2d 374, 185 Ark 669, certiorari denied 53 S Ct 87, 287 U S. 638, 77 L.Ed. 553.
Iowa.—Northern Gravel Co. v. Muscatine North & S. Ry. Co., 171 N.W. 787, 185 Iowa 1259

"Facility" includes switching connection

A switch track for loading and unloading freight is clearly a "facility" within the inhibition against discrimination by common carriers in charges or facilities.—Tucker v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co, 250 S W. 390, 298 Mo 51, affirming, App., 233 S.W. 512—10 C.J. p 484 note 22 [b].

Test of distinction between "transportation" and "switching" service of freight cars, in an action to recover for unjust discrimination, is not only whether the switching service follows transportation, but whether the movement of cars is under the yardmaster's direction, in which case it is switching service, or under trainmaster's direction, in which case it is transportation service—St. Louis, I. M. & S Ry. Co v. Clark Pressed Brick Co., 192 S.W. 382, 127 Ark. 474

51. Pa.—Cox v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 85 A 863.
10 C.J p 485 note 23.

52. Fla—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 119 So. 110, 96 Fla. 646.
Me—Willband v. Knox County Grain Co., 145 A. 405, 128 Me. 62.

Statute not violated

Where there was no evidence of general undertaking of carrier to perform switching service on shippers' premises without agreement, carrier's failure to give plaintiff service on sidetrack without agreement did not violate statute requiring railroads to furnish all persons reasonable and equal facilities—Milford Quarry & Construction Co v. Boston & M. R. R., 151 A. 336, 84 N. H. 407.

shippers who are not similarly situated.[53] Also, a carrier is not guilty of illegal discrimination, where it receives and delivers freight on private spur tracks pursuant to contracts, and the contracts offered to all of its customers are identical,[54] and it is not required to permit a shipper to connect a track with its track, except where it has already granted such privilege to others.[55]

A state railroad commission may make reasonable orders to remove the causes for unjust discrimination by an intra-state railway carrier.[56]

Connecting carriers. Where a reciprocal switching operation is carried on by two connecting carriers, constituting a facility for the interchange of traffic between two railroads, equal facilities must be afforded all other lines for like interchange of traffic without discrimination,[57] even though they are not directly connected with the offending lines.[58] Similarly, it is unlawful for connecting railroads to use each other's tracks and terminal facilities within a specified zone in a city so as to favor certain shippers and prejudice others.[59] The interstate commerce commission has authority to require all railroads performing such service to desist from any discriminatory practice in respect of such switching operation,[60] and an order of this nature is not invalid as taking property without due process of law,[61] nor does such an order require the carriers to give the use of their tracks and terminal facilities to the competing carrier within the meaning of the provision in the Interstate Commerce Act,[62] or of a like provision in a state public utilities act,[63] declaring that such act shall not be considered as re-

53. Ark.—St Louis, etc., R. Co v. Dixie Cotton Oil Co., 165 S.W. 251, 112 Ark. 147.
10 C J. p 485 note 26 [a].

Line-haul movements

(1) Railroad's failure to make rules affecting line-haul movements applicable to industrial switching was not violative of Gen Code § 567, prohibiting preferences, such statute applying only to conditions substantially similar.—Cleveland Provision Co. v Public Utilities Commission, 135 N E. 612, 104 Ohio St. 253, 23 A.L R. 404.

(2) Acts 1917 c 7320, providing that a railroad company in switching cars "shall not make a charge therefor if it has the line haul" construed with reference to Const. art 16 § 30, which renders the legislature powerless to pass laws requiring or permitting unjust discrimination by common carriers, does not require railroad common carrier to render for the line-haul charge an extra service for switching in receiving or delivering cars on its line or any side or spur track, when such service costs more than ordinary or substituted service rendered public generally, and is rendered under special circumstances, and its cost is not included in line-haul charge.—Burr v Florida East Coast Ry. Co, 81 So. 464, 77 Fla. 259.

54. Iowa.—Cedar Rapids, etc., R. Co v Chicago, etc, R Co., 124 N. W. 323, 145 Iowa 528
Miss.—Gulf Compress Co. v. Alabama Great Southern R Co., 56 So 666, 100 Miss 582.

55. U S.—Johnson Coal Mining Co. v Hocking Valley R. Co., 1 Ohio N.P.,N S, 385.
10 C J. p 485 note 25.

56. Fla.—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 119 So. 110, 96 Fla 646.

Order reasonable

"An order of the railroad commissioners requiring a railroad company to enlarge its switching limits at Sanford to include a spur track known as Whitner's siding, and to apply to shipments to and from said siding the same rates and treatment applied to like shipments to and from other points within the switching limits of Sanford, held reasonable, it appearing that there exists no substantial operating objections to such enlargement, and that the location of Whitner's siding relative to the freight station and assembly and break-up yards of the carrier, and other conditions affecting the operation and service to and from said siding, are substantially the same as those pertaining to two other sidings of relatively similar location and use which are now voluntarily included by the carrier within its switching limits, and to which the carrier voluntarily applies the Sanford freight rate, which is lower than the rate now applied to shipments to and from Whitner's siding, nothing being shown to afford a just basis for discrimination in rates or service between Whitner's siding and the other sidings mentioned."—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 119 So 110, 96 Fla. 646

57. U.S.—Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co v. U S., Ind., 46 S.Ct. 226, 270 U.S 287, 70 L.Ed 590
10 C J p 485 note 27.

Between steam and electric roads

Alleged lack of reciprocity and other matters of dissimilarity between steam and electric roads were held not, as matter of law, to negative discrimination in refusal of steam roads to establish reciprocal switching services with electric road —Chicago, I. & L Ry. Co. v. U. S, Ind, 46 S Ct. 226, 270 U.S. 287, 70 L. Ed. 590.

58. U.S.—Chicago, I & L Ry. Co. v. U. S, supra.

59. U S.—U. S. v Pennsylvania R. Co, Pa., 45 S.Ct. 43, 266 U.S. 191, 69 L.Ed. 243, reversing, D.C., 295 F. 523.

60. U S.—Louisville, etc, R Co v. U. S., Tenn, 35 S.Ct. 696, 238 U.S. 1, 51 L.Ed 1177, affirming, D C., 216 F. 672—Pennsylvania Co v. U. S., Pa, 35 S.Ct. 370, 236 U.S 351, 59 L.Ed. 616, affirming, D.C., 214 F. 445—Grand Trunk R. Co v. Michigan R Commn, Mich., 34 S.Ct. 152, 231 U S. 457, 58 L Ed 310—Louisville, etc, R. Co v. U S., D C. Tenn., 227 F. 273, reversed on other grounds 37 S Ct 61, 242 U.S. 60, 61 L Ed 152.

61. U.S.—Louisville, etc, R. Co. v. U S., Tenn., 35 S Ct. 696, 238 U.S. 1, 51 L Ed. 1177, affirming, D.C., 216 F 672—Grand Trunk R. Co. v Michigan R. Commn, Mich., 34 S Ct 152, 231 U.S 457, 58 L.Ed. 310 —Louisville, etc, R. Co. v. U. S., D.C Tenn, 227 F. 273, reversed on other grounds 37 S.Ct. 61, 242 U. S 60, 61 L.Ed. 152.

62. U.S.—U. S. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., Pa., 45 S.Ct 43, 266 U.S. 191, 69 L.Ed. 243, reversing, D C, 295 F. 523
10 C J. p 486 note 30.

Purpose of provision

The clause mentioned in the text was inserted in the Interstate Commerce Act to make it clear that the mere grant to one carrier of the use of tracks or terminal facilities for the purpose of interchanging traffic and the refusal of such facilities to another, does not make the preference given illegal. The clause had no other effect.—U. S. v. Pennsylvania R. Co, Pa., 45 S Ct. 43, 266 U.S. 191, 69 L.Ed. 243, reversing, D C., 295 F. 523.

63. Ill.—Public Utilities Commission

quiring a carrier to give the use of its tracks or terminal facilities to another carrier engaged in like business. However, the fact that a railroad company interchanges traffic with certain railroads at its regular, established yard or depot, where it has provided all reasonable, proper, and equal facilities for that purpose, and refuses to interchange traffic with a new road at a point of connection where no such facilities exist, does not constitute any "discrimination," or any "undue or unreasonable preference or advantage," in favor of the railroads with which such interchange is made.[64] It is also not discriminatory for two railway carriers, jointly owning a terminal and maintaining joint switching services therein, to refuse to switch the cars of a third carrier on the same basis.[65]

§ 368. Terminal Facilities

The rule prohibiting unjust discrimination applies to the furnishing of terminal facilities by carriers.

Terminal facilities are within the rule forbidding unjust discrimination as much as any other facilities used in the transportation of goods.[66] Thus, a carrier may not discriminate with respect to the use of its docks, wharves, and piers,[67] or other facilities for loading or unloading freight.[68] Under the Interstate Commerce Act, the carrier may not lawfully pay for a terminal service rendered the shipper's goods, unless the service is performed for all shippers alike at the carrier's station,[69] and as the terminal services incident to an interstate shipment are within the federal act and the condition of liability while the goods are retained after notice of arrival are stipulated in the bill of lading under the filed regulations, the conditions thus fixed are controlling and the parties cannot substitute therefor a special agreement.[70]

On the other hand, under the express provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act and some state constitutions, these rules do not apply to the carriage, storage, or handling of property of the United States, states, or municipal governments.[71] The common use of a railroad terminal by several trunk lines under a single arrangement as to the absorption of the terminal charges does not, as a matter of law, entitle a railway which has no trunk line and does terminal switching alone, to precisely the same treatment.[72] The duty of a carrier to accept goods tendered at its station does not extend to the acceptance of cars offered to it at an arbitrary point near its terminus by a competing road, for the purpose of reaching and using its terminal station.[73] A transportation company operating a railway and a connecting steamboat line does not violate the prohibition of the Interstate Commerce Act against discrimination, by refusing to allow the boats of a competitor to land at its wharf.[74] It is, likewise, permissible for a railroad company to establish a

v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 133 N.E. 722, 301 Ill. 219.

64. U.S.—Kentucky & I. Bridge Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., C.C.Ky., 37 F. 567, 628, 2 L.R.A. 289, appeal dismissed 13 S.Ct. 1048, 149 U.S. 777, 37 L.Ed. 964.

65. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. U. S., Tenn., 37 S.Ct. 61, 242 U.S. 60, 61 L.Ed. 152, reversing, D. C., 227 F. 258, modified on other grounds 227 F. 273.

Commission cannot interfere

Two railway carriers, joint owners of terminals in a city, may not be compelled by interstate commerce commission under Act Feb. 4, 1887 § 3, to discontinue as discriminatory their refusal to switch interstate traffic to and from tracks of third carrier on the same terms as similar shipments from their own tracks in said city.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. U. S., Tenn., 37 S.Ct. 61, 242 U.S. 60, 61 L.Ed. 152, reversing, D.C., 227 F. 258, modified on other grounds 227 F. 273.

66. N.Y.—Windsor v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 143 N.Y.S. 645, 82 Misc. 38.

Ohio.—Youghiogheny, etc., Coal Co. v. Erie R. Co., 24 Ohio Cir.Ct. 289.

67. Idaho. — Cœur D'Alene, etc., Transp. Co. v. Ferrell, 128 P. 565, 22 Idaho 752, 43 L.R.A.,N.S., 965
10 C.J. p. 486 note 36

68. Ohio.—Youghiogheny, etc., Coal Co. v. Erie R. Co., 24 Ohio Cir.Ct. 289.
10 C.J. p. 486 note 37.

69. U.S.—Terminal Warehouse Co. of Baltimore City v. U. S., D.C. Md., 31 F.2d 951.

Exclusive allowance to warehouse

(1) The Interstate Commerce Act § 3 (1), 49 U.S.C.A. § 3 (1), against discrimination, has been held to be violated by a carrier's making of an exclusive allowance to a warehouse for its performance of terminal services in connection with the loading and unloading of carload package freight, where the warehouse was not a public terminal or freight station, as it was in substance the consignor or consignee of the goods handled, and similar allowances were not made to other warehouses—Terminal Warehouse Co. of Baltimore City v. U. S., D.C.Md., 31 F.2d 951.

(2) Such allowances are not validated because the warehouse is not designated as consignor or consignee in the bill of lading—Terminal Warehouse Co. of Baltimore City v. U. S., supra.

70. U.S.—Southern R. Co. v. Prescott, S.C., 36 S.Ct. 469, 240 U.S. 632, 60 L.Ed. 836.

71. La.—Miller Engineering Co. v. Louisiana Ry. & Nav. Co., 81 So. 314, 144 La. 786.

72. U.S.—Manufacturers' Ry. Co. v. U. S., Mo., 38 S.Ct. 383, 246 U.S. 457, 62 L.Ed. 831

73. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Central Stock Yards Co., 29 S.Ct. 246, 212 U.S. 132, 53 L.Ed. 441, reversing 97 S.W. 778, 133 Ky. 148, 30 Ky.L. 18
10 C.J. p. 486 note 38.

74. U.S.—Ilwaco Ry. & Nav. Co. v. Oregon Short Line & U. N. Ry. Co., Wash., 57 F. 673, 676, 6 C.C.A. 495, reversing, C.C., Oregon Short Line & U. N. Ry. Co. v. Ilwaco Ry. & Nav. Co., 51 F. 611. "The Act contemplates, we think, independent carriers capable of mutual relations, and capable of being objects of favor or prejudice. There must be at least two carriers besides the offending one. For a carrier to prefer itself in its own proper business is not the discrimination which is condemned."—Ilwaco Ry. & Nav.

terminal district,[75] and to include all the industries within that district in a group freight rate. This power includes the right to absorb all reasonable switching charges on line-haul freight.[76]

Stockyards. The rule against discrimination has been applied in respect of stockyards maintained by a carrier on premises acquired and held by it for its purposes as such.[77] While it is not the duty of a carrier to keep and maintain a stockyard, yet if it does so without other authority than its charter as a transportation corporation, and as incidental to its transportation business, it is its duty, even in the absence of statute, to serve the public without unjust discrimination.[78] A preferential contract by a carrier to deliver all live-stock shipments at a certain privately owned stockyard, and not to establish any other yard within the city, has been held void under a constitutional provision prohibiting discrimination.[79]

§ 369. Shipments to Points on Line of Connecting Carrier

A common carrier may not unjustly discriminate against shipments to points on lines of connecting carriers.

If the carrier holds itself out to the public as a through carrier to points beyond its own lines, it must afford the same facilities to all shippers along its lines doing business under similar or like circumstances; it cannot grant this accommodation to one shipper and refuse it to others standing in the same relation, as this would amount to an unjust discrimination.[80] Statutory codifications of this rule have been held to be valid.[81]

§ 370. Expediting or Diverting Shipments

An agreement by a carrier to expedite or divert shipments, which privilege is not offered to the public generally or included in its published tariffs, constitutes an unjust discrimination.

A carrier contracting to deliver a commodity within a specified time thereby extends to the shipper an advantage, and imposes on itself an obligation, not contemplated in the usual method of shipment.[82] While an interstate carrier can assume an extra liability for expediting shipments, provided it makes and publishes a rate therefor and extends it to all, yet to agree with a particular shipper to expedite a shipment at regular rates, when no rate has been published for the expediting, is a discrimination, and as such is in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act.[83] Accordingly, a carrier is guilty

Co. v. Oregon Short Line & U. N. Ry. Co., supra.

75. W.Va.—Zenith Sand Co. v. Public Service Commission, 151 S.E. 433, 108 W.Va. 413.
10 C.J. p 486 note 33.

76. W.Va.—Zenith Sand Co. v. Public Service Commission, 151 S.E. 433, 108 W.Va. 413.

77. N.Y.—Windsor v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 143 N.Y.S. 645, 647, 82 Misc. 38.
10 C.J. p 486 note 39.
"Of what avail is it that the carrier is prohibited from discriminating with respect to rates, if it may discriminate with respect to facilities either at the point of shipment or the point of delivery? If the court is powerless to intervene on behalf of the plaintiffs on the facts now presented for adjudication, then the defendant is at liberty to contract with one shipper to receive into its stockyards and care for his stock and afford him an opportunity of exhibiting it there for sale without other charge than for the actual expense in feeding and caring for the stock, or without charge even for those items, and to charge another shipper the same freight rate and to require him to remove his stock from its cars and premises within a reasonable time after its arrival at the point of destination, and to refuse to care for or feed the stock after its arrival or to afford the owner facilities for exhibiting it for sale while on the defendant's premises. In the early days when the courts declared it to be the duty of common carriers to serve the public without unjust discrimination, carriers neither conducted warehouses nor stockyards; but the warehouse and stockyard business as conducted by common carriers under their charters as transportation corporations is incidental to their business as common carriers and is directly connected therewith. On principle, therefore, the same rule should be applicable to the warehouse and stockyard business with respect to discrimination as to the transportation of freight. The common law is elastic; and it expands to meet changed conditions and methods of transacting business. I do not say that it is the duty of the defendant to establish and maintain a stockyard; but I hold that, since it has established and does maintain a stockyard without other authority than its charter as a transportation corporation and as incidental to its transportation business, it is its duty, even though there be no statute enjoining such duty, to serve the public, whom it has invited by this long-existing custom and still invites to make use of its stockyards, without unjust discrimination, and that it is within the province of the court to enforce this duty by mandamus or injunction."—Windsor v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., supra.

78. N.Y.—Windsor v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., supra.

79. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Central Stock Yards Co., 97 S.W. 778, 133 Ky. 148, 30 Ky.L. 18, reversed on other grounds 29 S.Ct. 246, 212 U.S. 132, 53 L.Ed. 441.

80. Ga.—Georgia Coast, etc., Ry. Co. v. Durrence, 65 S.E. 583, 6 Ga. App. 615
Ind.—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Wood, 84 N.E. 1009, 88 N.E. 709, 45 Ind.App. 1.

81. Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren, Civ.App., 184 S.W. 232.

82. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Warren County Strawberry Growers' Ass'n, 267 S.W. 551, 206 Ky. 482.

83. Ind.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Maurer, 127 N.E. 294, 73 Ind.App. 296.
N.Y.—Emil Grossman Mfg. Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 169 N.Y.S. 213, 181 App.Div. 764.
Tenn.—Roberts v. Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 185 S.W. 69, 135 Tenn. 48.
10 C.J. p 487 note 48.

of illegal discrimination if it contracts for the delivery of commodities or live stock at a specified time, when its tariffs on file with the interstate commerce commission contain no provision fixing the schedule of time for delivery.[84] On the other hand, there is no invariable rule requiring freight to be carried in the order in which it is received without regard to its character or condition, or its liability to perish,[85] and giving preference to relief goods sent to sufferers from fire, or flood, or other calamity is not an illegal discrimination.[86] Also, where there is a press of business, perishable goods, or goods the inherent character of which is such as to render them peculiarly liable to serious injury from delay, and which must be transported promptly or else lost or greatly damaged, the circumstances must be considered as of such exceptional character as to authorize a reasonable preference, as to expedition in hauling them, over freight not of such a character, in the absence of express statutory regulation on the subject.[87] This rule, however, does not authorize a preference on account of merely slight differences in commodities,[88] nor can the rule be invoked as a cloak for making illegal discriminations in favor of one shipper or class of shippers as against another without real ground for its application.[89]

Diverting or delaying shipments. It is unlawful under the Interstate Commerce Act to contract to divert or delay particular interstate shipments, in the absence of the publication of a special rate therefor;[90] but an agreement on the part of the

Guarantee of connection

A carrier violates the Interstate Commerce Act when it enters into an agreement to guarantee a particular connection and transportation by a particular train, so as to give a preference not open to all and not provided for in the published tariffs—Cicardi Bros. Fruit & Produce Co. v. Pennsylvania Co., 213 S.W. 531, 201 Mo.App. 609.

It is unlawful to contract to expedite an interstate shipment.—Eastern Shore of Virginia Produce Exch. v. New York, P. & N. R. Co., 126 S.E. 674, 141 Va. 611.

Transportation of live stock on fast train, which it was advertised would carry only perishable freight beyond the destination of the cattle, would be discriminatory, and the carrier's refusal so to transport the stock is not negligence.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Maurer, 127 N.E 294, 73 Ind App. 296.

84. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Warren County Strawberry Growers' Ass'n, 267 S.W. 551, 206 Ky. 482.

Mo.—Vaughn v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co, 15 S.W.2d 901, 223 Mo.App. 732.

S.D.—Willer v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 210 N.W. 81, 50 S.D. 319.

Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. West Bros, Com App, 207 S.W. 918, affirming in part and reversing in part St. Louis, I. M. & S Ry. Co v. West Bros., 159 S.W. 142, rehearing denied Texas & P. Ry Co v. West Bros., Com.App., 214 S.W. 808

Reason for rule

"If in the tariffs of a carrier on file with the Interstate Commerce Commission there is no provision fixing the schedule of time for delivery of commodities shipped under those tariffs, and if for that reason the carrier may contract with whomsoever it chooses to deliver within a specified time, and decline to so contract with others with whom it may not desire to do so, the entire scheme of prevention of discrimination by carriers devised by the federal Congress would be rendered of no value. Such shipments with delivery so contracted for would universally be given every service preference at the hands of the carrier Such preference would be discrimination of the most pernicious character. The selection of the beneficiary of such discrimination under those conditions would be left entirely to the carrier. It is certainly true that a carrier may institute a service for a particular freight commodity, and in so doing may fix time schedules for delivery of the commodity, but whenever it does so, and the time of delivery is intended to be a part of the service, it is indispensably necessary that such be published as a part of the tariffs, and be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission. Then such service would be open to the shipping public at large, on equal terms"—Louisville & N R. Co v Warren County Strawberry Growers' Ass'n, 267 S.W. 551, 552, 206 Ky. 482.

Declarations by station agent

That a station agent after telegraphing told a shipper that a train arriving during the night would carry his cattle did not constitute a contract for special service and a discrimination in violation of the Elkins Act—Chicago, R. I & P. Ry Co. v. Stallings, 201 S.W. 294, 132 Ark 446.

85. Wis.—Peet v. Chicago, etc., R Co, 20 Wis. 594, 91 Am D. 446

86. Mich.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Burrows, 33 Mich. 6.

87. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Atlanta Sand, etc, Co, 68 S.E. 807, 135 Ga. 35.

10 C.J. p 486 note 44.

88. Ga.—Ocean SS Co v. Savannah Locomotive Works, etc., Co, 63 S.E 577, 131 Ga. 831, 127 Am S.R. 265, 20 L.R.A.,N.S., 867, 15 Ann Cas. 1044.

89. Ga.—Southern R. Co v Atlanta Sand, etc., Co, 68 S.E. 807, 135 Ga. 35—Ocean SS. Co. v. Savannah Locomotive Works, etc, Co., 63 S.E 577, 131 Ga. 831, 127 Am. S.R. 265, 20 L.R.A.,N.S., 867, 15 Ann Cas. 1044.

90. Va.—Eastern Shore of Virginia Produce Exch. v. New York, P. & N. R. Co., 126 S.E. 674, 141 Va. 611.

Delay in unloading live stock

If a carrier of live stock agreed to carry the stock without unloading past the twenty-eight-hour limit imposed by Twenty-eight-Hour Law § 1, U.S.Comp St. § 8651, and past the regular unloading place for such period, at regular rates, it was a special agreement imposing special duties which would be void as a discrimination in the absence of a corresponding rate therefor.—Bradford v Hines, 227 S.W. 889, 206 Mo.App. 582

Reconsignment of potatoes

A special contract entered into at St. Louis, Mo., between a shipper and a carrier, whereby the carrier was to divert or reconsign a shipment of potatoes at Pittsburg, Pa., to Chicago, Ill, by wire, so as to have it go on a particular train arriving at Chicago on a particular date, was an agreement for special services prohibited by the Interstate Commerce Act as amended by the Elkins Act—Cicardi Bros Fruit & Produce Co v. Pennsylvania Co, 213 S.W. 531, 201 Mo.App. 609.

carrier, in compliance with the shipper's request, to extend the twenty-eight hour period for unloading live stock to thirty-six hours, is open to every shipper and is not a preferential contract.[91]

Where pursuant to a rule of the interstate commerce commission a carrier adopts a tariff and conditions on which diversion would be made, which provided that parties making request for change of destination must furnish satisfactory proof of ownership and acceptable form of bond, the carrier cannot without unjust discrimination waive its regulation and allow a diversion in any unauthorized measure.[92]

§ 371. Stop-Over Privileges

Under the Interstate Commerce Act stop-over privileges cannot be granted to the shipper contrary to the provisions of the carrier's published tariff.

Under a provision of the Interstate Commerce Act that no carrier shall engage in the transportation of property unless the rates for which the same is transported have been filed and published in accordance with the act, and that no carrier can extend any privileges in the transportation of property except such as are specified in the tariff, where the schedule of rates filed with the interstate commerce commission provides for stop-over privileges for certain commodities and not for others, an agreement for stop-over privileges for such other commodities is invalid and unenforceable, for the reason that such privileges cannot be demanded by other persons.[93] Likewise, where goods are shipped at the rate published for through shipments, permitting a shipper to unload part of the shipment at an intermediate point is an unjust discrimination where the tariff permits no such privilege.[94] When freight is divided into groups and classes for the purpose of fixing charges for transportation and other purposes in connection therewith, each separate group or class and all the commodities belonging to it must be considered as distinct objects of contract, and each handled according to the public schedules and tariffs applicable thereto. The granting of stop-over privileges to one shipper, where such privilege is not granted to the public generally by the published schedules and tariffs, constitutes an unjust discrimination.[95]

§ 372. Giving Credit to Some Parties and Requiring Payment of Others

Generally, the demanding of prepayment of freight charges from some shippers while not requiring such prepayment from others does not constitute an unjust discrimination, but granting credit to some shippers for the freight charges on goods sent as prepaid does constitute such discrimination.

It is generally held that a common carrier, both at common law and under the Interstate Commerce Act, may demand prepayment of freight charges for goods delivered to it by a connecting carrier or an individual shipper without exacting such prepayment when delivered by another connecting carrier or individual shipper; such discrimination does not amount to an unreasonable discrimination, or an undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage, within the meaning of the statute,[96] and the carrier's purpose or motive in making such discrimination is immaterial.[97] The granting of credit to the shipper for freight charges on goods sent as pre-

91. Ind.—Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. Bower, 127 N.E. 458, 73 Ind App. 367.

92. Va.—Norfolk Southern R Co. v. Whitehurst, 85 S.E. 458, 117 Va. 542.

10 C.J. p 487 note 49.

93. Tex.—Bergin v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., Civ App., 150 S.W. 1184.

94. Miss.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co v F. A. Hulett & Son, 131 So. 814, 159 Miss. 333.

95. Tex.—Bergin v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 150 S W. 1184.

96. U S.—Gamble-Robinson Commn Co v. Chicago, etc., R Co., Minn., 168 F. 161, 94 C.C.A 217, 21 L. R.A.,N.S., 982, 16 Ann.Cas. 613.

10 C.J. p 487 note 53

Extension proper

Railroad company's extension of time for payment of freight charges by company to which cars were delivered on shipper's instruction was not violation of clause in bill of lading, prohibiting delivery until all charges were paid, in view of authority granted carrier by interstate commerce commission to extend time.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Frank H Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.

Carrier's continued delivery of shipments to company for which they were intended under twenty-four-hour credit arrangement, notwithstanding company's failure to pay freight charges on prior deliveries, was not a violation of interstate commerce commission's order allowing ninety-six-hour extension of credit so as to give shipper contracting to pay freight charges action for damages against carrier, under Interstate Commerce Act § 3 subd 2, 49 U.S.C.A. § 3 subd 2.—New York Cent R Co. v Frank H Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal 2d 384

In Georgia, however, under its power to make rules to prevent discrimination, it is competent for the railroad commission to declare an unlawful discrimination a course of conduct whereby a railroad company connecting with other railroad companies at each of its termini which converge to a common point, affording a choice of routes from the common point to stations on its own line, receives from one of its connections freights destined to points on its own line without requiring prepayment of the earned charges of the favored carrier, and declines to receive from the connecting carrier at the other terminus freight destined to points on its own line without prepayment of the freight charges earned by that connecting carrier, where the conditions are substantially similar and the effect of the course of conduct is seriously to curtail competition in rates and service to the patrons on its own line.—Wadley Southern R. Co. v. State, 73 S.E. 741, 137 Ga. 497.

97. U.S.—Gamble-Robinson Commn Co. v. Chicago, etc., R Co., Minn., 168 F. 161, 169, 94 C.C.A. 217, 21 L.R.A.,N.S., 982, 16 Ann.Cas 613.

10 C.J. p 487 note 54.

paid, however, in lieu of payment in money, constitutes an unjust discrimination.[98] The purpose of the rule that payment of a carrier's charges must be made in money, and that it must be cash as distinguished from credit, is solely to prevent rebates or unjust discrimination and to insure observance of the tariff rates.[99] The Interstate Commerce Act does not prescribe, or absolutely require, that the charges be paid in money, and payment may properly be made, without constituting an unjust discrimination, by means of a check payable on demand drawn on a going bank in which the drawer has an ample deposit.[1]

§ 373. Connecting Carriers

Generally, a carrier does not commit an unjust discrimination by requiring prepayment of freight from one connecting carrier and not from others.

Although there is some authority to the contrary,[2] a railroad company may without being guilty of unjust discrimination require prepayment of freight from one connecting carrier, although it does not exact such prepayment from other connecting carriers,[3] and it has similarly been held that a carrier may advance freight charges to one connecting carrier without advancing such charges to another connecting carrier, without laying itself open to the charge of unjust discrimination.[4] There is nothing, however, in the federal constitution prohibiting a state from requiring common carriers to treat all connecting carriers alike in regard to the prepayment of freight, and a decision of the state supreme court upholding a statute of this character is controlling on the United States supreme court.[5]

Where the published tariffs provide that carload shipments will not be delivered to a line which performs only switching services until freight charges are paid, the carrier cannot make a delivery to such line without first requiring the payment of charges, as such a delivery would be an unjust discrimination.[6]

§ 374. Receiving Compensation Other than That Allowed by Law

The carrier is not permitted to exchange transportation for services or property by way of barter.

Under statutes prohibiting discrimination, the carrier is not permitted to exchange transportation for services or property by way of barter.[7] So, the compromise and settlement of an unliquidated claim by a shipper against a carrier furnishes no justification for the action of the carrier in charging him less rates than it charges other shippers for like services.[8]

§ 375. Discrimination in Freight Rates

Particular matters with regard to discrimination in freight rates will be discussed in detail in the sections immediately following. Freight charges and liens generally are discussed in §§ 312–333 supra. Examine pocket parts for later cases.

§ 376. Duty of Carrier to Maintain Equality of Charges

A carrier is bound to carry freight and live stock at equal rates for all customers for substantially similar services under like conditions.

It is generally held that, independently of any constitutional or statutory regulation on the subject, the carrier is bound to carry at an equal rate for all customers for substantially similar services and under substantially similar conditions.[9] Al-

98. U.S.—U. S. v. Sunday Creek Co., D.C.Ohio, 194 F. 252, affirmed 210 F. 747, 127 C.C.A. 297.
10 C.J. p. 488 note 55.

99. U.S.—Fullerton Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M., St. P. & P. R. Co., Minn., 51 S.Ct. 227, 282 U.S. 520, 75 L.Ed. 502, reversing, C.C.A., 36 F.2d 180, certiorari granted 50 S.Ct. 249, 281 U.S. 709, 74 L.Ed. 1132.

1. U.S.—Fullerton Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M., St. P. & P. R. Co., supra.

2. U.S.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Adams Express Co., C.C.Md., 22 F. 404
10 C.J. p. 489 note 60

3. U.S.—Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., Ark., 63 F. 775, 11 C.C.A. 417, 26 L.R.A. 192, affirming, C.C., 59 F. 400.
10 C.J. p. 488 note 58.

4. U.S.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Miami S.S. Co., Tex., 86 F. 407, 30 C.C.A. 142.

5. U.S.—Wadley Southern R. Co. v. Georgia, 35 S.Ct. 214, 235 U.S. 651, 59 L.Ed. 405, affirming 73 S.E. 741, 137 Ga. 497.

6. Va.—McGuire v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 118 S.E. 225, 136 Va. 382.

7. U.S.—Lake & Export Coal Corporation v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., C.C.A.W.Va., 1 F.2d 968
Pa.—Adams Express Co. v. Albright Bros., 75 Pa.Super. 410.
10 C.J. p. 489 note 62.

Exchange for coal

A railroad common carrier was without legal authority to purchase coal and pay for the same by releasing a claim for freight and demurrage.—Lake & Export Coal Corporation v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., C.C.A.W.Va., 1 F.2d 968.

Set-off

In an action by an express company, for express charges made under existing tariffs duly filed, defendant cannot set off a claim against plaintiff for goods lost or damaged in transit, this being a discrimination within the meaning of the Interstate Commerce Act.—Adams Express Co. v. Albright Bros., 75 Pa.Super. 410.

8. U.S.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Taggart, Colo., 13 S.Ct. 977, 149 U.S. 698, 37 L.Ed. 905—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Goodridge, Colo., 13 S.Ct. 970, 149 U.S. 680, 37 L.Ed. 936.
10 C.J. p. 489 note 63.

9. Fla.—State ex rel. Burr v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 119 So. 110, 96 Fla. 646
N.H.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Great

though expressions may be found in some decisions to the effect that at common law a common carrier of goods is under no obligation to treat all customers equally in the matter of rates charged for transportation; that there is nothing in the common law to hinder a carrier from carrying for favored individuals at an unreasonable rate, or even gratis; and that all the law required was that he should not charge anyone more than was reasonable.[10] The fact that the rate charged one who claims to have been unjustly discriminated against is not in itself unreasonable does not in any way affect the carrier's liability if in fact there has been an unreasonable discrimination.[11]

A carrier does not discriminate against a shipper who aids in the transportation, by refusing to give him lower rates, where the shipper benefits from his aid by receiving better service;[12] neither is a shipper discriminated against when the rate of which he complains is actually lower than that of his competitors.[13]

Under federal statutes. Under the express provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act, carriers subject to the act are bound to carry at an equal rate for all customers for substantially similar services and under substantially similar conditions.[14] Such provisions must be understood and enforced according to their evident purpose and in the light of the conditions which brought them forth.[15] Under these provisions carriers may not adjust Falls Mfg. Co., 111 A. 691, 79 N H 467.

Utah.—Jeremy Fuel & Grain Co. v Denver & R. G R. Co, 207 P. 155, 60 Utah 153.

10 C.J. p 489 notes 66, 67.

The Corpus Juris text, has been quoted with approval, the court declaring that the great weight of American authority is in accord with the rule as there stated, in Jeremy Fuel & Grain Co v. Denver & R. G. R. Co, 207 P. 155, 60 Utah 153.

Creation of monopoly

Such discriminations have been declared to be particularly objectionable where they tend to create a monopoly in favor of one shipper to the exclusion of others—Louisville, etc, R Co v Wilson, 32 N. E. 311, 132 Ind 517, 18 L.R.A. 105—10 C J. p 490 note 69.

In Nebraska

(1) It has been said that there was nothing in the common law to prevent a carrier from giving individuals an unreasonably low rate or even carrying without charge—State v. Chicago, B & Q R. Co, 199 N W. 534, 112 Neb. 248.

(2) However, a later case quoted with approval the statement made in Sullivan v. Minneapolis & R R. Ry. Co, 142 N W 3, 121 Minn 488, 45 L R A,N S., 612, that "The modern common law imposes upon common carriers the duty of equality in freight rates to all shippers similarly circumstanced for the transportation of the same class of goods the same distance, and our statutes prohibiting such discrimination are declaratory of the common-law rule."—Central Bridge & Construction Co. v. Chicago & N W Ry Co., 262 N W 852, 854, 129 Neb. 726

10. S C—Ex p Benson, 18 S.C 38, 44 Am R 564.
10 C.J. p 489 notes 64, 65.

11. Tex.—Galveston Chamber of Commerce v. State A. Commn, Civ App., 137 S W. 737, reversed on other grounds 145 S.W. 573, 105 Tex. 101.

12. Wash.—Public Service Commission of Washington v. State, 204 P. 791, 118 Wash. 629, 25 A.L R 186, affirmed 207 P. 688, 118 Wash 629, 25 A.L R. 186.

13. Minn.—Hallett Const. Co. v. Foley Bros., 254 N.W. 435, 191 Minn 335

14. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v A. H. Cleaver & Co, 101 So. 597, 211 Ala 661.

Mich.—Pennsylvania R Co v. Marcelletti, 240 N W. 4, 256 Mich. 411, 73 A L R. 923.

Tex—Neubert v. Chicago, R I. & G. Ry Co, 296 S W. 1090, 116 Tex. 644, 53 A.L R 1234.

10 C J. p 489 note 68.

Storage charges

On shipment of flour from Western points in the United States and Canada to Boston, carrier could not, in view of Interstate Commerce Act Febr 4, 1887 § 1, and § 6 pars 1, 7, as amended, U S Comp St. §§ 8563, 8569, make any storage charge or charge for any service connected with transportation and delivery, other than those authorized by tariff schedules filed—Raymond Hadley Corporation v. Boston & M. R. R., 174 N Y S 342, 186 App Div 341, appeal dismissed on condition 123 N E 886, 226 N Y 711, and affirmed 126 N.E 921, 227 N Y. 648.

Switching charges

(1) Imposing charges for switching shipments of grain to industries located on tracks of a terminal company, no charge being made for switching like shipments on other industrial tracks owned by principal railroad companies, is unjust discrimination—Minneapolis Civic & Commerce Ass'n v. Chicago, M. & St. P Ry. Co., 158 N.W 817, 134 Minn. 169, affirmed Chicago, M & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Minneapolis Civic & Commerce Ass'n, 38 S Ct. 553, 247 U.S. 490, 62 L.Ed. 1229.

(2) Where, under the tariff provisions, charges for line haul made by railroads include charge for switching on industrial tracks, such railroads cannot remove discrimination against industries on tracks of subsidiary company by additional charge for switching over other industrial tracks, in violation of the tariff provisions—Minneapolis Civic & Commerce Ass'n v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., supra.

(3) The practice of three carriers as to traffic from points south of Richmond, whereby each absorbed, for shipments from competitive points only, switching charges to industries in Richmond on the lines of such carriers and similarly located with regard to the interchange tracks of the three carriers, but refused to absorb the switching charge on deliveries to similarly located industries on noncompetitive lines, was a violation of Interstate Commerce Act § 2, 49 U.S.C.A. § 2, not being a like and contemporaneous service of a like kind of traffic under similar circumstances and conditions—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. U S, Va, 41 S Ct 24, 254 U S 57 65 L.Ed 129, affirming, D.C., 249 F 368.

15. Mo.—Foster Lumber Co. v. Atchison, T & S F Ry. Co, 194 S W. 281, 270 Mo 629, L.R.A.1918A 768.

The purpose of congress in the enactment of Interstate Commerce Act § 6, as amended by the Hepburn Act § 2, is obviously to provide for a system of tariff schedules, rates, fares, and charges which would be uniform and consistent and apply without discrimination or favoritism to all shippers similarly situated. It is obviously intended thereby that the total charge to be paid by the shipper should be clearly ascertainable from the tariff their rates with the motive of injuring or aiding a particular shipper, kind of traffic, or locality.[16] On the other hand, shippers who are accorded reasonable service at reasonable rates without unjust discrimination cannot complain of the rates enjoyed by their competitors,[17] and some shippers cannot escape the natural disadvantage of small capital and inadequate facilities of their own on the ground that a rate applicable to all shippers is discriminatory as to them.[18] Also, the act expressly exempts the carriage, storage, or handling of property free or at reduced rates for the United States, state, or municipal governments, or for charitable purposes, or to or from fairs and expositions for exhibition thereat.[19]

The effect of maintaining a lower rate, intrastate, than the reasonable interstate rate is necessarily discriminatory whenever the two classes of traffic, inextricably intermingled are carried on,[20] and, under the amendment to the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 13 (4), unjust discriminations against interstate commerce caused by intra-state rates may be removed by minimum intrastate rates prescribed by the interstate commerce commission.[21]

Discriminatory rates violative of the Interstate Commerce Act may be imposed by a combination of connecting carriers as well as by an individual railroad,[22] and the commission has ample power to remove discrimination so practiced.[23] How-schedules, so that one shipper should not have imposed on him auxiliary charges which might not be imposed on others.—Alton & S R. R. v. U. S., D C Cal, 49 F.2d 414.

16. U.S.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. U S., Tex., 53 S.Ct. 768, 289 U S. 627, 77 L.Ed. 1410, reversing, D.C., 42 F.2d 281.

Tariff unlawful

Tariff published by carrier for purpose of destroying or building up market or diverting traffic from particular place to injury thereof or in aid of another place is unlawful under Interstate Commerce Act § 3 (1), 49 U S C A. § 3 (1)—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Tex., 53 S.Ct. 768, 289 U S. 627, 77 L Ed. 1410, reversing, D C., 42 F.2d 281.

17. U.S—Alexander Sprunt & Son v. U. S., Tex., 50 S Ct. 315, 281 U. S. 249, 74 L Ed. 832, reversing, D. C., 23 F 2d 874.

18. U.S—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., D C Mo., 2 F 2d 291, affirmed 46 S.Ct. 530, 271 U.S. 259, 70 L Ed. 934.

19. U.S.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. State of Tennessee, Tenn, 43 S. Ct 583, 262 U.S 318, 67 L.Ed 999, reversing, D C, State of Tennessee v. U S, 284 F. 371

La.—New Orleans & N. E. R. Co. v. City of New Orleans, 123 So. 323, 168 La. 781.

Scope of provision

"Congress did not intend, by this provision concerning reduced rates and free transportation, to create an instrument, by which the carrier was authorized, in its discretion, to subject interstate commerce to undue prejudice, or by which the state was empowered to compel the carriers so to do The object of the section was to settle, beyond doubt, that the preferential treatment of certain classes of shippers and travelers, in the matters therein recited is not necessarily prohibited. And in this respect its provisions are illustrative, not exclusive. It limits, or defines, the requirement of equality in treatment which is imposed in other sections of the act. By so doing, it preserves the right of the carrier theretofore enjoyed of granting, in its discretion, preferential treatment to particular classes in certain cases. Only in this sense can it be said that the section is permissive. It confers no right upon any shipper or traveler. Nor does it confer any new right upon the carrier."—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. State of Tennessee, Tenn., 43 S Ct. 583, 585, 262 U S. 318, 67 L Ed. 999, reversing, D C., State of Tennessee v. U. S, 284 F. 371.

20. U S.—Illinois Commerce Commission v. U. S., Ill., 54 S Ct. 783, 292 U.S. 474, 78 L Ed. 1371, motion denied 54 S Ct 861, rehearing denied 55 S.Ct. 66, 293 U.S. 628, 79 L.Ed. 714.

Switching rates

U.S—Illinois Commerce Commission v. U. S, Ill., 54 S.Ct. 783, 292 U.S. 474, 78 L Ed. 1371, motion denied 54 S.Ct. 861, rehearing denied 55 S.Ct. 66, 293 U.S. 628, 79 L Ed. 714.

21. U S.—U. S v. State of Louisiana, 54 S.Ct 28, 290 U S. 70, 78 L. Ed. 181, reversing, D C., State of Louisiana v. U. S, 2 F Supp. 545.

Ill.—Atchison, T & S. F Ry. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 166 N.E 466, 335 Ill. 70.

Pa.—Pennsylvania R Co v. Public Service Commission, 190 A. 372, 126 Pa.Super. L.

Increase proper

Where interstate commerce commission approved carrier's interstate rates, but ordered it not to discriminate against interstate traffic by charging it over one cent more than for certain intra-state shipments, the carrier might remove discrimination by advancing intra-state rates to within one cent of interstate rates, although state statute prescribed lower rates.—St Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. State, 197 S W. 1, 130 Ark. 223.

22. U S—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. U. S, Tex, 53 S Ct. 768, 289 U S 627, 77 L Ed. 1410, reversing, D.C., 42 F 2d 281—U S. v. Illinois Cent R. Co., Miss, 44 S Ct. 189, 263 U S 515, 68 L.Ed. 417—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. U. S, N.J., 42 S.Ct. 80, 257 U S. 247, 66 L Ed 217.

Rate discriminatory

Where a railroad company established blanket rates on its main and branch lines within certain territory for transportation of lumber, but did not grant blanket rate to points on connecting lines, except where necessary to meet competition, the interstate commerce commission was warranted in finding that the refusal to grant the same through rate to point on independent short line wholly dependent on the railroad, where cost of transportation and other conditions were the same, constituted unfair discrimination, although the higher rate was reasonable, and the only motive of the railroad in making the discrimination was that of self-interest—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., Miss., 44 S.Ct. 189, 263 U S 515, 68 L.Ed. 417.

23. U.S.—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co, supra—Central R Co. of New Jersey v. U. S, N J., 42 S Ct. 80, 257 U S. 247, 66 L Ed. 217.

Allowances by trunk lines to tap lines

Act Febr. 4, 1887 § 15, as amended by Act June 18, 1910 § 12, empowering the interstate commerce commission to prevent unlawful discrimination, authorizes the commission to prescribe the maximum allowance out of the joint rates which trunk line railways may make to tap lines owned by persons owning timber and mills which they principally ever, participation in joint rates merely does not make connecting carriers partners. They can be held jointly and severally responsible for unjust discrimination only if each carrier has participated in some way in that which causes the unjust discrimination, as where a lower rate is given one locality than to another similarly situated.[24]

Orders of the interstate commerce commission directing the removal of discriminatory rates must be reasonably definite; otherwise an application should be made to the commission for further specifications.[25]

Under state constitutions and statutes. The general rule as to the duty of carriers to maintain equality of charges, discussed in the first paragraph of this section, has been incorporated into the constitutional and statutory provisions of many of the states.[26] Under such legislation rates are serve, although no joint rate was fixed either by the commission or by the carriers, and they had not been afforded an opportunity to agree with respect to the division.—O'Keefe v U. S., La., 36 S.Ct. 313, 240 U.S. 294, 60 L.Ed. 651.

Combination rates

Under Act to Regulate Commerce § 3, Comp.St. § 8565, prohibiting unfair discrimination, undue prejudice may be inflicted as effectively by a through rate which is a combination of locals, as by a joint through rate, and the interstate commerce commission has as much power to remove unjust discrimination in one case as in the other.—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., Miss., 44 S.Ct. 189, 263 U.S. 515, 68 L.Ed. 417.

Cease and desist order proper

Where through rate charged by railroad from certain points within blanket territory was lower than rate charged from another point within such territory on an independent short line, the interstate commerce commission could require the railroad to desist from unjust discrimination, although the point from which the higher rate was charged was not on its own line, the railroad being in a position to remove the discrimination by increasing the lower rate.—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., Miss., 44 S.Ct. 189, 263 U.S. 515, 68 L.Ed. 417.

24. U.S.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Tex., 53 S.Ct. 768, 289 U.S. 627, 77 L.Ed. 1410, reversing, D.C., 42 F.2d 281—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. U. S., N.J., 42 S.Ct. 80, 257 U.S. 247, 66 L.Ed. 217.

25. U.S.—American Exp. Co. v. State of South Dakota ex rel. Caldwell, S.D., 37 S.Ct. 656, 244 U.S. 617, 61 L.Ed. 1352.

Order sufficiently definite

(1) Order of the interstate commerce commission, directing express companies to remove an existing discrimination against interstate commerce, by ceasing to charge higher rates between certain points than for substantially equal distances between other points, was not invalid because leaving to express companies discretion to determine how discrimination shall be removed, whether by lowering the interstate rates which the commission found were not unreasonable, or by raising the intra-state rates, or by doing both.—American Exp. Co. v. State of South Dakota ex rel. Caldwell, S.D., 37 S.Ct. 656, 244 U.S. 617, 61 L.Ed. 1352.

(2) The intra-state rates involved in an order of the interstate commerce commission directing express companies to remove an existing discrimination against interstate commerce by ceasing to charge higher rates between Sioux City, Iowa, and South Dakota points than for substantially equal distances between such South Dakota points and five named South Dakota cities must be deemed to be those only between the five named cities and points in competitive territory, that is, those commercially tributary both to the five cities and to Sioux City, Iowa, in view of the qualification of the general words of such order by the clause, "which said relation of rates has been found by the Commission to be unjustly discriminatory," and of the report of the commission, made a part of the order, which makes it clear that the order applied only to competitive territory in the southeastern section of South Dakota.—American Exp. Co. v. State of South Dakota ex rel. Caldwell, supra

26. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Trammell, D.C.Ga., 287 F. 741.

N.H.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Great Falls Mfg. Co., 111 A. 691, 79 N.H. 467

Tex.—Railroad Commission of Texas v. Houston Chamber of Commerce, 78 S.W.2d 591, 124 Tex. 375, affirming Houston Chamber of Commerce v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 19 S.W.2d 583.

10 C.J. p. 489 note 68.

Coal rates

Where a lower rate was established for coal shipped for manufacturers whose products outbound were transported over the railroads than for other manufacturers, a corporation, operating an electric railway and supplying electric current for lighting and power, is entitled to the lower rate on that portion of its coal used in producing power which is furnished to manufacturers who shipped their product over the railroad.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 114 N.E. 412, 185 Ind. 652.

Discrimination in rate

Any discrimination by a railroad in absorbing switching rates only to certain docks is one in rates as distinguished from a discrimination in regulations or practices.—National Dock & Storage Warehouse Co. v. Boston & M. R. R., 116 N.E. 544, 227 Mass. 197.

Demurrage

Pub.Acts 1909 No. 300, making discrimination by common carriers unlawful, is as applicable to discrimination through demurrage charges as it is to discrimination through a charge for line haul. Accordingly, a special contract, whereby railroad company gave lumber company free use of cars for unlimited time, when other shippers were required to pay one dollar per day for all time over two days, is unenforceable as unjustly discriminatory.—Grand Rapids & I. Ry. Co. v. Cobbs & Mitchell, 168 N.W. 961, 203 Mich. 133.

Greasing charges, imposed by carrier on shipper for delivering and receiving cars at private side tracks, not included in any tariff of rates filed with the public service commission, are illegal, in view of Porto Rico L.1917 No. 70 §§ 3, 4, 24, 95.—American R. Co. of Porto Rico v. South Porto Rico Sugar Co., C.C.A. Porto Rico, 293 F. 670.

Provisions construed

(1) Const. art. 10 § 7, providing that the legislature shall pass laws to prevent unjust discrimination and extortion in charges of express, telegraph, and railroad companies, is designed to take from the common carriers named therein the arbitrary selection of persons as the objects of their favor or disfavor.—State v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 199 N.W. 534, 112 Neb. 248.

(2) A constitutional provision to the effect that "the Legislature shall pass laws to regulate railroad freight and passenger tariffs, to correct abuses, and prevent unjust discrimination and extortion in the rates of freight and passenger tar-illegally discriminatory where they compel a particular shipper to pay for services not rendered,[27] and it may be a carrier's duty, under statutes of this character, to make a special charge for ferry service, where this is necessary to enable it to treat all shippers substantially alike,[28] regardless of the fact that the carrier is permitted to carry poor persons and their property without charge.[29] Mere difference in rates to the same destination, however, does not constitute an unjust discrimination, since only undue or unreasonable preferences or disadvantages are prohibited;[30] and a contract by a carrier for the transportation of freight without charge is not illegal where under the circumstances there is no unjust discrimination.[31]

Under proper statutory authorization a special state commission such as a railroad commission, a public service commission, or a corporation commission may determine whether intra-state rates are unjustly discriminatory and fix proper rates, where the circumstances warrant;[32] but, if the iffs on different railroads in this state, and enforce the same by adequate penalties," does not undertake to define or prohibit discrimination. It authorizes and directs the legislature to enact laws defining "unjust discrimination" in freight and passenger tariffs by railroad and imposing penalties for "unjust discrimination."—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. State, 261 S.W. 996, 113 Tex. 570, 33 A.L.R. 367, reversing State v. St. Louis, S. W. Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ.App., 197 S. W. 1006.

Statute supersedes common law

The Public Utilities Act supersedes the common-law liability of the carrier so far as rates and unreasonable discrimination are concerned.—Terminal R. Ass'n of St. Louis v. Public Utilities Commission, 136 N.E. 797, 304 Ill. 312.

Switching charges

(1) Refusal of carrier to absorb switching charges on cars delivered it by electric railroads when it did so on those delivered by steam railroads, in absence of other difference in situation, was discrimination within Utilities Act § 38.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 119 N.E. 294, 283 Ill. 425, 2 A.L.R. 582.

(2) Where unjust discrimination arises as between individuals or localities, because of absorbing of switching charges in certain instances and not in others under like circumstances, carrier may be required by the state railway commission to remove the discrimination by a change in tariff schedule eliminating the charges.—Lincoln Commercial Club v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., 172 N. W. 687, 103 Neb. 504.

27. Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 122 N.E. 803, 287 Ill. 412.

Capacity of cars

Freight charges based on rule fixing minimum weight of sixty thousand pounds per car at time when there was general rule that such minimum should be fifty thousand or car's marked capacity, if one of less capacity was furnished, was, under Public Utilities Act § 32, discriminatory and unreasonable.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 122 N.E. 803, 287 Ill. 412.

28. N.H.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Great Falls Mfg. Co., 111 A. 691, 79 N.H. 467.

Order conclusive

Order of the interstate commerce commission and the state public service commission permitting a carrier to file a schedule of rates including a charge for ferrying service is a conclusive finding that an extra charge for such service was required of the carrier.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Great Falls Mfg. Co., 111 A. 691, 79 N.H. 467.

29. N.H.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Great Falls Mfg. Co., supra.

30. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 195 N.E. 32, 359 Ill. 563

31. Ga.—Sipple v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 114 S.E. 435, 154 Ga. 376, reversing 110 S.E. 39, 28 Ga. App. 16, conformed to 115 S.E. 47, 29 Ga.App. 328.

Damaged goods

Where there were no facilities for repairing damaged goods at destination, carrier's contract to transport them without compensation to the shipping point for repairs in order to lessen the damage was not invalid or unjustly discriminatory or in contravention of public policy.—Sipple v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 114 S.E. 435, 154 Ga. 376, reversing 110 S.E. 39, 28 Ga.App. 16, conformed to 115 S.E. 47, 29 Ga.App. 328.

32. Ind.—G. Ittenbach Co. v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 181 N.E. 382, 97 Ind.App. 332.
Wash.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. Department of Public Works, 275 P. 87, 151 Wash. 142.

Duty to fix rate

Under a statute providing that, whenever the public service commission shall be of the opinion that the rates charged by any common carrier are unjustly discriminatory, the commission shall determine the just and reasonable rates to be charged for the service to be performed, it is the duty of the commission to determine the just and reasonable rates to be charged. An order directing a carrier to remove a discriminatory rate, when the only possible way in which that discriminatory rate can be removed is by making a substantial reduction in its rates, without at the same time determining what is a reasonable rate, is not an exercise of the jurisdiction conferred. — National Dock & Storage Warehouse Co. v. Boston & M. R. R., 116 N.E. 544, 227 Mass. 197.

Order proper

Under Burns St.Annot.1914 § 5537, commission may order railroad to cease charging consumer of coal, rate higher than charged to competing consumers in same locality without finding rate actually charged unreasonable, and fact that complex computation was necessary to determine portion of coal used to generate electricity furnished manufacturers entitled to lower rate does not make unreasonable order requiring that coal furnished to electric company be hauled at same rate as that furnished to consumers of electric power generated.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 114 N.E. 412, 185 Ind. 652.

Power of commission

In petition by consumer for relief against alleged unjust discrimination wherein it requests that it be charged the same rate as manufacturers, the power of the commission to establish different rates for the same commodity on the same carrier between the same points need not be decided.—Vandalia R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 114 N.E. 412, 185 Ind. 652.

Prior contract

A contract for the shipment of logs at a specified rate, which bound the shipper to ship a specified minimum quantity was abrogated where the carrier subsequently, over the shipper's protest, obtained approval by the railroad commission of a tariff fixing the same rate, but conditioned upon the reshipment of the entire product manufactured from rate is extortionate, its illegality commences at the time it is exacted rather than at the time such a commission finds it to be so and fixes a lower rate.[33] When reducing rates on the complaint of anyone that rates between certain points on a certain railroad are too high, such a commission may, for the purpose of preventing discrimination, by its own acts reduce the rates on the whole line or system.[34] However, in the exercise of the power conferred on it to correct abuses and prevent unjust discriminations, the commission cannot make rates which are unjustly discriminatory, and which permit a carrier to charge one person for a service a compensation greater or less than it charges any other person for a like service, or to give undue preference to any particular person or locality.[35] The question as to what constitutes an unjust discrimination is one of fact within the discretion of the commission to the extent of making any rate fixed by it a legal rate until otherwise determined by judicial action.[36]

Where a discrimination is effected by reason of a difference between interstate and intra-state rates it is the duty of such a commission to cooperate in the elimination of the discrimination.[37] Thus it is within the commission's province to order an increase in intra-state rates so as to prevent an unlawful discrimination against interstate commerce.[38] Similarly, if interstate freight rates put into effect by the interstate commerce commission are materially lower for the same length of haul on the same class of commodities than intra-state rates made under orders of a state commission, a discrimination is effected which it is the duty of the latter commission to remove by readjusting the rates.[39] Furthermore, reduction of interstate freight rates to conform to valid state made rates does not necessarily constitute an unlawful discrimination against interstate traffic.[40]

§ 377. Circumstances Justifying Discrimination in Rates

Discrimination in rates is justified when it is reasonably and fairly based on different transportation conditions, or when authorized by statute.

Although a common carrier is bound to carry at equal rates for all customers in like condition, as already discussed in the preceding section, under § 3 of the Interstate Commerce Act prohibiting discrimination, and under similar state legislation, mere discrimination does not render a rate illegal; only such rates as are unreasonably or unjustly discriminatory are inhibited.[41] In other words, mere inequality of charge does not necesthe logs so shipped.—Alexandria & W. Ry. Co. v. Long Pine Lumber Co. of Louisiana, 93 So. 199, 152 La. 399.

33. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Greenbrier Distillery Co., 187 S.W. 296, 170 Ky. 775.

34. Minn.—Steenerson v. Great Northern R. Co., 72 N.W. 713, 69 Minn. 353, 372.
10 C.J. p 473 note 10.

35. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Trammell, D.C.Ga., 287 F. 741.
Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Alabama Public Service Commission, 97 So. 289, 210 Ala. 105.
Cal.—California Adjustment Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 175 P. 682, 179 Cal. 140, 13 A.L.R. 274.
Miss.—Mississippi Railroad Commission v. Mobile & O. R. Co., 123 So. 876, 154 Miss. 871.
Tex.—Railroad Commission of Texas v. Houston Chamber of Commerce, 78 S.W.2d 591, 124 Tex. 375, affirming, Civ.App., Houston Chamber of Commerce v. Railroad Commission of Texas, 19 S.W.2d 583.
10 C.J. p 473 note 11.

In the absence of special circumstances, railroad commission could not require railroad to continue to apply rate between certain points much lower than that declared reasonable and prescribed by commission for similar hauls.—Mississippi Railroad Commission v. Mobile & O. R. Co., 123 So. 876, 154 Miss. 871.

Orders held not to be discriminatory
Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Greenbrier Distillery Co., 187 S.W. 296, 170 Ky. 775.
Tex.—Houston Chamber of Commerce v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 19 S.W.2d 583, affirmed Railroad Commission of Texas v. Houston Chamber of Commerce, 78 S.W.2d 591, 124 Tex. 375.

Rate discriminatory
An intra-state rate on fertilizer material originally granted by a railroad to establish a new industry, and continued in effect by an order of the state commission, and which was less than one half the rate prescribed by the commission for similar hauls of the same material in the same quantities in other places, some of which are competitors in the market, to the place to which the rate in controversy was granted, is discriminatory.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Trammell, D.C.Ga., 287 F. 741.

36. Tex.—Galveston Chamber of Commerce v. State R. Commn., Civ.App., 137 S.W. 737, reversed on other grounds 145 S.W. 573, 105 Tex. 101—State R. Commn. v. Galveston Chamber of Commerce, 115 S.W. 94, 51 Tex.Civ.App. 476.

37. Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 190 A. 372, 126 Pa.Super. 1.

38. Iowa.—Hawkeye Portland Cement Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 201 N.W. 16, 198 Iowa 1250.

39. Okl.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. State, 267 P. 253, 130 Okl. 263—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. State, 206 P. 236, 85 Okl. 223.

40. U.S.—Southern Pac. R. Co. v. California R. Commn., D.C.Cal., 193 F. 699
10 C.J. p 501 note 80.

41. U.S.—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., Miss., 44 S.Ct. 189, 263 U.S. 515, 68 L.Ed. 417—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. State of Tennessee, Tenn., 43 S.Ct. 583, 262 U.S. 318, 67 L.Ed. 999, reversing, D.C., State of Tennessee v. U. S., 284 F. 371.
Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 173 N.E. 804, 342 Ill. 11—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 166 N.E. 466, 335 Ill. 70.
Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission, 192 P. 1075, 112 Wash. 520.

Connecting carriers
Statutory inhibition against discrimination in rates between connect-

sarily constitute undue or unreasonable preference or advantage,[42] and cannot be held illegal unless it is shown that it is not justified by the cost of the respective services, by their values, or other transportation conditions.[43] Further, any fact which produces an inequality of condition and a change of circumstances justifies an inequality of charge, since common carriers are only bound to give the same terms to all persons alike, under the same conditions and circumstances.[44] Accordingly, no claim of illegality can be sustained if, in view of all the circumstances, the discrimination is fair and reasonable, and not inconsistent with the public interests,[45] and, subject to the two leading prohibitions that their charges shall not be unjust or unreasonable, and that they shall not unjustly discriminate so as to give undue preference or disadvantage to persons or traffic similarly circumstanced, the act to regulate commerce leaves common carriers, as they were at the common law, free to make special rates looking to the increase of their business, to classify their traffic, to adjust and apportion their rates so as to meet the necessities of commerce and of their own situation and relation to it, and generally to manage their important interests on the same principles which are regarded as sound and adopted in other trades and pursuits.[46] The discrimination or preference must be reasonable, and the terms must not be unreasonably unequal.[47] Remote dissimilarities of conditions do not justify any discriminations which the carrier chooses to make,[48] and the similarity of circumstances and conditions which, under the Interstate Commerce Act, requires equality of rates, relates to the circumstances and conditions which affect the service only, and does not include matters affecting individual shippers.[49]

A carrier cannot, with the purpose of building up a port on its own line at the expense of an-ing lines, requires only equality of charge for contemporaneous service of similar kind.—Pittsburgh & W. V. Ry. Co. v. U. S., D.C.Ohio, 41 F. 2d 806.

42. U.S.—Philadelphia & Reading Ry. Co. v. U. S., Pa., 36 S.Ct. 354, 240 U.S. 334, 60 L.Ed. 675, reversing, D.C., 219 F. 983—Western Paper Makers Chemical Co. v. U. S., D.C.Mich., 7 F.2d 164.

Ill.—See Baltimore & O. C. T. R. C. v. Illinois Brick Co., 198 Ill.App. 327.

R.I.—Public Utilities Commission v. Rhode Island Co., 110 A. 654, 43 R. I. 135.

Tex.—Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Guthrie, Civ.App., 248 S.W. 106.

10 C.J. p 474 note 18, p 490 note 72.

A mere difference in percentage of increase or decrease of rate is not, of itself, evidence that any rate is unjustly discriminatory.—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 173 N.E. 380, 341 Ill. 277.

43. U.S.—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., Miss., 44 S.Ct. 189, 263 U.S. 515, 68 L.Ed. 417.

Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 173 N.E. 804, 342 Ill. 11.

44. Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission, 192 P. 1075, 112 Wash. 520.

10 C.J. p 490 note 73

Additional demurrage charge

An additional demurrage or storage charge for detention of cars beyond a stated time was not invalid as discriminatory because limited to cars loaded with lumber held for reconsignment, where it appeared that it was a common practice to hold such cars for an unreasonable time awaiting reconsignment, thus keeping the cars out of normal use, to the detriment of the carrier and the public.—Turner, Dennis & Lowry Lumber Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., D.C.Mo., 2 F.2d 291, affirmed 46 S.Ct. 530, 271 U.S. 259, 70 L.Ed. 934.

Long term contract

An agreement whereby a railroad company agreed for thirty years to transport coal to a factory at the then existing rate was not an undue or unreasonable discrimination in violation of Const. art. 17 § 3, or Act June 4, 1883, P.L. 72, although a tariff was later filed calling for higher rates to other shippers.—Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co. v. Colonial Steel Co., 96 A. 1037, 251 Pa. 460.

Shipper not estopped

A contract between a railroad and a lumber company, which was silent as to rates, was held not susceptible of being construed to estop the shipper from questioning the discriminatory rates applied to it.—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., Miss., 44 S.Ct. 189, 263 U.S. 515, 68 L.Ed. 417.

45. Tenn.—Ragan v. Aiken, 9 Lea 609, 42 Am.R. 684.

Materials used by government

Where, at the request and recommendation of railroad companies, the Louisiana public service commission established rates for the transportation of road-building material to be used on state and parish public roads, substantially less than the ordinary rates for the transportation of such material, providing, however, that the state and parish received the benefit of such decreased rates, it was held that a railroad company or its receiver cannot complain that a later order of the public service commission, making applicable such decreased rate to such material used for paving municipal streets, was illegal or discriminatory, or arbitrary, the state having the right to fix rates for the transportation of materials for the building of public works lower than standard tariff rates for such material.—Bush v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., D.C.La., 290 F. 1008.

46. U.S.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. St. Paul & Tacoma Lumber Co., C.C.A.Wash., 4 F.2d 359, reversing, St. Paul & Tacoma Lumber Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., D.C., 296 F. 749.

Ga.—M. A. Pharr Cotton Co. v. Davis, 118 S.E. 605, 30 Ga.App. 570—Draper v. Georgia, F. & A. Ry. Co., 95 S.E. 16, 21 Ga.App. 707, error dismissed 39 S.Ct. 132, 248 U.S. 539, 63 L.Ed. 410.

La.—Alexandria & W. Ry. Co. v. Long Pine Lumber Co. of Louisiana, 93 So. 199, 152 La. 399.

Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission, 192 P. 1075, 112 Wash. 520.

10 C.J. p 490 note 75.

47. Vt.—State v. Central Vermont R. Co., 71 A. 194, 81 Vt. 463, 130 Am.S.R. 1065.

48. U.S.—Bigbee & Warrior Rivers Packet Co. v. Mobile & O. R. Co., C.C.Ala., 60 F. 545—Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Texas & P. R. Co., N.Y., 57 F. 948, 955, 6 C.C.A. 653.

49. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. International Coal Min. Co., Pa., 173 F. 1, 97 C.C.A. 383, reversed on other grounds 33 S.Ct. 843, 230 U.S. 184, 57 L.Ed. 1447.

10 C.J. p 491 notes 79, 80.

other on a rival road, adopt rates unreasonable in themselves, nor which are unduly preferential to its own port and unduly prejudicial to the other or to the public,[50] and there is no rule of law or practice which gives to a carrier the right to recapture traffic which it originated, by applying discriminatory rates thereto.[51]

In order to render an inequality of charge lawful, the goods must be carried under different circumstances, and the question whether the difference is material or essential arises on the facts in each particular case.[52]

In passing on the question of reasonableness of discrimination, it is proper to take into consideration, besides the mere differences in charges, the various elements, such as the convenience of the public, the fair interest of the carrier, the relative quantities of the traffic involved, the relative cost of the services and the profits to the company, and the situation and circumstances of the respective customers with reference to each other as competitive or otherwise.[53] It is not, however, proper to take into consideration the fact that the charge is reasonable in itself, since a charge may be perfectly reasonable and yet create an unjust discrimination;[54] neither is it proper to consider the length of time during which the rates have been in force nor the confusion which will result from a change.[55] Also, the proportion in which freight earned by two connecting railroads under a joint tariff schedule is divided between them is a matter for their consideration alone, and cannot be taken cognizance of by a court for the purpose of determining that the share received by one constitutes an unjust or discriminative rate, under the Interstate Commerce Law.[56]

Amount of freight shipped. According to a number of decisions, discriminations in freight rates, based solely on the amount of freight shipped without reference to any conditions tending to decrease the cost of transportation, are discriminations which are contrary to public policy[57] and which entitle the party against whom the discrimination is practiced to recover the amount of freight paid by him in excess of the rates accorded by the carrier to his more favored competitor.[58] However, on the principle of selling cheaper at wholesale than at retail, rates for large quantities may be relatively lower than for smaller quantities.[59] So it has been held that a carrier has a right to provide at times for a reduced rate on condition that one taking advantage of it shall, for a certain time, ship all his goods by such carrier's line, if it offers the same terms to all, and is prepared to transport goods for a reasonable sum to any person not willing to agree to such condition.[60]

Character of package or container. Difference in modes of packing or in the character of the 50. U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Louisville & R. R. Co., C.C.Ga., 118 F. 613.

51. U.S—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co v. U. S, Ill, 49 S.Ct. 494, 279 U S 768, 73 L Ed. 947, affirming, D. C., 33 F.2d 345.

52. Kan.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. New Era Milling Co., 100 P. 273, 79 Kan. 435.
Pa—Borda v. Philadelphia, etc, R. Co, 21 A. 665, 141 Pa. 484.
10 C.J. p 490 note 76.

Location of plant
The advantage in rates which comes to a shipper merely as a result of the location of his plant does not constitute an illegal preference.
U.S.—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., Miss, 44 S.Ct. 189, 263 U S. 515, 68 L.Ed 417.
Ill—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 173 N.E 804, 342 Ill. 11.

53. Okl—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry Co v. State, 206 P. 236, 85 Okl 223
10 C J. p 491 note 81

This Corpus Juris text has been quoted with full approval in Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. State, 206 P. 236, 85 Okl. 223.

54. U S.—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R Co, Miss, 44 S Ct. 189, 263 U S 515, 68 L Ed. 417.
Okl—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co v. State, 206 P. 236, 85 Okl. 223.
10 C.J. p 491 note 82.

55. Okl.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. State, supra.
10 C.J. p 491 note 83.

Corporation commission is not prevented from changing a rate which is manifestly discriminatory because such order impairs the general rate scheme, for, if a fixed rate is so discriminatory as to be abusive, it should be corrected.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. State, 206 P. 236, 85 Okl. 223.

No immunity
Where a forbidden discrimination is made, the mere fact that it has been long continued, and that the machinery for making it is in tariff form, cannot clothe it with immunity—Merchants' Warehouse Co. v. U S, Pa., 51 S Ct 505, 283 U S. 501, 75 L Ed. 1227, affirming, D.C., 44 F. 2d 379.

56. U.S.—Allen & Lewis v. Oregon R & Nav. Co, C C.Or., 98 F. 16.
10 C.J p 492 note 83½.

57. Wash.—Public Service Commission of Washington v. State, 204 P. 791, 118 Wash. 629, 25 A L R. 186, affirmed 207 P. 688, 118 Wash. 629, 25 A.L R 186.
10 C J. p 492 note 84.

In establishing rates for carriers, a state public service commission cannot consider the fact that a shipper ships in trainload lots, tending to make the cost of transportation less, since allowing lower rates on a condition which only a few shippers could meet would be an injustice to others.—Public Service Commission of Washington v State, 204 P. 791, 118 Wash. 629 25 A L R. 186, affirmed 207 P. 688, 118 Wash. 629, 25 A.L R. 186.

58. U S.—Hays v. Pennsylvania Co., C C.Ohio, 12 F. 309.

59. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Chicago Great Western R Co., C C Ill, 141 F. 1003, affirmed 28 S Ct. 493, 209 U.S. 108, 52 L.Ed. 705
N H.—Concord, etc., R. Co. v. Forsaith, 59 N H. 122, 47 Am R. 181.
10 C J. p 492 note 86.

60. N Y.—Lough v Outerbridge, 38 N.E. 292, 143 N.Y 271, 42 Am.S R. 712, 25 L R.A. 674, reversing 22 N.Y.S. 976, 68 Hun 486.
10 C J. p 492 note 87.

container in which goods are shipped may justify a discrimination in rates.[61]

Development of new industries. Under some statutes railroads may extend special rates to new industries.[62] However, since such a statute forms an exception to the general rule against discrimination, it can be availed of only in strict conformity with the letter and spirit of the statute.[63] Thus, if the statute so requires, the special rates must be for an agreed number of carloads,[64] or must be submitted to a railroad commission for approval or revision.[65] A new industry within the meaning of statutes of this character is one which is struggling for existence and which does not have an established business.[66]

Difference in cost of transportation. Proportionate difference in cost of transportation is a difference in circumstances warranting a preference in rates,[67] but slight differences in a single item of cost do not justify a difference in freight rates.[68]

Facilities furnished by shipper. Under some statutes a railroad may not apply lower rates to shippers who furnish part of the transportation services. Such statutes are designed to prevent discrimination in rates.[69]

Ownership of goods. A carrier cannot lawfully discriminate in rates for transportation on the mere circumstance that the shipper is or is not the real owner of the goods.[70] The fact that the shipper is merely a forwarding agent furnishes no excuse for discriminating against him in rates charged for transportation.[71]

Purpose or ultimate use. A discrimination in rates between shipments of the same commodity from and to the same points cannot be justified solely by a difference in the purpose of the respective shipments, or the ultimate use to be made of the commodity after completion of the transportation.[72] Under state statutes, however, substantially like the Interstate Commerce Act in this respect, it has been held that a special rate for the transportation of fuel to a manufactory less than the rate charged dealers is not undue or unreasonable discrimination;[73] but the principle involved in so holding has been disapproved and held not to justify a discriminating rate on raw materials shipped to a mill to be manufactured.[74]

§ 378. Charging More for Short than for Long Haul

Under the Interstate Commerce Act and similar state legislation, the charging of more for a short than a long haul is prohibited as unjust discrimination, at least in the absence of special circumstances and permission to make such a charge.

Interstate Commerce Act § 4, 49 U.S.C.A. § 4, makes it unlawful for any common carrier, subject to the provisions of the act, to charge or to receive any greater compensation in the aggregate for the transportation of like kind of property under substantially similar circumstances and conditions for a shorter than for a longer distance over the same line in the same direction, the shorter being included within the longer distance. When both the long and the short haul are made to or from a noncompetitive point, the effect of charging less for a long than for a short haul is to build up one place at the expense of the other,[75] and it is the object of the statute to 61. U.S.—Penn Refining Co. v. Western New York, etc., R. Co., Pa., 28 S.Ct. 268, 208 U.S. 208, 52 L.Ed. 456, affirming 137 F. 343, 70 C.C.A. 23.

10 C.J. p. 492 note 90.

62. Iowa.—Hawkeye Portland Cement Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 201 N.W. 16, 198 Iowa 1250.
Tenn.—New River Lumber Co. v. Tennessee Ry. Co., 238 S.W. 867, 145 Tenn. 266.

63. Iowa.—Hawkeye Portland Cement Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 201 N.W. 16, 198 Iowa 1250.

64. Iowa.—Hawkeye Portland Cement Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., supra.

65. Iowa.—Hawkeye Portland Cement Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., supra.
Tenn.—New River Lumber Co. v. Tennessee Ry. Co., 238 S.W. 867, 145 Tenn. 266.

66. Iowa.—Hawkeye Portland Cement Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 201 N.W. 16, 198 Iowa 1250.

67. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Illinois Commerce Commission, 173 N.E. 804, 342 Ill. 11.
10 C.J. p. 492 note 88.

68. Tex.—Galveston Chamber of Commerce v. Texas R. Commn., Civ.App., 137 S.W. 737.

69. Wis.—Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co. v. Railroad Commission of Wisconsin, 213 N.W. 633, 193 Wis. 538.

70. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., N.Y., 31 S.Ct. 392, 220 U.S. 235, 55 L.Ed. 448.

71. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., N.Y., 31 S.Ct. 392, 220 U.S. 235, 55 L.Ed. 448, reversing 166 F. 499.
10 C.J. p. 492 note 92

72. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., Com.Ct., 32 S.Ct. 742, 225 U.S. 326, 56 L.Ed. 1107, Ann.Cas.1914A 504 and note
10 C.J. p. 492 note 93.

73. Pa.—Hoover v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 27 A. 282, 156 Pa. 220, 36 Am.St.R. 43, 22 L.R.A. 263.
10 C.J. p. 493 note 95

74. N.C.—Hilton Lumber Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 53 S.E. 823, 141 N.C. 171, 6 L.R.A.,N.S., 225, disapproving Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 57 S.W. 508, 108 Ky. 628, 22 Ky.L. 328—Hilton Lumber Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 48 S.E. 813, 136 N.C. 479, 1 Ann.Cas. 52.
Discrimination as to particular commodities generally see supra § 361.

75. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. Ry. Co., C.C.Ga., 56 F. 925—Ex p. Koehler, C.C.Or., 31 F. 315, 12 Sawy. 446.

prevent this.[76] Nevertheless the statute does not prohibit a railroad company from charging a less rate for a longer haul if it can justify that rate by showing that the circumstances and conditions are dissimilar.[77] Where it is difficult to point out clearly the circumstances or conditions which produce dissimilarity, the doubt should go in favor of the law, and the circumstances and conditions should be considered as being substantially similar.[78]

A through rate may be made less than the sum of the local rates between two points without violating any requirement of the Interstate Commerce Act.[79]

Competition is one of the most obvious and effective circumstances that make the conditions under which a long haul and a short haul are performed substantially dissimilar, and a competition which is real and substantial and exercises potential influence on rates to a particular point brings into play the dissimilarity of circumstances and conditions provided by the statute, justifying the lesser charge to the more distant and competitive point than to the nearer and noncompetitive point.[80] The legality of the rate is not destroyed by the mere fact that incidentally the lesser charge to the competitive point may seemingly give a preference to that point, and the greater rate to the noncompetitive point may apparently engender a discrimination against it.[81] It is well settled that the character of competition which will justify a carrier in charging more for a short than for a long haul will also exempt it from liability under the section forbidding the giving of undue preferences or advantages to one shipper or locality over other shippers or other localities.[82]

In respect of the kind of competition to be considered, the meaning of the law is not that one kind of competition can be considered and not another kind, but that all competition can be considered, provided it possesses the attributes of producing a substantial and material effect on traffic and rate making.[83] The competition to be considered is not only that arising by water transportation, but also includes that from common carriers subject to the control of the act to regulate commerce.[84] The fact that the competition did not originate at the initial point of traffic is no reason why it should not be considered.[85] However, the mere fact of competition, irrespective of its character or extent, does not necessarily relieve the carrier from the restraint of the statute.[86] The right of the carrier to take competition into consideration in fixing rates is subject to the limitations fixed by the statute: (1) That all rates shall be just and reasonable and that no undue discrimination shall be brought about.[87] (2) That the competition relied on shall not be artificial or merely conjectural, but material and substantial, thereby operating on the question of traffic and rate making.[88] The right can be exercised only with due regard to the interest of the public, after giving full weight to the benefits to be conferred on the place from whence the traffic moved as well as the benefits to be derived from the locality to which it is to be delivered.[89]

Lines maintaining joint tariff. Where two railroad companies owning connecting lines of road

76. U.S.—Allen & Lewis v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., C.C.Or., 98 F. 16.
Reasonableness of rates higher for short than for long haul see supra § 295.

77. U.S.—Western Paper Makers' Chemical Co. v. U. S., D.C.Mich., 7 F.2d 164.
10 C.J. p. 493 note 5.

Statute not violated

Rail rates established by interstate commerce commission on rosin from points south of the Ohio river to Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids, Mich., were not unjustly discriminatory as against such cities and did not violate the "long and short haul" clause of the Interstate Commerce Act.—Western Paper Makers' Chemical Co. v. U. S., D.C.Mich., 7 F.2d 164.

78. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., C.C.La., 31 F. 862.

79. U.S.—Parsons v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., Iowa, 17 S.Ct. 887, 167 U.S. 447, 42 L.Ed. 231, affirming, C.C.A., 63 F. 903—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Osborne, Iowa, 52 F. 912, 3 C.C.A. 347.

80. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Louisville & N. R. Co. Ala., 23 S.Ct. 687, 190 U.S. 273, 47 L.Ed. 1047.
10 C.J. p. 493 note 7, p. 494 note 8.

81. U.S.—East Tennessee, V. & G. R. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commn., Tenn., 21 S.Ct. 516, 181 U.S. 1, 45 L.Ed. 719.

82. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Alabama Midland R. Co., Ala., 18 S.Ct. 45, 168 U.S. 144, 42 L.Ed. 414, affirming 74 F. 715, 21 C.C.A. 51.
10 C.J. p. 494 note 10.

83. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Behlmer, S.C., 20 S.Ct. 209, 175 U.S. 648, 670, 44 L.Ed. 309.

84. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Behlmer, S.C., 20 S.Ct. 209, 175 U.S. 648, 44 L.Ed. 309—Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Alabama Midland R. Co., Ala., 18 S.Ct. 45, 168 U.S. 144, 42 L.Ed. 414.
10 C.J. p. 494 note 12.

85. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Behlmer, S.C., 20 S.Ct. 209, 175 U.S. 648, 44 L.Ed. 309, reversing 83 F. 898, 28 C.C.A. 229.

86. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Alabama Midland R. Co. Ala., 18 S.Ct. 45, 168 U.S. 144, 42 L.Ed. 414.

87. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Behlmer, S.C., 20 S.Ct. 209, 175 U.S. 648, 44 L.Ed. 309, reversing 83 F. 898, 28 C.C.A. 229.

88. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., Ala., 23 S.Ct. 687, 190 U.S. 273, 47 L.Ed. 1047.
10 C.J. p. 495 note 16.

89. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Behlmer, S.C., 20 S.Ct. 209, 175 U.S. 648, 674, 44 L.Ed. 309, reversing 83 F. 898, 28 C.C.A. 229.

unite in a joint through tariff, they form for the connected roads a new and independent line, and the through tariff on the joint line is not the standard by which the separate tariff of either company is to be measured in determining whether such separate tariff violates the provision which forbids greater compensation for a short than for a long haul.[90] The portion of a through rate received by one of several railroad companies operating under the conditions mentioned for transporting goods as interstate commerce may be less than its local rate without a violation of this section.[91] It is not to be understood, however, that, when two companies by their joint tariff make a new and independent line, such line may not become subject to the long and short haul clause.[92] On the contrary, where a state railroad company whose road lies wholly within the limits of the state enters into the carriage of foreign freight by agreeing to receive the goods by virtue of foreign through bills of lading and to participate in through rates and charges, it thereby becomes a part of a continuous line, not made by a consolidation with the foreign companies, but by an arrangement for the continuous carriage or shipment from one state to another, and thus becomes amenable to the long and short haul clause of the Interstate Commerce Act.[93]

Permission from interstate commerce commission. Under Interstate Commerce Act § 4, 49 U.S.C.A. § 4, as amended, the prohibition against charging more for a short than a long haul is absolute unless application has been made to the commission to be relieved from the effect of the prohibition and such leave is granted.[94] Under this statute the right of carriers to seek and obtain under authorized circumstances the sanction of the commission to charge a lower rate for a long than for a short haul because of competition, or for other adequate reasons, is expressly preserved;[95] and as a correlative the authority of the commission to grant on request the right sought is made by the statute to depend on the facts established and the judgment of that body in the exercise of a sound legal discretion as to whether the request should be granted compatibly with a due consideration of the private and public interests concerned, and in view of the preference and discrimination clauses of the act.[96]

Under state statutes. In several states there are statutes which in terms or effect are similar to the short and long haul clause of the Interstate Commerce Act. The purpose of these statutes, which have generally been upheld,[97] is to prevent unjust discrimination in the matter of rates,[98] and the exaction of a greater charge for a lesser service in violation thereof is a form of unjust discrimination or undue preference specifically prohibited.[99] Statutes of this character have been held to be applicable even though the

90. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Osborne, Iowa, 52 F. 912, 3 C.C.A. 347, reversing, C.C., 48 F. 49

91. U.S.—Parsons v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., Iowa, 17 S.Ct. 887, 167 U.S. 447, 42 L.Ed. 231, affirming, C.C.A., 63 F. 903—Allen v. Oregon R. & Nav. Co., C.C.Or., 98 F. 16—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Osborne, Iowa, 52 F. 912, 3 C.C.A. 347, reversing, C.C., 48 F. 49.
10 C.J. p. 495 note 26.

92. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Osborne, Iowa, 52 F. 912, 3 C.C.A. 347.

93. U.S.—Cincinnati, N. O. & T. P. Ry. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commn., Ga., 16 S.Ct. 700, 162 U.S. 184, 40 L.Ed. 935, affirming 9 C.C.A. 689, reversing, C.C., 56 F. 925.
10 C.J. p. 495 note 28

94. Ohio—New York, C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Miller City Tile Co., 19 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 244
10 C.J. p. 495 note 22.

Prior to amendment

(1) Prior to the amendment of the Interstate Commerce Act by the act of June 18, 1910, it was well settled that, when the circumstances and the conditions were such as to justify it, the carrier could charge more for the short than for the long haul, without first obtaining leave from the commission.—East Tennessee, V. & G. Ry. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commn., Tenn., 21 S.Ct. 516, 181 U.S. 1, 45 L.Ed. 719, reversing 99 F. 52, 39 C.C.A. 413, which affirmed, C.C., 85 F. 107—10 C.J. p. 495 note 18.

(2) The carrier could do so even though the commission had made an order forbidding the charge in the particular case.—Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Alabama Midland R. Co., Ala., 18 S.Ct. 45, 168 U.S. 144, 42 L.Ed. 414—Brewer v. Central of Georgia R. Co., C.C.Ga., 84 F. 258.

(3) In so doing the carrier judged for itself on peril of the consequences.—Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Alabama Midland R. Co., supra.

(4) When, however, its action was challenged in the courts, it could justify itself by showing a substantial dissimilarity of circumstances and conditions within the meaning of the act.—Detroit, G. H. & M. Ry. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commn., Mich., 74 F. 803, 21 C.C.A. 103.

95. U.S.—U. S. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., Com.Ct., 34 S.Ct. 986, 234 U.S. 476, 58 L.Ed. 1408.

96. U.S.—U. S. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., supra.

97. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. McGrew Coal Co., Mo., 37 S.Ct. 518, 244 U.S. 191, 61 L.Ed. 1075.
10 C.J. p. 495 note 29.

Implied repeal

Statute which prohibits greater charge for short than for longer haul in any direction held impliedly repealed by Public Service Commission Act, Rev.St.1919 §§ 9974, 9986, 10456, which provides that where the commission shall be of opinion, after a hearing, that the rates are unjustly discriminatory, the commission shall determine the just and reasonable rates, fares, and charges to be thereafter observed and in force.—McGrew Coal Co. v. Mellon, 287 S.W. 450, 315 Mo. 798, certiorari denied 47 S.Ct. 456, 273 U.S. 752, 71 L.Ed. 874.

98. Ohio—Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, 191 N.E. 467, 128 Ohio St. 388

99. Cal.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Railroad Commission, 298 P. 991, 212 Cal. 370.
Ohio—Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, 191 N.E. 467, 128 Ohio St. 388.

carrier does not actually carry any freight the greater distance.[1] In construing these provisions, it is generally held that honest and substantial competition of rival carriers will justify a charge of a less amount for a long than for a short haul,[2] at least where permission is obtained from the state commission.[3] As regards the character of the competition, water competition as well as that of rival railway companies may be considered.[4] These provisions apply where the transportation is over the same road, but not where the two hauls are over different lines operated by different corporations, although both have common offices;[5] and where the prohibition is limited to cases where the short is included in the long haul, it does not apply where the long haul is on the main line and the short haul is partly on a branch line.[6] However, the prohibition is not limited to cases where the freight is being transported between the same points.[7]

A through rate may be made less than the sum of the local rates between two points without violating any requirement of a state constitutional clause providing that all railroad companies shall transport freight of the same class for all persons from and to the same points and on the same conditions and in the same manner and for the same charges. Were it otherwise, all through freight would have to be hauled at the local rates.[8]

Where the statute so provides, a special commission has jurisdiction to deal with violations of a long and short haul provision in a state constitution.[9]

§ 379. Rebates

Generally rebates which effect an unreasonable discrimination are illegal, as are any rebates not provided for in the published tariff.

As already discussed in § 376, there are a limited number of decisions which take the view that a common carrier is not bound to treat all shippers equally in the matter of rates charged for transportation; that there is nothing in the common law to hinder a carrier from transporting freight for favored individuals at an unreasonable rate or even free of charge; and that all that the common law required was that the carrier should not charge other shippers more than was reasonable. However, as was also shown in that section, the weight of authority is decidedly against this doctrine, the view being taken that at common law the carrier is bound to carry at an equal rate for all customers for substantially similar services and under substantially similar conditions. In jurisdictions where the first of these views prevails, in the absence of statute providing otherwise, the giving of a rebate to a shipper by a carrier is not unlawful, as long as the charges against other shippers are not unreasonable and in no way increased by the rebate given to the favored shipper.[10] In jurisdictions where the majority view prevails, a rebate allowed by a carrier on the regular tariff of rates to one shipper is an unjust discrimination, at common law, against others shipping the same class of goods under the same conditions at the regular rate without rebate.[11] Even where this view prevails, the giving of a rebate to a shipper is not necessarily illegal, as the services may not be substantially similar or rendered under substantially similar conditions. In other words, the giving of a rebate, to be illegal, must be an unfair and unjust discrimination in favor of the shipper against the general public.[12]

Under Interstate Commerce Act. Rebates to one class of shippers over another, or to one shipper over another of the same class, are prohibited by the Interstate Commerce Act[13] Thus, under

1. Mo.—Cohn v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 79 S.W. 961, 181 Mo. 30—Seawell v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 24 S.W. 1002, 119 Mo. 222.

2. U.S.—Ex p. Koehler, C.C.Or., 23 F. 529, 533
Mo.—Cohn v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 133 S.W. 59, 151 Mo.App. 661.

3. Ky.—Hutchison v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 57 S.W. 251, 103 Ky. 615, 22 Ky.L. 361.
10 C.J. p. 496 note 32.

4. Mo.—Cohn v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 133 S.W. 59, 151 Mo.App. 661
10 C.J. p. 496 note 33.

5. Mo.—Darlington Lumber Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 147 S.W. 1052, 243 Mo. 224.

6. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Walker, 63 S.W. 30, 110 Ky. 961, 23 Ky.Law 453.

7. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Kuteman, 14 S.W. 693, 79 Tex. 465.

8. Ky.—Southern R. Co. v. Com., 77 S.W. 207, 116 Ky. 907, 25 Ky.Law 1078.
10 C.J. p. 493 note 98.

9. Wash.—Belcher v. Tacoma Eastern R. Co., 168 P. 782, 99 Wash. 34.

10. S.C.—Ex p. Benson, 18 S.C. 38, 44 Am.R. 564.
10 C.J. p. 496 note 43.

11. Iowa.—Cook v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 46 N.W. 1080, 81 Iowa 551, 25 Am.S.R. 512, 9 L.R.A. 764.

12. N.Y.—Root v. Long Island R. Co., 21 N.E. 403, 114 N.Y. 300, 11 Am.S.R. 643, 4 L.R.A. 331.
10 C.J. p. 496 note 45.

Switching movements

In the absence of state statute prohibiting it, the parties may agree, so far as intra-state shipments are concerned, that the line freight rate shall include the service of moving the cars in and about the plant of the shipper as required, and that the carrier shall employ the shipper to use the latter's equipment for such service and pay or allow the latter a reasonable compensation therefor.—Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co. v. South Shore R. Co., 107 A. 680, 264 Pa. 162.

13. Miss.—Pitman v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co., 158 So. 547, 171 Miss. 799.

§ 2 of the Act, rebates are illegal as a device whereby one person is charged less than another for a like service,[14] and § 3 of the Act is violated if the rebate gives an undue preference to one person and subjects another similarly situated to an unreasonable prejudice.[15] Other provisions of the act are transgressed if the rebate constitutes a deviation from the published tariff,[16] in force at the time the charges were incurred.[17] Such rebates and the special privileges granted through them are violative of the act although they are disguised as other transactions,[18] and it is im-

Validity of contract

(1) Railroad's contract for construction of logging road to main line junction, and to transport goods at certain rate, if construed as giving logging company right to part of through rate allowed railroad for originating business would give it an undue and forbidden preference in violation of the federal laws, and should not be enforced.—Carolina Spruce Co. v. Black Mountain R. Co., 201 S.W. 154, 139 Tenn 137, error dismissed 39 S.Ct. 184, 248 U.S. 597, 63 L.Ed. 439.

(2) The fact that the original Interstate Commerce Act, which made rebates unlawful, did not prescribe any punishment for a shipper who accepted rebates, does not affect the application of the construction of that act as not invalidating the contract of carriage because of the rebate provision to contracts made under subsequent amendments which did impose punishment on the shipper.—Adams Express Co. v. Darden, C.C.A.Tenn., 286 F. 61, affirmed 44 S.Ct. 502, 265 U.S. 265, 68 L.Ed. 1010

14. U.S.—Merchants' Warehouse Co. v. U. S., Pa., 51 S.Ct. 505, 283 U.S. 501, 75 L.Ed. 1227, affirming, D.C., 44 F.2d 379.

Exclusive allowance to warehouse

A carrier's making of an exclusive allowance to a warehouse for the performance of terminal services in loading and unloading carload package freight has been held void as a rebate in violation of 49 U.S.C.A. § 2, where the warehouse and its patrons were thereby benefited and where it constituted a device by which the carrier indirectly received from them a less compensation for its services than received from other persons under substantially the same circumstances.—Terminal Warehouse Co. of Baltimore City v. U. S., D.C.Md., 31 F.2d 951.

15. U.S.—Merchants' Warehouse Co. v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 44 F.2d 379, affirmed 51 S.Ct. 505, 283 U.S. 501, 75 L.Ed. 1227.

16. U.S.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. U. S., N.Y., 37 S.Ct. 434, 243 U.S. 444, 61 L.Ed. 839, affirming, D.C., U. S. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 222 F. 685

N.Y.—Spencer, Kellogg & Sons v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 195 N.Y.S. 69, 119 Misc. 174, affirmed 197 N.Y.S. 380, 204 App.Div. 243.

Pa.—Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co. v. South Shore R. Co., 107 A. 680, 264 Pa. 162.

10 C.J. p 496 note 47 [a].

Borrowing from railroad

Fact that shipper sold ties to railway at market prices and borrowed money from railway at usual interest did not show violation of Elkins Act which prohibits rebates by which freight is transported at less than the rate specified in the published tariffs.—Southwestern Lumber Co. of New Jersey v. Kerr, D.C.Tex., 11 F.Supp. 253, affirmed, C.C.A., Kerr v. Southwestern Lumber Co. of New Jersey, 78 F.2d 348, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 130, 296 U.S. 611, 80 L.Ed. 433.

Corporations forwarding goods for importers from Europe to United States, charging for their transportation, etc., way not be allowed by railroad percentage on latter's published rates and a salary for shipping by its line without violating Act Febr. 4, 1887 § 6, as amended by Act June 29, 1906 § 2, and are not justified by § 15 of the earlier act as amended by § 4 of the later act.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. U. S., N.Y., 37 S.Ct. 434, 243 U.S. 444, 61 L.Ed. 839, affirming, D.C., U. S. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 222 F. 685

Switching charges

(1) Where no provision is made therefor in the tariff the carrier cannot under the Interstate Commerce Act contract to pay or give an allowance for switching services rendered by the shipper which the carrier had contracted to furnish as a part of the service covered by the line freight rate

U.S.—Pan American Petroleum Corporation v. U. S., D.C.La. & Tex., 18 F.Supp. 624.

Pa.—Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co. v. South Shore R. Co., 107 A. 680, 681, 264 Pa. 162.

(2) The Chicago Joint Minimum Switching Tariff, which became effective Nov. 1, 1898, relating to absorption of switching charges and rebates, had no relevancy to switching charges on inbound shipments from the line of a Western road and did not authorize rebates with respect thereto.—Pennsylvania Co. v. U. S., Ill., 257 F. 261, 168 C.C.A. 345

17. U.S.—Pennsylvania Co. v. U. S., supra.

18. U.S.—Kerr v. Southwestern Lumber Co. of New Jersey, C.C.A.Tex., 78 F.2d 348, affirming, D.C., Southwestern Lumber Co. of New Jersey v. Kerr, 11 F.Supp. 253, and certiorari denied Kerr v. Southwestern Lumber Co. of New Jersey, 56 S.Ct. 130, 296 U.S. 611, 80 L.Ed. 433.—American Smelting & Refining Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., Neb., 256 F. 737, 168 C.C.A. 83.

Pa.—State Line & S. R. Co. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 120 A. 829, 277 Pa. 227.

10 C.J. p 497 note 51.

Allowances to shipper's tap line

Where the interstate commerce commission, to prevent unjust discrimination in favor of shippers owning tap lines connecting their plants with main railroad lines, by means of an unfair division of the through rate over the two lines, fixed amounts receivable by the tap lines based on mileage, it did not act arbitrarily and unreasonably in refusing to include the back haul from the mill to a track scale, where it found that a greater allowance would result in unjust discrimination, that the evidence did not show that it was necessary that the shipments be weighed by the tap line, rather than by the trunk line, and that the allowing of a larger division of the through rate would place the owner of the tap line in a more advantageous position than other tap lines performing a similar service, and open the way for the relocation of other track scales, so as to require a long back haul and lay a basis for rebates.—Louisiana & P. B. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Ark., 42 S.Ct. 25, 257 U.S. 114, 66 L.Ed. 156, affirming, D.C., 274 F. 372.

Agreement to give bonus

Carrier's agreement to give a lumber company bonus equal to one half of amount of freight bills, in consideration of which lumber company constructed mills which would greatly increase freight business and result in building of town, violated Interstate Commerce Act §§ 2, 3, 6, as amended by Elkins and Hepburn Acts, prohibiting preferences, rebates, concessions, or discriminations in freight rates; and the carrier, by calling itself a promoter and the rebate a bonus, could not evade the statute.—Foster Lumber Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 194 S.W. 281, 270 Mo. 629, L.R.A.1918A 768.

Leases

(1) A lease of a factory site, given by a carrier to a shipper in consideration for the shipment of goods over its lines, is a bonus or benefit, material whether the allowance takes the form of a deduction or a cross payment.[19] Rebates cannot be justified by the mere wording of the shipping documents,[20] nor can the doctrine of estoppel be invoked to require the carrier to comply with an agreement to pay an illegal rebate.[21]

On the other hand, the word "rebate," as found in the Interstate Commerce Act, is used in an offensive sense, and refers only to such discount, deduction, or drawback as is the basis of a discrimination in favor of a particular person and against other persons in a like situation, and destroys that equality of treatment in rates to which the public is entitled and which it is the purpose of the law to enforce; an undiscriminatory rebate is not a criminal offense, nor is it in any way prohibited.[22] In fact, in accordance with § 15 (13) of the Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 15 (13),[23] a carrier may lawfully compensate a shipper or forwarder of goods for transportation services rendered to the carrier[24] and such an allowance when made which is illegal under Interstate Commerce Act § 2 and the Elkins Act.—Central of Georgia Ry Co. v Blount, Ga., 238 F. 292, 151 C.C.A. 308

(2) Where a lease of a railroad for a stipulated rent provided that the lessee would transport coal mined by lessor for a sliding rate per ton, depending on the quantity transported, and that, if the quantity exceeded one hundred thousand tons in any year, the lessee would pay five cents per ton on all the coal transported, it was held that this was clearly a rebate, and not an additional rent, and the parties by their interpretation could not alter this fact, nor make that legal which was illegal by calling it by another name, for it is only where the meaning of a contract is uncertain or ambiguous that the parties' interpretation is followed.—State Line & S. R. Co. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 120 A. 829, 277 Pa. 227.

(3) A provision in a lease of land by an interstate railroad company for a smelter plant site, by which in consideration of the rental, etc., it agreed to do intraplant switching of cars, wholly disconnected from their transportation over its road, free of charge, was not invalid as a device to cover the giving of rebates—American Smelting & Refining Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., Neb., 256 F. 737, 168 C.C.A. 83.

Settlement of disputed claim

(1) A carrier's agreement to pay a certain amount in settlement of a disputed claim for negligence, in consideration of future interstate shipments over its road, was violative of the law against rebating—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Landa & Storey, Tex.Civ.App., 187 S.W. 358

(2) On the other hand, a shipper's claim for reasonable value of lumber provided by him for cooperage of cars furnished for intra-state shipment of grain, with approval of carrier's agent after its failure to provide such lumber, as required by its duly published tariff rule, being for amount which carrier would have had to expend, will not effect a discrimination or tend to destroy uniformity of rates—Gibbon Farmers' Elevator Co. v Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 170 N.W. 706, 142 Minn. 57

19. U.S.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v U. S., N.Y., 37 S.Ct. 434, 243 U.S. 444, 61 L.Ed. 839, affirming, D.C., U. S. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 222 F. 685.

20. U.S.—Merchants' Warehouse Co. v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 44 F.2d 379, affirmed 51 S.Ct. 505, 283 U.S. 501, 75 L.Ed. 1227.

21. Tex.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry Co. v Landa & Storey, Civ.App., 187 S.W. 358.

22. U.S.—American Sugar Refining Co. v Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., N.J., 207 F. 733, 125 C.C.A. 251.

Rebates to subcontractor

A contract providing for a refund by the carrier to a subcontractor working for it of freight charges and fares paid on laborers engaged in the work is not within either the letter or the spirit of the provisions prohibiting unfair discrimination or rebates.—Baker v. J. W. McMurry Contracting Co., 223 S.W. 45, 282 Mo. 685.

23. U.S.—O'Keefe v U. S., La., 36 S.Ct. 313, 240 U.S. 294, 60 L.Ed. 651—Louisville Cement Co. v. U. S., D.C.Ky., 19 F.Supp. 910.

After end of transportation

An allowance to a consignee for services rendered after delivery has been made and the transportation is at an end, constitutes an unlawful rebate.—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. General Electric Co., 114 N.E. 115, 219 N.Y. 227, 1 A.L.R. 1417, reversing 153 N.Y.S. 478, 167 App.Div. 726, which reversed 146 N.Y.S. 322, 83 Misc. 529, and certiorari denied General Electric Co. v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 37 S.Ct. 400, 243 U.S. 636, 61 L.Ed. 941.

"Connected with" defined

The phrase "connected with," as used in this provision, is a synonym of a "part of it," and does not mean something in addition to transportation that touches or is attached to transportation.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v General Electric Co., 146 N.Y.S. 322, 83 Misc. 529, reversed on other grounds 153 N.Y.S. 478, 167 App.Div. 726.

"Transportation" defined

Term "transportation" as used in statute permitting payment by carriers to shippers for performing transportation service includes delivery, but does not contemplate either loading or unloading.—Louisville Cement Co. v. U. S., D.C.Ky., 19 F. Supp. 910.

24. U.S.—Merchants' Warehouse Co. v U. S., Pa., 51 S.Ct. 505, 283 U.S. 501, 75 L.Ed. 1227, affirming, D.C., 44 F.2d 379—Terminal Warehouse Co. of Baltimore City v U. S., D.C.Md., 31 F.2d 951—American Trucking Ass'ns v U. S., D.C.D.C., 17 F.Supp. 655—American Sheet & Tin Plate Co. v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 15 F.Supp. 711

N.Y.—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co v. General Electric Co., 114 N.E. 115, 219 N.Y. 227, 1 A.L.R. 1417, reversing 153 N.Y.S. 478, 167 App. Div. 726, which reversed 146 N.Y.S. 322, 83 Misc. 529, and certiorari denied General Electric Co. v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 37 S.Ct. 400, 243 U.S. 636, 61 L.Ed. 941.

N.D.—Knapp v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co., 156 N.W. 1019, 33 N.D. 291.

The test of the right of a shipper to compensation for services rendered is whether there was a reasonable and proper basis for the performance of the services, and there was such basis when the shipper loaded goods which it was the carrier's duty to load under its published tariff, on the carrier's suggestion that, because of labor shortage due to the war, there would otherwise occur delay in loading.—U. S. ex rel. Members of Waste Merchants' Ass'n of New York, Voluntary Ass'n, v Interstate Commerce Commission, 277 F. 538, 51 App.D.C. 136, reversed on other grounds Interstate Commerce Commission, v. U. S. ex rel. Members of Waste Merchants' Ass'n of New York, 43 S.Ct. 6, 260 U.S. 32, 67 L.Ed. 112

Hauling wheat across frozen lake

Where a lake over which the railroad customarily furnishes barge service to haul goods to the point where its line commences has been frozen, the carrier may properly agree, under the Interstate Commerce to all shippers alike, without discrimination, and in strict accordance with the published schedules, is not a rebate offensive either to the common law or to the statute.[25] The interstate commerce commission has authority to inquire into the reasonableness and propriety of such allowances for services,[26] but it may not allow compensation in one case and withhold it in another, where similar services have been performed, as, of course, this would constitute a discrimination in favor of one shipper and against another.[27] Of course, a common carrier which is not subject to the Interstate Commerce Act is not prevented by such act from giving rebates.[28]

Under State Legislation. Statutes exist in the several states under which the giving of a rebate to a shipper on the regular rate paid by other shippers for like services under similar circumstances is illegal,[29] and under such statutes rebates are illegal whether accomplished indirectly or directly.[30] The mere giving of a rebate is not necessarily illegal, however, since the services may not be substantially similar or rendered under substantially similar conditions.[31] A carrier, under such Act, to pay the shipper the cost of the barge service for hauling the shipment across the ice. The general agent of the carrier has ostensible authority to agree to such an allowance.—Knapp v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co., 156 N.W. 1019, 33 N.D. 291.

Pick-up and delivery service

Where the tariff provides for pick-up and delivery service as a part of the transportation service, the carrier may lawfully, where the tariff so provides, make an allowance to consignors and consignees who themselves perform the pick-up and delivery service without violating the provision of the Interstate Commerce Act against rebates.—American Trucking Ass'ns v. U. S., D.C.D.C., 17 F.Supp. 655.

Services rendered by warehouses in distributing and assembling package carload freight were not transportation services for which carriers could lawfully compensate.—Merchants' Warehouse Co. v. U. S., Pa., 51 S.Ct. 505, 283 U.S. 501, 75 L.Ed. 1227, affirming, D.C., 44 F.2d 379

Spotting service

Where the work in transporting, switching, and spotting cars within industrial plants is part of the transportation service a carrier is bound to perform, it may lawfully contract with the proprietors of the plants to perform such work and make them reasonable allowances therefor in the tariffs.—Pan American Petroleum Corporation v. U. S., D.C.La.& Tex., 18 F.Supp. 624—American Sheet & Tin Plate Co. v. U. S., D.C.Pa., 15 F.Supp. 711.

Switching services

An allowance by a railway company to a shipper of a switching charge for switching done by the shipper, which barely covered the cost of the service rendered, was legitimate and proper, and the fact that the shipper, in rendering such service, used the track of another railroad company, which he had acquired the right to use instead of building a spur track of his own, does not affect the legitimacy of the charge.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Thompson, C.C.A.La., 288 F. 167.

25. U.S.—American Trucking Ass'ns v. U. S., D.C.D.C., 17 F.Supp. 655—American Sheet & Tin Plate Co. v. U.S., D.C.Pa., 15 F.Supp. 711.
10 C.J. p. 497 note 53

26. U.S.—O'Keefe v. U. S., La., 36 S.Ct. 313, 240 U.S. 294, 60 L.Ed. 651—Louisville Cement Co. v. U. S., D.C.Ky., 19 F.Supp. 910

Spotting service

(1) In determining whether shipper was entitled to allowance from carrier for performance of terminal services known as "spotting," interstate commerce commission had authority to determine where transportation by carrier under line haul charge ended.—Louisville Cement Co. v. U. S., D.C.Ky., 19 F.Supp. 910

(2) The commission was not required to determine whether shipper on changing method of receiving and delivering freight would be entitled to payment of allowance by carrier for spotting service until such changes had been made by shipper.—Louisville Cement Co. v. U. S., supra.

(3) A decision of the commission, however, ordering carrier to discontinue payment of allowance to shipper for spotting service would not preclude shipper from subsequently applying for an allowance under different facts.—Louisville Cement Co. v. U. S., supra.

27. D.C.—U. S. ex rel. Members of Waste Merchants' Ass'n of New York, Voluntary Ass'n, v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 277 F. 538, 51 App.D.C. 136, reversed on other grounds Interstate Commerce Commission v. U. S. ex rel. Members of Waste Merchants' Ass'n of New York, 43 S.Ct. 6, 260 U.S. 32, 67 L.Ed. 112.

28. N.Y.—Spencer, Kellogg & Sons v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 197 N.Y.S. 380, 204 App.Div. 243, affirming 195 N.Y.S. 69, 119 Misc. 174, affirmed 199 N.Y.S. 951, 206 App.Div. 735.

Elevator company

(1) Although when elevator service is rendered by a railroad in connection with transportation such service is subject to the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act against giving rebates, where such service is rendered by an independent contractor it is not rendered by the railroad within the meaning of the act. Accordingly, under a tariff schedule providing that the elevator company would retain the entire amount received from the railroad, a rebate by the elevator company will not constitute a violation of the act on the part of the railroad.—Spencer, Kellogg & Sons v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 197 N.Y.S. 380, 204 App.Div. 243, affirming 195 N.Y.S. 69, 119 Misc. 174, affirmed 199 N.Y.S. 951, 206 App.Div. 735.

(2) Under such circumstances, where a railroad company's schedule of rates, as filed with the interstate commerce commission, included a charge for elevation and transfer of grain from vessels to cars, a promise by an elevator owner that such charge, when paid to such owner, would be retained, and that no part would be given to any one having an ownership interest in the grain, made with the reservation that such promise was subject to cancellation on written notice, was not violated by giving a special rate or rebate to a forwarding agent, after notice had been given withdrawing the promise.—Spencer, Kellogg & Sons v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., supra.

29. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Whelen Springs Gravel Co., 49 S.W.2d 374, 185 Ark. 669, certiorari denied 53 S.Ct. 87, 287 U.S. 638, 77 L.Ed. 553.
N.J.—National Radiator Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 143 A. 85, 6 N.J. Misc. 778
10 C.J. p. 498 note 54.

30. Mich.—Federal Gravel Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 226 N.W. 677, 248 Mich. 49.

31. Ill.—Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Elliott, 76 Ill. 67, distinguished in Indianapolis, etc., R. Co. v. Ervin, 8 N.E. 862, 118 Ill. 250, 59 Am.R. 369.

statutes, may also allow compensation to the shipper for services rendered to the carrier, provided such compensation fairly represents the cost of the service,[32] but an allowance to a consignee for services rendered after delivery has been made and the transportation has ended, constitutes an unlawful rebate.[33]

§ 380. Free Cartage or Storage, and Franks

The giving of free storage or franks constitutes unjust discrimination, but the giving of free cartage does not.

A railroad company does not violate Interstate Commerce Act §§ 4, 6, 49 U.S.C.A. §§ 4, 6, by furnishing cartage free of charge to merchants in one town on its line and not furnishing similar services to the merchants of another town in the vicinity.[34]

Free storage. Storage is an instrument of transportation,[35] and a railroad is bound to collect storage charges which are properly due.[36]

Franks. The giving of free transportation of personal packages to officers, employees, and members of their families, and to the officers of other transportation companies and members of their families, in exchange for passes issued by the latter to the officers of the express companies, is in violation of the Hepburn Law, which forbids all transportation of property at less than the published rates, and the giving or receiving of any concession, rebate, or discrimination with respect to the transmission of any property in interstate or foreign commerce.[37]

§ 381. Milling in Transit

In granting the privilege of milling in transit, carriers may not discriminate unreasonably between markets or individuals.

The right to stop the shipment of a commodity in transit for the purpose of treatment is in the nature of a special privilege which the carrier may concede,[38] but to which shippers are not entitled Mo.—American Cent Ins Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 74 Mo.App. 89.

10 C.J. p 498 note 55.

32. Wis.—Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co. v. Public Service Commission, 246 N.W. 428, 210 Wis. 644.

Submission to commission

(1) In the absence of statutory requirement, such a contract need not be filed with or passed on by a state public service commission.
U.S.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Thompson, C.C.A.La., 288 F. 167.
Wis.—Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co. v. Public Service Commission, 246 N.W. 428, 210 Wis. 644.

(2) Indeed, under some statutes it is not a matter over which the commission has jurisdiction, except as it may affect the through rate.—Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co. v. Public Service Commission, supra.

(3) A carrier which has filed a tariff allowing the shipper a certain amount for terminal services is entitled to cancel the arrangement, in its discretion, since the arrangement is by law made an entirely voluntary one which the carrier could not be compelled to enter into.—Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co. v. Public Service Commission, supra.

(4) In such a case it is the duty of the state commission to file and approve a canceling tariff although the carrier may thereby render itself liable to the shipper for breach of contract.—Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co. v. Public Service Commission, supra.

Rental for facilities

Under a statute providing that a carrier shall not collect or receive less compensation for the transportation of any property or for any service in consideration of said shipper furnishing any part of the facilities incident thereto, "but that any railroad may rent any facilities incident to transportation and pay a reasonable rental therefor," a contract whereby a shipper agrees to furnish the necessary switch engines and crews to do terminal switching, and the carrier agrees to pay a specified rate for the switching, is a valid contract. The validity of such a contract, or the right to enter into the same, is not affected by a subsequent amendment to the statute providing, "but no payment shall be made by any carrier to an industry for performing any part of the service incident to the origination or determination of carload line haul shipments which the carriers have assumed to perform under the provisions of the bill of lading." The word "facilities," as used before the amendment, had a plain and unambiguous meaning. It included a switch engine and the service of a crew. This meaning still attaches, for, where a statute uses a word or phrase having a definite meaning, it will be presumed to be used in that sense and will be so construed unless it clearly appears that it was not so intended. Such an amendment does not change the right of rental of tangible things owned by the shipper and incident to transportation, things which may be readily measured, but does forbid the paying for services elusive in nature and capable of assisting in evasions or resulting in discrimination between shippers.—Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co. v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. R. Co., 259 N.W. 618, 620, 217 Wis. 426

33. N.Y.—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. General Electric Co., 114 N.E. 115, 219 N.Y. 227, 1 A.L.R. 1417, reversing 153 N.Y.S. 478, 167 App.Div. 726, which reversed 146 N.Y.S. 322, 83 Misc. 529, and certiorari denied General Electric Co. v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 37 S.Ct. 400, 243 U.S. 636, 61 L.Ed. 941.

34. U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Detroit, G. H. & M. R. Co., Mich., 17 S.Ct. 986, 167 U.S. 633, 644, 42 L.Ed. 306, affirming 74 F. 803, 21 C.C.A. 103.
10 C.J. p 500 note 73.

35. Ala.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Patterson, 60 So. 465, 6 Ala.App. 494.

36. Mass.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 116 N.E. 260, 226 Mass. 509

Where under the filed regulations the carrier is to make a reasonable charge for storage pending delivery to the consignee, he cannot agree with a particular shipper or consignee to hold the goods gratuitously pending delivery
U.S.—Southern R. Co. v. Prescott, S.C., 36 S.Ct. 469, 240 U.S. 632, 60 L.Ed. 836.
Ala.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Patterson, 60 So. 465, 6 Ala.App. 494

37. U.S.—American Express Co. v. U.S., Ill., 29 S.Ct. 315, 212 U.S. 522, 53 L.Ed. 635, affirming, C.C., U.S. v. Wells Fargo Express Co., 161 F. 606.

38. U.S.—Southern R. Co. v. St.

is a matter of right, as already fully discussed in § 314. In granting the privilege of milling in transit carriers may not discriminate between markets[39] or individual shippers,[40] and if a contract for milling in transit privileges is in material part violative of the Interstate Commerce Act or similar state legislation, the illegal part will vitiate the whole contract and prevent recovery of damages for its breach.[41] However, fair and reasonable discrimination in granting the privilege of milling in transit is not prohibited by the Interstate Commerce Act and similar state legislation,[42] and, so long as there is no unjust discrimination and no stipulation in the contract forbidding the carrier extending similar rates to all other shippers similarly situated, there is nothing unlawful in a milling in transit agreement by which a railroad company contracts to credit on the freight charges on manufactured goods any freight on raw material shipped to the factory.[43] The legality of the principle of milling in transit arrangements being generally recognized, the question whether a particular agreement will be upheld depends on the circumstances of each case.[44]

Under appropriate legislation a state board of railroad commissioners or public service commission is authorized to order the removal of discrimination in granting the privilege of milling in transit, as applied to intra-state commerce.[45]

§ 382. Stoppage in Transit to Test Market

The privilege of stoppage in transit to test the market can be granted only in accordance with tariffs properly filed.

Before a special privilege to stop cattle in transit to test the market en route can be granted by a railroad company it is necessary that the tariffs and schedules pertaining thereto should be filed with the proper authorities and be open to all shippers on equal terms, and where the tariffs filed with the public utilities commission specified the points at which live stock might be stopped in transit to test the market, any special contract enlarging on that privilege, which is not specified in the tariffs, is void.[46]

§ 383. Rebilling Rate

A rebilling rate to be legal must operate uniformly and fairly.

Louis Hay & Grain Co., Ill., 29 S. Ct. 678, 214 U.S. 297, 53 L.Ed. 1004.
Ala.—Priebe v. Southern R. Co., 66 So. 573, 189 Ala. 427.

39. U.S.—Southern R. Co. v. St. Louis Hay & Grain Co., Ill., 29 S. Ct. 678, 214 U.S 297, 53 L.Ed 1004.
Fla.—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R Co., 52 So. 4, 59 Fla. 612

40. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. A. H. Cleaver & Co., 101 So. 597, 211 Ala. 661.
10 C.J. p 499 note 63.

41. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. A. H Cleaver & Co., supra.
10 C.J. p 499 note 64.

Stipulation indorsed on bill of lading covering cotton shipment, in words "to be compressed in transit," was void as to intra-state shipment, in view of Code 1907 § 5531, and void as to interstate shipment, in view of U.S Comp.St. § 8597, as attempted discrimination in favor of particular shipper.—Louisville & N. R. Co v. A H. Cleaver & Co., 101 So 597, 211 Ala. 661.

42. Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission, 192 P. 1075, 112 Wash 520

Preference not unreasonable

Preference, granted by railway to flourmills in Seattle as to milling in transit wheat shipped from points on the railway's lines in Eastern Washington, the finished product to be delivered to points on the railway north and east of Seattle, such privileges being denied to a flourmill at Tacoma was held not to be unreasonable, or the discrimination between the points unjust, grant of the privilege to the Tacoma mill involving a much longer haul, and the conditions governing the two points being entirely different.—State v Public Service Commission, 192 P. 1075, 112 Wash. 520.

43. Miss.—Laurel Cotton Mills v. Gulf, etc, R Co, 37 So. 134, 84 Miss. 339, 66 L.R.A. 453.
10 C.J. p 499 note 66

44. Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission of Washington, 163 P 1143, 95 Wash. 376, affirmed State v. Public Service Commission, 166 P. 793, 95 Wash. 376.
10 C.J. p 499 note 65.

Refund arrangement

Under Pub Acts 1909 No 300 § 11, railroad company's rate on logs, providing for a specified refund on each thousand feet when equal amount of manufactured product was shipped out, was held valid, being proper milling in transit rate and not an illegal rebate or discrimination.—Fletcher Paper Co. v Detroit & M Ry Co, 164 N.W 528, 198 Mich 469, affirmed Detroit & M R Co v Fletcher Paper Co, 39 S.Ct. 13, 248 U.S 30, 63 L.Ed 107.

Option to compress cotton

Where carrier's tariff, published under Interstate Commerce Act § 6, 49 U.S.C.A. § 6, gave carrier option to compress cotton, indorsement on bill of lading of provision for shipment via compress at certain point was a valid and enforceable contract, it not constituting an unjust or undue preference.—M. A. Pharr Cotton Co. v. Davis, 118 S.E. 605, 30 Ga.App. 570.

Ore "to be stopped off . . . for sampling"

A special provision in a shipping bill to the effect that ore was "to be stopped off at Bergen Junction for sampling at Ledoux & Co. works" was in violation of Elkins Act § 1, 32 U.S.St. at L. p 846, as amended by Hepburn Act § 2, 34 U.S.St at L. p 587, Interstate Commerce Act § 3, 24 U.S.St at L. p 380 § 8565, and Elkins Act § 6, as amended by Hepburn Act § 2, where the ore was shipped at the standard rate and such provision did not appear in the bills of lading of other shippers paying the same rate, or in the filed tariffs.—Siebert v. Erie R Co., 179 N.Y.S 136, 189 App.Div. 586

45. S.D.—Chicago, M & St. P. Ry. Co. v Board of Railroad Com'rs, 199 N.W 453, 47 S.D. 395, error dismissed 46 S.Ct. 485, 271 U.S. 645, 70 L.Ed 1129.
Wash.—State v Public Service Commission of Washington, 163 P 1143, 95 Wash. 376, affirmed State v Public Service Commission, 166 P 793, 95 Wash 376.

46. Kan.—Mollohan v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 154 P. 248, 97 Kan. 51.

A true rebilling rate has been defined as one in which goods received in unbroken carload lots can be rebilled over the same or another line completing one continuous trip simply by changing the consignee and altering the destination of the identical shipment without unloading. A rebilling rate to receive the sanction of law must operate uniformly and fairly and must be open to all alike. It cannot lawfully be restricted to shippers who live in a certain locality and who previously received freight over certain other favored associate carriers. While a local railroad's share of an interstate rate may not be a legitimate basis on which a state railroad commission can establish and enforce a low local rate, yet, whenever under the guise or pretense of a rebilling rate some merchants are given a low local rate, the commission is justified in making that rate the rate for all; nor is it bound to inquire whether it furnishes adequate return to the railroad company, for the state may insist on equality being enforced under the same conditions against all who perform a public or quasi public service.[47]

§ 384. - - Other Modes of Discrimination

Any device for charging prohibited discriminatory rates is illegal.

No device to defeat the enactments of congress relative to discriminatory rates can be upheld,[48] and a carrier is guilty of a discrimination within the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act where it indirectly or by any device collects or receives a greater compensation from one person than another for hauling freight under like circumstances.[49] Accordingly a carrier may not work a discrimination by a contract or agreement which might require it to furnish free transportation;[50] it cannot estop itself from exacting the lawful freight charg-

47. U.S.—Alabama, etc., R. Co. v. Mississippi R. Commn., 27 S.Ct. 163, 203 U.S. 496, 51 L.Ed. 289, affirming 38 So. 356, 86 Miss. 667.
10 C.J. p. 500 note 69

48. Pa.—State Line & S. R. Co. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., 120 A. 829, 277 Pa. 227.
10 C.J. p. 497 note 51 [a].

Contract not discriminatory

A provision in a contract between a carrier and a shipper which merely limits the rate to be imposed to the amount imposed on others engaged in a similar business is not a discrimination, it not being an effort to secure an undue advantage to himself on the part of the shipper, but a precaution to guard against future imposition by advancing rates.—Laurel Cotton Mills v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 37 So. 134, 84 Miss. 339, 66 L.R.A. 453.

Settlement of claim

(1) A compromise of a bill of freight charges on an interstate shipment for less than the regularly published and lawful tariff rate was void as against public policy and in breach of the inhibitions of the Interstate Commerce Act.—Farrar v. Perkins, 251 P. 440, 122 Kan. 141

(2) On the other hand, where a railroad was required by city ordinance to elevate its tracks to avoid grade crossings, and where manufacturers and other shippers had built plants with reference to the old grade and made claims for damages because of the change, which on advice of competent counsel the carrier compromised, the settlements could not be considered a devise to indirectly grant concessions in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act as amended.—U. S. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., D.C.Wash., 18 F.2d 299.

Knowledge of loss

The rule permitting knowledge of loss or injury to supply the place of a written notice, see supra § 240, is not a discrimination between railroads, nor is it a preference in favor of a particular shipper at the expense of others, as it is a mode of proof, applicable alike to all railroads and in favor of all shippers.—Washington Horse Exch. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 87 S.E. 941, 171 N.C. 65.—Baldwin v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 86 S.E. 776, 170 N.C. 12

49. U.S.—China Fire Ins. Co. v. Davis, C.C.A.N.Y., 50 F.2d 389, 76 A.L.R. 1259, certiorari denied Mellon v. China Fire Ins. Co., 52 S.Ct. 36, 284 U.S. 658, 76 L.Ed. 558.

Benefit of insurance

Clause in bill of lading giving carrier benefit of any insurance on shipment was invalid under § 2 of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 2, as giving carrier greater compensation than collected for similar service.—China Fire Ins. Co. v. Davis, C.C.A.N.Y., 50 F.2d 389, 76 A.L.R. 1259, certiorari denied Mellon v. China Fire Ins. Co., 52 S.Ct. 36, 284 U.S. 658, 76 L.Ed. 558.

Carload lots

(1) An aggregation of shipments by various owners, in order to obtain the benefit of carload rates, does not constitute an undue discrimination within the meaning of the act.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Manby, Tex.Civ.App., 207 S.W. 157

(2) On the other hand, where railroad issued two bills of lading for plaintiff's machinery and furniture, and goods were not shipped as one carload lot, agreement by the road and plaintiff that the shipments should be treated as carloaded was invalid.—Byrd v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 90 S.E. 181, 106 S.C. 1.

Charge discriminatory

Additional charge for bringing merchandise into city, imposed only if merchandise is afterward shipped out over certain railroad, is discriminatory.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 49 S.Ct. 494, 279 U.S. 768, 73 L.Ed. 947, affirming, D.C., 33 F.2d 345

Necessity of fraud

The provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act are not limited to fraudulent schemes and devices by which freight rates are reduced, but cover every case where there is undue discrimination.—Foster Lumber Co. v. Atchison T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 194 S.W. 281, 270 Mo. 629, L.R.A. 1918A 768.

Seller's assumption of carriage charges from coal mines to points on railroad connecting with buyer's railroad was legal limitation on price of coal and not illegal agreement for more than established through rate, where through rates from mines and from points on connecting railroad to point on buyer's railroad were identical, but buyer received $0.102 per ton less from distribution of rate from mines.—Murray v. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ill., 65 F.2d 312

50. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. U. S., Ky., 51 S.Ct. 297, 282 U.S. 740, 75 L.Ed. 672.
Md.—Pennsylvania Ry. Co. v. S. M. Hamilton Coal Co., 125 A. 405, 144 Md. 556, 35 A.L.R. 473.

Agreement to repay or collect prepaid freight

As to prepaid shipment of coal shipped to coal exchange for export, the carrier could not agree with original shipper to repay the freight, as es,[51] it cannot agree to waive or release freight[52] or demurrage[53] charges; and it must collect the amount of an undercharge.[54]

In order to get or keep business a carrier cannot voluntarily perform for some shippers only commercial services in connection with its transportation services which, when added together, do not return to the carrier the published tariff rates plus the cost of the commercial services, notwithstanding such services are charged at their fair value if that happens for whatever reason to be less than the cost to the carrier.[55] Also, a carrier engaged in interstate commerce does not have the power to contract to sell and transport on the completion of the contract the commodity sold when the price stipulated in the contract does not pay the cost of purchase, the cost of delivery, and the published freight rates.[56]

A carrier in an intra-state shipment is not entitled to the benefit of a joint rate on its own line for carrying its own property in the absence of contract therefor, and an order of the railroad comin the event carrier could not collect freight from transshipper, it would have furnished free transportation in violation of Interstate Commerce Act—Pennsylvania Ry. Co. v. S. M Hamilton Coal Co., 125 A. 405, 144 Md. 556, 35 A.L.R. 478.

Erroneously marking goods prepaid

A shipment of goods marked prepaid when shipped, when in fact they are not, is a violation of regulations of interstate commerce commission—Howell v Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 119 S.E. 198, 186 N.C. 239.

Private passenger car

(1) Transportation of private passenger cars of one carrier subject to Interstate Commerce Act by another carrier free or at other than published tariff rates constitutes unjust discrimination—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. U. S., Ky., 51 S.Ct. 297, 282 U. S. 740, 75 L.Ed. 672.

(2) Transportation of private passenger cars of carriers is "shipment of property" as respects right to forbid free transportation over other lines—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. U. S., supra.

51. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Central Iron & Coal Co., Ala., 44 S.Ct. 441, 265 U.S. 59, 68 L.Ed. 900, affirming, C.C.A., 284 F. 250

The consignor is primarily liable for the carrier's charges, and under Interstate Commerce Act the carrier cannot bind itself to collect the charges from the consignee, and not from the consignor, to permit which would permit discrimination between shippers, which that act was intended to prevent—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Federal Sugar Refining Co., 194 N.Y.S. 467, 201 App.Div. 467.

Order notify bill

Where a carrier accepted a shipment of goods under an order notify bill of lading, it had no right to deliver the goods to the notify party without requiring the payment of its charges in accordance with the terms of the bill of lading, and thereafter to hold the consignor for such charges because of the insolvency of the notify party, since a rule permitting the carriers so to do would give them an opportunity to discriminate between shippers, contrary to the purpose of the Interstate Commerce Act.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Federal Sugar Refining Co., 194 N.Y.S. 467, 201 App.Div. 467.

52. Ill.—New York Cent. R. Co. v Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co., 121 N.E. 581, 286 Ill. 267, affirming 210 Ill.App. 267—Doster & McKibben v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 196 Ill.App. 49

Mich.—Wabash Ry. Co. v. Bloomgarden, 180 N.W. 443, 212 Mich. 410

N.J.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Stanziale, 147 A. 457, 105 N.J.Law 593, reversing 143 A. 834, 6 N.J.Misc. 1116.

New agreement

While, in view of the federal statute, an agreement to release freight charges altogether would be invalid, where, under the bill of lading, the consignee is liable for freight charges, all the parties concerned may make a new agreement that the carrier should look to the shipper for payment of such charges.—Wabash Ry. Co. v. Bloomgarden, 180 N.W. 443, 212 Mich. 410.

53. Additional exemptions

Under the rule established by the interstate commerce commission, demurrage charges for the detention of cars must be exacted and collected by the carrier in accordance with the tariffs on file, and, where certain exceptions or exemptions are specified therein, no others can be permitted—Anthony Carlin Co. v. Hines, 140 N.E. 99, 107 Ohio St. 328.

Agreement immaterial

Whether demurrage covering "order notify" shipments was covered by an "average" agreement between the carrier and consignee was immaterial, as the carrier's duty to collect demurrage was imposed by law and could not be waived or limited either by contract or custom—Davis v. C. B. Gill & Co., 127 S.E. 532, 189 N.C. 542.

Duty to exact from all shippers

Where under the Interstate Commerce Act the charge for demurrage becomes a charge incidental to transportation, it is the duty of the carrier to exact it from all shippers without discrimination.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Whitney & Kemmerer, 73 Pa.Super. 588

54. Kan.—Case v. Union Pac. R. Co., 241 P. 693, 119 Kan. 706.

55. U.S.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 20 F.Supp. 917—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 20 F.Supp. 273.

Minimize losses

An interstate carrier may lawfully minimize its losses from bad investments, but it may not give concessions to a favored shipper which in effect permit the carrier to cut its published tariff rates to that shipper—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 20 F.Supp. 917—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 20 F. Supp. 273.

Rental of warehouse

(1) The rental by an interstate carrier's wholly-owned subsidiary of warehouse at noncompensatory rentals based in part on annual earnings of lessee which was a shipper over the interstate carrier's lines was preferential treatment of lessee in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act, notwithstanding the warehouse property was losing property and rental was the fair rental value—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 20 F.Supp. 917—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. U. S., D.C.N.Y., 20 F. Supp. 273

(2) In determining whether the furnishing of warehousing, storage, and insurance to shippers at less than cost of such services plus transportation rates was discriminatory, rule that reasonable tariff rates need not be sufficient to give railroad a fair return on every transportation service rendered with respect to every part of its property so used was not applicable, since such services were distinguishable from transportation services.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. U. S., supra—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. U. S., supra.

56. U.S.—New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commn., Va., 26 S.Ct. 272, 200 U.S. 361, 50 L.Ed. 515

10 C.J. p. 500 note 78.

mission which permits a carrier to charge freight rates for hauling its own property over its own road and to participate in a division of a through rate for so doing permits an unjust discrimination.[57]

§ 385. Waiver of Valid Contractual Limitation of Liability

A carrier cannot waive a valid contractual limitation of liability on the basis of which a particular rate has been granted.

Where the liability of the carrier is limited to a valuation fixed by agreement in consideration of the lower of the two rates, the limitation becomes a part of the rate, and the parties cannot by any compromise or agreement after loss change the limitation and arrange for the payment of a greater amount than the value as fixed in the shipping contract.[58] To do so would be giving the shipper an advantage over other shippers and would constitute an unlawful discrimination.[59]

3. Rights and Remedies Arising Out of Unjust Discrimination

§ 386. In General

If the statutory remedy for relief from unjust discrimination by a carrier is exclusive, the statutory procedure must be followed.

Under some statutes the remedies of a shipper arising from a carrier's discriminatory practices are limited to those provided by the statute, and the common-law remedies are superseded.[60] In the absence of such a statute, however, resort may be had to the common-law remedies.[61]

Ordinarily under the various statutes the courts will not reverse an order of a state commission as to discriminatory charges unless it is found to be clearly unreasonable.[62] Under some statutes, where there is an attempted discrimination between persons and associations by a common carrier, and service, facilities and accommodations are not allowed on reasonable and equal terms, prompt redress is afforded in the courts; but where the question is whether a community or locality is properly served by a railroad company, the matter is within the province of a railway commission.[63] Under some statutes an order of a state public service commission setting aside a regulation of a railroad company classifying shippers for the purpose of distribution of cars is reviewable on the question of the character of the discrimination it makes.[64]

§ 387. Recovery of Excess over Rate Charged Favored Shipper

At common law shippers who have been subjected to unjustly discriminatory rates may recover the difference between such rates and those charged favored shippers.

At common law a shipper who has been discriminated against unjustly in the matter of freight rates may recover the difference between the rate he was required to pay and that charged a favored shipper for similar services. Statutes regulating rates but providing no civil remedy do not abrogate the common-law remedy.[65]

§ 388. Recovery of Damages Resulting from Unjust Discrimination

a. In general
b. Amount of recovery

a. In General

In the absence of a statute to the contrary, a shipper may ordinarily maintain an action for the recovery of damages against a carrier resulting from unjust discrimination. Such actions, except as otherwise changed by statute, are subject to the usual rules governing civil actions.

Ordinarily under the statutes, state and federal, a shipper who has been discriminated against unjustly may recover damages sustained thereby.[66]

57. Tex.—Rio Grande, etc., R. Co. v. State R. Commn., Civ.App., 175 S.W. 1116—Rio Grande, etc., R. Co. v. Texas-Mexican R. Co., Civ.App., 173 S.W. 236.
10 C.J. p 500 note 79.

58. Iowa.—Tuller v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 168 N.W. 301, 186 Iowa 1070.
10 C.J. p 501 note 81.
Waiver of provisions shipping contract as discrimination generally see supra § 364.

59. Kan.—Donohoo Horse, etc., Co. v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 149 P. 436, 95 Kan. 681

60. Mont.—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209
Statutory remedies exclusive
Although Const. art. 15 § 7 provides that a shipper from one point to another cannot be subjected to any discrimination in freight charges or facilities in favor of a shipper from another point to the same destination, the provisions of the Railroad Commission Law, L.1907 c. 37, creating and prescribing the powers and duties of the railroad commission in the fixing of freight rates and the prevention of discrimination, are exclusive and the remedies therein prescribed must be followed.—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209.

61. Minn.—Sullivan v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 142 N.W. 3, 121 Minn. 488, 45 L.R.A.,N.S., 612.

62. Neb.—Lincoln Commercial Club v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., 172 N.W. 687, 103 Neb. 504

63. Neb.—Rivett Lumber & Coal Co. of Benson v. Chicago & N.W. Ry. Co., 167 N.W. 570, 102 Neb. 492.

64. W.Va.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 94 S.E. 545, 81 W.Va. 457, L.R.A.1918D 268.

65. Minn.—Sullivan v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 142 N.W. 3, 121 Minn. 488, 45 L.R.A.,N.S., 612.
10 C.J. p 501 note 84.

66. Cal.—California Adjustment Co.

In the absence of a statute providing exclusive procedure therefor,[67] a shipper may resort to his common-law right to recover damages for unjust discrimination against him by a carrier, particularly where the state rate regulation statute furnishes no remedy for discrimination.[68] The mere fact that a state statute makes an unjust discrimination in rates by the carrier an indictable offense does not prevent a shipper aggrieved by such violation of the law from maintaining a suit against the carrier for the damages sustained thereby;[69] and the fact that the statute under which the action is brought requires any carrier guilty of discrimination to pay to the person injured a penalty in addition to the damages sustained does not prevent a recovery of such damages, although the shipper does not sue for the penalty.[70] To entitle a shipper to maintain an action under the Interstate Commerce Act to recover damages caused by unjust discrimination, it is not necessary that he should have paid the freight under protest;[71] it is necessary, however, that plaintiff show some specific injury from the acts of the carrier.[72]

Defenses. In actions to recover damages for discrimination by payment of rebates to competing shippers, the doctrine of voluntary payments has no application and will not preclude a recovery of damages for the tort measured by the rebates allowed to competitors;[73] and even if a shipper has knowl-

v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 175 P. 682, 179 Cal. 140, 13 A.L.R. 274. 10 C.J. p 501 note 86.

In furnishing cars

A right of action for damages for unreasonable discrimination in furnishing cars exists under this act, not only against the offending carrier but against others inducing the discrimination.—Powers v. Cady, D C La., 9 F.2d 458.

Long and short haul clause

(1) Any person injured by discrimination through a violation of the long and short haul clauses of the federal or state legislation has a right of action therefor, whether or not such right existed at common law.

U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. California Adjustment Co., C.C.A.Cal., 237 F. 954, 150 C.C.A. 604, certiorari dismissed California Adjustment Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 39 S.Ct. 182, 248 U.S. 595, 63 L.Ed. 438, and affirming, D.C., California Adjustment Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 226 F. 349.

Cal.—California Adjustment Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 175 P. 682, 179 Cal. 140, 13 A.L.R. 274.

(2) A person bringing such an action need only show that his shipment from the intermediate point was charged for at a greater rate than that which would have been charged for the longer haul, and it is not necessary to prove actual discrimination by proving actual shipments from the longer distance.

Cal.—California Adjustment Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., supra.

Minn.—McCaull-Dinsmore Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 191 N.W. 42, 154 Minn. 28, certiorari granted Great Northern R. Co. v. McCaull-Dinsmore Co., 43 S.Ct. 361, 261 U. S. 610, 67 L.Ed. 825, and reversed on other grounds Davis v. Portland Seed Co., 44 S.Ct. 380, 264 U.S. 403, 68 L.Ed. 762

Ohio.—Beeghly v. Public Utilities Commission, 135 N.E. 641, 104 Ohio St. 158.

67. Mont.—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209

68. N.J.—National Radiator Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 143 A. 85, 6 N.J.Misc. 778.

Form of action

Under some statutes triple damages provided for therein for unreasonable discrimination may be recovered in a common-law action on the case, but not in an action of debt, regardless of whether or not such damages are in the nature of a penalty.—Fishburn v. New York Cent. R. Co., 12 Pa.Dist. 665.

69. Ky.—Hutchison v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 57 S.W. 251, 108 Ky. 615, 22 Ky.Law 361

Minn.—Sullivan v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 142 N.W. 3, 121 Minn. 488, 45 L.R.A.,N.S., 612.

70. Tex.—Waugh v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 131 S.W. 843, 62 Tex.Civ.App. 515.

71. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. International Coal Min. Co., Pa., 173 F. 1, 97 C.C.A. 383, reversed on other grounds 33 S.Ct. 893, 230 U. S. 184, 57 L.Ed. 1447.
10 C.J. p 501 note 89.

72. U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commission v. U. S. ex rel. Campbell, 53 S.Ct. 607, 289 U.S. 385, 77 L.Ed. 1273, reversing U. S. ex rel. Campbell v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 63 F.2d 358, 61 App.D.C. 382, certiorari granted Interstate Commerce Commission v. U. S., ex rel. Campbell, 53 S.Ct. 524, 289 U.S. 714, 77 L.Ed. 1467.
10 C.J. p 501 note 90.

For charging more for short than for long haul

Where a railroad, under Interstate Commerce Act § 6, as amended by Act June 18, 1910, and Act Febr. 28, 1920, Comp.St.Suppl.Annot.1923 § 8569, filed and published a schedule of rates fixing a rate between two points lower than published rate for shorter haul on same line from intermediate point, without the permission of the interstate commerce commission, and thereafter imposed and collected the higher rate from the intermediate point, in violation of the long and short haul clause of § 4, Comp.St. § 8566, consignee, who paid such higher rate, could not recover the amount paid in excess of the lower rate without proof of actual damages sustained, in view of § 8, Comp. St. § 8572, making a carrier "liable to the person or persons injured thereby for the full amount of damages sustained in consequence of any" violation of the act, and in view of amendment to § 4 by Transportation Act of 1920, since in such case the publication of the lower rate for the long haul did not wholly efface the higher intermediate one from the schedule, so as to make the lower rate the maximum rate which railroad could charge, even though railroad was liable to penalty under § 10 for publishing lower rate for longer haul.—Davis v. Portland Seed Co., 44 S.Ct. 380, 264 U.S. 403, 68 L.Ed. 762, reversing, C.C.A.Or., Davis v. Parrington, 281 F. 10, in which certiorari is granted Davis v. Portland Seed Co., 43 S.Ct. 95, 260 U.S. 717, 67 L. Ed. 479, reversing McCaull-Dinsmore Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 191 N.W. 42, 154 Minn. 28.

73. Pa.—Mitchell Coal, etc., Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 88 A. 743, 241 Pa. 536—Borda v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 21 A. 665, 141 Pa. 484. 10 C.J. p 504 note 19.

Shipper, unaware of discrimination by carrier in giving lower rates by drawback or refund to other shippers, obtaining knowledge thereof after last shipment, was held not to have made a voluntary payment, with full knowledge of all the facts, precluding recovery of damages.—National Radiator Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 143 A. 85, 6 N.J.Misc. 778.

edge of rebates or refunds given to other shippers he will not be barred from recovering damages for the discrimination where he has made protest by demanding equality, on learning of the facts.[74] An order of the interstate commerce commission against defendant, forbidding discrimination in the distribution and awarding reparation to plaintiff, does not bar plaintiff's subsequent action under a state statute for damages from discrimination relating solely to intra-state commerce.[75] The provision of Interstate Commerce Act § 15(13), 49 U.S.C.A. § 15 (13), permitting a just and reasonable allowance by a carrier for services rendered or instrumentalities furnished in connection with the transportation is not available as a defense to a carrier in an action to recover for discriminations practiced by the making of a secret allowance to a favored shipper.[76] However, a shipper who with others was given rebates in violation of law cannot maintain an action against the carrier giving the rebates merely because other shippers were given larger rebates.[77]

It is no defense to a carrier, in an action by a shipper for damages from the exaction of discriminatory rates, that they were fixed by a state railroad commission in violation of a state constitutional provision,[78] and where a carrier discriminates against a shipper in the allotment of cars, contrary to its adopted system of transportation followed with respect to other shippers, it cannot set up as a defense that such system of transportation was subsequently declared unlawful by the interstate commerce commission which ordered its discontinuance.[79]

The personnel of the applicants for a siding to a coal mine, under a state statute, does not enter into the question of its grant or refusal, and a request by an agent for an undisclosed principal is sufficient.[80]

A custom or usage of a carrier to observe the following Monday when Sunday was a legal holiday and to stop running trains will not excuse the carrier from the damages imposed by law for delay in transporting goods on such day, when the custom is repugnant to the express provisions of a statutory regulation.[81]

As a defense to an action for damages for discrimination in favor of a separate corporation organized by it, the offending carrier cannot deny the separate existence thereof,[82] and an agreement by a shipper to pay a discriminative charge exacted by a railroad company in order to obtain service to which it was legally entitled without such charge, and with an express stipulation that it thereby waived none of its legal rights, does not estop it from maintaining a suit to recover back the sum so paid.[83]

Jurisdiction. Under the Interstate Commerce Act as amended, the federal courts have jurisdiction to the exclusion of any remedy in a state court in all that class of cases involving a determination of matters calling for the exercise of the administrative power and discretion vested in the interstate commerce commission, or which relate to a subject as to which the jurisdiction of the federal courts has otherwise been made exclusive.[84] However, the Interstate Commerce Act was not intended to deprive the state courts of their general and concurrent jurisdiction in respect of all existing rights not inconsistent with those created by the statute, including actions for damages caused by failure of the carrier to comply with its common-law duties, and the like,[85] and it has been said that the Elkins Act provides a remedy in court without going before the interstate commerce commission for any discriminations forbidden by law including discriminations or preferences prohibited by the Interstate Commerce Act.[86]

74. N.J.—National Radiator Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., supra.

75. Pa.—Clark Bros. Coal Min. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 88 A. 754, 241 Pa. 515.

76. U.S.—Langdon v. Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.Pa., 194 F. 486, reversed on other grounds 208 F. 145, 125 C.C.A. 361.

77. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. International Coal Min. Co., Pa., 173 F. 1, 97 C.C.A. 383, reversed on other grounds 33 S.Ct. 393, 230 U.S. 184, 57 L.Ed. 1447.
10 C.J. p 504 note 24.

78. Cal.—California Adjustment Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 175 P. 682, 179 Cal. 140, 13 A.L.R. 274.

79. Pa.—Stineman Coal Min. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 88 A. 761, 241 Pa. 509—Puritan Coal Min. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 85 A. 426, 237 Pa. 420, 458, Ann.Cas.1914B 37.
10 C.J. p 504 note 20.

80. Pa.—Minds v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 77 A. 909, 228 Pa. 575
10 C.J. p 504 note 26.

81. Tex.—Consumers' Lignite Co. v. Houston, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 179 S.W. 306

82. Mich.—Federal Gravel Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 248 N.W. 831, 263 Mich. 341

83. U.S.—Ohio Coal Co. v. Whitcomb, Wis., 123 F. 359, 59 C.C.A. 487, certiorari denied 24 S.Ct. 841, 191 U.S. 567, 48 L.Ed. 305.

84. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Puritan Coal Min. Co., Pa., 35 S.Ct. 484, 237 U.S. 121, 59 L.Ed. 867.
10 C.J. p 501 note 92.

85. U.S.—Eastern R. Co. of New Mexico v. Littlefield, 35 S.Ct. 489, 237 U.S. 140, 59 L.Ed. 878, dismissing appeal, Tex., 154 S.W. 543.
10 C.J. p 502 note 97.

86. U.S.—Interstate Commerce Comm. v. Chicago Great Western Ry. Co., C.C.Ill., 141 F. 1003, affirmed 28 S.Ct. 493, 209 U.S. 108, 52 L.Ed. 705.

In a suit to recover damages from a carrier for discrimination, where the carrier's rule of practice itself is attacked as unfair or discriminatory, a question is raised which calls for the exercise of the discretionary administrative power vested in the interstate commerce commission, and it is for that body to say whether such rule works an unjust discrimination, and until the commission has declared the rule of practice to be discriminatory and unjust plaintiff[87] cannot make out his case in a court. When the commission has declared such rule or practice to be unjust, redress must be sought either before the interstate commerce commission or in the federal courts of competent jurisdiction, as provided by the statute.[88] However, if the carrier's rule, fair on its face, has been unequally applied, and the suit is for damages occasioned by its violation or discriminatory enforcement, there is no administrative question involved, the courts being called on to decide a mere question of fact as to whether the carrier has violated the rule to plaintiff's damage, and suits for such discrimination, although against an interstate carrier for damages arising in interstate commerce, may be prosecuted either in the state or federal courts.[89]

Under state statutes, the validity of which has been upheld, a special commission is sometimes given the power to order reparation by the carrier to a shipper who has been discriminated against.[90] Under some of such statutes a commission of this character has exclusive jurisdiction as to some classes of reparation matters and concurrent jurisdiction with the courts as to all others.[91] This power is purely statutory and cannot be extended beyond the legislative grant.[92] Thus, under some statutes the commission's power of reparation extends only to cases in which an examination or investigation of evidence as to some disputed matter of fact is necessary in order to determine whether the carrier has or has not charged an excessive or discriminatory amount,[93] while under other statutes the commission can authorize reparations only when there has been a discrimination under the established schedules and rates, or a departure therefrom.[94] Under still other provisions, before a

87. U.S.—Corona Coal Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Ala., 266 F. 726, affirmed 43 S.Ct. 91, 260 U.S 698, 67 L.Ed. 470—Hillsdale Coal & Coke Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.Pa., 237 F. 272
Mont.—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209.
10 C.J. p 502 note 94.

The Corpus Juris text is cited with approval in Williston Coal & Ice Co. v. Davis, N.D., 190 N.W. 776.

Necessary to case

"A plaintiff, who brings his action at law for a cause of action arising under the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Law, must (as every plaintiff must) make out his case. If he has been damaged by a car distribution made in accordance with a system or rule of distribution adopted by a railroad carrier and filed with the Commission in accordance with the requirements of the statutes, he has not suffered a legal injury, unless the distribution be one of the character condemned by law. This he must prove, and he can prove it only by a finding of the Commission In consequence he is driven to go first to the Commission for all the administrative findings."—Hillsdale Coal & Coke Co v. Pennsylvania R. Co, D C.Pa, 237 F. 272, 273.

It is a matter of defense for a carrier sued for damages for discrimination to show, through pleading and proof, that the enforcement of the common-law duty and remedy presents an administrative question concerning interstate rates or federal regulations and control, subject to the jurisdiction either exclusive or preliminary, of the interstate commerce commission—Williston Coal & Ice Co. v. Davis, N.D, 190 N.W. 776.

88. U.S.—Terminal Warehouse Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co, D C Pa., 7 F.Supp. 484, reversed on other grounds, C.C A., Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Terminal Warehouse Co, 78 F.2d 591, certiorari granted Terminal Warehouse Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co, 56 S Ct 137, 296 U S 560, 80 L.Ed. 395, affirmed 56 S Ct. 546, 297 U.S 500, 80 L Ed 827.
10 C.J. p 502 note 95.

Commission may award reparation

The commission is given judicial or semijudicial power to find, when the power is invoked, the reparation to which a complainant has the right. The jurisdiction of the commission is restricted to common carriers and its awards are so limited. —Terminal Warehouse Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co, D C Pa, 7 F Supp 484, reversed on other grounds, C.C. A., Pennsylvania R. Co v. Terminal Warehouse Co, 78 F.2d 591, certiorari granted Terminal Warehouse Co. v Pennsylvania R. Co, 56 S Ct 137, 296 U S. 560, 80 L Ed. 395, affirmed 56 S.Ct. 546, 297 U.S. 500, 80 L Ed. 827.

89. U.S —Hillsdale Coal & Coke Co v Pennsylvania R. Co., D C.Pa., 237 F 272
10 C J. p 502 note 96.

Recourse to commission unnecessary

"If the carrier has adopted and filed a fair and proper rule, or one has been found by the Commission, and the cause of action arises out of an unjust and discriminatory departure from it, causing damage, this fact may be established in an action at law, and no preliminary recourse to the Commission is necessary."—Hillsdale Coal & Coke Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., D C.Pa, 237 F. 272, 273

90. Ind—American Foundry Co. v. Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co., 178 N.E. 295, 100 Ind App. 111.

91. Cal—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v Railroad Commission, 298 P. 991, 212 Cal. 370.

Reparation

Railroad Commission has jurisdiction to award damages by way of reparation on unauthorized departure from long and short haul provisions of statute.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry Co v Railroad Commission, 298 P. 991, 212 Cal 370.

92. Tex—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren, Civ App, 184 S.W 232. Utah—Denver & R G R Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Utah, 272 P 939, 73 Utah 139

93. Cal.—California Adjustment Co. v. Atchison, T & S F Ry Co, 175 P 682, 179 Cal 140, 13 A L R. 274.

94. Utah—Denver & R G. R. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Utah, 272 P 939, 73 Utah 139.

In Texas, under Rev St 1911 art 6664, unless the railroad companies have done or omitted something, shipper can recover damages in the courts for discrimination, the discrimination must first be passed on by a special commission;[95] but the fact that the commission is not authorized to order reparation, on determining that a rate is discriminatory, does not prevent a shipper from later maintaining an action in court to recover damages sustained by him as a result of such discrimination. In such case his action is based on the fact that the rate has been declared to be discriminatory by the proper tribunal, and the court merely determines the amount of damages, if any, sustained.[96]

A state public utilities commission cannot order reparations to shippers where a discrimination will result therefrom.[97]

Time to sue; limitations. If the statute prohibiting unjust discrimination by a carrier limits a time within which actions for damages resulting therefrom may be brought, such actions must be brought within the time so limited.[98] It has been held that an action for damages for discrimination in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act is controlled by the two year limitation period therein prescribed rather than the period specified in a state statute of limitations, whether suit is brought in a court of competent jurisdiction, or a complaint is filed with the interstate commerce commission,[99] and a suit to enforce an order of the interstate commerce commission awarding reparations for discrimination by a carrier must be brought within one year from the date of the order, under the Interstate Commerce Act.[1]

Parties. In the absence of a statute to the contrary, the person aggrieved is the proper party plaintiff in an action for discrimination,[2] and a party who, after the commencement of the action, becomes interested in the subject matter and the issues involved may be permitted to intervene as a party plaintiff.[3] A legal title is sufficient to maintain the action.[4]

Pleadings. In an action to recover damages for discrimination the declaration, petition, or complaint must show that the discrimination complained of was unjust.[5] One complaining of discriminathe doing or omission of which would be a violation of a law prescribing a penalty, the railroad commission is without power to act under the article. Accordingly, where there has been no such violation of law, the commission is not empowered to determine that rates made by it were discriminatory and the amount of damages to the shipper occasioned by such discrimination. —Clayton Oil & Refining Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 3 S.W.2d 497—Missouri-Kansas & T. R. Co. of Texas v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 3 S.W.2d 489, affirmed Producers' Refining Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. of Texas, Com.App., 13 S.W.2d 679, and 13 S.W.2d 680

95. A voluntary reduction of a rate by a carrier will not make the prior rate unlawful, unreasonable, or discriminatory and the basis for an action for damages.—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209.

96. Mont.—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., supra.

97. Utah.—Gunnison Sugar Co. v. Public Utilities Commission of Utah, 256 P. 790, 69 Utah 521.

98. Colo.—Bonfils v. Public Utilities Commission of Colorado, 189 P. 775, 67 Colo. 563.
10 C.J. p 503 note 1.

99. U.S.—Powers v. Cady, D.C.La., 9 F.2d 458

1. Mass.—Westminster Nat. Bank v. Boston & M. R. R., 139 N.E. 345, 244 Mass. 578.

Assignee barred from recovery

Under Commerce Act § 16, as amended, 49 U.S.C.A. § 16 (3) (f), action by assignee of part of assignor's claim for reparations awarded by the interstate commerce commission against railroad, not brought within year and which was independent of prior action by assignor was barred, nor was assignee entitled to amount still in railroad's hands under compromise between it and assignor as money had and received.—Westminster Nat. Bank v. Boston & M. R. R., 139 N.E. 345, 244 Mass. 578.

2. Vt.—State v. Central Vermont R. Co., 71 A. 194, 81 Vt. 463, 130 Am. S.R. 1065
10 C.J. p 503 note 2.

A factor to whom goods were consigned for sale to others, and who had duty of collecting full amount that could possibly be realized, had a special property interest in cause of action against railroad for damages for unlawful discrimination against his principals with respect to acceptance of goods for shipment, had duty of prosecuting such action, and was accountable for proceeds thereof.—Hewitt v. New York, N.H. & H.R. Co., 1 N.Y.S.2d 292, 166 Misc. 186.

3. Mich.—Federal Gravel Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 248 N.W. 831, 263 Mich. 341.

4. Pa.—Cox v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 85 A. 863.
10 C.J. p 503 note 3.

5. Tex.—White Rock Gravel & Sand Co. v. International & G. N. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 188 S.W. 280, error refused.
10 C.J. p 503 note 4.

Petition sufficient

A petition in an action against a railroad for failure and refusal to furnish cars, which alleged a willful and deliberate refusal, without semblance of justification, and which went into much detail, was sufficient although it did not, in the language of the statute charge that the discrimination was "undue" or "unreasonable."—Powers v. Cady, D.C.La., 9 F.2d 458.

Petitions insufficient

(1) In an action of the case brought under Gen.L.1923 § 3706, a declaration alleging the collection of a greater freight rate for shipments between certain points in the state than from another shipper of like merchandise a greater distance between the same point of shipment and another point in the state, does not state a cause of action for discrimination within § 3702.—U. S. Finishing Co. v. New York, N.H. & H.R. Co., 135 A. 49, 48 R.I. 11.

(2) A petition alleging that a carrier absorbed switching charges for two gravel pits without alleging that the amount so absorbed was more than that absorbed on switching charges for plaintiff, did not state a cause for damages for discrimination since it would not be presumed that defendant absorbed a greater amount of charges for competing gravel pits.—White Rock Gravel & Sand Co. v. International & G. N. Ry. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 188 S.W. 280, error refused.

tion and asking reparations therefor from a special commission must point out some specific thing done or omitted which constituted a violation of the statute[6] and that it operated to plaintiff's injury.[7] If damages are claimed on the basis of the charging of discriminatory rates, under some statutes it must be alleged that the rates were in violation of schedules established pursuant to statute;[8] and where the discrimination complained of is a violation of the long and short haul clause of the Interstate Commerce Act, the complaint will be insufficient if the entire through rate is not shown and if it is not alleged that any shipments were made at the lower rate, except such as were billed through under the joint rate.[9] On the other hand, where a complaint states a good cause of action for unjust discrimination under the Interstate Commerce Act, it is not rendered demurrable by the fact that it also insufficiently attempts to allege a combination or conspiracy on defendant's part with certain other railroads to restrain trade and seeks to recover triple damages under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.[10] Also, where a recovery is sought for several acts of discrimination, it is not necessary to state each separate act of discrimination as a separate cause of action.[11]

If the conduct of the carrier amounts to a willful violation of the law against discrimination, exemplary damages are recoverable; hence allegations of the complaint which would throw light on the question as to whether the conduct of the carrier was willful will not be stricken out as irrelevant.[12]

Granting or denying leave to amend pleadings in actions of this character are matters largely within the discretion of the trial court.[13]

The loss alleged to have been sustained must be proved.[14] Allegations in the pleadings, however, on which counsel asserts that no reliance is placed, need not be considered[15]

Evidence. Generally speaking, evidence of the fact that there was a discrimination in rates of itself carries with it the presumption that the parties paying the higher rate were damaged.[16] In order to make out a case of unreasonable discrimination it is not necessary to show that the charges were more than the rates fixed by the carrier and approved by the railroad commissioners,[17] although a rate established by such commissioners will be presumed to be valid and reasonable until its unreasonable or discriminatory character is found by them.[18]

It is competent to show the rates charged others for shipments over other branches of the road where it appears that the conditions were substan-

6. Tex.—Clayton Oil & Refining Co v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 3 S.W.2d 497—Missouri-Kansas & T. R. Co. of Texas v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 3 S.W.2d 489, affirmed Producers' Refining Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. of Texas, Com.App., 13 S.W.2d 679, and 13 S.W.2d 680.

7. Wash.—Chas. H. Lilly Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 117 P. 401, 64 Wash. 589
10 C.J. p 503 note 5.

Damage
A petition for damages for violation of the provision of the Interstate Commerce Act forbidding the charging of a greater compensation as a through rate than the aggregate of the intermediate rates, is demurrable in the absence of some allegation of special damage to the shipper—Patterson v Louisville & N R. Co., C.C.A.Ga., 2 F.2d 592, affirmed 46 S.Ct. 8, 269 U.S. 1, 70 L.Ed. 131.

8. Mont.—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209.
Ohio—Warner v. Baltimore & O R. Co., 11 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 487.

Allegations held insufficient
In an action against a railroad company to recover discriminatory and unreasonable freight charges collected by it, allegations were held to be insufficient to show that the charges paid were not in accordance with tariffs adopted and in force between the points of shipment and destination at the time the shipments were made—Doney v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209.

9. U.S.—Parsons v. Chicago & N W. R. Co., Iowa, 17 S.Ct. 887, 167 U.S. 447, 42 L.Ed. 231, affirming 63 F. 903, 11 C.C.A. 489.

10. U.S.—American Union Coal Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., C.C.Pa., 159 F. 278.

11. Mo.—Cohn v. St. Louis, etc., R Co., 79 S.W. 961, 181 Mo. 30.
N.Y.—Langdon v New York, etc., R Co., 15 N.Y.S. 255, 27 Abb.N. Cas. 166.

12. Ga.—Augusta Brokerage Co. v Central of Georgia R. Co., 48 S.E. 714, 121 Ga. 48.

13. Mich.—Federal Gravel Co v. Detroit & M Ry Co., 248 N.W. 831, 263 Mich. 341.

Motion properly refused
In suit by shippers of gravel against railroad carrier for damages resulting from rebates and discrimination to competing gravel company, action of trial court in denying defendants' motion for leave to amend answer by alleging defense of statute of limitations, filed after commencement of trial, was not an abuse of its discretion in the matter.—Federal Gravel Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 248 N.W. 831, 263 Mich. 341.

14. U.S.—Meeker v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., Pa., 35 S.Ct. 328, 236 U.S. 412, 59 L.Ed. 644

Failure to attack rates
Rates charged, not having been attacked, were binding, and their collection could not violate statute or provision for which penalty was authorized—Clayton Oil & Refining Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Tex.Civ.App., 3 S.W.2d 497—Missouri-Kansas & T. R. Co. of Texas v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Tex.Civ.App., 3 S.W.2d 489, affirmed Producers' Refining Co v. Missouri, K. & T. R Co. of Texas, 13 S.W. 2d 679, and 13 S.W.2d 680.

15. Mont.—Doney v Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209.

16. U.S.—Chesapeake & O Ry Co. v U S., D.C.W.Va., 11 F.Supp. 588, affirmed 56 S.Ct. 164, 296 U.S. 187, 80 L.Ed. 147.

17. Mo.—Cohn v. St. Louis, etc, R. Co., 79 S.W. 961, 181 Mo. 30.

18. Mont.—Doney v Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 199 P. 432, 60 Mont. 209.

tially similar,[19] and in an action for refusal to grant facilities to an express company equal to those afforded another express company, contracts which the express company had offered to execute are properly admitted.[20] Under a statute declaring that every railroad company which shall fail or refuse under such regulations as may be prescribed by the railroad commission to transport freight destined for a connecting carrier shall be guilty of unjust discrimination, it is contemplated that the commission shall establish rules, hence in an action for unjust discrimination such rules are admissible.[21] On the other hand, in an action against a carrier for refusing a siding to coal property, evidence of the sale of cars by defendant to individual shippers and as to the loading of cars from wagons is irrelevant;[22] and, on an issue as to discrimination in car supply, evidence of defendant's equipment of foreign lines must be excluded as immaterial, where the evidence already introduced shows that defendant had an adequate number of cars on hand.[23]

The usual rules as to weight and sufficiency of evidence in civil actions generally apply in actions of this character.[24] The right of recovery given by the Interstate Commerce Act for violation of its provisions against unjust discrimination for the full amount of damages sustained by the violation of the act is in the nature of a penalty, and in order to recover plaintiff must make out a case showing a violation of the act clearly and directly and not by way of inference;[25] and, where the statute allows three times the actual damages, plaintiff is bound to produce very clear and definite proof as to the actual loss suffered.[26]

Trial. In actions of this character, disputed questions of fact are for determination of jury,[27]

19. N.C.—Hilton Lumber Co v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 53 S.E. 823, 141 N.C. 171, 6 L.R.A.,N.S., 225.
10 C.J. p 503 note 14.

20. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Empire Express Co., Civ.App., 173 S.W. 222.

21. Tex.—Consumers' Lignite Co v. Houston, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 179 S.W. 306.

22. Pa.—Cox v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 85 A. 863

23. Pa.—Sonman Shaft Coal Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 88 A. 746, 241 Pa. 487.

24. Evidence held sufficient
(1) To establish that railroad sued for damages because of rebates and discrimination in favor of gravel company owned by carrier and removing and selling gravel from railroad lands, was primarily interested in producing and selling commercial gravel that railroad might profit from traffic incident to transportation—Federal Gravel Co v Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 248 N.W. 831, 263 Mich. 341.

(2) To go to the jury, in an action for damages for discrimination in furnishing cars ordered by plaintiff, notwithstanding defendant's showing that it was unable to fill all the orders for cars, it appearing that it furnished a greater percentage of cars to others in the same line than it did plaintiff.—Dickinson v. Robertson, 223 S.W. 12, 144 Ark 515.

(3) To justify finding that a rule for the allotment of cars among shippers was adopted by the railroad—Anderson v. Chicago, M & St. P Ry. Co., 175 N.W. 246, 208 Mich. 424.

(4) To support finding that proximate cause of failure in business of gravel company and depreciation in its properties was unjust discrimination by railroad carrier arising when carrier organized and financed competing corporation to remove and sell gravel from carrier's lands—Federal Gravel Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co, supra.

(5) To warrant a verdict for the shipper, in an action by a shipper against a railroad for discrimination and failure to furnish cars during a certain period, where local shippers and others at a main line point twenty-five miles distant received sufficient cars of the same class required by plaintiff for their needs during the same period.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Sims, 256 S.W. 33, 161 Ark. 289.

(6) Where carriers had discriminated against a steel company by refusing to spot cars for it, or to make an allowance to it for the expense of spotting cars, as they did for its competitors in the same switching district, and the evidence showed that the steel company was unable to control the market price, so that it could not pass such charges on to its customers, it is manifest that the discrimination against that company had resulted in damage to it, by diminishing its profits to the extent of the cost of spotting its cars—Donner Steel Co v Interstate Commerce Commission, 285 F. 955, 52 App.D.C. 221.

Evidence held insufficient
(1) To show discrimination in furnishing freight cars—George H. Koepp, Inc., v. New Orleans Great Northern R. Co., 110 So. 729, 162 La. 487

(2) To support finding placing valuation on plaintiff's property.—Federal Gravel Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 248 N.W. 831, 263 Mich. 341.

(3) An order of the interstate commerce commission, finding an unjust discrimination by the carrier in making a separate charge against a shipper for switching from the pier used by him, while absorbing such charge from piers used by his competitors, is not sufficient evidence to authorize recovery of damages by the shipper, since the measure of his damages is not the amount of the unjust discrimination, but the amount by which such discrimination had injured him—Hillsborough Mills v Boston & M. R. R., D.C.Mass., 269 F. 816.

25. U.S.—Parsons v. Chicago & N. W. R. Co, Iowa, 17 S.Ct. 887, 167 U.S. 447, 42 L.Ed. 231, affirming 63 F. 903, 11 C.C.A. 489—Knudsen-Ferguson Fruit Co. v Michigan Cent. R. Co, Minn., 148 F. 968 79 C.C.A. 46, certiorari denied 27 S. Ct. 786, 204 U.S. 671, 51 L.Ed. 672.
10 C.J. p 503 note 10.

26. Pa.—Roberts v Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 22 Pa.Dist. 935.

27. Ark.—Missouri Pac. Ry Co. v. Kirten Gravel Co., 44 S.W.2d 674, 184 Ark. 1024.

Questions held for jury
(1) Whether plaintiff's and competitors' business was similarly situated.—Missouri Pac. Ry. Co v. Kirten Gravel Co., 44 S.W.2d 674, 184 Ark. 1024.

(2) Whether the demand for cars was so great that in the exercise of reasonable care it could not have been anticipated—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Sims, 256 S.W. 33, 161 Ark. 289.

and such determination by the jury must be made under proper instructions.[28]

b. Amount of Recovery

The actual loss suffered may be recovered as damages for unlawful discrimination in transportation facilities. For discrimination in rates some authorities apply the same rule while others allow recovery only of the difference between the discriminating rates. Double and triple damages as well as attorney's fees may be recovered under some statutes.

The measure of damages for unlawful discrimination in transportation facilities is compensation for the actual loss suffered,[29] ascertained according to the general rules governing compensatory damages, subject to any statutory minimum,[30] and to provisions for double or triple damages in certain cases, as will be hereinafter considered. All damages which ordinarily and in the natural course of things have resulted from the commission of the wrongful act are recoverable.[31] Loss of profits, if clearly shown and not merely speculative, is an element of damages.[32] However, plaintiff cannot recover more than his petition calls for.[33]

In actions based on § 2 of the Interstate Commerce Act, which prohibits and declares it unlawful for a carrier, by any special rate or rebate, or by any other device, to receive from one person for service rendered in transporting property a greater or less compensation than it receives from any other person for doing for him a like and contemporaneous service in the transportation of a like kind of traffic under similar conditions, and on § 8, which expressly declares that, wherever the carrier does an act prohibited or fails to do any act required it shall be "liable to the person injured thereby for the full amount of damages sustained in consequence of such violation . . . together with reasonable attorney's fee," the measure of damages in favor of a shipper compelled to pay the published tariff rate, while his favored competitors are given a less rate by means of rebates, or

(3) Whether unjust discrimination as against plaintiff resulted from nonenforcement of the road's rule governing the allotment of cars —Anderson v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 175 N.W. 246, 208 Mich 424.

(4) Discrimination in furnishing cars in suit for triple damages— Stroud v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 236 S.W. 891, 210 Mo.App. 311.

(5) Agency of firm from which plaintiff purchased coal for the collection of freight for defendant— Hall v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 100 A. 1035, 257 Pa. 54, L.R.A.1917F 414.

28. Mich.—Anderson v. Chicago, M & St. P Ry. Co., 175 N.W. 246, 208 Mich. 424.

Instructions held proper

(1) In an action for damages for failure to furnish cars ordered, where there was a showing of discrimination and testimony from which the jury might have found that plaintiff purchased and sold hay f. o. b. at point of shipment, so that he was not put to any expense in loading cars at such point, or in transportation to destination, an instruction that his measure of damages was the difference in the market value of the hay at the point of shipment where cars should have been furnished and at point of destination was correct.—Dickinson v. Robertson, 223 S.W. 12, 144 Ark. 515.

(2) Failure of an instruction in an action to recover triple damages for discrimination in furnishing cars to require a finding that such discrimination was undue or unreasonable does not render it erroneous, where plaintiff's evidence tends to show that the discrimination complained of was as a matter of law undue and unreasonable—Stroud v. Missouri Pac. R. Co, 254 S.W 111, 212 Mo App. 512, certiorari granted Missouri Pac R Co. v. Stroud, 44 S Ct. 37, 263 U S 694, 68 L Ed 510, and reversed on other grounds 45 S. Ct. 243, 267 U S. 404, 69 L.Ed. 683.

(3) In an action for triple damages for discrimination in furnishing cars to a shipper of lumber, an instruction on the measure of damages requiring the jury to take into consideration the reasonable value of plaintiff's lumber at the date the cars should have been delivered and the reasonable market value of the lumber at the time they were delivered, the verdict to be for the difference between these two amounts not to exceed the amount prayed for was proper.— Stroud v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., supra.

Instructions erroneous

In a suit for triple damages for discrimination in preferring shippers who ordered and were furnished cars after plaintiff ordered cars for shipping lumber wherein defendant endeavored to show cars furnished others on subsequent orders were for shipping mine material, preferred by an interstate commerce commission order, and the evidence showed some cars so furnished were for such material, and some of the preferred shippers shipped lumber and mine material, an instruction for plaintiff, based on a preference of other shippers, requiring the jury to find that after plaintiff's cars were ordered other shippers at the station in question "engaged in the business of shipping lumber," ordered cars, and were preferred, was erroneous in not requiring the jury to find that such cars were not loaded with mine material—Stroud v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 236 S.W. 891, 210 Mo.App. 311.

29. Pa—Hillsdale Coal, etc, Co v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 78 A. 28, 229 Pa 61, 140 Am S R. 700.
10 C J. p 505 note 34.

Operation of gravel plant

Discriminatory acts of railroad carrier against gravel company in organizing, financing, and managing corporation to remove and sell gravel from land owned by carrier for nominal consideration, for primary purpose of securing freight revenue, rendered carrier liable for resulting damages—Federal Gravel Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 248 N.W. 831, 263 Mich. 341.

30. Ohio—Toledo, etc., R. Co. v. Wren, 84 N.E. 137, 78 Ohio St. 137.

31. R I—Main Realty Co. v. Blackstone Gas & Elec. Co., 193 A. 879.
10 C.J. p 505 note 38.

32. R I—Main Realty Co. v. Blackstone Gas & Elec. Co., supra.
10 C J. p 505 note 39.

The Corpus Juris text has been quoted with full approval in Main Realty Co v. Blackstone Gas & Elec Co., R I., 193 A 879.

33. Mo—Stroud v. Missouri Pac. R Co, 254 S.W 111, 212 Mo.App. 512, certiorari granted Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Stroud, 44 S.Ct. 37, 263 U.S. 694, 68 L.Ed. 510, and reversed on other grounds 45 S.Ct. 243, 267 U.S. 404, 69 L.Ed. 683.

other device, is the damage actually sustained and proved, and not the difference between the rate charged the injured party, and that charged favored shippers on like shipments during the same period; the statute does not provide any fixed measure of damages.[34] Under state statutes, more or less similar in terms to the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act, the same rule has been applied in some states;[35] but in others it has been held that the difference between the discriminating rates may be recovered.[36]

While a charge prohibited by the long and short haul clause of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 4, may subject the carrier to prosecution by the government, it does not afford adequate basis for reparation where there is no other proof of pecuniary damage.[37] However, it has been held that in actions based on § 4, the complaining shipper may recover the excess of the charge for a short haul over a charge for a long haul,[38] and a like rule prevails under similar state statutes.[39]

Double or triple damages. Under the statutes in

34. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commission v U S. ex rel Campbell, 53 S Ct 607, 289 U.S. 385, 77 L Ed 1273, reversing U. S. ex rel. Campbell v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 63 F 2d 358, 61 App. D.C 382, certiorari granted Interstate Commerce Commission v. U. S ex rel. Campbell, 53 S Ct. 524, 289 U S 714, 77 L.Ed. 1467.
10 C.J. p 504 note 27.

"Full amount of damages"
Phrase "full amount of damages," within provision of Interstate Commerce Act making carrier liable for full amount of damages sustained in consequence of violation of act, includes damages for injury to business, including shrinkage of normal business profits.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v Terminal Warehouse Co, C. C.A.Pa, 78 F 2d 591, reversing, D.C, Terminal Warehouse Co. v. Pennsylvania R Co, 7 F Supp. 484, and certiorari granted 56 S Ct. 137, 296 U.S 560, 80 L Ed 395, affirmed 56 S.Ct 546, 297 U.S. 500, 80 L Ed. 827.

"The question is not how much better off the complainant would be today if it had paid a lower rate. The question is how much worse off it is because others have paid less The answer to that question is not independent of time and place and circumstance. It calls for something more than the use of a mathematical formula"—Interstate Commerce Commission v U. S ex rel. Campbell, 53 S Ct. 607, 610, 289 U. S 385, 77 L Ed. 1273, reversing U S ex rel Campbell v Interstate Commerce Commission, 63 F 2d 358, 61 App D C. 382, certiorari granted Interstate Commerce Commission v U. S, ex rel. Campbell, 53 S Ct. 524, 289 U.S. 714, 77 L Ed. 1467.

Where party who has paid only reasonable rate sues because another has paid less, the party suing cannot recover as of course payment reasonable in amount for service given and accepted, but may recover damages actually proved, which may be more than preference or less — Interstate Commerce Commission v U. S ex rel. Campbell, 53 S Ct. 607, 289 U S. 385, 77 L Ed 1273, reversing U S ex rel. Campbell v Interstate Commerce Commission, 63 F. 2d 358, 61 App.D.C. 382, certiorari granted Interstate Commerce Commission v. U. S ex rel. Campbell, 53 S Ct. 524, 289 U S. 714, 77 L Ed. 1467.

35. Mich.—Federal Gravel Co v. Detroit & M Ry. Co., 248 N W. 831, 263 Mich. 341.
10 C J. p 505 note 28.

In Pennsylvania
(1) "The 'injury suffered' within the meaning of the term used in the act of 1883, may be either the difference in the rates charged under the provisions requiring the allowance of the same concessions and drawbacks to all persons 'upon like conditions, under similar circumstances, and during the same period of time' . . . or it may be the injury suffered by reason of 'undue or unreasonable discrimination,' though the conditions differ, in which case the injury would not necessarily be the difference in charges, but would be the damage suffered by reason of failure to furnish equal facilities or other requirements of shippers"—Hall v. Pennsylvania R Co, 100 A. 1035, 1041, 257 Pa. 54, L R A.1917F 414.

(2) Where a railroad allowed a retail coal dealer, a competitor of plaintiff, rebates, plaintiff was entitled to recover the difference between the amounts paid by him and the amount he would have paid at the lowest rate charged or received from any person for like services under similar circumstances —Hall v. Pennsylvania R. Co, supra.

36. Iowa.—Cook v. Chicago, R I. & P Ry. Co., 46 N W. 1080, 81 Iowa 551, 9 L R.A 764, 25 Am S R. 512
N J.—National Radiator Co. v Pennsylvania R. Co, 143 A 85, 6 N J.Misc 778.
Wash.—Tacoma Eastern R. Co v Public Service Commission of Washington, 202 P. 1, 117 Wash 609
10 C J. p 505 note 29.

Different views discussed
N J.—National Radiator Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co, 143 A. 85, 6 N. J.Misc. 778.

Under a statute of Colorado, providing that, if the carrier made rebates or concessions to shippers, it must extend them to all shippers under the same circumstances and conditions, where it appeared that another shipper similarly circumstanced as to place and distance as plaintiffs had been receiving from the carrier a rebate which was not allowed to them, the damages sustained by plaintiffs should be measured by the amount of the rebate, and the question whether plaintiff lost profits on sales by reason of the nonallowance of the rebate is too remote to be held an element of damages.—Union Pac. R. Co. v. Goodridge, Colo., 13 S Ct. 970, 149 U.S 680, 37 L Ed 986.

37. U S.—Davis v Portland Seed Co., 44 S.Ct. 380, 264 U.S 403, 68 L Ed. 762, reversing, C C A Or, Davis v Parrington, 281 F. 10, in which certiorari is granted Davis v Portland Seed Co, 43 S.Ct. 95, 260 U.S 717, 67 L Ed 479, reversing McCaull-Dinsmore Co. v Great Northern Ry. Co., 191 N W. 42, 154 Minn. 28.

38. U.S —Osborne v. Chicago & N W. R. Co, C.C.Iowa, 48 F. 49, reversed on other grounds 52 F. 912, 3 C C A. 347—Junod v. Chicago & N W. R. Co, C.C.Iowa, 47 F 290, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A, 52 F. 912, certiorari denied 13 S Ct. 281, 146 U S. 354, 36 L.Ed 1002.

39. U S —Southern Pac. Co. v. California Adjustment Co., Cal., 237 F. 954, 150 C.C.A 604, certiorari dismissed California Adjustment Co. v Southern Pac Co., 39 S.Ct 182, 248 U S. 595, 63 L.Ed. 438, and affirming, D C., California Adjustment Co. v Southern Pac. Co., 226 F. 349.
Mo —McGrew Coal Co v Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., 217 S.W 984, 280 Mo. 466, 13 A.L.R 283, affirmed Missouri Pac R. Co. v McGrew Coal Co, 41 S Ct. 404, 256 U.S. 134, 65 L Ed. 864.
10 C J. p 505 note 33.

some jurisdictions a shipper may recover double or triple the damages sustained by an unjust discrimination,[40] and such statutes have been held to be valid.[41] Under some statutes double damages are allowed in case the carrier discriminates purposely; otherwise the shipper recovers only the actual damage sustained.[42] Under other statutes authorizing the recovery of damages treble the amount of injury suffered by unjust discrimination, where the verdict is for single damages, it is within the discretion of the court whether the damages should be tripled,[43] but, since such a statute is penal in character, it will not be construed to include other damages not designated therein.[44]

Exemplary damages, under some statutes, may be recovered, if it appears that the conduct of the carrier amounted to a willful violation of the law,[45] or if it appears that the carrier acted maliciously.[46]

Nominal damages. In order to sustain a recovery for substantial damages, the favored and disfavored shippers must have been competitors, but nominal damages are recoverable on a showing that the carrier violated its duty to charge all shippers the scheduled rate.[47]

Remote or speculative damages are not recoverable.[48]

Interest. Under the Interstate Commerce Act, interest on the recovery is in the discretion of the jury.[49] Also it has been held that the jury, in assessing damages, may consider as an element the lapse of time between the incurring of the damage and the rendering of the verdict, and allow for this in the assessment, but such element of damage cannot exceed the equivalent in amount of lawful interest.[50]

Attorney's fees. Under some statutes a successful plaintiff, in a suit under the statute, is entitled to a reasonable attorney's fee to be taxed as a part of the costs, and such statutes have been held to be valid.[51] Such a provision in the Interstate Commerce Act has been sustained as constitutional over the objection that it is purely arbitrary and imposes a penalty for merely failing to pay a debt.[52] The services for which an attorney's fee may be taxed are those incident to the action in which the recovery is had, and not those before the interstate commerce commission.[53]

§ 389. Injunctions

An interstate commerce commission cease and desist order may be enjoined.

An order of the interstate commerce commission that a carrier desist from subjecting a community to undue prejudice in respect of rates should be enjoined where there is in fact no undue discrimination.[54]

§ 390. Suits against Carriers

Carriers may be enjoined from unjustly discriminating by the individuals or localities affected, by the interstate commerce commission, and by the federal or a state government.

A shipper or a locality may invoke the remedy of injunction to restrain common carriers from granting discriminatory favors to other shippers to his or its prejudice and injury, where the remedy at law is not adequate or effectual;[55] and a corpora-

40. Mo.—Alexander v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 221 S.W. 712, 282 Mo. 236, 11 A.L.R. 867.
Ohio.—Warner v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 11 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 487.
10 C.J. p 505 note 40.

41. Mo.—Alexander v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 221 S.W. 712, 282 Mo. 236, 11 A.L.R. 867.

42. Miss.—American Express Co. v. Crawley, 41 So. 261, 88 Miss. 525.

43. Pa.—Cox v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 85 A. 863.

44. Pa.—Hall v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 100 A. 1035, 257 Pa. 54, L.R.A.1917F 414.

Damages for delay in payment.
In an action for unlawful discrimination by railroad in freight rates, where plaintiff moved to have verdict trebled under Act June 4, 1883, P.L. 72, the court properly refused to permit recovery of damages for delay in payment.—Hall v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 100 A. 1035, 257 Pa. 54, L.R.A.1917F 414.

45. Ga.—Augusta Brokerage Co. v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 48 S.E. 714, 121 Ga. 48.
Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Ohio Valley Tie Co., 170 S.W. 633, 161 Ky. 212.
10 C.J. p 506 note 44.

46. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Empire Express Co., Civ.App., 173 S.W. 222.
10 C.J. p 506 note 45.

47. Minn.—Seaman v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 149 N.W. 134, 127 Minn. 180.

48. U.S.—Florida Cent. & P. R. Co. v. Bucki, Fla., 68 F. 864, 16 C.C.A. 42.
Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Ohio Valley Tie Co., 170 S.W. 633, 161 Ky. 212.
10 C.J. p 506 note 46.

49. U.S.—Osborne v. Chicago & N.W. R. Co., C.C.Iowa, 48 F. 49, reversed on other grounds 52 F. 912, 3 C.C.A. 347.

50. U.S.—Minds v. Pennsylvania R. Co., D.C.Pa., 237 F. 267, affirmed Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Minds, 244 F. 53, 156 C.C.A. 481, affirmed 39 S.Ct. 531, 250 U.S. 368, 63 L.Ed. 1039.

51. Mo.—Alexander v. Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co., 221 S.W. 712, 282 Mo. 236, 11 A.L.R. 867.
10 C.J. p 506 note 49.

52. U.S.—Meeker v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., Pa., 35 S.Ct. 328, 236 U.S. 412, 59 L.Ed. 644.
10 C.J. p 506 note 50.

53. U.S.—Meeker v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., supra.

54. U.S.—Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. U.S., Pa., 36 S.Ct. 354, 240 U.S. 334, reversing, D.C., 219 F. 988.

55. Mich.—Federal Gravel Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 248 N.W. 831, 263 Mich. 341.—Federal Gravel tion discriminated against is not necessarily barred from such relief because it has disposed of its physical properties pendente lite[56] A court of equity, however, cannot in the first instance enjoin an alleged discriminatory practice where an administrative question is presented which must first be determined by the interstate commerce commission.[57] It is only when a ruling has been made by the commission that the powers of a court of equity can be invoked for the enforcement of the ruling if the carrier refuses to comply with it[58]

Before a court of equity will grant an injunction, it must be fully satisfied that its orders will not likewise work a discrimination,[59] and an injunction will, of course, be denied where the evidence does not show that the rates complained of are discriminatory,[60] or that injunctive relief can alter or remedy the situation[61] It is not a prerequisite to injunctive relief that plaintiff should have first established his rights by an action at law;[62] and the fact that an action at law is given to recover triple damages does not prevent a court of equity from entertaining a bill to restrain the carrier from continuing illegal discrimination, and, when such a bill has been filed, it will assume jurisdiction over the whole matter and will award damages for the actual injuries shown to have been sustained through the illegal discrimination.[63]

Since the basis for injunctive relief must be an interference or threatened interference with a legal right of the petitioner, not a third person, it has been held that only shippers are real parties in interest, and that third persons, such as contract truck carriers, are not entitled to injunctive relief to restrain alleged discriminatory rates on the part of a railroad.[64]

By interstate commerce commission. Suit may be maintained in equity by the interstate commerce commission to compel obedience to an order made by it forbidding the carrier to continue unjust discrimination.[65] In an action of this character, if the Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 226 N.W. 677, 248 Mich. 49.

Ohio—Quinn Coal Co. v. Hocking Valley Ry., 20 Ohio Cir Ct,N.S., 420—Johnson Coal Mining Co. v. Hocking Valley R. R. Co., 1 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 385.
10 C J p 506 note 52.

Discrimination against gravel company

(1) Act of railroad in organizing subsidiary corporation for production and sale of commercial gravel in competition with others, in selling gravel at price below cost of production to secure business of shipping gravel, constituting unjust discrimination against other producers constituted violation of statute, entitling injured party to injunctive relief—Federal Gravel Co. v. Detroit & M Ry. Co., 248 N.W. 831, 263 Mich. 341.

(2) Gravel company's suit against railroad and a gravel company owned and operated by it, to enjoin unlawful discrimination, resulting from railroad's manipulation of freight rates in favor of gravel company and payment of its deficit, was held to be within the jurisdiction of a court of equity, under the adjudicated cases as well as under statutory provisions—Federal Gravel Co v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 226 N.W 677, 248 Mich 49.

56. Mich.—Federal Gravel Co. v Detroit & M Ry. Co., 248 N.W. 831, 263 Mich 341.

57. U.S.—Cleveland & Western Coal Co v. Baltimore & O R. Co., D C.Ohio, 283 F 995—Corona Coal Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Ala., 266 F. 726, affirmed 43 S Ct. 91, 260 U S. 698, 67 L Ed 470.
Ohio—Socialist Co-Operative Publishing Co. v. American Express Co., 13 Ohio N P,N.S., 403.
10 C.J. p 507 note 53.

Distribution of assigned coal cars

A suit to enjoin a practice of a railroad company, in time of a shortage of coal cars, to deliver assigned cars, whether its own or those of other railroads or private owners, to mines with which the owners had contracts for coal, counting them against the quota of such mines under their respective ratings, under Interstate Commerce Act § 1 par 12, as amended by Transportation Act Febr. 28, 1920, and distributing commercial cars only to fill such quotas, presented an administrative question for determination by the interstate commerce commission, and not within the jurisdiction of the district court—Corona Coal Co v Southern Ry Co., D C.Ala., 266 F 726, affirmed 43 S.Ct. 91, 260 U S. 698, 67 L Ed. 470

58. U S.—Central Stock-Yards Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., C C Ky., 112 F. 823—Farmers' L. & T. Co v. Northern Pac. R. Co., C C.Wash., 83 F. 249.

59. Mo.—Chouteau v. Union R., etc., Co., 22 Mo App 286.
10 C J. p 507 note 55.

60. Pa.—Roberts v Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 22 Pa Dist. 935.

Cease and desist order

Evidence held to sustain finding that a railroad 2.63 miles in length was but a terminal system for two railroad systems, thereby justifying a cease and desist order restraining such systems from unfair discrimination in making a charge for shipments delivered on such short line but making no charge for such switching done on their own lines.—Minneapolis Civic & Commerce Ass'n v. Chicago, M. & P. Ry. Co., 158 N.W. 817, 134 Minn. 169, affirmed Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry Co. v. Minneapolis Civic & Commerce Ass'n, 38 S Ct. 553, 247 U S. 490, 62 L Ed. 1229.

61. U S.—U. S. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., D.C.Wash., 18 F.2d 299.

Past violations

Where the discrimination alleged is the leasing of property by the railroad to certain persons and corporations at a rental below the actual value thereof, where such leases have expired at the time of the suit, an injunction against such leases will not be granted, as no injunctive decree can alter or remedy the situation, for the simple reason that past occurrences and events are not subject to preventive measures—U. S v Northern Pac. Ry. Co., D.C. Wash., 18 F 2d 299.

62. Ohio—Scofield v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 5 N.E. 907, 43 Ohio St 571, 54 Am.R 846.

63. Pa.—Roberts v Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 22 Pa.Dist 935

64. N.C.—Carolina Motors Service v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 185 S E 479, 210 N C. 36, 104 A.L R. 1165.

65. U.S. — Interstate Commerce Commn v. Western New York & P. R. Co., C.C Pa., 82 F. 192.
10 C.J. p 507 note 66.

carrier has been adjudged guilty of discrimination, it may be restrained from further violations of the act, but should not be enjoined in general terms from violating the act in the future in any particular.[66]

By federal government. Under the Elkins Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 43, a proceeding against a common carrier to restrain it from discriminating in its rates may be maintained on behalf of the United States by one of its law officers at the request of the interstate commerce commission,[67] or by such law officer on his own motion; and, at least where the matter does not involve an administrative determination, he may institute a proceeding to restrain discrimination by carriers without prior investigation on the part of the interstate commerce commission.[68] The statute applies not only to violations of the Elkins Act subsequent to its enactment but also to every violation, whether previously or subsequently committed,[69] but only common carriers subject to the provisions of the act may be enjoined in such proceedings.[70]

By state government. Under appropriate statutory provision, a state attorney general has authority to maintain, in the name of the state, a suit to enjoin a carrier from putting a discriminatory and unlawful rate into effect.[71]

§ 391. Suits against State Railroad Commission

A state railroad commission may be enjoined from fixing discriminatory rates or from penalizing a railroad for conforming to the orders of the interstate commerce commission as to rates.

An order of a state railroad[72] or public service or utilities commission[73] fixing unreasonably discriminatory rates may be enjoined, unless, on equitable principles, such a remedy is unwarranted or unnecessary.[74] Also, where the interstate commerce commission has ordered a railroad to discontinue discriminatory rates contrary to the orders of a state railroad commission, the railroad may temporarily enjoin the state commission from suing it for damages or penalties or otherwise penalizing it for conforming to the orders of the interstate commerce commission;[75] but a railroad has no right to enjoin such a commission from enforc-

66. U.S.—New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commn., Va., 26 S.Ct. 272, 200 U. S. 361, 50 L.Ed. 515
10 C.J. p. 507 note 67.

67. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. U. S., Kan., 23 S.Ct. 507, 189 U. S. 274, 47 L.Ed. 811—U. S. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., C.C.Ill., 122 F. 544
10 C.J. p. 507 note 61.

Prior to the passage of the Elkins Act the government was without power to commence a proceeding in equity against a common carrier to restrain it from discriminating in its rates, especially where there had been no antecedent order of the interstate commerce commission forbidding the alleged discrimination and a failure of defendant to comply with the order—U. S. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.Mo., 142 F. 176—
10 C.J. p. 507 notes 59, 60.

68. U.S.—U. S. v. Milwaukee Refrigerator Transit Co., C.C.Wis., 145 F. 1007.

69. U.S.—U. S. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., C.C.Ill., 122 F. 544.
10 C.J. p. 507 note 64.

70. U.S.—U. S. v. Union Stockyard, etc., Co., 192 F. 330, affirmed 33 S.Ct. 83, 226 U.S. 286, 57 L.Ed. 226.

71. Ala.—State v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 72 So. 494, 197 Ala. 203.

72. Miss. — Mississippi Railroad Commission v. Mobile & O. R. Co., 123 So. 876, 154 Miss. 871.

Order not negative in character
"Railroad Commission's order which affirmatively found that special discriminatory rate between certain points which railroads published inadvertently was, and had been since its publication, legally in effect between such points and intermediate points, and that rate was properly applicable between intermediate points, and which denied carriers right to cancel rate, was not a negative order which courts will refuse to enjoin, since railroad companies, being common carriers, were bound to transport freight offered to them, and effect of order was to require carriers to continue to apply discriminatory rate."—Mississippi Railroad Commission v. Mobile & O. R. Co., 123 So. 876, 154 Miss. 871.

An intra-state rate on fertilizer material originally granted by a railroad to establish a new industry and which was less than one half the rate prescribed by the state railroad commission for similar hauls of the same material in the same quantities in other places, some of which are competitors in the market, to the place to which the rate in controversy was granted, is discriminatory, and the order for its enforcement may be enjoined, regardless of whether it is unremunerative—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Trammell, D.C.Ga., 287 F. 741.

73. Kan.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. State Public Service Commission, 287 P. 608, 130 Kan. 478
—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. v. Public Utilities Commission, 172 P. 1022, 103 Kan. 111.

74. U.S.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Trammell, D.C.Ga., 287 F. 741.

Preliminary injunction
A carrier which had originally established a rate for transportation of two commodities between designated points which had existed for twenty years, except as affected by the horizontal increases and reductions during government control, and which had acquiesced for more than a year in an order of the state commission continuing that rate in effect, and made no showing that any considerable damage would be suffered by the refusal of a preliminary injunction, is not entitled to a preliminary injunction to restrain the enforcement of that rate by the state commission, where the answer of the commission averred it was about to formulate a general revision of this and other rates.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Trammell, D.C.Ga., 287 F. 741.

75. U.S.—Eastern Texas R. Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas, D.C.Tex., 242 F. 300, appeal dismissed Looney v. Eastern Texas R. Co., 38 S.Ct. 460, 247 U.S. 214, 62 L.Ed. 1084.

Injunction erroneously issued Injunction setting aside Arkansas railroad commission's order suspending intra-state commodity tariff on theory that interstate commerce commission had declared existing tariff discriminatory, was held to ing freight rates which it has established, on the ground that they unreasonably discriminate against shippers, nor is such a remedy available to a railroad on the ground that the rate discriminates against it, unless the discrimination amounts to a denial of the equal protection of the laws guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment to the constitution of the United States.[76]

In a suit by a local chamber of commerce to enjoin the enforcement of an order of the railroad commission fixing rates between cities, the merchants doing business along the line of the road may properly be joined as plaintiffs.[77]

The burden of proof is in all cases on the complaining party to show that the rates are unjust and discriminatory,[78] and the general rules as to evidence[79] and trial[80] apply. Where there is no complaint as to the rates from the standpoint of revenue to the carriers, the court must assume that the rates are sufficiently high, if the same average is maintained, to furnish sufficient revenue.[81]

4. Status of Contracts in Violation of Statutes against Discrimination

§ 392. Contracts in Violation of Interstate Commerce Law

Contracts in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act are void.

Contracts which are in violation of the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act prohibiting unjust discrimination are void and unenforceable,[82] at least to the extent that they are indivisible in the sense that the legal part may not be separated from the illegal.[83] Such contracts are sub-have been erroneously issued.—Arkansas Railroad Commission v. Chicago, R I & P. R Co, 47 S.Ct 724, 274 U.S. 597, 71 L Ed 1224.

76. U.S.—Arkadelphia Milling Co. v. St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co, Ark., 39 S Ct. 237, 249 U.S 134, 63 L Ed. 517, motion denied 39 S. Ct. 237, 249 U.S. 134, 63 L.Ed. 517.

Contract carrier

A suit by a contract carrier against a state department of public service to enjoin the enforcement of its order fixing rates to be charged by contract carriers on the ground that there was a discrimination in favor of special carriers was dismissed, it being considered that there was a difference in the two types of carrier justifying the apparent discrimination.—Prater v Department of Public Service of Washington, Wash, 60 P 2d 238.

77. Tex—State R. Commn. v Galveston Chamber of Commerce, 115 S W. 94, 51 Tex Civ.App. 476

78. Tex.—State R. Commn v Galveston Chamber of Commerce, supra

10 C.J. p 508 note 69.

79. Tex—Galveston Chamber of Commerce v. State R Commn, Civ. App, 137 S.W 737

10 C J. p 508 note 69 [b].

80. Question of fact

Whether town, granted exception by railroad commission to general rule compelling shippers of cotton for warehousing from or past bonded warehouses to pay more freight, offered better market for cotton than city wherein warehouse of company suing to enjoin enforcement of exception as discriminatory was located was matter of fact for trial court on conflicting evidence—Railroad Commission of Texas v. San Antonio Compress Co, Civ App, 264 S.W. 214, error denied 278 S W. 1115, 114 Tex. 582.

81. Tex.—Galveston Chamber of Commerce v. State R. Commn, Civ. App., 137 S.W. 737.

82. U S—Chesapeake & O. Ry Co. v. Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co, 46 S Ct 220, 270 U S. 260, 70 L.Ed 576, affirming 123 S.E. 352, 138 Va 647, certiorari granted 45 S Ct 98, 266 U S 598, 69 L Ed 460.

Kan—Parker Corn Co. v. Chicago, B & Q. R. Co., 244 P. 240, 120 Kan 484.

Mo.—Security Stove & Mfg. Co. v. American Ry Express Co, 51 S W.2d 572, 227 Mo.App 175—Cicardi Bros. Fruit & Produce Co. v. Pennsylvania Co, 213 S.W. 531, 201 Mo. App 609.

N J.—Lehigh Valley R. Co v. United Lead Co., 133 A. 290, 102 N J Law 545

N.C—McLemore v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 154 S.E 390, 199 N.C. 264—Edenton Cotton Mills v. Norfolk Southern R Co, 100 S E 341, 178 N.C 212

Ohio.—Carollo v. Railway Express Agency, 3 N.E 2d 659, 52 Ohio App. 272.

Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Cameron, 124 A. 638, 280 Pa. 458.

Tex—Texas & P. Ry. Co v West Bros, Com App., 207 S.W. 918, affirming in part and reversing in part St. Louis, I. M. & S Ry. Co v West Bros., Civ.App., 159 S.W. 142, rehearing denied Texas & P Ry. Co v. West Bros., Com App, 214 S W 808—Fort Worth & R. G Ry. Co v Burns, Civ.App., 242 S W 295.

Va—Norfolk Tidewater Terminals v Norfolk & P. Belt Line R. Co, 195 S E 684

Wis.—Holt Lumber Co. v. Duluth, S S & A. Ry. Co., 238 N.W. 839, 206 Wis 77

10 C J p 509 note 79.

Agreement to pay damages

An agreement by a carrier to pay damages, not occurring on its lines, to goods shipped in interstate commerce under a bill of lading providing that no carrier shall be liable for loss other than on its own lines, is unenforceable—Southern Ry Co. v. Lewis & Adcock Co., 201 S W. 131, 139 Tenn. 37, L R A 1918C 976.

In equity

Equity can decline to enforce shipper's notes and pledges to railway's subsidiary if constituting devices to effectuate rebates or special privileges—Kerr v. Southwestern Lumber Co of New Jersey, C.C.A.Tex., 78 F. 2d 348, affirming, D.C, Southwestern Lumber Co. of New Jersey v. Kerr, 11 F Supp 253, and certiorari denied Kerr v. Southwestern Lumber Co. of New Jersey, 56 S Ct 130, 296 U.S. 611, 80 L Ed. 433.

Supplemental agreement ineffectual

Original agreement for operation of private logging railroad, which was illegal because providing for a preference in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act, was not validated by a supplemental agreement requiring payment to carrier for future use of rails.—Holt Lumber Co v Duluth, S S & A Ry Co, 238 N W. 839, 206 Wis 77

83. U.S—Central R Co of New Jersey v. U. S. Pipe Line Co, C.C. A.Pa., 1 F.2d 866, affirming, D C., 290 F. 983.

10 C J p 509 note 79 [b].

Separable provision not invalidated

Provisions in an express company's receipt for a shipment which were invalid under the Cummins amendment, as amended by Act August 9, 1916, Comp St. § 8604a, such as limiject to the general rule that a party to an illegal contract cannot set up a case in which he must necessarily disclose an illegal purpose as the groundwork of his claim.[84]

One of the principal purposes of the Interstate Commerce Act was to enjoin on carriers the positive duty to establish schedules of reasonable rates which should have a uniform application to all, and which should not be departed from as long as the established schedule remains unaltered in the manner provided for by law,[85] and the effect of its enactment has been entirely to abrogate the right of private contract between the shipper and the carrier, as far as interstate transportation of freight is concerned.[86] Under the Act the published tariff may not be avoided, enlarged, or varied by the shipper and the carrier through express or implied contract,[87] or through the tort of the carrier,[88] and neither party is permitted, to release the other from any liability imposed tation of the carrier's liability to transportation over its own lines, which were separable from the provision permitted by that amendment, limiting the liability to a stated value, unless greater value was declared, do not invalidate the latter provision.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Lindenburg, 43 S.Ct. 206, 260 U.S. 584, 67 L.Ed. 414, reversing Lindenburg v. American Ry. Express Co., 106 S.E. 884, 88 W.Va. 439.

84. U.S.—Oregon Short Line R. Co. v. American Smelting & Refining Co., C.C.A.Utah, 269 F. 898.

85. U.S.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Abilene Cotton Oil Co., Tex., 27 S.Ct. 350, 204 U.S. 426, 51 L.Ed. 553, 9 Ann.Cas. 1075.

10 C.J. p. 510 note 81.

Purpose of act to prevent unjust discrimination generally see supra § 350.

"Purpose of the act in requiring tariffs containing the rates of carriers to be filed was to secure uniformity, to secure the same treatment to all shippers alike by requiring them to pay one rate as established, published, and posted."—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. U. S. Pipe Line Co., C.C.A.Pa., 1 F.2d 866, 868, affirming, D.C., 290 F. 983.

"Purpose of congress in the enactment of section 6 of the Interstate Commerce Act, as amended by Hepburn Act, § 2, is obviously to provide for a system of tariff schedules, rates, fares, and charges which would be uniform and consistent and apply without discrimination or favoritism to all shippers similarly situated."—Alton & S. R. R. v. U. S., D.C.Cal., 49 F.2d 414, 422.

86. U.S.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Lawrence, D.C.Okl., 30 F.2d 458, affirmed Lawrence v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 49 S.Ct. 106, 278 U.S. 228, 73 L.Ed. 282—Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Magnolia Provision Co., C.C.A.Tex., 26 F.2d 72, affirming, D.C., Magnolia Provision Co. v. Beaumont S. L. & W. Ry. Co., 20 F.2d 384, certiorari denied Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Magnolia Provision Co., 49 S.Ct. 23, 278 U.S. 620, 73 L.Ed. 542—Ingalls v. Maine Cent. R. Co., D.C.Me., 24 F.2d 113, supplemental opinion, 49 F.2d 631.

N.M.—Enderstein v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 157 P. 670, 21 N.M. 548

Pa.—Kaplan v. Director General of Railroads, 78 Pa.Super. 195

Tenn.—Oman v. Tennessee Central Ry. Co., 7 Tenn.App. 141.

Wis.—Northern Wisconsin Produce Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 234 N.W. 726, 203 Wis. 549—Wirch v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 222 N.W. 232, 197 Wis. 316—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. J. I. Case Plow Works, 180 N.W. 846, 173 Wis. 237—Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co. v. Peterson, 169 N.W. 558, 168 Wis. 193

10 C.J. p. 510 note 82

Special contracts prohibited

Under the Interstate Commerce Act, neither the carrier nor the shipper are permitted to engage in any contract different from that open to the general public, or which imposes any additional advantages to the shipper or more extended duties on the part of the carrier.—Adams Express Co. v. Burr Oak Jersey Farm, 206 S.W. 173, 182 Ky. 116.

87. U.S.—Keogh v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., Ill., 43 S.Ct. 47, 260 U.S. 156, 67 L.Ed. 183, affirming, C.C.A., 271 F. 444, certiorari denied 41 S.Ct. 537, 256 U.S. 699, 65 L.Ed. 1177—American Ry. Express Co. v. American Trust Co., C.C.A.Ind., 47 F.2d 16, reversing, D.C., American Trust Co. v. American Ry. Express Co., 42 F.2d 272, and certiorari denied 52 S.Ct. 13, 284 U.S. 629, 76 L.Ed. 536—Ingalls v. Maine Cent. R. Co., D.C.Me., 24 F.2d 113, supplemental opinion, 49 F.2d 631—J. C. Famechon Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 23 F.2d 307, affirming, D.C., 11 F.2d 312

Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. A. H. Cleaver & Co., 101 So. 597, 211 Ala. 661.

Ill.—Davis v. Keystone Steel & Wire Co., 148 N.E. 47, 317 Ill. 278—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Chicago Heights Terminal Transfer R. Co., 147 N.E. 666, 317 Ill. 65, error dismissed 46 S.Ct. 207, 270 U.S. 626, 70 L.Ed. 767.

Kan.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. F. H. Stannard & Co., 162 P. 1176, 99 Kan. 720, L.R.A.1917C 1124

La.—Davis v. Ferguson, 132 So. 289, 17 La.App. 149.

Me.—Grant v. American Ry. Express Co., 139 A. 784, 126 Me. 489.

Minn.—Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co. v. Reeves Coal Co., 181 N.W. 335, 148 Minn. 196, 14 A.L.R. 405

Miss.—Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Jensen, 139 So. 840, 162 Miss. 741.

Mo.—Cicardi Bros. Fruit & Produce Co. v. Pennsylvania Co., 213 S.W. 531, 201 Mo.App. 609

N.Y.—Stevens v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 202 N.Y.S. 195, 207 App.Div. 442, affirmed 147 N.E. 200, 239 N.Y. 572, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 463, 267 U.S. 603, 69 L.Ed. 809—Dickerson v. Erie R. Co., 169 N.Y.S. 5, 181 App.Div. 815

Tex.—City Nat. Bank of El Paso v. El Paso & N. E. Ry. Co., Civ.App., 225 S.W. 391, certiorari granted 42 S.Ct. 461, 258 U.S. 616, 66 L.Ed. 792, and affirmed 43 S.Ct. 640, 262 U.S. 695, 67 L.Ed. 1184

Va.—McGuire v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 118 S.E. 225, 136 Va. 382.

Wash.—Pacific Fruit & Produce Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 186 P. 852, 109 Wash. 481, 10 A.L.R. 337.

10 C.J. p. 510 note 83.

Reason for rule

This stringent rule prevails, because otherwise the paramount purpose of congress—prevention of unjust discrimination—might be defeated.—Keogh v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., Ill., 43 S.Ct. 47, 260 U.S. 156, 67 L.Ed. 183, affirming, C.C.A., 271 F. 444, certiorari denied 41 S.Ct. 537, 256 U.S. 699, 65 L.Ed. 1177

Payment of a schedule freight rate binds both shipper and carrier to the observance of the conditions and limitations of such schedule as filed with the interstate commerce commission.—Tuller v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., 168 N.W. 301, 186 Iowa 1070.

88. U.S.—Keogh v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., Ill., 43 S.Ct. 47, 260 U.S. 156, 67 L.Ed. 183, affirming, C.C.A., 271 F. 444, certiorari denied 41 S.Ct. 537, 256 U.S. 699, 65 L.Ed. 1177.

thereby.[89] Accordingly, it is unlawful for either party to depart from the duly filed and published tariff rates[90] in effect at the time the shipment is

89. Ill.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Lehigh Stone Co., 220 Ill.App. 563
Minn.—Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co. v. Reeves Coal Co., 181 N. W. 335, 148 Minn. 196, 14 A.L.R. 405

Prepayment of freight

Carrier engaged in interstate commerce could not, in view of Interstate Commerce Act § 6 subs. 7, 49 U.S.C.A. § 6 (7), waive terms of published tariff requiring prepayment of freight and agree that terminal carrier, as its agent, appropriate and apply money collected by it in liquidation of freight charges due by other persons to payment of freight for which original consignee became initially liable and substitute undertaking of terminal carrier so to make collections and apply them to consignee's obligation.—Monongahela Ry. Co. v. Read, 127 A. 739, 147 Md. 144.

90. U.S.—Louisville N. R. Co. v. Central Iron & Coal Co., Ala., 44 S.Ct. 441, 265 U.S. 59, 68 L.Ed. 900, affirming, C.C.A., 284 F. 250—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Fink, 40 S.Ct. 27, 250 U.S. 577, 63 L.Ed. 1151, reversing Fink v. Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 19 Ohio Cir.Ct.R.,N.S., 103—Eagle Cotton Oil Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Miss., 46 F.2d 1006, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 51 F.2d 443, certiorari denied Southern R. Co. v. Eagle Cotton Oil Co., 52 S.Ct. 130, 284 U.S. 675, 76 L.Ed. 571—Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 25 F.2d 66—Ingalls v. Maine Cent. R. Co., D.C.Me., 24 F.2d 113, supplemental opinion, 49 F.2d 631—Famechon Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 23 F.2d 307, affirming, D.C., 11 F.2d 312—New York & Pennsylvania Co. v. Davis, D.C.N.Y., 8 F.2d 662—Central R. Co. of New Jersey v. U. S. Pipe Line Co., C.C.A.Pa., 1 F.2d 866, affirming, D.C., 290 F. 983—Davis v. Southern Pac. Co., D.C.Cal., 235 F. 731.
Ala.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Brown, 144 So. 124, 25 Ala. App. 243
Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Pfeiffer Stone Co., 266 S.W. 82, 166 Ark. 226
Del.—Windsor v. American Ry. Exp. Co., 143 A. 37, 4 W.W.Harr. 16.
Ill.—Davis v. Keystone Steel & Wire Co., 148 N.E. 47, 317 Ill. 278—Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co. v. Chicago Heights Terminal Transfer R. Co., 147 N.E. 666, 317 Ill. 65, error dismissed 46 S.Ct. 207, 270 U.S. 626, 70 L.Ed. 767
Iowa.—Sheldon v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 169 N.W. 189, 184 Iowa 865.
Kan.—Kanotex Refining Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 46 P.2d 16, 142 Kan. 139—Farrar v. Perkins, 251 P. 440, 122 Kan. 141.
Me.—Grant v. American Ry. Express Co., 139 A. 784, 126 Me. 489
Mass.—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. York & Whitney Co., 119 N.E. 855, 230 Mass. 206, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds 41 S.Ct. 509, 256 U.S. 406, 65 L.Ed. 1016.
Mich.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Claspy, 226 N.W. 216, 247 Mich. 549.
Minn.—Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co. v. Reeves Coal Co., 181 N.W. 335, 148 Minn. 196, 14 A.L.R. 405.
Miss.—Brookhaven Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Mississippi Cent. R. Co., 122 So. 472, 154 Miss. 303—Lexington Compress & Oil Mill Co. v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co., 95 So. 92, 131 Miss. 49—Southern Ry. Co. in Mississippi v. Buckeye Cotton Oil Co., 89 So. 228, 126 Miss. 562
Mo.—Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Southern Sawmill Co., 251 S.W. 434, 212 Mo. App. 117—Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Laclede Lumber Co., 216 S.W. 798, 202 Mo.App. 630—Cicardi Bros. Fruit & Produce Co. v. Pennsylvania Co., 213 S.W. 531, 201 Mo.App. 609—Sunderland Bros. Co. v. Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co., 190 S.W. 650, 196 Mo.App. 154.
N.Y.—Stevens v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 202 N.Y.S. 195, 207 App. Div. 442, affirmed 147 N.E. 200, 239 N.Y. 572, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 463, 297 U.S. 603, 69 L.Ed. 809—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Weyant, 165 N.Y.S. 391
N.C.—Edenton Cotton Mills v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 100 S.E. 341, 178 N.C. 212.
Ohio.—New York, C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Miller City Tile Co., 19 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 244.
Okl.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. McNabb, 162 P. 811, 63 Okl. 87.
Pa.—Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co. v. South Shore R. Co., 107 A. 680, 264 Pa. 162—Erie R. Co. v. Kreitner Bros., Inc., 3 Pa.Dist. & Co. 251
Tenn.—Oman v. Tennessee Cent. Ry. Co., 7 Tenn.App. 141
Tex.—Houston & T. C. Ry. Co. v. Ahlers, Civ.App., 274 S.W. 333
W.Va.—Whitaker Glessner Co. v. Wheeling Terminal Ry. Co., 127 S.E. 639, 99 W.Va. 38.
10 C.J. p. 431 notes 9, 16, 17, p. 511 note 93.

Accomodations and facilities

(1) Agreements to furnish accommodations or facilities not contemplated by the published tariffs are void and unenforceable.
U.S.—Davis v. Cornwell, 44 S.Ct. 410, 264 U.S. 560, 68 L.Ed. 848, reversing Cornwell v. Davis, 213 P. 218, 66 Mont. 100.
Kan.—Parker Corn Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 244 P. 240, 120 Kan. 484.
Md.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Peninsula Produce Exch., 130 A. 346, 148 Md. 465—Monongahela Ry. Co. v. Read, 127 A. 739, 147 Md. 144.
N.Y.—Siebert v. Erie R. Co., 179 N.Y.S. 136, 189 App.Div. 586—Emil Grossman Mfg. Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 169 N.Y.S. 213, 181 App.Div. 764.

(2) Accordingly, a discriminatory agreement of initial carrier to protect less than carload shipment of eggs from cold beyond initial line was void.—Northern Wisconsin Produce Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 234 N.W. 726, 203 Wis. 549.

Agreement with consignee

(1) Freight charges must coincide with rate fixed by law, notwithstanding contrary agreements between consignee and carrier.—Dare v. New York Cent. R. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 20 F.2d 379.

(2) An agreement by the consignee to pay more than the legal rate on interstate shipment does not render him liable for any amount in excess of such legal rate.—A. M. Lewin Lumber Co. v. Louisville & N. Ry. Co., 19 Ohio App. 152.

If carrier violates the Act § 6 49 U.S.C.A. § 6, requiring the establishing and posting of rates, this will not make valid a contract, which is in violation of §§ 2, 3 of the Act, 49 U.S.C.A. §§ 2, 3, prohibiting discrimination in rates.—Foster Lumber Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 194 S.W. 281, 270 Mo. 629, L.R.A.1918A 768.

Inclusion of article among commodities bearing lower rates, although desirable from transportation standpoint, cannot be accomplished by arbitrary departure from tariff.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Eichler, C.C.A. Mo., 56 F.2d 1010.

Specific performance denied

In view of Interstate Commerce Act §§ 2, 3, 12, 49 U.S.C.A. §§ 2, 3, 12, where railroad company filed with interstate commerce commission tariffs in proper form, published as required by such act, regulating charges for hauling slag, etc., from iron and steel mills located on railway, contract between iron millowner and railroad company, executed before passage of act, by which railroad agreed to haul away wastage without pay, as consideration for deed to right of way, cannot be specifically enforced.—Whitaker Glessmade,[91] although they are unjust,[92] or are in violation of the long and short haul clause of the Act,[93] or were not published in the form and manner provided by rulings of the commission,[94] unless and until they are changed in the manner provided by law.[95] In fact the Act is violated although rates below those published are offered to shippers similarly situated and it is shown that in the particular case involved no harm has resulted,[96] and shippers, carriers, and consignees alike are presumed to know the law and understand that the rates charged or the services furnished can lawfully be only such as are prescribed by the tariff.[97] However, where freight is shipped solely for the use and benefit of the carrier itself, the rates may be below those published.[98] Also, it has been ner Co v. Wheeling Terminal Ry Co., 127 S.E. 639, 99 W.Va. 38.

Strict compliance with statute

The provision of the Interstate Commerce Act to the effect that a carrier shall not charge or receive any different compensation, whether greater or less, than that shown by the filed and published schedule of rates must be strictly complied with because it is necessary to carry out the purpose of congress to prevent unjust discrimination.—Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Magnolia Provision Co., C.C.A.Tex., 26 F.2d 72, affirming, D.C., Magnolia Provision Co. v. Beaumont S. L. & W. Ry. Co., 20 F.2d 384, certiorari denied Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Magnolia Provision Co., 49 S.Ct. 23, 278 U.S. 620, 73 L.Ed. 542.

Switching and spotting charges

(1) Contract to pay additional amount for performing spotting service by special engine and crew, which service is covered by tariff, is both without consideration and illegal.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. Westinghouse, Church, Kerr & Co., 46 S.Ct. 220, 270 U.S. 260, 70 L.Ed. 576, affirming 123 S.E. 352, 138 Va. 647, certiorari granted 45 S.Ct. 98, 266 U.S. 598, 69 L.Ed. 460.

(2) A railroad company owning a short line operated as a facility to a large steel plant, and engaged in switching and placing cars received from plaintiff, an interstate carrier, could not recover compensation from plaintiff, where no schedule of rates had been filed by plaintiff, as provided by Interstate Commerce Act.—Pittsburgh & L. E. R. Co. v. South Shore R. Co., 107 A. 680, 264 Pa. 162.

(3) Movement of cars from wharf track, where bananas were loaded, to team track, where most of them were sold, was not for railroad company's convenience, and it was required to collect the switching charge therefor, as per its tariffs and schedules on file with the interstate commerce commission.—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., D.C.La., 230 F. 940.

91. Or.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. Cascade Contract Co., 197 P. 1085, 101 Or. 582, petition denied 200 P. 1034, 101 Or. 582.

92. U.S.—Davis v. Prairie Pipe Line Co., C.C.A.Kan., 298 F. 393.

93. U.S.—Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Magnolia Provision Co., C.C.A.Tex., 26 F.2d 72, affirming, D.C., Magnolia Provision Co. v. Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co., 20 F.2d 384, certiorari denied Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Magnolia Provision Co., 49 S.Ct. 23, 278 U.S. 620, 73 L.Ed. 542.

94. U.S.—Magnolia Provision Co. v. Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co., D.C.Tex., 20 F.2d 384, affirmed, C.C.A., Beaumont, S. L. & W. Ry. Co. v. Magnolia Provision Co., 26 F.2d 72, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 23, 278 U.S. 620, 73 L.Ed. 542.

95. Mo.—Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Southern Sawmill Co., 251 S.W. 434, 212 Mo.App. 117.

Printing new schedules

If a tariff rate was unreasonable, the only way it could be changed so as to relieve the carrier from the obligation of applying that rate was to require the carrier, under Interstate Commerce Act § 6, 49 U.S.C.A. § 6, to print new schedules showing the changes, or by indicating them on schedules already enforced.—Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Southern Sawmill Co., 251 S.W. 434, 212 Mo.App. 117.

96. U.S.—Davis v. Southern Pac. Co., D.C.Cal., 235 F. 731, 738.

"It was competent for Congress to provide ways and means whereby uniformity and equality in the matter of railroad rates might be secured to those who were compelled to make use of public utilities. It was also competent for it, in its wisdom, to determine the means whereby discrimination, nonuniformity, and inequality, as among shippers, might be most advantageously perpetrated. In that spirit, as a means of putting it beyond the power of a carrier to do that which might give it the opportunity of indulging in discriminatory practices, it was likewise competent for that body absolutely to prohibit the doing of those things which might become the cloak of unbridled discrimination and favoritism. This Congress has done in saying that there shall be no departure from the published tariffs. So it will not do, in my judgment, to say merely that as long as no discrimination apparently results, a carrier may do any and all of the things prohibited by the act. Congress has said these prohibitions are necessary, presumably to attain the end desired. It is not open to this court, then, the end apparently having been attained, to hold the prohibitions unnecessary and their enactment a futility. If the Commerce Act is to be made an efficient instrumentality in the abolition of special privileges and the equalizing of rates, which, as demonstrated by repeated amendments, has been the aim, the practices which Congress in its wisdom and competency saw proper to prohibit must be regarded at all times as being under the ban of 'the law."—Davis v. Southern Pac. Co., supra.

97. U.S.—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Fink, 40 S.Ct. 27, 250 U.S. 577, 63 L.Ed. 1151, reversing Fink v. Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 19 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 103.

Ala.—Northern Alabama Ry. Co. v. Phillips, 126 So. 846, 220 Ala. 541.—Hurt v. Atlanta, B. & A. Ry. Co., 84 So. 631, 17 Ala.App. 241.

Md.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Peninsula Produce Exch., 130 A. 346, 148 Md. 465.

Mass.—New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co. v. York & Whitney Co., 117 N.E. 855, 230 Mass. 206, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds 41 S.Ct. 509, 256 U.S. 406, 65 L.Ed. 1016.

Miss.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. F. A. Hulett & Son, 131 So. 814, 159 Miss. 333.

Mo.—Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Laclede Lumber Co., 216 S.W. 798, 202 Mo.App. 630.

N.Y.—Willson v. American Ry. Express Co., 197 N.Y.S. 600, 204 App.Div. 59, affirmed 147 N.E. 196, 239 N.Y. 562.

Vt.—Montpelier & W. R. R. R. v. Charles Bianchi & Sons, 113 A. 534, 95 Vt. 81.

Notice of change

Where, an agreement by interstate carrier to collect freight at pier, is void under Interstate Commerce Act as contravening terms of published tariff, carrier is not required to notify original consignee of discontinuance of practice of collecting freight in such manner, as the shipper is presumed to know that the contract is void.—Monongahela Ry. Co. v. Read, 127 A. 739, 147 Md. 144.

98. U.S.—Oklahoma Belt R. Co. v. Schaff, C.C.A.Okl., 282 F. 128.

Agreement valid

Where plaintiff, who contracted to construct and lease a line of rail-held that § 6 of the Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 6, does not forbid the collection of an unpublished rate,[99] and, in the absence of the establishment of a freight rate under the Interstate Commerce Act, the carrier and the shipper may fix the rate on an interstate shipment.[1] Further, if a contract with reference to rates is susceptible of two constructions, one of which would make it in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act and the other not, the latter construction will be adopted in preference to the former.[2]

Statute applicable to contracts existing at time of enactment. The Interstate Commerce Act and the amendments thereto apply, not only to contracts entered into after the enactment of the statute, but also to contracts existing at the time of their enactment.[3]

Effect of subsequent change in rate. Carriers may validly contract with shippers for a single transportation or successive transportations subject to a change of rates in the manner provided by the Interstate Commerce Act;[4] but a contract between a carrier and a shipper to transport the latter's goods in interstate commerce at the then established rates for a definite time is ineffective after a higher rate has been filed and published as required by the statute.[5] Where a contract for an interstate shipment is illegal because lower than the established schedule, a subsequent lowering of the rate to that specified in the contract does not validate the contract.[6]

§ 393. Effect on Carrier's Right to Recover Schedule Rates

Under the Interstate Commerce Act, a carrier has both a right and an absolute duty to recover the scheduled rates, regardless of its contract

An interstate carrier of freight has both a right and a duty to recover the rate fixed by the published tariff, although the shipping contract specifies a different rate or otherwise violates the terms of the Interstate Commerce Act,[7] and if it has collected less than the published rate it has both way to the receiver of another road for the period of receivership, with an option to continue for ten years and with trackage rights after expiration of lease, was not required to ballast road, receiver's agreement, in consideration of fact that ballasting would reduce expense of maintenance and operation, to transport chats for ballasting for cost of transporting in work trains, instead of amount fixed by tariffs filed with the interstate commerce commission, was valid—Oklahoma Belt R. Co. v. Schaff, C.C.A.Okl., 282 F. 128.

Interstate Commerce Act not applicable

Interstate Commerce Act § 6 par 7, 49 U.S.C.A. § 6 (7), requiring uniform charges for interstate transportation, does not apply where the carrier is transporting material to be used by a contractor for the upkeep of the carrier's own road, in view of the provision prohibiting the transportation of any article produced by the carrier except such as may be intended for its own use.—Devine v. Meramec Portland Cement & Material Co., Mo.App., 253 S.W. 444

99. U.S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. M. McGirr's Sons Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 287 F. 334, certiorari denied M. McGirr's Sons Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 43 S.Ct. 520, 262 U.S. 743, 67 L.Ed. 1210.

Charges for towing services

A railroad company engaged in interstate commerce can recover for its services in towing a shipper's car floats, which service was not a part of the interstate carriage, although it has not filed with the interstate commerce commission a tariff showing the charges for such services as required for charges for interstate carriage by Interstate Commerce Act § 6, as amended by Act June 29, 1906, § 2, Comp.St. § 8569.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. M. McGirr's Sons Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 287 F. 334 certiorari denied M. McGirr's Sons Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 43 S.Ct. 520, 262 U.S. 743, 67 L.Ed. 1210.

1. Mo.—Mott Store Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 168 S.W. 322, 184 Mo.App. 50
10 C.J. p 511 note 90.

2. N.Y.—Stevens v. Atchison, T. & S.F. Ry. Co., 202 N.Y.S. 195, 207 App.Div. 442, affirmed 147 N.E. 200, 234 N.Y. 572, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 463, 267 U.S. 603, 69 L.Ed. 809.

Contract as to unpublished through rate

An export bill of lading providing for the carriage of goods to San Francisco and thence by steamship to Japan at a charge of one dollar and eighty-five cents per one hundred pounds, made up of the inland rate of ninety-five cents, and the ocean rate of ninety cents per hundredweight, should be given effect by construing the provision as contemplating two separate stages of transportation, rather than as providing for an indivisible contract, which would be invalid under Act Feb. 4, 1887, U.S.Comp.St. § 8563 et seq., because the through rate was not published and filed.—Stevens v. Atchison, T. & S.F. Ry. Co., 202 N.Y.S. 195, 207 App.Div. 442, affirmed 147 N.E. 200, 234 N.Y. 572, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 463, 267 U.S. 603, 69 L.Ed. 809.

3. U.S.—Chicago Great Western R. Co. v. Postal Telegraph-Cable Co., D.C.Ill., 245 F. 592, reversed on other grounds 249 F. 664, 161 C.C.A. 574, affirmed, N.Y., Postal Telegraph-Cable Co. v. Tonopah & Tidewater R. Co., 39 S.Ct. 162, 248 U.S. 471, 63 L.Ed. 365.
Miss.—W. M. Carter Planing Mill Co. v. New Orleans, M. & C. R. Co., 72 So. 884, 112 Miss. 148.
10 C.J. p 511 note 92.

Subsequent amendments applicable

Contract for maintenance and operation of railroad line to logging camp, giving the logging company privileges not granted to other shippers, was subject to amendments to the Interstate Commerce Act subsequently enacted while parties were operating under contract.—Holt Lumber Co. v. Duluth, S.S. & A. Ry. Co., 238 N.W. 839, 206 Wis. 77

4. U.S.—Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., Ill., 28 S.Ct. 493, 209 U.S. 108, 52 L.Ed. 705, affirming, C.C., 141 F. 1003.

5. U.S.—Armour Packing Co. v. U.S., Mo., 28 S.Ct. 428, 209 U.S. 56, 52 L.Ed. 681, affirming 153 F. 1, 82 C.C.A. 135, 14 L.R.A.,N.S., 400.
10 C.J. p 513 note 2.

6. Va.—Southern R. Co. v. Wilcox, 39 S.E. 144, 99 Va. 394.

7. U.S.—Great Northern Pac. S.S. Co. v. Rainier Brewing Co., Wash., 255 F. 762, 167 C.C.A. 106, error dismissed Rainier Brewing Co. v. Great Northern Pac. S.S. Co., 40 S.Ct. 54, 250 U.S. 652, 63 L.Ed. 1190.
Ala.—Hurt v. Atlanta, B. & A. Ry. Co., 84 So. 631, 17 Ala.App. 241.

a right and a duty to recover the remainder,[8] even though such rate be excessive, unreasonable, and unlawful.[9] These rights and duties, created by the Act, are for the protection of the public against secret rebates and discriminations rather than for the enrichment of the carrier.[10] So, the carrier cannot be estopped to assert the illegality of a contract made in violation of the statute,[11] and no act or omission of the carrier,[12] except allow-

Ga.—Williamson-Inman Co. v. Nashville, C. & St L Ry Co, 160 S.E. 687, 44 Ga App 129
Ill—Davis v. Keystone Steel & Wire Co, 148 N.E 47, 317 Ill 278.
Iowa—Sheldon v. Chicago, B & Q. R Co, 169 N.W 189, 184 Iowa 865.
Mass—American Ry Express Co v. Mohawk Dairy Co, 144 N.E. 721, 250 Mass. 1, 35 A L R 14
Miss—Lexington Compress & Oil Mill Co v Yazoo & M V R Co, 95 So. 93, 131 Miss 49
Mo.—Mobile & O R Co. v. Southern Sawmill Co, 251 S W. 434, 212 Mo. App 117
N Y.—Willson v. American Ry Express Co, 197 N.Y S 600, 204 App Div. 59, affirmed 147 N E. 196, 239 N Y. 562—Boston & M R. R v Standard Wall Paper Co, 181 N Y S. 129, 191 App Div. 307, affirmed 134 N E 593, 232 N.Y. 612
N.C—Edenton Cotton Mills v Norfolk Southern R Co., 100 S.E. 341, 178 N.C 212—Southern Ry. Co. v Latham, 97 S E 234, 176 N.C 417
Tenn—Oman v. Tennessee Cent. Ry. Co., 7 Tenn.App. 141.
10 C.J p 510 notes 84, 85.

Recovery from consignor

"The law imposes upon a railroad company the absolute duty to collect transportation charges, and, to relieve itself from the penalty imposed by law for failure or inability to exact the charges from the consignee, it must proceed against the consignor"—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v Lovell, 180 N.Y.S 922, 924, 111 Misc. 735.

8. U.S.—Louisville & N R. Co. v. Williamson, C C.A.Ga., 87 F 2d 34—McFadden v Alabama Great Southern R Co, Pa, 241 F. 562, 154 C C. A 338, affirming, D C, Alabama Great Southern R Co. v. George H McFadden & Bros, 232 F 1000.
Ala.—Nashville, C & St L. Ry Co v. Gilliam, 101 So 889, 212 Ala 120
Ark—Missouri Pac R Co v. Pfeiffer Stone Co., 266 S W. 82, 166 Ark. 226
Del.—In re Arlington Hotel Co., 98 A 186, 11 Del Ch 137.
Ill—Davis v Naugle Pole & Tie Co., 238 Ill App. 214.
Ind.—American Ry. Express Co v. Johnson Butter Co., 187 N E. 405, 97 Ind App. 537—Cleveland, C., C. & St L R. Co v. Alexandria Paper Co, 124 N.E. 402, 71 Ind App 119
Iowa.—Sheldon v. Chicago, B. & Q. R Co., 169 N.W 189, 184 Iowa 865
Minn.—Chicago Great Western R. Co. v Schmit, 203 N W. 618, 163 Minn. 194
N H—Director General of Railroads v. McCormack, 136 A 253, 82 N.H 528.
Tex—Houston & T C. Ry. Co. v. Ahlers, Civ App, 274 S W. 333.
10 C J p 511 note 88

Proper parties

In interstate carrier's action against shipper to recover excess of tariff rate over freight charges actually paid on shipments of metal scrap, there was no question that carrier had not sued the proper party, where shipper was both consignor and consignee in bills of lading—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Fox & London, C C A N Y, 93 F.2d 669, certiorari denied Fox & London v Pennsylvania R Co., 58 S Ct. 949.

Under settlement

A settlement between carrier and shipper by the payment and acceptance of a charge different from the rate in the published tariff does not preclude either party from enforcing the lawful rate.—Galveston, H & S A Ry. Co. v. Lykes Bros., D C Tex, 294 F 968.

Consignee liable

A consignee of interstate shipments who received the shipments and paid all charges claimed, which were less than the lawful rates established under the Interstate Commerce Act as a matter of law assumed liability for the only lawful rate which it had a right to pay or the carrier a right to charge, and could not escape liability therefor through any contract with the carrier, and its liability was not a question of fact to be determined from circumstances tending to show an implied agreement—New York Cent. & H. R R. Co v. York & Whitney Co, 41 S.Ct. 509, 256 U.S. 406, 65 L Ed 1016, affirming in part and reversing in part 119 N E. 855, 230 Mass. 206.

9. U S.—Davis v Krauss Bros Lumber Co, D.C La., 25 F.2d 888—North American Co v St Louis & S F. R Co, D C Mo, 288 F. 612, reversed on other grounds, C C A, Spiller v. St. Louis & S. F R. Co, 14 F.2d 284, certiorari granted St Louis & S. F. R. Co v Spiller, 47 S.Ct. 111, 273 U S. 680, 71 L Ed. 837, affirmed in part and reversed in part on other grounds 47 S Ct. 635, 274 U S. 304, 71 L Ed. 1060
Mo.—Mobile & O. R Co. v. Southern Sawmill Co, 251 S.W. 434, 212 Mo App. 117

10. U.S.—Button v. Atchison, T. & S F. Ry. Co, C C A Okl, 1 F 2d 709, error dismissed Atchison, T & S F Ry Co v Button, 46 S Ct. 349, 270 U S 670, 70 L.Ed. 791.

11. U S—Pennsylvania R Co v Fox & London, C C A.N Y, 93 F 2d 669, certiorari denied Fox & London v Pennsylvania R Co, 58 S Ct 949—Northern Pac. Ry Co v Sommers Bros Mfg Co, D.C.Idaho, 34 F 2d 56
Ala—Nashville, C & St. L Ry Co v. Gilliam, 101 So 889, 212 Ala 120—Western Ry of Alabama v. Collins, 78 So 833, 201 Ala. 455.
Mo—Bush v Keystone Driller Co, 199 S W 597, 199 Mo App 152.
N H—Director General of Railroads v. McCormack, 136 A. 253, 82 N.H. 528
N Y—New York Cent. R Co v Sharp, 213 N Y S. 867, 215 App Div 794, affirming 206 N.Y.S. 755, 124 Misc. 265.
N.C.—Davis v. Gulley, 123 S E. 318, 188 N.C 80
Tenn—Oman v Tennessee Cent. Ry Co, 7 Tenn App. 141—Tennessee Cent Ry. Co. v. W. R. Tate Co, 5 Tenn App. 82.
Tex.—Houston & T. C. Ry. Co. v. Ahlers, Civ App, 274 S W. 333.
10 C J p 511 note 91.

Illegality of payments

The carrier is not estopped from asserting the legality of the Interstate Commerce Act and the illegality of payments by shippers which would be in contravention to the act—Pennsylvania R Co v. Cameron, 124 A 638, 280 Pa. 458.

12. U S.—Louisville & N. R Co v Central Iron & Coal Co, Ala, 44 S Ct 441, 265 U.S. 59, 68 L.Ed 900, affirming, C C A, 284 F 250—Northern Pac Ry Co v Van Dusen Harrington Co, C C A Minn, 60 F 2d 394
Ala—Nashville, C & St L Ry Co v Gilliam, 101 So. 889, 212 Ala 120—Western Ry. of Alabama v. Collins, 78 So 833, 201 Ala 455
Cal—New York Cent. R. Co. v Frank H. Buck Co, 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384
Ill.—New York Cent R. Co. v. Lehigh Stone Co, 220 Ill App 563.
Kan—Kanotex Refining Co v. Atchison, T & S F. Ry. Co., 46 P.2d 16, 142 Kan 139.
La—Davis v. Selig & Baughman Hardware Co., 2 La App 665
Minn—Chicago, M & St P. Ry. Co. v. Greenberg, 166 N W. 1073, 139 Minn. 428, L R.A 1918D 158, Ann. Cas 1918E 456.
Miss.—Southern Ry. Co. in Mississip-ing the statute of limitations to run,[13] will estop or preclude it from enforcing the obligation of the shipper or consignee to pay the published freight rates. The circumstance that the rate was agreed on or paid and accepted through mistake of one or both parties does not affect the operation of the rule requiring the established rate to be charged and paid, since both are bound to take notice of the filed tariff rates.[14] In fact, even where the carrier's agent by mistake or otherwise quotes or collects a lower rate, it has both a right and duty to recover the published rate or the difference between that rate and a lower rate already collected in spite of any hardship accruing to the shipper or consignee,[15] and no error in failing to collect the legal transportation charges at the time of shipment or delivery will excuse the carrier from collecting the deficiency, or relieve the shipper from paying it,[16] nor is it material whether the mistaken rate is fixed in the bill of lading or pi v. Buckeye Cotton Oil Co., 89 So. 228, 126 Miss. 562

Mo.—Mobile & O. R. Co. v. Southern Sawmill Co., 251 S.W. 434, 212 Mo. App. 117.

Tex.—Texarkana & Ft. S. Ry. Co. v. Brewer, Civ.App., 19 S.W.2d 334.

Agreement to file lower rate

Alleged fact that shipper bought oil with understanding with carrier that carrier would immediately file lower rate with interstate commerce commission did not preclude carrier from enforcing full rate in effect at time of shipment.—Kanotex Refining Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 46 P.2d 16, 142 Kan. 139.

13. U.S.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Central Iron & Coal Co., Ala., 44 S.Ct. 441, 265 U.S. 59, 68 L.Ed. 900, affirming, C.C.A., 284 F. 250—Button v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Okl., 1 F.2d 709, error dismissed Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Button, 46 S.Ct. 349, 270 U.S. 670, 70 L.Ed. 791.

Cal.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Frank H. Buck Co., 41 P.2d 547, 2 Cal.2d 384.

14. U.S.—Western Grain Co. v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., C.C.A.Ala., 56 F.2d 160—Central Warehouse Co. v. Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Minn., 20 F.2d 828, affirming, D.C., Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Central Warehouse Co., 14 F.2d 123.

Ala.—Emerson v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 72 So. 120, 196 Ala. 280, L.R.A.1916F 120—Robert S. Armstrong & Bros. Co. v. Rowland, 118 So. 502, 22 Ala.App. 613.

Ill.—Mellon v. Landeck, 248 Ill.App. 353.

La.—Swindler v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., 5 La.App. 641.

N.Y.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Sharp, 213 N.Y.S. 867, 215 App.Div. 794, affirming 206 N.Y.S. 755, 124 Misc. 265.

Vt.—Montpelier & W. R. R. R. v. Charles Bianchi & Sons, 113 A. 534, 95 Vt. 81.

10 C.J. p. 511 note 94.

15. U.S.—Callaway v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., C.C.A.Mo., 35 F.2d 319—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Republic Box Co., D.C.Tex., 12 F.2d 441—American Express Co. v. Sweeney, D.C.Mass., 283 F. 691—Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Hyder, D.C.Wash., 279 F. 783—Payne v. Clarke, D.C.Cal., 271 F. 525—Portland Cattle Loan Co. v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., Or., 251 F. 33, 163 C.C.A. 283, affirming, D.C., Oregon Short Line R. Co. v. Portland Cattle Loan Co., 245 F. 214—Alabama Great Southern Ry. Co. v. George H. McFadden & Bros., D.C.Pa., 232 F. 1000, affirmed McFadden v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 241 F. 562, 154 C.C.A. 338.

Ala.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Gilliam, 101 So. 889, 212 Ala. 120—Western Ry. of Alabama v. Collins, 78 So. 833, 201 Ala. 455.

Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Pfeiffer Stone Co., 266 S.W. 82, 166 Ark. 226.

Del.—In re Arlington Hotel Co., 98 A. 186, 11 Del.Ch. 137.

Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. v. O'Neill Mfg. Co., 91 S.E. 877, 19 Ga.App. 490.

Ill.—Elgin, J. & E. Ry. Co. v. Rockwell Lime Co., 213 Ill.App. 25. See Bush v. Carloading & Distributing Co., 210 Ill.App. 399.

La.—Davis v. Ferguson, 132 So. 289, 17 La.App. 149.

Miss.—Southern Ry. Co. in Mississippi v. Buckeye Cotton Oil Co., 89 So. 228, 126 Miss. 562.

Neb.—Fremont Milling Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 163 N.W. 331, 101 Neb. 362.

N.H.—New York, N. H. & H. R. R. v. Tonella, 111 A. 341, 79 N.H. 464.

N.J.—West Jersey & S. S. R. Co. v. Lake & Risley Co., 145 A. 336, 105 N.J.Law 314.

N.C.—Davis v. Gulley, 123 S.E. 318, 188 N.C. 80—Edenton Cotton Mills v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 100 S.E. 341, 178 N.C. 212—Southern Ry. Co. v. Latham, 97 S.E. 234, 176 N.C. 417.

Ohio.—New York Cent. R. Co. v. Peak, 6 Ohio App. 399—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Magnus Co., 13 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 305.

Okl.—Garrison Coal Co. v. Hines, 247 P. 62, 118 Okl. 251, 46 A.L.R. 1151.

Tenn.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Southern Coal & Coke Co., 248 S.W. 297, 147 Tenn. 433—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Commercial Nursery Co., 8 Tenn.App. 16—Oman v. Tennessee Central Ry. Co., 7 Tenn.App. 141—Tennessee Central Ry. Co. v. W. R. Tate Co., 5 Tenn.App. 82.

Wis.—Mellon v. Johnson Co., 219 N.W. 352, 196 Wis. 64.

10 C.J. p. 447 note 36, p. 512 note 96.

Joint rate

Where, through mistake, a joint rate lower than that of the tariff rate is given, the carriers may recover the difference.—Sheldon v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 169 N.W. 189, 184 Iowa 865.

Error in construction of tariff

Errors of railroad agents in construction of tariffs do not make estoppel and cannot affect rights and duties to demand true rate.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. A. Marx & Sons, 135 So. 64, 17 La.App. 172, rehearing denied 135 So. 675, 17 La.App. 172.

Express company cannot estop itself from collecting the established tariff rate filed with the interstate commerce commission by any statement made by its local agent.—Willson v. American Ry. Express Co., 197 N.Y.S. 600, 204 App.Div. 59, affirmed 147 N.E. 196, 239 N.Y. 562.

Where consignees become bankrupt

The fact that the carrier delivered the goods to the consignee on payment of the freight demanded, which, by mistake, was less than the amount due, and that the consignee had since become bankrupt, so that the consignor could not recover the freight from him, does not estop the carrier from collecting the freight from the consignor.—New York, N. H. & H. R. R. v. Tonella, 111 A. 341, 79 N.H. 464.

Misrepresentation by agent of initial carrier

An interstate carrier is not estopped to demand the balance of the freight due even where the shipment has been induced by the misrepresentation and assurance of the agent of the initial carrier that the amount which the shipper prepaid was the full and correct charge.—Western & A. R. R. v. Aiken, 139 S.E. 914, 37 Ga.App. 271.

16. La.—Davis v. Ferguson, 132 So. 289, 17 La.App. 149, avoided 136 So. 293, 173 La. 132.

whether it was by parol agreement on a mistaken quotation of the rates made by the agent at the point of shipment.[17]

It has been said that the courts will not literally enforce the tariff rates so as to compel repayment of an alleged undercharge, where the individual circumstances of the particular case make it certain that the invocation of the principle is an absurdity.[18] Thus, a carrier will be denied the right to recover the scheduled rate for the route over which the shipment was made, where there were two routes over which the shipment could have been made and the shipper, although he designated the route followed, designated a lower rate applicable with respect to the other available route.[19] Similarly, since the purpose of the act to prevent discriminations does not permit its being used in the courts to enforce extortions, where the shipper has not given routing directions and the carrier has wrongfully routed the freight over an excessive route when a cheaper route was available, it cannot recover the higher rate applicable to the route actually used.[20] Further, a settlement of a controversy between a shipper and a carrier over freight charges, made in good faith on actual shipping weights, prevents the carrier from recovering the difference between the charge as settled and the rate based on car capacity.[21]

The carrier is entitled to hold the goods until payment of the legal charges.[22]

Failure to post or publish schedule. Although there is authority to the contrary,[23] generally, the fact that the rate has not been posted in accordance with statutory requirements does not affect the operation of the rule; the rate when made out and filed is notice, and its effect is not lost, although it is not actually posted in the station.[24] Accordingly, a carrier may recover the difference between the rate charged on an interstate shipment and the higher published rate filed with and approved by the interstate commerce commission, although the schedules have not been posted as required by the statute.[25] Similarly, although the rate schedule was not published as required by the act, the carrier may recover the difference between the tariff rate and the amount actually collected.[26]

Shipper's ignorance of violation of law. The fact that a shipper who is given a less rate than that fixed by the published schedule of rates was ignorant of the fact that he was receiving a preferential rate does not affect the operation of the rule, as otherwise the shipper whose duty it is to ascertain the published rate would in effect be empowered to secure a preference contrary to the statute.[27]

§ 394. Effect on Shipper's Right to Recover for Loss or Injury

A shipper is entitled to recover for loss or injury due to the carriers' negligence in the performance of its duties, although the shipping contract is violative of the Interstate Commerce Act, but is not entitled to recovery for breach of such a contract or for damages arising from the carrier's failure to perform.

The fact that a contract of shipment is invalid as violating the Interstate Commerce Law prohibiting discrimination does not operate as a bar to an action to recover for loss of, or injury to, the goods by negligence,[28] or for injury due to

17. U.S.—Wheeling & L. E. Ry. Co. v. Standard Envelope Mfg. Co., D.C. Ohio, 2 F. Supp. 637
10 C.J. p. 512 note 95.

18. U.S.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Republic Box Co., D.C. Tex., 12 F.2d 441.

19. U.S.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Republic Box Co., supra.

20. U.S.—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Lykes Bros., D.C. Tex., 294 F. 968.

21. U.S.—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Spring River Stone Co., Mo., 35 S.Ct. 456, 236 U.S. 718, 59 L.Ed. 805.

22. Kan.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hubbell, 38 P. 266, 54 Kan. 232.
Mo.—Sutton v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 140 S.W. 76, 159 Mo.App. 685.—Gerber v. Wabash R. Co., 63 Mo.App. 145.
S.D.—Church v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 85 N.W. 1001, 14 S.D. 443.

23. Tenn.—Atlanta, etc., R. Co. v. Horne, 59 S.W. 134, 106 Tenn. 73.

24. Ohio.—Lyman Perin & Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 194 N.E. 398, 48 Ohio App. 339.
10 C.J. p. 513 note 4.

25. Ohio.—Lyman Perin & Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 194 N.E. 398, 48 Ohio App. 339
10 C.J. p. 513 note 5.

26. Wash.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Longmire, 176 P. 150, 104 Wash. 121.
Not printed
Carrier may collect difference between amount collected on interstate freight shipment and rate under tariffs filed, although rate schedules were not printed.—Northern Pac. Ry. Co. v. Longmire, 176 P. 150, 104 Wash. 121.

27. Miss.—Southern Ry. Co. in Mississippi v. Buckeye Cotton Oil Co., 89 So. 228, 126 Miss. 562.
N.C.—Edenton Cotton Mills v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 100 S.E. 341, 178 N.C. 212.
Tenn.—Tennessee Central Ry. Co. v. W. R. Tate Co., 5 Tenn. App. 82.
10 C.J. p. 512 note 98

28. U.S.—Adams Express Co. v. Darden, C.C.A.Tenn., 286 F. 61, affirmed 44 S.Ct. 502, 265 U.S. 265, 68 L.Ed. 1010.
Ga.—Southern Express Co. v. Essig Bros., 87 S.E. 1090, 17 Ga.App. 657.
Tex.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Manby, Civ.App., 207 S.W. 157.
10 C.J. p. 513 note 6.
Value of horses
Where tariff rate for shipping of carload of horses valued at one hundred dollars each was one hundred sixty-five dollars and contract recited that value and that rate was paid, although horses were known to carrier's agent to be race horses of a delay in transportation,[29] or for damages caused by willfully misrouting the goods so that the shipper is compelled to pay a much higher rate of freight.[30] Even though the carrier is entitled to recover the rate fixed by the schedule, the rights of the shipper are not in other respects, not dependent on the special contract, different from what they would have been had the contract been free from illegality as to rates charged.[31]

On the other hand, no recovery can be had from a carrier for consequential damages resulting because of its failure to perform a contract violating the Interstate Commerce Act,[32] and one who has obtained from a common carrier transportation of goods at a rate specified in the bill of lading, which rate is less than the schedule rates in force at the time, is not entitled to recover the goods, or damages for their detention, on the tender of payment of the amount of charges named in the bill of lading, or of any sum less than the schedule charges.[33]

The carrier is not liable for damages resulting from a mistake in quoting a rate less than the full published rate[34] or for failure to post its freight tariff rates as fixed by the commission.[35]

§ 395. Power to Enjoin Carrier from Accepting Less than Scheduled Rates

A carrier may be enjoined from accepting less than the scheduled rates.

In a proper proceeding, where the contract is violative of the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act against discrimination in rates, the carrier may be perpetually enjoined from taking less than the rates fixed in its published tariff of freight rates.[36] much greater value, and shipper did not know of valuation until after loss, it was held that, under first Cummins amendment, Act March 4, 1915, § 1, Comp St § 8604a, carrier was liable for full actual loss resulting from the killing of five of the horses in transit.—Adams Express Co v Darden, Tenn., 44 S Ct. 502, 265 U.S 265, 68 L.Ed. 1010, affirming, C.C.A., 286 F. 61.

29. U S.—Pennsylvania R Co. v Olivit Bros., N J., 37 S Ct. 468, 243 U.S 574, 61 L Ed. 908.
Tex.—Chicago, R. I & G. Ry Co. v. Manby, Civ App., 207 S W 157.
10 C J. p 513 note 7.

Corpus Juris text, 10 C.J. p 513 notes 6–8 has been quoted with approval and the rule as there stated followed in Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry Co v. Manby, Tex.Civ.App., 207 S W. 157, 158.

Delay in furnishing cars

In action for damages to potatoes caused by defendant railway's delay in furnishing cars on application, it was no defense that the freight rate was discriminative.—Gallop & Fisher v. Norfolk Southern R Co, 91 S E 375, 173 N C. 21, error dismissed Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Gallup, 39 S.Ct 184, 248 U.S 596, 63 L Ed. 438

30. Tex.—Chicago, R. I & G Ry Co. v. Manby, Civ.App., 207 S W. 157.
10 C J. p 513 note 8.

31. Ill.—Kirby v Chicago, etc., R Co, 90 N E 252, 242 Ill. 418, reversed on other grounds 32 S Ct. 648, 225 U S. 155, 56 L Ed. 1033, Ann.Cas.1914A 501.
10 C J. p 513 note 9.

32. W Va.—Whitaker Glessner Co v. Wheeling Terminal Ry Co, 127 S.E. 639, 99 W.Va. 38.

Mill waste

Millowner cannot recover consequential damages for breach of contract by railroad company to haul away wastage from mill as part consideration for right of way, since passage of Interstate Commerce Act, under which railroad filed schedule containing charges for hauling wastage from iron and steel mills.—Whitaker Glessner Co. v Wheeling Terminal Ry Co., 127 S.E. 639, 99 W.Va. 38.

33. Ala.—Southern R. Co. v. Harrison, 24 So. 552, 119 Ala 539, 72 Am.S.R 936, 43 L R.A. 385.
10 C.J p 511 note 86.

34. Alaska.—Harvey & Co. v. Copper River & N. W. Ry. Co., 5 Alaska 371.
Ark.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co v Wood, 207 S.W. 32, 136 Ark. 585.
N.C.—Edenton Cotton Mills v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 100 S.E. 341, 178 N C. 212
Tenn.—Blow Stave Co. v. Hattendorf, 7 Tenn Civ.App. 415.
10 C J. p 512 note 97.

Conversion

Where a shipper ordered diversion of a car which had reached its destination, under advice of carrier's agent that it could be diverted to another point at the through rate from the place of shipment to the new destination, which was contrary to the carrier's rule, permitting such rate only if the original destination was an intermediate point on a direct route to the final destination, and otherwise fixing the rate as the sum of the local rates, the carrier was not guilty of converting the shipment by demanding the local rates, as required by the rules, and selling the goods when payment thereof was refused, although the diversion would not have been ordered, except for the statement of its local agent.—Willson v. American Ry. Express Co, 197 N.Y.S. 600, 204 App Div. 59, affirmed 147 N E 196, 239 N Y 562

Express company

Under the Interstate Commerce Act, and in view of the purpose thereof, to secure uniformity of rates an interstate shipper could not recover from an express company or its agent the damages sustained in shipping by express instead of by freight because of agent's misrepresentation as to the rates, since the rates had been published and shipper was presumed to have had knowledge thereof, and to allow recovery would permit evasion of the act by reducing the published rates by recoupment.—Williams v. American Ry Express Co., 110 S.E 125, 118 S C. 121.

Purchasers from consignee

A railroad company, having transported a car of goods from point without to point within the state to which it was consigned, is not liable to purchasers of goods from consignee for its agent's error in quoting tariff rate on connecting line for transporting the car to another point within state, or for erroneous statement that it would go forward on a through tariff rate.—W C Goodnow Coal Co v Northern Pac Ry. Co., 162 N.W. 519, 136 Minn 420.

35. Ark.—St. Louis, I M. & S Ry. Co. v. Wood, 207 S.W. 32, 136 Ark. 585.

36. U S.—New York, etc, R Co. v. Interstate Commerce Commn., Va., 26 S.Ct 272, 200 U.S 361, 50 L.Ed 515, modifying, C.C., Interstate Commerce Commn. v. Chesapeake & O Ry. Co., 128 F. 59.

§ 396. Contracts in Violation of State Legislation

Intrastate shipping contracts which are unduly discriminatory or which deviate from the duly established rates or tariffs are illegal, unenforceable, and void under the legislation in many states.

Under state statutes prohibiting discrimination in terms more or less similar to those of the Interstate Commerce Act, it is usually held that contracts in violation thereof are void and cannot be enforced.[37] Under some of such statutes, railroad freight rates have been taken from the domain of contract and have become matters to be regulated by law;[38] and the carrier, shipper, and consignee alike are required to abide by the rates legally established.[39] No mistake of fact, or special practice, engagement, or understanding of the parties, will suffice to change this requirement,[40] and the carrier cannot by contract,[41] or by estoppel or waiver,[42] directly or indirectly, increase or decrease the duly established rates. When the tariff rates are once legally established, the shipper and all parties, in legal contemplation, have notice thereof and of the law prohibiting discrimination in any form.[43] It has been held that a charge greater than that prescribed by the tariff is not legalized by a statute declaring that a carrier is guilty of extortion if it charges more than a reasonable rate for designated services,[44] and a statute prohibiting a carrier from charging more than the rate specified in the bill of lading, has no application where the rate charged and collected is on file with, and has been approved by, the state railroad commission.[45]

Under statutes of this character, a shipping contract is unenforceable and void where it provides for rates different from those fixed by an authorized state commission,[46] or specified in the filed 37. Ark.—Bryant Lumber Co. v. Fourche River Lumber Co., 187 S.W. 455, 124 Ark. 313.

Iowa.—Northern Gravel Co. v. Muscatine North & S. Ry. Co., 171 N.W. 787, 185 Iowa 1259.
Mo.—Mellon v. Stockton & Lampkin, 30 S.W.2d 974, 326 Mo. 129, transferred 35 S.W.2d 612, 225 Mo. App. 122—Mellon v. Burns, App., 35 S.W.2d 614.
N.J.—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. United Lead Co., 133 A. 290, 102 N.J. Law 545—Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. Maas & Waldstein Co., 131 A. 884, 102 N.J. Law 332.
Tenn.—Louisville & N. Ry. Co. v. Hardman, 5 Tenn. App. 289.
10 C.J. p. 514 note 11.

38. Tenn.—Oman v. Tennessee Central Ry. Co., 7 Tenn. App. 141.

39. U.S.—Woodrich v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., C.C.A.N.D., 71 F.2d 732, 97 A.L.R. 401—In re Independent Sewer Pipe Co., D.C.Cal., 248 F. 547.
Ala.—T. R. Miller Mill Co. v. Louis. & N. R. Co., 92 So. 797, 207 Ala. 253.
Ind.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Johnson Butter Co., 187 N.E. 405, 97 Ind. App. 537.
Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Greenbrier Distillery Co., 187 S.W. 296, 170 Ky. 775.
Miss.—E. L. Young Heading Co. v. Payne, 89 So. 782, 127 Miss. 48—Southern Ry. Co. in Mississippi v. Buckeye Cotton Oil Co., 89 So. 228, 126 Miss. 562.
Mo.—Sonken-Galamba Corporation v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 40 S.W.2d 524, 225 Mo. App. 1066.
N.Y.—Purcell v. New York Cent. R. Co., 275 N.Y.S. 70, 242 App. Div. 292, affirmed 197 N.E. 182, 268 N.Y. 164, certiorari denied 56 S.Ct. 73, 296 U.S. 545, 80 L.Ed. 387.
Ohio.—Erie R. Co. v. Steinberg, 113 N.E. 814, 94 Ohio St. 189, L.R.A. 1917B 787, Ann. Cas. 1917E 661.
Pa.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Silberman, 29 Pa. Dist. 605.
Tenn.—New River Lumber Co. v. Tennessee Ry. Co., 238 S.W. 867, 145 Tenn. 266.
W.Va.—Whitaker Glessner Co. v. Wheeling Terminal Ry. Co., 127 S.E. 639, 99 W.Va. 38.
10 C.J. p. 514 note 12.

There can be but one "lawful rate" in force at a given time, and that rate, by the terms of Code 1907 §§ 5525, 5527, 5553, 5554, 5651, is the rate which has been filed and approved by the railroad commission and published by the carrier and behind that rate, so long as it remains unchanged, and so far as its application to specific shipments is concerned, neither shipper nor carrier can go, and courts cannot inquire.—T. R. Miller Mill Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 92 So. 797, 207 Ala. 253.

40. U.S.—Woodrich v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., C.C.A.N.D., 71 F.2d 732, 97 A.L.R. 401—In re Independent Sewer Pipe Co., D.C.Cal., 248 F. 547.
Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. A. H. Cleaver & Co., 101 So. 597, 211 Ala. 661.
Ind.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Johnson Butter Co., 187 N.E. 405, 97 Ind. App. 537.

Improper classification immaterial
That army goods were styled and regarded as rags by the shipper, and received and billed as such by the carrier, was not controlling as to their proper classification for rate purposes, since the carrier was bound to collect the prescribed rate on a proper classification.—Louisville, H. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Johns & Patterson, 258 S.W. 312, 201 Ky. 752.

41. Mo.—Mellon v. Burns, App., 35 S.W.2d 614—Mellon v. Stockton & Lampkin, 35 S.W.2d 612, 225 Mo. App. 122, transferred 30 S.W.2d 974, 326 Mo. 129.
Pa.—New York, P. & N. R. R. Co. v. Ambler-Davis Co., 3 Pa. Dist. & Co. 485.

42. Mo.—Mellon v. Burns, App., 35 S.W.2d 614—Mellon v. Stockton & Lampkin, 35 S.W.2d 612, 225 Mo. App. 122, transferred 30 S.W.2d 974, 326 Mo. 129.

Shipper not estopped to contest rates
A shipper's agreement to allow a carrier to charge rates conflicting with Const. art. 12 § 12, prohibiting charging more for short than long hauls, does not estop him from later contesting the legality of such rates.—Missouri Southern R. Co. v. Public Service Commission, 214 S.W. 379, 279 Mo. 484.

43. Mo.—Mellon v. Burns, App., 35 S.W.2d 614—Mellon v. Stockton & Lampkin, 35 S.W.2d 612, 225 Mo. App. 122, transferred 30 S.W.2d 974, 326 Mo. 129.

44. Ky.—Andrews Steel Co. v. Davis, 276 S.W. 148, 210 Ky. 473.

45. Miss.—E. L. Young Heading Co. v. Payne, 89 So. 782, 127 Miss. 48.

46. Miss.—Brookhaven Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Mississippi Cent. R. Co., 122 So. 472, 154 Miss. 303.
Pa.—Leiper v. Baltimore & P. R. Co., 105 A. 551, 262 Pa. 328.
Tex.—Herrin Transp. Co. v. Marmion, Civ. App., 113 S.W.2d 291.
Va.—Norfolk Tidewater Terminals v. Norfolk & P. Belt Line R. Co., 195 S.E. 684.

tariffs,[47] or where it provides for services not open to all shippers alike, under the filed tariffs.[48] However, the mere fixing of a rate by a state railroad commission, when it is the same as stipulated in a prior contract by the shipper and carrier, does not of itself invalidate such an agreement.[49]

Statutes of this character render prior contracts for special rates unenforceable,[50] although it has also been held that a statute will not be given such a retroactive effect in the absence of some indication that the legislature so intended.[51] Such statutes are void as applied to interstate shipments,[52] but they may control shipping contracts made pursuant to an act of congress, unless it is shown that congress did not so intend.[53]

Effect on shipper's right to recover for loss or injury. No recovery can be had from a carrier for consequential damages resulting because of its failure to perform a contract in violation of a state statute regulating rates on particular services.[54]

§ 397. Effect on Carrier's Right to Recover Scheduled Rates

Under a number of state statutes, a carrier has both a right and an absolute duty to recover the scheduled rates regardless of its contract.

Although there is authority to the contrary,[55] under a number of state statutes governing intrastate carriers, the established intra-state rate may be recovered irrespective of any special contract and regardless of the fact that the carrier has, by mistake or otherwise, charged less than the established rate,[56] although it is unreasonable and extortionate,[57] and the doctrine of estoppel will not be applied to bar carrier from so recovering.[58]

Violation not shown

Where a railroad company inspected and classified as pitch material which was claimed to be asphaltum, and entered into a contract with a shipper to transport it for a given sum, it was held that the contract was binding, and the only way the carrier could avoid it was by showing that by mistake it agreed to transport the material for less than the tariff rate, this it did not show.—West Const Co v Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co, 210 S W. 633, 141 Tenn 342.

47. Mo—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Painton, App, 275 S.W 55

Specific performance denied

In view of Public Service Commission Act §§ 5, 6, and 7, where railroad company filed with state public service commission tariffs in proper form, published as required by such act, regulating charges for hauling slag, etc, from iron and steel mills located on railway, contract between iron mill and railroad company, executed before passage of act, by which railroad agreed to haul away wastage without pay, as consideration for deed to right of way, cannot be specifically enforced—Whitaker Glessner Co v. Wheeling Terminal Ry. Co, 127 S E. 639, 99 W Va. 38

48. Kan—Parker Corn Co. v Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 244 P 240, 120 Kan. 484

49. La.—Alexandria & W. Ry. Co. v Long Pine Lumber Co. of Louisiana, 93 So 199, 152 La. 399.

50. N.Y—Boston & M. R R. v Standard Wall Paper Co, 181 N Y S. 129, 191 App.Div 307, affirmed 134 N E 593, 232 N.Y. 612.
10 C J. p 514 note 14.

Contract rendered ineffectual

Although a contract for a fixed period is entered into between a carrier and shipper for a freight rate, which is the legal rate at the time, yet, if thereafter, the carrier establishes a higher rate in accordance with statutory provisions, the contract is ineffectual.—New River Lumber Co. v Tennessee Ry. Co, 238 S W. 867, 145 Tenn 266.

51. Wash.—Sultan R, etc, Co v Great Northern R Co, 109 P 320, 1020, 58 Wash. 604.

52. U S—Gulf, etc., R Co. v. Hefley, Tex, 15 S.Ct. 802, 158 U.S. 98, 39 L.Ed. 910.

53. U.S.—St Paul & Tacoma Lumber Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co, D.C Wash., 296 F. 749, reversed on other grounds, C C.A., Northern Pac Ry. Co v. St. Paul & Tacoma Lumber Co., 4 F.2d 359

54. W Va.—Whitaker Glessner Co v. Wheeling Terminal Ry. Co., 127 S.E 639, 99 W Va. 38

Contract to haul mill wastage

Millowner cannot recover consequential damages for breach of contract by railroad company to haul away wastage from mill as part consideration for right of way, since passage of Public Service Commission Act, under which railroad filed schedule containing charges for hauling wastage from iron and steel mills.—Whitaker Glessner Co v. Wheeling Terminal Ry. Co, 127 S E. 639, 99 W.Va. 38

55. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R Co. v. Seitz, 73 N E 585, 214 Ill. 350, 105 Am S.R. 108, affirming 117 Ill.App. 154.
10 C.J p 514 note 13

56. U S.—In re Independent Sewer Pipe Co., D C.Cal., 248 F. 547.
Ind.—American Ry. Express Co. v. Johnson Butter Co., 187 N.E. 405, 97 Ind.App. 537
Iowa—Cummings Sand & Gravel Co v. Minneapolis & St. L. Ry Co., 166 N W 354, 182 Iowa 955, L.R.A. 1918C 797
Kan—Missouri Pac R. Co. v. Red Star Milling Co., 251 P. 417, 122 Kan 122.
Ky.—Louisville & N R Co. v. Perry Ice & Bottling Co., 10 S W.2d 1091, 226 Ky 286.
Miss.—Gulf, M & N R. Co. v. Riverside Brick & Mfg. Co, 107 So. 193, 141 Miss 505.
Mo—Mellon v. Burns, App, 35 S W. 2d 614—Mellon v. Stockton & Lampkin, 35 S.W 2d 612, 225 Mo App. 122, transferred 30 S.W 2d 974, 326 Mo. 129
N Y—Boston & M R. R. v. Standard Wall Paper Co, 181 N.Y S. 129, 191 App Div. 307, affirmed 134 N.E 593, 232 N Y. 612
Pa—New York, P. & N R. R Co. v. Ambler-Davis Co., 3 Pa Dist.& Co. 485.
Tenn—Oman v. Tennessee Central Ry. Co, 7 Tenn.App. 141
10 C J p 514 note 12

57. Miss—E L Young Heading Co. v. Payne, 89 So. 782, 127 Miss. 48.

58. U.S—Strawberry Growers' Selling Co. v American Ry. Exp. Co., C.C A La, 31 F.2d 947.
Iowa.—Cummings Sand & Gravel Co. v. Minneapolis & St. L Ry. Co, 166 N W 354, 182 Iowa 955, L R.A 1918C 797
Ky—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Perry Ice & Bottling Co, 10 S.W.2d 1091, 226 Ky. 286
Miss.—Southern Ry. Co. in Mississippi v. Buckeye Cotton Oil Co., 89 So. 228, 126 Miss 562
Mo.—Mellon v. Burns, App, 35 S.W 2d 614—Mellon v. Stockton & Lampkin, 35 S.W.2d 612, 225 Mo App. 122, transferred 30 S.W.2d 974, 326 Mo. 129.

This right of recovery is not defeated by the fact that the copies of the tariff were not posted in the local station as required by statute.[59]

U. BENEFIT OF INSURANCE

§ 398. In Absence of Special Contract

In the absence of special contract, a carrier is not entitled to the benefit of insurance effected by the shipper on the goods shipped.

As a corollary of the rule that a carrier cannot limit its liability by requiring the shipper to insure his goods, as already discussed in § 109, in the absence of special contract, the carrier is not entitled to the benefit of insurance effected by the shipper on the goods shipped,[60] and, in case of loss or injury, it is not entitled to call on insurer for contribution.[61] Payment of loss by insurer does not prevent a recovery against the carrier for the amount of the loss,[62] the carrier being primarily liable therefor, and the recovery being for the benefit of insurer, which is subrogated to the rights of the shipper.[63] The right to maintain the action is not affected by the fact that insurer was not legally bound to indemnify insured for the loss sustained.[64]

§ 399. Under Special Contract

Where the contract between the carrier and the shipper expressly so provides, the carrier may be entitled to the benefit of unconditional payments made to the shipper by an insurer of the goods shipped.

In view of the fact that the carrier has an insurable interest in the shipment,[65] and may in its own behalf take out insurance against its liability arising from negligence,[66] it may, therefore, enter into a valid contract, in the absence of fraud or a provision to the contrary in the contract with insurer,[67] with the shipper that in case he procures insurance on the shipment the insurance will inure to the benefit of the carrier,[68]

Director general of railroads was not estopped to sue for balance due on freight on coal billed by mistake at less than proper rate, although defendant sold the coal at a small profit under supervision of federal government, taking freight rate paid into account, so that payment of difference would result in loss, in view of Const. § 214, and Ky St. § 817, relative to preferences.—Davis v. Moody, 261 S.W. 1101, 203 Ky. 203.

59. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Perry Ice & Bottling Co., 10 S.W. 2d 1091, 226 Ky. 286.

60. U.S.—Luckenbach v. W. J. McCahan Sugar Refining Co., N.Y., 39 S.Ct. 53, 248 U.S. 139, 63 L.Ed. 170, 1 A.L.R. 1522, modifying The Julia Luckenbach, 235 F. 388, 148 C.C.A. 650.
10 C.J. p. 514 note 19.

Does not affect liability
Insurance on cotton burned through carrier's negligence does not affect the carrier's liability.—Texarkana & F. S. Ry. Co. v. Brass, Tex.Civ.App., 245 S.W. 457, affirmed, Com.App., 260 S.W. 828.

61. Pa.—Gales v. Hallman, 11 Pa. 515.
S.C.—Burnside v. Union Steamboat Co., 44 S.C.L. 113.
10 C.J. p. 514 note 20.

62. N.Y.—Levinson v. Morris Transfer Co., 186 N.Y.S. 563.

63. U.S.—Luckenbach v. W. J. McCahan Sugar Refining Co., N.Y., 39 S.Ct. 53, 248 U.S. 139, 63 L.Ed. 170, 1 A.L.R. 1522, modifying The Julia Luckenbach, 235 F. 388, 148 C.C.A. 650.
10 C.J. p. 514 note 21.

64. U.S.—Nord-Deutscher Lloyd v. Insurance Co. of North America, Md., 110 F. 420, 49 C.C.A. 1.—Commercial Ins. Co. v. The C. D. Jr., La., 13 F.Cas.No.7,051, 1 Woods 72.

65. Iowa.—Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Payne, 203 N.W. 4, 199 Iowa 1008, 39 A.L.R. 1109.

66. Miss.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Blum, 86 So. 805, 124 Miss. 318.
10 C.J. p. 515 note 28.—13 C.J. p. 491 note 4.

May recover against insurer
A contract of insurance taken by the carrier on goods in its custody will be valid, and under it the carrier may recover against an insurance company for loss due to negligence.
U.S.—Phœnix Ins. Co. v. Erie & Western Transp. Co., Wis., 117 U.S. 312, 29 L.Ed. 873.—Waters v. Merchants' Louisville Ins. Co., Ky., 11 Pet. 213, 9 L.Ed. 691.
Mass.—Copeland v. New England Mar. Ins. Co., 2 Metc. 432.

67. U.S.—Luckenbach v. W. J. McCahan Sugar Refining Co., N.Y., 39 S.Ct. 53, 248 U.S. 139, 63 L.Ed. 170, 1 A.L.R. 1522, modifying 235 F. 388, 148 C.C.A. 650.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Burr, N.Y., 130 F. 847, 65 C.C.A. 331.
10 C.J. p. 515 note 24.

Incorporated in insurance contract
In shipper's action against truck carrier for loss of cargo, carrier could not defend on ground that shipper was fully reimbursed from its insurer, since advancement made by insurer to shipper under agreement whereby insurer was subrogated to shipper's rights against carrier did not constitute a "payment."—Nebraska Co-op. Creameries v. Des Moines Transp. Co., D.C.Iowa, 16 F. Supp. 853.

68. U.S.—Luckenbach v. W. J. McCahan Sugar Refining Co., N.Y., 39 S.Ct. 53, 248 U.S. 139, 63 L.Ed. 170, 1 A.L.R. 1522, modifying The Julia Luckenbach, 235 F. 388, 148 C.C.A. 650.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Burr, N.Y., 130 F. 847, 65 C.C.A. 331.—Nebraska Co-op. Creameries v. Des Moines Transp. Co., D.C.Iowa, 16 F. Supp. 853.
Iowa.—Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Payne, 203 N.W. 4, 199 Iowa 1008, 39 A.L.R. 1109.
Miss.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Blum, 86 So. 805, 124 Miss. 318.
10 C.J. p. 515 note 23.

This Corpus Juris text has been approved and cited as authority in Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Blum, 86 So. 805, 124 Miss. 318.

Breach of contract
Where shipper procured insurance giving insurer right to subrogation to shipper's cause of action against carrier in breach of oral promise to carrier to procure insurance without warranty and for benefit of shipper and carrier, carrier, in action against it for loss of cargo, was entitled to offset as damages for breach of promise full amount of loss.—Nebraska Co-op. Creameries v. Des Moines Transp. Co., D.C.Iowa, 16 F. Supp. 853.

No special consideration is necessary to sustain these contracts.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. International Mar. Ins. Co., 19 S.W. 459, 84 Tex. 149.

even though the loss or injury is due to the negligence of the carrier's servants or agents,[69] and although the carrier thereby shifts from itself to insurer the loss for which it is primarily responsible.[70] The rule that an insurer when he has indemnified an owner of property for a loss occasioned by a carrier is entitled to all the means of indemnity which the satisfied owner held against the carrier, and that the owner cannot after loss relinquish any rights to which insurer is entitled, does not prevent a valid agreement between the carrier and the shipper that the carrier shall have the benefit of any insurance to be effected by the owner.[71] Accordingly, contracts containing provisions of this nature are not in violation of statutes prohibiting carriers from limiting their common-law liability,[72] nor in contravention of any other rule based on public policy.[73] Where the policy covering the goods is limited to losses for which a common carrier would not be liable at common law, a provision that the carrier shall have the benefit of any insurance effected on the goods to be transported does not protect it from liability for loss due to negligence.[74] Also, the carrier is not entitled to the benefit of insurance covering items of loss which the carrier, through the bill of lading, refused to assume.[75]

If the owner has received from the insurance company the amount of damages caused by loss of or injury to the goods in shipment, he will of course be precluded by such stipulation from a recovery against the carrier for such loss or injury.[76] Nevertheless, to entitle a carrier to the benefit of a stipulation in the shipping contract, giving to it the benefit of any insurance effected on the goods shipped, it is essential that insurer should have made an unconditional payment of the damages to insured; otherwise the carrier has no standing to enforce any claim to the benefit of the insurance.[77] As between the carrier and insurer it is held that, in the absence of any misrepresentation or intentional concealment by the shipper in obtaining insurance on the goods, or of any express stipulation on the subject in the policy, the provision in the shipping contract that the carrier shall have the full benefit of any insurance effected on the goods limits the right by way of subrogation of insurer on paying to the shipper the amount of loss or damage. In other words, the contract between insured and the carrier being valid, the latter is protected from any action by insurer on payment by it for the loss or injury sustained.[78]

69. U S—Luckenbach v. W. J McCahan Sugar Refining Co, N.Y, 39 S Ct 53, 248 U.S. 139, 63 L Ed 170, 1 A.L R. 1522, modifying The Julia Luckenbach, 235 F. 388, 148 C C A. 650.
10 C J p 515 note 29.

70. U S—Nebraska Co-op. Creameries v. Des Moines Transp. Co, D.C Iowa, 16 F Supp 853.

71. U S—Rintoul v. New York Cent. & R R. Co, C C.N.Y., 20 F. 313.

72. Tex—British, etc, Mar. Ins. Co. v Gulf, etc, R. Co, 63 Tex. 475, 51 Am R 661.

73. Tex.—Insurance Co. of North America v Easton, 11 S.W. 180, 73 Tex 167, 3 L R A 424.

74. Tex—Gulf, etc, R. Co. v Zimmerman, 17 S.W. 239, 81 Tex. 605

75. U S.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v Burr, N Y., 130 F. 847, 65 C.C.A. 331.

Expected profit

Where a bill of lading limited the liability of the carrier, in case of loss or damage, to the value of the goods at the time and place of shipment, a further provision that he should have the benefit of any insurance effected by the owner is valid only as to such insurance, or so much of the insurance, as represents the goods, and the value for which, in case of loss, the carrier is liable; and he cannot claim the benefit of insurance covering the increased value of the goods at the port of destination, which the owner had the right to effect for his own protection.—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Burr, N.Y., 130 F. 847, 65 C C A. 331.

76. U S.—Rintoul v. New York Cent. & H R R. Co, C C.N.Y., 17 F 905, 21 Blatchf 439.
Tex—Gulf, etc, R Co. v. Zimmerman, 17 S W. 239, 81 Tex 605—British F. & M. Ins Co. v. Gulf, etc, R. Co, 63 Tex. 475, 51 Am R 661

Deduction by carrier

Such a contract entitled the carrier to a deduction for insurance paid the shipper—Yazoo & M V. R. Co v. Blum, 86 So. 805, 124 Miss. 318.

77. U.S.—Luckenbach v. W. J. McCahan Sugar Refining Co, N.Y, 39 S.Ct. 53, 248 U S 139, 63 L Ed 170, 1 A L R. 1522, modifying The Julia Luckenbach, 235 F. 388, 148 C C.A. 650—Pennsylvania R Co v Burr, N Y, 130 F. 847, 65 C C A. 331.
La—Dejean v. Louisiana Western R. Co, 118 So. 822, 167 La. 111.
10 C J. p 515 note 33

Loans or conditional payments by insurer to the shipper do not relieve the carrier from liability
U.S—Luckenbach v W. J. McCahan Sugar Refining Co., N.Y, 39 S.Ct. 53, 248 U S. 139, 63 L Ed. 170, 1 A L.R. 1522, modifying The Julia Luckenbach, 235 F 388, 148 C.C A. 650.
La.—Dejean v. Louisiana Western R. Co, 118 So 822, 167 La 111.

78. U.S.—Luckenbach v. W J McCahan Sugar Refining Co., N.Y, 39 S Ct. 53, 248 U.S 139, 63 L.Ed 170, 1 A.L R 1522, modifying The Julia Luckenbach, 235 F. 388, 148 C C.A. 650.
10 C J. p 181 note 4, p 516 note 34.

V. CONNECTING CARRIERS

§ 400. Who Are Connecting Carriers

A connecting carrier is one of several common carriers whose united lines constitute the route over which a shipment is to pass. Generally, however, the first carrier is not considered a connecting carrier.

In its broadest sense the term "connecting carrier" means one of several common carriers whose lines or parts thereof united constitute the route over which a shipment is to pass, and which participate in the transportation of such shipment,[79] a common carrier furnishing a necessary link in the transportation under a through bill of lading.[80] It has been defined, however, as one whose route, not being the first one, lies somewhere between the point of shipment and the point of destination; it becomes such by virtue of the agreement between the consignor or shipper and the first carrier, whereby the latter undertakes to deliver the shipment at its ultimate destination, and thus makes the carrier beyond its own route its agent for continuing the transportation, or else undertakes only to deliver the goods safely to the next carrier on the route, who thus becomes agent for the shipper for carrying them further.[81] That it is not named in the through bill of lading is unimportant.[82] The narrower definition given above perhaps more accurately expresses the common acceptation of what is meant by the term "connecting carrier," as appears from the decisions as to whether or not a local belt railroad,[83] a switching company,[84] a terminal company,[85] a wharf company,[86] or a transfer company,[87] is or is not a connecting carrier.

A railroad company which, after completion of a through contract of carriage, agrees to deliver the goods shipped on board a steamship within the state is not a connecting carrier within the Carmack amendment.[88]

§ 401. Rights, Duties and Liabilities of Initial Carrier

The initial carrier is the shipper's agent with certain duties and liabilities which end when the goods reach their destination.

The rights and liabilities of the initial carrier, when not affected by any partnership arrangement with connecting lines or by joint undertaking

79. Ala.—Veitch v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 68 So. 575, 14 Ala.App 146.
10 C.J. p 516 note 37.

80. U.S.—Galveston Wharf Co v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry Co., 52 S. Ct. 342, 285 U.S. 127, 76 L.Ed. 659, affirming Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co v. American Grocery Co., 36 S. W.2d 985, 122 Tex. 1, certiorari granted Galveston Wharf Co v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry Co., 52 S. Ct. 41, 285 U.S. 608, 76 L.Ed. 521, and affirming Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co v. American Grocery Co., Tex.Com App., 25 S.W.2d 588, which reversed Galveston Wharf Co. v. American Grocery Co., Civ.App., 13 S.W.2d 983
Ill.—See Dunsworth v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 205 Ill.App. 51.

81. Mo.—Nanson v. Jacob, 12 Mo. App. 125, 127, reversed on other grounds 6 S.W. 246, 93 Mo. 331, 3 Am.S.R. 531
10 C.J. p 516 note 40 [a].

82. U.S.—Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S.Ct. 342, 285 U.S. 127, 76 L.Ed. 659, affirming Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co., 36 S.W.2d 985, 122 Tex. 1, certiorari granted Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S. Ct. 41, 285 U.S. 608, 76 L.Ed. 521, and affirming Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co., Tex.Com.App., 25 S.W.2d 588, which reversed Galveston Wharf Co. v. American Grocery Co., Civ.App., 13 S.W.2d 983.

83. Tex.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Young, Civ.App., 107 S.W. 127.
10 C.J. p 516 note 41.

84. Kan.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Wichita Wholesale Grocery Co., 40 P. 899, 55 Kan. 525.
Tex.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Jackson, 118 S.W. 853, 55 Tex.Civ.App. 407.
10 C.J. p 516 note 42

Company not connecting carrier

In an action for damages to a shipment of stock occasioned by unreasonable delay, it was held that a switching company, although it might be regarded as a transportation company, was not a connecting carrier for whose negligence defendant would not be liable.—Ft. Worth & R. G. Ry. Co. v. Hasse, Tex.Civ.App., 226 S.W. 448.

85. U.S.—U. S. v. Northern Pac. Terminal Co., C.C.Or., 181 F. 879, reversed on other grounds 184 F. 603, 106 C.C.A. 583
10 C.J. p 516 note 43.

86. U.S.—Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S.Ct. 342, 285 U.S. 127, 76 L.Ed. 659, affirming Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co., 36 S.W.2d 985, 122 Tex. 1, certiorari granted Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S. Ct. 41, 285 U.S. 608, 76 L.Ed. 521, and affirming Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co., Tex.Com.App., 25 S.W.2d 588, which reversed Galveston Wharf Co. v. American Grocery Co., Civ.App., 13 S.W.2d 983.

Company held connecting carrier

A wharf company to which goods covered by through bill of lading were delivered by steamship company for transfer to connection with railroad is a connecting carrier and liable as such.—Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S.Ct. 342, 285 U.S. 127, 76 L.Ed. 659, affirming Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co., 36 S.W. 2d 985, 122 Tex. 1, certiorari granted Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S.Ct. 41, 284 U.S. 608, 76 L.Ed. 521, and affirming Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co., Com.App., 25 S.W.2d 588, which reversed Galveston Wharf Co. v. American Grocery Co., Civ. App., 13 S.W.2d 983

87. Ga.—Western, etc., R. Co. v. Exposition Cotton Mills, 7 S.E. 916, 81 Ga. 522, 2 L.R.A. 102.
Mo.—Nanson v. Jacob, 6 S.W. 246, 93 Mo. 331, 3 Am.S.R. 531, affirming 12 Mo.App. 125.
Neb.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Young, 41 N.W. 646, 25 Neb. 651
10 C.J. p 516 note 44.

88. Ill.—Charles D. Stone & Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 214 Ill.App. 483.

for transportation, are considered infra this section and §§ 403–417, while the liability of both the initial and the connecting carriers, where such an arrangement exists, is considered infra § 429. The liability of connecting carriers for unjust discrimination is treated supra § 357 et seq, and for penalties and statutory damages, infra § 451 et seq. Matters relating to changes as affected by transportation over several lines are dealt with supra § 315.

In general, the initial carrier is the shipper's agent in transporting the goods,[89] but is under no duty to inform the shipper of goods intended for export of the customs rules and regulations of the foreign port, and is not negligent in failing so to do.[90] The liability of the initial carrier ends when the goods reach the place of destination and are refused by the consignees in that place, and on the refusal of the consignees to accept the shipment, the initial carrier is under no obligation to return the goods to the shipper, and is entirely within its rights in merely advising the shipper of the fact, and in awaiting further instructions.[91]

The initial carrier of an interstate shipment has no authority to vary lawful regulations of the interstate commerce commission.[92]

§ 402. Who Is Initial Carrier

The initial carrier is one which receives property for transportation which subsequently it delivers to another carrier for further transportation, or one contracting with the shipper for transportation.

It has been broadly stated that a common carrier which receives property for transportation which it afterward delivers to another carrier for further carriage is the initial carrier,[93] and under the Carmack amendment this is said to be so even though no express contract is made between the shipper and such carrier and notwithstanding any subsequent contract of carriage made between the shipper and an intermediate connecting carrier,[94] but the view has been taken that the initial carrier is the one contracting with the shipper, and not necessarily the one whose line constitutes the first link in transportation.[95] Under the Car-

89. Ohio—Annin v. Cincinnati Northern R. Co., 153 N.E. 522, 22 Ohio App. 37.

90. Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Evans, 157 S.E. 313, 172 Ga. 53, answers to certified questions conformed to 159 S.E. 877, 43 Ga.App. 683.

91. N.Y.—Schlitten v. Hines, 186 N.Y.S. 831, 196 App.Div. 254.

92. N.Y.—Greenwald v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 159 N.Y.S. 15, 95 Misc. 122.

Unloading cars

Initial carrier of interstate shipment, by noting in bill of lading, "Car to be opened by consignee," had no authority to vary regulation of interstate commerce commission that terminal carrier should unload all cars consigned to particular station.—Greenwald v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 159 N.Y.S. 15, 95 Misc. 122.

93. Idaho—Barrett v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 157 P. 1016, 29 Idaho 139.
Ill.—Golden Grain Milling Co. v. St. Louis, S. & P. R. Co., 226 Ill.App. 116.
31 C.J. p. 1200 note 34.

Switching to another carrier

A carrier which receives goods for interstate shipment is the initial carrier although it has only switched the car to another carrier's lines for transportation out of the state.—Barrett v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 157 P. 1016, 29 Idaho 139.

94. Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. of Indiana v. National Bank of Commerce of Norfolk, 95 S.E. 454, 122 Va. 471, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 582, 247 U.S. 519, 62 L.Ed. 1246.

95. N.Y.—Schlitten v. Hines, 186 N.Y.S. 831, 196 App.Div. 254.
Tex.—Houston, E. & W. T. Ry. Co. v. Houston Packing Co., Civ.App., 221 S.W. 316, error refused.
10 C.J. p. 517 note 47.

Corpus Juris is cited with approval in Utz v. Chicago, B. & Q. Ry. Co., Mo.App., 208 S.W. 640, 641.

Switching services

(1) Where shipper loaded one of its refrigerator cars on tracks of "I." Railway Company, which switched the car to "H." Railway Company, the latter paying "I." Company for such switching services, and issuing a through bill of lading to the shipper, "H." Company was the initial carrier, within the Carmack Amendment to the Interstate Commerce Act.—Houston E. & W. T. Ry. Co. v. Houston Packing Co., Tex.Civ.App., 221 S.W. 316, error refused.

(2) Where a railroad company furnished the cars for an interstate shipment of stock and by its agent signed the bill of lading, it is deemed the initial carrier, even though the cars after being loaded were transported by a belt line to the track of such railroad company.—Utz v. Chicago, B. & Q. Ry. Co., Mo.App., 208 S.W. 640.

(3) Where carloads of goods shipped into Chicago over defendant's line were there sold on defendant's tracks and under diversion orders were forwarded to a point in Tennessee over another line to which defendant switched the cars and which issued bills of lading, in the absence of a showing that defendant received the cars at the original point of shipment in Canada, it is not the initial carrier whether the shipment be considered as a through shipment from Canada or as a shipment originating in Chicago.—Cardwell v. Payne, 226 Ill.App. 227.

Carrier without tracks at place of origin

The fact that a carrier did not own tracks at the place of origin of a shipment did not negative the assumption of its relation as carrier from such point, where the bill of lading acknowledged receipt of the goods at that point, and where such carrier issued export bills of lading, acknowledging receipt of cotton at the point of origin in place of local bills of lading, it was held that there was no ambiguity, but that the carrier's obligation was to transport from place of origin to the ship, and it was entitled to receive the goods at the point of origin or at any point along the route, and to transport the goods to the ship by any means it might provide.—Texarkana & Ft. S. Ry. Co. v. Brass, Tex.Com.App., 260 S.W. 828, affirming, Civ.App., 245 S.W. 457, rehearing overruled, Com.App., 262 S.W. 737.

Reshipment

On the refusal of consignees, purchasers of goods, to accept shipment, if the initial carrier entered into a new contract for reshipment of the goods, it would then be deemed the initial carrier in the reshipment.—

mack amendment, however, this rule is subject to the qualification, that, where the only act of the company issuing the bill of lading consists in the execution of the writing itself, such execution cannot convert the company into an initial carrier, where it receives no benefit, does not participate in the transportation, and by the bill of lading actually routes the goods from beginning to end over the lines of other and different companies.[96] A carrier which receives goods intended for interstate shipment and delivers them to another carrier within the same state is the initial carrier, even though the goods were billed by the first carrier only to the point at which the second carrier took them and a new bill of lading was issued by the latter for the balance of the journey.[97]

While it has been said that there can be, in contemplation of law, but one initial carrier,[98] and while, ordinarily, as shown infra § 406 a, the rights and liabilities of all the parties to an interstate shipment of freight are controlled solely by the original contract, which connecting carriers cannot change merely by delivering to the shipper new bills of lading controlling the shipment over their respective lines, where the old contract is abandoned and a new bill of lading is issued en route by another carrier to meet a change of conditions, the carrier issuing the new bill of lading becomes the initial carrier to destination.[99]

The initial carrier continues in that capacity, within the meaning of the Carmack amendment, although the shipment is diverted before the original destination has been reached,[1] or although by direction of the consignee at the destination named in the bill, the goods are shipped to another point on the same bill of lading;[2] and where the carrier first taking the goods, is unable, because of an embargo, to deliver them at their destination and diverts them to a different carrier, to be delivered at a different destination, the second carrier does not become the initial carrier.[3] A carrier that indorses a reconsignment on a bill of lading issued by it is the initial carrier within the Carmack amendment, although it had previously delivered the goods to the next carrier.[4] Where, however, all the obligations of a previous contract of shipment are terminated, and there has been a delivery to the consignee prior to a subsequent contract for shipment, the carrier receiving the property under the subsequent contract is the initial carrier.[5] Thus, where a carrier delivers the goods at their destination, having neither undertaken to cause the shipment to be carried beyond that point nor knowledge that it was to be, and the owner then delivers them to another carrier, which issues a through bill of lading for further transportation, the latter is the initial carrier within the purview of the Carmack amendment;[6] and,

Schlitten v. Hines, 186 N.Y.S. 831, 196 App.Div. 254.

96. Ga.—Georgia Southern & F. Ry. Co. v. Tifton Produce Co., 176 S.E. 89, 49 Ga.App. 530.

97. Ill.—Lino v. Northwestern Pac. R. Co., 163 N.E. 316, 332 Ill. 93, reversing 246 Ill.App. 451.

98. Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. of Indiana v. National Bank of Commerce of Norfolk, 95 S.E. 454, 122 Va. 471, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 582, 247 U.S. 519, 62 L.Ed. 1246.

99. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Johnson, 206 S.W. 638, 182 Ky. 418.

Surrender of original bill

Where an interstate shipment of live stock from Nevada to Kentucky was stopped in Illinois, the original bill of lading surrendered, the stock transferred to other cars, mingled with other stock, and shipped to destination under new bill of lading, in the absence of showing of violation of Interstate Commerce Law, the carrier issuing the new bill of lading became the initial carrier to destination.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Johnson, 206 S.W. 638, 182 Ky. 418.

Invalidity of original contract

If initial contract covering interstate shipment was invalid as contract east of Chicago, then second contract might be made by connecting carrier, subjecting it to liability, under Interstate Commerce Act, as amended, of initial carrier. In determining the invalidity of the initial contract, Interstate Commerce Act, as amended in view of § 7, did not prohibit tariff regulation prohibiting movement of live stock on shipper's order contract east of Chicago, regulation applying to all carriage of live stock freight on lines of all common carriers east of Chicago.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. of Indiana v. National Bank of Commerce of Norfolk, 95 S.E. 454, 122 Va. 471, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 582, 247 U.S. 519, 62 L.Ed. 1246.

1. Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. S. L. Robinson & Co., 23 S.W.2d 976, 180 Ark. 911.
Ga.—Davis v. Southern Ry. Co., 185 S.E. 606, 53 Ga.App. 286.

Bill controlled by consignor

When the consignor controls the bill of lading, or has the right to change the destination or divert the goods to a new one, a reconsignment does not break the connection, but the new destination is regarded as the original one, to determine the liability of the initial carrier under the Carmack amendment to the Interstate Commerce Act.—Produce Trading Co. v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 100 S.E. 316, 178 N.C. 175.

2. Ga.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Montgomery & Co., 90 S.E. 740, 19 Ga.App. 29.
Ill.—Bruner v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 236 Ill.App. 541, affirmed 150 N.E. 266, 319 Ill. 421.—Sparr v. Southern Pac. Co., 220 Ill. App. 180.

3. Ill.—Gerard v. Davis, 225 Ill.App. 377.

4. N.C.—Myers v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 88 S.E. 149, 171 N.C. 190.

5. Idaho.—Rice v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 198 P. 161, 33 Idaho 565.

6. Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. S. L. Robinson & Co., 23 S.W. 2d 976, 180 Ark. 911.
Minn.—Victor Produce Co. v. Western Transit Co., 160 N.W. 248, 135 Minn. 121.

Sale at first destination

Where wheat was shipped from Missouri point to shipper at St. Louis with no intention to ship beyond state line, but was sold and reshipped under new bill of lading to Illinois point, shipment to St. Louis under similar circumstances, it has been held that the receiving carrier was not the initial carrier as to the extended transportation where it did not appear whether new bills of lading were issued therefor or whether the goods moved on the original bill.[7]

Although the operator of express cars fixed no through rate to points within its lines and rendered no bill for through charges, but charged a flat rate per one hundred pounds irrespective of the character of the goods or their value, or whether the charges of an express company to which it delivered shipments were prepaid or collected from the consignee, it advancing the express charges where they were prepaid and by its bill of lading undertaking to carry shipments to their destination on the line of the express company, the carrier is not a mere agent of the shipper but is the initial carrier within the meaning of the Interstate Commerce Act.[8] A railroad company which, after completion of a through contract of carriage, agrees to deliver the goods shipped on board a steamship within the state is not an initial carrier within the Carmack amendment.[9]

Where the initial carrier is owned and operated by the first connecting carrier both are deemed initial carriers.[10]

A forwarding carrier is a carrier who transports goods to the delivering carrier.[11]

§ 403. Loss or Injury on Connecting Lines in General

A receiving carrier acting as agent for another carrier is not liable for loss occurring after delivery to next carrier.

The question of whether a carrier which receives goods marked to a destination beyond its usual line of transportation is liable for loss or injury occurring on connecting lines depends for its solution on a variety of facts and circumstances which will be separately considered in subsequent sections of this Title. Thus, the effect on such liability of the absence of statute or special contract for through transportation is treated infra § 404; the existence of such a special contract, infra § 405; the existence of a contract limiting liability to the carrier's own line, infra § 407; and special statutory provisions such as the Carmack amendment relating to interstate commerce or, state legislation affecting intra-state shipments, infra § 406. The initial carrier's liability for injury on a connecting line due to defective cars is specifically discussed supra §§ 51, 56.

Where the receiving carrier takes as agent for another carrier, it is not liable for the loss of goods after it has turned over whatever control it had to the next carrier.[12]

§ 404. In Absence of Statute or Special Contract for Through Transportation

The authorities differ as to whether, in absence of statute or special contract, the initial carrier is liable for loss or injury occurring on a connecting line.

In a number of decisions, in accordance with what is called the English rule, it is held that a common carrier which receives goods consigned to a point beyond the terminus of its own line is liable for loss or injury occurring on a connecting line if it does not by contract limit its liability to loss or injury occurring on its own line;[13] and was not part of continuous interstate shipment, and carrier by which shipment from St. Louis was made was initial carrier, within Carmack amendment, although sale was made at final mill weights.—Forest Green Farmers' Elevator Co. v. Davis, 270 S.W. 394, 216 Mo.App. 545.

7. S.C.—Beaufort Truck Growers' Ass'n v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 121 S.E. 357, 127 S.C. 496.

8. R.I.—Glenlyon Dye Works v. Interstate Express Co., 91 A. 5, 36 R.I. 558

9. Ill.—Charles D. Stone & Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 214 Ill.App. 483

10. Ky.—Makeever v. Georgia S. & F. Ry. Co., 294 S.W. 144, 219 Ky. 699

11. Ky.—Brunk v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 105 S.W. 443, 444, 127 Ky. 304.

12. Mo.—Central Nat. Bank v. Pryor, App., 207 S.W. 298

13. Ill.—American Hide & Leather Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 228 Ill. App. 305, affirmed 142 N.E. 200, 310 Ill. 524. See Dunsworth v. Chicago & A. R. Co., 205 Ill.App. 51 But see Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Hedrich, 202 Ill.App. 48 Contra dictum Wood & Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 240 Ill.App. 6

Tenn.—Sunshine Hosiery Mills v. Chambers Truck Co., 107 S.W.2d 515—Dixie Greyhound Lines v. Kaplan, 89 S.W.2d 342, 169 Tenn. 513.

10 C.J. p. 517 note 54

"In Tennessee we follow the English rule, which is supposed to have its origin in the case of Muschamp v. Lancaster & P. J. R. Co., 8 Mees & W., 421, and hold that in the absence of an express stipulation to the contrary, an undertaking to carry the shipment to its ultimate destination is implied from the mere act of acceptance, and the carrier is responsible for loss or injury occurring on the line of any succeeding carrier to which the shipment is entrusted to continue or complete the transportation. Transportation Co. v. Bloch Brothers, 6 S.W. 881, 86 Tenn. 393; 4 Elliott on Railroads, 3 Ed., sec. 2164. The other view, known as the so called 'American rule,' followed by the Federal courts and the courts of many other states, is that the duty of a railroad receiving a shipment marked for a destination beyond its own line is discharged, in the absence of a special agreement or course of business to the contrary, by safely carrying the goods over its own line and delivering them in good order to the next succeeding carrier to continue or complete the transportation."—Nashville, C. & St.

an agreement to deliver to a connecting carrier in no way limits the initial carrier's undertaking to carry the shipment to its destination in such case nor relieves it of liability.[14]

In most of the decisions, and in the federal courts, however, the English doctrine has been repudiated. Briefly stated, the rule formulated by the decisions of these courts is that, in the absence of any contract, usage, or statute to the contrary, or of any partnership agreement between connecting carriers or joint contract for transportation, the liability of the initial carrier, notwithstanding the fact that the goods are marked to a point beyond its line, terminates when it transports the goods to the end of its line and delivers them to a connecting carrier to be transported to their destination.[15] It has been held, however, that this rule, which was adopted in connection with railroad transportation should not, on the grounds of public policy, be applied to carriers of goods by motor truck, in view of the different conditions under which they operate; and, accordingly, the initial motor carrier is held liable for a loss occurring while the shipment was in possession of a connecting motor carrier.[16] In view of the rule stated infra § 449 c, that in the absence of special contract the initial carrier is under no duty to allow its cars to go over the connecting line, it is not liable for damages resulting from unloading the goods from its cars at the end of its line, if such unloading was accomplished without negligence.[17]

§ 405. Under Special Contract for Through Transportation

a. In general

b. What constitutes through transportation contract

a. In General

Contracts for through transportation are valid and subject the initial carrier to liability for breach of contract and for loss occurring while the property is in charge of other carriers.

As heretofore shown in § 32, a common carrier is not at common law bound to carry to points beyond its own line, and, as shown supra § 404, by the great weight of authority the common-law liability of a carrier for injury to, or loss of, goods is restricted to its own line, in the absence of contract or statute extending its liability. However, carriers may make valid contracts to transport property beyond their own line, and, when they do, they are bound to deliver the property at its place of destination according to their contract, and are liable for loss or injury occurring after the property has passed over their line and while in the charge of other carriers.[18] Under these

L. Ry. Co. v. Sparkman, Petty & Jameson, 8 Tenn.App. 683, 686.

Referring to Corpus Juris, the rule stated in the text has been declared the law of Tennessee.—Southeastern Express Co. v. Fry Produce Co, 2 Tenn.App. 37, 41.

Carrier by motortruck

A trucking company which by its receipt and bill of lading undertook to transport goods by motortruck to destination without limiting its liability was liable as initial carrier for shipment lost in transit by a connecting carrier notwithstanding the connecting carrier was suggested by the shipper, since by virtue of the receipt and bill of lading connecting carrier was agent of trucking company.—Sunshine Hosiery Mills v. Chambers Truck Co, Tenn, 107 S.W. 2d 515

14. Tenn.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Sparkman, Petty & Jameson, 8 Tenn.App. 683.

15. U.S.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McGinn, Wash., 42 S.Ct. 332, 258 U.S. 409, 66 L.Ed. 689, reversing, C.C.A., McGinn v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co, 265 F. 81, certiorari granted 40 S.Ct. 148, 254 U.S. 628, 65 L.Ed. 446—Inland Waterways Corporation v. Standard Commercial Tobacco Co., C.C.A.La., 65 F.2d 715—Wiener v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, D.C.N.Y., 55 F.2d 252, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 61 F.2d 893—Vital v. Kerr, C.C.A.N.Y., 297 F. 959, certiorari denied Bigio v. Kerr, 44 S.Ct. 637, 265 U.S. 592, 68 L.Ed. 1196

Cal.—McCaslin v. Southern Pac. Co., 203 P. 742, 187 Cal. 716.

Ky.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Stimson, 268 S.W. 835, 207 Ky. 78.

Mass.—Florida Cotton Oil Co. v. Clyde S. S. Co, 125 N.E. 855, 235 Mass. 10.

Mo.—Home Telephone Co. v. Granby & Neosho Telephone Co., 126 S.W. 773, 147 Mo.App. 216.

N.Y.—Noel v. Westcott Express Co., 158 N.Y.S. 702, 95 Misc. 154.

Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren, Civ.App., 184 S.W. 232.

10 C.J. p. 518 note 55.

Corpus Juris has been quoted or cited with approval in:

U.S.—Basila v. Western Union Telegraph Co., D.C.Fla., 24 F.2d 569, 572.

N.C.—M. V. Moore & Co. v. Southern Ry. Co, 111 S.E. 166, 169

16. U.S.—Tubize Chattilon Corporation v. White Transp. Co., D.C.Md., 6 F.Supp. 15

17. Tex.—Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 134 S.W. 328.

18. U.S.—Wiener v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, C.C.A.N.Y., 61 F.2d 893, reversing, D.C., 55 F.2d 252—Tubize Chattilon Corporation v. White Transp. Co, D.C.Md., 6 F.Supp. 15.

Mo.—Randazzo Macaroni Mfg. Co. v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., App., 251 S.W. 466—Wilson v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., App., 190 S.W. 22—Keithley & Quinn v. Lusk, 189 S.W. 621, 195 Mo.App. 143.

Mont.—Parham v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 189 P. 227, 57 Mont. 492.

Okl.—St. Louis & S.F. R. Co. v. Wm. Bondies & Co, 166 P. 179, 64 Okl. 88—St. Louis & S.F. R. Co. v. Akard, 159 P. 344, 60 Okl. 4

S.C.—Barwick v. Northwestern R. Co. for South Carolina, 104 S.E. 545, 115 S.C. 123.

Tex.—Hines v. First Guaranty State Bank of Aubrey, Com.App., 243 S.W. 972, affirming, Civ.App., 228 S.W. 668—Wichita Valley Ry. Co. v. Brown, Civ.App., 270 S.W. 1112—St. Louis B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Lane, Civ.App., 248 S.W. 59.

10 C.J. p. 519 note 57—p. 533 note 47. "There is no doubt that a railroad company may contract for a move-circumstances, the connecting carrier, receiving the goods for the purpose of transporting them to their destination and delivering them there, becomes the agent of the carrier receiving the goods from the consignor for shipment for the purposes of transportation and delivery.[19] Contracts of this nature are not ultra vires,[20] although it was at one time open to debate whether that was the case;[21] and such contracts are valid, although the agreement is to transport the goods beyond the limits of the state in which the carrier is chartered.[22] Where a carrier contracts to transport the goods over a particular connecting line and fails to do so, it is liable for such damages flowing from its breach as ought reasonably to have been foreseen at the time of entering into the contract.[23] Even though by statute the shipper has his option, after giving notice, to sue the initial or delivering carrier, the carrier must transport and deliver according to the terms of the bill of lading.[24]

b. What Constitutes Through Transportation Contract

Whether a particular contract of carriage provides for through transportation is determined in each case under general rules of construction.

A contract for through transportation may be either express or implied,[25] and it may be either absolute or conditional.[26] The law and courts favor the making and interpretation of contracts for shipments over connecting carriers as being for through shipment, and making the initial carrier with whom the contract is made liable for all damage whether caused by such initial carrier or the connecting carrier.[27] However, a contract whereby the liability of the carrier is sought to be extended beyond its own line will not be inferred from loose and doubtful expressions; the proof of such undertaking must be clear and explicit.[28] Where there is a conflict between the written and the printed parts of a contract of shipment or bill of lading, the one indicating a through contract and the other not, the written portion must prevail.[29] In a bill of lading, pro-ment of freight over connecting carriers by land and a carrier by water for a shipment to or from a foreign country, and, if it does so, without reasonable limitation of its liability, it may be held for delay or damage to the goods occurring at any point, whether on its own line or that of a connecting carrier."—A Russo & Co v. U. S, C.C.A.La, 40 F.2d 39, 42.

Starting point

A carrier has the right to make a contract for the carriage of goods, notwithstanding the starting point is elsewhere than along the line of its own route—Schlitten v. Hines, 186 N.Y.S. 831, 196 App Div. 254.

Destination

In an action for breach of contract to transport corn into Mexico without reloading into other cars, it was held that the destination of shipment was not a point in Texas, as claimed by defendant, notwithstanding provision that the corn should not be taken into Mexico without surrender of bills of lading, which was for the shipper's protection; hence, where a connecting carrier refused to transport the corn into Mexico in accordance with the contract, defendant was liable.—Brunswig v. Bush, Mo App, 221 S.W. 759, certiorari dismissed Bush v Brunswig, 41 S Ct. 9, 254 U.S 660, 65 L Ed. 462.

Land and water carriage

Through bill of lading, providing for carriage of goods by connecting railroads to named port and from there to foreign port, required railroads to deliver goods in same good order as when received to on-carrying vessel lying in former port and bound for latter port—Rudy-Patrick Seed Co. v. Kokusai Kisen Kabushiki Kaisha, D C N.Y., 1 F.Supp 266

19. Ga.—Williamson-Inman Co v Nashville, C & St L Ry, 160 S E 687 44 Ga App. 129.
Mo.—Keithley & Quinn v. Lusk, 189 S.W. 621, 195 Mo.App. 143.
Okl.—St Louis & S. F R. Co. v Akard, 159 P 344, 60 Okl. 4.
10 C J. p 519 note 58.

20. N.Y.—Swift v Pacific Mail SS Co, 12 N E. 583, 106 N.Y. 206.
Pa.—Baltimore, etc, Steamboat Co. v. Brown, 54 Pa. 77
10 C J. p 520 note 59.

21. N J.—Saunders v. Adams Express Co, 74 A. 670, 78 N J Law 441.

22. N.C.—Lindley v Richmond, etc, R Co, 88 N C. 547.

23. Okl.—St Louis & S F. R. Co. v Wm. Bondies & Co, 166 P. 179, 64 Okl. 88

Loss of milling privilege

"Where a carrier contracted to transport a shipment of corn from D. to A over the line of a certain connecting carrier, upon whose line a milling in transit privilege was allowed at A., and breached its contract, delivering said shipment into A over the line of another carrier, thereby depriving consignee of the milling in transit privilege at A upon the line over which it agreed to transport same, said carrier will be liable for all damages proximately caused by its failure to deliver over the line designated in its contract."—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Wm. Bondies & Co, 166 P. 179, 64 Okl. 88

24. Fla.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v France, 111 So 248, 92 Fla. 1102

25. Cal.—Colfax Mountain Fruit Co. v. Southern Pac Co., 50 P. 775, 118 Cal 648, 40 L R A. 78.
10 C J p 520 note 62.

26. S.C.—Piedmont Mfg. Co v. Columbia, etc., R Co., 19 S C. 353.

27. Mo.—Keithley & Quinn v Lusk, 189 S W 621, 195 Mo App. 143

Reason for rule

"This is rightly so, as illustrated by the present case, since it is almost impossible for a shipper, who parts with his property in good condition and, having no control over or knowledge of it during transit, finds it damaged when delivered to him at the end of a long journey, to ascertain the exact time and place of the injury or by which carrier inflicted Moreover, to sue a connecting carrier often necessitates going to a foreign jurisdiction"—Keithley & Quinn v. Lusk, 189 S.W. 621, 622, 195 Mo.App. 143

28. U.S.—Wiener v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, D C.N.Y, 55 F 2d 252, reversed on other grounds, C C.A., 61 F 2d 893.
10 C.J. p 520 notes 64, 65.

Through contract shown see 10 C.J p 520 note 66 [a].

Through contract not shown

Ala.—Louisville & N. R Co v. Williams, 73 So. 548, 198 Ala 425
10 C J p 520 note 67 [a].

29. N Y.—Babcock v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 49 N.Y. 491.

viding for the carrying of the goods beyond the line of the carrier issuing the bill, a provision in fine print, somewhat obscured by the use of stamps, that in case of injury to the goods only the carrier having custody of the goods at the time of the injury shall be liable cannot be regarded as part of the contract.[30] Where several bills of lading constitute the entire contract of carriage, they must be construed together.[31]

In jurisdictions where the English rule, stated supra § 404, prevails, and in some jurisdiction where the so-called American doctrine prevails, the giving of a through bill of lading or shipping receipt by the initial carrier will of course amount to a contract for through transportation and bind it for loss or injury occurring on the lines of the connecting carriers.[32] Other decisions, however, maintain the contrary doctrine;[33] and further it has been held that no contract of through shipment should be inferred from the giving of a through bill of lading or shipping receipt where the instrument limits the liability of the carrier to its own line.[34] Delivery of an interstate shipment of freight to an intra-state railroad, under a through bill of lading and a guaranty of a through rate, is a through shipment and is governed by the Carmack amendment making initial carriers liable for loss or injury caused by connecting carriers.[35]

According to the weight of authority the mere fact that the initial carrier gives a through rate on the goods to their point of destination on the line of another carrier does not of itself amount to a contract of carriage beyond its own line,[36] especially where the contract of shipment restricts the carrier's liability to its own line.[37] Other decisions, however, seem to take the contrary view.[38] A shipment is not a continuous one not completed until arrival at its ultimate destination where the freight rate thereon was not a through one to its destination, but was made up of separate charges to its original destination, reconsigning charges assessed on its reconsignment, and charges assessed by the last carrier, there being no indorsement on the original contract of shipment extending it.[39]

According to a considerable number of decisions, if the initial carrier charges and collects freight for the entire route in advance, it thereby assumes responsibility for safe carriage over every other part of the route; in other words, it has entered into a contract for through shipment.[40] A limitation placed on this rule by some cases is that it does not apply if the contract of carriage expressly limits the liability of the initial carrier to its own line;[41] but other decisions hold that, where the initial carrier has collected full freight for the entire route, it cannot limit its liability to its own route.[42] It has also been held that the rule does not apply where the initial carrier has no interest in, or connection with, the connecting carrier, except to collect and to pay over to it the freight charge from the end of the initial carrier's line to the point of destination;[43] and that merely requiring a guaranty of the payment of the entire through freight will not justify the conclusion that the initial carrier thereby undertook to be liable over the whole route.[44] On the other hand, it has been held by some decisions that the acceptance of full freight is but an incident to the transportation of the freight and does not imply any contract for through liability, in the absence of other circumstances showing clearly the carrier's intention to undertake for the safety of the goods over the entire route.[45]

Wis.—Peet v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 19 Wis. 118.

30. Wash.—Allen v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 84 P. 620, 42 Wash. 64, 7 Ann.Cas. 468.

31. U.S.—A. Russo & Co. v. U. S., C.C.A.La., 40 F.2d 39.

32. Ga.—Central, etc., R. Co. v. Hasselkus, 17 S.E. 838, 91 Ga. 382, 44 Am.S.R. 37.
Ky.—Ireland v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 49 S.W. 188, 105 Ky. 400, 20 Ky. L. 1586.
10 C.J. p. 521 notes 69, 70.

33. N.C.—Reid v. Southern R. Co., 69 S.E. 618, 153 N.C. 490—Phillips v. North Carolina R. Co., 78 N.C. 294.
10 C.J. p. 521 note 71.

34. Mich.—Rickerson Roller Mill Co. v. Grand Rapids, etc., R. Co., 34 N.W. 269, 67 Mich. 110.
10 C.J. p. 521 note 72.

35. Tex.—Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Lewis, 129 S.W. 594.
10 C.J. p. 521 note 77.

36. Iowa.—Carter v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 125 N.W. 94, 146 Iowa 201—Hill v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 14 N.W. 249, 60 Iowa 196.
10 C.J. p. 521 note 78.

37. Wis.—Schneider v. Evans, 25 Wis. 241, 3 Am.R. 56.

38. U.S.—Smeltzer v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., C.C.Ark., 158 F. 649.
10 C.J. p. 522 note 80.

39. Ill.—Wenatchee Valley Fruit Growers Ass'n v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 215 Ill.App. 129.

40. Neb.—St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. Palmer, 56 N.W. 957, 38 Neb. 463, 22 L.R.A. 335.
10 C.J. p. 522 note 81.

41. Ohio.—Stevens v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 20 Ohio Cir.Ct. 41, 11 Ohio Cir.Dec. 168.
10 C.J. p. 522 note 82.

42. Mo.—Marshall, etc., Grain Co. v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 75 S.W. 638, 176 Mo. 480, 98 Am.S.R. 508.
Neb.—St. Joseph, etc., R. Co. v. Palmer, 56 N.W. 957, 38 Neb. 463, 22 L.R.A. 335.
10 C.J. p. 522 note 83.

43. Mo.—Simmons Hardware Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 120 S.W. 663, 140 Mo.App. 130.

44. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Kerr, 8 So. 330, 68 Miss. 14.

45. W.Va.—Roy v. Chesapeake, etc.,

Where goods are received by a carrier "to be forwarded" to a certain destination not on its line of road, some cases hold that no through contract is thereby made, and that the initial carrier is liable only for such injuries as may occur on its own line through its own negligence,[46] at least in the absence of evidence of charging and collecting through freight, or other business connections or arrangements with connecting lines;[47] but there is authority to the contrary.[48] An agreement by an initial carrier "to forward" certain cars from a point on its line to a point on another line at a designated rate, in which agreement no other carrier is mentioned, nor any mention made of compensation, to any other party, or anything said of a change to the care of any other carrier on the way, is a through contract.[49]

The acceptance of goods under an agreement "to deliver" at a designated point on the line of another carrier has been held to amount to a contract of through shipment.[50]

Where a carrier by contract undertakes to deliver goods at a certain point, "with privilege of reshipping" reserved in the bill of lading to the carrier, the carrier's liability as such continues until the goods are safely delivered at destination.[51] So, in an action against a carrier for failure to deliver freight at a place beyond its own route, testimony by the shipper that he arranged for the transportation to such point, with the privilege of changing the destination of another place, will be deemed sufficient evidence of an express contract for through shipment.[52]

An undertaking on the part of a carrier to carry over the entire route cannot be implied from the fact of its entering into an arrangement with a dispatch company and with other carriers whose lines connect with its own, whereby it undertakes to carry at certain special rates all the goods for the transportation of which the dispatch company may contract; nor can an undertaking be implied from the carrier's giving a waybill on which it appears that the goods are for a point beyond its line, but which plainly purports to be a manifest of freight from one terminus of the road to the other.[53] A special check issued by a railroad as agent for a local express carrier for delivery of a passenger's baggage from the railroad station to his house is not a special contract for a through shipment.[54]

A contract of shipment is considered to be one entire contract of carriage from the point of shipment to that of destination, notwithstanding it provides that the "responsibility of each carrier" is "to extend hereunder only" to the line of the receiving carrier, where no provision is made by which any person other than the receiving carrier is to choose the connecting carrier, and the receiving carrier does, in fact, choose such connecting carrier.[55]

Waybills which contain several items of charges for the two lines over which goods are to be carried do not constitute a contract for through transportation, but indicate the opposite;[56] and the fact that a car is waybilled to a particular place has been held not to constitute evidence of a contract of through transportation, but merely to show the destination of the car.[57] Where a written contract issued by a carrier for the shipment of cattle to a point on its line limits its liability to damage accruing on its own line, a waybill issued by it for the guidance of its employees, which denominated plaintiff's shipment as a through live stock waybill to a point on a connecting line, via the point on defendant's line specified in the written contract, did not change or affect the terms of such written contract;[58] but a waybill in which the heading spoke of the goods as goods to be transported by the first road, from the place of departure to the place at the end of the whole line, and at which the owner wished to have them delivered, was held to be competent evidence of a through shipment.[59]

R Co, 57 S E 39, 61 W.Va. 616, 31 L R A.,N S, 1.
10 C J. p 522 note 86.

46. Ill.—Merchants' Dispatch, etc, Co v. Moore, 88 Ill. 136, 30 Am.R 541.
10 C.J. p 522 note 87.

47. Miss.—Crawford v. Southern R Assoc., 51 Miss 222, 24 Am R. 626

48. Kan—St. Louis, etc, R Co. v. Piper, 13 Kan. 505.
Mo—Davis v. Jacksonville Southeastern Line, 28 S.W. 965, 126 Mo. 69

49. U.S.—Ohio, etc., R. Co. v. McCarthy, C C Mo, 96 U S. 258, 24 L. Ed 693.

50. Ky.—Bryan v. Memphis, etc., R Co, 11 Bush 597
Me—Perkins v Portland, etc, R. Co, 47 Me 573, 74 Am D. 507.
10 C J. p 523 note 96.

51. La—Hirsch v Leathers, 23 La Ann 50.
Mo—Little v. Semple, 8 Mo 99, 40 Am D. 123.

52. Tex—Texas-Mexican R Co. v. Gallagher, Civ App, 64 S.W 809
10 C.J. p 523 note 92

53. U S—St. Louis Ins. Co v. St. Louis, etc, R Co, C.C.Mo, 104 U. S. 146, 26 L Ed. 679.

54. N Y.—Noel v. Westcott Express Co, 158 N Y.S 702, 95 Misc. 154.

55. Ill—Wabash R. Co. v. Curtis, 134 Ill App. 409.

56. Me—Taylor v. Maine Cent. R. Co, 32 A. 905, 87 Me 299

57. Va.—Herring v. Chesapeake, etc., R Co., 45 S E 322, 101 Va 778.
10 C J p 523 note 98.

58. Tex—San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Barnett, 66 S.W. 474, 27 Tex.Civ. App 498.

59. U.S.—Ogdensburg, etc, R Co v. Pratt, C.C Mass., 89 U S. 123, 22 L. Ed 827.

Where an initial carrier, on demand of the shipper, accepts and assumes the responsibility of tracing the shipment and of reporting delivery, if made, so that the shipper may enforce payment by the consignee, it cannot thereafter claim that its responsibility in that respect terminated on delivery to a connecting carrier.[60]

An agreement to carry the goods to its usual place of delivery at their destination if on its road, otherwise to deliver to another carrier on the route to the destination is not a contract for through shipment.[61]

Where the parties contemplate a through shipment, part over a connecting line, at a through rate, the initial carrier does not destroy the character of the shipment as a through one or relieve itself from the liability of a through carrier by issuing a bill of lading over its own line only, and itself reconsigning the goods to the connecting carrier;[62] nor is a through interstate bill issued by the initial carrier converted into a contract to carry to an intermediate point by a provision for transportation by another carrier from such intermediate point.[63]

§ 406. Under Special Statutory Provisions

a. Federal legislation
b. State legislation

a. Federal Legislation

Under the Carmack amendment, as amended, connecting carriers are treated as agents of the initial carrier, and the latter is accordingly liable for any actionable loss or injury occurring during the shipment whether on its own line or on that of the connecting carrier.

Under the Carmack amendment, as originally enacted and subsequently amended, 49 U.S.C.A. § 20 (11), whenever an initial carrier accepts goods for shipment to a point on another line in another state, it is conclusively treated as having made a through contract of shipment and will be liable for any loss or injury occurring on any connecting line over which the shipment may pass, as well as for loss or injury occurring on its own line,[64] and this rule 60. S.C.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Schirmer, 69 S.E. 439, 87 S.C. 309.

10 C.J. p. 523 note 2.

61. Ill.—Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., 260 Ill.App. 482

62. Mo.—Keithley & Quinn v. Lusk, 189 S.W. 621, 195 Mo.App. 143.

63. Va.—Big Sandy & C. R. Co. v. Ball, 113 S.E. 722, 133 Va. 431.

64. U.S.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McGinn, Wash., 42 S.Ct. 332, 258 U.S. 409, 66 L.Ed. 689, reversing, C.C.A., McGinn v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co., 265 F. 81, certiorari granted 40 S.Ct. 148, 254 U.S. 628, 65 L.Ed. 446—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Ward, Tex., 37 S.Ct. 617, 244 U.S. 383, 63 L.Ed. 1213—Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Collins Produce Co., Ill., 235 F. 857, 149 C.C.A. 169, affirmed 39 S.Ct. 189, 249 U.S. 186, 63 L.Ed. 552

Ala.—Fred Henderson & Walters v. Atlantic Coast Line Ry. Co., 76 So. 309, 200 Ala. 393—Warley Fruit & Produce Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 84 So. 311, 17 Ala.App. 263.

Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. S. L. Robinson & Co., 23 S.W.2d 976, 180 Ark. 911—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Wellborn & Walls, 280 S.W. 18, 170 Ark. 469, certiorari denied Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Wellborn, 47 S.Ct. 91, 273 U.S. 694, 71 L.Ed. 844—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Bell, 259 S.W. 745, 163 Ark. 284, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 125, 266 U.S. 625, 69 L.Ed. 474—Love v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 242 S.W. 829, 158 Ark. 642—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Cunningham Commission Co., 188 S.W. 1177, 125 Ark. 577.

Conn.—Alderman Bros. Co. v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 129 A. 47, 102 Conn. 461.

Fla.—American Ry. Exp. Co. v. Fegenbush, 144 So. 320, 107 Fla. 145

Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Council Bros., 136 S.E. 418, 163 Ga. 494, 61 A.L.R. 1304—Georgia Southern & F. Ry. Co. v. Tifton Produce Co., 127 S.E. 771, 160 Ga. 213, answers to certified questions conformed to 128 S.E. 592, 34 Ga.App. 13—Fleshnar & Adar v. Southern Ry. Co., 127 S.E. 768, 160 Ga. 205, answers to certified questions conformed to 128 S.E. 78, 33 Ga.App. 823—Georgia Southern & F. Ry. Co. v. Tifton Produce Co., 176 S.E. 89, 49 Ga.App. 530—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Campbell Lumber Co., 166 S.E. 262, 45 Ga.App. 851—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Ousley, 139 S.E. 586, 37 Ga.App. 215—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Council Bros., 137 S.E. 569, 36 Ga.App. 573.

Idaho.—Barrett v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 157 P. 1016, 29 Idaho 139

Ill.—Bruner v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 150 N.E. 266, 319 Ill. 421, affirming 236 Ill.App. 541—Sparr v. Southern Pac. Co., 220 Ill.App. 180.

Iowa.—Adams Steel Co. v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 165 N.W. 367, 181 Iowa 1052, L.R.A. 1918B 622.

Kan.—Kirsch v. Postal Telegraph Cable Co., 164 P. 267, 100 Kan. 250

Ky.—Makeever v. Georgia S. & F. Ry. Co., 294 S.W. 144, 219 Ky. 699—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Young, 195 S.W. 93, 175 Ky. 841—Southern Ry. Co. v. Avey, 191 S.W. 460, 173 Ky. 598

La.—American Trading Co. of New Orleans v. New Orleans & N. E. R. Co., 105 So. 82, 159 La. 9.

Me.—Lewis Poultry Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 105 A. 109, 117 Me. 482.

Mich.—Ithaca Roller Mills v. Ann Arbor R. Co., 186 N.W. 516, 217 Mich. 348—Winget v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 177 N.W. 273, 210 Mich. 100, certiorari denied Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co. v. Winget, 41 S.Ct. 6, 254 U.S. 629, 65 L.Ed. 447

Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 251 S.W. 383, 298 Mo. 474, certiorari granted State of Missouri ex rel. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 44 S.Ct. 132, 263 U.S. 696, 68 L.Ed. 511, affirmed 45 S.Ct. 47, 266 U.S. 200, 69 L.Ed. 247, 42 A.L.R. 1232—Amber v. Davis, 232 S.W. 459, 221 Mo.App. 448—Mount Arbor Nurseries v. New York, C. & St. L. R. Co., 273 S.W. 410, 217 Mo.App. 31—Randazzo Macaroni Mfg. Co. v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., App., 251 S.W. 466—O'Briant v. Pryor, App., 195 S.W. 759—Conley v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 183 S.W. 1111, 192 Mo.App. 534.

Mont.—Parham v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 189 P. 227, 57 Mont. 492.

Neb.—McGinley v. Union Pac. R. Co., 263 N.W. 393, 129 Neb. 855.

N.Y.—Terranova v. Southern Pac. Co., 200 N.Y.S. 309, 206 App.Div. 64—Pacific Coast Borax Co. v.

applies, even though in violation of the statute no receipt or bill of lading was issued.[65] The purpose of the Carmack amendment, the validity of which has been upheld,[66] was to create in the initial carrier unity of responsibility for transportation to destination,[67] and to give the shipper a direct and ready remedy, and to enable him, in case of loss or damage to his goods, to have recourse to the initial carrier, and to leave the initial carrier to its recourse for whatever damage it may have to pay to the company doing the injury in case any such injury should be done by a connecting line.[68] Briefly

Shippers' Navigation Co., 178 N Y S 182, 108 Misc. 198.

N C—M V. Moore & Co v. Southern Ry Co, 111 S E. 166, 183 N. C. 213—Produce Trading Co v. Norfolk Southern R Co, 100 S.E 316, 178 N.C 175

N D—Knapp v. Minneapolis, St P. & S S M. Ry. Co., 159 N.W. 81, 34 N D 466.

Pa.—Moritz v. Florida East Coast Ry Co., 92 Pa Super 291—Sabarof v. Florida East Coast Ry. Co., 92 Pa Super 286.

S C—Sanders v. Charleston & W. C. Ry Co, 145 S E 400, 147 S.C. 487—Sanders v. Charleston & W C Ry. Co., 141 S E 607, 143 S. C 395

Tenn—Southeastern Express Co. v. Fry Produce Co, 2 Tenn App. 37.

Tex—Nation v San Antonio Southern Ry. Co, 283 S W 157, 115 Tex 431—St Louis Southwestern Ry Co. of Texas v. Seale & Jones, Com App., 267 S W. 676, modifying on other grounds, Civ App., 247 S W. 883—Burd v. San Antonio Southern Ry. Co., Com.App., 261 S W. 1021, modifying San Antonio Southern Ry. Co. v. Burd, Civ. App, 246 S W. 1060—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Morris, Com. App., 250 S W. 1017, affirming, Civ App, 241 S.W. 235—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v Hines, Com.App., 250 S.W. 1013, affirming, Civ App, 239 S W. 244—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry Co v. Hill, Com App, 213 S.W. 952—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v West Bros, Com App, 207 S.W. 918 affirming in part and reversing in part St. Louis, I. M. & S R. Co. v. West Bros, Civ App, 159 S.W 142, rehearing denied Texas & P. R. Co. v. West Bros, Com App, 214 S.W 808—Rio Grande & E P. Ry. Co v. Roy Campbell & Co, Civ App., 288 S W. 539—Texas & N. O. R Co. v H. & C. Newman, Civ.App, 273 S W 335—Lancaster v. Norris, Civ App., 271 S W 401, reversed on other grounds Norris v. Lancaster, Com App., 280 S W. 574—Houston E & W. T. Ry Co. v. Houston Packing Co, Civ App, 221 S W. 316, error refused—Texarkana & F S. Ry. Co v. Twin City Products Co, Civ.App, 208 S W. 989—Baker v. Memphis, D. & G. Ry Co, Civ App., 208 S.W. 182—Andrews v. Roberts, Civ.App, 192 S W. 569.

Utah—Barry v Los Angeles & S. L. R. Co, 189 P. 70, 56 Utah 69

Vt.—Saliba v. New York Cent. R. Co, 144 A 194, 101 Vt. 427—Haglin-Stahr Co v. Montpelier & W R. R. Co, 102 A. 940, 92 Vt 258

Va—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co v Aylor, 150 S E 252, 153 Va. 575, certiorari denied 51 S Ct. 26, 282 U.S 847, 75 L Ed. 751—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. of Indiana v. National Bank of Commerce of Norfolk, 95 S.E. 454, 122 Va. 471, certiorari denied 38 S Ct. 582, 247 U S. 519, 62 L Ed. 1246

Wis—Vogel v. Delaware, L & W. R. Co, 171 N W. 198, 168 Wis. 567.

10 C.J p 524 notes 7, 8.

Terminal express carrier

Under Carmack amendment initial carrier by rail is liable for all intermediate carriers, including express carrier at end of transit, until goods are received at their destination.—Vogel v Delaware, L & W. R Co., 171 N.W. 198, 168 Wis. 567.

Switching at destination

Where a connecting carrier transporting a shipment of live stock delivers it to another road acting as its agent, and not as a connecting carrier, to be switched to stockyards for unloading at destination, the initial carrier is liable for injuries sustained during such switching operations, the destination of the shipment being the stockyards, and not the railroad yards.—Rio Grande, E P & S. F. R Co. v. Kraft & Madero, Tex.Civ.App., 212 S W. 981, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

What constitutes contract

Bill of lading issued by initial carrier, and classification and schedules, including tariff circulars on file with interstate commerce commission, constituted contract of carriage within the federal law—American Cotton Products Co v New York Cent. R Co., 255 N.Y.S. 672, 142 Misc 821.

Referring to Corpus Juris, the rule of the text was applied in Louisville & N R. Co. v. B F. Roden Grocery Co., 96 So. 912, 915, 209 Ala 694.

65. Vt.—Dionne v. American Express Co., 101 A 209, 91 Vt. 521

Va—Jennings Automatic Dump Body v Virginian Ry. Co., 119 S. E. 147, 137 Va. 207—Chesapeake & O Ry. Co of Indiana v National Bank of Commerce of Norfolk, 95 S E. 454, 122 Va. 471, certiorari denied 38 S Ct. 582, 247 U.S. 519, 62 L.Ed. 1246.

10 C.J. p 526 note 35.

66. Ark—St. Louis & S F. R Co. v Heyser, 130 S.W. 562, 95 Ark. 412, Ann Cas.1912A 610.

Ga—Southern Ry. Co v. Baker, 124 S E 876, 158 Ga 830.

Ill—Fry v. Southern Pac. Co, 93 N E. 906, 247 Ill. 564.

Okl.—St Louis & S F. R Co. v. Akard, 159 P. 344, 60 Okl. 4

Tex—Galveston H & S. A. Ry. Co v. Johnson & Johnson, Civ.App., 133 S.W 725—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v Harriman Bros., Civ App, 128 S.W 932, reversed on other grounds 33 S.Ct. 397, 227 U S 657, 57 L Ed. 690.

Va—Norfolk & W. Ry. Co. v. Dixie Tobacco Co., 69 S E. 1106, 111 Va 813, affirmed 33 S.Ct. 609, 228 U.S. 593, 57 L Ed 980.

10 C J. p 524 note 9.

As not violative of due process of law clause of constitution see C. J S title Constitutional Law § 641, also 10 C J. p 524 note 9 [a].

As not denying equal protection of the laws see C J S. title Constitutional Law § 555, also 12 C J. p 1179 note 32.

67. U S.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v Ward, Tex, 37 S.Ct. 617, 244 U.S 383, 63 L.Ed. 1213.

Ark—Chicago, R I. & P. Ry Co. v. S L Robinson & Co, 23 S.W 2d 976, 180 Ark. 911.

Fla—American Ry. Exp. Co. v. Fegenbush, 144 So 320, 107 Fla 145

Tenn—Southern Ry. Co. v. Lewis & Adcock Co., 201 S W 131, 139 Tenn. 37, L R A.1918C 976

Tex—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hines, Com App, 250 S.W. 1013, affirming, Civ App, 239 S.W. 244

10 C J. p 524 note 11.

68. U S—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav Co. v McGinn, Wash 42 S. Ct 332, 258 U S. 409, 66 L Ed. 689, reversing, C.C A, McGinn v. Oregon-Washington R & Nav. Co., 265 F. 81, certiorari granted 40 S.Ct. 148, 254 U S. 628, 65 L.Ed 446—Missouri, K & T Ry Co. of Texas v. Ward, Tex., 37 S Ct. 617, 244 U S 383, 63 L Ed. 1213

N.Y—Western Electric Co. v. New York & B. Transp. Line, 180 N Y S 873.

10 C.J. p 524 note 12.

"The object of the Carmack Amendment was designed to aid the shipper in finding a liable corporation, where there were several carriers involved in the contract of carriage, and do away with the necessity of the shipper endeavoring to find upon which connecting line the stated the reasons are: (1) The expense incurred in an effort to establish the shipper's claim in a distant court.[69] (2) The great hardship imposed by the rule which required a shipper sustaining loss to prove on which line it occurred, which resulted sometimes in failure to recover, simply because the shipper could not produce evidence to show where the loss occurred.[70] As to the question of expediency, it was said that, while in some instances it might be burdensome to the initial carrier to be held responsible for loss or injury to the property, caused by some other carrier over whose line the property passed, yet the initial carrier can generally protect itself better than a shipper can.[71] The legal effect of the provision is not to confer on the lawful holder of a bill of lading any new kind of contractual right, but to extend to him rather a new kind of remedy for the enforcement of his preëxisting contractual rights, by granting him a right of action against the initial carrier where the primary liability is on a connecting carrier.[72] The remedy thus given is additional to, and concurrent with, any other existing federal remedy,[73] and, as shown in C.J.S. title Commerce § 15, the provision in the Carmack amendment that nothing therein shall deprive the holder of a bill of lading of any remedy which he has under existing law is construed to mean existing federal law.

Carriers subject to act. The statute does not apply to interstate commerce by motor truck,[74] or interstate commerce wholly by water,[75] but interstate commerce wholly by railroad is subject to the act,[76] and so is interstate commerce partly by railroad and partly by water, under a common control, management, or arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment.[77] The fact that the lines of a water carrier and a railway carrier connect and thus form a continuous line of transportation over which traffic moves between two or more states does not bring the water carrier within the control of the federal act, unless such carriers are under a "common control," or "common management," or there is between them a "common arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment,"[78] and, where this is not the case, the water carrier, as initial carrier, is culpable negligence occurred. The rule of law which required proof affirmatively that the damage occurred while the property was in the possession of the connecting carrier was intended to be obviated by this amendment, making the initial carrier responsible for all damage, no matter upon whose lines the negligence occurred"—Pacific Coast Borax Co. v. Shippers' Navigation Co., 178 N.Y.S. 182, 183, 108 Misc. 198

"The evident purpose of such amendment was to do away with the necessity of the holder of a bill of lading making an investigation to determine which carrier was at fault, if other than the receiving carrier moved the shipment, and to leave the question of ultimate liability to be settled among themselves by the interested carriers"—State ex rel. and to Use of St. Louis, B & M. Ry Co v. Taylor, 251 S.W. 383, 385, 298 Mo. 474, certiorari granted State of Missouri ex rel. St. Louis, B & M Ry. Co v Taylor, 44 S Ct 132, 263 U.S. 696, 68 L Ed. 511, affirmed 45 S Ct. 47, 266 U.S. 200, 69 L Ed 247, 42 A.L.R. 1232

"The purpose of the Carmack Amendment was to relieve the shipper of the trouble and expense of ascertaining what carriers have moved his goods in interstate commerce, and of determining upon which lines he has been damaged, and of locating and suing such carriers, oftentimes in jurisdictions remote from his domicile, and to transfer this burden to the initial carrier, which, because of the essentially close and reciprocal relations existing between transportation companies, is necessarily in a better position to ascertain, secure, and produce in court the facts upon which actions for damages must be based, and from which the liabilities of the carriers must be determined"—San Antonio Southern Ry. Co. v. Burd, Tex Civ App., 246 S.W. 1060, 1062, modified on other grounds Burd v. San Antonio Southern R. Co., Com.App., 261 S.W. 1021.

69. Md.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Sperber, 84 A. 72, 117 Md. 595.

70. Md—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Sperber, supra
10 C.J. p 524 note 14.

71. Md—Baltimore, etc., R Co. v. Sperber, supra.

72. La.—W. H. Hodges & Co v Pennsylvania R Co., 132 So. 115, 171 La. 699, affirming 128 So. 52, 14 La.App 285

73. La—W H. Hodges & Co. v. Pennsylvania R Co., supra.
N.Y—Pacific Coast Borax Co v. Shippers' Navigation Co., 178 N.Y.S 182, 108 Misc 198
Ohio.—Norfolk & Western Ry Co v. Dresbach, 8 Ohio App. 333
Tex—Nation v San Antonio Southern Ry Co., 283 S.W. 157, 115 Tex 431—Fort Worth & Denver City Ry. Co v Motley, Civ.App., 87 S.W.2d 551, error dismissed
10 C.J p 524 note 10.

74. U.S.—Tubize Cattilon Corporation v. White Transp. Co., D.C. Md., 6 F.Supp. 15

Reason for rule

"The Carmack Amendment to the Interstate Commerce Act, shows it applies to any common carrier railroad or transportation company subject to the provisions of that act The Interstate Commerce Act, 49 U.S.C.A. § 1 et seq., applies to certain stated common carriers, and enumerates carriers by railroad and those carrying partly by railroad and partly by water, certain pipe lines, etc., but does not mention carriers by motortruck. Under the well-established rule that where matters included are enumerated, the effect is to exclude from the class those not enumerated, it would seem that the Carmack Amendment, making the initial carrier liable for loss on connecting lines on through interstate shipments does not apply"—Sunshine Hosiery Mills v Chambers Truck Co., Tenn., 107 S.W.2d 515, 516.

75. Mass—Florida Cotton Oil Co v. Clyde S. S. Co., 125 N.E. 855, 235 Mass 10
Tenn.—American Peanut Corporation v. St. Louis & Tennessee River Packet Co., 3 Tenn App. 552.

76. Tenn—American Peanut Corporation v. St. Louis & Tennessee River Packet Co., supra.

77. Tenn—American Peanut Corporation v. St Louis & Tennessee River Packet Co., supra.

78. Tenn.—American Peanut Corporation v. St Louis & Tennessee River Packet Co., supra.

not liable for loss or injury caused by a connecting carrier.[79]

Extent and limits of rule in general. Although the liability of an initial carrier as a common carrier for loss of goods on its own lines is not affected by the act,[80] and although an action ex delicto against an initial carrier as the actual tortfeasor, or against the lessor corporation whose line of railroad such a carrier operates is not thereby precluded,[81] the Carmack amendment is in derogation of the common-law doctrine by which a common carrier's liability is restricted to loss or damage on its own line,[82] and, so far as initial carriers in interstate shipments are concerned, abrogates that doctrine.[83] However, it was not the purpose of the amendment to extend the carriers' common-law liability, except to provide that, until the transportation ended, the liability of an initial carrier should continue exactly the same as if it owned one line of railroad from the point of shipment to the point of destination.[84] The legislation makes the initial carrier responsible for the safe delivery of goods accepted by it for transportation;[85] and to hold the initial carrier liable, it is unnecessary to establish negligence on its part.[86] The act, however, does not impose an absolute liability for loss or injury occurring on either line,[87] and the fact that the shipment was interstate does not ipso facto fix liability of the initial carrier under the Carmack amendment for damage caused by a connecting carrier, as the liability of the initial carrier depends on the extent of its obligation, evidenced by the bill of lading.[88] Obviously, under this statute, no special contract creating extra terminal liability for damages occurring on the line of a connecting carrier is necessary.[89] The liability of the initial carrier under the statute is the same as if it owned a continuous line from the point of shipment to the point of destination,[90] or, as otherwise expressed, its ef-

79. Tenn.—American Peanut Corporation v. St. Louis & Tenn. River Packet Co., supra.

80. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 251 S.W. 383, 298 Mo. 474, certiorari granted State of Missouri ex rel. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 44 S.Ct. 132, 263 U.S. 696, 68 L.Ed. 511, affirmed 45 S.Ct. 47, 266 U.S. 200, 69 L.Ed. 247, 42 A.L.R. 1232.

Tex.—Fort Worth & Denver City Ry. Co. v. Motley, Civ.App., 87 S.W.2d 551, error dismissed.

10 C.J. p. 525 note 19.

Furnishing defective car

Initial carrier, furnishing car with leaky roof and bad doors for shipment of sugar, moving sugar about considerably during repairs en route, and leaving it scattered over half of car, was held liable, either as carrier occupying position of insurer, or as warehouseman failing to use ordinary care and diligence to protect goods, for damage by rain after arrival at destination, before removal into warehouse, and loss of sugar spilled on floor of car.—American Trading Co. of New Orleans v. New Orleans & N. E. R. Co., 105 So. 82, 159 La. 9.

81. Ga.—Southwestern R. Co. v. Davies, 186 S.E. 899, 53 Ga.App. 712.

82. Ga.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Crenshaw, 63 S.E. 865, 5 Ga.App. 675.

83. N.Y.—Greenwald v. Weir, 111 N.Y.S. 235, 59 Misc. 431, reversed on other grounds 115 N.Y.S. 311, 130 App.Div. 696, and affirmed 92 N.E. 218, 199 N.Y. 170, 35 L.R.A., N.S., 971.

84. Mo.—Cudahy Packing Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 187 S.W. 149, 193 Mo.App. 572.

Or.—Stoddard Lumber Co. v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co., 165 P. 363, 84 Or. 399, 4 A.L.R. 1275.

Pa.—Keystone Pub. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 78 Pa.Super. 486.

10 C.J. p. 525 note 18.

Fault of consignee

Initial carrier is not liable for damage to strawberry shipment, where there was no showing of negligence on part of initial or connecting carrier in handling shipment in transit, shipment was in transit less than scheduled time, consignee was notified day after arrival, and shipment by consignee's orders was not placed on service track until three days later.—Marion T. Fannaly, Inc., v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., La.App., 160 So. 131.

85. N.H.—Ostroff v. Hustis, 114 A. 27, 80 N.H. 141.

86. Neb.—Mayhall & Neible v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 185 N.W. 326, 107 Neb. 58, error dismissed Union Stock Yards Co. of Omaha v. Mayhall & Neible, 43 S.Ct. 699, 262 U.S. 731, 67 L.Ed. 1205.

N.C.—Produce Trading Co. v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 100 S.E. 316, 178 N.C. 175.

87. N.Y.—Burke v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 147 N.Y.S. 794.

88. S.C.—Beaufort Truck Growers' Ass'n v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 121 S.E. 357, 127 S.C. 496.

89. Ind.—Wabash R. Co. v. Priddy, 101 N.E. 724, 179 Ind. 483.

90. U.S.—Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Collins Produce Co., Ill., 39 S.Ct. 189, 249 U.S. 186, 63 L.Ed. 552, affirming, C.C.A., 235 F. 857.

Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. S. L. Robinson & Co., 23 S.W.2d 976, 180 Ark. 911.

Ga.—Fleshnar & Adar v. Southern Ry. Co., 127 S.E. 768, 160 Ga. 205, answers to certified questions conformed to 128 S.E. 78, 33 Ga.App. 823.

La.—American Trading Co. of New Orleans v. New Orleans & N. E. R. Co., 105 So. 82, 159 La. 9.

Me.—Lewis Poultry Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 105 A. 109, 117 Me. 482.

Miss.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Craig, 79 So. 102, 118 Miss. 299, certiorari denied 39 S.Ct. 11, 248 U.S. 573, 63 L.Ed. 427.

Mo.—Randazzo Macaroni Mfg. Co. v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., App., 251 S.W. 466.

Or.—Stoddard Lumber Co. v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co., 165 P. 363, 84 Or. 399, 4 A.L.R. 1275.

Pa.—Keystone Pub. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 78 Pa.Super. 486.

Vt.—Haglin-Stahr Co. v. Montpelier & W. R. R. Co., 102 A. 940, 92 Vt. 258.

10 C.J. p. 525 note 22.

Corpus Juris is quoted in Louisville & N. R. Co. v. B. F. Roden Grocery Co., 96 So. 912, 914, 209 Ala. 694.

Fault of connecting carrier

Seizure of shipment of poultry on connecting line, by military authorities in flood district under martial law, to relieve sufferers, if solely by reason of invitation of connecting line, when it could have delivered shipment by exercise of ordinary care, renders the initial carrier liable.—Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Collins Produce Co., Ill., 39 S.Ct. 189, 249 U.S. 186, 63 L.Ed. 552, affirming, C.C.A., 235 F. 857.

fect is to make the connecting carrier the agent of the initial carrier, the same as if it had contracted for through carriage to the point of destination;[91] but connecting carriers are agents of the initial carrier only because of the contract of the initial carrier which is the bill of lading as issued or modified by the original carrier.[92] As shown infra § 407 a (2) if shipments are received for through transportation and delivery beyond its line by the initial carrier, any stipulation for exemption from liability for loss or injury due to the default of its agents or connecting carriers is void and inoperative, but, in harmony with the rules stated supra § 97 et seq, the initial carrier may contract for exemption from liability where the shipment is damaged without the fault of the carrier or its agencies,[93] nothing in the federal law forbids the making of a contract limiting liability where there is no negligence either on the part of the initial or the connecting carrier.[94] Whether the initial carrier is liable under contracts limiting liability depends in each case on the provisions of the contract and the circumstances surrounding the loss or injury.[95]

91. U S—Missouri, K & T Ry Co of Texas v Ward, Tex, 37 S Ct 617, 244 U.S 383, 63 L Ed. 1213
Ala.—Louisville & N R Co. v. B. F Roden Grocery Co, 96 So. 912, 209 Ala. 694.
Ark.—Chicago, R I. & P. Ry. Co. v S. L. Robinson & Co., 23 S W. 2d 976, 180 Ark 911.
Ky—Cleveland, C, C. & St L Ry. Co. v. Young, 195 S W 93, 175 Ky. 841.
La.—American Trading Co of New Orleans v New Orleans & N E R. Co., 105 So 82, 159 La 9
Me—Lewis Poultry Co. v New York Cent R Co., 105 A. 109, 117 Me 482.
Mo—State ex rel and to Use of St Louis, B & M Ry Co v. Taylor, 251 S.W 383, 298 Mo. 474, certiorari granted State of Missouri ex rel. St. Louis, B. & M Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 44 S Ct. 132, 263 U S. 696, 68 L Ed. 511, affirmed 45 S Ct. 47, 266 U.S. 200, 69 L Ed. 247, 42 A L R. 1232 — Randazzo Macaroni Mfg. Co. v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., App, 251 S.W. 466.
N C.—M. V. Moore & Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 111 S.E. 166, 183 N C 213.
Tex.—Nation v San Antonio Southern Ry. Co, 283 S W. 157, 115 Tex. 431—Burd v San Antonio Southern Ry. Co., Com App, 261 S.W. 1021, modifying San Antonio Southern Ry. Co. v. Burd, Civ. App., 246 S W. 1060—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v Hines, Com.App., 250 S.W 1013, affirming, Civ App., 239 S W. 244
Vt.—Haglin-Stahr Co. v. Montpelier & W R. R Co, 102 A. 940, 92 Vt 258
Va.—Jennings Automatic Dump Body v Virginian Ry. Co., 119 S. E. 147, 137 Va. 207.
10 C J. p 525 note 23.

Disposition at destination

Disposition of decayed perishable merchandise by connecting carrier at point of destination, on consignee's rejection of shipment, is binding on initial carrier—American Fruit Growers of California v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co, 238 P. 105, 72 Cal App 682.

92. Va—Southern Produce Co. v Norfolk Southern R Co, 132 S. E. 360, 144 Va 422.

93. Cal—American Fruit Distributors of California v. Hines, 203 P. 821, 55 Cal.App. 377

94. Cal—American Fruit Distributors of California v. Hines, supra

Strikes

A carrier may by fair and reasonable agreement restrict its liability to losses which are the proximate result of strikes on a connecting carrier's road, where the loss is not occasioned by negligence of the carrier in the premises or it could not by reasonable diligence have prevented the loss—Jonesboro, L. C & E R Co v. Maddy, 248 S W. 911, 157 Ark 484, 28 A.L R. 498.

Nonagency station

A provision of a bill that property destined to, or taken from, a station, wharf, or landing at which there is no regularly appointed agent should be entirely at risk of owner after unloading from cars or vessels, or until loaded into cars or vessels, and when received from or delivered on private or other sidings, wharfs, or landings, should be at owner's risk until cars were attached to and after they were detached from trains, is valid—U S Feed Mills Co v Missouri Pac. R. Co., 36 S W 2d 136, 224 Mo App. 1134.

95. Act of God

Under the Carmack amendment, where a bill of lading exempted the carrier from loss by act of God, and was issued on the lower of two rates approved and published, and the goods were delayed through the negligence of a connecting carrier, so that, when they arrived at the destination, they could not be unloaded, due to a heavy rain, and were damaged by water at the time of the Dayton flood, the carrier was not liable, the proximate cause of the damage being the flood, and not the carrier's negligence—Continental Paper Bag Co. v Maine Cent. R. Co., 99 A 259, 115 Me. 449.

Strikes

In an action against an initial carrier, for loss to an interstate shipment of hogs, never delivered to consignees, but turned over by an intermediate carrier to another, it was error to limit defendant's right to exemption from liability by reason of strikes as provided for by contract to a finding that delay was occasioned solely by a strike of employees of a terminal carrier, as the Interstate Commerce Act extends to all terminal facilities and instrumentalities A strike on any of the connecting carriers singly or together would, under the contract release the initial carrier from liability except in case of negligence with regard to averting the loss—Jonesboro, L C. & E R. Co v Maddy, 248 S W 911, 157 Ark. 484, 28 A.L R. 498

"Unavoidable causes"

Bill of lading relieving, from liability for loss "by accidents or delays from unavoidable causes," unusual and unexpected congestion at place of destination due to teamsters at destination accustomed to handle shipments being occupied removing freight already there, was held not to exonerate initial carrier from liability for shipment destroyed by fire while sidetracked nine miles from destination on tracks of connecting carrier.—Yazoo & M. V R. Co. v Craig, 79 So. 102, 118 Miss 299, certiorari denied 39 S Ct. 11, 248 U S 573, 63 L Ed. 427

Limitation to liability of warehouseman

Duty as a carrier of an interstate shipment terminated forty-eight hours after arrival of the goods at destination and notice thereof given by the connecting carrier pursuant to the uniform "order notify" bill of lading, providing they might be kept subject to responsibility as warehousemen only if not removed within that time by the party entitled—Efland Hosiery Mills v. Hines, 114 S.E 472, 184 N.C. 356

Limitation as to value

(1) Provision of interstate through shipment contract limiting the car

The liability of the initial carrier is for every kind of positive misconduct of the connecting carrier affecting the property, and for its negligence and lack of care or effort,[96] but it is not limited to loss caused by some affirmative act of the connecting carrier, and, even though the latter is without fault if the loss is one for which it would be liable under the common-law principles discussed supra § 71, the initial carrier is liable.[97] The initial carrier is liable for the damages resulting from the wrongful act of the terminal carrier in delivering[98] or refusing to deliver[99] the goods shipped without taking up the bill of lading; but the amendment was not intended to forbid the delivery of a shipment by a terminal carrier under any and all circumstances to anyone except the holder of the bill of lading.[1] The statute has been held sufficiently comprehensive to include damages caused by delay in transportation, infra § 416; damages by reason of excessive freight charges caused by misrouting by a connecting carrier;[2] expense for assortment entailed where separate shipments were commingled in transit;[3] damages caused by negligence of the terminal carrier in unloading the shipment;[4] damages due to the final carrier's failure to notify the consignee of the arrival of the goods,[5] or its failure to notify the shipper of their arrival and nondelivery to the consignee[6] provided the final carrier was bound to notify the shipper;[7] damages caused by the failure, on the consignee's refusal to accept them, to store them for the account of the consignor;[8] damages due to the failure of the conrier's liability to one hundred dollars per animal is valid under Carmack amendment.—Jordan v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., App., 196 S W. 417, transferred from 191 S.W. 70, 269 Mo 281.

(2) It has been said, however, that under the statute the initial carrier is liable for shipper's full actual loss or damage, notwithstanding limitations of liability or amount of recovery in receipt, bill of lading, contract, rule, regulation, or tariff. —American Trading Co. of New Orleans v. New Orleans & N. E. R Co., 105 So. 82, 159 La. 9.

(3) The validity of contractual limitations of liability as to value is treated generally supra § 102, and the construction, operation, and effect of such limitations, supra §§ 112, 113.

Private siding

That a railroad may put goods on a siding does not make it other than private within bill of lading that carrier shall incur no liability for goods received from, or delivered on, private sidings, where such place of delivery was fixed by the bill, with the making of which the terminal carrier had nothing to do— Charles Bianchi & Sons v. Montpelier & W. R. R. Co., 104 A. 144, 92 Vt. 319.

96. La.—American Trading Co. of New Orleans v. New Orleans & N E. R. Co., 105 So 82, 159 La. 9.
Me.—Lewis Poultry Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 105 A. 109, 117 Me. 482

97. Miss.—Yazoo & M. V. R Co. v Craig, 79 So 102, 118 Miss. 299, certiorari denied 39 S Ct. 11, 248 U.S. 573, 63 L.Ed. 427.

Loss by fire

Under Carmack amendment, liability of initial carrier for goods consumed by fire while sidetracked along line of connecting carrier before reaching destination is not limited to loss caused by some affirmative act of connecting carrier.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Craig, 79 So. 102, 118 Miss 299, certiorari denied 39 S Ct. 11, 248 U.S. 573, 63 L Ed 427.

98. Conn.—Alderman Bros. Co. v New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 129 A. 47, 102 Conn. 461.
Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line Ry. Co. v Roe, 118 So. 115, 96 Fla. 429.
Mich.—Winget v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 177 N.W. 273, 210 Mich. 100, certiorari denied Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co. v. Winget, 41 S.Ct. 6, 254 U.S. 629, 65 L.Ed. 447
Mo.—Peycke Bros. Commission Co. v. Sandstone Co-Op. Co., 191 S.W. 1088, 195 Mo.App. 417.
10 C.J. p 525 note 24.

Act of carrier or warehouseman

Under the Carmack amendment, the initial carrier is liable for the wrongful delivery by the terminal carrier without surrender of the original bill of lading, and it is immaterial whether its negligence was that of a warehouseman or a carrier, since it is not released from its delivery as a duty of transportation according to the terms of the shipping bill by which it received the goods and carried them to the terminal point, and this principle is particularly applicable in such case because the carrier would not have been liable for refusal to deliver goods shipped without surrender of original bill of lading and without reasonable identification and indemnity furnished to the carrier —Winget v. Grand Trunk Western Ry Co., 177 N W. 273, 210 Mich 100, certiorari denied Grand Trunk Western Ry Co v Winget, 41 S Ct. 6, 254 U.S 629, 65 L.Ed. 447.

99. N C. — McCotter v. Norfolk Southern R Co, 100 S E. 326, 178 N.C. 159.

1. Tex.—City Nat. Bank of El Paso v. El Paso & N. E. Ry. Co., Tex. Civ App, 225 S.W. 391, certiorari granted 42 S Ct. 461, 258 U S. 616, 66 L Ed. 792, and affirmed 43 S.Ct. 640, 262 U.S. 695, 67 L Ed. 1184.

2. Ohio—Chesapeake, etc., R Co. v. Ward Lumber Co., 21 Ohio Cir. Ct N.S. 337.

3. Ala.—Inland Waterways Corporation v. Sloss Sheffield Steel & Iron Co., 136 So 849, 223 Ala. 397.

4. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Wellborn & Walls, 280 S W. 18, 170 Ark. 469, certiorari denied Missouri Pac. R. Co v. Wellborn, 47 S.Ct. 91, 273 U.S 694, 71 L.Ed. 844.

5. Ga.—Georgia Southern & F. Ry. Co. v. Tifton Produce Co, 127 S. E 771, 160 Ga. 213, answers to certified questions conformed to 128 S E 592, 34 Ga.App. 13

6. Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v Ousley, 139 S.E. 586, 37 Ga. App 215
Or.—Stoddard Lumber Co. v. Oregon-Washington R & Nav. Co, 165 P. 363, 84 Or. 399, 4 A.L.R 1275.
10 C.J. p 525 note 32.

Ignorance of shipper's residence

Where a carrier is unable to deliver goods which have been shipped through connecting carriers, under the Carmack amendment, the initial carrier is not relieved of its duty to notify the consignor because the terminal carrier did not know his residence.—Stoddard Lumber Co v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav Co, 165 P. 363, 84 Or. 399, 4 A.L.R 1275.

7. N Y.—Markowitz v. New York Cent R Co., 172 N.Y S. 233.
Pa.—Keystone Pub. Co v. Pennsylvania R. Co, 78 Pa.Super 486.
Tex.—Texarkana & F. S Ry. Co v. Twin City Products Co., Civ.App., 208 S.W. 989.

8. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v.

necting carrier properly to feed and water live stock;[9] and damages due to a misdelivery by the terminal carrier.[10] It does not include damages for loss by a connecting carrier of equipment accompanying a shipment but forming no part of it.[11]

Only carriers as such are subject to the statute, and it applies only to shipments that are in the custody of carriers as such and before their duty as carriers is at an end;[12] and according to some authorities, the initial carrier is not liable for the act or omission of the delivering carrier resulting in injury to goods which it holds as a warehouseman,[13] and the same rule applies where the liability of the carrier has ceased under the provisions of the bill of lading by reason of storage of the goods in a public warehouse by the terminal carrier,[14] although the view has been taken that, if the goods are lost or injured, destroyed, or converted by a connecting carrier when acting as warehouseman under such facts as render the connecting carrier liable, the initial carrier is also liable under the statute, since whatever liability the terminal carrier

B. F. Roden Grocery Co., 96 So. 912, 209 Ala. 694.
10 C.J. p 525 note 32.

Forwarding on unauthorized order

Applying the rule of the text as stated in Corpus Juris, to which the court in its opinion referred, it has been held that, under the Carmack amendment initial carrier was liable for connecting carrier's breach of duty in forwarding shipment to strangers to the contract on order of unauthorized person on consignee's refusal to receive, instead of storing the goods—Louisville & N. R. Co v. B F Roden Grocery Co., 96 So. 912, 915, 209 Ala. 694.

9. Mo—Miller v. Quincy, O. & K C R Co., 225 S W. 116, 205 Mo App. 463.

Shipment detained by embargo

An initial carrier of interstate shipment of sheep is liable under the Carmack amendment for failure of the connecting carrier properly to feed and water at intermediate point, although, by reason of stockyards' embargo at destination, shipment could not be unloaded at destination, and for that reason was held at intermediate point.—Miller v. Quincy, O. & K. C. R. Co., 225 S W. 116, 205 Mo.App 463.

10. U S—King v. Barbarin, Mich., 249 F. 303, 161 C.C A. 311.
Ga—Southern Ry. Co. v. Hodgson Bros Co., 98 S E 541, 148 Ga. 851, reversing 95 S.E 263, 21 Ga.App 753, opinion of Sup Ct. conformed to 99 S E. 41, 25 Ga App 536.
Mich.—J F French & Co. v Pere Marquette Ry Co., 171 N.W. 491, 204 Mich 578, certiorari granted Pere Marquette R. Co. v. J. F French & Co., 39 S Ct. 494, 250 U.S 637, 63 L.Ed. 1183, reversed on other grounds 41 S.Ct. 195, 254 U.S. 538, 65 L.Ed 391.
Mo—Kemper Mill Co. v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co, 186 S W. 8, 193 Mo App 466, transferred Kemper Mill & Elevator Co v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co, 178 S.W 502
Va.—Norfolk & W Ry. Co v. Aylor, 150 S E 252, 153 Va 575, certiorari denied 51 S Ct. 26, 282 U.S 847, 75 L.Ed. 751.
10 C.J. p 525 note 33.

Corpus Juris is cited with approval in Louisville & N. R Co v B F Roden Grocery Co., 96 So. 912, 915, 209 Ala 694

After stoppage in transitu

Consignor could recover against initial carrier, where connecting carrier delivered to consignee in another state shipment under straight bill of lading sold for cash, which consignee failed to pay after notice from consignor not to deliver, notwithstanding consignor was then indebted to consignee—Louisville & N R. Co v. Campbell Lumber Co., 166 S E 252, 45 Ga App. 851.

Nondelivery

Under Carmack amendment shipper is entitled to damages resulting from payment of freight to destination and back to nearest accessible point for regaining possession, on failure of carrier to effect delivery—Texas & N. O. R. Co v. H. & C. Newman, Civ App., 273 S.W. 335

11. Me.—Mooers v Bangor & A. R. Co., 130 A. 241, 124 Me. 416.

Car lining and stove

A box car, previously lined and fitted with stove by shipper of potatoes, was furnished him by a railroad company for use subject to tariff regulations. He consigned car to Boston, from where it was reconsigned to other points, during which time lining and stove were lost It was held, under express provisions of the tariff rules, and since such equipment was not part of any shipment within Interstate Commerce Act, that the carrier was liable for loss of lining and stove only when occurring on its own lines—Mooers v Bangor & A. R. Co., 130 A. 241, 124 Me. 416.

12. Iowa.—Adams Seed Co. v Chicago Great Western R. Co., 165 N. W. 367, 181 Iowa 1052, L R A 1918B 622
Ky.—Illinois Cent R. Co. v Stimson, 268 S W. 835, 207 Ky. 78
10 C J. p 526 note 48

Corpus Juris is cited with approval in Texarkana & F S. Ry. Co v Twin City Products Co, Tex Civ. App, 208 S.W 989

13. Iowa—Adams Seed Co. v. Chicago Great Western R Co., 165 N. W. 367, 181 Iowa 1052, L R.A.1918B 622.
Ky—Illinois Cent R Co. v. Stimson, 268 S W. 835, 207 Ky. 78.
N.Y.—Dodge & Dent Mfg. Co v. Pennsylvania R Co., 162 N Y.S 549, 175 App Div. 823.
Tex—Texarkana & F S Ry. Co v. Twin City Products Co., Civ.App, 208 S W. 989.
Va.—New York, P. & N. R. Co. v Chandler, 106 S.E 684, 129 Va. 695
10 C J p 526 note 48 [a].

14. N.C—Efland Hosiery Mills v. Hines, 114 S E 472, 184 N C 356
Va — Jennings Automatic Dump Body v Virginian Ry. Co., 119 S E. 147, 137 Va 207.
"If an unlawful sale, or negligent storing, of the flour was made, at the instance of the delivering carrier, by the warehouseman, after the original contract of carriage was discharged, it is clear that the shipper, as owner of the flour, must look alone to the delivering carrier and the warehouseman as the responsible parties; the initial carrier cannot be held responsible because it had no part or lot in keeping or disposal of the flour after its delivery to the warehouseman."—Model Mill Co v Carolina, C & O. Ry. Co, 188 S W. 936, 939, 136 Tenn. 211.

Subsequent negligence

Where, pursuant to the uniform interstate bills of lading, refused goods were stored by the terminal carrier in a public warehouse, where, as provided in the bill of lading, they were to be held at the owner's risk and without further liability on the part of the carrier, the initial carrier's liability terminated, and it could not be held liable for their damage by fire claimed to be due to negligence of the terminal carrier or the warehouse in delaying to reship after the shipper ratified the delivery, and on his own responsibility assumed control of the goods, surrendered the original bills of lading, and instructed the reshipment—Efland Hosiery Mills v. Hines, 114 S.E. 472, 184 N.C 356.

incurred, under the facts of the case, that liability attaches to the initial carrier.[15]

The statute applies, although a route is selected by the shipper as to which the carrier has no established rate,[16] although the shipper accompanies the shipment,[17] or although the connecting carriers are insolvent.[18]

The statute has no application in an action against an initial and a connecting carrier based on their common-law liability[19] and will not be applied even though the connecting carrier is dismissed after the case has proceeded to trial.[20] It has been held, however, that the shipper is not required to sue the initial carrier alone to gain the benefit of the statute[21] and that he will not be deprived of his statutory remedy by averments that such carrier was acting jointly with, and as agent for, other carriers joined in the action as well as acting for itself.[22]

Bill of lading to intermediate point. An initial carrier is liable for loss or injury occurring on any line, although it issues a bill of lading only to some intermediate point.[23]

Intra-state shipments. While the statute applies to every carrier receiving property for transportation to a point in another state, although its own line may be wholly within the state of the place of shipment,[24] it is of course inoperative as to intra-state shipments.[25] Liability for damages as an initial carrier depends on the reception of the goods in one state for transportation to a point in another state or territory, rather than the intention which the shipper may have had at the time of loading the cars, but which does not find expression in some form of a contract.[26]

Where a carrier issued a bill of lading for transportation of goods to a point within the state on the line of another carrier without notice or reason to suppose that the shipment would pass beyond the destination specified, but the other carrier took up the bill of lading and issued a new one covering transportation to a point in another state, the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act or the tariff schedules for interstate shipments permitting change of destination did not apply as a matter of federal law so as to make the first carrier liable for damage beyond the original point of destination.[27]

15. Ga.—Fleshnar & Adar v. Southern Ry. Co., 127 S.E. 768, 160 Ga. 205, answers to certified questions conformed to 128 S.E. 78, 33 Ga. App. 823.
Me.—Briggs Hardware Co. v. Aroostook Valley R. Co., 104 A. 8, 117 Me. 321.
Mich. — Winget v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 177 N.W. 273, 210 Mich. 100, certiorari denied Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co. v. Winget, 41 S.Ct. 6, 254 U.S. 629, 65 L.Ed. 447.

16. U.S.—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Dixie-Tobacco Co., Va., 33 S.Ct. 609, 228 U.S. 593, 57 L.Ed. 980.
10 C.J. p 525 note 26

17. Tex.—Texas Mexican R. Co. v. King, Civ.App., 174 S.W. 336.

18. Tex.—Texas Mexican R. Co. v. King, supra.

19. Ohio.—Norfolk & Western Ry. Co. v. Dresbach, 8 Ohio App. 333.

Reason for rule
"When a statute gives a remedy where one already exists at common law, the statutory remedy is considered merely cumulative, and a party may sue at common law as well as upon the statute. . . . But both remedies may not be prosecuted together under one cause of action. . . . So in this case, as before observed, the defendant in error, Nelson Dresbach, having elected to pursue his common-law remedies against said defendant companies, must be held to the law applying to the cause of action so selected by him."—Norfolk & Western Ry. Co. v. Dresbach, 8 Ohio App. 333, 339

20. Ohio—Norfolk & Western Ry. Co. v. Dresbach, supra.

Reason for rule
"When the court dismissed The Big Four Company such dismissal did not thereby change the nature of the action. It still remained a suit to enforce the common-law liability of the Norfolk & Western Railway Company [the initial carrier]. The dismissal of The Big Four Company, under the circumstances, could not and did not change in any respect the character of the suit. The only effect of this dismissal was to relieve The Big Four Company from any liability, and to confine the plaintiff entirely to his right of action against the Norfolk & Western Railway Company under its common-law liability as fixed and determined by its contract with the plaintiff."—Norfolk & Western Ry. Co. v. Dresbach, 8 Ohio App. 333, 338.

21. Tenn — Southeastern Express Co. v. Fry Produce Co., 2 Tenn. App. 37.

22. Tex.—Burd v. San Antonio Southern Ry. Co., Com.App., 261 S.W. 1021, modifying San Antonio Southern Ry. Co. v. Burd, Civ. App., 246 S.W. 1060.

23. Ill. — Michelson v. Judson Freight Forwarding Co., 109 N.E. 281, 268 Ill. 546.

24. N.Y.—Shultz v. Skaneateles R. Co., 122 N.Y.S. 445, 66 Misc. 9, affirmed 129 N.Y.S. 1146, 145 App. Div. 906

25. Ga. — Taylor v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 121 S.E. 348, 31 Ga.App. 374.
Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Mars, Civ.App., 14 S.W.2d 877.
10 C.J. p 527 note 51.

Reconsignment
Where cattle shipped over defendant's road were originally consigned to point in state and there was no notation on bill of lading indicating purpose of shipper to have cars reconsigned at destination in state for point outside state, and evidence tended to show that shipment between points in state was complete transaction and that obligations of carrier were at an end on delivery of cars to destination in state, reconsignment of shipment after reaching destination in state to point outside state did not revive or continue obligations of original carrier under the Carmack amendment.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Mars, Tex.Civ.App., 14 S.W.2d 877.

26. Idaho—Rice v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 198 P. 161, 33 Idaho 565.

27. U.S.—Bracht v. San Antonio & A. P. Ry. Co., 41 S.Ct. 150, 254 U.S. 489, 65 L.Ed. 366, affirming 209 S.W. 579, 200 Mo.App. 655, certiorari granted 40 S.Ct. 16, 250 U.S. 658, 63 L.Ed. 1193.

Shipment through another state to a point in same state. While the Carmack amendment was held not to apply to a shipment through another state to a point in the same state as the point of origin, although the evil was the same in such a case as in the cases covered by the express terms of the amendment,[28] the amendment of August 29, 1916, 49 U.S.C.A. § 81, provides that bills of lading issued by any common carrier for transportation of goods from a place in one state to a place in the same state, through another state or foreign country, shall be governed by the Interstate Commerce Act.

Shipment to or from foreign country. While the Interstate Commerce Act formerly had no application to shipments to a foreign country,[29] since the Cummins amendment of March 4, 1915, which, however, had no application to a shipment before its enactment,[30] shipments "from any point in the United States to a point in an adjacent foreign country" are included within the operation of the statute, but the statute has no application where property is tendered for transportation from a point in one state to a point in a nonadjacent foreign country.[31] For a person to recover thereunder for goods lost in a shipment for export, he must show that the shipment was intended to be transported to an adjacent foreign country.[32] The Cummins amendment applies in such case notwithstanding the property may be carried partly on the high seas.[33] A foreign railroad which was the initial carrier of goods shipped to points within United States is not liable as an initial carrier under the amendment, where such railroad's lines lay wholly without the jurisdiction of the United States, and its acts in connection with the goods were performed outside of the United States,[34] and, under a contract for delivery to a connecting carrier made and fully performed in an adjacent foreign country, although the ultimate destination was a point in the United States, in an action against the initial carrier a provision limiting liability to value at place and time of shipment is controlling.[35]

When liability ceases. The liability of the initial carrier ceases when the goods reach their original destination in good condition.[36]

Shipper's contracts and arrangements with connecting carrier in general. No contract made by an intermediate carrier has any binding effect with reference to a shipment while in the course of transportation,[37] and the responsibility of the initial carrier cannot be extended so as to hold it liable for the defaults of the shipper's own agents under contracts to which it is not a party.[38] Thus, if the initial carrier is under no obligation under its general bill of lading to heat cars, it cannot be held

28. Tex.—Wichita Falls, etc., R. Co. v. Asher, Civ.App., 171 S.W. 1114. 10 C.J. p 527 note 53.

29. U.S.—Basila v. Western Union Telegraph Co., D.C.Fla., 24 F.2d 569.
Cal.—McCaslin v. Southern Pac. Co., 203 P. 742, 187 Cal. 716.
S.C.—Aldrich v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 89 S.E. 315, 104 S.C. 364.
10 C.J. p 527 note 52.

30. Cal.—McCaslin v. Southern Pac. Co., 203 P. 742, 187 Cal. 716.

31. Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Evans, 157 S.E. 313, 172 Ga. 53, answers conformed to 159 S.E. 877, 33 Ga.App. 683
Mo.—Lesser-Goldman Cotton Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 12 S.W.2d 485, 321 Mo. 714, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 351, 279 U.S. 855, 73 L.Ed. 997.
Va.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Southgate, 140 S.E. 661, 149 Va. 683.

Cuba is not an adjacent foreign country within the Cummins amendment
Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Evans, 157 S.E. 313, 172 Ga. 53, answers conformed to 159 S.E. 877, 43 Ga.App. 683
Va.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Southgate, 140 S.E. 661, 149 Va. 683.

England
Bill of lading for transportation of cotton to England is a "through bill of lading," and shipment is not within statutes prohibiting exemptions from liability.—Lesser-Goldman Cotton Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 12 S.W.2d 485, 321 Mo. 714, certiorari denied 49 S.Ct. 351, 279 U.S. 855, 73 L.Ed. 997

32. Kan.—Barber v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 236 P. 859, 118 Kan. 651.

33. Ohio.—Davis v. Krippendorf-Dittmann Co., 17 Ohio App. 76.

34. Ariz.—Southern Pac. R. Co. of Mexico v. Gonzalez, 61 P.2d 377, 48 Ariz. 260.

35. Ill.—Fox v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., 260 Ill.App. 482.

36. Ala.—Clark v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 114 So. 295, 216 Ala. 637—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Enterprise Oil Co., 101 So. 605, 211 Ala. 677—Fred Henderson & Walters v. Atlantic Coast Line Ry. Co., 76 So. 309, 200 Ala. 393
Idaho.—Rice v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 198 P. 161, 33 Idaho 565—Barrett v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 157 P. 1016, 29 Idaho 139.
Ky.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Stimson, 268 S.W. 835, 207 Ky. 78.
Va.—Southern Produce Co. v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 132 S.E. 360, 144 Va. 422

Mistake of consignor
Liability as initial carrier of interstate carrier of freight, which, by mistake of consignor, carried shipment to Woodruff, S.C., instead of Woodford, S.C., ended with delivery at Woodruff where consignor corrected mistake.—Jeffcoat v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 96 S.E. 616, 111 S.C. 19

Delivery to warehouse
Where the goods unclaimed by the consignee have been delivered to a public warehouse in accordance with a stipulation in the bill of lading after the lapse of two months from delivery at the station to which they were consigned, in the absence of federal regulations extending the time, the responsibility of the initial carrier terminated.—Keystone Pub. Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 78 Pa.Super. 486.

37. Wash.—Parker-Bell Lumber Co. v. Great Northern R. Co., 124 P. 389, 69 Wash. 123, 41 L.R.A.,N.S., 1064.
10 C.J. p 526 note 43.

38. Va.—Southern Produce Co. v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 132 S.E. 360, 144 Va. 422.

liable for the nonperformance of a special agreement to heat made by a connecting carrier, because, under these circumstances, the connecting carrier will, as to defaults in heating during transportation, be considered the initial carrier.[39] Since the first transaction has already settled the relation between the owner of the goods and the initial carrier and fixed the duties and liability of the carrier to such owner, the law is not defeated by the fact that the shipper subsequently obtains a bill of lading from another carrier[40] or makes a new shipping contract with a connecting carrier.[41] The fact that the shipper at the suggestion of the initial carrier and for their mutual convenience transacted part of the business of salvage of the goods lost with the connecting carrier whose negligence was responsible therefor does not in any way affect the liability of the initial carrier.[42]

Diversion and stoppage. The initial carrier is liable for loss caused by an unauthorized diversion of the shipment from the specified route of a connecting carrier as well as for loss or injury otherwise caused by it,[43] and the fact that the line of the connecting carrier was in another state makes no difference.[44] The fact that the shipment is diverted or stopped within the state of shipment by direction of the consignee does not change the shipment from an interstate to an intra-state one, nor affect the liability of the initial carrier under the statute.[45]

Under the amendment of July 3, 1926, providing that the liability imposed by the Carmack amendment shall also apply in the case of property reconsigned or diverted in accordance with applicable filed tariffs, the initial carrier remains liable as such for damages or injury to a shipment which has been diverted by a connecting carrier before it reached the destination specified in the original bill of lading.[46] This amendment was not applicable to shipments before its passage, however, and in cases arising prior thereto it was held that, where a diversion of freight shipped over a line of connecting carriers was not ordered until after it reached its original destination, the initial carrier was not liable for loss or injury to the consignment occurring after it had been started to its new destination,[47] since the reconsignment, after arrival of the freight at its original destination, was a new contract, and the connecting carrier had no implied authority to make a new contract on behalf of the initial carrier.[48] This rule was also applied in cases arising before the amendment last referred to where, with-

39. Me.—Ross v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 90 A. 711, 112 Me. 63.

40. U.S.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Ward, Tex., 37 S.Ct. 617, 244 U.S. 383, 61 L.Ed. 1213
Tex.—Rio Grande, E. P. & S. F. R. Co. v. Kraft & Madero, Civ.App., 212 S.W. 981, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.
10 C.J. p. 526 note 46.

Acceptance within state

The acceptance by a shipper of live stock from a connecting carrier, to whom the shipment was delivered by the initial carrier while still within the state, of a new bill of lading did not discharge the original contract with the initial carrier for the through interstate shipment, where the initial bill of lading was for the entire journey, and the freight charges of both carriers were paid to the terminal carrier at destination, so that the initial carrier was liable for injury to the stock during transportation by the terminal carrier.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Seale & Jones, Tex.Com.App., 267 S.W. 676, modifying on other grounds, Civ.App., 247 S.W. 883.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hines, Tex.Civ.App., 239 S.W. 244, affirmed, Com.App., 250 S.W. 1013.

Consideration

Where the initial carrier, in the bill of lading for an interstate shipment of cattle, attempted to limit its liability to its own lines, and the connecting carriers issued similar bills of lading, such bills of lading issued by the connecting carrier were without consideration and void, the initial carrier being required to issue a through bill of lading under the Cummins amendment to the Carmack Act.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hines, Tex.Com.App., 250 S.W. 1013, affirming, Civ.App., 239 S.W. 244.

41. Mont.—Parham v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 189 P. 227, 57 Mont. 492.

42. N.Y.—Wien v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 146 N.Y.S. 1010, 85 Misc. 42.

43. Tenn.—Drake v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 148 S.W. 214, 125 Tenn. 627.
Tex.—Kemendo v. Fruit Dispatch Co., Civ.App., 131 S.W. 73.

44. Tex.—Kemendo v. Fruit Dispatch Co., supra.

45. Ill.—Tanski v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 181 Ill.App. 565.

46. Ga.—Davis v. Southern Ry. Co., 185 S.E. 606, 53 Ga.App. 286.

47. Ala.—Clark v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 114 So. 295, 216 Ala. 637.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Enterprise Oil Co., 101 So. 605, 211 Ala. 676.—Fred Henderson & Walters v. Atlantic Coast Line Ry. Co., 76 So. 309, 200 Ala. 393.
Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. S. L. Robinson & Co., 23 S.W.2d 976, 180 Ark. 911.
Fla.—Gentile Bros. Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 117 So. 890, 96 Fla. 228.—Chase & Co. v. Florida East Coast Ry. Co., 115 So. 825, 94 Fla. 1143.
Idaho.—Rice v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 198 P. 161, 33 Idaho 565
Ill.—P. J. Claussen Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 259 Ill.App. 87. See Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Hedrich, 202 Ill.App. 48.
Miss.—Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Norman, 88 So. 174, 125 Miss. 636.
Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Mars, Civ.App., 14 S.W.2d 877.—Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Smith, Civ.App., 258 S.W. 542.
10 C.J. p. 526 note 39.

Customary carriage over local road

Initial carrier was not liable for damages to cattle while being transported over local road to the consignee's place of business after reaching destination, although there was a custom between consignee and connecting carrier allowing such extra transportation.—Fred Henderson & Walters v. Atlantic Coast Line Ry. Co., 76 So. 309, 200 Ala. 393.

48. Ala.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Enterprise Oil Co., 101 So. 605, 211 Ala. 677.—Fred Henderson & Walters v. Atlantic Coast Line Ry. Co., 76 So. 309, 200 Ala. 393.
Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v.

out notice to the initial carrier prior to the arrival of the goods at their original destination, the connecting carrier made a new contract whereby they were to be transmitted from that point to another,[49] even though the initial carrier knew of the shipper's intention to divert the shipment to some other destination by instructing the connecting carrier to that effect in accordance with the regular course of dealing between the shipper and the connecting carrier;[50] and it was applied even where the order of reconsignment was transmitted to the terminal carrier through the original carrier, the latter not being at fault in transmitting the order or otherwise contributing to the injury sustained.[51] The receiving carrier's obligation, it was held, is defined by the through bill of lading issued by it, and, to charge it with liability for damage occurring on an extended transportation after it has fully complied with its undertaking, there must be a contractual basis, express or implied, therefor.[52] So it was determined that the right of the shipper to change and control the destination of the property either by diversion or reconsignment after it had been delivered to a connecting carrier in no degree increased the obligations imposed by the statute on the initial carrier, and the exercise of that right without the participation of the initial carrier could not affect the latter's liability.[53] On the other hand the initial carrier was, prior to the 1926 amendment, held liable where the goods before arriving at the billed destination were rerouted by the shipper and connecting carrier to minimize a loss anticipated as a result of an embargo at the original destination;[54] and the liability of the original carrier was also upheld as to the extended transportation in one case where notice to divert was given to the connecting carrier after arrival of the goods at their billed destination, apparently on the theory that, since the shipment moved under a transcontinental tariff filed with the interstate commerce commission which provided for a through rate with the right of diversion, and to which all carriers involved were parties, it was within the contemplation of all the parties that such a diversion might be made,[55] but the force of this decision was limited to its own peculiar facts in another case in the same jurisdiction.[56] So it was held that the issuing carrier remained liable where on arrival of the goods at the billed destination they were shipped by direction of the consignee to another point on the same bill of lading,[57] but the fact that no new bill of lading was issued on reconsignment was held not to continue the liability of the original carrier in another case in which the point was raised.[58] Where there was nothing in the bill of lading to indicate that the point of des-

S L. Robinson & Co., 23 S.W.2d 976, 180 Ark 911.

10 C.J. p 526 note 40.

"Reconsignment"

"The forwarding of goods after arrival at destination is what is usually termed a 'reconsignment,' and where the carrier over whose lines the property is to proceed from the original destination on the reconsignment is not the same as the initial carrier issuing the bill of lading, the new contract of carriage is made, not with the initial carrier as a party but with the carrier performing the additional transportation."—American Cotton Products Co. v. New York Cent. R Co., 255 N.Y.S. 672, 681, 142 Misc. 821.

49. Idaho—Barrett v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co, 157 P. 1016, 29 Idaho 139.
Va.—Southern Produce Co. v. Norfolk Southern R Co., 132 S.E 360, 144 Va 422.
Contra Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry Co. v. S. L Robinson & Co., 23 S.W 2d 976, 180 Ark 911.

50. Va—Southern Produce Co. v. Norfolk Southern R Co, 132 S E. 360, 144 Va 422.

51. Fla.—Gentile Bros. Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 117 So. 890, 96 Fla 228.

52. S.C.—Beaufort Truck Growers' Ass'n v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co, 121 S E. 357, 127 S C. 496.
Va—Southern Produce Co. v. Norfolk Southern R. Co, 132 S E. 360, 144 Va. 422.
"The liability of the initial carrier for loss, damage, or injury to property received for interstate transportation is regulated by the 'through bill of lading' that was issued or that should have been issued by the initial carrier."—Chase & Co. v. Florida East Coast Ry. Co, 115 So. 825, 94 Fla. 1143.

53. Va—Southern Produce Co v. Norfolk Southern R Co, 132 S E. 360, 144 Va. 422.

54. Mo.—Miller v. Quincy, O & K. C. R. Co., 225 S W. 116, 205 Mo.App. 463.

55. Ill—Sparr v. Southern Pacific Co., 220 Ill.App. 180.

56. Ill—P. J Claussen Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co, 259 Ill.App 87, 95.
"Appellant contends that the agreement [to an order of reconsignment] is shown by the tariff provision referred to, to which appellee, the initial line, was a party, and that this tariff provision makes the number of movements under diversion or reconsignment one continuous shipment The only case cited in support of this contention is Sparr Fruit Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 220 Ill.App. 180. Some language in the opinion (p. 185) might warrant that construction, where the reconsignment is with the knowledge, or under the direction of the initial carrier or its agent. It would appear that that case was decided on certain stipulations to which the language in said opinion referred to may have been applicable. However, it was said by Mr. Justice McReynolds in Bracht v. San Antonio & A P. R Co, Mo, 41 S.Ct. 150, 254 U S. 489, 65 L Ed 366, where the interstate tariffs permitting reconsignment were offered in evidence by plaintiff and rejected, 'we are unable to say as a matter of federal law that tariff schedules for interstate shipments . . . constituted part of the agreement' In view of this holding and the tenor of the authorities . . . where the reconsignment was held to be a new transaction, we deem the contention untenable."—P. J Claussen Co. v. Illinois Cent R Co, supra.

57. Ga—Baltimore & O R. Co. v. Montgomery & Co., 90 S.E. 740, 19 Ga App 29.

58. Va—Southern Produce Co. v Norfolk Southern R. Co., 132 S E. 360, 144 Va. 422.

tination originally designated was to be the point of delivery, but the shipment was "for reconsignment," the initial carrier's liability continued until the goods were delivered at the point of destination indicated by a reconsignment made while the goods were in possession of a connecting carrier.[59] A provision in a bill of lading that a stop should be made on a connecting line to receive an additional shipment does not operate to defeat the initial carrier's liability for injury to the shipment occurring on a connecting line.[60]

Since the owner has the right, as an incident to the contract of carriage, before the shipment reaches the point of destination named in the bill of lading, to direct the terminal carrier to divert the shipment to another place on its lines, if such terminal carrier fails to divert the shipment as directed, in consequence of which it is damaged, the initial carrier, according to one view, is liable for such damages,[61] although no notice of the requested diversion was given to the initial carrier.[62] It has been held, however, that, where an initial carrier was under no obligation, by contract or otherwise, to notify a connecting carrier that the shipper desired a diversion of the shipment at a point on the connecting carrier's line, having delivered the shipment to the connecting carrier, it was not liable for failure of the connecting carrier to make the diversion, as no fault was attributable to the connecting carrier.[63]

Where the reconsignment is made while the goods are still in possession of the initial carrier, the latter is liable for failure to transport them safely to the destination indicated by the reconsignment.[64] So, where the consignee in an interstate shipment, on arrival of the goods at destination, refuses to receive them and the initial carrier agrees to transport them to another point in the same state, the new agreement is merely a modification of the original contract, and the shipment does not lose its character as an interstate one; hence, the Carmack amendment applies and the initial carrier is liable thereunder for the negligence of a connecting carrier after the agreement of reconsignment was entered into.[65]

The initial carrier is charged with knowledge of the fact that, after the original shipment was begun, the consignors surrendered their order bills of lading and had new ones issued, changing the point of destination of the goods and designating another party as the one to be notified on arrival of the shipment.[66]

Defenses available to initial carrier. The initial carrier may avail itself of any defenses or of any limitations of liability open to the carrier causing the loss,[67] even though, it is held, the shipment was lost at sea by a connecting carrier.[68]

b. State Legislation

Statutes applicable solely to intra-state shipments and varying in their effect, some being merely declaratory of the common law while others are in derogation thereof, which have been enacted in some states are given effect according to the legislative intent.

In regard to connecting carriers, statutes varying in their provisions have been enacted in some states. By virtue of the Carmack amendment, the

59. Ill.—L. Starks Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 207 Ill.App. 333.

60. N.Y.—De Winter v. Texas Cent. R. Co, 135 N.Y.S. 893, 150 App.Div. 612.

61. Va.—Jennings Automatic Dump Body v. Virginian Ry. Co., 119 S. E. 147, 137 Va. 207.
Contra dictum Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Smith, Tex.Civ.App, 258 S. W. 542.

62. Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Council Bros., 136 S.E. 418, 163 Ga. 494, 61 A.L.R. 1304—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Council Bros., 137 S.E. 569, 36 Ga App. 573

63. Tex.—Patton v. Texas, etc, R. Co, Civ.App, 137 S.W. 721.

64. Ill.—L Starks Co. v. Michigan Cent. R Co, 207 Ill App. 333 See Chesney v. Union Pac Ry. Co, 209 Ill App 494.

65. Ala.—Warley Fruit & Produce Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co, 84 So. 311, 17 Ala.App. 263.

66. U.S.—Russo v. Davis, C.C.A.Ill., 285 F. 231.

67. N.Y.—Dalziel v. Oregon-Washington R & Nav. Co, 219 N.Y.S 727, 219 App Div 394, appeal dismissed State Bank v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav Co., 162 N. E. 528, 248 N Y. 569
N.C.—Price v. Southern Ry. Co., 92 S E. 182, 173 N.C. 394.
10 C J. p 527 note 55.

68. N.C.—Price v. Southern Ry. Co, 92 S E 182, 173 N C. 394
10 C.J. p 527 note 56.

Goods taken on execution

(1) In an action brought under the Carmack amendment for the value of goods taken on execution against the shipper in favor of his consignee, the liability of the initial carrier is to be tested by that of the terminal carrier—Hamilton Mill & Elevator Co. v. Stephenville, N. & S T. Ry. Co., Tex Civ.App., 189 S.W 774.

(2) So, where a shipment contract provided for delivery on the shipper's order and instructed the terminal carrier to notify the consignee of the arrival of the goods and the shipper deposited the bill of lading, with bank draft attached, in the bank which placed the amount of the draft to shipper's checking account credit, but the terminal carrier in another state had no knowledge of such transaction and the consignee refused the goods and protested the draft and the shipper repurchased the draft and bill and instructed the terminal carrier to deliver the goods to a broker, which the latter did forty-eight hours after arrival, and after such delivery the broker secured a default judgment against the shipper for a sum less than the value of the goods, the difference being adjusted by stipulation, the shipper cannot as a matter of law recover from the initial carrier the value of the goods—Hamilton Mill & Elevator Co. v. Stephenville, N. & S. T. Ry. Co., supra.

effect of which is considered supra § 406 a, the operation of state legislation is confined solely to intra-state shipments.[69]

The common-law doctrine is affirmed by a statute which provides that, if a common carrier accepts freight for a place beyond its line, unless it stipulates otherwise, it must deliver it at the end of its line to some other competent carrier, and that its liability shall cease on making such delivery.[70] Under such a statute, the liability of the initial carrier ceases on delivery of the goods shipped to the connecting carrier in the absence of a special contract otherwise providing;[71] and a provision in a freight contract that the carrier's responsibility shall cease at the connecting point is not rendered ineffective by a further stipulation for through transportation.[72]

The liability of the initial carrier will be enforced in cases brought within statutes making such carrier liable for any loss, damage, or injury caused by it or any connecting carrier,[73] or for any loss, damage, or injury caused by its negligence or the negligence of any connecting carrier;[74] but the initial carrier is not liable under such provisions for damages resulting from defective packing before receipt or inherent defects in the property,[75] or for negligence of another carrier to whom the shipment has been delivered under a new contract between the shipper and the latter carrier after the shipment has been carried to the destination fixed by the original contract.[76] A statute providing that whenever two or more railroads are connected together, the company owning either of them receiving freight to be transported to any place on the line of either shall be liable for the delivery of such freight to the consignee in the same order in which it was shipped, applies to the carriage of live stock and makes the initial carrier responsible in the first instance for any loss occurring on the line of a connecting carrier.[77]

Statutes providing that, in case of a contract for through shipment between points in the state, all connecting lines are liable for damages sustained anywhere in such through transportation, are not applicable to shipments to nonadjacent foreign countries;[78] but in the case of an intra-state carriage, where the initial carrier gives a through bill of lading, it obligates itself under the statute to deliver the shipment at destination and becomes liable for all damages that may accrue to the property while in transit over its lines or those of its connecting carriers.[79] A bill of lading which attempts to fix the rights of the shipper and all carriers transporting the goods as to the entire trans-

69. Tex.—Nation v. San Antonio Southern Ry. Co., 283 S.W. 157, 115 Tex. 431.
10 C.J. p 527 note 61.

70. S D.—Sutton v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 84 N.W. 396, 14 S.D. 111.

71. Cal.—Schwartz v. Panama R Co., 103 P. 196, 155 Cal. 742.
Okl.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Diggs, 140 P. 1160, 42 Okl. 183.
10 C.J p 527 note 63, p 528 note 75.

In Georgia

(1) In construing a statute providing that, where there are several connecting railroads under different companies and the goods are intended to be transported over more than one railroad, each company shall be responsible only to its own terminus and until delivery to the connecting road, it was held that, where no contract was entered into betwen the shipper and the initial carrier binding it to transport its goods beyond its line, it was not liable for injuries on the connecting line.—Felton v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 40 S.E. 746, 114 Ga. 609.

(2) Other decisions made since the enactment of this provision have apparently taken the opposite view.—East Tennessee, etc., R. Co. v Johnson, 11 S.E. 809, 85 Ga. 497.—Falvey v. Georgia R. Co., 76 Ga. 597, 2 Am S.R. 58.
10 C.J. p 528 note 67.

72. Cal.—Colfax Mountain Fruit Co v. Southern Pac. R. Co., 46 P. 668.

73. Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Alford, 115 S.E. 771, 154 Ga. 863.
Ky.—Cumberland Transp. Co. v. E. J. O'Brien & Co., 2 S.W.2d 668, 222 Ky. 814.—E. J. O'Brien & Co. v. Davis, 288 S.W. 682, 216 Ky. 693.

Switching services

A statute which makes carriers receiving property for intra-state transportation liable for loss or injury on their own lines or the line of any carrier to which the property may be delivered, applies where the carrier receiving the entire freight charge delivered the car to a railroad performing switching services in placing the car on the consignee's siding at the instance and request of, and for special compensation paid by, the consignee, and the first carrier is liable for damages caused by the second.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Alford, 115 S.E. 771, 154 Ga. 863.

74. Mo.—Marshall Land & Mercantile Co v. Missouri Pac R. Co., App., 270 S.W. 422.

75. Ky.—E. J O'Brien & Co v. Davis, 288 S.W. 682, 216 Ky. 693.

76. Ga.—Taylor v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 121 S.E. 348, 31 Ga. App. 374.
10 C.J p 527 note 62.

Delivery as forwarder

A statute which makes carriers receiving property for intra-state transportation liable for loss or injury on their own lines or the line of any carrier to which the property may be delivered, has no application where defendant carrier's liability under a contract for intra-state shipment was ended when, as plaintiff's forwarder, it delivered the goods to another carrier at destination for transshipment, and it is not liable for damages occurring thereafter.—Taylor v Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 121 S.E. 348, 31 Ga.App. 374.

77. Neb.—Schneider v. Davis, 192 N. W. 230, 109 Neb. 638.—Nye-Schneider-Fowler Co v Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 179 N.W. 503, 105 Neb. 151.

78. Tex.—A L Wolff & Co. v Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co of Texas, Civ.App., 283 S.W. 250, affirmed, Com.App., 289 S.W. 1000.

79. Tex.—Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Clement Grain Co., Civ.App., 10 S. W.2d 400.—Houston E & W. T. Ry. Co. v. Southern Pine Lumber Co., Civ.App., 6 S.W.2d 418.—Kansas City, M & O Ry. Co. v. Cauble, Civ.App., 286 S.W. 478.

portation is a contract for through shipment within the statute, notwithstanding it specifically stipulates that it is not to be so treated,[80] and there is a through shipment when the connecting carrier receives the goods and transports them to destination without any new arrangement or contract,[81] but there is no through shipment within the statute where the initial carrier agreed to transport only to the end of its own line.[82] A verbal contract for through shipment is binding whether the route is chosen by shipper or carrier.[83] If a carrier issues a through bill of lading or receipt for transportation of goods to destination over a connecting line, such bill of lading or receipt constitutes a contract of through transportation, and the carrier will be liable for loss or injury occurring through the negligence of the connecting carrier, under a statute imposing liability on the carrier issuing the receipt or bill of lading.[84] What constitutes a through transportation contract generally is discussed supra § 405 b.

Other statutes provide that, where any freight that has been shipped to be conveyed by two or more common carriers to its destination, where under the contract of shipment or by law the responsibility of each or either shall cease on delivery to the next in good order, has been lost, damaged, or destroyed, it shall be the duty of the initial or any connecting carrier on application by the shipper, the consignee, or their assigns, within a stated time after application, to trace such freight and inform applicant in writing, when, where, how, and by which carrier said freight was lost, damaged, or destroyed, and the names of the parties and their official position, if any, by whom the truth of facts set out in said information can be established, and that, if the carrier to which application is made shall fail to trace the freight and give the required information in writing, within the time prescribed, then that carrier shall be liable for the value of the freight lost, damaged, or destroyed, in the same manner and to the same extent as if the loss, damage, or destruction occurred on its line. Statutes of this kind have no application to the initial carrier except where it is provided by law or contract that its responsibility shall cease on delivery to the next carrier.[85] Somewhat similar statutes which provide that, where freight addressed to a place beyond the route of the common carrier receiving it is lost or injured, the first carrier must within a reasonable time after demand give satisfactory proof to the consignor that the injury did not occur on its line, or it will itself be liable therefor, are not penal statutes to be construed strictly,[86] but are for the purpose of putting the shipper in possession of all the available information and to avoid the necessity of having a multiplicity of 80. Tex.—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Kemp, Civ.App., 207 S.W. 605.

Failure to fill blanks

A bill of lading in which the blanks left for stations named on the railroad company's line were not filled, and which contained stipulations expressly for the benefit of connecting carriers was a contract for through shipment between points within the state within the statute relating to shipment contracts, notwithstanding the bill provided it was not to be treated as a through shipment to a point off company's road —Missouri, K. & T Ry. Co. of Texas v. Baker Bros., Tex.Civ.App, 210 S W. 244.

81. Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Hughston Grain Co, Civ.App, 186 S.W. 429.

82. Tex—Galveston, H. & S A. Ry. Co. v. Lock, Civ.App., 209 S.W. 181

83. Tex—St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co v. Lane, Civ.App., 248 S W. 59.

84. Mo—Miller v. Missouri, etc, R Co., 138 S W 902, 157 Mo App 638 10 C J. p 521 note 75.

85. Ga.—Payne v. Domestic Electric Co., 113 S.E 811, 154 Ga. 189, answers to certified questions conformed to 114 S.E. 716, 29 Ga.App 235.

Law making initial carrier liable

The statute requiring connecting carriers under contract providing that responsibility shall cease on delivery to the next carrier to trace any shipment and inform applicant where, when, how, and by whom the shipment was lost, damaged, or destroyed, is inoperative so far as the initial carrier is concerned, under a later enactment, making the initial carrier liable for the loss, damage, or injury, although providing that nothing therein shall deprive any holder of receipt or bill of lading of any remedy under existing law—Payne v. Domestic Electric Co., 113 S E 811, 154 Ga. 189, answers to certified questions conformed to 114 S. E. 716, 29 Ga.App. 235.

Statute requiring contract

A statute providing that, "when under contract for shipment of freight or express over two or more common carriers, the responsibility of each or any of them shall cease upon delivery to the connecting line 'in good order,' and if such freight or express has been lost, damaged, or destroyed, it shall be the duty of the initial delivering or terminal road, upon notice of such loss, damage, or destruction being given to it by the shippers, consignee, or their assigns, to adjust such loss or damage with the owners of said goods within forty days, and upon failure to discharge such duty within forty days after such notice, or to trace such freight or express and inform the said party so notifying when, where, and by which carrier the said freight or express was lost, damaged, or destroyed, within said forty days, then said carrier shall be liable for all such loss, damage, or destruction in the same manner and to the same extent as if such loss, damage, or destruction occurred on its lines: Provided, That if such initial, terminal, or delivering road can prove that, by the exercise of due diligence, it has been unable to trace the line upon which such loss, damage, or destruction occurred, it shall thereupon be excused from liability under this Section" has no application except where the shipment is under a bill of lading providing that the responsibility of each carrier ceases on delivery to connecting carriers in good condition.—Venning v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 58 S.E 983, 78 S C. 42, 125 Am.S.R 768, 12 L R.A.,N.S, 1217—10 C.J. p 529 note 89.

86. N.D.—Assid v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 164 N.W. 949, 38 N.D. 270.

suits to determine the responsibility for damages.[87] Under provisions like these under consideration, if the carrier on application fails to trace the freight carried by a connecting carrier, it becomes liable for loss incurred by negligence of the connecting carrier;[88] and on this state of facts the law imputes the negligence of the connecting carrier to the initial carrier and in effect makes the same its negligence,[89] but the initial carrier cannot be held liable thereunder unless the injury or delay was caused by it or the shipper makes a demand on it for satisfactory proof as to when the injury or delay was caused, and the carrier fails to furnish such information.[90] Moreover, the demand for such proof must be direct and specific, and a simple request or demand for payment of the loss or damage does not bring the shipper within the requirements of the statute,[91] although a letter to the initial carrier setting forth the claim for damages and demanding proof of nonliability is sufficient.[92] The statute, however, does not prohibit a shipper in the first instance without such demand from bringing an action for damages for an alleged loss or injury.[93] There can be no recovery under the provisions of the statute where the goods were delivered to the consignee before the application to trace was made.[94] It has been held, however, that, where goods are delivered by the initial carrier to a carrier by water and transported to destination and placed in the warehouse of the latter subject to the order of the consignee, such goods were not "lost" so as to afford a right of action in favor of the consignor against the initial carrier for failure to trace the freight.[95]

Another type of statute provides that, in case of loss or damage to goods delivered to a railroad company for transportation over its own and connecting roads, the initial carrier shall be liable for the loss or damage, but may discharge itself of such liability by producing a written receipt from the carrier to whom it delivered the goods. The object of such a statute is to require the delivering company, in order to discharge itself, to produce such written evidence of the receipt of the property by a connecting company to whom it was delivered as will shift the liability to account for the property to the latter;[96] and it does nothing more than relieve persons interested in the property lost or damaged in transit of hardship by fixing the kind of evidence which a carrier shown to have been in actual possession of the property should take, preserve, and produce to prove that the property had properly been delivered to another carrier.[97] The production of a per diem receipt showing delivery to a connecting carrier each day of goods and cars containing goods, including the goods in question, signed by the agents of the connecting carrier, is a sufficient receipt in writing to satisfy the requirements of the statute.[98] The initial carrier may discharge itself from liability by producing a receipt in writing for the goods from a steamship company to whom it delivered the goods,[99] the words "connecting road" being held to include "connecting steamship lines."[1]

A statute which provides that every claim for loss or damage to property while in the possession of a common carrier shall be adjusted and paid within a designated time does not impose on one connecting carrier liability for the default of another, even where such carrier does not obtain and give information, or use due diligence to obtain it as provided by a tracing act in effect in the same state.[2]

87. Okl.—St. Louis & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Slade, 291 P. 107, 144 Okl. 216.
10 C.J. p 528 note 77 [a].

88. Okl.—St. Louis & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Slade, supra.
10 C.J. p 528 notes 70, 77.

89. Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Murphey, 38 S.E. 970, 113 Ga. 514, 53 L.R.A. 720.

90. N.D.—Assid v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 164 N.W. 949, 38 N.D. 270.
Okl.—Lusk v. Durant Nursery Co., 232 P. 11, 73 Okl. 269

91. N.D.—Assid v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 164 N.W. 949, 38 N.D. 270.
10 C.J. p 528 note 78.

92. Okl.—St. Louis & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Slade, 291 P. 107, 144 Okl. 216.
Demand held sufficient
"A letter from the shipper to the initial carrier company setting forth his claim for damages to a shipment of cattle and hogs injured while in transit, which then provides 'If, upon investigation of this matter, you desire to take the position that the damage herein complained of did not occur while the shipment was being transported by your company, you will make due proof of same to the claimant,' is a sufficient demand to satisfy section 4937, Compiled Oklahoma Statutes 1921."—St. Louis & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Slade, 291 P. 107, 144 Okl. 216.

93. Okl.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. McGivney, 91 P. 693, 19 Okl. 361.

94. Ga.—Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Austin, 29 S.E. 11, 101 Ga. 629.

95. Ga.—McElveen v. Southern R. Co., 34 S.E. 281, 109 Ga. 249, 77 Am.S.R. 371.

96. S.C.—Miller v. South Carolina R. Co., 11 S.E. 1093, 33 S.C. 359, 9 L.R.A. 833.

97. S.C.—Venning v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 58 S.E. 983, 78 S.C. 42, 125 Am.S.R. 768, 12 L.R.A.,N.S., 1217.

98. S.C.—Jonesville Mfg. Co. v. Southern R. Co., 58 S.E. 422, 77 S.C. 480.

99. S.C.—Chartrand v. Southern R. Co., 67 S.E. 741, 85 S.C. 479.

1. S.C.—Miller v. South Carolina R. Co., 11 S.E. 1093, 33 S.C. 359, 9 L.R.A. 833
10 C.J. p 529 note 87.

2. S.C.—Venning v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 58 S.E. 983, 78 S.C. 42,

A statute providing that if the terminal carrier uses due diligence to notify the consignee of the arrival of the goods and the consignee does not take them, so that they have to be stored, the carriers shall thereafter be liable as warehousemen, limits the liability of the initial carrier under such circumstances to that of a warehouseman, although its issuance of a through bill of lading made it liable under other statutes "as common carrier" from the commencement of the trip until delivery of the goods to the consignee.[3]

§ 407. Contracts Limiting Liability to Carrier's Own Line

a. Right to make contract
b. How limitation of liability effected
c. Consideration
d. Operation and effect of limitation
e. Waiver of limitation

a. Right to Make Contract

(1) In absence of statute
(2) Under federal statutes
(3) Under state statutes

(1) In Absence of Statute

In the absence of prohibitory statutes, the initial carrier may limit its liability to loss or injury occurring on its own line.

The law is well settled, as stated in Corpus Juris, which has been quoted on this subject,[4] that, in the absence of statute providing otherwise, the initial carrier may by special contract limit its liability to loss or injury occurring on its own line.[5] This is necessarily so because the obligation of the carrier to transport goods beyond the terminus of its own line is purely a matter of contract and not of legal duty.[6] Contracts of this character are forbidden neither by public policy nor by constitutional or statutory provisions which prohibit a carrier from limiting its common-law liability, since at common law the initial carrier is not liable for loss or injury on a connecting line.[7] Such a limitation does not relieve the carrier from its common-law liability safely to carry and deliver to the connecting carrier.[8]

(2) Under Federal Statutes

Under the Carmack amendment as amended, the initial carrier in interstate shipments, or shipments to adjacent foreign countries, cannot limit its liability to injuries occurring on its own line.

Under the Carmack amendment, if interstate shipments are received for through transportation and delivery beyond its line by the carrier, any stipulation for exemption from liability for loss or injury due to the default of its agents, the connecting carriers, is void and inoperative.[9] Originally,

125 Am S R. 768, 12 L R.A.,N.S., 1217

3. Tex.—Hines v. First Guaranty State Bank of Aubrey, Civ.App., 228 S W. 668, affirmed Com.App., 243 S.W. 972.

Goods remaining in car

Under statutes of the kind under consideration, an initial carrier who contracts to transport the goods to destination and there deliver to consignee is liable as warehouseman for damages to goods while remaining in the car in which they were shipped, after their transportation by a connecting carrier who used due diligence to notify the consignee, and the goods were not taken by the latter.—Hines v. First Guaranty State Bank of Aubrey, Civ.App., 228 S W. 668, affirmed Com.App., 243 S W. 972

4. U S—Basila v Western Union Telegraph Co, D C Fla., 24 F 2d 569, 572.

5. Ariz.—Southern Pac Co. v Larrimore, 190 P. 564, 21 Ariz 509
Tex.—A. L. Wolff & Co v Missouri, K & T Ry Co, Com App, 289 S W 1000, affirming, Civ App., 283 S W. 250—Galveston, H & S A. Ry Co. v. Lock, Civ.App., 209 S.W. 181—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co of Texas v. Miller & White, Civ App., 190 S.W. 819.
Wis.—Chicago, M & St P. Ry Co. v. Jewett, 171 N.W. 757, 169 Wis. 102.
10 C.J. p 529 note 94.

6. U S—Basila v. Western Union Telegraph Co., D C.Fla., 24 F 2d 569.
Ariz.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Larrimore, 190 P. 564, 21 Ariz. 509.
10 C J p 530 note 95.

7. U S—Basila v. Western Union Telegraph Co., D C Fla., 24 F.2d 569.
10 C J. p 530 notes 96–98.

8. U.S—Basila v. Western Union Telegraph Co., supra
Ariz—Southern Pac. Co. v Larrimore, 190 P 564, 21 Ariz. 509.
10 C J. p 530 note 99

9. U.S—McGinn v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav Co, Wash., 265 F 81, certiorari granted Oregon-Washington R & Nav. Co. v McGinn, 41 S.Ct. 148, 254 U S. 628, 65 L Ed 446, and reversed on other grounds 42 S.Ct. 332, 258 U.S 409, 66 L Ed 689
Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry Co v. Council Bros., 136 S E. 418, 163 Ga. 494, 61 A L R. 1304.
Ky—Cleveland, C, C. & St L Ry. Co. v. Young, 195 S.W. 93, 175 Ky. 841
Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of St Louis, B. & M Ry Co. v. Taylor, 251 S.W. 383, 298 Mo 474, certiorari granted State of Missouri ex rel. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co v. Taylor, 44 S Ct. 132, 263 U S. 696, 68 L Ed 511, affirmed 45 S Ct 47, 266 U S 200, 69 L.Ed. 247, 42 A. L R. 1232
N.Y—Western Electric Co. v. New York & B. Transp. Line, 180 N.Y S. 873.
N C—Reidsville Paper Box Co v. Southern Ry, 99 S.E. 23, 177 N C. 351.
Okl—St Louis & S F. R Co. v. Akard, 159 P. 344, 60 Okl. 4.
Pa.—Keystone Pub Co v Pennsylvania R Co, 78 Pa Super. 486.
Tex.—Gulf, C. & S F. Ry. Co. v Morris, Civ App, 241 S W 235, affirmed, Com App, 250 S W 1017—Panhandle & S F Ry Co. v Clarendon Grain Co., Civ App., 215 S.W 866.
10 C J p 531 note 9.

Rule of carrier

Even though approved by the interstate commerce commission, a rule relieving initial carrier from liability for failure of connecting carrier to divert shipment is void under the Carmack-Cummins Amendment. —Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Council Bros., 136 S E 418, 163 Ga. 494, 61 A.L.R 1304—Central of Georgia the amendment had no application to foreign commerce and did not prohibit a carrier from issuing bills of lading limiting its liability to its own line in case of a foreign shipment,[10] but, as stated supra § 406 a, by subsequent amendment its operation was extended to transportation to points in an adjacent foreign country. Nevertheless, the prohibitory rule herein declared does not apply to shipments to nonadjacent foreign countries.[11]

(3) Under State Statutes

Whether the initial carrier may by contract limit its liability to loss or injury occurring on its own line under state legislation depends on the character of the statute as construed by the courts.

An attempt by the initial carrier in an intrastate shipment to limit its liability to loss or injury occurring on its own lines is ineffective where there is a state statute, patterned after the federal statute, making a carrier which has issued a receipt or bill of lading liable for damage or injury caused by any carrier to which the property may pass,[12] or where a statute defines connecting lines, and provides that each carrier shall be agent of the other and liable on the contract of shipment to the consignee for safe and speedy transportation, and that any connecting carrier held liable for injury to a shipment shall have a right of recovery against the offending carrier for the amount of any loss, damage, or injury which it has been compelled to pay, with costs of suit.[13]

Where the statute binds the shipper to all lawful terms of the bill of lading unless objected to in writing within a certain time and requires all bills to have blank forms attached for such objections, a contract limiting the carrier's liability to the time the goods were on its own line is valid and binding in the absence of objection thereto,[14] but a carrier is in no position to claim its liability was thus limited, although the bill so provides, where it contained no forms for objections.[15]

Notwithstanding a statute providing that, when a carrier issues a through bill of lading or a receipt for transportation of goods to destination over a connecting line, it shall be liable for any loss caused by the negligence of the connecting line, the carrier may by special contract restrict its liability for loss or injury caused by negligence of its own line,[16] but a special contract is necessary for this purpose.[17] When freight is received by the carrier for shipment to a destination beyond its own terminus, it is not necessary that it should contract to carry to the point of destination to render it liable for the negligence of the connecting carrier, but it will be liable unless it contracts to carry only on its own line.[18] Receiving freight for shipment to a point beyond its own line is prima facie an agreement to carry to that point, and it is necessary, in order to escape liability, that it should stipulate that it is only to carry on its own line.[19] This statute, however, has no application except in case of loss or injury due to negligence, and no special contract is necessary to exempt the initial carrier from loss or injury on a connecting line not due to the negligence of the connecting carrier.[20]

Ry. Co. v. Council Bros., 137 S.E. 569, 36 Ga.App. 573.

Contract as through bill

The Cummins amendment to the Carmack Act, requiring through bills of lading for interstate shipments, and making the initial carrier liable for negligence of connecting lines, does not, by the use of the words "when transported on a through bill of lading," authorize any other bill of lading for such a shipment, but is used to designate the kind of contract which the initial carrier is required to make; and a contract of shipment issued by an initial carrier for a shipment of cattle, reciting the name of the carrier, that of the shipper, the route of the shipment, the consignee, and that the charges were fixed by established and published tariffs and rules, is a through bill of lading, within the amendment, notwithstanding it attempted to limit liability of the initial carrier to its own lines.—Gulf, C & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hines, Tex.Com.App., 250 S.W. 1013, affirming, Civ.App., 239 S.W. 244

10. U.S.—Hamlen & Sons Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., D.C.Ark., 212 F. 324.

11. Tex.—A. L. Wolff & Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas, Com.App., 289 S.W. 1000, affirming, Civ.App., 283 S.W. 250.

South Africa

Initial carrier could by contract limit its liability for shipment to South Africa to its own line, the Carmack amendment not being applicable to such shipment.—Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co. v. Jewett, 171 N.W. 757, 169 Wis. 102

12. Ark.—Ft. Smith, S. & R. I. R. Co. v. Seroggins, 234 S.W. 999, 150 Ark. 571.
Ga.—Director General of Railroads v. Beard, 108 S.E. 310, 27 Ga.App. 365.—Heath v. Sandersville R. Co., 98 S.E. 92, 23 Ga.App. 255.

13. S.C.—Glenn v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 80 S.E. 898, 96 S.C. 357.

14. Ill.—Bean v. Jackson, 207 Ill. App. 577.

15. Ill.—American Hide & Leather Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 142 N.E. 200, 310 Ill. 524, affirming 228 Ill. App. 305.

16. Mo.—Crockett v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., Mo.App., 126 S.W. 243.
10 C.J. p. 531 note 12, p. 532 notes 28, 29.

17. Mo.—Marshall v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 75 S.W. 638, 176 Mo. 480, 98 Am.S.R. 508.
10 C.J. p. 531 note 13.

18. Mo.—Western Sash, etc., Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 76 S.W. 998, 177 Mo. 641.—Popham v. Barnard, 77 Mo.App. 619.—Marshall v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 74 Mo.App. 81.

19. Mo.—Western Sash, etc., Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., supra.

20. Mo.—Scott County Milling Co. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 104 S.W. 924, 127 Mo.App. 80.

A statute which provides that all carriers over whose lines any freight received by either of such carriers for through shipment, on a contract for through carriage, recognized, acquiesced in, or acted on by such carriers, shall, with respect to the undertaking, be considered connecting lines and be deemed to be the agents of each other, that the contract shall be deemed to be the contract of each of the carriers, and that, for any loss or injury sustained in such through transportation over the connecting lines or over either of them, either of such carriers which the person sustaining damages may first elect to sue shall be held liable to such person, does not prevent either an initial or a connecting carrier from limiting its liability to its own line, particularly where the contract of the initial carrier was not a contract for through shipment,[21] although it has been held that such an attempted limitation is inoperative where the shipment was a through shipment in the purview of the statute.[22]

A statute which provides that, wherever any freight has been transported over two or more railroads operating and having an agent within the state, suit for damage arising out of such transportation may be brought against one or all of such railroad corporations in any county in which either of the roads extends or is operated, provided, if damages are recovered against one or more carriers, not partners, in the shipment, they shall be apportioned, does not affect the validity of a contract limiting a carrier's liability to its own lines, nor the rights of the parties thereunder.[23]

b. How Limitation of Liability Effected

Limitations of the initial carrier's liability to loss or injury occurring on its own lines are effected in the same manner as other limitations of liability.

Where such contracts are not invalid under the principles heretofore stated, the general rules governing the requisites and sufficiency of contracts limiting the carrier's common-law liability, considered supra §§ 89–91, are applicable to contracts limiting the carrier's liability for loss or negligence to its own line.[24] Thus, if a bill of lading limiting the liability of the initial carrier for loss or injury occurring on its own line is accepted by the shipper when the goods are delivered for transportation, the limitation will be binding and effective, although the shipper did not read it and did not know that the limiting clause was in the bill of lading;[25] but a provision in fine print, limiting the carrier's liability to its own line, which is somewhat obscured by the use of stamps, cannot, it is held, be regarded as a contract and is ineffective to limit the carrier's liability to its own line.[26] By accepting the bill of lading, the shipper, in the absence of fraud or mistake, will be conclusively presumed to know its terms and will not be permitted to plead ignorance of its contents.[27] However, any attempted limitation of liability contained in a bill of lading or a shipping receipt delivered to the carrier after acceptance of the goods for transportation is inoperative,[28] as such special contract, to be effective, must be made contemporaneously with the delivery of the goods;[29] yet it has been held that, where, at the time of a parol contract between a shipper of live stock and the carrier, the shipper expected to sign a written contract, and he subsequently did so, he was not in a position to avoid the force of provisions in the written contract limiting the liability of the carrier to damages occurring on its own line.[30]

21. Tex.—Crenwelge v. Ponder, Com.App., 228 S.W. 145, reversing Ponder v. Crenwelge, Civ.App., 203 S.W. 1125—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Hallam, Civ.App., 211 S.W. 809.
10 C.J. p 532 note 23.

Independent contracts

Where live stock was shipped over the lines of connecting carriers, but each carrier made an independent contract with the shipper, defendant, which was the initial carrier, limiting its liability to its own line, and the transportation being intra-state only, the statute, relating to contracts for through shipment recognized or acquiesced in by the carriers, had no application, and defendant was not liable for damages accruing on the lines of the connecting carriers.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Hallam, Tex.Civ.App., 211 S.W. 809.

22. Tex.—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Zemurray, Civ.App., 215 S.W. 157—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Townsend, Civ.App., 106 S.W. 760—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Terry, Civ.App., 89 S.W. 792.

23. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Elliott, 89 S.W. 767, 99 Tex. 286.
10 C.J. p 532 note 26.

24. Contracts held sufficient to limit liability.
U.S.—Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Fairbanks, 90 F. 467, 33 C.C.A. 611.
Mass.—Pendergast v. Adams Express Co., 101 Mass. 120.
Ohio.—Chesapeake, etc., R. Co. v. Ward Lumber Co., 21 Ohio Cir.Ct., N.S., 337—American Roofing Co. v. Memphis Packet Co., 8 Ohio S. & C.P. 490, 5 Ohio N.P. 146.
Wis.—Best v. Great Northern R. Co., 150 N.W. 484, 159 Wis. 429.
10 C.J. p 532 note 31 [a].

25. Ala.—Jones v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 8 So. 61, 89 Ala. 376—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Meyer, 78 Ala. 597.
10 C.J. p 532 note 32.

26. Wash.—Allen v. Canadian Pac. R. Co., 84 P. 620, 42 Wash. 64, 7 Ann.Cas. 468.
10 C.J. p 533 note 33.

27. Iowa.—Mulligan v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 36 Iowa 181, 14 Am.R. 514.

28. U.S.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. American Trading Co., 25 S.Ct. 84, 195 U.S. 439, 49 L.Ed. 269.
Ala.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Meyer, 78 Ala. 597.

29. Ala.—Southern R. Co. v. Levy, 39 So. 95, 144 Ala. 614.

30. Tex.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Halsell, 81 S.W. 1243, 36 Tex.Civ.App. 522.

c. Consideration

No consideration is necessary for a contract limiting a carrier's liability to its own line.

No consideration need be shown to support an agreement for a limitation of this kind, for the reason that the carrier is under no obligation to assume liability for loss or injury on the line of a connecting carrier.[31] If a consideration were necessary, the shipment itself would suffice.[32] So, also, the increased facilities and lessened expense received by the shipper in the transmission of his goods to a distant destination requiring several lines to be traversed by means of such an arrangement among the carriers,[33] or a reduced rate of transportation,[34] would be a sufficient consideration.

d. Operation and Effect of Limitation

Although the rule is subject to some qualifications, generally a carrier validly limiting its liability to its own line is not chargeable with damages occurring on a connecting line.

If a common carrier, by valid stipulation in a bill of lading, limits its liability for the transportation of property to its own line, it will not be chargeable with damages occurring on a connecting line,[35] and this rule applies, although by virtue of its through traffic arrangements it received more than the local rates for the haul, and although it contracted for the through rate, and provided in its bill of lading that the connecting lines should have the benefit of all exceptions and conditions contained therein.[36] So, the fact that loss or injury occurring on a connecting line was due to its negligence does not affect the operation of the limitation.[37] The initial carrier is responsible only for the exercise of reasonable care and diligence in the selection of proper connecting carriers.[38] Nevertheless, although it has been held that, where the contract validly exempts the initial carrier from liability for loss not occurring on its own line or after the property is ready for delivery to the next carrier, such carrier is not liable for loss occurring on the line of the next carrier, even though caused by its own negligence,[39] the fact that the contract exempts the carrier from liability for loss or injury through negligence occurring on a connecting line will not exempt it from liability for loss occurring on another line due to its own negligence at the inception of the shipment;[40] and, if the damages proved are shown to have resulted from the joint negligence of the two carriers, each may properly be held responsible for the proportion of the damages accruing which its negligence bears to the entire negligence.[41] Where the initial carrier limited its liability to damage occurring on its own line and did not receive the goods on a through contract, a statute providing that in case of a contract for through shipment between points in the state all connecting lines are liable for damages sustained anywhere in such through transportation, is inapplicable and the carriers are not jointly liable thereunder, the case being governed by another statute which permits action to be brought against one or all connecting carriers and provides for apportionment of the damage recovered between carriers not partners in the carriage.[42]

The fact that the stipulation limiting the carrier's liability to its own line does not state the name of the station where the liability of the initial line is to end is immaterial.[43]

Where the connecting carrier acted merely as agent for the receiving carrier, the latter is liable for injuries occurring while the shipment was in the possession of the former, notwithstanding liability for damages was limited to those occurring on its own line;[44] and a contract limiting the liability of an initial carrier for loss or injury occurring on its own line is of no effect, where, by

31. Mo.—Hance v. Wabash Western R. Co., 56 Mo.App. 476.

32. Ala.—McNeill v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 49 So. 797, 161 Ala. 319.

33. N.C.—Phifer v. Carolina Cent. R. Co, 89 N C 311, 45 Am.R. 687.

34. Ala.—Western R. Co v. Harwell, 11 So. 781, 97 Ala. 341.

35. Cal.—McCaslin v Southern Pac. Co., 203 P. 742, 187 Cal. 716.
Tenn.—American Peanut Corporation v. St Louis & Tennessee River Packet Co, 3 Tenn App. 552.
10 C.J. p 530 note 1.
Conversion
Where the bill of lading issued by an initial carrier expressly and validly limits liability to its own line, no recovery can be had against it for conversion by a connecting carrier.—McCaslin v Southern Pac. Co., 203 P 742, 187 Cal. 716

36. Kan.—Hoffman v. Union Pac. R. Co., 56 P. 331, 8 Kan.App. 379.

37. Pa.—American Express Co. v. Titusville Second Nat. Bank, 69 Pa. 394, 8 Am R. 268.
10 C.J. p 530 note 2.

38. Pa.—American Express Co. v. Titusville Second Nat. Bank, supra

39. Tex.—A. L. Wolff & Co v Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co., Com.App, 289 S.W. 1000, affirming, Civ.App., 283 S.W. 250.

40. Mo.—Popham v. Barnard, 77 Mo.App. 619.
Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. McMillen, Civ.App., 183 S.W. 773—Galveston, etc., R. Co v. Herring, Civ App., 24 S.W. 939.

41. Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Miller & White, Civ.App, 190 S.W. 819.

42. Tex. — Crenwelge v. Ponder, Com.App., 228 S.W. 145, reversing Ponder v. Crenwelge, Civ.App., 203 S W. 1125.

43. Mo.—Minter v. Southern Kansas R. Co, 56 Mo.App. 282

44. Tex.—Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Wright-Herndon Co., Civ. App., 195 S.W. 216.

a partnership agreement between it and the connecting carrier over whose route the shipment is to be transported, each partner is liable in solido for all causes of actions against the partnership;[45] nor is such a contract by the initial carrier operative in its behalf, where it has leased the lines of a connecting carrier.[46]

Although the contract limits the liability of the initial carrier to damages on its own line, such carrier is liable for damages occurring on a connecting line where there has been a deviation.[47]

e. Waiver of Limitation

A connecting carrier cannot waive the limitation so as to affect another carrier.

One connecting carrier has no power to waive a stipulation limiting liability for loss or injury to the line on which it occurred so as to affect another connecting carrier;[48] nor has the station agent of a connecting line authority to waive such stipulation.[49]

§ 408. Right of Carrier to Make Through Contract of Carriage and Also to Limit Liability to Its Own Line

The authorities differ as to whether a carrier making a through contract of carriage can limit its liability to its own line.

Even where contracts limiting a carrier's liability are not prohibited by statute, there is some conflict of authority as to whether a carrier can make a through contract of transportation and also limit its liability to loss or injury on its own line. In some jurisdictions the rule is laid down, apparently without qualification, that an initial carrier may make a contract of through carriage to destination over connecting lines and at the same time limit its liability for loss or injury to such loss or injury as occurs on its own line;[50] but, as shown supra, § 405 a, in the absence of any stipulation to the contrary, the carrier making a contract of through carriage is responsible for loss or injury occurring on connecting lines. On the other hand, it has been held in a number of jurisdictions where the question seems to be unaffected by statute that, where a carrier contracts to carry goods to their destination over a connecting line, a clause in the contract of shipment which limits its liability to loss or injury occurring on its own line is invalid and inoperative as to loss or injury occurring on the connecting line, where the loss or injury is due to the negligence of the agents or servants of the connecting carrier.[51] Under a statute providing that, when a carrier issues a through bill of lading for the transportation of goods to destination over a connecting line, it shall be liable for any loss caused by the negligence of any connecting line, a carrier cannot contract for a through shipment and at the same time exempt itself from liability on account of loss or injury due to the negligence of connecting carriers,[52] and the same rule applies where the statute makes a carrier receiving freight to be transported to any place on the line of a connecting road liable for the delivery thereof to the consignee in the same order in which the freight was shipped.[53]

§ 409. Duty to Notify Connecting Carrier of Arrival of Goods

The initial carrier must notify the succeeding carrier of the arrival of the goods at the point of transfer to the latter's line.

It is the duty of the initial carrier to notify the succeeding carrier of the arrival of the goods at the point where the latter is to receive them,[54] and until such notice is given it remains liable for the safety of the goods.[55] There is no complete delivery to the succeeding line, and no liability on the part of the latter arises until after such notice.[56] This duty, it has been said, exists particularly in cases where live stock is being carried, it being always important in such cases that close 45. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Wilson, 26 S.W. 131, 7 Tex.Civ.App. 128.

10 C.J. p 530 note 7.

46. Tex.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson, 21 S.W. 691, 3 Tex.Civ.App. 8.

47. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Frank, 63 S.E. 656, 5 Ga.App. 574.
S.C.—Chartrand v. Southern R. Co., 67 S.E. 741, 85 S.C. 479.
Tex.—Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Allison, 59 Tex. 193.
10 C.J. p 190 note 9.

48. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Williams, 23 S.W. 626, 4 Tex.Civ.App. 294

49. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Clarke, 24 S.W. 355, 5 Tex.Civ.App. 547.

50. Ariz.—Southern Pac. Co. v. Larrimore, 190 P. 564, 21 Ariz. 509.
10 C.J. p 533 note 46.
Reason for rule see 10 C.J. p 533 note 46 [a].

51. Okl.—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Akard, 159 P. 344, 60 Okl. 4
10 C.J. p 157 note 99 [b] (2), p 533 note 48.

52. Mo.—Western Sash, etc., Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 76 S.W. 998, 177 Mo. 641.
10 C.J. p 534 note 49

53. Neb.—Nye-Schneider-Fowler Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 179 N. W. 503, 105 Neb. 151.

54. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Williams, 73 So. 548, 198 Ala. 425.
10 C.J. p 534 note 50.

55. N.Y.—Sprague v. New York Cent. R. Co., 52 N.Y. 637.

56. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Williams, 73 So. 548, 198 Ala. 425.
10 C.J. p 534 note 52.

connections shall be made.[57] This notice must be given to some representative of the succeeding line authorized to receive it.[58] It is not necessary, however, that the first carrier notify the connecting carrier in advance when the goods will arrive.[59]

§ 410. Duty to Deliver Goods to Connecting Carrier

It is the duty of the initial carrier to deliver the goods to the connecting carrier within a reasonable time and in good condition.

Where goods are to be transported to a point beyond the terminus of the initial carrier, it is the duty of such carrier to deliver the goods to the connecting carrier to be forwarded on its line[60] within a reasonable time[61] and in good condition for transportation,[62] or at least to make a tender of delivery.[63] The duty of the carrier is not discharged until it has been imposed on the carrier next in order.[64] To relieve the initial carrier from liability and charge the connecting carrier for loss or injury, a complete delivery by the initial carrier is requisite,[65] or the failure to deliver must be justified by the circumstances of the case.[66] However, as shown infra § 449 c, in the absence of special contract, the initial carrier is under no obligation to allow its cars in which the goods are shipped to go over the connecting line, nor is it bound to load the goods on the connecting carrier's cars,[67] and, where authorized to do so by the bill of lading and filed tariffs, it may properly refuse to deliver to a connecting line performing only switching services until its charges are paid.[68] If the carrier assumes through transportation of live stock, however, it must deliver such stock at the terminus of its road to the connecting carrier in a car suitable to transport it to its final destination.[69] Where transportation is divided into two separate and independent stages, and the initial bill of lading imposes no duty to deliver the car to the connecting carrier for further transportation, the initial carrier's responsibility ends on its delivery, in good order to the consignor's agent at the connecting point.[70] A carrier who delivers to a connecting carrier other than the one designated in the contract for further transportation is liable for at least nominal damages, even though the goods arrive without delay or injury.[71] The duty to deliver to the connecting carrier does not arise where there is no such connection between the lines as to make delivery practicable.[72]

57. Mo.—Dunn v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 68 Mo. 268.

58. Ala.—Selma, etc., R. Co. v. Butts, 43 Ala. 385, 94 Am.D. 694.

59. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bourne, 15 Ky.L. 445.

60. U.S.—The No. 37, N.Y., 53 S. Ct. 328, 288 U.S. 239, 77 L.Ed. 721, reversing, C.C.A., The Car Float No. 37, 57 F.2d 144, reversing, D. C., The Talisman, 52 F.2d 691, and certiorari granted New York Cent. R. Co. v. The Talisman, 53 S.Ct. 85, 287 U.S. 587, 77 L.Ed. 513—Wiener v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, D.C.N.Y., 55 F.2d 262, reversed on other grounds, C. C.A., 61 F.2d 893.
N.C.—W. L. Hall & Co. v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 91 S.E. 607, 173 N.C. 108.
Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren, Civ.App., 184 S.W. 232.
10 C.J. p. 534 note 57.

61. Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Miller & White, Civ.App., 190 S.W. 819.
10 C.J. p. 534 note 58.

Concurring negligence

Where negligence of railroad in failing or refusing to accept shipment of live stock at connecting point concurred with negligence of connecting road in failing to deliver shipment in question, on transfer track, both companies were responsible for delays and consequent damages proximately resulting from such negligence.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Miller & White, Tex.Civ.App., 190 S.W. 819.

62. U.S.—Buston v. Pennsylvania R. Co., C.C.Pa., 116 F. 235, affirmed 119 F. 808, 56 C.C.A. 320, and certiorari denied 23 S.Ct. 850, 189 U.S. 511, 47 L.Ed. 923.
Pa.—Eckert v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 60 A. 781, 211 Pa. 267, 117 Am.S.R. 571.
10 C.J. p. 535 note 59.

63. U.S.—Mallory S. S. Co. v. Garfield, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 664, certiorari denied Garfield v. Mallory S. S. Co., 47 S.Ct. 97, 273 U.S. 703, 71 L.Ed. 848.

64. U.S.—Texas & Pac. R. Co. v. Reiss, N.Y., 22 S.Ct. 253, 183 U.S. 621, 46 L.Ed. 358—U. S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., Utah, 213 F. 332, 130 C.C.A. 34.
Mich.—Condon v. Marquette, etc., R. Co., 21 N.W. 321, 55 Mich. 218, 54 Am.R. 367.

65. Ala.—Mt. Vernon Co. v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 8 So. 687, 92 Ala. 296.
Tenn.—Farnsworth-Evans Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 157 S.W. 897, 128 Tenn. 50.
10 C.J. p. 535 note 61.

66. Va. — Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co. v. L. J. Upton & Co., 103 S.E. 616, 127 Va. 406.

Fault of connecting carrier

Defendant carrier is not liable for failure to deliver a shipment of potatoes to a connecting carrier, where it was informed by plaintiff that connecting carrier would send its steamer for the shipment, and the connecting carrier, knowing that the shipment was ready, failed to do so. —Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co. v. L. J. Upton & Co., 103 S.E. 616, 127 Va. 406.

67. Tex.—Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Jones, 134 S.W. 328, 104 Tex. 92.

68. Va.—McGuire v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 118 S.E. 225, 136 Va. 382.

69. Pa.—Eckert v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 60 A. 781, 211 Pa. 267, 107 Am. S.R. 571.

70. Mo.—Smith v. Gulf, C. & S. F., R. Co., 164 S.W. 132, 177 Mo.App. 269.

71. Mo.—Chandler Commn. Co. v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 64 Mo.App. 144.

72. Ark.—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Marrs, 31 S.W. 42, 60 Ark. 637.

§ 411. Relation to Goods before Delivery

On refusal of the succeeding carrier to receive the goods, the initial carrier has the duty to notify the consignor or consignee and to take reasonable care of the property while awaiting instructions.

As stated infra § 414 b, the initial carrier does not become warehouseman while merely holding the goods at the end of its own line before delivery to the connecting carrier, but its liability as warehouseman attaches when it makes proper efforts to deliver them and the succeeding carrier refuses to receive them. Where goods are thus held after failure or refusal of the connecting carrier to receive them, it is the duty of the initial carrier to notify at once the shipper or consignee, as the case may be, and to take reasonable care of the goods while awaiting instructions,[73] unless the property is of such a perishable nature that the delay would be calculated to injure or destroy it;[74] and it will be liable for any loss or injury resulting from want of such notice,[75] although on failing to notify the owner its responsibility as common carrier does not continue.[76] In the absence of such notice it has been held that the first carrier must exercise ordinary care and prudence in instructing another carrier to transport the consignment.[77] The refusal of the connecting carrier to receive the goods will not render the retention of them by the first carrier a conversion;[78] but, under such circumstances, having received the goods for transportation involving their acceptance by the connecting carrier, the initial carrier is responsible as actual custodian, having by acceptance guaranteed that they will be forwarded.[79]

§ 412. What Constitutes Sufficient Delivery to Connecting Carrier

The rules governing delivery to a consignee are applicable in determining what constitutes sufficient delivery by the initial carrier to the connecting carrier, the manner thereof being generally left to the carriers themselves.

In the absence of a statute or regulation prescribing the manner in which transfer of freight from one carrier to a connecting carrier is to be made, the matter must be left to the connecting carriers themselves, subject to the qualification that no unreasonable method be adopted by them, and, hence, where an initial carrier has, at the point of connection, no facilities for transferring cattle, it may lawfully transfer them to the connecting road through union stockyards possessing such facilities.[80] As to what amounts to a sufficient delivery by the initial carrier, the rules governing delivery to a consignee, which are exhaustively treated supra § 161 et seq. are in the main applicable.[81] If anything remains to be done by the initial carrier, such as the giving of notice or shipping directions, or the separation and identification of the goods, the initial carrier remains liable.[82] Where the second carrier assumes control of the goods, the requirements as to delivery are satisfied.[83] However, a manual transfer of possession is not essential;[84] a constructive change of possession from the first to the second carrier may amount to a delivery.[85] If there is a common place of transfer at which the first carrier deposits the goods ready to be taken by the second

73. Ala.—Ocean S. S. Co. of Savannah v. People's Shoe Co, 81 So 241, 202 Ala. 594, conformed to 81 So. 245, 17 Ala App. 34
Ill.—Brennan Packing Co. v. Mellon, 252 Ill.App 522.
10 C.J. p 536 note 76.

74. Ala.—Southern R. Co. v. Wallace, 56 So. 714, 175 Ala. 72—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Duncan, 34 So. 988, 137 Ala. 446.

75. Ill.—Brennan Packing Co. v. Mellon, 252 Ill.App. 522.
10 C.J. p 536 note 79.

76. Mo.—Cramer v. American Merchants' Union Express Co., 56 Mo. 524.

77. Ala.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Duncan, 34 So. 988, 137 Ala. 446.
10 C.J. p 536 note 80.

78. Ark.—Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Odom, 38 S.W. 339, 63 Ark. 326.

79. Minn.—Southard v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. R. Co., 62 N.W. 442, 619, 60 Minn 382.

80. Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Scott & Robertson, 90 S.W. 532, 41 Tex.Civ.App 163—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Felker, 90 S.W. 530, 40 Tex.Civ.App 604.

81. U.S.—Texas & P. R. Co. v. Clayton, N.Y., 84 F 305, 28 C.C.A. 142, affirmed 19 S.Ct. 421, 173 U.S. 348, 43 L.Ed. 725.
W.Va.—Lewis v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 35 S.E. 908, 47 W.Va. 656, 81 Am.S.R. 816.
10 C.J. p 536 note 84

82. S.C.—Miller v. South Carolina R. Co, 11 S.E. 1093, 33 S.C. 359, 9 L.R.A. 833.
10 C.J. p 536 note 85.

83. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co v. Scoggin, 90 S.W. 521, 40 Tex.Civ. App. 526.

84. U.S.—Texas & P. R. Co. v. Clayton, N.Y., 84 F. 305, 28 C.C.A. 142, affirmed 19 S.Ct. 421, 173 U.S. 384, 43 L.Ed. 725.

85. U.S.—Texas & P. R. Co. v. Clayton, supra.
10 C.J. p 537 note 88.

Delivery on pier
Railroad contracting to carry cotton to port, and to deliver to ocean carrier, was not liable for ocean carrier's failure to transport, where road delivered it on pier where steamship was loading in ample time for loading.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Williams, 73 So. 548, 198 Ala. 425.

Placing cars on transfer track
Delivery of cars by initial carrier to connecting carrier is completed by placing cars on interchange or transfer track and delivering waybills according to prevailing custom at place of transfer—Jennings v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 134 So. 694, 172 La. 522—10 C.J. p 537 note 88 [a].

connections shall be made.[57] This notice must be given to some representative of the succeeding line authorized to receive it.[58] It is not necessary, however, that the first carrier notify the connecting carrier in advance when the goods will arrive.[59]

§ 410. Duty to Deliver Goods to Connecting Carrier

It is the duty of the initial carrier to deliver the goods to the connecting carrier within a reasonable time and in good condition.

Where goods are to be transported to a point beyond the terminus of the initial carrier, it is the duty of such carrier to deliver the goods to the connecting carrier to be forwarded on its line[60] within a reasonable time[61] and in good condition for transportation,[62] or at least to make a tender of delivery.[63] The duty of the carrier is not discharged until it has been imposed on the carrier next in order.[64] To relieve the initial carrier from liability and charge the connecting carrier for loss or injury, a complete delivery by the initial carrier is requisite,[65] or the failure to deliver must be justified by the circumstances of the case.[66] However, as shown infra § 449 c, in the absence of special contract, the initial carrier is under no obligation to allow its cars in which the goods are shipped to go over the connecting line, nor is it bound to load the goods on the connecting carrier's cars;[67] and, where authorized to do so by the bill of lading and filed tariffs, it may properly refuse to deliver to a connecting line performing only switching services until its charges are paid.[68] If the carrier assumes through transportation of live stock, however, it must deliver such stock at the terminus of its road to the connecting carrier in a car suitable to transport it to its final destination.[69] Where transportation is divided into two separate and independent stages, and the initial bill of lading imposes no duty to deliver the car to the connecting carrier for further transportation, the initial carrier's responsibility ends on its delivery, in good order to the consignor's agent at the connecting point.[70] A carrier who delivers to a connecting carrier other than the one designated in the contract for further transportation is liable for at least nominal damages, even though the goods arrive without delay or injury.[71] The duty to deliver to the connecting carrier does not arise where there is no such connection between the lines as to make delivery practicable.[72]

57. Mo.—Dunn v. Hannibal, etc., R. Co., 68 Mo. 268.

58. Ala.—Selma, etc, R. Co. v. Butts, 43 Ala. 385, 94 Am.D. 694.

59. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Bourne, 15 Ky.L. 445.

60. U.S.—The No 37, N.Y., 53 S. Ct. 328, 288 U.S. 239, 77 L.Ed. 721, reversing, C.C.A., The Car Float No. 37, 57 F.2d 144, reversing, D. C., The Talisman, 52 F.2d 691, and certiorari granted New York Cent. R. Co. v. The Talisman, 53 S.Ct. 85, 287 U.S. 587, 77 L.Ed. 513—Wiener v. Compagnie Generale Transatlantique, D.C.N.Y., 55 F.2d 262, reversed on other grounds, C.C.A., 61 F.2d 893.
N.C.—W. L. Hall & Co. v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 91 S.E. 607, 173 N.C. 108.
Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren, Civ.App., 184 S.W. 232.
10 C.J. p 534 note 57.

61. Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Miller & White, Civ.App., 190 S.W. 819.
10 C.J. p 534 note 58.

Concurring negligence
Where negligence of railroad in failing or refusing to accept shipment of live stock at connecting point concurred with negligence of connecting road in failing to deliver shipment in question, on transfer track, both companies were responsible for delays and consequent damages proximately resulting from such negligence.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Miller & White, Tex.Civ.App., 190 S.W. 819.

62. U.S.—Buston v. Pennsylvania R. Co., C.C.Pa., 116 F. 235, affirmed 119 F. 808, 56 C.C.A. 320, and certiorari denied 23 S.Ct. 850, 189 U.S. 511, 47 L.Ed. 923.
Pa.—Eckert v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 60 A. 781, 211 Pa. 267, 117 Am.S.R. 571.
10 C.J. p 535 note 59.

63. U.S.—Mallory S. S. Co. v. Garfield, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 664, certiorari denied Garfield v. Mallory S. S. Co., 47 S.Ct. 97, 273 U.S. 703, 71 L.Ed. 848.

64. U.S.—Texas & Pac. R. Co. v. Reiss, N.Y., 22 S.Ct. 253, 183 U.S. 621, 46 L.Ed. 358—U. S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., Utah, 213 F. 332, 130 C.C.A. 34.
Mich.—Condon v. Marquette, etc., R. Co., 21 N.W. 321, 55 Mich. 218, 54 Am.R. 367.

65. Ala.—Mt. Vernon Co. v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 8 So. 687, 92 Ala. 296
Tenn.—Farnsworth-Evans Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 157 S.W. 897, 128 Tenn. 50.
10 C.J. p 535 note 61.

66. Va. — Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co. v. L. J. Upton & Co., 103 S.E. 616, 127 Va. 406.

Fault of connecting carrier
Defendant carrier is not liable for failure to deliver a shipment of potatoes to a connecting carrier, where it was informed by plaintiff that connecting carrier would send its steamer for the shipment, and the connecting carrier, knowing that the shipment was ready, failed to do so.—Merchants' & Miners' Transp. Co. v. L. J. Upton & Co., 103 S.E. 616, 127 Va. 406.

67. Tex.—Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v. Jones, 134 S.W. 328, 104 Tex. 92.

68. Va.—McGuire v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 118 S.E. 225, 136 Va. 382.

69. Pa.—Eckert v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 60 A. 781, 211 Pa. 267, 107 Am. S.R. 571.

70. Mo.—Smith v. Gulf, C. & S. F., R. Co., 164 S.W. 132, 177 Mo.App. 269.

71. Mo.—Chandler Commn. Co. v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., 64 Mo.App. 144.

72. Ark.—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Marrs, 31 S.W. 42, 60 Ark. 637.

§ 411. Relation to Goods before Delivery

On refusal of the succeeding carrier to receive the goods, the initial carrier has the duty to notify the consignor or consignee and to take reasonable care of the property while awaiting instructions.

As stated infra § 414 b, the initial carrier does not become warehouseman while merely holding the goods at the end of its own line before delivery to the connecting carrier, but its liability as warehouseman attaches when it makes proper efforts to deliver them and the succeeding carrier refuses to receive them. Where goods are thus held after failure or refusal of the connecting carrier to receive them, it is the duty of the initial carrier to notify at once the shipper or consignee, as the case may be, and to take reasonable care of the goods while awaiting instructions,[73] unless the property is of such a perishable nature that the delay would be calculated to injure or destroy it;[74] and it will be liable for any loss or injury resulting from want of such notice,[75] although on failing to notify the owner its responsibility as common carrier does not continue.[76] In the absence of such notice it has been held that the first carrier must exercise ordinary care and prudence in instructing another carrier to transport the consignment.[77] The refusal of the connecting carrier to receive the goods will not render the retention of them by the first carrier a conversion;[78] but, under such circumstances, having received the goods for transportation involving their acceptance by the connecting carrier, the initial carrier is responsible as actual custodian, having by acceptance guaranteed that they will be forwarded.[79]

§ 412. What Constitutes Sufficient Delivery to Connecting Carrier

The rules governing delivery to a consignee are applicable in determining what constitutes sufficient delivery by the initial carrier to the connecting carrier, the manner thereof being generally left to the carriers themselves.

In the absence of a statute or regulation prescribing the manner in which transfer of freight from one carrier to a connecting carrier is to be made, the matter must be left to the connecting carriers themselves, subject to the qualification that no unreasonable method be adopted by them, and, hence, where an initial carrier has, at the point of connection, no facilities for transferring cattle, it may lawfully transfer them to the connecting road through union stockyards possessing such facilities.[80] As to what amounts to a sufficient delivery by the initial carrier, the rules governing delivery to a consignee, which are exhaustively treated supra § 161 et seq. are in the main applicable.[81] If anything remains to be done by the initial carrier, such as the giving of notice or shipping directions, or the separation and identification of the goods, the initial carrier remains liable.[82] Where the second carrier assumes control of the goods, the requirements as to delivery are satisfied.[83] However, a manual transfer of possession is not essential;[84] a constructive change of possession from the first to the second carrier may amount to a delivery.[85] If there is a common place of transfer at which the first carrier deposits the goods ready to be taken by the second

73. Ala.—Ocean S. S. Co. of Savannah v. People's Shoe Co., 81 So. 241, 202 Ala. 594, conformed to 81 So. 245, 17 Ala App. 34.
Ill.—Brennan Packing Co. v. Mellon, 252 Ill.App. 522.
10 C.J. p 536 note 76.

74. Ala.—Southern R. Co. v. Wallace, 56 So. 714, 175 Ala. 72—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Duncan, 34 So. 988, 137 Ala. 446.

75. Ill.—Brennan Packing Co. v. Mellon, 252 Ill App. 522.
10 C J. p 536 note 79.

76. Mo.—Cramer v. American Merchants' Union Express Co., 56 Mo. 524.

77. Ala.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Duncan, 34 So. 988, 137 Ala. 446.
10 C.J. p 536 note 80.

78. Ark.—Little Rock, etc., R. Co. v. Odom, 38 S.W. 339, 63 Ark. 326.

79. Minn.—Southard v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. R. Co., 62 N.W. 442, 619, 60 Minn. 382.

80. Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Scott & Robertson, 90 S.W. 532, 41 Tex.Civ App. 163—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Felker, 90 S.W. 530, 40 Tex.Civ.App. 604.

81. U.S.—Texas & P. R. Co. v. Clayton, N.Y., 84 F. 305, 28 C.C.A. 142, affirmed 19 S.Ct 421, 173 U.S. 348, 43 L.Ed 725.
W.Va.—Lewis v. Chesapeake, etc. R. Co., 35 S.E. 908, 47 W.Va. 656, 81 Am.S.R. 816.
10 C.J. p 536 note 84.

82. S.C.—Miller v. South Carolina R. Co., 11 S.E. 1093, 33 S.C. 359, 9 L.R.A. 833.
10 C.J. p 536 note 85.

83. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Scoggin, 90 S.W. 521, 40 Tex.Civ App 526.

84. U.S.—Texas & P. R. Co. v. Clayton, N.Y., 84 F. 305, 28 C.C.A. 142, affirmed 19 S.Ct. 421, 173 U.S. 384, 43 L.Ed. 725.

85. U.S.—Texas & P. R. Co. v. Clayton, supra.
10 C.J. p 537 note 88.

Delivery on pier

Railroad contracting to carry cotton to port, and to deliver to ocean carrier, was not liable for ocean carrier's failure to transport, where road delivered it on pier where steamship was loading in ample time for loading.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Williams, 73 So. 548, 198 Ala. 425.

Placing cars on transfer track

Delivery of cars by initial carrier to connecting carrier is completed by placing cars on interchange or transfer track and delivering waybills according to prevailing custom at place of transfer.—Jennings v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 134 So. 694, 172 La. 522—10 C.J. p 537 note 88 [a].

carrier, such deposit may constitute the necessary delivery and acceptance, although the agents of the connecting carrier have not exercised manual control over the goods.[86] It seems that, where the goods are delivered by the first carrier to a common depot, the liability of the second carrier does not attach until the lapse of a reasonable time for taking the goods away.[87]

Delivery of waybills covering a shipment to a connecting carrier is not conclusive of delivery of the shipment, where the cars containing it have yet to be removed to another track for inspection.[88]

§ 413. Duty to Give Shipping Directions to Connecting Carrier

The initial carrier must give essential shipping directions to the connecting carrier.

As stated in Corpus Juris, which has been quoted on this question,[89] it is the duty of the carrier to notify the connecting carrier of any facts with reference to the destination of the goods, the method of transportation, etc., which are essential to enable the connecting carrier properly to receive and transport the goods, and its liability for loss continues until it has given such shipping instructions, notwithstanding delivery to the connecting carrier.[90] Furthermore, exemption in the contract of carriage for loss or damage beyond the line of the initial carrier will not relieve it, where such damage is brought about by its own negligent misdirection.[91]

The mere fact that marks or labels on the packages consigned indicate the point to which they are to go will not excuse a failure to transmit instructions to the succeeding carrier.[92] If the instructions are omitted from the shipping bills, the initial carrier is responsible for the failure of the next line to know of them.[93] Where stock was carried over connecting railroads and there was no statute making it the duty of the first to notify the second carrier that the shipper wished to divert the shipment, and the contract expressly provided that the first carrier should be released of all liabilities after delivery of the stock to the connecting carrier, the initial carrier, after delivering the shipment to the second carrier, was held not liable, however, for its failure to notify the latter that the shipper wished the shipment diverted.[94]

§ 414. Initial Carrier as Forwarder or Warehouseman

a. As forwarder
b. As warehouseman

a. As Forwarder

A carrier acting as forwarder is bound to use reasonable care in selecting the proper connecting carrier and is liable for negligence therein.

Where goods are received by a carrier for transportation and delivery to a connecting carrier, it has been held that the first carrier is not a mere forwarding agent,[95] and that a carrier cannot make itself forwarder only of and liable merely as a bailee for a part of a shipment.[96] As shown supra § 10, however, one may be a mere forwarder, that is to say, an agent charged with the duty of transporting goods without becoming a common carrier; and some courts have chosen to speak of the duty of the initial carrier to the owner with reference to sending the goods on by a connecting carrier as that of forwarder only, involving therefore liability for negligence rather than full 86. U.S.—Pratt v. Grand Trunk R. Co., Mich., 95 U.S. 43, 24 L.Ed. 336.

10 C.J. p. 537 note 89.

87. Wis.—Wood v. Milwaukee, etc., R. Co., 27 Wis. 541, 9 Am.R. 465.

88. Tenn.—Farnsworth-Evans Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 157 S.W. 897, 128 Tenn. 50.

89. Wash.—Pacific Car & Foundry Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 212 P. 159, 162, 123 Wash. 98.

90. Wash.—Pacific Car & Foundry Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., supra.
10 C.J. p. 537 notes 92–94.

Unessential instructions

Where the difference in the marking of the barrels was sufficient to have enabled the steamship company by consulting a duplicate of its own bill of lading to determine which were intended for refrigeration, a railroad company delivering a shipment of pears and apples to the steamer by lighter was held not liable for the steamer's failure to designate pears for refrigeration as it agreed to do in its bill of lading, although the lighter's captain failed to comply with instructions of the steamship company to designate which barrels were intended for refrigeration, and confused the shipment with another shipment.—Kimball Fruit Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 254 N.Y.S. 280, 142 Misc. 558

91. Wash.—Pacific Car & Foundry Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 212 P. 159, 123 Wash. 98.
10 C.J. p. 537 note 95.

92. Ohio.—Little Miami R. Co. v. Washburn, 22 Ohio St. 334.

93. Ohio.—Little Miami R. Co. v. Washburn, supra.

94. Tex.—Patton v. Texas, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 137 S.W. 721.

95. Mass.—Buckland v. Adams Express Co., 97 Mass. 124, 93 Am.D. 68.
10 C.J. p. 50 note 52.

Agreement "to forward"

An agreement in bill of lading "to forward" does not of itself show that the carrier receiving the goods takes them otherwise than as carrier with reference to its duty to deliver to a connecting carrier.
Minn.—Christenson v. American Express Co., 15 Minn. 270, 2 Am.R. 122.
Mo.—Fischer v. Merchants' Dispatch Transp. Co., 13 Mo.App. 133
N.Y.—Blossom v. Griffin, 13 N.Y. 569, 67 Am.D. 75—Krender v. Woolcott, 1 Hilt. 223

96. N.Y.—Simmons v. Law, 4 Abb. Dec. 241, 3 Keyes 217.

carrier liability; but regardless of this distinction, in the absence of statute, it is evident that with reference to securing transportation for the goods by the connecting carrier the first carrier is liable only for negligence.[97] As forwarder, so-called, it is the duty of the first carrier to use reasonable care in selecting the proper connecting carrier,[98] but this is the extent of its duty in this regard, and, having used this degree of care, it is held that the forwarder is absolved from further liability,[99] although a carrier, even though considered as forwarder, may be secondarily liable to the owner for goods damaged by the connecting carrier.[1] The fact that a connecting carrier to which the goods are to be transferred may be unprepared to continue the transportation with due promptness does not excuse a neglect by the first carrier to observe diligence in forwarding them.[2] If the initial carrier has transported goods over its own lines to a point of intersection with the connecting carrier, and is unable to deliver them to such carrier without fault on its part, it has the duty as a forwarder to exercise reasonable care to save loss of the goods or unnecessary costs to the owner; in other words, it should use the same degree of care that a prudent owner would exercise in the same situation.[3] However, where goods were carried for export by a railroad company and steamship company under one bill of lading, a clause therein that the railroad "in case of physical necessity shall have the right to forward such goods by any railway or route between the point of shipment and the point of destination" did not make it the duty of the railroad to forward the goods by another steamship company when it found that the steamship company by which the goods were billed could not take delivery, for such clause did not deal with transportation beyond the railroad terminus, that being the "point of destination" to be reached by the railroad.[4] The owner of the goods is bound by any contract between the forwarder and the connecting carrier.[5]

The foregoing rules have no application, of course, so far as interstate shipments are concerned, since, as shown supra § 406 a, by the provisions of the Carmack amendment the initial carrier is liable for loss or injury occurring on other lines to the same extent as if such loss or injury had occurred on its own line; nor do they apply to intra-state shipments under state legislation similar to the Carmack amendment, which is considered supra § 406 b.

b. As Warehouseman

The initial carrier does not become warehouseman while merely holding the goods at the end of its own line before delivery to the connecting carrier, but it is liable only as warehouseman where it makes proper efforts to deliver to the connecting carrier and the latter refuses to receive them.

Where a carrier receives goods for transportation to a destination beyond its own line, and involving a delivery to a connecting carrier, it does not become warehouseman of the goods while holding them at the end of its own line before delivery to the connecting carrier, but its liability remains that of carrier as long as such custody continues.[6] The recognized rule is that there must be actual or constructive delivery to such connecting carrier, so far as the shipper is concerned, before the initial carrier can relieve itself from responsibility under its contract.[7] The fact that, while the goods are being held for delivery to the connecting carrier, they have been stored in a warehouse does not affect the operation of the rule.[8] A provision that while a shipment awaits further conveyance the initial carrier's liability shall be that of a warehouseman is inapplicable where the goods had not arrived at their destination on the carrier's line prior to the injury,[9] and

97. S.C.—Maybin v South Carolina R. Co., 42 S.C.L. 240, 64 Am.D. 753.
10 C.J. p. 538 note 3.

98. Tenn.—Post v. Southern R. Co., 52 S.W. 301, 103 Tenn. 184, 55 L.R.A. 481
10 C.J. p. 538 note 4.

99. Mass.—Fowle v. Pitt, 67 N.E. 343, 183 Mass. 351.
Minn.—Christenson v. American Express Co., 15 Minn. 270, 2 Am.R. 122
10 C.J. p. 538 notes 5, 6.

1. U.S.—Reid v. Fargo, N.Y., 36 S. Ct. 712, 241 U.S. 544, 60 L.Ed. 1156, reversing 213 F. 771, 130 C.C.A. 285.

2. Pa.—Alexander v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 7 Pa.Super. 183, 42 Wkly. N.C. 181
10 C.J. p. 538 note 7.

3. Me.—Fisher v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 59 A. 532, 99 Me. 338, 105 Am.St.R. 283, 68 L.R.A. 390.

4. Mass.—Boston & M. R. R. v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., 116 N.E. 260, 226 Mass. 509.

5. Ill.—See Crane v. Tooker Storage & Forwarding Co., 204 Ill.App. 354.
N.Y.—Stoddard v. Long Island R. Co., 7 N.Y.Super. 180.

6. Ill.—Brennan Packing Co. v. Mellon, 252 Ill.App. 522.
10 C.J. p. 535 note 68.

7. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Farmers', etc., Live-Stock Commn. Firm, 52 S.W. 972, 107 Ky. 53, 60, 21 Ky.L. 708

8. U.S.—Texas & P. R. Co. v. Clayton, N.Y., 84 F. 305, 28 C.C.A. 142, affirmed 19 S.Ct. 421, 173 U.S. 384, 43 L.Ed. 725
Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Mitchell, 68 Ill. 471, 18 Am.R. 564.
10 C.J. p. 535 note 70.

9. Ill.—Brennan Packing Co. v. Mellon, 252 Ill.App. 522

Sole custody of initial carrier

The rule of the text has been applied where ham intended for export and shipped from Chicago was loaded on the initial carrier's lighter in it has been held that a stipulation in a contract of shipment that the liability of the initial carrier shall cease when the goods are ready to be delivered to a connecting carrier is void;[10] but the rule was held not to apply where the connecting carrier had no warehouse and the goods were destroyed by fire in the warehouse of the first carrier while awaiting transportation by the second carrier.[11]

Since the duty of the first carrier is to deliver to the second carrier, and its liability is to terminate when such delivery is made, it terminates its common-law liability as carrier by making proper efforts to deliver to the connecting carrier, and having done so it may, on the refusal of the connecting carrier to receive the goods, then store them, and in these circumstances it becomes liable as warehouseman only;[12] but the initial carrier must, by warehousing the goods, or by some unequivocal act, indicate its purpose to change its relation from that of carrier of transportation to that of mere custodian for safekeeping or forwarding.[13] If the carrier at the request of the consignor or consignee deposits the goods in the warehouse of a third party, its liability as a carrier or warehouseman is terminated, and it is not liable for subsequent loss, destruction, or injury to the goods.[14]

The liability of the initial carrier, under special statutory provisions, for loss or injury to goods while in possession of a connecting carrier acting as warehouseman, is considered supra § 406 a, b.

§ 415. Acts of Initial Carrier Resulting in Injury after Delivery to Connecting Carrier

Where the injury results from improper dealings of the initial carrier, it is liable, although the loss is not apparent until the goods are in possession of the connecting carrier.

The first carrier may, by improperly dealing with the goods, render itself liable to the shipper, even though the actual loss resulting is not apparent until the goods are in the second carrier's hands.[15] Thus, if by delay in the delivery to the connecting carrier of perishable goods their loss is caused in the hands of the second carrier, the first carrier will be liable;[16] and, if by delay of the initial carrier in giving shipping directions to the connecting carrier there is delay in the transportation, the first carrier will be responsible therefor;[17] but to render the first carrier liable it must appear that its delay, and not that of the second carrier, was the proximate cause of the loss.[18] If, however, there is concurring negligence of both carriers, either will be liable;[19] and the shipper must take notice of delays necessarily incident to transfers from one line to another.[20]

The first carrier will not be liable for conversion by second carrier, even though there has been negligence in properly advising the second carrier as to ownership of the property.[21]

New York for delivery to the next succeeding carrier, a steamship company, on July 28, but was directed by agents of the latter to be held aboard the lighter "awaiting receipt," and was thus held in the sole custody and control of the initial carrier without refrigeration until August 6, at which time, being rotten and unfit for human consumption, it was unloaded on the steamship company's pier and delivered to that carrier.—Brennan Packing Co. v. Mellon, 252 Ill.App. 522.

10. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Farmers', etc., Live-Stock Commn Firm, 52 S.W. 972, 21 Ky.L. 708.

11. Wis. — Courteen v. Kanawha Dispatch, 86 N.W. 176, 110 Wis. 610, 55 L.R.A. 182.

12. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Carter, 46 N.E. 374, 165 Ill. 570, 36 L.R.A. 527.
10 C.J. p 536 note 74.

13. N.Y.—Goold v. Chapin, 20 N.Y. 259, 75 Am.D 398.
10 C.J. p 536 note 75.

14. Ala.—Ocean S. S. Co. of Savannah v. People's Shoe Co., 81 So. 241, 202 Ala. 594, conformed to 81 So. 245, 17 Ala.App. 34.

15. Tex.—Fort Worth & Denver City Ry. Co. v. Motley, Civ.App., 87 S.W.2d 551, error dismissed—Levin v. International-Great Northern R. Co., Civ.App., 45 S.W. 2d 435, error dismissed—Texas Midland R. Co. v. Cummer Mfg. Co., Civ.App., 207 S.W. 617—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. McMillen, Civ. App., 183 S.W. 773.
10 C.J. p 538 note 13.

Wrongful billing

Where an initial carrier was negligent in wrongfully billing a car of cattle to Fort Worth instead of San Antonio, and where the sole cause of damages to them was such negligent act, although the damages really occurred on the line of connecting carrier, the initial carrier was liable therefor—San Antonio Southern Ry. Co. v. Morgan, Tex.Civ. App., 257 S.W. 702.

16. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Coolidge, 83 S.W. 333, 73 Ark. 112, 108 Am.S.R. 21, 67 L.R.A. 555, 3 Ann.Cas 582.
10 C.J. p 539 note 14.

17. Tenn.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Southern Seating, etc., Co., 58 S.W. 303, 104 Tenn. 568, 50 L.R.A. 729.
10 C.J. p 539 note 15.

18. Mich.—Detroit, etc., R. Co. v. McKenzie, 5 N.W. 1031, 43 Mich. 609—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. Burrows, 33 Mich 6.

19. Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Miller & White, Civ.App., 190 S.W. 819.
10 C.J. p 539 note 17.

Diversion

A carrier was held liable for negligence in diverting shipment, resulting in loss of the goods, although negligence of agent was not sole cause of loss, but concurred with that of connecting carrier—Texas Midland R. Co. v. Cummer Mfg. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 207 S.W. 617

20. Wis.—Burns v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 80 N.W. 927, 104 Wis. 646.

21. Mass.—Northern R. Co. v. Fitchburg R. Co., 6 Allen 254.

§ 416. Delay in Transportation

Although the rule may be otherwise under special statute or contract for through transportation, in the absence thereof the initial carrier is not liable for delay on a connecting carrier's line.

While the initial carrier is liable for unreasonable delay resulting from its own default in failing to connect with another carrier,[22] in the absence of statute providing otherwise, the initial carrier is liable only for delay occurring on its own line both where the contract of transportation limits its liability to its own line and where it has not entered into a through contract of transportation,[23] unless, in accordance with the principles stated supra § 415, the delay occurring on the connecting line is due to the initial carrier's negligence;[24] and even though the initial carrier has notice of special damages which will result from any delay and fails to communicate such notice to the terminal carrier, it is not liable for damages from delay on the terminal line, unless such delay was the result of the failure to communicate the notice.[25] However, if the first carrier has undertaken to carry the goods to their destination over connecting lines, it will be liable for delay on such connecting lines to the same extent as on its own line, in which circumstances the connecting carrier must be regarded as the agent of the initial carrier;[26] but there is no liability in the absence of negligence where the delay is not unreasonable.[27] In an action based on the refusal to forward goods via a connecting line, an erroneous statement of route in the billing does not excuse defendant, who knew such statement was erroneous and refused to forward for other reasons;[28] and, under a statute requiring connecting carriers to forward goods within a reasonable time and authorizing the railroad commission to fix such time, a carrier transferring goods within the time fixed by the commission is not liable, although it might reasonably have done so sooner.[29]

Carmack amendment. While the initial carrier is not liable for delay under the Carmack amendment where the goods have been handled with reasonable dispatch,[30] independently of any contract for through transportation, such carrier is liable under that amendment for any unreasonable delay occurring on a connecting line in case of interstate shipments,[31] even though there is no

22. Neb.—Berliner v. Director General of Railroads, 184 N.W. 914, 106 Neb. 801.

Notice to shipper

Where live stock was received, accepted, and transportation begun, and carrier, through its default by failing to connect with another carrier, returned the cattle to pens at original point of shipment, to hold until the next day, a notice to the shipper that they would be forwarded the following day, if agreeable, was not alone a complete breach and termination of the original shipping agreement and redelivery, so as to give rise to a new agreement, but constituted a delay under the original agreement entitling the shipper to damages.—Berliner v. Director General of Railroads, 184 N.W. 914, 106 Neb. 801.

23. Iowa.—Quillen v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 164 N.W. 779, 181 Iowa 536.
10 C.J. p 539 note 20.

24. Tenn.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Southern Seating, etc., Co., 58 S. W. 303, 104 Tenn 568, 78 Am.S. R. 933, 50 L.R.A. 729.
10 C.J. p 539 note 21.

25. Okl.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Sun Drilling Co., 165 P. 1133, 65 Okl. 239.
10 C.J. p 546 note 4.

26. U.S.—A. Russo & Co. v. U. S., C.C.A.La., 40 F.2d 39.
Ind.—Erie R. Co. v. Hipskind, 113 N.E. 304, 185 Ind. 62.
Iowa.—Quillen v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 164 N.W. 779, 181 Iowa 536.
Neb.—Marsh & Marsh v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 173 N.W. 679, 103 Neb. 654.
Ohio.—Davis v. Oswald & Taube, 149 N.E. 861, 113 Ohio St. 499, certiorari denied Mellon v. Oswald & Taube, 46 S.Ct. 354, 270 U.S. 658, 70 L.Ed. 785.
10 C.J. p 284 note 3 [c], [d], p 539 notes 22, 23.

Notice

Where defendant railroad undertook to transport a car of sewer tile to plaintiff at a point beyond its own line, and the car was delayed in transit, causing plaintiff damage because its sewer caved in in a heavy rain for lack of the tile, defendant constituted the connecting carrier its agent, so that notice to the connecting carrier of the use intended to be made of the tile was notice to defendant.—Erie R. Co. v. Hipskind, 113 N.E. 304, 185 Ind. 62.

27. Okl.—Clinton & O. W. R. Co. v. Smith, 254 P. 702, 124 Okl. 75.

28. Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Bone, Civ.App., 199 S.W. 332

29. Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Bone, supra.

30. Va.—L. J. Upton & Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 131 S.E. 827, 146 Va. 475

31. U.S.—Pomona Products Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Ga., 294 F. 982.
Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Jones, 99 So. 919, 211 Ala. 158.
N.Y.—Wishnatzki v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 232 N.Y.S. 165, 225 App. Div. 62.
N.C.—Harrill v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 103 S.E. 21, 179 N.C. 540.
Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Nelson, 192 S.W. 1056, 108 Tex. 305, affirming, Civ.App., 139 S.W. 81, and certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 13, 245 U.S. 657, 62 L.Ed. 534.
Vt.—Saliba v. New York Cent. R. Co., 144 A. 194, 101 Vt. 427.
Va.—L. J. Upton & Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 131 S.E. 827, 146 Va. 475—New York, P. & N. R. Co. v. Chandler, 106 S.E. 684, 129 Va. 695.
10 C.J. p 525 note 30.

Consequential damage

Loss and consequential damage which shipper suffered of the whole value of potatoes by reason of his loss of the sale of them which he had made at a stipulated price, caused by negligent delay in the transportation, followed by the subsequent conversion of the goods by the wrongful sale of them by the terminal carrier, was within the operation of the Carmack amendment.—New York, P. & N. R. Co. v. Chandler, 106 S.E. 684, 129 Va. 695

Diversion

Initial carrier of interstate ship-

physical damage to the goods carried.[32] There is a damage or injury to the goods themselves by delay in transportation, where it is shown that the delay in transportation has caused the goods to depreciate in value in the market of their destination.[33] Under this statute any contract by the initial carrier attempting to limit liability for unreasonable delay to its own line[34] or any tariff regulation impairing that liability[35] is void.

§ 417. Liability on Receipt of Goods for Return to Shipper

The initial carrier is liable for injuries occurring after it receives the goods for return to the shipper.

The initial carrier is liable for injuries to goods occurring on its line if they are received back from the connecting carrier on a return of the goods to the point of shipment.[36] Where, however, the consignor requested the carrier to return the goods after the consignee obtained an order of attachment against them, and the carrier required the consignor to sign an indemnity contract holding it harmless from liability in returning them, and constituting the carrier or connecting road the consignor's agent, the carrier was not liable for loss of goods while being returned due to the neglect of the connecting carrier.[37]

§ 418. Rights, Duties and Liabilities of Intermediate or Terminal Carrier

For certain purposes a connecting carrier is the shipper's agent, with the rights, duties, and liabilities incident to that relationship.

A "delivering carrier" is a carrier who actually delivers the goods at their destination in contradistinction to a forwarding carrier, who is one that transports goods to the former.[38] The term "connecting carriers" is defined supra § 400. The connecting carrier is the shipper's agent in transporting the goods[39] and in arranging the contract for further shipment when it is apparent that a new contract will be required at an intermediate point in the carriage.[40] So the consignee's refusal to accept shipment of perishable goods because of their damaged condition creates an implied agency or trust, charging the terminal carrier with the duty to use all reasonable efforts to protect the consignor from loss.[41] A connecting carrier is under no duty when it receives the goods to give notice of a strike at the destination of the shipment;[42] nor is an intermediate carrier under any ment is liable under the Carmack amendment for delay in transit on other line of connecting carrier to a different destination, consented to by shipper on refusal of connecting carrier to proceed to original destination because of a nonlegal embargo issued by the stockyards at destination.—Miller v. Quincy, O. & K. C. R. Co, 225 S.W. 116, 205 Mo.App. 463.

Embargo

Where connecting carrier refused to deliver interstate shipment of sheep from Missouri at Chicago, because the stockyards there had issued an embargo against Missouri sheep on account of rumor of foot and mouth disease, which embargo was not a legal quarantine in sense of being ordered by the government, initial carrier was technically liable for the delay.—Miller v. Quincy, O. & K. C. R Co., 225 S.W. 116, 205 Mo App. 463.

Failure to reroute

Under the Carmack amendment an initial carrier is liable for delay resulting from failure of the connecting carrier to use reasonable diligence in forwarding a shipment over a different route when its own was not open.—Chicago, R. I. & P. R Co. v. Dawson, 248 S.W. 558, 157 Ark. 460.

Strike on connecting carriers' lines was held not to relieve initial carrier from liability for delay in interstate shipment of cattle.—Baker v. Nance Bros, Tex.Civ.App., 294 S.W. 290.

32. S.C.—Van Epps v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 89 S.E. 1035, 105 S.C. 406.
10 C.J. p 525 note 30

33. Miss.—Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Lyon, 66 So. 209, 107 Miss. 777.

34. Ark.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Miles, 123 S.W. 775, 124 S W 1043, 92 Ark. 573
Md.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. Sperber, 84 A. 72, 117 Md. 595.
Miss.—Southern Pac. R. Co. v. Lyon, 66 So. 209, 107 Miss. 777.

35. N.Y. — Wishnatzki v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 232 N Y S. 165, 225 App.Div. 62.

36. Mich.—Reason v Detroit, etc., R. Co., 113 N W 596, 150 Mich. 50.

37. N.Y.—Peugeot Auto Import Co. v. New York Cent R. Co., 173 N. Y.S. 455.

38. Ky.—Brunk v. Ohio, etc., R. Co, 105 S W. 443, 127 Ky. 304, 308.

39. Ohio. — Annin v. Cincinnati Northern R. Co., 153 N.E. 522, 22 Ohio App. 37.

40. Ill.—Macomber & Whyte Rope Co v. United Fruit Co., 225 Ill. App. 286.

41. Cal.—American Fruit Growers of California v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co., 238 P. 105, 72 Cal App. 682.
Iowa—E. H. Emery & Co. v. Chicago, B & Q. R. Co, 170 N.W. 540, 186 Iowa 1156, rehearing denied 173 N.W. 12, 186 Iowa 1156.

Direction to make proper disposal

Where terminal carrier, on receiving consignee's letter directing it to "make proper disposal" of carload of lettuce, rejected because of damaged condition, immediately proceeded to do so, agency was created requiring it to use all reasonable efforts and its best judgment in disposing of shipment.—American Fruit Growers of California v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co., 238 P. 105, 72 Cal. App. 682.

42. Ill.—Sexton v. Grand Trunk Western R Co., 260 Ill.App. 448.

Effect of independent knowledge

One suing a connecting carrier for delay in delivery of shipment due to its failure to notify plaintiff of railway switchmen's strike when the initial carrier delivered the shipment to it would not have benefited from such notice if it already had knowledge of existence of strike.—Sexton v. Grand Trunk Western R. Co., 260 Ill.App. 448.

duty either to decline traffic tendered it or to turn that traffic over to a competitor having the rate designated by the shipper, notwithstanding it cannot transport it according to such rate.[43] The local agent of the terminal carrier at destination is under no duty to notify the agent of the initial carrier at the point of transfer of the purpose for which the shipment was desired and of the result of a failure promptly to forward.[44] A truckman contracting to haul building materials from the place of delivery by an interstate carrier to the site of the construction steps into the place of the consignee charged with the duty of unloading.[45] It is beyond the scope of a carrier's business to adjust controversies between consignees of property shipped over another carrier, and the holders of bills of lading purporting to be those of such other carrier.[46]

§ 419. Duty to Receive and Transport Goods

A connecting carrier's duty to receive and transport goods is like that of the initial carrier.

The duty of an intermediate or terminal carrier to receive goods tendered for transportation by the preceding carrier is the same as that of the initial carrier to receive from the shipper goods for transportation on its own line,[47] and, where goods are tendered to a carrier by another carrier in lawful possession, it has a duty to accept and carry them, even though a different route be named.[48] If goods are tendered in such manner that the carrier is under obligation to receive them, it will be liable as any other carrier for refusing so to do.[49] The duty to receive and transport property is extended in some jurisdictions, as shown infra § 449 b, to require the connecting carrier to receive and transport over its lines suitable loaded cars of other companies.

Reasonable regulations and conditions may be imposed with reference to the acceptance of goods from another carrier,[50] however, and it has been held that no connecting carrier is bound to receive goods tendered to it for transportation if at the time they are not in fit condition for shipment,[51] and that it may, as a condition of receiving damaged goods, require indemnity against damages which may result from their condition.[52] So a carrier may refuse to receive goods for transportation when the goods will be exposed to peculiar and unusual dangers, such as a snowstorm of such violence as to tie up traffic,[53] or floods of such a character as fall within the legal definition of an act of God and which threaten the carrier's railroad tracks with inundation;[54] and the mere fact that the car containing the goods had been placed on a connecting carrier's track by the initial carrier does not affect the operation of this rule.[55] Furthermore, the carrier may refuse to take a shipment unless the shipper agrees to make it subject to delay on account of a bridge on its line being out.[56] That a connecting carrier is entitled to demand prepayment of its charges before receiving or accepting the goods from the preceding carrier is shown supra § 315 b.

After the goods are received by the carrier, its liability is that of common carrier of goods.[57] It then becomes the duty of the carrier to transport the goods to the end of its route with reasonable diligence and to exercise reasonable care for the preservation of the goods;[58] but this is the extent

43. Kan.—Goffee & Carkener v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 276 P. 834, 128 Kan. 245.

44. Tex.—Payne v. Reynolds, Civ. App., 239 S.W. 985.

45. Mich. — Rockwell v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 250 N. W. 515, 264 Mich. 626.

46. Ala.—National Park Bank of New York v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 74 So. 69, 199 Ala. 192.

47. U S —The No. 37, N.Y., 53 S.Ct. 328, 288 U.S. 239, 77 L.Ed. 721, reversing, C.C.A., The Car Float No 37, 57 F.2d 144, reversing, D C., The Talisman, 52 F.2d 691, and certiorari granted New York Cent R. Co v. The Talisman, 53 S.Ct. 85, 287 U S. 587, 77 L.Ed. 513.
10 C J. p 540 note 29.
Duty of a carrier to receive and transport goods generally see supra § 27.

Switching line railroad, organized for purpose of switching cars for other carriers, and maintaining spur for delivery of freight, was required to receive shipments of freight from all persons and to handle cars of all carriers under Interstate Commerce Act, although particular interstate railroad owned and operated the switching company through ownership of its stock.—Kansas City Southern Ry. Co. v. Ft Smith Suburban Ry. Co., 22 S.W.2d 21, 180 Ark. 492.

48. Ill.—Crane v. Taft, 203 Ill.App. 253.

49. Me.—Dunham v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 70 Me. 164, 35 Am.R. 314.
10 C.J. p 540 note 30.

50. N.C —Randall v. Richmond, etc., R. Co., 13 S.E. 137, 108 N.C. 612.
Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. A. B Frank Co., Civ.App., 48 S.W. 210.

51. Ga.—Paramore v. Western R. Co., 53 Ga. 383.
10 C.J. p 68 note 78.

52. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Frank, Civ.App., 48 S.W. 210—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Weisman, 21 S.W. 426, 2 Tex Civ.App. 486.

53. Mo.—Strother v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., App., 212 S.W. 404 —Gray v. Wabash R Co., 95 S.W. 983, 119 Mo.App. 144.

54. Mo.—Gray v. Wabash R. Co., supra.

55. Mo.—Strother v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., App., 212 S.W. 404.
10 C.J. p 67 note 72.

56. Mo.—Bowles v. Quincy, O. & K. C. R. Co., App., 187 S.W. 131.

57. N.Y.—Livingston v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co, 76 N.Y. 631.
10 C.J. p 540 note 31.

58. Pa.—Hinman Brothers v. Penn-of its duty, and it is bound only to forward the shipment with reasonable diligence.[59] However, until the goods are accepted by the connecting carrier, it does not become liable to the owner as a common carrier;[60] and, if the second carrier has taken custody of the goods but something remains to be done before they are forwarded, it is liable only as warehouseman.[61] The connecting carrier is required to take notice of the authority of the forwarding carrier at the time the goods are tendered to it for transportation.[62] Where a statute requires a connecting carrier to receive and transport all freight delivered to it by any other line, receiving goods from the initial carrier for transportation is not a ratification of the initial carrier's contract, but merely a compliance with the statute.[63]

The owner may change the destination of the goods by arrangement with the second carrier.[64]

A connecting carrier notified of the time a shipment of cattle would arrive, if within the time limit prescribed by statute as the maximum allowed for confining cattle without food, water, or rest, must receive them in the absence of notice to the shipper or initial carrier of insufficient pens.[65]

§ 420. Duty to Furnish Suitable Cars and Other Facilities

A connecting carrier is liable for damages resulting from its failure to provide suitable cars and other facilities, and this rule applies notwithstanding it used the same cars in which it received the goods from a connecting line.

A connecting carrier is bound to provide suitable cars and facilities for the transportation of goods intrusted to it for carriage and is liable for loss or injury resulting from its failure to do so.[66] As shown infra § 449 b, the connecting carrier is not bound to receive and transport cars which are not in a suitable condition for further transportation; nevertheless, if it does accept defective cars for transportation, it will be liable for loss or injury to the shipment sustained by reason of such defective condition, and it cannot relieve itself from damages resulting from a breach of its duty to furnish satisfactory and suitable cars by showing that it carried the goods in the same cars in which it received them from a connecting line,[67] or that goods of the kind damaged were customarily shipped in the unsuitable type of cars employed;[68] and, although the contrary view has been taken,[69] it has been held that it cannot avoid liability on the theory that it was under no duty to break the seals on the cars and examine the shipment when it was delivered to its line for transportation.[70] Where a carrier receives a car from a preceding carrier and undertakes to transport the goods in it, it thereby makes the car a part of its own agency and means of transportation and is liable to the same extent as though the car were its own.[71] sylvania R. Co., 5 Pa.Dist. & Co. 182.

10 C.J. p 540 note 32.

59. Tex.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Kapp, 83 S.W. 233, 37 Tex.Civ. App. 203.

60. Mo.—Strother v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., App., 212 S.W. 404.
10 C.J. p 540 note 34.

61. Mass.—Judson v. Western R. Corp., 4 Allen 520, 81 Am.D. 718.

62. Ohio.—Maynard Coal Co. v. Chicago, K. & S. Ry. Co., 4 Ohio App. 459.

63. Tex.—Ponder v. Crenwelge, Civ. App., 203 S.W. 1125, reversed on other grounds Crenwelge v. Ponder, Com.App., 228 S.W. 145.

64. Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Council Bros., 136 S.E. 418, 163 Ga. 494, 61 A.L.R. 1304—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Council Bros., 137 S.E. 569, 36 Ga.App. 573.
10 C.J. p 540 note 37.

65. La.—Jennings v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 134 So. 694, 172 La. 522.

66. Ga.—Sperry Flour Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 189 S.E. 278, 54 Ga.App. 725.
Iowa.—E. H. Emery & Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 170 N.W. 540, 186 Iowa 1156, rehearing denied 173 N.W. 12, 186 Iowa 1156.
N.C.—Aydlett v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 89 S.E. 1000, 172 N.C. 47.
10 C.J. p 86 note 29-p 122 note 36 [b] (2).

67. Ga.—Sperry Flour Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 189 S.E. 278, 54 Ga.App. 725.
Mass.—Bonfiglio v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 198 N.E. 236.
Mich.—H. Ginsberg & Sons v. Wabash R. Co., 189 N.W. 1018, 219 Mich. 665, 28 A.L.R. 518, affirmed Ginsberg v. Wabash R. Co., 193 N.W. 286, 222 Mich. 560.
Minn.—Geo. B. Higgins & Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 161 N.W. 145, 135 Minn. 402, L.R.A.1917C 507.
10 C.J. p 90 note 70 [a], p 540 note 41.

Statutory joint liability

In view of a statute providing that, on proof made by shipper that property has been destroyed or damaged in transit between place of shipment and place of destination, the liability of the common carrier attaches to all defendants, and judgment shall be entered against all unless one or more prove that it was not liable, in an action for damages to a shipment of seed peas, notwithstanding a finding that the failure of the receiving carrier to furnish a proper car was the proximate cause of the damage, in the absence of proof to the contrary, the connecting carrier must be held jointly liable with the receiving carrier.—Feelyater v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 190 N.W. 193, 178 Wis. 362.

68. Mass.—Bonfiglio v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 198 N.E. 236.

69. Tex.—Davis v. Standard Rice Co., Civ.App., 293 S.W. 593.

Leak discoverable only from inside

A carrier is not liable for injury from a leak of a sealed car in which it received a shipment from another road, the leak being discoverable only by inspection from the inside, it not being required or authorized to break the seal for such purpose.—Davis v. Standard Rice Co., Tex.Civ. App., 293 S.W. 593.

70. Ga.—Sperry Flour Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 189 S.E. 278, 54 Ga.App. 725.

71. Iowa.—E. H. Emery & Co. v.

The liability of the carrier is not an absolute one, however, but results only in case of its failure to exercise due care, skill, or diligence. Such liability rests on negligence, some fault on its part, as its failure properly to inspect the vehicles before continuing the shipment,[72] and it is not liable for injuries resulting from a defect which was unknown to it and not discoverable on reasonable inspection.[73] Furthermore, apparent limitations of the rule have been announced in the case of cars of the initial carrier used for shipments under contracts for through transportation,[74] or for shipments of fruit,[75] especially where such cars are accompanied by messengers of the initial carrier.[76]

A carrier receiving from another carrier cattle for shipment is liable for injuries to the cattle caused by placing them in pens without shelter and too small to accommodate them properly, and allowing them to remain therein for a day in the sun without food or water, although it may not be liable for not holding a train for the cattle;[77] and, where the shipper informed the agent of a connecting carrier before delivery of the cattle to the connecting carrier that such carrier's stockyard was infected, the information was sufficient to put the carrier on inquiry as to the condition of its yard, rendering it negligence on its part to unload the shipment in such yard for feeding and watering, as required by the federal statute, without investigation.[78]

§ 421. Care of Goods in Transit

It is the duty of a connecting carrier to exercise reasonable care to protect a shipment from injury during transportation.

As heretofore shown, §§ 61–62, it is the duty of the carrier when goods of a perishable nature are accepted by it for shipment to see that its cars are properly ventilated in transit, and also to see that the cars are kept reasonably cool, if the goods are of a character which require it. This rule ordinarily applies to connecting carriers as well as to initial carriers, where they accept for transportation cars of another company whose contents require ventilation and refrigeration,[79] and Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 170 N.W. 540, 186 Iowa 1156, rehearing denied 173 N.W. 12, 186 Iowa 1156.

Mich.—H. Ginsberg & Sons v. Wabash R. Co., 189 N.W. 1018, 219 Mich. 665, 28 A.L.R. 518, affirmed Ginsberg v. Wabash R. Co., 193 N.W. 286, 222 Mich. 560.

Minn.—Geo. B. Higgins & Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 161 N.W. 145, 135 Minn. 402, L.R.A.1917C 507.

10 C.J. p 87 note 30, p 90 note 70 [a], p 541 note 46.

72. Minn.—Geo. B. Higgins & Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., supra.

73. Ill.—Golden Grain Milling Co. v. St. Louis, S. & P. R. Co., 226 Ill. App. 116.

Tex.—Davis v. Standard Rice Co., Civ.App., 293 S.W. 593.

Salty condition of car bottoms

Where potatoes in sacks were injured because bottoms of cars in which they were shipped were permeated with salt, connecting carrier was not liable where by reasonable inspection it could not discover unfitness of cars.—Geo. B. Higgins & Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 161 N.W. 145, 135 Minn. 402, L.R.A.1917C 507.

74. N.Y.—Blount v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 119 N.Y.S. 65.

10 C.J. p 540 note 43.

75. Iowa.—E. H. Emery & Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 170 N.W. 540, 543, 186 Iowa 1156, rehearing denied 173 N.W. 12, 186 Iowa 1156.

10 C.J. p 540 note 44.

"Counsel for appellant vigorously argues that the defendant is liable for such damages as may have resulted from the shipment of the peaches in meat cars over its lines, that it was bound to furnish suitable and properly equipped cars to insure reasonable protection to the fruit en route, and that by continuing the shipment in meat cars, it adapted the same as its own, and, therefore, [is] liable for any damages resulting from the use thereof. While the duty rests upon the carrier to provide cars and other means reasonably proper and fit for the transportation of perishable goods, no court, so far as we are aware, has ever held that it is incumbent upon the carrier to have on hand, at junction points, refrigerator fruit cars properly cooled, ready to receive the contents of meat cars improperly used by an initial carrier. To so hold would impose a duty manifestly impossible of performance."—E. H. Emery & Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., supra.

76. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Rackusin, Civ.App., 145 S.W. 734.

10 C.J. p 541 note 45.

77. Tex.—Andrews v. McGill, Civ. App., 179 S.W. 1087.

78. Ala.—Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Farrell, 70 So. 986, 14 Ala.App. 380

79. Iowa.—E. H. Emery & Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 170 N.W. 540, 186 Iowa 1156, rehearing denied 173 N.W. 12, 186 Iowa 1156.

N.Y.—Bobzein v. New York Cent. R. Co., 176 N.Y.S. 407, 187 App.Div. 767.

10 C.J. p 541 note 50.

Duty to re-ice

The delivering carrier's failure to re-ice a car of bananas, received by it with knowledge that there was no messenger in charge, on the second day after the last icing, constituted negligence, making it liable for resulting damages, unless relieved of the duty to re-ice by the terms of the bill of lading, such carrier being authorized by its tariff to re-ice the car in the usual way; and, hence, where the messenger, without notice to the consignor or consignee, had left the train without leaving directions for re-icing, the carrier was not relieved from liability for damage from its failure to do so, without having tried to procure instructions from the owner in accordance with ordinary procedure.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. George E. Shelton Produce Co., 291 S.W. 428, 172 Ark. 1017.

Extent of duty

(1) If goods in a refrigerator car are sound when a carrier takes them from an initial carrier, its whole duty is fulfilled if and when it thoroughly re-ices the car as reasonably necessary, and with fair diligence takes proper care of it over its line.—Daniels v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 171 P. 1178, 88 Or. 421.

(2) A connecting or terminal carrier, handling an interstate shipment of perishable fruit, under ordinary circumstances, need not examine it to see if the method of protection, whether by refrigeration or ventilation, chosen and contracted for by shipper, is proving effective, with a the carrier must obey the contract set forth in the bill of lading unless some unusual occurrence not within the reasonable contemplation of the contract has made it impossible or unreasonable to attempt to do so;[80] but a connecting carrier that had received fruit cars which had been loaded by the consignor at the time of shipment over the initial carrier's line, and which were accompanied by messengers whose duty it was to attend to the heating of the cars, was held not liable for the failure to keep the cars at the proper temperature.[81] A terminal carrier, although having the right to unload a shipment at the place where it was unloaded, does not have the right to unload in a negligent manner.[82]

In harmony with the general rules stated supra §§ 63-66, it is the duty of a connecting carrier of live stock to handle the shipment with a reasonable degree of care and caution.[83] Under a statute prohibiting a carrier of stock from confining the same for longer than a specified time without food and water, the connecting carrier must take notice of the length of time the animals have been confined by the previous carrier,[84] and if the time limit expires while in the custody of the connecting carrier it must comply with the statute; otherwise it is guilty of negligence per se.[85] If an intermediate carrier's violation of the statute is continued by the terminal carrier, the latter is also liable.[86] Although the shipping contract requires the shipper to care for live stock shipped, his duty therein ceases when the connecting carrier prevents him from further accompanying the shipment;[87] and a connecting carrier may not urge as an excuse for its negligent failure to care for the stock that such duty was assumed by the shipper when the initial carrier refused to allow the shipper to accompany the stock and the connecting carrier knew it was unaccompanied;[88] nor will a contractual provision that any expense incurred by the carrier in caring for the animals should be collected from the consignee relieve the connecting carrier of liability for negligence.[89]

§ 422. Duty to Follow Routing Instructions

Connecting carriers are bound to follow routing instructions and are liable for losses resulting when they fail to do so.

As heretofore shown in § 45, it is the duty of the initial carrier to follow the routing instructions given by the shipper, and a failure to observe such instructions will render him liable for any loss directly resulting therefrom. Likewise, a connecting carrier, in receiving freight under a contract of shipment over several specified lines, owes a contract duty to the shipper not to divert the freight without the shipper's consent, and if there is a breach of duty in this respect such carrier will be liable for any loss which occurs during[90] or as a result of[91] the deviation. It is not view to changing the methods contracted for, if it reasonably deemed that substituting another method would be more effective, and where grapes were shipped in a refrigerator car, using the ventilation process, and, on delivery to the terminal carrier, it inspected the car as to its external condition and likewise at destination, and there was nothing that would have justified it in failing to observe the requirements of the bill of lading, it was not liable for negligence—Cassone v. New York, N. H & H. R. Co., 123 A. 280, 100 Conn. 262

80. Conn.—Cassone v. New York, N H. & H. R. Co., supra.

81. Tex—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Rackusin, Civ App., 145 S.W. 734.

82. Ark—Missouri Pac. R Co. v. Wellborn & Walls, 280 S.W. 18, 170 Ark. 469, certiorari denied Missouri Pac. R Co. v. Wellborn, 47 S Ct 91, 273 U.S. 694, 71 L.Ed. 844

83. Tex—Kansas City, M. & O. Ry Co. of Texas v. Corn, Civ.App., 186 S W. 807.

10 C J. p 89 note 54 [b].

Failure to follow instructions

In action against connecting carrier for damages to interstate shipment of mules, defendant would be liable for consequences of its negligent failure to observe directions given by plaintiff to unload in certain stockyards for feed, water and rest.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry Co. v. Jenkins, Tex.Civ App., 196 S.W. 679, error refused.

Duty to unload and reload

Under a statute making connecting lines the agents of each other, and making the contract of either with the shipper the contract of each, it was the duty of both connecting carriers to unload and reload a shipment of cattle at the connecting point, if they should have been unloaded there in order to rest, feed and water them. —Galveston, etc., R Co. v. Jones, Tex Civ App., 123 S W. 737.

84. Iowa—Heisel v. Minneapolis & St L. R. Co., 171 N W 1177, 185 Iowa 835

10 C J. p 100 note 98, p 540 note 38

Corpus Juris is cited and its statement of the rule of the text approved and followed in Lynn v. Mellon, 131 So 458, 460, 24 Ala.App. 144.

85. Ala.—Lynn v. Mellon, supra.

La.—Jennings v. Missouri Pac. R. Co, 134 So. 694, 172 La. 522.

86. Ala—Lynn v Mellon, 131 So. 458, 24 Ala.App. 144.

87. Ala—Lynn v. Mellon, supra.

88. Ind.—Chicago, I & L Ry. Co. v. Priddy, 115 N.E 266, 65 Ind.App. 552

89. Ind.—Chicago, I. & L Ry. Co. v. Priddy, supra.

90. Mass.—Saxon Mills v. New York, etc, R. Co, 101 N.E 1075, 214 Mass. 383

10 C J. p 129 note 82.

91. Mich.—Van Keulen & Winchester Lumber Co. v Manistee & N. E R. Co., 193 N.W. 289, 222 Mich. 682

Omission of intermediate stop

Failure to stop shipment of lumber at B, an intermediate point on the line of the connecting carrier for kiln-drying, as directed by instruction across the face of bill of lading and waybill, was held not the fault of the initial carrier, but of the connecting carrier, which deviated from the specified route; and the connecting carrier was accordingly held limaterial to a connecting carrier's liability for diverting goods from the route specified that the change involved no greater expense or delay, nor greater risk of loss, so far as could be seen in advance, nor can the connecting carrier justify its breach in diverting a shipment by setting up shipping directions received from the prior carrier;[92] a shipper not a party to a waybill made by and for the convenience of connecting carriers is not bound by it.[93] Furthermore, the connecting carrier's liability is not affected by the fact that other carriers forming a part of the line over which the goods were routed might also be liable under the bill of lading.[94] Where a shipment routed over specified connecting lines is diverted by the first two carriers without authority to a line not included in the contract, and that line received the shipment without sufficient shipping instructions, the three carriers are jointly and severally liable for loss resulting to the shipment.[95]

A terminal carrier, not being a party to the contract of routing, is ordinarily not liable for damages resulting from improper routing by the initial carrier.[96] Where a terminal carrier over whose line goods were billed as part of a dispatch route never received the goods by reason of a wrongful diversion thereof by a prior carrier, it is not liable for loss caused by such diversion.[97]

§ 423. Duty to Deliver to Succeeding Carrier

It is the duty of an intermediate carrier at the end of its route to deliver the goods to the next carrier or notify it of their arrival and if acceptance is refused to notify the consignor or consignee.

As between intermediate carriers, the duty of the one in possession at the end of his route is to deliver the goods to the succeeding carrier or to notify him of their arrival;[98] and the former is not relieved of responsibility by unloading the goods at the end of his route and storing them in his warehouse without delivery or notice to, or any attempt to deliver to, his successor.[99] The duty to make delivery to the succeeding carrier is not affected by the fact that no formal bill of lading or shipping contract had been executed.[1] If acceptance is refused, the carrier should notify the consignor or the consignee without unreasonable delay and should store, or otherwise take care of, the goods while awaiting instructions, and, having done this, the liability of the carrier, as such, will cease, and the liability of a warehouseman will be substituted.[2] Where, by the express terms of the contract the inland transportation of a shipment consigned to a foreign country is completed by storing the goods in a warehouse pending arrival of the vessel to complete the transportation, the liability of the last railroad carrier is that of a warehouseman.[3] Where the contract of carriage has been performed, and the terminal carrier's relationship to the goods becomes that of warehouseman, the obligation of the carrier, if any, to deliver to another carrier in obedience to instructions of the shipper, is that of a forwarder, and not of a carrier.[4]

Where a railroad company has, by building stockyards, or by contract with a stockyards company, made adequate provision for the discharge of its duty as a common carrier with respect to live stock shipped over its line to a city, it is not required by the common law to make delivery of able notwithstanding its contention that instead of a through billing, there should have been a local billing to B, with a second billing, after drying, to point of destination.—Van Keulen & Winchester Lumber Co. v. Manistee & N. E. R. Co., 193 N.W. 289, 222 Mich. 682.

92. Mass.—Saxon Mills v. New York, etc., R Co., 101 N.E. 1075, 214 Mass. 383.

93. Tex.—Quanah, A & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren, Civ.App., 198 S.W. 814.

94. Mass.—Saxon Mills v. New York, etc., R Co, 101 N.E. 1075, 214 Mass. 383.

95. Tenn.—Drake v Nashville, etc., R. Co., 148 S.W. 214, 125 Tenn. 627.

96. Tex.—Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Buchanan, Civ.App., 84 S.W. 1073. 10 C.J. p 541 note 55.

97. Mass.—Saxon Mills v. New York, etc., R. Co., 101 N.E. 1075, 214 Mass. 383.

98. U.S.—The No. 37, N.Y., 53 S.Ct. 328, 288 U.S. 239, 77 L.Ed. 721, reversing, C.C.A., The Car Float No. 37, 57 F.2d 144, reversing, D.C., The Talisman, 52 F.2d 691, and certiorari granted New York Cent. R Co. v. The Talisman, 53 S.Ct. 85, 287 U.S. 587, 77 L.Ed. 513
Tex.—Quanah, A & P. Ry Co. v. Warren, Civ.App., 184 S.W. 232.
10 C.J. p 541 note 58

Delivery or tender of delivery

Each succeeding carrier must make delivery or at least tender of delivery to the next carrier to relieve itself from further obligation.—Mallory S. S. Co. v. Garfield, C.C.A.N.Y., 10 F.2d 664, certiorari denied Garfield v. Mallory S. S Co., 47 S.Ct. 97, 273 U.S. 703, 71 L.Ed. 848.

99. W.Va.—Lewis v. Chesapeake, etc., R. Co., 35 S.E. 908, 47 W.Va. 656, 81 Am.S.R. 816.
10 C.J. p 541 note 58.

1. Mass.—Saxon Mills v New York, etc., R. Co., 101 N.E. 1075, 214 Mass. 383.

2. U.S.—Buston v. Pennsylvania R Co., Pa., 119 F. 808, 56 C.C.A. 320, affirming, C.C., 116 F. 235, and certiorari denied 23 S.Ct. 850, 189 U. S. 511, 47 L.Ed. 923.

3. La.—Coate Bros. v New Orleans Terminal Co., 72 So. 678, 139 La. 958.

4. Va.—Jennings Automatic Dump Body v. Virginian Ry. Co., 119 S.E. 147, 137 Va. 207.

stock consigned to such city to connecting roads for delivery at other stockyards therein.[5]

§ 424. Liability for Loss or Injury

a. Carrier liable for loss or injury on its own line

b. Carrier liable only for loss or injury on its own line

a. Carrier Liable for Loss or Injury on Its Own Line

(1) In general

(2) Effect of through contract of initial carrier

(3) Effect of federal legislation

(1) In General

Each intermediate or terminal carrier is responsible for actionable damage occurring on its own line.

Subject to the defenses discussed generally supra § 75 et seq,[6] intermediate and terminal carriers are each responsible for loss or damage occurring on its own line[7] or while the goods are in possession of another carrier acting merely as

5. U.S.—Central Stock Yards Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., Ky., 118 F. 113, 55 C.C.A. 63, 63 L.R.A. 213, affirmed 24 S.Ct. 339, 192 U.S. 568, 48 L.Ed. 565.

6. Fault of shipper or consignee

(1) Negligence of shipper in loading goods to be carried in interstate commerce is a good defense in an action against terminal carrier for damages—M. C. Johnson Motor Co. v. Payne, 107 S.E. 252, 116 S.C. 171.

Contra Walter v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 39 So. 87, 142 Ala. 474—McCarthy v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 14 So. 370, 102 Ala. 193, 48 Am.S.R. 29—10 C.J. p. 542 note 69.

(2) So the terminal carrier is not liable for value of potato shipment, sold when shipment was not called for and the consignor refused to give disposal orders.—McCarthy v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 97 Pa.Super. 570.

Fraud

Where connecting carrier, pursuant to single contract of shipment, placed car of silver ore on siding for sampling by shipper's agent, consented to removal of ore from car for sampling, left car to be reloaded when sampling process was finished, and knew upon reloading that there was a shortage in the number of bags, and where carrier under like conditions temporarily delivered considerable ore for sampling, the separation of silver metallics or nuggets from other ore and placing them in the car was not a fraud on the carrier, releasing it from liability for loss of the silver by theft, such carrier being chargeable with notice of process of sampling, and being bound by knowledge of its agent acquired in receipting for ore.—Siebert v. Erie R. Co., 179 N.Y.S. 136, 189 App.Div. 586.

Freezing

A connecting carrier is not liable for damage to perishable goods though it delayed the shipment where freezing was the proximate cause of the damage, and would have occurred had there been no delay.—Mount Arbor Nurseries v. New York, C. & St. L. R. Co., 273 S.W. 410, 217 Mo.App. 31.

Seizure of goods

(1) Seizure of goods by customs authorities in a foreign port excuses the connecting carrier for failure to deliver them to the consignee.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Evans, 157 S.E. 313, 172 Ga. 53, answers to certified questions conformed to 159 S.E. 877, 43 Ga.App. 633.

(2) Seizure of goods under legal process as excuse for nondelivery generally see supra §§ 187–189.

7. U.S.—Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S.Ct. 342, 285 U.S. 127, 76 L.Ed. 659, affirming Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co., 36 S.W.2d 985, 122 Tex. 1, certiorari granted Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S.Ct. 41, 285 U.S. 608, 76 L.Ed. 521, and affirming Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co., Com.App., 25 S.W.2d 588, which reversed Galveston Wharf Co. v. American Grocery Co., Civ.App., 13 S.W.2d 983.

Ala.—Lynn v. Mellon, 114 So. 680, 217 Ala. 75—Southern Ry. Co. v. J. H. White Mercantile Co., 93 So. 395, 207 Ala. 520—James v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 81 So. 582, 202 Ala. 640—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Johnson, 88 So. 925, 18 Ala.App. 691.

Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. George E. Shelton Produce Co., 291 S.W. 428, 172 Ark. 1017.

Iowa.—Erisman v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 163 N.W. 627, 180 Iowa 759.

Ky.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Avey, 191 S.W. 460, 173 Ky. 598.

Minn.—Hansen-Peterson Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 205 N.W. 605, 165 Minn. 43.

Mo.—Conley v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 183 S.W. 1111, 192 Mo.App. 534.

N.Y.—Siebert v. Erie R. Co., 179 N.Y.S. 136, 189 App.Div. 586—Emil Grossman Mfg. Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 169 N.Y.S. 213, 181 App.Div. 764—American Cotton Products Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 255 N.Y.S. 672, 142 Misc. 821.

S.C.—Barwick v. Northwestern R. Co. for South Carolina, 104 S.E. 545, 115 S.C. 123.

Tex.—Beaumont, S. L. & W. R. Co. v. Farmers' Co-Op. Sweet Potato Curing Co. of Rosepine, La., Civ. App., 298 S.W. 454.

10 C.J. p. 541 note 62

Corpus Juris is quoted and cited with approval.

Ky.—Makeever v. Georgia Southern & F. Ry. Co., 294 S.W. 144, 149, 219 Ky. 699.

Wis.—Bassett v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 171 N.W. 749, 751, 168 Wis. 617, rehearing denied 171 N.W. 752, 168 Wis. 617.

Fault of initial carrier

Where steel rails were shipped under a nonnegotiable bill of lading in which the shipper was named both as consignor and consignee, the shipper attaching a draft against the purchaser of the rails to the bill of lading and forwarding it to a bank, and also sending to the purchaser a copy of a carrier's certificate of weights, and the carrier delivered the shipment to a connecting carrier without notifying it of the outstanding bill of lading, and the connecting carrier allowed the rails to be loaded on a steamer for export under orders of the initial carrier, the connecting carrier was liable to the shipper for conversion, notwithstanding it had acted as agent of the initial carrier, which itself was a wrongdoer and could not authorize delivery of the shipment to any one except the true owner, but the connecting carrier was, as between itself and the initial carrier secondarily liable, since the initial carrier, to perform its duty of carriage chose the connecting carrier as its agency, and the connecting carrier was bound only to deliver according to directions given it by the initial carrier. In such case the steamship company which received the property from the connecting carrier under the belief that it belonged to another than the true owner, because of the failure of the initial carrier to comply with its duty, was an innocent sufferer by the neglect of the initial carrier, and as between it and such carrier was not liable in an action by the shipper—Pacific Car & Foundry Co. v. North-its agent;[8] and a connecting carrier in possession of the goods at the time of the loss is not entitled to escape liability upon the ground that it was acting as the agent of another carrier.[9] So the fact that each acts in the transportation as the agent of the contracting carrier furnishes no legal reason why it should not be held liable.[10] If all the damages occurred on the line of one of the connecting carriers, the whole amount is recoverable from it.[11] Where by reason of the negern Pac. Ry. Co., 212 P. 159, 123 Wash 98.

Liability as insurer

In the ordinary shipment of inanimate objects without an inherent vice, in absence of a contract to the contrary, the terminal carrier is an insurer, except as to injuries by the act of God or the public enemy, and responsible for injury to such objects occurring on its line without regard to negligence—Cassone v. New York, N H & H. R. Co., 123 A. 280, 100 Conn. 262.

Nondelivery

Consignee who proved delivery to connecting carrier was entitled to recover for nondelivery if connecting carrier failed to deliver—Louisiana & N. W. R Co. v. J. P. Machen & Co., 294 S.W. 714, 174 Ark. 122.

Wrongful detention

Where the shipper gave proper directions for the shipment of the goods, but the shipment miscarried as a result of the initial carrier's negligence, the initial carrier in that respect was the agent of the terminal carrier, and the shipper can recover from the terminal carrier in detinue for wrongful detention of the goods. —Louisville & N. R. Co. v. James, 86 So 906, 204 Ala. 604—Johnson v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co, 81 So 584, 202 Ala. 642—James v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co, 81 So. 582, 202 Ala. 640—Louisville & N. R. Co v. Johnson, 88 So. 925, 18 Ala.App. 691.

Acceptance of delayed delivery

Connecting carrier, by accepting delayed delivery of cattle from initial carrier, assumes all liability for the shipment.—Jennings v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 134 So. 694, 172 La. 522.

8. U.S.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Reynolds-Davis Grocery Co, 45 S. Ct. 516, 268 U.S. 366, 69 L.Ed. 1000, affirming 257 S W. 70, 161 Ark. 579.
Ga.—Southern Ry Co. v. Waxelbaum Produce Co, 90 S E 987, 19 Ga.App 64.
Tex.—Texarkana & Ft. S. Ry. Co. v. Brass, Com.App, 260 S.W. 828, affirming, Civ.App., 245 S W. 457, rehearing overruled, Com.App, 262 S. W. 737—Rio Grande, E P. & S. F. R. Co v. Kraft & Madero, Civ.App., 212 S W. 981, dismissed for want of juridiction.
Wash.—Leddy v. Great Northern Ry. Co, 210 P. 354, 122 Wash. 136.

Switching carrier

(1) Where defendant intermediate carrier undertook to deliver two carloads of mules to a certain point, and neither the shipping contract nor the waybills made any mention of a switching company employed to switch the cars from the end of defendant's line to the connecting carrier, defendant was liable for the negligence of the switching company in confining the mules too long without food and water, since, under the circumstances, the switching company was agent for the carrier.—Leddy v. Great Northern Ry. Co, 210 P. 354, 122 Wash. 136.

(2) The mere fact that after arrival of shipment at destination over line of defendant, it was delivered to consignee by another railroad, was held not to make the latter road the last carrier, in view of other facts in case—Southern Ry. Co. v. Waxelbaum Produce Co., 90 S.E. 987, 19 Ga. App. 64.

(3) So a railroad, designated in through bill of lading as the last of the connecting carriers, is liable, as delivering carrier, for loss of a portion of the goods sustained while car was in possession of switching carrier employed by last connecting carrier to switch car from point on its line within city designated in bill of lading, as point of destination, to consignee's warehouse within such city, since such switching carrier was not named in bill of lading, did not receive any part of joint through rate, and was simply agent of other carrier for purpose of delivery—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Reynolds-Davis Grocery Co., 45 S.Ct. 516, 268 U. S 366, 69 L.Ed. 1000, affirming 257 S.W. 70, 161 Ark. 579.

(4) Under these circumstances it was said that although the other railroad switched the car at its destination to the consignee's door, under a switching arrangement whereby it received payment according to interstate commerce commission tariff rules, the application of such rules did not make the switching carrier liable for goods lost, under the interstate liability rule—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Reynolds-Davis Grocery Co., 257 S W. 70, 161 Ark. 579, certiorari granted 44 S.Ct. 636, 265 U.S. 577, 68 L.Ed. 1188, and affirmed 45 S.Ct. 516, 268 U S. 366, 69 L.Ed 1000.

Truckman

In an action by an initial carrier against connecting carriers for property lost, where a connecting carrier employed a truckman to transport goods from the intermediate carrier to its piers, it is as responsible for the acts of the truckman and his employees in dealing with the property delivered to them as though such acts were those of its own officers.—Hill Steamboat Line v. New York Cent & H R R Co., 158 N.Y.S. 1084, 94 Misc. 118, modified on other grounds Hill Steamboat Line v. Panama R. Co., 160 N.Y.S. 1103, 97 Misc. 22.

9. U.S.—Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H & S. A. Ry Co, 52 S Ct. 342, 285 U S. 127, 76 L Ed. 659, affirming Galveston, H. & S A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co. 36 S. W 2d 985, 122 Tex. 1, certiorari granted Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co, 52 S Ct. 41, 285 U.S. 608, 76 L Ed. 521, and affirming Galveston, H. & S A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co, Com App., 25 S W.2d 588, which reversed Galveston Wharf Co. v. American Grocery Co, Civ.App., 13 S W 2d 983.

Cases distinguished

"The case of Missouri Pacific R. Co v. Reynolds-Davis Grocery Co., Ark., 45 S.Ct. 516, 268 U.S. 366, 69 L.Ed. 1000, upon which the petitioners rely, is not in point. There, the Missouri Pacific, the delivering carrier named in the bill of lading, had employed the St. Louis-San Francisco to perform a switching service in making the required delivery at the place of destination. The court held that the Missouri Pacific was the delivering carrier and was liable as such; it could not defeat that liability by the employment of an agent for service at the terminal. In the present case, the wharf company was the connecting carrier in possession of the goods at the time of the loss, and was responsible accordingly."—Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S A. Ry. Co, 52 S.Ct 342, 344, 285 U.S. 127, 76 L.Ed. 659, affirming Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v American Grocery Co., 36 S W.2d 985, 122 Tex. 1, certiorari granted Galveston Wharf Co v. Galveston, H. & S A. Ry Co., 52 S.Ct. 41, 285 U.S 608, 76 L Ed 521, and affirming Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co, Com.App., 25 S.W.2d 588, which reversed Galveston Wharf Co v. American Grocery Co., Civ.App., 13 S W.2d 983.

10. Ky.—Makeever v. Georgia Southern & F. Ry. Co., 294 S.W. 144, 219 Ky. 699.
10 C.J. p 542 note 63.

11. Ky.—Makeever v. Georgia Southern & F Ry. Co., supra.
10 C.J. p 542 note 64.

ligence of each carrier damages occur on each line, the carriers are jointly and severally liable for the whole damage, and the whole damage suffered may be recovered from either,[12] although there is some authority to the contrary.[13] The fact that a shipment of goods has been injured by connecting carriers before being turned over to the terminal carrier does not relieve the latter from using ordinary care to avoid further injury to it; and if by the lack of ordinary care it does further injure the merchandise it will be liable for such further injury.[14] A connecting carrier, guilty of negligently handling cattle received from the initial carrier is liable for the injuries caused thereby, although the initial carrier was negligent in delaying the delivery of the cattle and thus prevented the connecting carrier from taking them out on its first train.[15] The connecting carrier is in no way affected, however, by an admission in the initial carrier's receipt showing delivery to the carrier in good order.[16]

In the absence of statutory provisions to the contrary, a carrier whose tracks were used by the delivering carrier and which had no other connection with the carriage is not liable for injuries to a shipment caused by the delivering carrier.[17]

(2) Effect of Through Contract of Initial Carrier

That the initial carrier makes a through contract of carriage does not ordinarily affect the liability of connecting carriers.

It is very generally held in the United States that the fact that the initial carrier makes a contract of through shipment with the shipper will not prevent the shipper from suing a connecting carrier for loss or injury sustained on its own line,[18] its liability being fixed by the applicable valid terms of the original bill;[19] and except in a few cases, most of which have been overruled or disapproved,[20] the rule laid down by the courts of England and Canada that, where the initial carrier has made such a contract there can be no recovery for loss or injury as against any but the initial carrier in the absence of a partnership agreement between the carriers[21] has never obtained any foothold in this country. While it is held in some decisions, as shown infra

12. Ky.—Makeever v. Georgia Southern & F. Ry. Co., supra.
Wis.—Bassett v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 171 N.W. 749, 168 Wis. 617, rehearing denied 171 N.W. 752, 168 Wis. 617.
10 C.J. p 542 note 65.

Citing Corpus Juris, the rule of the text has been approved and applied in Bassett v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 171 N.W. 749, 751, 168 Wis. 617, rehearing denied 171 N.W. 752, 168 Wis. 617.

Mistreatment of live stock

Where racing mare, shipped over two railroads, was deprived of proper feed and water, mistreatment being partly attributable to first as well as to second railroad which handled her, second railroad was nevertheless liable for whole damage; the two having been joint tort-feasors.—Bassett v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 171 N.W. 749, 168 Wis. 617, rehearing denied 171 N.W. 752, 168 Wis. 617—10 C.J. p 542 note 65 [a].

13. Ga.—Seaboard Air-Line R. Co. v. Friedman, 57 S.E. 778, 128 Ga. 316
10 C.J. p 542 note 66.

14. Ala.—Lynn v. Mellon, 114 So 630, 217 Ala. 75
Mass.—Northern Industrial Chemical Co. v. Davis, 144 N.E. 64, 249 Mass 246.
Tex.—Beaumont, S. L. & W. R Co v. Farmers' Co-op. Sweet Potato Curing Co. of Rosepine, Pa., Civ. App., 298 S.W. 454.
10 C.J. p 542 note 67.

Issuance of clean bill

Terminal carrier was free to refuse leaky shipment of castor oil, if not satisfied with condition of lading, and, having accepted it and issued clean bill of lading, it assumed usual obligations of carrier—Northern Industrial Chemical Co v. Davis, 144 N.E. 64, 249 Mass. 246.

15. Tex.—Andrews v. McGill, Civ. App., 179 S.W. 1087.

16. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Kelly, Civ App, 74 S W. 343.
10 C J. p 192 note 36.

17. Ohio.—Erie R. Co. v. Bender, Streibig & Co., 163 N.E. 50, 29 Ohio App. 262.

18. U.S.—Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S. Ct. 342, 285 U.S. 127, 76 L.Ed. 659, affirming Galveston, H. & S. A Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co, 36 S W.2d 985, 122 Tex. 1, certiorari granted Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry Co., 52 S Ct. 41, 285 U.S. 608, 76 L.Ed. 521, and affirming Galveston, H & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co., Com.App., 25 S W.2d 588, which reversed Galveston Wharf Co. v. American Grocery Co, Civ.App, 13 S.W.2d 983.
N C.—Reidsville Paper Box Co. v. Southern Ry, 99 S E. 23, 177 N.C. 351
10 C.J. p 542 note 74, p 543 note 75.

19. U S.—Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H & S. A. Ry. Co, 52 S Ct 342, 285 U.S. 127, 76 L.Ed. 659, affirming Galveston, H. & S A. Ry Co v. American Grocery Co, 36 S.W 2d 985, 122 Tex. 1, certiorari granted Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S Ct 41, 285 U S 608, 76 L Ed. 521, and affirming Galveston, H. & S A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co., Com.App, 25 S.W.2d 588, which reversed Galveston Wharf Co. v. American Grocery Co., Civ.App., 13 S W.2d 983.

Tariff provision unavailing

Provision in tariff filed by the connecting carrier, that it should be liable only for negligence does not affect its liability to a shipper entitled to transportation of goods under the through bill of lading pursuant to which the carrier performed the service.—Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H & S A. Ry Co, 52 S. Ct 342, 285 U S 127, 76 L.Ed. 659, affirming Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v American Grocery Co, 36 S W. 2d 985, 122 Tex. 1, certiorari granted Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S A Ry Co., 52 S Ct. 41, 285 U.S. 608, 76 L.Ed 521, and affirming Galveston, H & S. A Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co, Com App, 25 S W 2d 588, which reversed Galveston Wharf Co. v American Grocery Co., Civ App., 13 S W 2d 983.

20. Ala.—Alabama Great Southern R. Co. v. Mt. Vernon Co, 4 So 356, 84 Ala. 173
Ga.—Southern Express Co. v. Shea, 38 Ga. 519—Mosher v. Southern Express Co., 38 Ga 37
Ill.—Anchor Line v. Dater, 68 Ill. 369.
10 C.J. p 542 note 73.

21. See 10 C.J. p 542 notes 70–72.

§ 436, that an action on the contract will not lie, and that the remedy of the shipper is in tort, the weight of authority is to the effect that the through contract of shipment made with the initial carrier is binding on all connecting carriers who receive the goods.[22]

(3) Effect of Federal Legislation

The common-law liability of connecting carriers for damages occurring on their own lines continues under the Carmack amendment, such liability being measured by the valid applicable provisions of the original contract of carriage.

Although the Carmack amendment renders the initial carrier liable for loss or injury to an interstate shipment which it has accepted for transportation, regardless of whether the loss or injury occurred on its line or that of any connecting carrier over which shipment is transported, such statute does not have effect of abrogating the liability of an intermediate or terminal carrier to an action to recover for loss or injury occurring on its line[23]

22. N.C.—Reidsville Paper Box Co. v. Southern Ry., 99 S.E. 23, 177 N.C. 351.

10 C.J. p 543 note 77.

23. U.S.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Ward, Tex., 37 S.Ct. 617, 244 U.S. 383, 61 L.Ed. 1213—John Lysaght, Limited, v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 254 F. 351, affirmed, C.C.A., Lehigh Valley R. Co. v. John Lysaght, Limited, 271 F. 906, certiorari denied 41 S.Ct. 625, 256 U.S. 704, 65 L.Ed. 1180, and error dismissed 42 S.Ct. 53, 257 U.S. 613, 66 L.Ed. 397.

Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. J. H. White Mercantile Co., 93 So. 395, 207 Ala. 520—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. v. Abramson-Boone Produce Co., 74 So. 350, 190 Ala. 271—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lynne, 71 So. 338, 196 Ala. 21—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Gillis Mule Co., 103 So. 906, 20 Ala.App. 535, certiorari denied Ex parte Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 103 So. 909, 212 Ala. 635.

Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. American Fruit Growers, 260 S.W. 39, 163 Ark. 318.

Ga.—Fleshnar & Adar v. Southern Ry. Co., 127 S.E. 768, 160 Ga. 205, answers to certified questions conformed to 128 S.E. 78, 33 Ga.App. 823—Southern Ry. Co. v. Morris, 95 S.E. 284, 147 Ga. 729, reversing on other grounds Morris v. Southern Ry. Co., 91 S.E. 878, 19 Ga.App. 495, conformed to 95 S.E. 741, 22 Ga.App. 154—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Yesbik, 92 S.E. 527, 146 Ga. 769, affirming Yesbik v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 91 S.E. 274, 19 Ga.App. 252, certiorari granted Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Yesbik, 91 S.E. 873, 146 Ga. 620—Davis v. Peacock, 113 S.E. 697, 29 Ga.App. 122—Southern Express Co. v. Turner, 103 S.E. 802, 25 Ga.App. 625—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Stovall-Pace Co., 100 S.E. 657, 24 Ga.App. 248—Cincinnati, H. & D. Ry. Co. v. Quincey & Rogers, 91 S.E. 220, 19 Ga.App. 167—Southern Ry. Co. v. Waxelbaum Produce Co., 90 S.E. 987, 19 Ga.App. 64—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Waxelbaum Produce Co., 89 S.E. 635, 18 Ga.App. 489, overruling Southern Ry. Co. v. Bennett, 86 S.E. 418, 17 Ga.App. 162, and Southern Ry. Co. v. Savage, 89 S.E. 634, 18 Ga.App. 489.

Ill.—Freedman v. Erie R. Co., 246 Ill.App. 479. See Gallagher v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 207 Ill.App. 316.

Iowa.—Erisman v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 163 N.W. 627, 180 Iowa 759.

Ky.—Makeever v. Georgia Southern & F. Ry. Co., 294 S.W. 144, 219 Ky. 699—Southern Ry. Co. v. Avey, 191 S.W. 460, 173 Ky. 598.

La.—Coate Bros. v. New Orleans Terminal Co., 72 So. 678, 139 La. 958.

Me.—Lewis Poultry Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 105 A. 109, 117 Me. 482.

Mich.—Ginsberg v. Wabash Ry. Co., 193 N.W. 286, 222 Mich. 560, affirming H. Ginsberg & Sons v. Wabash Ry. Co., 189 N.W. 1018, 219 Mich. 665, 28 A.L.R. 518.

Minn.—Hansen-Peterson Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 205 N.W. 605, 165 Minn. 43.

Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Mahon Live Stock Co., 71 So. 802, 111 Miss. 496.

Mo.—Amber v. Davis, 282 S.W. 459, 221 Mo.App. 448—American Fruit Growers v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., App., 263 S.W. 488—Letner v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App., 249 S.W. 155—Collier v. Wabash R. Co., App., 190 S.W. 969—Conley v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 183 S.W. 1111, 192 Mo.App. 534.

Neb.—McGinley v. Union Pac. R. Co., 263 N.W. 393, 129 Neb. 855—C. C. Whitnack Produce Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 178 N.W. 177, 104 Neb. 587, certiorari granted Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. C. C. Whitnack Produce Co., 41 S.Ct. 15, 254 U.S. 625, 65 L.Ed. 445.

N.Y.—Schlitten v. Hines, 186 N.Y.S. 831, 196 App.Div. 254—American Cotton Products Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 255 N.Y.S. 672, 142 Misc. 821—Pacific Coast Borax Co. v. Shippers' Navigation Co., 178 N.Y.S. 182, 108 Misc. 198.

N.C.—Riff v. Yadkin R. Co., 127 S.E. 588, 189 N.C. 585.

Ohio.—Oyler & Oyler v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 18 Ohio App. 481—Norfolk & Western Ry. Co. v. Dresbach, 8 Ohio App. 333.

S.C.—Faulk v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co., 101 S.E. 641, 115 S.C. 306.

Tenn.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Southern Nursery Co., 3 Tenn.App. 148.

Tex.—Galveston, H. & S. R. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co., 36 S.W. 2d 985, 122 Tex. 1, affirming, Com.App., 25 S.W.2d 588, which reversed Galveston Wharf Co. v. American Grocery Co., Civ.App., 13 S.W. 2d 983, certiorari granted Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S.Ct. 41, 284 U.S. 608, 76 L.Ed. 521, affirmed 52 S.Ct. 342, 285 U.S. 127, 76 L.Ed. 659—Nation v. San Antonio Southern Ry. Co., 283 S.W. 157, 115 Tex. 431—Burd v. San Antonio Southern Ry. Co., Com.App., 261 S.W. 1021, modifying San Antonio Southern Ry. Co. v. Burd, Civ.App., 246 S.W. 1060—Beaumont, S. L. & W. R. Co. v. Farmers' Co-Op Sweet Potato Curing Co. of Rosepine, La., Civ.App., 298 S.W. 454.

Utah.—Barry v. Los Angeles & S. L. R. Co., 189 P. 70, 56 Utah 69.

Va.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Finley & Seymour, 102 S.E. 559, 560, 127 Va. 132, disapproving "every expression used in" Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. of Indiana v. National Bank of Commerce of Norfolk, 95 S.E. 454, 122 Va. 471, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 582, 247 U.S. 519, 62 L.Ed. 1246 "which can fairly be construed as indicating that connecting and delivering carriers of an interstate shipment cannot be sued for their own negligence."

Wis.—Bassett v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 171 N.W. 749, 168 Wis. 617, rehearing denied 171 N.W. 752, 168 Wis. 617.

10 C.J. p 543 note 79, p 544 note 83 [b].

Corpus Juris was cited with approval.

N.Y.—Remington v. Barrett, 188 N.Y.S. 174, 176, 196 App.Div. 838.

Va.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Finley & Seymour, 102 S.E. 559, 560, 127 Va. 132.

Carrier acting as warehouseman

Where delivering carrier holding goods as warehouseman for shipment to foreign port negligently stored them in a leaky warehouse, the Car-or caused by its negligence;[24] and any damages occurring on a connecting carrier's line may, notwithstanding the Carmack amendment, be recovered in an action brought directly against the carrier causing the injury,[25] or against such carrier and the initial carrier jointly,[26] although the view has been taken that the statutory and common-law remedies may not be prosecuted under one cause of action.[27] The bill of lading required to be issued by the initial carrier on an interstate shipment governs the entire transportation and fixes the obligations of all participating carriers to the extent that the terms of the bill of lading are applicable and valid;[28] the liability of any carrier in the mack amendment is no defense to an action against such carrier for negligence—Coate Bros. v. New Orleans Terminal Co., 72 So. 673, 139 La. 958

Cases distinguished

"Appellee is mistaken in its contention that this court held in Looney v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 111 N.E. 509, 271 Ill. 538, that no suit can be maintained against any carrier in an interstate shipment, other than the initial carrier, for loss or damage to the shipment caused by its own negligence. The holding in that case is that no suit under the Carmack Amendment can be maintained against any carrier of an interstate shipment other than the initial carrier, whose duty under that amendment is to issue the bill of lading. The facts stated in that case clearly show that the suit was brought directly under the Carmack Amendment against a connecting carrier, and this court merely held that the right of action given by that amendment was solely against the initial carrier. The decision in that case is entirely in harmony with the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Georgia, F. & A. R. Co. v. Blish Milling Co., Ga., 36 S.Ct. 541, 241 U.S. 190, 60 L. Ed. 948. In this latter case the court held that the terminal carrier is not relieved from liability for misdelivering an interstate shipment by the provisions of the Carmack Amendment. . . . The effect of the holding is that, if in such a shipment a connecting carrier is sued, the rights and remedy of the shipper are to be determined under the federal laws existing prior to the enactment of the Carmack Amendment."—Pennington v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 115 N.E. 170, 172, 277 Ill. 39, reversing 119 Ill.App. 479.

24. Ga.—Sperry Flour Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 189 S.E. 278, 54 Ga.App. 725.
N.C.—Aydlett v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 89 S.E. 1000, 172 N.C. 47.

25. U.S.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Ward, Tex., 37 S.Ct. 617, 244 U.S. 383, 61 L.Ed. 1213
Ind.—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Larosa, 131 N.E. 22, 75 Ind. App. 475.
N.C.—Gillikin & Edwards v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 93 S.E. 469, 174 N.C. 137.
Tex.—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co., 36 S.W.2d 985, 122 Tex. 1, affirming, Com.App., 25 S.W.2d 588, which reversed Galveston Wharf Co. v. American Grocery Co., Civ.App., 13 S.W.2d 983, certiorari granted Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S.Ct. 41, 284 U.S. 608, 76 L.Ed. 521, affirmed 52 S.Ct. 342, 285 U.S. 127, 76 L.Ed. 659—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. West Bros., Com.App., 207 S.W. 918, affirming in part and reversing in part St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Same, Civ.App., 159 S.W. 142, rehearing denied Texas & P. R. Co. v. West Bros., Com.App., 214 S.W. 808—Beaumont, S. L. & W. R. Co. v. Farmers' Co-Op. Sweet Potato Curing Co. of Rosepine, La., Civ. App., 298 S.W. 454.
Va.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Finley & Seymour, 102 S.E. 559, 127 Va. 132.
Wis.—Bassett v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 171 N.W. 749, 168 Wis. 617, rehearing denied 171 N.W. 752, 168 Wis. 617.
10 C.J. p. 543 note 80.

Cause arising after enactment

The proviso in the Carmack amendment that it should not deprive any holder of a bill of lading of any remedy or right of action which he has under the existing law reserves the right to the common-law action, and is not limited to causes of action in being when the amendment was passed—Remington v. Barrett, 188 N.Y.S. 174, 196 App. Div. 838.

26. Mo.—Otrich v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 134 S.W. 665, 154 Mo.App. 420.

Corpus Juris has been cited with approval in Dietz v. Southern Pac. Ry. Co., 28 S.W.2d 395, 398, 225 Mo.App. 39.

27. Ohio.—Norfolk & Western Ry. Co. v. Dresbach, 8 Ohio App. 333.

28. U.S.—Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S.Ct. 342, 285 U.S. 127, 76 L.Ed. 659, affirming Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co., 36 S.W.2d 985, 122 Tex. 1, certiorari granted Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S.Ct. 41, 285 U.S. 608, 76 L.Ed. 521, and affirming Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co., Com.App., 25 S.W.2d 588, which reversed Galveston Wharf Co. v. American Grocery Co., Civ.App., 13 S.W.2d 983—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Leatherwood, Tex., 39 S.Ct. 517, 250 U.S. 478, 63 L.Ed. 1096—Georgia F. & A. Ry. Co. v. Blish Milling Co., 36 S. Ct. 541, 241 U.S. 190, 60 L.Ed. 948, affirming 82 S.E. 784, 15 Ga.App. 142—Pomona Products Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Ga., 294 F. 982.
Ala.—Inland Waterways Corporation v. Sloss Sheffield Steel & Iron Co., 136 So. 849, 223 Ala. 397—Southern Ry. Co. v. Northwestern Fruit Exch., 98 So. 382, 210 Ala. 519
Conn.—Cassone v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 123 A. 280, 100 Conn. 262.
Fla.—American Ry. Exp. Co. v. Fegenbush, 144 So. 320, 107 Fla. 145
Ill.—Pennington v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 115 N.E. 170, 277 Ill. 39—Freedman v. Erie R. Co., 246 Ill.App. 479. See Gallagher v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 207 Ill.App. 316.
Ky.—McArthur v. Payne, 258 S.W. 684, 201 Ky. 793
Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Rogers & Hurdle, 76 So. 686, 116 Miss. 99.
N.Y.—Emil Grossman Mfg. Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 169 N.Y.S. 213, 181 App.Div. 764.
Tex.—Burd v. San Antonio Southern Ry. Co., Com.App., 261 S.W. 1021, modifying San Antonio Southern Ry. Co. v. Burd, Civ.App., 246 S.W. 1060.

"The only effect of the Carmack Amendment as applied to connecting or terminal carriers, is to give them the benefit of all lawful conditions or provisions in the contract made by the shipper with the initial carrier."—Erisman v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 163 N.W. 627, 630, 180 Iowa 759.

Authority of initial carrier

"To the extent of involving it, the delivering carrier, in the liability of a common carrier after the goods shall have come to its custody, the initial or receiving carrier of the goods, had such authority."—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Akard, 159 P. 344, 349, 60 Okl. 4.

Acquiescence in bill

Connecting carrier by acting on bill of lading for a through shipment issued by the initial carrier, receiving the goods, and not issuing route over which the articles were routed, for loss or damage, is that imposed by the act as measured by the original contract of shipment so far as it is valid under the act.[29] Under this amendment the connecting carriers become the agents of the initial carrier and are charged with the duty of carrying out the contract of their principal with no right or power to engraft new conditions or stipulations on the contract already lawfully made and executed, binding them fully to perform their part of the contract of carriers under the terms of that contract,[30] whether or not receiving special instructions from the initial carrier.[31] Furthermore, under the Carmack amendment all connecting carriers are charged with knowledge that, after the original shipment was begun, the consignors surrendered their order bills of lading and had new ones issued, changing the point of destination of the goods and designating another party as the one to be notified on arrival of the shipment.[32]

b. Carrier Liable Only for Loss or Injury on Its Own Line

(1) In general
(2) Effect of federal legislation
(3) Effect of state legislation
(4) Effect of last carrier collecting entire charge

(1) In General

In the absence of special statute or joint undertaking, a connecting carrier is liable only for damage occurring on its own line or attributable to its own negligence.

The well settled rule stated in Corpus Juris, which has been cited with approval by the courts,[33] is that in the absence of some special statutory provision, or of a partnership agreement, or joint undertaking between several lines of carriers, an intermediate or terminal carrier is liable only for loss or injury occurring on its own line; and no recovery can be had against such carrier for damage caused wholly by another carrier.[34] This rule is a bill of lading of its own, makes it its own.—International & Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Kansas City Produce Co., Tex.Civ.App., 200 S.W. 254, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

Storage of goods

The provision in a bill of lading that the carrier's responsibility for goods shipped in an interstate shipment over connecting carriers will terminate on the storage of the goods by the terminal carrier in a public or licensed warehouse after the expiration of forty-eight hours from the time when the person entitled to receive the goods has been notified of their arrival and has failed to remove them, constitutes a contract binding on the shipper and the delivering carrier, by the terms of which the carrier is released from liability for any loss or damage to the goods after their storage in a warehouse in compliance with this provision in the bill of lading. Accordingly such carrier is not liable thereafter for conversion of the goods by the warehouseman. —Bibb Mfg. Co. v. Cleveland, C, C & St. L. Ry. Co., 132 S.E. 129, 35 Ga.App. 43.

Canadian bill of lading issued by Canadian initial carrier for carload shipment from Canada to United States is applicable to entire transportation.—Kaufherr & Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 174 A. 27, 12 N.J. Misc. 542.

29. Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co v Yesbik, 92 S.E. 527, 146 Ga. 769, affirming Yesbik v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 91 S.E. 274, 19 Ga.App. 252, certiorari granted Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Yesbik, 91 S.E. 873, 146 Ga. 620.
Ill.—Pennington v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co, 115 N.E. 170, 277 Ill. 39, reversing 119 Ill.App. 479—Freedman v. Erie R. Co., 246 Ill.App. 479.
Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Rogers & Hurdle, 76 So. 686, 116 Miss. 99.
N.Y.—American Cotton Products Co v. New York Cent. R. Co., 255 N.Y.S. 672, 142 Misc. 821.

Unauthorized notations

The initial carrier in an interstate shipment is the agent of the connecting carriers, and they are bound by its contract and by the original contract and not by unauthorized notations made on the bill of lading —McArthur v. Payne, 258 S.W. 684, 201 Ky. 793.

30. U.S.—Missouri, K & T. Ry. Co of Texas v. Ward, Tex., 37 S.Ct. 617, 244 U.S. 383, 61 L.Ed. 1213.
Ala.—Inland Waterways Corporation v. Sloss Sheffield Steel & Iron Co, 136 So. 849, 223 Ala. 397.
Ill.—Freedman v. Erie R. Co, 246 Ill.App. 479.
Tex.—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co v. American Grocery Co, 36 S.W. 2d 985, 122 Tex. 1, affirming, Com App, 25 S.W.2d 588, which reversed Galveston Wharf Co. v. American Grocery Co, Civ.App., 13 S.W.2d 983, certiorari granted Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S.Ct. 41, 284 U.S. 608, 76 L.Ed. 521, affirmed 52 S.Ct. 342, 285 U.S. 127, 76 L.Ed. 659.
10 C.J. p. 543 note 82.

Corpus Juris is cited with approval in Pabst Brewing Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co, 273 S.W. 424, 427, 221 Mo.App. 338.

Knowledge of appearance of shipment

As connecting carrier is initial carrier's agent in forwarding goods, and initial carrier is agent of terminal carrier in making contract of carriage, latter is bound by initial carrier's knowledge of appearance of shipment of beverage when received by initial carrier for transportation into dry state.—Pabst Brewing Co v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 273 S.W. 424, 221 Mo.App. 338.

31. Ala.—Inland Waterways Corporation v. Sloss Sheffield Steel & Iron Co., 136 So. 849, 223 Ala. 397.

32. U.S.—Russo v. Davis, C.C.A.Ill., 285 F. 231.

33. La.—Hall v. Houston, E. & W. T. Ry. Co., 121 So. 769, 771, 9 La. App. 577.
Or.—Daniels v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 171 P. 1178, 1181, 88 Or. 421.
Tex.—St. Louis, S. F. & T. Ry. Co. v. J. G. Henderson Cut Stone Co., Civ.App., 275 S.W. 603, 605—Lancaster v. Smith, Civ.App., 226 S.W. 460, 461.

34. U.S.—Julius Klugman's Sons v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., D.C.N.Y., 42 F.2d 461—Loma Fruit Co. v. International Nav. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 11 F.2d 124, certiorari denied Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Loma Fruit Co., 46 S.Ct. 471, 270 U.S. 662, 663, 70 L.Ed. 787.
Ala.—Lynn v. Mellon, 114 So. 680, 217 Ala. 75—National Park Bank especially applicable where the contract of carriage expressly negatives the liability of any connecting carrier for damage not caused by it,[35] or where there is no pro rata sharing of freight charges made under the initial contract, and where the terminal carrier refuses to receive a shipment under the initial contract, but receives it under a new contract whereby it makes its own rates and collects its own charges, and limits its liabilities to its own lines.[36] The initial carrier is not the agent of the connecting lines so as to make the latter liable for the former's negligence.[37] A connecting carrier is not an insurer of goods against damage resulting thereto while in its possession from causes occurring before the goods were delivered to it and for which it was not responsible, it being, under such circumstances, required to exercise only reasonable care to save the property from further damage after the condition which caused the damage has been discovered or should have been discovered by it in the exercise of such care.[38] An exception to the general rule is that if the connecting carrier itself furnished defective cars which were used in the entire transportation, it is liable for all the resulting damage, notwithstanding that some of it may have occurred while the cars were being hauled by other carriers.[39]

A shipper delivering merchandise to a carrier for delivery only on payment of the purchase price cannot maintain an action for conversion against a of New York v. Louisville & N R. Co., 74 So. 69, 199 Ala. 192—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Gillis Mule Co., 103 So. 906, 20 Ala.App. 535, certiorari denied Ex parte Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 103 So. 909, 212 Ala. 635.

Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Reynolds-Davis Grocery Co., 257 S.W. 70, 161 Ark. 579, certiorari granted 44 S.Ct. 636, 265 U.S. 577, 68 L.Ed. 1188, and affirmed 45 S.Ct. 516, 268 U.S. 366, 69 L.Ed. 1000—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Davis, 185 S.W. 478, 123 Ark. 619.

Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Scrivens, 100 S.E. 233, 24 Ga.App. 177.

Idaho.—Campbell v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 275 P. 576, 47 Idaho 223.

Ill.—Lino v. Northwestern Pac. R. Co., 163 N.E. 316, 332 Ill. 93, reversing 246 Ill.App. 451—Denney & Co. v. Wabash Ry. Co., 250 Ill. App. 380—Freedman v. Erie R. Co., 246 Ill.App. 479—Golden Grain Milling Co. v. St. Louis, S. & P. R. Co., 226 Ill.App. 116—Gerard v. Davis, 225 Ill.App. 377. See Hamilton v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 206 Ill.App. 270.

Ind.—Michigan Cent. R. Co. v. S. J. Peabody Lumber Co., 131 N.E. 841, 76 Ind.App. 222.

Iowa—Adams Steel Co. v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 165 N.W. 367, 181 Iowa 1052, L.R.A.1918B 622—Cedar Rapids Fuel Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 160 N.W. 353, 178 Iowa 878.

Ky.—Makeever v. Georgia Southern & F. Ry. Co., 294 S.W. 144, 219 Ky. 699—E. J. O'Brien & Co. v. Davis, 288 S.W. 682, 216 Ky. 693.

La.—Hall v. Houston, E. & W. T. Ry. Co., 121 So. 769, 9 La.App. 577, 582.

Md.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Walker, 128 A. 45, 147 Md. 323.

Mass.—Lyon v. Boston & M. R. R., 158 N.E. 663, 261 Mass. 251.

Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Walker, 77 So. 191, 116 Miss. 431.

Mo.—Johnson v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 249 S.W. 658, 211 Mo.App. 564—Utz v. Chicago, B. & Q. Ry. Co., App., 208 S.W. 640

N.Y.—Lahn & Simons v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 200 N.Y.S. 357—Grand Trunk Ry. Co. of Canada v. Satuloff, 182 N.Y.S. 81.

N.C.—M. V. Moore & Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 111 S.E. 166, 183 N.C. 213.

Ohio—Oyler & Oyler v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 18 Ohio App. 481

Okl.—Oklahoma, N. M. & P. Ry. Co. v. H. M. S. Drilling Co., 229 P. 420, 100 Okl. 260.

Or.—Daniels v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 171 P. 1178, 88 Or. 421.

Pa.—Hinman Bros. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 5 Pa.Dist. & Co. 182.

Tex.—St. Louis, S. F. & T. Ry. Co. v. J. G. Henderson Cut Stone Co., Civ.App., 275 S.W. 603—San Antonio Southern Ry. Co. v. Burd, Civ.App., 246 S.W. 1060, modified on other grounds Burd v. San Antonio Southern R. Co., Com. App., 261 S.W. 1021—Lancaster v. Smith, Civ.App., 226 S.W. 460—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Hill, Civ.App., 213 S.W. 952—Rio Grande & E. P. Ry. Co. v. J. H. Russell & Son, Civ.App., 212 S.W. 530—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren, Civ.App., 184 S.W. 232.

Wash.—Leddy v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 210 P. 354, 122 Wash. 136.

W.Va.—Copenhaver & Massey Milling Co. v. Kanawha & W. Va. R. Co., 93 S.E. 940, 81 W.Va. 73.

10 C.J. p 544 note 83.

35. U.S.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McGinn, Wash., 42 S.Ct. 332, 258 U.S. 409, 66 L.Ed. 689, reversing, C.C.A., McGinn v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co., 265 F. 81, certiorari granted 40 S.Ct. 148, 254 U.S. 628, 65 L.Ed. 446—A. Russo & Co. v. U. S., C.C.A. La., 40 F.2d 39.

Pa.—Karnofsky Bros. v. Delaware & Hudson Co., 117 A. 783, 274 Pa. 272

Tenn.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Lewis & Adcock Co., 201 S.W. 131, 139 Tenn. 37, L.R.A.1918C 976.

10 C.J. p 550 note 40 [b] (1).

Separate contracts

Under separate contracts for shipment of live stock, limiting the carriers' liability to injury to cattle on their respective lines, a terminal carrier could not be charged with negligence of a connecting carrier. —Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Allen, Tex.Civ.App., 189 S.W. 765.

36. Okl.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Peters, 131 P. 525, 37 Okl. 188.

37. N.C.—M. V. Moore & Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 111 S.E. 166, 183 N.C. 213.

38. N.Y.—Bradley v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 129 N.Y.S. 1045, 145 App.Div. 312.

Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. W. C. Crenshaw & Co., 137 S.E. 515, 147 Va. 290.

10 C.J. p 544 note 86.

Continuing deterioration

Where an interstate shipment of peaches received by a connecting carrier from the initial carrier reached destination in poor condition because of insufficient refrigeration provided by the initial carrier, which caused deterioration to continue in the hands of the connecting carrier, the connecting carrier was liable only for damages resulting from its own negligence, and not for that of the initial carrier.—E. H. Emery & Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 170 N.W. 540, 186 Iowa 1156, rehearing denied 173 N.W. 12, 186 Iowa 1156.

39. Ga.—Sperry Flour Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 189 S.E. 278, 54 Ga.App. 725.

N.C.—Aydlett v. Norfolk-Southern R. Co., 89 S.E. 1000, 172 N.C. 47.

connecting carrier which completed the transportation, made due delivery, collected the price, and credited the collection to the initial carrier's account.[40]

Where a partnership relation exists between connecting carriers, the rule, as stated infra § 429 a is that the intermediate or terminal carrier is liable for loss or injury, whether occurring on its own line or that of the other connecting carriers.

(2) Effect of Federal Legislation

Neither the original Carmack amendment nor the Bills of Lading Act abrogated the common-law rule limiting a connecting carrier's liability to its own line; but by subsequent amendment the delivering carrier was made liable regardless of where the damage occurred.

The general rule that an intermediate carrier is liable only for loss or injury occurring on its own line is not abrogated by the Carmack amendment,[41] and prior to the amendment hereinafter referred to, the terminal carrier as well was exempt from liability for damages not occurring on its own line;[42] and an express provision in the contract of carriage limiting the liability of intermediate and terminal carriers to loss, damage, or injury occurring on their own lines was not invalid under the act.[43] By the amendment of March 4, 1927, however, any common carrier delivering property

40. N Y—Polar Ware Co. v. Middlesex Transp. Co., 284 N.Y.S. 311, 157 Misc. 664.

Reason for rule

"It is conceded that if defendant had paid over the moneys collected by it to the initial carrier it would have been absolved from any liability. Indeed, it would have had no right to make any other disposition of them Its only duty or obligation was to the initial carrier. Upon collection of the moneys it became a debtor to the initial carrier, and it discharged its obligation by giving credit to that company against its indebtedness. No trust was created by the transaction, and plaintiff's only right of recourse was against the initial carrier with which it had contracted."—Polar Ware Co. v. Middlesex Transp. Co., 284 N.Y.S. 311, 312, 157 Misc. 664.

41. U S—Johnson-Brown Co. v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., D.C. Ga., 239 F. 590.

Ala.—Inland Waterways Corporation v. Sloss Sheffield Steel & Iron Co., 136 So. 849, 223 Ala. 397—Lynn v. Mellon, 114 So. 680, 217 Ala. 75.

Ill—Lino v. Northwestern Pac. R. Co., 163 N E 316, 332 Ill. 93, reversing 246 Ill.App. 451—Alton Iron & Metal Co. v. Wabash Ry. Co., 159 N E. 802, 328 Ill. 353, reversing 235 Ill.App. 151.

Ind—Mascari v New York, C. & St L. R. Co., 183 N.E 913, 97 Ind. App. 27.

Ky—Southern Ry. Co. v. Avey, 191 S W 460, 173 Ky. 598.

La—Hall v. Houston E. & W T. Ry. Co., 121 So. 769, 9 La.App. 577, 582.

N.Y.—Lahn & Simons v. New York, N H. & H. R Co., 200 N.Y.S. 357—Grand Trunk Ry. Co. of Canada v. Satuloff, 182 N.Y S. 81.

N.C—M. V. Moore & Co. v. Southern Ry. Co, 111 S.E. 166, 183 N C. 213

N.D—Knapp v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M Ry. Co., 159 N.W. 81, 34 N.D. 466.

Ohio—Oyler & Oyler v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 18 Ohio App. 481.

Tex.—Beaumont, S L & W R. Co. v. Farmers' Co-op Sweet Potato Curing Co. of Rosepine, La, Civ. App, 298 S W. 454—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v Ohlhausen, Civ. App., 272 S.W. 224—San Antonio Southern Ry. Co. v Burd, Civ. App., 246 S.W. 1060, modified on other grounds Burd v. San Antonio Southern R. Co, Com.App., 261 S W. 1021—Ft. Worth & D. C Ry. Co. v. Hill, Civ.App, 213 S.W. 952.

10 C J. p 544 note 83.

Commingling of shipments

If separate shipments of pig iron were not commingled when handled by connecting carrier, such carrier would not be liable for commingling of shipments.—Inland Waterways Corporation v. Sloss Sheffield Steel & Iron Co., 136 So. 849, 223 Ala. 397.

42. U.S.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McGinn, Wash., 42 S. Ct. 332, 258 U.S. 409, 66 L Ed. 689, reversing, C C.A., McGinn v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co, 265 F. 81, certiorari granted 41 S.Ct. 148, 254 U.S. 628, 65 L Ed. 446.

Ga.—Davis v. Peacock, 113 S.E. 697, 29 Ga App. 122.

Ill.—Alton Iron & Metal Co. v. Wabash Ry. Co., 159 N E. 802, 328 Ill. 353, reversing 235 Ill.App. 151.

Ind.—Baltimore & O. R. Co. v. Maurer, 127 N E 294, 73 Ind App. 296.

Iowa—Cedar Rapids Fuel Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 160 N.W 353, 178 Iowa 878.

Ky—McArthur v. Payne, 258 S.W. 684, 201 Ky. 793.

La—Hall v. Houston, E & W. T. Ry Co., 121 So. 769, 9 La.App. 577, 582.

Mass.—Lyon v Boston & M. R. R., 158 N.E. 663, 261 Mass 251

Mo—Utz v. Chicago, B. & Q. Ry. Co., App, 208 S.W. 640.

N C—M. V. Moore & Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 111 S E. 166, 183 N C. 213.

Ohio—Oyler & Oyler v. Louisville & N. R. Co, 18 Ohio App. 481.

Pa.—Karnofsky Bros. v. Delaware & Hudson Co., 117 A. 783, 274 Pa. 272—Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 156 A. 587, 102 Pa.Super. 31.

Tex.—Chapman v St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ. App., 295 S W. 262—San Antonio Southern Ry Co. v. Burd, Civ. App., 246 S.W. 1060, modified on other grounds Burd v San Antonio Southern R. Co, Com App., 261 S. W. 1021—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry Co. v. Hill, Civ App., 213 S.W. 952 —Houston & T C. R. Co. v. Reichardt & Schulte Co., Civ App., 212 S.W. 208.

10 C.J. p 544 note 83.

Contractual exemption

The terminal carrier, transporting horses under a through interstate bill of lading which provided that no carrier should be liable, except as provided by statute, for any loss or damage not caused by it, is not liable for the death of horses during shipment because they had been given unwholesome food and water while being transported by an intermediate carrier.—Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McGinn, Wash., 42 S.Ct. 332, 258 U S. 409, 66 L Ed. 689, reversing, C C A., McGinn v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav Co., 265 F. 81, certiorari granted 41 S.Ct. 148, 254 U.S. 628, 65 L.Ed. 446.

43. Ala.—Lynn v. Mellon, 114 So 680, 217 Ala. 75

N C—M. V. Moore & Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 111 S E. 166, 183 N C 213.

Tenn—Southern Ry. Co v. Lewis & Adcock Co, 201 S W. 131, 139 Tenn. 37, L R A 1918C 976.

Common-law liability not limited

In an action against terminal carrier a provision in an interstate bill of lading, issued by the initial carrier, that no carrier should be liable for loss, damage, or injury not occurring on its own road, etc., except as liability might be imposed by law, was not a limitation of the defendant carrier's common-law liability, received for transportation in interstate commerce, and transported, is liable to the owner thereof for any damage caused by such delivering carrier or by the carrier originally receiving it or by any intervening carrier over whose line the property has passed; and, accordingly, the delivering carrier will be held liable thereunder in an action by the shipper for damages caused by the other carriers.[44]

The Federal Bills of Lading Act § 22, 49 U.S.C.A. § 102, providing that the carrier issuing a bill of lading is liable for damages caused by loss of the goods in transit, does not apply to connecting or terminal carriers, and the liability of such carrier remains the same as prior to the passage of the statute.[45] Such carrier sued for a shortage is not, under the Act, estopped to deny that it received the quantity of goods specified in bills of lading issued by the initial carrier.[46]

(3) Effect of State Legislation

The common-law liability of connecting carriers in intra-state shipments is modified by some state legislation.

Statutes exist in a number of jurisdictions, some of which have materially modified the common-law liability of intermediate or terminal carriers so far as intra-state shipments are concerned,[47] as, for example, a statute which provides that the last of several connecting lines of railroad which receives goods as in good order will be liable for any damages done to the goods,[48] a statute requiring the terminal carrier on demand to trace the freight and making it liable for the loss in case of failure to do so,[49] or a statute making each of several connecting carriers agent of the other,[50] such as a statute which provides that all carriers over whose lines any freight received by either of such carriers for through shipment on a contract for through carriage recognized, acquiesced in, or acted on by such carriers, shall, with respect to the undertaking, be considered connecting lines and be deemed to be the agents of each other, and the contract shall be deemed to be the contract of each of the carriers, and that for any loss or injury sustained in such through transportation over the connecting lines, or either of them, either of such carriers which the person sustaining damages may first elect to sue shall be held liable to such person.[51] How-as there was no common-law liability on a carrier for loss or damage not occurring on its own line and not caused by its own negligence—M. V. Moore & Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 111 S.E. 166, 183 N.C. 213.

44. La.—Stinson v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co., App., 159 So. 422.
Mass.—Bonfiglio v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 198 N.E. 236.
N.Y.—Perkel v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 265 N.Y.S. 597, 148 Misc. 284.

Shipper's load and count

A railroad company delivering watermelons, which were in good condition and properly loaded when shipped by initial carrier, at auction market in damaged condition was held liable for damages, in absence of proof that damage was due to act of God, public enemy, or cause validly excepted in contract; and it was said that such carrier's full common-law liability would attach to the contracts for carriage under bills of lading indorsed "S. L. & C.," even if the melons, claimed to have been inspected by initial carrier's representatives at the points of origin, were improperly loaded—Perkel v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 265 N.Y.S. 597, 148 Misc. 284.

45. Ill.—Alton Iron & Metal Co. v. Wabash Ry. Co., 159 N.E. 802, 328 Ill. 353, reversing 235 Ill.App. 151.

46. Ill.—Alton Iron & Metal Co. v. Wabash Ry. Co., 159 N.E. 802, 328 Ill. 353, reversing 235 Ill.App. 151.

47. Ga.—Susong v. Florida Cent., etc., R. Co., 41 S.E. 112, 115 Ga. 361.
10 C.J. p 544 note 89, p 545 notes 90–93, p 546 notes 94–96.

48. Ga.—Susong v. Florida Cent., etc., R. Co., 41 S.E. 566, 115 Ga. 361.
10 C.J. p 544 note 89 [b].

49. S.C.—Burress v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 60 S.E. 692, 79 S.C. 250.
10 C.J. p 544 note 89 [c], [d].

50. S.C.—Daughty v. Northwestern R. Co., 75 S.E. 553, 92 S.C. 361.
10 C.J. p 544 note 89 [d] (3)–(5).

51. Tex.—Conn v. Texas & N. O. Ry. Co., Com.App., 14 S.W.2d 1004, reversing, Civ.App., 4 S.W.2d 193—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Mitchell, Civ.App., 280 S.W. 335—Houston & T. C. Ry. Co. v. Roberts, Civ.App., 194 S.W. 218
10 C.J. p 545 notes 91–93, p 546 notes 94–96

Constitutionality

(1) A statute of the kind under consideration is constitutional.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Randle, 44 S.W. 603, 18 Tex.Civ.App. 348.

(2) It is not made unconstitutional by a further provision prohibiting, except at plaintiff's request, apportionment of damages in an action thereunder.—St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Morris, Tex.Civ.App., 248 S.W. 57.

Carriage under through contract

(1) The statute has no application, except where there is a through contract of shipment and where the shipment is received and carried by the connecting carrier under that contract.—Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Odom, Tex.Civ.App., 185 S.W. 626—10 C.J. p 545 note 93.

(2) The shipment having been on a through bill of lading, each of the carriers is responsible for damages to the goods in transit under the statute.—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Kemp, Tex.Civ.App., 207 S.W. 605—Patterson & Roberts v. Quanah, A. & P. R. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 195 S.W. 1163

Joint liability

(1) Under these provisions where a shipment over connecting lines is on a through contract recognized and acted on by the carriers, each carrier is equally liable to the shipper for any loss or injury to the goods shipped—Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. v. Cauble, Tex.Civ.App., 286 S.W. 478—St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Lane, Tex.Civ.App., 248 S.W. 59—Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. McCrummen, Tex.Civ.App., 240 S.W. 607—10 C.J. p 545 note 91.

(2) This is so whether the contract is oral or in writing.—St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Lane, supra—10 C.J. p 545 note 92.

(3) In order to bind the second or subsequent carriers jointly with the first, or with any of the other carriers, something more than receiving and transporting the goods or property was necessary thereunder, because the law requires a car-ever, a statute which provides that all carriers receiving goods for intra-state shipment shall be liable for all damages thereto, and which authorizes the collection of damages from the agent at the point of destination on the consignee presenting an itemized statement, and further authorizes an action against a carrier failing to pay such claim, when considered in connection with another statute, making the initial carrier liable for all damages, merely makes each carrier liable for all damages occurring on its own line, and seeks to expedite speedy settlements of claims, recognizing the common-law presumption of liability of the delivering carrier, which may be overcome by proof; and a terminal carrier is not liable thereunder for damages caused by the initial carrier.[52]

(4) Effect of Last Carrier Collecting Entire Charge

The general rule making connecting carriers liable only for damages occurring on its own line is not affected by an arrangement between the carriers whereby the entire freight charge is collected by the delivering carrier.

As shown supra § 424 b (1), in the absence of a specific contract making each carrier liable for the default of any of the others, the general rule is that only the carrier on whose line the loss occurred will be liable; and where an arrangement is made between several connecting carriers by which goods to be carried over the entire route are to be delivered by each carrier to the next succeeding carrier, each carrier to pay the preceding carrier the amount of its charges, and the last one to collect the whole amount from the consignee, the receiving of the goods by the last carrier, the payment by it of all previous charges and its collection of the entire charge from the consignee will not render it liable for any injury done to the goods before they were received by it.[53] rier so to receive and transport such freight when tendered to it.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren, Tex.Civ.App., 184 S.W. 232—10 C.J. p 546 note 94.

(4) This was so notwithstanding the provisions of a statute to the effect that, whenever any freight or other property has been transported over two or more railroads operating any part of their roads in the state, suit for loss or damage thereto, or other cause of action connected therewith or arising out of such transportation or contract in relation thereto, may be brought against any one or all of such railroads in any county in which any of such railroads extends or is operated Such a statute does not authorize a suit against two railroads not acting under a joint contract for the distinctly separate wrong of one only, merely because property had been transported over the connecting lines of two—Texas, etc., R. Co v. Lynch, 75 S.W. 486, 97 Tex. 25.
10 C.J. p 546 note 96.

Original contract binding

(1) Under a provision that in any suit brought under the statute the rights, duties, and liabilities of the parties shall be determined by the contract of the initial carrier, unless there is an additional subsequent contract with a connecting carrier supported by valuable consideration, an initial carrier is authorized to issue a through bill of lading binding on it and the connecting carriers, and this is the only bill or receipt authorized for the entire shipment, and one issued by a connecting carrier is of no binding force or effect unless on a new or independent consideration moving to the shipper.—Panhandle & S. F. Ry Co. v. McCrummen, Tex.Civ.App., 240 S.W. 607.

(2) Accordingly, unless the consideration is proved, a stipulation in a subsequent bill of lading, limiting to its line of road the damages sustained by the negligence of the carrier guilty thereof, is void.—Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. McCrummen, supra.

(3) By taking a shipment, and transporting it without a new contract with the shipper, the connecting carrier recognizes and acquiesces in the original contract and liability, accordingly, attaches under the statute—Gulf, C & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Mitchell, Tex.Civ.App., 280 S.W. 335—St. Louis, B & M. Ry. Co. v. Lane, Tex.Civ.App., 248 S.W. 59—Panhandle & S F. Ry. Co. v. McCrummen, supra.

When liability attaches

(1) Under the statute, each connecting carrier is liable for damages occurring during transportation, and, where there was a contract to furnish cars for shipment of cattle at a specified time and place, the transportation began when the cattle were delivered under the contract—St. Louis, B. & M. Ry Co v. Lane, Tex.Civ.App., 248 S.W. 59.

(2) Where the contract between shipper and initial carrier was oral, the liability of both the initial and the connecting carriers began when the cattle were placed in the cattle pens at the point of origin, and the connecting carrier is subject to the initial carrier's liabilities and entitled to its legal exemptions. In such case, the ownership of cattle pens at the point of origin is immaterial, where the cattle were placed in such pens with the knowledge and consent of the initial carrier and were received by it in such pens—St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Lane, supra.

Mistaken recital in bill

The statutory provisions under consideration do not impress on the connecting carrier absolute responsibility for a mistaken recital in a bill of lading issued by the initial carrier, but relate to an externally imposed agency in reference to the goods actually shipped, the contract referring to the freight itself as received, even if "transportation" as used in the statute includes final delivery; and where a car, as loaded by the shipper, sealed at the point of shipment and thus received by the connecting carrier, had nothing about it or in its billing to show that bales of cotton therein were not marked as indicated in the bill of lading, or to arouse inquiry as to their markings, such carrier did not omit due care in failing promptly to discover the mistake, nor become a party to the initial carrier's original negligence.—Gulf, C & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Kempner, Tex.Com.App., 282 S.W. 795, reversing, Civ.App., 275 S.W. 459.

52. Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Ledbetter, 153 S.W. 801, 106 Ark. 512.
10 C.J. p 544 note 89 [a].

53. Mass.—Gass v. New York, etc., R. Co., 99 Mass. 220, 96 Am.D. 742.
Tex.—Miller v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 18 S.W. 954, 83 Tex. 518.
10 C.J. p 546 note 97.

§ 425. Liability for Delay

Connecting carriers are liable for negligent delays occurring on their own lines but not ordinarily for delays occurring on other lines.

In harmony with the rule stated supra § 191, applicable to carriers generally, a connecting carrier is bound to use reasonable diligence to transport within a reasonable time, and is liable for delay caused by it and occurring on its own line,[54] notwithstanding a stipulation in the bill of lading that no carrier is bound to transport the goods in time for any particular market or otherwise than with reasonable dispatch.[55] A connecting carrier cannot avoid liability for delay in forwarding a shipment because of an alleged excessive freight charge, as it is not bound to collect more than the legal charges, and is authorized to adjust the same after collection;[56] and a custom between the particular connecting carriers whereby one of them holds the goods in a warehouse, when a controversy arises over freight charges, until there is an adjustment or a correction of which the consignee has no knowledge constitutes no defense, in an action by the consignee for injuries arising from delay in shipment because of an observance of such custom, since the consignee is in no way bound by it.[57] In the absence of proof of partnership or other joint interest existing between several common carriers, or of some contract or statute otherwise providing, however, neither the intermediate nor the terminal carrier is liable for delay not occurring on its own line,[58] especially where the shipping contract so provides,[59] nor is it liable for failure to transport on a train which was authorized not to stop at the point of transfer.[60] Where the negligence of a railroad in failing or refusing to accept a shipment at a connecting point, concurred with the negligence of a connecting road in failing to deliver the shipment in question on the transfer track, both companies were responsible for delays and the consequent damages proximately resulting from such negligence;[61] but if delay occurs on each 54. Kan.—Stewart Poultry Co. v. Erie R. Co., 163 P. 448, 99 Kan. 540.

N.Y.—Caruso-Rinella-Battaglia Co. v New York Cent. R. Co., 226 N.Y.S 308, 222 App Div. 371.
N.C.—Gallop & Fisher v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 91 S.E. 375, 173 N. C. 21, error dismissed, Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Gallup, 39 S.Ct. 184, 248 U.S. 596, 63 L.Ed. 438.
10 C.J. p 295 note 33 [a], p 546 notes 99, 5.

Subsidiary lines

Jury's findings, sustained by evidence, that transportation was unreasonably delayed, was held sufficient basis for judgment against connecting carrier in shipper's action for damages, whether or not such carrier was party to shipper's understanding with initial carrier's agent as to routing of shipment from junction point, the initial carrier being a subsidiary of the connecting carrier.—Missouri-Pac. R. Co. v. Waugh, Tex.Civ.App., 74 S.W.2d 554, error dismissed.

Delay in furnishing cars

Where defendant steamship company issued a through bill of lading and defendant railway company, the final carrier, accepted goods, the latter is liable for damage resulting from delay in furnishing cars, and cannot object that former did not have authority to issue a through bill of lading—Gallop & Fisher v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 91 S.E 375, 173 N.C 21, error dismissed Norfolk Southern R. Co. v Gallup, 39 S Ct. 184, 248 U.S. 596, 63 L Ed. 438.

Delay in giving notice

Delivering carrier, failing to notify consignee promptly according to local custom and oral promise, is liable for loss because of delay in giving notice.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Galbraith, Tex.Civ.App., 39 S. W.2d 91.

Change of routing

A car of grain shipped from St. Joseph, Mo., to Sherman, Tex., was originally routed over defendant connecting carrier's line, but after bill of lading was issued the routing was changed on request of the shipper. The bill of lading with draft attached was forwarded to the purchaser, who paid the draft, and, receiving the bill of lading, presented the same to the agent of defendant with request that the car be forwarded to another point in Texas. The agent accepted it and issued a new bill of lading, although the car had not arrived. A month after, the car arrived in Sherman, and was forwarded by defendant to the new destination, where the grain was found to be in a damaged condition and sold at a loss. It was held, that defendant was liable notwithstanding the car was transported to Sherman by an agency other than defendant due to the change in the routing, for on notice to defendant that the car was in Sherman it was its duty to transport the same in a reasonable time.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v Plano Milling Co., Tex.Com App., 231 S.W. 100, affirming Chicago & G. W. Ry. Co v. Plano Milling Co., Civ App., 214 S.W 833, certiorari denied 42 S Ct. 317, 258 U S. 624, 66 L Ed. 797.

55. Kan.—Stewart Poultry Co v. Erie R. Co., 163 P. 448, 99 Kan 540.

56. Okl.—St. Louis, etc., R Co v. Close, 140 P. 1176, 42 Okl 105.
10 C.J. p 295 note 36.

57. Tex.—Texas, etc., R Co. v. Hassell, 58 S.W. 54, 23 Tex Civ.App. 681.

58. Md.—Pennsylvania R Co. v. Walker, 128 A. 45, 147 Md. 323
N.Y.—Caruso-Rinella-Battaglia Co v. New York Cent. R Co., 226 N.Y.S. 308, 222 App Div 371.
10 C.J. p 546 note 2.

59. N.Y.—Harris v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 73 N.Y S. 159, 36 Misc. 181.

60. Ala.—Louisville & N. R Co. v. Bishop, 85 So. 859, 17 Ala App. 320.

Corpse

Parent who had shipped corpse of deceased child under a through ticket requiring corpse to be transferred to connecting carrier at certain point could not recover for connecting carrier's failure to transfer corpse to train which did not stop or put off passengers or baggage at such point under its rules and regulations, promulgated by authority of the interstate commerce commission.—Louisville & N. R Co. v. Bishop, 85 So. 859, 17 Ala App. 320.

61. Tex.—St Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Miller & White, Civ.App., 190 S W. 719.

Failure to receive no excuse

If failure of railroad to receive shipment of live stock when tendered it by connecting road was negligence, and such negligence prevented shipment of cattle that night to destinaline of the connecting carriers, the terminal carrier is liable only for the proportion of loss occasioned by its negligent delay, and no more.[62]

Carmack amendment. Although the rule is otherwise where such carrier, having notice when it accepted the shipment that special damages would result from delay, makes a contract for through shipment,[63] under the Carmack amendment as it existed prior to the amendment of March 4, 1927, which makes the delivering carrier liable for the full damage to the property, neither an intermediate nor a terminal carrier is liable for delay in the transportation of an interstate shipment, where the delay was not caused on its line,[64] regardless of whether or not it had issued a bill of lading;[65] but the common-law right of one who has sustained damage by reason of the negligent delay of an intermediate or terminal carrier to proceed against the carrier causing the damage is not abrogated by the statute.[66] A shipper, who through mistake paid the initial carrier less than the lawful rate for transporting the property, cannot recover from the terminal carrier damages for delay in unloading, caused by his failure to pay to the terminal carrier the additional amount due.[67] Where a bill of lading on an interstate shipment routed a car over the line of a particular terminal carrier, and the shipment was not delivered to that carrier, but to defendant which had no facilities for delivering it into plaintiff's yard, and defendant, after being notified of the error, was informed of plaintiff's urgent need of the shipment, but nevertheless kept the car for an unreasonable length of time before it was returned to the place where defendant received it, to be transshipped over the designated terminal carrier into plaintiff's yard, plaintiff was entitled to recover the damages sustained independently of the Interstate Commerce Act, and regardless of whether defendant knew, in the first instance, that the car had been misrouted.[68]

§ 426. Liability for Misdelivery

The terminal carrier is liable for misdelivery of the goods.

In accordance with the general rule stated supra § 424 a (1), the terminal carrier is liable for the damages sustained if it delivers to the wrong person,[69] even if it does so by reason of negligent direction of a preceding carrier for whose acts the shipper is not responsible.[70] It has been held, however, that, since a connecting carrier does not see the bill of lading until it is surrendered on the arrival of the goods at their destination, the waybill is a complete defense to it for delivery at a wrong destination.[71] If the consignee has designated a carrier to receive the goods for him, delivery to such carrier is a good delivery and terminates the original transportation.[72]

§ 427. Proceedings to Compel Receipt of Freight from Connecting Carrier

As shown infra § 450, a carrier wrongfully refusing to receive freight from a connecting carrier may be compelled to do so in a suit for injunction brought by the offended carrier. Injunction to compel performance of a carrier's duty to receive and transport property generally is treated supra § 34.

§ 428. Liability of Main Line for Loss on Branch Line

The main line of a railroad is liable for losses occurring on branches controlled by it.

tion, railroad cannot excuse itself from liability on ground that it did not actually receive shipment until next day—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co of Texas v. Miller & White, Tex.Civ.App., 190 S.W. 819.

62. S.C.—Trakas v. Southern R. Co., 86 S.E. 492, 102 S.C. 211.
10 C.J. p 546 note 2 [b].

63. Tex.—Gulf, C & S. F. Ry. Co v. Nelson, 192 S.W. 1056, 108 Tex. 305, affirming, Civ.App., 139 S.W. 81, and certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 13, 245 U.S. 657, 62 L.Ed. 534.

64. N.Y.—Caruso-Rinella-Battaglia Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 226 N.Y.S. 308, 222 App.Div. 371.
Tex.—Atchison, T & S. F Ry. Co v. Ohlhausen, Civ.App., 272 S.W. 224.
10 C.J. p 546 note 6.

65. U.S.—Hudson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., D.C.Minn., 226 F. 38.

66. Kan.—Stewart Poultry Co. v. Erie R. Co., 163 P. 448, 99 Kan. 540.
N.Y.—Caruso-Rinella-Battaglia Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 226 N.Y.S. 308, 222 App.Div. 371.
N.D.—Richards v. Northern Pac. Ry. Co., 173 N.W. 778, 42 N.D. 472

67. Ky.—Blackford v. St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co., 203 S.W. 867, 181 Ky. 70.

68. S.C.—Mitchell v. Greenville, etc., R. Co., 83 S.E. 261, 98 S.C. 319.

69. Mo.—Kemper Mill & Elevator Co. v. Hines, 239 S.W. 803, 293 Mo. 88—Amber v. Davis, 282 S.W. 459, 221 Mo.App. 448
10 C.J. p 547 note 8.
Reconsignment
Where goods were shipped under a bill of lading containing an "order notify" clause and the terminal carrier at the request of the person to be notified, reconsigned the shipment by changing the waybills, although it did not issue any new bills of lading, such reconsignment constituted a delivery to the person to be notified, and, if unauthorized by consignor, the terminal carrier was liable for conversion.—Kemper Mill & Elevator Co. v. Hines, 239 S.W. 803, 293 Mo. 88

70. Minn.—Ratzer v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 66 N.W. 988, 64 Minn. 245, 58 Am.S.R. 530—Foy v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 65 N.W. 627, 63 Minn. 255.

71. N.Y.—Liberty Sales Co. v. Davis, 198 N.Y.S. 253.
10 C.J. p 547 note 10.

72. Ga.—Western, etc., R. Co. v. Exposition Cotton Mills, 7 S.E. 916, 81 Ga. 522, 2 L.R.A. 102.
Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Carter, 46 N.E. 374, 165 Ill. 570, 36 L.R.A. 527
N.Y.—Fenner v. Buffalo, etc., R. Co., 44 N.Y. 505, 4 Am.R. 709.

The main line of a railroad company is liable for all loss occurring on any of its branches over which it exercises a control,[73] but the mere fact that one company is a stockholder of the company owning and operating a connecting line does not render it liable for loss on such line, on the theory that it either has control of such line or is a part owner.[74]

§ 429. Joint Liability

a. Under partnership arrangements
b. Under joint contracts for transportation

a. Under Partnership Arrangements

Where partnership agreements, as distinguished from mere joint traffic arrangements or ownership of stock, exist between connecting carriers, each is liable for loss or injury caused by any one of them to property in course of transportation.

While connecting carriers cannot make arrangements with each other which will preclude either of them from serving the public generally with reference to transportation of goods as a common carrier,[75] and while some question has arisen as to the power of carriers under their charter to form a partnership or association for the purpose of through freight traffic,[76] partnership arrangements for through freights are very generally recognized and enforced in all jurisdictions. Where a partnership relation exists, each is liable for breach of the duty of carrier by any one of them in the course of the transportation, and suit for the loss may be brought against any one of them;[77] and this is so although the general management of each carrier is retained by the respective companies.[78] It has been held that, if an actual state of partnership exists between two connecting roads, the initial carrier cannot limit its liability to damage occurring on its own line, and that any contract to this effect is void;[79] but there is also authority for the opposite view.[80]

However, mere joint traffic arrangements and an agreement for division of freight will not in themselves constitute such a partnership;[81] nor will the fact that one of two connecting carriers owns a large amount of the stock of the other render such carrier liable for loss or injury caused by the negligence of the other.[82] Moreover, an agreement between several carriers to the effect that any injury to property should be paid for by the company on whose line it might occur, but that, if it could not be ascertained where the injury occurred, then each carrier should pay therefor in proportion to its interest in the through charge, does not constitute the carriers partners, and where damage occurs to freight shipped through, only the carrier in whose possession the goods were at the time of the injury can be held liable.[83]

b. Under Joint Contracts for Transportation

Connecting carriers which are parties to joint contracts for transportation are each liable for the others' defaults.

Carriers may enter into joint contracts for the transportation of goods from one place to another,[84] and thereby make themselves responsible for the bringing of goods to their road by other carriers, as long as they do not transcend whatever is reasonably incident to their business as carriers.[85] The effect of these contracts is to make each carrier

73. U.S.—Davis v. Alexander, Okl., 46 S.Ct. 34, 269 U.S. 114, 70 L.Ed. 186.
Ky.—Makeever v. Georgia S. & F. Ry. Co., 294 S.W. 144, 219 Ky. 699.
10 C.J. p 547 note 15.

Dominant and subsidiary lines

(1) "Where one railroad company actually controls another and operates both as a single system, the dominant company will be liable for injuries due to the negligence of the subsidiary company."—Davis v. Alexander, Okl., 46 S.Ct. 34, 35, 269 U.S. 114, 70 L.Ed. 186.

(2) Accordingly, where the first connecting carrier owns and operates the initial carrier it is equally liable for loss to particular shipment—Makeever v. Georgia Southern & F Ry. Co., 294 S.W. 144, 219 Ky. 699

74. Kan.—Atchison, etc, R. Co v. Cochrane, 23 P. 151, 43 Kan. 225, 19 Am S R. 129, 7 L R A. 414—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Davis, 8 P. 530, 34 Kan. 209, 211, allowing rehearing 8 P. 146, 34 Kan. 199.
10 C J. p 547 note 16.

75. Ga.—Seaboard Air-Line Belt R. Co. v. Western, etc., R. Co., 23 S. E. 848, 97 Ga. 289.
10 C.J. p 547 note 17.

76. N.H—Burke v. Concord R. Corp, 61 N H 160.
10 C J. p 547 note 18.

77. Neb.—Missouri Pac. R. Co v. Twiss, 53 N W. 76, 35 Neb 267, 37 Am.S R. 437.
S.C—Smith v. Southern R. Co, 71 S E. 989, 89 S C 415, 418.
10 C.J. p 547 note 20.

78. Ky.—Cincinnati, etc., R. Co v. Spratt, 2 Duv. 4.
N C—Rocky Mount Mills v. Wilmington, etc., R Co., 25 S E. 854, 119 N C 693, 56 Am S R. 682.
10 C J p 547 note 21.

79. Tex—Gulf, etc, R. Co. v. Wilson, 15 S.W 280, 26 S.W. 131, 79 Tex. 371, 23 Am.S R. 345, 11 L.R. A. 486.
10 C J p 548 note 22.

80. U S.—Milne v Douglass, C C. Mo, 13 F 37, 4 McCrary 368.
10 C J. p 548 note 23

81. U S—Pennsylvania R Co v. Jones, 15 S.Ct. 136, 155 U S 333, 39 L Ed 176.
Md—Shockley v. Pennsylvania R Co, 71 A. 437, 109 Md 123
10 C J. p 548 note 24.

82. Tex—Gulf, etc, R Co v. Lee, Civ.App, 65 S W. 54.

83. Mass—Aigen v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 132 Mass. 423
10 C.J. p 549 note 26

84. U S—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Jones, D C, 15 S Ct. 136, 155 U.S 333, 39 L Ed. 176.
10 C J. p 549 note 27.

85. Mass—Saxon Mill v New York, etc, R Co., 101 N E. 1075, 214 Mass. 383.

liable for the default of the other;[86] and it has been held that their liability is not affected by provisions in bills of lading limiting the initial carrier's liability to delays occurring on its own line.[87] Where suit is brought on a joint contract made with several carriers, plaintiff must recover against all or none, in the absence of a statute providing otherwise.[88]

§ 430. One Carrier as Agent of Other Carriers

Where one carrier is empowered to contract in behalf of all, each connecting carrier is liable for the others' defaults.

Although several carriers are not copartners, one of them may be empowered to enter into a through contract with the shipper on behalf of all, and each will be responsible for the defaults of all.[89] The effect of state legislation making each carrier the agent of the others is considered supra § 424 b.

§ 431. Joint Employment of Common Agent by Carriers

Carriers jointly employing a common agent are jointly liable for damages arising from his negligence.

Where carriers jointly employ a common agent, and loss or injury occurs through his negligence, they will be jointly liable therefor.[90]

§ 432. Right of Connecting Carrier to Benefit of Limited Liability in Contract of Carriage

a. In general
b. Where contract expressly extends limitation to connecting carrier
c. Where contract expressly confines limitation to first carrier
d. Where contract does not expressly exclude connecting carrier

a. In General

A contract between the first and second carriers limiting liability is binding on the shipper provided the first carrier is the latter's agent in procuring the transportation, but a connecting carrier is not entitled to the benefit of limitations in a contract independent of the one under which he was acting.

The conflict in the authorities as to what are the relations between the shipper and the successive carriers makes it difficult to lay down general propositions as to whether succeeding carriers are entitled to the lawful exemptions from liability contracted for by the first carrier. If the first carrier is the agent of the shipper for the purpose of procuring transportation over connecting lines, then a contract for limitation of liability made between the first and second carriers, on delivery of the goods to the latter, will be binding on the shipper.[91]

A mere undertaking on part of first carrier to transport to the end of his route and deliver to a connecting carrier does not in itself constitute the first carrier an agent of the shipper in such sense as to authorize him to make such a contract.[92]

Even if there is no authority to contract with the succeeding carrier, the shipper, by suing the last carrier under such contract, may ratify it and thereby become bound to its terms.[93]

A common carrier transfer company carrying, under an independent contract, a trunk arriving on a train as a passenger's baggage and which lost the contents which were not all baggage as between the railway carrier and the passenger, is responsible for the loss, and cannot assert for itself the limitation of liability running in favor of a passenger carrier which, as an incident to the carriage of its passenger, carried his baggage.[94]

b. Where Contract Expressly Extends Limitation to Connecting Carrier

Valid limitations in the initial carrier's contract inure to the benefit of connecting carriers where the contract expressly so provides.

86. Tex.—Gulf, C & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Nelson, 192 S.W. 1056, 108 Tex 305, affirming, Civ.App., 139 S.W. 81, and certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 13, 245 U.S. 657, 62 L.Ed. 534.
10 C.J. p 549 note 29.

Through shipment
Where shipment of goods is to pass through the hands of several carriers in order to reach destination, the various carriers on the through line over which the shipment is to pass make a joint contract whereby a bill of lading is given at the point of origin for the receiving company as well as others on which any company in such line of through traffic can be sued.—Reidsville Paper Box Co v. Southern Ry., 99 S.E. 23, 177 N.C. 351.

87. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Nelson, Civ.App., 139 S.W. 81.

88. Ala.—Veitch v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 68 So. 575, 14 Ala.App. 146.

89. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Foulks, 92 Ill.App. 391, affirmed 60 N.E. 890, 191 Ill. 57.
Mo.—Crockett v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 126 S.W. 243, 147 Mo.App. 347.
Va.—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Read, 12 S.E. 395, 87 Va. 185.
10 C.J. p 549 note 33.

90. Ark.—Kansas City Southern R. Co v. Embry, 90 S.W. 15, 76 Ark. 589.
Pa.—Dulaney v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 77 A. 507, 228 Pa. 180.
10 C.J. p 549 note 34.

91. Ga.—Cranor v. Southern R. Co., 78 S.E. 1014, 13 Ga.App. 86.
10 C.J. p 549 note 37.

92. Ind.—Adams Express Co. v. Byers, 95 N.E. 513, 177 Ind. 33.
N.Y.—Babcock v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 49 N.Y. 491.

93. Pa.—Sanderson v. Lamberton, 6 Binn. 129.

94. Minn.—McQuat v. Cook's Taxicab & Transfer Co., 176 N.W. 763, 145 Minn. 210.

Where the contract of carriage made by the initial carrier expressly provides that limitations of liability therein provided shall inure to the benefit of the connecting carriers, such limitations are, of course, operative in their favor, provided such limitations are valid.[95] If the limitation is one prohibited by law, it is inoperative, in favor either of the initial or of the connecting carriers.[96] In order for any connecting carrier to obtain the benefit of such stipulation, it is not necessary that it should be expressly named in the contract.[97]

c. Where Contract Expressly Confines Limitation to First Carrier

Connecting carriers are not entitled to the benefit of limitations of liability in a contract specifically limiting the benefit thereof to the initial carrier.

Where the original contract specifically provides, as it may do, that the limitations contained therein shall affect the initial carrier only, no subsequent carrier is entitled to the benefit of the limitations.[98] This rule has frequently been applied where it is stipulated that the liability of the initial carrier shall not extend beyond its own line,[99] even though the contract fixes a through rate,[1] but especially where there is no provision in the contract for a through rate.[2]

d. Where Contract Does Not Expressly Exclude Connecting Carrier

Valid limitations of liability not expressly restricted to the initial carrier ordinarily inure to the benefit of the connecting carriers.

Although the contrary view has been taken,[3] according to the weight of authority, where a contract for through transportation contains limited liability clauses which are not in express terms restricted to the initial carrier, the limitations so provided for will inure to the benefit of the connecting carrier, so far as they are valid.[4] Such a contract, it is said, has respect to, and provides for, the service of the carriers on connecting routes.[5] On the same theory it is said that, as the first carrier, by accepting the goods for through transportation without prepayment of charges, impliedly agrees that no demand for charges shall be made until the point of destination is reached, this agreement is binding on succeeding carriers, and they are likewise bound to see that no damage results to the shipper from demand for prepayment of charges by succeeding carriers.[6] However, if the limitation is invalid, the connecting carrier can, of course, claim no more under it than the initial carrier.[7]

§ 433. Under Hepburn Act and Carmack Amendment

In cases governed by federal law, valid limitations of liability in the bill of lading inure to the benefit of all connecting carriers.

Under the Carmack amendment a valid limitation of liability in a bill of lading subject to the act inures not only to the benefit of the initial carrier but also to every connecting carrier over whose line the shipment is forwarded,[8] and the rule is not affected by the fact that the connecting carrier re-

95. Mass.—Florida Cotton Oil Co. v. Clyde S. S. Co., 125 N.E. 855, 235 Mass. 10.
10 C.J. p 550 note 40.

Liability limited to own line
Where cattle were shipped over three lines under a contract that "the carrier shall not be held or deemed liable for anything in connection with said stock beyond its own line of road, and in no event shall one carrier be liable for the negligence of another," such contract "to inure to the benefit of all carriers," the liability of a connecting carrier was confined to such damages as might result from its own negligence, and there was no joint liability between the connecting carriers—Panhandle & S. F. Ry Co. v. Clarendon Grain Co., Tex.Civ.App., 215 S.W. 866.

96. U.S.—Woodburn v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 40 F. 731.
Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Spann, 20 S.W. 914, 57 Ark. 127.
10 C.J. p 550 note 41.

97. Conn.—Meras v New York, etc., R. Co., 52 A. 610, 75 Conn. 171, 96 Am.S.R. 192, 56 L.R.A. 884.

98. U.S.—Liverpool & G. W. Steam Co. v. Phenix Ins. Co., N.Y., 9 S. Ct. 469, 129 U.S. 397, 32 L.Ed. 788.
10 C.J. p 550 note 43.

99. N.Y.—Edsall v. Camden, etc., R., etc., Co., 50 N.Y. 661—Ætna Ins. Co. v. Wheeler, 49 N.Y. 616—Babcock v. Lake Shore, etc., R. Co., 49 N.Y. 491.

1. N.Y.—Ætna Ins. Co. v. Wheeler, 49 N.Y. 616.

2. Ark.—Taylor v. Little Rock, etc., R. Co., 39 Ark. 148.
Ga.—Central R., etc., Co. v. Bridger, 20 S.E. 349, 94 Ga. 471.
Pa.—Camden, etc., R. Co. v. Forsyth, 61 Pa. 81.

3. Wis.—Martin v. American Express Co., 19 Wis. 336.
10 C.J. p 551 note 51.

4. N.Y.—Burke v. Union Pac. R. Co., 166 N.Y.S. 100, 178 App.Div. 783, reversed on other grounds 124 N.E. 119, 226 N.Y. 534, and certiorari granted Union Pac. R. Co. v. Burke, 40 S.Ct. 56, 251 U.S. 548, 64 L.Ed. 409, affirmed 41 S.Ct. 283, 255 U.S. 317, 65 L.Ed. 656.
10 C.J. p 550 note 47.

5. N.Y.—Hachadoorian v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 112 N.Y.S. 660, 128 App.Div. 171.

6. Tenn.—Bird v. Southern R. Co., 42 S.W. 451, 99 Tenn. 719, 63 Am. S.R. 856.

7. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Spann, 20 S.W. 914, 57 Ark. 127.

8. U.S.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Leatherwood, Tex., 39 S.Ct. 517, 250 U.S. 478, 63 L.Ed. 1096.
Ind.—Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co. v. Priddy, 115 N.E. 266, 65 Ind.App. 552.
Mass.—Lyon v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., 163 N.E. 180, 264 Mass. 596, 60 A.L.R. 1247—Florida Cotton Oil Co. v. Clyde S. S. Co., 125 N.E. 855, 235 Mass. 10.
N.Y.—Grand Trunk Ry. Co. of Canada v. Satuloff, 182 N.Y.S. 81.
Vt.—Piper v. Boston & M. R. R., 97 A. 508, 90 Vt. 176, affirmed Boston & M. R. R. v. Piper, 38 S.Ct. 354, 246 U.S. 439, 62 L.Ed. 820.
10 C.J. p 551 note 52.

Time to sue
A valid stipulation in the contract limiting the time for bringing suit for fused to continue the shipment under the contract, with the initial carrier and required the shipper to execute a different contract which did not contain the limitation relied on.[9] On the other hand, any stipulation for limitation of liability, in so far as it is not authorized by the Carmack amendment, is invalid, whether intended for the benefit of the initial carrier or that of the succeeding carrier.[10] Under the Hepburn Act, enlarging the definition of the term "transportation" so as to include all services rendered in connection therewith, and a provision in the bill of lading that "every service to be performed hereunder" is subject to all the conditions therein contained, and that property not removed within forty-eight hours after notice of arrival may be kept "subject to a reasonable charge for storage and to carrier's responsibility as warehouseman only," the liability of the terminal carrier for a loss due to its negligence while the goods were in its possession as warehouseman at the place of destination will be regarded as controlled by a limitation to the agreed valuation made to adjust the rate contained in the bill of lading issued by the initial carrier.[11]

§ 434. Right of Connecting Carrier to Benefit of Stipulation for Notice of Claim for Damages

Stipulations for notice of claim are generally held to inure to the benefit of connecting carriers.

While it has been held that a stipulation that a written notice of claim for damages must be given to the initial carrier within a specified time after delivery of the goods does not inure to the benefit of succeeding carriers,[12] it has also been held that a provision in a through bill of lading for an interstate shipment, requiring reasonable notice of claim for loss or injury, inures to the benefit of the terminal as well as the initial carrier, in case it is sought to make the terminal carrier liable for a misdelivery of the goods,[13] or for loss or injury thereto.[14] So also a provision of this character will inure to the benefit of connecting carriers which have accepted or acquiesced in a through bill of lading containing the provision under a state statute providing that a through bill of lading issued by the initial carrier and accepted or acquiesced in by the connecting carriers shall be regarded as the contract of each connecting carrier.[15]

§ 435. Actions

An action cannot be maintained against a connecting carrier after expiration of the time fixed by valid provision of the bill of lading.

In harmony with the general rules stated supra § 242, an action against a connecting carrier after expiration of a period of limitations validly prescribed by the bill of lading is barred[16] notwithloss, damage, injury or delay inures to the benefit of the connecting carrier.

U.S.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Leatherwood, Tex., 39 S.Ct. 517, 250 U.S. 478, 63 L.Ed. 1096.

Mass.—Lyon v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., 163 N.E. 180, 264 Mass. 596, 60 A.L.R. 1247.

Limited liability as to value

The consignees of onion sets shipped in interstate commerce could recover from the terminal carrier for damage only on the basis of the bona fide invoice price of the property, including freight charges, if prepaid, as its value as stipulated by the standard form bill of lading, issued by the initial carrier in compliance with order No. 787 of the Interstate Commerce Commission, dated June 27, 1908, pursuant to the Carmack amendment to the Interstate Commerce Act, despite the consignees' allegation that the terminal and initial carriers were copartners, and despite the amendment of the Carmack amendment on March 4, 1915 subsequent to the contract of carriage.—Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Reichardt & Schulte Co., Tex.Civ.App., 212 S.W. 208.

9. U.S.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Leatherwood, Tex., 39 S.Ct. 517, 250 U.S. 478, 63 L.Ed. 1096.

Contra Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Jenkins, Tex.Civ.App., 196 S.W. 679, error refused.

Carrier not estopped

Under the Carmack amendment, a bill of lading on an interstate shipment of live stock issued by the initial carrier is binding on the shipper and all connecting carriers, just as the rate properly filed by the initial carrier is binding on them; so connecting carriers, although they insisted as a condition of carrying the shipment further that the shipper accept and sign a new bill of lading, are not estopped to rely on a provision in the original bill of lading limiting the time for action, although the bills they issued contained no such limitation.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Leatherwood, Tex., 39 S.Ct. 517, 250 U.S. 478, 63 L.Ed. 1096.

10. U.S.—Wabash Ry. Co. v. Helt, C.C.A.N.Y., 263 F. 72.

Ind.—Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co. v. Priddy, 115 N.E. 266, 65 Ind.App. 552.

10 C.J. p 551 note 53.

Unsigned release

Where shipper did not sign release clauses on shipping order and bill of lading agreeing to limitation of carrier's liability, and where joint freight tariffs of carriers participating with initial carrier required signing of release clause for limitation of carrier's liability, a connecting carrier, whose freight tariff contained similar requirement, was not entitled to limited liability, notwithstanding it charged merely the reduced rate, the shipper not having signed release and not having been entitled to such reduced rate.—Siebert v. Erie R. Co., 179 N.Y.S. 136, 189 App.Div. 586.

11. U.S.—Cleveland, C. C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Dettlebach, Ohio, 36 S.Ct. 177, 239 U.S. 588, 593, 60 L.Ed. 453.

12. N.Y.—Jennings v. Grand Trunk R. Co., 5 N.Y.S. 140, 52 Hun 227, affirmed 28 N.E. 394, 127 N.Y. 438.

Tex.—Grayson County Nat. Bank v. Nashville, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 79 S.W. 1094—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Grant, 26 S.W. 286, 6 Tex.Civ.App. 674.

13. U.S.—Georgia, F. & A. Ry. Co. v. Blish Milling Co., Ga., 36 S.Ct. 541, 241 U.S. 190, 60 L.Ed. 948.

10 C.J. p 551 note 57.

14. Iowa.—Erisman v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 163 N.W. 627, 180 Iowa 759.

10 C.J. p 551 note 58.

15. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Boger, Civ.App., 169 S.W. 1093.

16. Mass.—Lyon v. Canadian Pac.

standing previous timely litigation against the initial carrier.[17] That such a stipulation inures to the benefit of the connecting carrier under the Carmack amendment is shown supra § 433.

§ 436. Nature and Form

In a proper case the action may be brought either in tort or on the contract.

While it has been held in a few decisions that, where damages result to a through shipment, intermediate or terminal carriers can be sued only in tort and that an action on the contract will not lie,[18] the weight of authority, as disclosed supra § 424 a (2), is to the effect that the through contract of shipment made with the initial carrier is binding on all connecting carriers who receive the goods. In case of a wrongful delivery by the terminal carrier the initial carrier is liable either in tort for the conversion of the goods or on contract for breach of the contract of carriage.[19] An action for damages caused by negligence of one of the connecting carriers can be treated as one for damages against the delivering carrier for failure to deliver in accordance with the terms of the contract.[20]

§ 437. Jurisdiction and Venue

Actions under the Carmack amendment are cognizable by state courts, the venue being governed by the local statutes.

Causes of action based on the Carmack amendment, are cognizable by the state courts,[21] and it has been held that, where the state practice permits, jurisdiction may be obtained in a state court over a nonresident initial carrier to enforce its liability under the Carmack amendment by attachment of the goods of such carrier without personal service,[22] although, on the other hand, it has been held that the remedy given against the initial carrier can be maintained only in a jurisdiction in which service can be had upon such carrier in a manner permissible in the courts of the United States.[23]

Venue in actions against one or more connecting carriers for loss of, or injury to, goods or delay in delivery is a matter of statutory regulation, and, since the Carmack amendment does not purport to deal with the venue of actions brought thereunder, it does not affect the question of venue, which is determined by state laws.[24] On this question different statutes have been applied in the various jurisdictions, such as statutes requiring suit to be brought in the county in which the cause of action originated or the contract was made or to be performed,[25] statutes requiring the action to be brought in the county in which any defendant re-

Ry. Co., 163 N.E. 180, 264 Mass. 596, 60 A.L.R. 1247.

N.Y.—Germini v. Southern Pac. Co., 204 N.Y.S. 603, 209 App.Div. 442.

Disallowance of claim

Under bill of lading providing that written claims for loss or damage must be made to originating or delivering carrier, and requiring suit to be brought within two years and one day after written notice is given by carrier that it has disallowed claim, failure to sue within such time after receiving delivering carrier's written notice disallowing claim is defense to action against connecting carrier, although claim was not disallowed by connecting carrier.—Germini v. Southern Pac. Co., 204 N.Y.S. 603, 209 App.Div. 442.

17. Mass.—Lyon v. Canadian Pac. Ry. Co., 163 N.E. 180, 264 Mass. 596, 60 A.L.R. 1247.

18. Ga.—Davis v. Peacock, 113 S.E. 697, 29 Ga.App. 122.

Ill.—Golden Grain Milling Co. v. St. Louis, S. & P. R. Co., 226 Ill.App. 116. But see Gallagher v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 207 Ill. App. 316.

10 C.J. p. 543 note 76.

19. Mo.—Peycke Bros. Commission Co. v. Sandstone Co-op. Co., 191 S.W. 1088, 195 Mo.App. 417.

20. U.S.—McGinn v. Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co., C.C.A.Wash., 265 F. 81, certiorari granted Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. v. McGinn, 41 S.Ct. 148, 254 U.S. 628, 65 L.Ed. 446, and reversed on other grounds 42 S.Ct. 332, 258 U.S. 409, 66 L.Ed. 689.

21. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 251 S.W. 383, 298 Mo. 474, certiorari granted State of Missouri ex rel. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 44 S.Ct. 132, 263 U.S. 696, 68 L.Ed. 511, affirmed 45 S.Ct. 47, 266 U.S. 200, 69 L.Ed. 247, 42 A.L.R. 1232.

10 C.J. p. 551 note 62.

22. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, supra.

23. U.S.—Pratt v. Denver & R. G. W. R. Co., D.C.Minn., 284 F. 1007.

24. Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Touchstone & Wilbanks, 98 S.E. 485, 148 Ga. 861.

25. Ga.—Adair v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 94 S.E. 840, 21 Ga.App. 564—Askew & Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 58 S.E. 242, 1 Ga.App. 79.

10 C.J. p. 551 note 63 [a].

Issuance of bill of lading

In action by consignor against the initial carrier for damages resulting from failure to notify consignor of consignee's failure to accept the goods, court had jurisdiction where bill of lading was issued in county of suit although exchanged for another.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Ousley, 139 S.E. 586, 37 Ga.App. 215.

Nonresident carrier

Where interstate shipment of goods was damaged by defendant initial carrier or its connecting carrier, superior court of county of destination has jurisdiction of suit for damages against initial, nonresident carrier.—Adair v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 94 S.E. 840, 21 Ga.App. 564.

Contract limiting liability

Where defendant carrier, having no agent or line therein received live stock destined to Tift county, and its contract made its liability cease on delivery to connecting carrier, and stock was delayed by initial and connecting carriers, a petition, in suit for damages alleging such facts, did not make a case where contract was to be performed, or damages occurred in Tift county, so as to give jurisdiction over defendant in that county.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Touchstone & Wilbanks, 98 S.E. 485, 148 Ga. 861.

Refusal to issue through bill

(1) An action for the refusal by a railroad company to issue a through bill of lading over its road to a point on the line of a connecting carrier should be brought in the county of the point of shipment, or in the county of the defendant's residence.—

sides, or in which the contract is made, or in which the carrier agrees to deliver the property,[26] statutes authorizing suit in any county in which suit may be maintained against any of the connecting carriers,[27] and statutes providing that whenever property is transported by two or more railroad companies having an agent or representative in the state suit for damages arising out of such carriage may be brought against any one or all of such common carriers having an agent or representative in the state, in any court in any county in which either of such carriers operates or has an agent or representative.[28] A statute authorizing joint action against connecting carriers and providing that suit is to be instituted in the county of delivery but also providing that other existing remedies may be pursued by plaintiff, is cumulative and not restrictive or exclusive as to venue, and as regards venue the liability of the initial carrier and the connecting carrier under a statute similar to the Carmack amendment is joint and several, so that a statute authorizing a joint or joint and several action to be brought in any county having jurisdiction of any one of the defendants is applicable in an action against connecting carriers.[29] Under a statute permitting one who has contracted in writing to perform an obligation in a particular county to be sued therein or where he has his domicile, it was held that a carrier operating no line of road in the state but having agencies therein, which gives a bill of lading for the delivery of the goods in a county in which it has no agent, with a stipulation limiting its liability to injuries accruing on its own road, may be sued in the county where the goods are delivered for injuries thereto.[30]

§ 438. Parties

a. Plaintiff

b. Defendant

Coles v. Central Railroad & Banking Co., 9 S.E. 127, 82 Ga. 149.

(2) So, where the petition alleged that defendant agreed to carry goods to the terminus of its line, that after they had been shipped in car load lots plaintiffs requested defendant's agent at its terminus to have the goods transferred in the same cars to the road of the connecting carrier, to be by it carried to their destination, which request was refused, it was held that, as defendant had completed its contract, the petition showed no breach of a contract at the terminus of the road that would give the court of that county jurisdiction of an action.—Coles v. Central Railroad & Banking Co., supra.

26. Ky.—Cleveland, C. C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Young, 195 S.W. 93, 175 Ky. 841.
10 C.J. p 551 note 63 [b].

Destination of shipment

Under a statute of this character the venue of an action brought under the Carmack amendment against a nonresident initial carrier for damages to a shipment was in the county of the destination of the shipment, although the bill of lading stipulated that carrier should be responsible only for delivery of shipment to connecting carrier.—Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Young, 195 S.W. 93, 175 Ky. 841.

27. Mo.—Lay v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 138 S.W. 884, 157 Mo.App. 467.
10 C.J. p 551 note 63 [c].

28. Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hines, Civ.App., 18 S.W.2d 833, error refused.
10 C.J. p 552 note 65—p 553 note 73.

Transportation as requisite

Where shipment was made from a point on a certain railroad and a through bill of lading issued in the name of such line for transportation over several other lines, the last of which extended into the county where suit was brought, it was held that court erred in not sustaining a plea of privilege filed by the railroads not running through such county nor having agents or representatives therein, where the shipment in question had been taken by a sheriff before it had ever been delivered to the terminal carrier, the shipment not being "transported" by such last carrier within the meaning of the statute.—Payne v. Coleman, Tex.Civ.App., 232 S.W. 537.

Switching line

(1) That railroad with extensive system acted but for short distance in switching cars of live stock did not destroy its "common carrier" character, so as to prevent suit in any county where connecting carrier did business under the statute.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hines, Tex.Civ.App., 18 S.W.2d 833, error refused—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hines, Tex.Civ.App., 4 S.W.2d 641.

(2) Furthermore, such carrier is a "connecting carrier" and, when impleaded in action against initial carrier, cannot plead privilege of suit in county of residence.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hines, supra.

Domicile of carriers

Under such statutes an action for loss or injury to goods or delay in transportation may be brought against several connecting carriers operating in the state and having an agent therein in a county in which one of the carriers has its domicile, and the others cannot object that they had no domicile in the county.—Texarkana, etc., R. Co. v. Shivel, Tex.Civ.App., 114 S.W. 196.
10 C.J. p 552 note 69.

Nonjoinder of defendant in county

Under this statute a suit may be brought against any one or all of the carriers in any county in which either is operating its road, without joining as a defendant a carrier whose line extends into the county where the suit is brought, or which has a local agent or its principal office in such county.—Nation v. San Antonio Southern Ry. Co., 283 S.W. 157, 115 Tex. 431—10 C.J. p 552 notes 65–68.

Common agent in county

Where several carriers joined as defendants in an action for damages to goods are shown to be partners and agents of each other, and to have a common agent in the county where the action is brought, they are all subject to the jurisdiction of the district court of that county.—New Mexico Eastern R. Co. v. Littlefield, Tex.Civ.App., 135 S.W. 1086.

29. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Strickland, 122 So. 693, 219 Ala. 581.

Doing business in county

Under Code 1923 § 9418, authorizing joint, or joint and several, action in county having jurisdiction of any one of defendants, and § 10045, authorizing joint actions against connecting carriers, it is immaterial whether all carriers sued for loss or damage to shipment are doing business in county where suit is brought, provided Const. 1901 § 232 is not violated by including in the suit a foreign corporation in a county in which it is not doing business and provided court has jurisdiction of one of them.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Strickland, 122 So. 693, 219 Ala. 581.

30. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Hornbeck, 39 S.W. 564, 90 Tex. 496.

a. Plaintiff

An action under the Carmack amendment is properly brought by the lawful holder of the bill of lading, and joint owners are properly joined.

The lawful holder of the bill of lading is the proper party to bring an action under the Carmack amendment,[31] notwithstanding he acquires title thereto after the damages sought to be recovered were inflicted;[32] and an action improperly brought by one who was not the lawful holder of a bill of lading cannot be amended to substitute the lawful holder.[33] A joint owner of the shipment is properly joined as plaintiff in a suit brought under the Carmack amendment.[34]

b. Defendant

The necessity or propriety of joining particular parties defendant is determined largely according to the controlling rules of substantive liability.

The rules as to proper parties defendant in actions for loss or injury where shipments are made over the lines of connecting carriers practically conform to the rules of substantive liability in such cases which have been fully developed in this Title supra §§ 401–431. Thus, where a connecting carrier is sued only for loss occurring on its own line, it cannot object on the ground of nonjoinder of the initial carrier.[35] Where the petition states a cause of action against the terminal carrier only, the initial and intermediate carriers are not necessary parties, but are proper parties in the beginning of the action in view of the possibility of the terminal carrier defending on the ground that it did not receive the shipment;[36] and if the defense is successfully interposed such carriers become necessary parties.[37] As heretofore shown in § 406 a, under the Carmack amendment, the initial carrier which accepts freight for transportation over the line of connecting carriers for interstate shipment is liable for loss or injury whether occurring on its own or on connecting lines and the connecting carrier causing the injury is not a necessary party in an action against the initial carrier under that amendment[38] or a similar state statute, particularly where the statute preserves to the initial carrier its right of action against the connecting line;[39] and, while it has been said that the connecting carrier is not a proper party in such case,[40] it is ordinarily held under the Carmack amendment that the shipper may sue the initial carrier and the carrier causing the loss jointly.[41] In 31. Ill.—Lino v. Northwestern Pac. R. Co., 246 Ill.App. 451, reversed on other grounds 163 N.E. 316, 332 Ill. 93.

Ind.—Bruner v. Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co., 161 N.E. 680, 87 Ind.App. 374.

Consignee

Where the findings are silent as to the ownership of the property after its delivery to the initial carrier, the presumption is that title is vested in the consignee who is therefore the lawful holder of the bill of lading.—Bruner v. Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co., 161 N.E. 680, 87 Ind.App. 374.

"Holder"

(1) The Carmack amendment does not mean that a suit may be maintained against the initial carrier by one whose mere physical possession of the bill is wrongful, or which amounts to nothing more than that of a fiduciary custodian for the actual owner.—Layton v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 149 S.E. 431, 40 Ga.App. 330.

(2) Under the Cummins amendment, 49 U.S.C.A. § 2, the "holder" of a bill of lading, such as is entitled to maintain an action thereon, means a person who has both actual possession of the bill and a right of property therein.—Layton v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., supra.

Shipper

(1) Under the federal Bills of Lading Act, a shipper who delivered cotton to carriers for shipment to a foreign country on order bills of lading, which they attached to drafts and cashed at a bank, could not enjoin the carrier from transporting the cotton to its destination.—Frederick Leyland & Co. v. Webster Bros. & Co., Civ.App., 283 S.W. 332, error dismissed Webster Bros. & Co. v. Frederick Leyland & Co., 283 S.W. 1071, 115 Tex. 511.

(2) In action by one shipping goods to his own order against initial carrier for goods alleged to have been lost by delivering carrier, where plaintiff was not shown to be lawful holder of bill of lading, he could not recover.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Stimson, 268 S.W. 835, 207 Ky. 78.

32. Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Murray, 134 S.E. 171, 162 Ga. 589, answers conformed to 134 S.E. 172, 35 Ga.App. 653.

33. Va.—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Greenwich Corp., 95 S.E. 389, 122 Va. 631.

Proper practice

"In these circumstances, the correct practice would have been for plaintiff to ask to be allowed to suffer a nonsuit before the jury retired, under section 3387 of the Code, and to have renewed the suit in the name of the proper plaintiff."—Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Greenwich Corp., 95 S.E. 389, 390, 122 Va. 631.

34. Tex.—Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Corn, Civ.App., 186 S.W. 807.

35. Or.—Lacey v. Oregon R., etc., Co., 128 P. 999, 63 Or. 596.

Tex.—San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Moore, Civ.App., 39 S.W. 960.

10 C.J. p. 553 note 75.

36. Okl.—Oklahoma, N. M. & P. Ry. Co. v. H. M. S. Drilling Co., 229 P. 420, 100 Okl. 260.

37. Okl.—Oklahoma, N. M. & P. Ry. Co. v. H. M. S. Drilling Co., supra.

38. Ohio.—Norfolk & Western Ry. Co. v. Dresbach, 8 Ohio App. 333.

39. Ark.—Ft. Smith, S. & R. I. R. Co. v. Scroggins, 234 S.W. 999, 150 Ark. 571.

Discretion of court after judgment

Where initial carrier was sued for damages to shipment arising from negligent delay in delivery by subsequent carrier, and no effort was made by defendant to make that carrier party, refusal, after judgment, of motion to make it party defendant and confine execution to it was not abuse of discretion.—Lakeside Packing Co. v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co., 203 N.W. 334, 187 Wis. 350.

40. Ohio.—Norfolk & Western Ry. Co. v. Dresbach, 8 Ohio App. 333.

41. Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Northwestern Fruit Exch., 98 So. 382, 210 Ala. 519.

Mo.—Conley v. Chicago, R. & Q. R. Co., 183 S.W. 1111, 192 Mo.App. 534.

Tex.—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co., 36 S.W.2d 985, 122 Tex. 1, affirming, Com.App., 25 S.W.2d 533, which reversan action against the initial and connecting carriers for damages to a shipment of cattle for failure to furnish sufficient cars, failure to furnish proper and suitable pens and facilities for receiving and caring for the stock, and negligence in loading and rough handling while in the cars, there was no misjoinder, under a statute making all carriers liable for damage sustained anywhere during transportation, where plaintiff claimed no damage as the result of the initial carrier's delay in furnishing the cars as agreed.[42]

If damages to a shipment result from the negligence of each of several carriers over whose line the shipment passes, it has been held that they may be sued jointly[43] or severally.[44] It has been decided, however, that an initial carrier liable to the shipper only for misdelivery and the connecting carrier liable to the shipper only in trover or detinue for the goods could not be sued jointly in an action on the case;[45] and, where an initial carrier is not a party defendant, intermediate or connecting carriers cannot be joined in tort for delayed shipments.[46]

A receiver of a connecting carrier appointed more than two years after the delivery of freight to the initial carrier for transportation is not a proper party to the action for the loss of the freight, in the absence of any allegation that the goods or any part thereof came into his possession, or into the possession of the connecting carrier, after his appointment.[47]

In an action against carriers for delivering plaintiffs' shipment of live stock to another shipper's consignee, the other shipment being delivered to plaintiffs' consignee, the other shipper was not a necessary party defendant.[48]

Partnership or joint contract. Where a partnership relation exists between connecting carriers, or there is a joint contract for a shipment of goods over their respective lines, they may be joined as defendants in an action for loss or injury to the shipment,[49] or any one of them may be sued;[50] and under some statutes two or more carriers may be united as defendants in an action for loss or injury caused by negligence, although there is no partnership relation or joint undertaking by them to carry the particular freight.[51] Where a partnership relation exists between carriers, a connecting carrier which is sued for loss or injury to the shipment cannot object on the ground of the nonjoinder of the initial carrier by whose fault the loss or injury was caused.[52]

§ 439. Pleading

a. Declaration, petition, or complaint
b. Plea or answer
c. Demurrer
d. Issues, proof, and variance

a. Declaration, Petition, or Complaint

Plaintiff must allege facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

Following the rules of pleading in civil actions generally, plaintiff's declaration, petition, or complaint in an action for damages for loss, injury, or delay of goods transported by connecting carriers must state a cause of action, and if it does so, it is sufficient; otherwise it is not. This general rule has been applied in actions against the initial carrier,[53] or as well as in actions against the inter-ed Galveston Wharf Co. v. American Grocery Co., Civ.App., 13 S.W. 2d 983, certiorari granted Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S.Ct. 41, 284 U.S. 608, 76 L.Ed. 521, affirmed 52 S.Ct. 342, 285 U.S. 127, 76 L.Ed. 659.

Utah.—Barry v. Los Angeles & S. L. R. Co., 189 P. 70, 56 Utah 69.
10 C.J. p 553 note 78.

As stated in Corpus Juris, the rule of the text has been cited with approval in Dietz v. Southern Pac. Ry. Co., 28 S.W.2d 395, 398, 225 Mo.App. 39.

42. Tex.—St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Lane, Civ.App., 248 S.W. 59.

43. Ky.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Schaeffer, 280 S.W. 974, 213 Ky. 248.
10 C.J. p 553 note 79.

44. Ind.—Wabash R. Co. v. Priddy, 101 N.E. 724, 179 Ind. 483.

45. Ala.—James v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 81 So. 582, 202 Ala. 640

46. Ohio.—Oyler & Oyler v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 18 Ohio App. 481.

47. Tex.—Davies v. Texas Cent. R. Co., Civ.App., 133 S.W. 295.

48. Tex.—Southern Kansas R. Co. v. Lockhart, Civ.App., 141 S.W. 127
10 C.J. p 553 note 85.

49. Tex.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Dodson, Civ.App., 97 S.W. 523.

50. N.C.—Reidsville Paper Box Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 99 S.E. 23, 177 N.C. 351.
10 C.J. p 547 note 20.

51. Mo.—Crockett v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 126 S.W. 243, 147 Mo.App. 347.

52. Mo.—Central American SS. Co. v. Mobile, etc., R. Co., 128 S.W. 822, 144 Mo.App. 43.
10 C.J. p 553 note 83.

53. Ill.—L. Starks Co. v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 207 Ill.App. 333

Petition or complaint held sufficient

(1) Consignor's petition against initial carrier for damages resulting from failure to give notice of consignee's failure to accept goods stated cause of action.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Ousley, 139 S.E. 586, 37 Ga.App. 215.

(2) Petition to recover for defendant's failure seasonably to deliver shipment to connecting carrier was held not open to exception on ground of vagueness of allegations as to shipments, in view of former trial.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Bone, Tex.Civ.App., 208 S.W. 709, error refused.

(3) A complaint alleging that an initial carrier delivered freight in-mediate or terminal carrier.[54] In an action based on the statutory liability of defendant carrier for damages caused by other carriers plaintiff must plead facts sufficient to bring the case within the statute,[55] but to fix the liability of the initial carrier under the Carmack and Cummins amendments it is unnecessary to allege issuance of a through bill of lading.[56] Prior to the amendment to the Carmack trusted to it to a connecting carrier, not in the good condition in which it had been received, showed that damage was sustained on line of the initial carrier, and stated a cause of action against it under the Carmack Amendment—Pacific Coast Borax Co. v. Shippers' Navigation Co., 178 N.Y.S. 182, 103 Misc. 198.

(4) In parent's action against railroad for delay in transportation of the corpse of deceased child, allegation that by reason of defendant's negligence the corpse was not transferred to the next succeeding passenger train of the connecting carrier leaving the connecting point for the point of destination, as shown by the contract of carriage, was a sufficient allegation of a breach of duty.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bishop, 85 So. 859, 17 Ala.App. 320.

Petition held insufficient

Where corporation canceled contract with railroad to make interstate transportation of stone for railroad's refusal to publish rate specified, corporation's petition to recover from railroad profits lost is demurrable, where transfer to connecting carrier would have been necessary, and corporation sought no publication of rate by connecting carrier or joint publication of rates.—Rowan County Freestone Co. v. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co., 95 S.W.2d 575, 264 Ky. 785.

Damages claimed

While an averment of general notice to railroad company of damages that would result from refusal seasonably to deliver cars to connecting carrier was held sufficient averment as to notice to sustain recovery by consignee who was contractor for loss of his own time, this item of damage was held not fairly to come within any element of actual damages claimed in the petition.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Bone, Tex.Civ.App., 208 S.W. 709, error refused.

54. Ga.—Georgia, F. & A. Ry. Co. v. Pippin, 127 S.E. 300, 33 Ga.App. 573.

Ill.—Pennington v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 115 N.E. 170, 277 Ill. 39.

10 C.J. p 553 notes 89, 90, p 554 notes 91–97.

Petition or complaint held sufficient

(1) Petition, alleging that notify consignee of interstate shipment paid draft attached to bill of lading, and that shipment was damaged by delivering carrier's negligence, was held to state cause of action by consignee against delivering carrier.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Murray, 134 S.E. 172, 35 Ga.App. 653, conforming to answer to certified question, Sup., 134 S.E. 171, 162 Ga. 589.

(2) In shipper's suit against railroad as connecting carrier to recover for damage to interstate shipment of flour originally delivered by shipper to water carrier, failure of petition to state that railroad furnished cars to shipper was held not to render petition demurrable.—Sperry Flour Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 159 S.E. 278, 54 Ga.App. 725.

Complaint held insufficient

Complaint alleging that damage to freight was caused while in the possession of the initial carrier, and not setting forth what part of the damage, if any, was sustained on each of the two lines, did not state a separate cause of action against the connecting carrier, in view of the Carmack amendment.—Pacific Coast Borax Co. v. Shippers' Navigation Co., 178 N.Y.S. 182, 103 Misc. 198.

Waiver of limitation

An allegation in a petition in an action for injuries to live stock shipped under a contract requiring suit within a certain time, that the delay in suing was due to pending negotiations between plaintiff and connecting carriers, was held not to state an implied waiver of the contract limitation by the initial carrier.—Harrington v. Wichita Falls & N. W. Ry. Co., 156 P. 634, 56 Okl. 729.

Petition construed

(1) A petition against connecting carriers for damage resulting from delay in transportation which alleged that the shipper, at the request of the consignee, informed the carrier of the damage which would result from delay in transportation, that the shipper agreed in consideration of the carrier establishing a lower through rate to ship all the materials needed over that line, that thereafter the shipper, acting for the consignee, delivered to the carrier such material for transportation, and that shipments were delayed for an unreasonable length of time, declares on a breach of the original oral contract for shipment, not on the bills of lading subsequently issued.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Nelson, 192 S.W. 1056, 108 Tex. 305, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 13, 245 U.S. 657, 62 L.Ed. 534.

(2) Where a petition against a connecting carrier does not allege that defendant received the goods in good order, the action will be construed as based on carrier's common-law liability, and not on a statute imposing liability on carriers receiving the goods in good order.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Waxelbaum Produce Co., 90 S.E. 987, 19 Ga.App. 64.

(3) So if the petition alleges a good common-law action, an averment that defendant received the goods "as in good order," does not necessarily render the action one brought solely under a statute providing that the last of several connecting carriers which has received the goods "in good order" shall be liable for any damage thereto.—Philadelphia & Reading Ry. Co. v. Venable, 43 S.E. 407, 117 Ga. 142.—Southern Express Co. v. Turner, 103 S.E. 802, 25 Ga.App. 625.

55. Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Cox, Civ.App., 221 S.W. 1043.

Contract for through carriage

To recover from a terminal carrier the damages to shipment caused by preceding carriers, plaintiff must plead that the shipment was on a contract for through carriage, recognized, acquiesced in, or acted upon by the carriers so as to bring the case within a statute imposing liability in such case; and there can be no recovery against the carrier for the loss, where a contract of this character was not pleaded, even though the evidence established such contract.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. v. Cox, Tex.Civ.App., 221 S.W. 1043.

Petition held sufficient

(1) Shipper's allegation that defendant railroads, their agents, and representatives undertook to transport cattle from certain point to another named point, and there to deliver them to commission company, was held sufficient to allege through shipment.—Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. v. Cauble, Tex.Civ.App., 286 S.W. 478.

(2) So a petition by shipper of live stock alleging receipt by initial carrier and acceptance of shipment for safe carriage over its road and defendant's connecting line of road from and between designated stations sufficiently alleged through shipment.—St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Lane, Tex.Civ.App., 248 S.W. 59.

56. Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 251 S.W. 383, 298 Mo. 474, amendment making the liability thereunder apply in case of property reconsigned or diverted, however, it was necessary in an action against the initial carrier for delay to a diverted shipment to allege diversion before the shipment reached its destination or to show that it moved on a through bill of lading.[57]

As already shown supra § 424 b, in the absence of special contract or statute providing otherwise, or of a partnership relation, each of several connecting carriers is liable only for loss or injury occurring on its own line. Hence, if it is sought to charge one of several connecting carriers for loss or injury, it must ordinarily be alleged that the loss or injury occurred on its line,[58] or was caused by its negligence,[59] or that the carriers were joint contractors, or that some similar relation existed between them,[60] although if facts are stated which show that the carriers sustain a partnership relation to each other, it is not essential that the complaint should in terms designate them as partners, or use any particular words to describe the relation existing between them.[61] It is also necessary, if it is sought to charge one of a line of connecting carriers for loss or injury occurring on another line, to allege the acts of the other connecting carriers from which liability might arise.[62] However, in view of the presumption of law stated infra § 440 c (3) that the terminal carrier received the shipment in good condition if it was so received by the initial carrier, it has been held that in an action certiorari granted State of Missouri ex rel. St. Louis, B & M. Ry Co v. Taylor, 44 S.Ct. 132, 263 U.S. 696, 68 L.Ed. 511, affirmed 45 S.Ct. 47, 266 U.S. 200, 69 L.Ed. 247, 42 A.L.R. 1232.

Tex.—Burd v. San Antonio Southern Ry Co., Com.App., 261 S.W. 1021, modifying San Antonio Southern Ry Co. v. Burd, Civ.App., 246 S.W. 1060.

Petition held sufficient

A petition against a railroad company, alleging that goods were delivered to the company, which operated lines only within the state of shipment, for transportation to points in other states, that plaintiff had become the owner of the goods, and that through defendant's negligence and violation of its common-law duty as a common carrier the goods were damaged, states a cause of action under Carmack amendment although it does not expressly allege that a bill of lading had been issued by the defendant carrier. In such case the allegation that the goods were delivered to a carrier in a named state outside of which it did not operate, for shipment to a destination in another state, is equivalent to an allegation that a through bill of lading was issued to that destination, since the carrier was required by the federal statute to issue a through bill of lading, and the presumption will be indulged that it did what the law required it to do.—State ex rel. and to Use of St. Louis, B. & M. Ry Co. v. Taylor, 251 S.W. 383, 298 Mo. 474, certiorari granted State of Missouri ex rel St Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 44 S.Ct. 132, 263 U.S. 696, 68 L.Ed. 511, affirmed 45 S.Ct. 47, 266 U.S. 200, 69 L.Ed. 247, 42 A.L.R. 1232.

57. Ala.—Clark v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 114 So. 295, 216 Ala. 637.

Complaint held insufficient

Ala.—Clark v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 114 So. 295, 216 Ala. 637.

58. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Gardner, 56 S.E. 454, 127 Ga. 320.

N.D.—Ausk v. Great Northern R. Co., 86 N.W. 719, 10 N.D. 215.

S.C.—Felder v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 21 S.C. 35, 53 Am.R. 656.

59. Ga.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Morris, 95 S.E. 284, 147 Ga. 729, reversing Morris v. Southern Ry. Co., 91 S.E. 878, 19 Ga.App. 495, conformed to 95 S.E. 741, 22 Ga. App. 154—Southern Express Co. v. Turner, 103 S.E. 802, 25 Ga.App. 625.

Allegation held sufficient

(1) A petition alleging that a defendant neglected to carry and deliver a hog safely, in that, before it arrived at a certain place, it died while in defendant's possession to plaintiff's damage, as against a general demurrer, sufficiently alleges injury was caused by defendant's negligence.—Southern Express Co. v. Turner, 103 S.E. 802, 25 Ga.App. 625.

(2) Allegations in suit against terminal carrier for loss of goods shipped from Massachusetts to Augusta, Ga., of its receipt thereof from connecting carrier in good order, and its failure to deliver them, not expressly declaring upon state or federal statute, were sufficient to show that loss was caused by defendant's negligence.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Stovall-Pace Co., 100 S.E. 657, 24 Ga.App. 248.

60. N.C.—M. V. Moore & Co. v. Southern Ry Co., 111 S.E. 166, 183 N.C. 213

10 C.J. p. 553 note 90.

Complaint held sufficient

A complaint against a terminal carrier for delay in a shipment of live stock, which alleged that the initial and terminal carriers with another had associated themselves together into a system, and that each member was fully authorized to contract for the shipment of live stock freight over the system, sufficiently alleges that the contract entered into in the name of the initial carrier was also the contract of the terminal carrier, so that a breach of the contract, occurring on either line, created a joint obligation against both carriers.—Martin v. Union Pac. R. Co., 192 P. 506, 69 Colo. 174.

Under the Carmack amendment which makes the initial carrier liable for loss or injury to an interstate shipment occurring on any connecting line, the complaint in an action against the initial carrier for loss or injury to goods shipped need not give the names of the connecting lines. It is sufficient to allege the name of the initial carrier only.—Pecos, etc., R. Co. v. Meyer, Tex. Civ.App., 155 S.W. 309.

In Georgia, under a statute providing that, when freight to be conveyed by several carriers is lost, any connecting carrier, on application by shipper or consignee, shall trace such freight, and inform the applicant by which carrier it was lost, and making it liable, on failure to trace such freight, as if the loss had occurred on its line, a petition averring the loss of freight shipped by certain carriers, and the failure of the carrier at destination to trace it after verbal application of the shipper, states a cause of action against such carrier for the value of such loss of freight.—Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Hardin, 35 S.E. 681, 110 Ga. 433.

61. Mo.—Wyman v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 4 Mo.App. 35.

62. Tex.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Hatchell, 55 S.W. 186, 22 Tex. Civ.App. 498.

against the terminal carrier it is necessary to aver only that the initial carrier received the goods in good condition and that they were delivered to plaintiff in damaged condition;[63] and this has been said to be the rule in an action against the initial and terminal carriers where the statute makes the initial carrier liable for any damage caused by any carrier,[64] and in an action based on joint and several liability of defendant carriers.[65] So in an action against several connecting carriers jointly for injuries caused by negligence, it will be sufficient to allege the negligence generally and the damages resulting therefrom in transporting the goods,[66] and it is not necessary to allege what effect the negligence of each carrier had on the goods,[67] nor the particular amount of damages caused by each defendant on its own line,[68] it being sufficient to allege that the damages were caused by all the defendants.[69] Even if this were not so, where suit is brought against two railroads for injuries to a shipment due to negligence, where it is alleged that both defendants were really one and the same road, operated by the same management, which allegation is not specifically denied, defendants cannot object to the sufficiency of the allegations in regard to the times and places at which the alleged negligence occurred.[70]

In an action for damages to a shipment of live stock it is proper to plead anything which in the reasonable contemplation of the parties may affect the market value of the stock in determining whether there was a loss.[71]

In a proper case the petition may be amended to aver additional facts.[72]

b. Plea or Answer

Affirmative defensive matter must be specially pleaded.

In actions against one or more of several connecting carriers, answers and pleas are governed by the general rules as to such pleadings in civil actions generally and by such statutory provisions as may be in force relating to defenses in actions against such carriers. Thus defendant should specially plead affirmative defensive matter in avoidance of the damage,[73] such as diligence of the carrier in giving notice of arrival or negligence of the consignee in failing to ascertain the arrival,[74] and where, in a consignee's action for damages to a shipment, plaintiff averred receipt by the initial carrier in good condition and delivery to him in bad condition, the burden was on the connecting carrier

63. La.—Snowden v. Tremont & G. Ry. Co., App., 140 So. 122.

Petition held insufficient as not having alleged delivery to initial carrier in good condition.—Snowden v. Tremont & G. Ry. Co., La.App., 140 So. 122.

64. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Strickland, 122 So. 693, 219 Ala. 581.

Complaint held sufficient

Counts following substantially the statutory form for suit on bill of lading against common carrier, except that they alleged receipt of apples by director general during federal control and by connecting carriers when such control was relinquished March 1, 1920, to be delivered for a reward, are good as against demurrer.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Northwestern Fruit Exch., 98 So. 382, 210 Ala. 519.

Joining all carriers

It has been held that the joining of initial, intermediate, and delivering carriers by petition alleging delivery to first carrier and failure of terminal carrier to deliver portion of shipment constitutes statement of cause of action against latter carrier only.—Oklahoma, N. M. & P. Ry. Co. v. H. M. S. Drilling Co., 229 P. 420, 100 Okl. 260.

65. Ky. — Makeever v. Georgia Southern & F. Ry. Co., 294 S.W. 144, 219 Ky. 699.

66. Tex.—San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Martin, 108 S.W. 981, 49 Tex. Civ. App. 197.

67. Tex.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, 91 S.W. 611, 41 Tex. Civ. App. 327.
10 C.J. p. 554 note 94.

68. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Cunningham, 113 S.W. 767, 51 Tex. Civ. App. 368.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Stribling, Civ.App., 94 S.W. 436.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Phillips, Civ.App., 91 S.W. 242.

69. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Phillips, Civ.App., 91 S.W. 242.

70. Tex.—Southern R. Co. v. Bennett, Civ.App., 103 S.W. 1115.
10 C.J. p. 554 note 97.

71. Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. West Bros., Com.App., 207 S.W. 918, affirming in part and reversing in part St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. West Bros., Civ.App., 159 S.W. 142, rehearing denied Texas & P. R. Co. v. West Bros., Com.App., 214 S.W. 808.

Loss of fill

In an action against connecting carriers for damage to a shipment of live stock by delay, if the shipment was delayed by defendant, and on account of such delay plaintiffs' cattle were damaged in appearance and lost in weight by reason of "loss of fill," reasonably in contemplation, such loss of fill may properly be shown as affecting market value.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. West Bros., Tex.Com.App., 214 S.W. 808, denying rehearing 207 S.W. 918, which affirmed in part and reversed in part St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. West Bros., Civ.App., 159 S.W. 142.

72. Amendments held proper

(1) Where the original petition did not show that shipment was an interstate one over the lines of several carriers and that defendant was the last carrier, an amendment stating these facts does not set out a new cause of action.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Waxelbaum Produce Co., 90 S.E. 987, 19 Ga.App. 64.

(2) In action against carrier for damages to interstate shipment of hogs, that the original petition was on a written contract and the amendment to petition was on an implied contract was immaterial, being matter of procedure governed by state practice.—Bowles v. Quincy, O. & K. C. R. Co., Mo.App., 187 S.W. 131.

73. Tex.—Levin v. International-Great Northern R. Co., Civ.App., 45 S.W.2d 435, error dismissed.
10 C.J. p. 554 notes 98, 99

74. Tex.—Levin v. International-Great Northern R. Co., supra.

to plead that it had received them in the condition in which it had delivered them.[75]

c. Demurrer

Questions as to misjoinder of parties cannot be raised by demurrer.

It has been held that in an action against several connecting carriers for refusal to deliver goods transported, the question whether the initial and the intermediate carriers were proper parties cannot be raised by demurrer,[76] and that, in an action against the last connecting interstate carrier, a demurrer setting up that under the federal statute only the initial carrier could be sued was properly overruled.[77]

d. Issues, Proof, and Variance

The pleadings must be supported by appropriate proof without material variance.

Following the rules applicable to the proof and variance in civil actions generally, every essential allegation of plaintiff's pleading must be supported by appropriate proof,[78] which must be confined to the issues raised by the pleadings.[79] While there must be no material variance between the facts alleged and the facts proved,[80] immaterial variances may be disregarded.[81]

75. Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Northwestern Fruit Exch., 98 So. 382, 210 Ala. 519

76. Ind.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. McWhinney, 36 Ind. 436.

77. Ga.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Waxelbaum Produce Co., 90 S.E. 987, 19 Ga.App. 64.

78. Iowa.—Quillen v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 164 N.W. 779, 181 Iowa 536

Conversion

Under a complaint for a conversion by a carrier while goods were in defendant's possession as a carrier between the point of shipment and the point of destination, alleging that defendant was a common carrier, and that it unlawfully and wrongfully sold goods shipped by plaintiff, without his knowledge or consent, plaintiff cannot recover except on proof that defendant sustained the relation of a carrier of plaintiff's goods at the time of their conversion, or had so contracted with plaintiff as to be liable for loss by any other carrier or bailee.—McCaslin v. Southern Pac. Co., 203 P. 742, 187 Cal. 716.

Execution of contract

Where interstate live stock shipper alleged execution of contract with defendant connecting carrier, which failed specially to deny such allegation, a statute rendering proof of signature of written instrument unnecessary, unless denied, did not remove burden of proof of execution from shipper, where bill of lading on its face was made by initial carrier only.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Walker, 77 So. 191, 116 Miss. 431

Negligence

Shipper suing for damage to interstate shipment, resulting from carrier's negligence, has burden of proving negligence.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. S. L. Robinson & Co., 298 S.W. 873, 175 Ark. 35.

79. N.C.—M. V. Moore & Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 111 S.E. 166, 183 N.C. 213.

Assumption of liability for other's acts

Where plaintiff sued for the value of grain lost through defendant's negligence, asserting that it was lost while on board boats owned and operated by defendant, plaintiff cannot be permitted, the evidence showing that the boats belonged to a preceding carrier, to prove or recover on theory that defendant by special agreement had assumed liability for acts of such carrier.—Knapp v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. Ry. Co., 159 N.W. 81, 34 N.D. 466.

Partnership or joint contract

Where the complaint did not allege a partnership between connecting carriers or special contract for joint transportation, but merely alleged delivery to the receiving carrier for transportation by it and connecting carriers under a bill of lading, proof of a partnership or special contract was incompetent and would not support a recovery, and liability depended on the legal import of the bill of lading itself.—M. V. Moore & Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 111 S.E. 166, 183 N.C. 213.

80. Iowa.—Quillen v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 164 N.W. 779, 181 Iowa 536.

Contract of carriage

(1) A party who lays his case for damages for delay against a railroad company on a bill of lading on the theory of a breach of express interstate contract of afreightment does not establish his case as laid on proving that the carriage to the ultimate destination was effectuated by two separate contracts, one being express and intra-state and the other implied and interstate.—Taylor v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 121 S.E. 348, 31 Ga.App. 374.

(2) Where the petition in an action against the initial carrier for damages for delay in shipment of live stock, declared upon a written contract whereby defendant undertook to transport plaintiff's live stock to Chicago, and the allegation was denied, there was a fatal variance between pleading and proof when he failed to put the contract in evidence.—Quillen v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 164 N.W. 779, 181 Iowa 536

(3) Where petition alleged delivery of baggage to defendant railroads as successive carriers, but proof showed new and independent contract with appellant transfer company, there was variance between allegations and proof.—Ford v. Wabash Ry. Co., 300 S.W. 769, 318 Mo. 723, affirming, App., 266 S.W. 1032

Negligence

In action against initial carrier for negligent delay in delivery of live stock shipment, where petition did not allege negligence by connecting carrier, but predicated liability on negligence of initial carrier alone, plaintiff could not recover upon proof of connecting carrier's negligence, notwithstanding a state statute relating to joint liability for acts of all carriers.—Ft. Worth & R. G. Ry. Co. v. Jones, Tex.Civ.App., 212 S.W. 552.

Theory of recovery

In an action against an initial carrier for conversion by a connecting carrier in selling the shipment for transportation charges on refusal thereof by consignee, the shipper cannot recover for negligence in failing to notify the connecting carrier that it held, as alleged in the complaint, an indemnity bond for payment of the freight, and that plaintiff was arranging to sell the goods to others, the allegation as to the bond being necessary to show that the sale by the carrier was wrongful.—McCaslin v. Southern Pac. Co., 203 P. 742, 187 Cal. 716

81. Mo.—Johnson v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 249 S.W. 658, 211 Mo.App. 564.

Delivery to carrier

Where an action against carrier

Under a general denial, it may be shown that the injury was not caused by defendant but by the negligence of the consignor in loading the shipment[82] or that the terminal carrier transported the goods with reasonable diligence to their destination.[83] So, in an action against a terminal carrier for a delay, it is entitled to prove under the general issue that the delay, if any, was that of the initial carrier.[84]

§ 440. Presumptions and Burden of Proof

a. In general
b. Delivery of goods
c. Loss or injury
d. Unreasonable delay
e. Instructions to connecting carrier
f. Issuance of bill of lading
g. Damages

a. In General

The burden is on the plaintiff to prove his cause of action and on the defendant to prove its defense.

In accordance with the general rules applicable to civil actions generally and the principles discussed in succeeding subdivisions of this section, in an action against initial or connecting carriers for loss or damage to goods transported the burden is on plaintiff to prove all the facts essential to his recovery,[85] including the contract[86] or negligence[87] upon which his cause of action is based. The burden is on defendant to establish its affirmative defenses,[88] such as the defense of contributory negligence[89] or a defense that its failure to forward a loaded car was excused by not receiving empty cars as provided by statute;[90] and, where defendant's liability is prima facie established, it has the burden of proving that the injuries resulted from some cause for which it is not liable.[91] Where defendant establishes a defense under the provisions of the contract, the burden is upon plaintiff to prove want for damages to a shipment of potatoes was commenced in justice court in which there are no formal pleadings and great liberality is indulged in respect to the statement of a cause of action and the complaint alleged delivery to defendant, a connecting carrier, whereas the evidence showed delivery by plaintiff to another, the initial carrier, the variance is to be regarded as not material and hence not prejudicial where no affidavit of surprise was filed.—Johnson v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 249 S.W. 653, 211 Mo.App. 564.

No variance

(1) There is no variance between proof that defendant carrier delayed shipments at junction point with another carrier at certain date, and allegations that goods were delivered to defendant a month previous to such date—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Bone, Tex.Civ.App., 199 S.W. 332.

(2) In view of a former trial of the case, admission of evidence as to shipments delayed was held to create no variance or surprise where the petition by the consignee sought to recover for the carrier's refusal seasonably to deliver to a connecting carrier—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Bone, Tex.Civ.App., 208 S.W. 709, error refused.

82. S.C.—M. C. Johnson Motor Co. v. Payne, 107 S.E. 252, 116 S.C. 171.

83. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Brackett-Fielder Mill, etc., Co., Civ.App., 162 S.W. 1191.

84. Ala.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Strickland-Metcalf Grocery Co., 58 So. 678, 4 Ala.App. 372.

85. Me.—Hayden v. Maine Cent. R. R., 103 A. 1047, 117 Me. 560.
Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Walker, 77 So. 191, 116 Miss. 431.

Title to bill of lading

Person suing initial carrier for damages to interstate shipment must establish title to bill of lading—Bruner v. Chicago & E. I. Ry. Co., 161 N.E. 680, 87 Ind.App. 374.

86. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Walker, 77 So. 191, 116 Miss. 431.

87. Ill.—Aurora Automatic Machinery Co. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 217 Ill.App. 60.

Negligence of connecting carrier

A statute providing that any connecting carrier of a through shipment may be held liable for negligence of any other connecting line does not relieve party suing of the burden of alleging and proving the negligence of such other connecting line upon which the cause of action is based.—Ft. Worth & R. G. Ry. Co. v. Jones, Tex.Civ.App., 212 S.W. 552.

88. Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Bone, Civ.App., 199 S.W. 332.
10 C.J. p. 374 note 1 [a]

Special plea

Where delivering carrier, sued for damage to goods, specially pleaded that injury was brought about by causes beyond its control, it has burden of establishing such plea—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Gillis Mule Co., 103 So. 906, 20 Ala.App. 535, certiorari denied Ex parte Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 103 So. 909, 212 Ala. 635.

89. Tex.—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Cromley, Civ.App., 214 S.W. 721.

90. Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Bone, Civ.App., 199 S.W. 332.

91. Ala.—Lynn v. Mellon, 131 So. 458, 24 Ala.App. 144.
Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Council Bros., 137 S.E. 569, 36 Ga.App. 573.

Contract limiting liability

(1) In an action against an initial carrier wherein the carrier set up a contract different from that proved by plaintiff limiting its liability and that it had complied with the terms thereof, the carrier was bound to prove that the contract was known and assented to by plaintiff, and that defendant had fully performed it—Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Blakemore, 1 Ohio Cir.Ct. 42, 1 Ohio Cir. Dec. 26.

(2) Where bill of lading for interstate shipment of grapes provided that, "except in case of negligence of the carrier or party in possession (and the burden to prove freedom of such negligence shall be on the carrier or the party in possession), the carrier or party in possession shall not be liable for loss or damage . . . resulting from a defect or vice in the property," and shipper alleged that fruit was damaged in that it had decayed, and specified the defaults either ex contractu or ex delicto of the carrier which it claimed caused the decay, burden of proof was on the carrier to prove freedom from negligence alleged, the allegations raising a prima facie case against it—Cassone v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 123 A. 280, 100 Conn. 262.

of consideration for the contractual stipulations which would defeat his recovery.[92] So, where the bill of lading contained a valid provision exempting the carrier from liability for loss by fire, on proof of destruction of the shipment by fire the burden of proving negligence was on the shipper, there being no presumption of negligence.[93] Negligence will not be presumed from the fact that the initial carrier by truck did not carry the goods in its own truck where nothing in the contract of carriage required it to do so.[94] There is a rebuttable presumption that goods loaded by the shipper in interstate commerce were as described and were properly loaded.[95]

Where an action is brought against defendant as "initial carrier" in an interstate shipment and there is no proof that the loss or injury occurred at any particular point on the route of transportation, it must be inferred that plaintiff bases his suit on the Carmack amendment, that is, on the obligation for through transportation, and therefore upon the contract expressed in the bill of lading.[96]

While a bill of lading does not necessarily determine the local or foreign character of the shipment, it is prima facie evidence on the subject; and, in the absence of proof, direct or circumstantial, that an interstate movement was in the contemplation of the parties when the goods were delivered for carriage, a bill of lading for a purported intra-state shipment will not be presumed, without further evidence, to have issued for an interstate shipment.[97] There is no presumption that a transportation, when commenced, is to be continued beyond the state limits.[98]

b. Delivery of Goods

The burden is on the plaintiff to show delivery of the goods to the carrier.

In an action against a terminal carrier for loss of goods, the burden is on plaintiff to prove the delivery of the goods to the initial carrier.[99] The same rule applies in an action for delay.[1] It has also been held that the burden of proof is on plaintiff to establish the receipt of the goods by defendant unless some relation of agency or partnership or some special contract affects the status.[2]

c. Loss or Injury

(1) In actions against initial carrier
(2) In actions against intermediate carrier
(3) In actions against terminal carrier

(1) In Actions against Initial Carrier

In actions against the initial carrier the burden is on the plaintiff, according to some authorities, to show that the loss occurred while the property was in its custody; but there is also authority holding otherwise.

According to many decisions, in order to hold the initial carrier liable for loss of, or injury to, goods, the burden rests on plaintiff to show that the loss or injury occurred while the property was in its custody; or in other words, to show a failure to deliver the goods to the connecting carrier, or a delivery thereof in bad condition.[3] There is no presumption that injury or loss occurred while the goods were in the hands of the initial carrier,[4] nor against the initial carrier as to the line on which the damage occurred.[5] The rule is not affected by a statute providing that in case of loss of, or injury to, a shipment over connecting lines, the initial carrier shall, on demand, give satisfactory proof to the consignor that the loss or injury did not occur on its line, and that, if it fails to furnish such proof, it will itself be liable therefor, in cases where the consignor sues the initial carrier without making the demand provided for by the statute;[6] nor is it affected by a statute which provides that, where a railroad company contracts to carry goods beyond the terminus of its own line and stipulates that there shall be no liability for damages to property beyond its own terminus, it shall be held for any damage occurring to property, unless it proves that it was not liable therefor, in cases where there

92. Miss.—Illinois Cent R. Co. v. Rogers & Hurdle, 76 So. 686, 116 Miss. 99.

93. Tex.—A. L. Wolff & Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas, Civ.App., 283 S.W. 250, affirmed, Com.App., 289 S.W. 1000.

94. U.S.—Nebraska Co-op Creameries v. Des Moines Transp. Co., D.C.Iowa, 16 F.Supp. 853.

95. S.C.—M. C. Johnson Motor Co. v. Payne, 107 S.E. 252, 116 S.C. 171.

96. Ill.—Wood & Co. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 240 Ill.App. 6.

97. Ga.—Taylor v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 121 S.E. 348, 31 Ga. App. 374.

98. Ga.—Taylor v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., supra.

99. Ala.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Gillis Mule Co., 103 So. 906, 20 Ala.App. 535, certiorari denied Ex parte Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 103 So. 909, 212 Ala. 635.
N.C.—Riff v. Yadkin R. Co., 127 S.E. 588, 189 N.C. 585.
10 C.J. p 555 note 6.

1. Ill.—Mexican Import Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 193 Ill.App. 26.

2. Ala.—Southern Express Co. v. Saks, 49 So. 392, 160 Ala. 621.
10 C.J. p 555 note 8.

3. Mass.—Emery & Co. v. Boston & M. R. R., 120 N.E. 106, 230 Mass. 463.
10 C.J. p 555 note 9.

4. Okl.—Lusk v. Durant Nursery Co., 232 P. 11, 73 Okl. 269.
10 C.J. p 528 note 80, p 555 note 10.

5. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Pearce, 101 S.W. 760, 82 Ark. 353, 118 Am.S.R. 75, 12 Ann.Cas. 125.

6. Okl.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Rutherford, 120 P. 266, 29 Okl. 850.
10 C.J. p 555 note 12.

is no evidence of a through contract.[7] However, where it is shown that a portion of the damage was done by the initial carrier, it will be presumed to have caused the whole damage unless it submits proof to the contrary.[8] Where plaintiff has rebutted the presumption that the injury occurred on the line of the terminal carrier, and the intermediate carrier has shown that it was not responsible for the injury, it then devolves on the initial carrier to rebut any presumption of negligence arising from the circumstances.[9]

Nevertheless, in a number of decisions the view has been taken that, where an initial carrier is sued for loss or injury, the burden rests on it to show that such loss or injury did not occur on its line[10] and that proper care was exercised to prevent the loss.[11] So the first carrier, on proof by the owner of damage of the goods, has the burden of showing delivery in good order to the connecting carrier.[12] The rule, it has been said, is in no way affected by the presumption, as against a connecting carrier, that the goods were received in the same order as when received by the initial carrier;[13] nor is it affected by a statute which raises a presumption that injury to freight in possession of a carrier was caused by its negligence.[14] The initial carrier, however, is not bound to prove when, where, or by whose negligence the goods were lost;[15] and the rule does not apply where a shipper of live stock agrees to care for the stock while in transit and accompanies them for that purpose, because he is in a situation to know the facts, equal, if not superior, to that of the carrier.[16]

Neither the Carmack amendment[17] nor a state statute[18] which makes the initial carrier liable for loss or injury occurring on connecting lines as well as on its own, imposes upon the shipper the burden of establishing in a suit against the initial carrier whether the loss was caused by it or the connecting carrier. Where holders of bills of lading in an interstate shipment prove nondelivery of the goods to consignee, it is presumed that they have been lost by negligence of the carrier or its agents, and the burden of showing that the loss resulted from some cause for which the initial carrier was not responsible is on it.[19] However, where goods were reconsigned after termination of the liability of the initial carrier as such, the burden is on plaintiff to establish that the damage occurred while defendant was the initial carrier,[20] and where it is held, as stated supra § 406 a, that the initial carrier is not liable for any loss occurring while the delivering carrier is holding the goods as warehouseman, in an action against the initial carrier for loss of goods alleged to have been removed from a car while in the hands of the delivering carrier, the burden is on plaintiff to prove that the loss occurred while the delivering carrier held the goods as

7. Iowa. — McManus v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 115 N.W. 919, 138 Iowa 150, 128 Am.S.R. 180.

8. Ga.—Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Pless, 60 S.E. 8, 3 Ga.App. 400.

9. Tex.—Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Shanley, 81 S.W. 1014, 36 Tex.Civ. App. 291.

Shipment over two lines

The rule of the text is applicable where the shipment is over only two lines and negligence on the part of the delivering carrier is expressly negatived.—Southeastern Express Co. v. Fry Produce Co., 2 Tenn.App. 37.

10. Ohio. — Pennsylvania Co. v. Quinby, 7 Ohio App. 197.
10 C.J. p. 555 note 16.

11. Ohio. — Pennsylvania Co. v. Quinby, 7 Ohio App. 197.

12. U.S.—Inland Waterways Corporation v. Standard Commercial Tobacco Co., C.C.A.La., 65 F.2d 715.

13. Ala.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Chicago Varnish Co., 53 So. 832, 169 Ala. 287.

14. N.C.—Meredith v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 50 S.E. 1, 137 N.C. 478.

15. Pa.—American Express Co. v. Titusville Second Nat. Bank, 69 Pa. 394, 8 Am.R. 268.

16. Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Vaughan, Civ.App., 41 S.W. 415.

17. U.S.—Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Collins Produce Co., Ill., 235 F. 857, 149 C.C.A. 169, affirmed 39 S. Ct. 189, 249 U.S. 186, 63 L.Ed. 552. "The first claim is that the court refused to rule, that by its terms, the Carmack Amendment (Act June 29, 1906, chap. 3591, sec. 7, pars. 11, 12, 34 Stat. 595 [Comp.St. §§ 8604a, 8604aa]) casts upon the shipper the burden of proving affirmatively that the loss which occurred on a connecting line was 'caused by' the connecting carrier. But, assuming that the question is presented by the record, which is doubtful, Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio Ry. Co. v. Wallace, 32 S.Ct. 205, 223 U.S. 481, 491, 56 L.Ed. 516, rules that, under the act as construed in Atlantic Coast Line R. R. Co. v. Riverside Mills, 31 S.Ct. 164, 219 U.S. 186, 205, 206, 55 L.Ed. 167, 31 L.R.A.,N.S., 7, in such a case as we have here the liability of the initial carrier is as if the shipment had been between stations in different states, but both upon its own line, and this renders the contention untenable."—Chicago & E. I. R. Co. v. Collins Produce Co., 39 S.Ct. 189, 190, 249 U.S. 186, 63 L.Ed. 552, affirming 235 F. 857, 149 C.C.A. 169.

18. Ga.—Atlanta & West Point R. Co. v. Fairburn Marble Co., 89 S.E. 817, 145 Ga. 708.

19. U.S.—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. Wallace, Tex., 32 S.Ct. 205, 223 U.S. 481, 56 L.Ed. 516.
Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Bell, 259 S.W. 745, 163 Ark. 284, certiorari denied 45 S.Ct. 125, 266 U.S. 625, 69 L.Ed. 474.
Mo.—Randazzo Macaroni Mfg. Co. v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., App., 251 S.W. 466.
N.H.—Ostroff v. Hustis, 114 A. 27, 80 N.H. 141.
Tex.—Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Dingfelder & Balish, Civ.App., 114 S.W. 2d 666, error granted.
Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. of Indiana v. National Bank of Commerce of Norfolk, 95 S.E. 454, 122 Va. 471, certiorari denied 38 S.Ct. 582, 247 U.S. 519, 62 L.Ed. 1246.

20. Ill.—Wenatchee Valley Fruit Growers Ass'n v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 215 Ill.App. 129.

carrier.[21] In an action by the indorsee of a negotiable bill of lading covering an interstate shipment against the initial carrier for wrongful delivery, the indorsee must prove delivery by the shipper to the carrier, and his receipt of an order bill of lading, the indorsement and transfer thereof to plaintiff for value, the delivery of the car by defendant without requiring the production and surrender of the bill, and the consequent damage.[22]

(2) In Actions against Intermediate Carrier

The burden is on the plaintiff suing an intermediate carrier to establish prima facie the latter's responsibility for the loss, and when he does so the burden of going forward with the evidence shifts to the carrier.

In an action against an intermediate carrier, the burden is on plaintiff to show that such carrier received the goods in sound condition and that loss or injury happened to them while in its possession,[23] or at least to raise a presumption to that effect by showing that the loss was not suffered while the goods were in the possession of a subsequent carrier,[24] and this rule is applicable in an action against the last railroad carrier when the goods were not delivered directly to plaintiff but through a transfer company.[25] It has been held, however, that where there was evidence of the good condition of a shipment when loaded on the car of an intermediate carrier, the burden was on such carrier to prove that the shipment continued in the same good condition as when received until it had been delivered to the next carrier.[26] The rule stated infra subdivision (3) that where the goods were received by the initial carrier in good condition and delivered to the consignee in damaged condition the burden is on the terminal carrier to prove that they were not injured while in its possession does not apply to intermediate carriers;[27] but where live stock dies while in custody of the intermediate carrier a presumption sufficient to put that line to an explanation of the circumstances arises,[28] and, furthermore, where plaintiff has rebutted the presumption that the injury occurred on the line of the terminal carrier, the presumption then is that the damage occurred on the line of the next preceding carrier,[29] and it devolves on the latter, in order to escape liability, to show that it was not responsible for the injuries.[30] Where the intermediate carrier is shown to have delivered the goods to the terminal carrier in bad condition, it will be presumed that, on receipt of the goods by it from the initial carrier, they were in the same condition as when delivered to the initial carrier.[31]

(3) In Actions against Terminal Carrier

While the burden is on the plaintiff to show delivery in good condition to the initial carrier and arrival at destination in damaged condition, or loss, when these facts are shown a presumption arises against the terminal carrier and the burden is cast upon it to prove that it was not responsible for the loss.

In an action against the terminal carrier for loss or injury to goods, the burden is on plaintiff to show that the goods were in good condition when delivered to the initial carrier,[32] and that the goods were lost, diverted, or injured while in defendant's custody at or before their arrival at their destina-

21. Ky.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Stimson, 268 S.W. 835, 207 Ky. 78.

22. Conn.—Alderman Bros. Co. v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 129 A. 47, 102 Conn. 461.

23. Ky.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Avey, 191 S.W. 460, 173 Ky. 598.
N.Y.—Losecco v. Canadian Express Co., 199 N.Y.S. 80
10 C.J. p. 556 note 22
"Where the suit is against a connecting carrier, and not against the initial carrier, of an interstate shipment, it is incumbent upon the plaintiff to allege and prove that the loss and damage to his shipment were caused by the negligence of the defendant according to the law in existence prior to the enactment of the Carmack Amendment"—Pennington v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 115 N.E. 170, 171, 277 Ill. 39.

24. Ill.—Neuman v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 216 Ill.App. 387.

25. Ill.—Neuman v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., supra
Reason for rule
'Where the last railroad carrier delivers a shipment of goods to a local drayman who receives the goods from the railroad and delivers them to the consignee, and especially where the drayman is the agent of the latter, as was the situation in the case at bar, the source of evidence, which may prove whether the blame for the shortage or damage complained of rests with the drayman, is quite as accessible to the consignee as to the railroad, if not more so"—Neuman v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 216 Ill.App. 387, 391.

26. N.C.—Produce Trading Co. v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 100 S.E. 316, 178 N.C. 175.

27. Ala.—Lynn v. Mellon, 114 So. 680, 217 Ala. 75.
S.C.—Smith v. Southern Ry. Co., 113 S.E. 465, 121 S.C. 94.

28. S.C.—Smith v. Southern Ry. Co., supra.

29. Minn.—Hansen-Peterson Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 205 N.W. 605, 165 Minn. 43.

30. Tex.—Crenwelge v. Ponder, Com.App., 228 S.W. 145, reversing Ponder v. Crenwelge, Civ.App., 203 S.W. 1125.
10 C.J. p. 556 note 23.

31. Wis.—Stolze v. Ann Arbor R. Co., 134 N.W. 376, 148 Wis. 205.
10 C.J. p. 556 note 24

32. Ind.—Pittsburgh, C. C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Larosa, 131 N.E. 22, 75 Ind.App. 475
La.—Hall v. Houston E. & W. T. Ry. Co., 121 So. 769, 9 La.App. 577, 582.
N.J.—Kaufherr & Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 174 A. 27, 12 N.J.Misc. 542
Ohio.—Cincinnati Machinery & Supply Co. v. Erie R. Co., 178 N.E. 26, 40 Ohio App. 99
S.C.—Copeland Co. v. Davis, 119 S.E. 19, 125 S.C. 449
Tex.—Lancaster v. Norris, Civ.App., 271 S.W. 401, judgment reversed on other grounds Norris v. Lancaster, Com.App., 280 S.W. 574.
10 C.J. p. 556 note 26.

tion.[33] However, except where the rule has been modified by statute,[34] it is generally held that on proof of delivery to the first carrier in good condition and receipt by the terminal carrier without objection it will be presumed in an action against the terminal carrier that the goods were still in the condition in which they were received by the initial carrier, and if they are injured or deficient in quantity, the burden is on the terminal carrier to show that such loss or injury did not result from any cause for which it was responsible.[35] Furthermore, although this extension of the doctrine has been

33. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lynne, 71 So. 338, 196 Ala. 21.
Ind.—Pittsburgh, C. C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Larosa, 131 N.E. 22, 75 Ind. App. 475.
Ky.—Makeever v. Georgia Southern & F. Ry. Co., 291 S.W. 144, 219 Ky. 699.
Minn.—Hansen-Peterson Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 205 N. W. 605, 165 Minn. 43.
Mo.—Krallman v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 235 S.W. 830, 209 Mo.App. 286.
N.Y.—Yatter v. Mathies, 246 N.Y.S. 548, 139 Misc. 26.
N.C.—Riff v. Yadkin R. Co., 127 S.E. 588, 189 N.C. 585.
S.D.—J. F. Anderson Lumber Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 226 N. W. 273, 55 S.D. 305.
10 C.J. p. 556 note 26.

Corpus Juris is cited with approval in C. C. Whitnack Produce Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 178 N.W. 177, 178, 104 Neb. 587, certiorari granted Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. C. C. Whitnack Produce Co., 41 S.Ct. 15, 254 U.S. 625, 65 L.Ed. 445, affirmed 42 S.Ct. 328, 258 U.S. 369, 66 L.Ed. 665.

34. Mo.—Crockett v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 126 S.W. 243, 147 Mo.App. 347.
10 C.J. p. 556 note 28 [a].

35. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. C. C. Whitnack Produce Co., Neb., 42 S.Ct. 328, 258 U.S. 369, 66 L.Ed. 665.
Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. J. H. White Mercantile Co., 93 So. 395, 207 Ala. 520—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Lynne, 71 So. 338, 196 Ala. 21—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Gillis Mule Co., 103 So. 906, 20 Ala. App. 535, certiorari denied Ex parte Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 103 So. 909, 212 Ala. 635.
Ark.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. Ry. Co. v. Davis, 185 S.W. 478, 123 Ark. 619.
Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Clark Milling Co., 149 S.E. 77, 40 Ga.App. 113—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Banks, 122 S.E. 85, 31 Ga.App. 756—Barron Bros. v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 122 S.E. 83, 31 Ga.App. 757—Lewis v. Joyner, 113 S.E. 329, 29 Ga.App. 92—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Scrivens, 100 S.E. 233, 24 Ga.App. 177—Southern Ry. Co. v. Waxelbaum Produce Co., 90 S.E. 987, 19 Ga.App. 64.
Ill.—Freedman v. Erie R. Co., 246 Ill. App. 479.
Ind.—Mascari v. New York, C. & St. L. R. Co., 183 N.E. 913, 97 Ind. App. 27—Pittsburgh, C. C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Larosa, 131 N.E. 22, 75 Ind.App. 475.
Iowa.—Dye Produce Co. v. Davis, 209 N.W. 744, 202 Iowa 1003—E. H. Emery & Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 166 N.W. 600, 183 Iowa 687—Erisman v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 163 N.W. 627, 180 Iowa 759.
Ky.—E. J. O'Brien & Co. v. Davis, 288 S.W. 682, 216 Ky. 693—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Schaeffer, 280 S.W. 974, 213 Ky. 248—McArthur v. Payne, 258 S.W. 684, 201 Ky. 793.
La.—Snowden v. Tremont & G. Ry. Co., App., 140 So. 122.
Me.—Goldberg v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 153 A. 812, 130 Me. 96.
Md.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Walker, 128 A. 45, 147 Md. 323.
Mass.—Goodman v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 3 N.E.2d 777—Lyon v. Boston & M. R. R., 158 N.E. 663, 261 Mass. 251.
Minn.—Hansen-Peterson Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co., 205 N. W. 605, 165 Minn. 43.
Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Mahon Live Stock Co., 71 So. 802, 111 Miss. 496.
Mo.—State ex rel. and to Use of St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 251 S.W. 383, 298 Mo. 474, certiorari granted State of Missouri ex rel. St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 44 S.Ct. 132, 263 U.S. 696, 68 L.Ed. 511, affirmed 45 S.Ct. 47, 266 U.S. 200, 69 L.Ed. 247, 42 A.L.R. 1232—Detmer, Bruner & Mason v. New York Cent. R. Co., 80 S.W. 2d 222, 229 Mo.App. 702, transferred, Sup., 72 S.W.2d 984—American Fruit Growers v. Cleveland, C. C. & St. L. Ry. Co., App., 263 S.W. 488—Block Bros. Clothing Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App., 253 S.W. 35—Johnson v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 249 S.W. 658, 211 Mo.App. 564—Letner v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App., 249 S.W. 155—Zerilli v. Ross, App., 198 S.W. 487—Equity Elevator Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., App., 191 S.W. 1067.
N.Y.—Caruso-Rinella-Battaglia Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 226 N.Y.S. 308, 222 App.Div. 371—Remington v. Barrett, 188 N.Y.S. 174, 196 App. Div. 838—Yatter v. Mathies, 246 N.Y.S. 548, 139 Misc. 26.
N.C.—Reidsville Paper Box Co. v. Southern Ry., 99 S.E. 23, 177 N.C. 351.
Ohio.—Erie R. Co. v. Bender, Streibig & Co., 163 N.E. 50, 29 Ohio App. 262—Barron, Boyle & Co. v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 8 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 517, affirmed 80 Ohio St. 707, 11 Ohio Cir.Ct.R.,N.S., 602, 21 Ohio Cir.Dec. 142, 54 Wkly.L.Bul. 110.
Okl.—Lusk v. Durant Nursery Co., 232 P. 11, 73 Okl. 269—Oklahoma N. M. & P. Ry. Co. v. H. M. S. Drilling Co., 229 P. 420, 100 Okl. 260—Witchita Falls & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Benton, 167 P. 633, 66 Okl. 114—St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Akard, 159 P. 344, 60 Okl. 4.
Or.—United Brokers' Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 169 P. 114, 86 Or. 607, Ann.Cas.1918D 814.
Pa.—Harry E. Jackson Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 172 A. 20, 113 Pa. Super. 535—Wray, Moore & Co. v. American Ry. Express Co., 75 Pa. Super. 425—Pottash v. Director General of Railroads, 3 Pa.Dist. & Co. 387.
S.C.—M. H. Felder & Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 165 S.E. 730, 167 S.C. 59—Copeland Co. v. Davis, 119 S.E. 19, 125 S.C. 449—Nimmer v. Northwestern R. Co., 107 S.E. 479, 116 S.C. 190—People's Hardware Co. v. Raleigh & C. R. Co., 107 S.E. 146, 116 S.C. 145.
S.D.—J. F. Anderson Lumber Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 226 N. W. 273, 55 S.D. 305.
Tex.—Burd v. San Antonio Southern Ry. Co., Com.App., 261 S.W. 1021, modifying San Antonio Southern Ry. Co. v. Burd, Civ.App., 246 S.W. 1060—Crenwelge v. Ponder, Com. App., 228 S.W. 145, reversing Ponder v. Crenwelge, Civ.App., 203 S.W. 1125—Lancaster v. Norris, Civ. App., 271 S.W. 401, reversed on other grounds Norris v. Lancaster, Com.App., 280 S.W. 574—Davis v. Brooks Supply Co., Civ.App., 239 S.W. 628—Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Reichardt & Schulte Co., Civ.App., 212 S.W. 208.
Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. W. C. Crenshaw & Co., 137 S.E. 515, 147 Va. 290—Southern Ry. Co. v. Russell, 112 S.E. 700, 133 Va. 292.
10 C.J. p. 528 note 80, p. 556 note 29.

Corpus Juris has been cited with approval.
Neb.—C. C. Whitnack Produce Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 178 N. W. 177, 178, 104 Neb. 587, certiorari granted Chicago & N. W. R. Co. v. C. C. Whitnack Produce Co., 41 S.Ct. 15, 254 U.S. 625, 65 L.Ed. 445, affirmed 42 S.Ct. 328, 258 U.S. 369, 66 L.Ed. 665.

declared to be unsound,[36] and although it has been held that the legal presumption does not arise in the absence of pleading or proof that the goods involved in the suit were in good condition when they were shipped,[37] many decisions have materially extended the rule and hold in effect that, if the goods are delivered by the terminal carrier in damaged condition or deficient in quantity, the presumption arises without further evidence that the loss or injury occurred while the goods were in the hands of the terminal carrier; in other words, the double presumption will be entertained that the goods were accepted in good condition by the initial carrier and that all the goods accepted were received by the terminal carrier in good condition, irrespective of the number of intermediate lines over which they were transported, thereby placing on it the burden of showing that the loss or injury was not the result of any cause for which it was responsible; but whichever of the two presumptions is entertained, the operation and effect will be the same.[38] The presumption is sufficient standing alone and in the absence of other testimony to sustain a verdict for plaintiff.[39] The presumption is not conclusive, however, and casts no absolute liability on the last carrier but simply imposes on it the burden of exonerating itself in order to escape liability,[40] it being sufficient for that purpose.[41] In the absence of statute providing otherwise, it is at most merely a presumption of fact which may be

Tenn.—M. Lewis & Sons v. Illinois Cent R. Co., 259 S.W. 903, 150 Tenn. 94.

In Michigan

(1) The general rule is disapproved, and the rule adopted that, where goods are transported by successive carriers and an action is brought against the terminal carrier for damage to the goods, it is not enough to show that the goods were delivered to the initial carrier in good condition, but it is incumbent on plaintiff to show that they were in good order when received by defendant.—Rolfe v. Lake Shore, etc, R. Co, 107 N.W. 899, 144 Mich. 169, 115 Am.S.R. 388—10 C.J. p 556 note 27 [a].

(2) However, the rule stated in the text was applied in this jurisdiction in a case controlled by the Carmack amendment—Ginsberg v. Wabash Ry. Co., 193 N.W. 286, 222 Mich. 560, affirming H. Ginsberg & Sons v. Wabash Ry Co, 189 N.W. 1018, 219 Mich. 665, 28 A.L.R. 518.

Carriers sued jointly

(1) Terminal carrier, sued jointly with initial carrier for damage to shipment not accompanied by shipper, has burden of showing where injury occurred.—Louisville & N R Co v Schaeffer, 280 S.W. 974, 213 Ky 248

(2) So, while the general burden is on the shipper to show damage to the shipment in transit, he is not under any obligation to allocate this damage or, in other words, to show how much was done by one defendant and how much by another. When he shows the receipt by the initial carrier of the goods in good condition, that no one accompanied them, and that they were delivered in bad order, he has met the burden imposed on him, and the burden is then on defendants to determine as among themselves, by evidence, just which one or ones of them may be responsible for the injury.—Makeever v. Georgia Southern & F. Ry. Co., 294 S.W. 144, 219 Ky 699.

Proof of carrier's negligence

Where evidence showed some negligence by terminal carrier resulting in damage to interstate potato shipment, carrier had burden of showing cause of part of loss for which it denied liability—Beaumont, S L. & W. R. Co. v. Farmers' Co-op. Sweet Potato Curing Co. of Rosepine, La., Tex.Civ.App., 298 S.W. 454.

38. Ind—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St L. R Co v Larosa, 131 N.E. 22, 75 Ind.App. 475.

37. La.—Snowden v. Tremont & G. Ry. Co., App., 140 So. 122—Hall v. Houston E. & W. T. Ry. Co., 121a So. 769, 9 La.App 577, 582.
Me.—Goldberg v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 153 A. 812, 130 Me. 96.
Mo.—Krallman v Illinois Cent. R. Co, 235 S.W. 830, 209 Mo.App. 286.

Loss in transit

"Before a plaintiff is entitled to the benefit of the presumption or rule of law hereinbefore stated, the burden is upon him to show in the first place that the loss occurred while in transit, and without this proof he cannot recover."—Block Bros Clothing Co v. Missouri Pac. R. Co, Mo.App, 253 S.W. 35, 36 To same effect Detmer, Bruner & Mason v New York Cent. R. Co., 80 S.W. 2d 222, 227, 229 Mo.App. 702, transferred, Sup., 72 S.W 2d 984.

Presumption based on presumption

Proof of the contents of a trunk and their value at the time of delivery of trunk to hotel keeper without proof thereof at time of delivery by hotel keeper to initial carrier does not create presumption as to such contents and their value at time of delivery by initial carrier to final carrier, since such presumption would be based upon the presumption that trunk at time of delivery to initial carrier contained same articles as at time of delivery to hotel keeper.—Johnson v. Western Express Co., 181 P. 693, 107 Wash. 339.

38. U.S.—Julius Klugman's Sons v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., D.C.N.Y., 42 F.2d 461.
Ark.—Chicago R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. George E. Shelton Produce Co., 291 S.W. 428, 172 Ark. 1017—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. American Fruit Growers, 260 S.W. 39, 163 Ark 318—St. Louis, I. M. & S Ry. Co v. Cunningham Commission Co, 188 S.W. 1177, 125 Ark 577—St. Louis, I M. & S Ry. Co. v. Davis, 185 S.W. 478, 123 Ark. 619.
Conn.—Cassone v. New York, N H. & H R. Co., 123 A. 280, 100 Conn. 262.
Okl.—Clinton & O. W R Co. v. Smith, 254 P 702, 124 Okl 75.
10 C.J. p 557 note 30.

39. Ga.—Barron Bros v. New York, N H & H. R Co., 122 S.E 83, 31 Ga.App. 757.
Ill.—Freedman v. Erie R. Co., 246 Ill. App. 479
Ky.—E J O'Brien & Co. v. Davis, 288 S.W 682, 216 Ky. 693.
N.Y.—Remington v. Barrett, 188 N. Y.S. 174, 196 App.Div. 838.
Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co v. W. C Crenshaw & Co., 137 S.E. 515, 147 Va. 290
10 C.J. p 558 note 33

When other allegations supported

Presumption that goods delivered in good condition to initial carrier were in good condition when received by connecting carrier is not conclusive; but without competent proof rebutting the presumption, and showing that goods were not in good condition when so received, evidence is sufficient, on proof of other material allegations of petition, to support verdict against connecting carrier.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co v. Scrivens, 100 S.E. 233, 24 Ga.App. 177.

40. Wis.—Stolze v Ann Arbor R. Co., 134 N.W. 376, 148 Wis. 205.

41. Conn.—Cassone v New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 123 A. 280, 100 Conn. 262.

rebutted,[12] and when it is shown that the act of the terminal carrier did not occasion the injury complained of, it is rebutted,[43] or, according to some decisions, which give the same net result, does not arise.[44] However the presumption cannot be overcome by proving a prevailing custom that the goods were not considered as delivered to the second carrier until a record showing the delivery was made on the books by the authorized agent.[45] Notwithstanding a statute which provides that the last company which received the goods as "in good order" shall be responsible to the consignee for any damage, open or concealed, done to the goods, the mere production of a receipt which is silent on the subject does not rebut the presumption that the goods were received in good order.[46] Furthermore, it has been held that, where goods were delivered in a damaged condition, proof that, before delivery to the last carrier, the car was in bad condition so that the goods were transferred to another is not sufficient to rebut the presumption of negligence which rests on the last carrier.[47]

Reasons for rule. Several reasons have been assigned for the rule. As stated in Corpus Juris, which has been quoted with judicial approval,[48] one reason is that the presumption is necessary to preserve the shipper's rights, since the carrier, and not he, has control of the goods and is in a much better position to prove their condition at the time it received them than is the owner.[49] Another reason assigned is that the law presumes a fact, continuous in its nature, to continue until the contrary appears.[50] Another reason is that it is within the power of the carrier to protect itself from responsibility for loss or injury occurring prior to its reception of the property by an inspection of its condition at the transfer point,[51] and that it will be presumed prima facie that if the shipment had not been in good order the carrier would have refused

42. Conn.—Cassone v. New York, N. H. & H R. Co., 123 A. 280, 100 Conn 262
La.—Snowden v. Tremont & G. Ry. Co, App, 140 So 122.
Mass.—Lyon v. Boston & M. R. R., 158 N.E. 663, 261 Mass. 251
Okl.—Wichita Falls & N. W. Ry. Co v. Benton, 167 P. 633, 66 Okl. 114.
Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v W. C. Crenshaw & Co., 137 S E. 515, 147 Va. 290.
10 C.J. p 558 notes 35, 36.

43. Mass—Lyon v Boston & M. R R. 158 N E. 663, 261 Mass. 251.
S C—Southern Textile Machinery Co v. Piedmont & N. Ry. Co., 103 S E 475, 114 S C. 141.
10 C.J p 558 note 37.

Evidence rebutting presumption

(1) The presumption that damage to interstate shipment was caused by last carrier may be rebutted by showing that damage occurred on connecting carrier's line, that the goods were received in a damaged condition, and that defendant was not at fault.—Lyon v. Boston & M. R. R., 158 N.E. 663, 261 Mass. 251.

(2) And the presumption that injury to live stock occurred on line of delivering carrier is rebutted by evidence showing that the stock when received by it was in bad condition—Wichita Falls & N. W Ry Co. v. Benton, 167 P. 633, 66 Okl 114

(3) So the presumption is rebutted by proof that nothing occurred likely to cause damage while shipment was in possession of the delivering carrier.—Snowden v Tremont & G Ry. Co, La App, 140 So. 122.

(4) The presumption is rebutted by proof of the delivering carrier that it did not receive the shipment from the intermediate carrier or that the loss occurred at the terminal after arrival of the goods—Oklahoma N M & P. Ry Co v. H M S Drilling Co, 229 P. 420, 100 Okl. 260

(5) Where grapes were shipped in a refrigerator car, using the ventilator process, evidence as to the condition of the car when received by defendant, long time of transportation before delivery to it, the few hours it was in transportation over defendant's line, and extent of decay of grapes when car was opened, was held to rebut the presumption that the terminal carrier received them in good order and that the injury occurred while in its control.—Cassone v. New York, N H & H. R. Co, 123 A. 280, 100 Conn. 262.

(6) Other illustrations see 10 C.J. p 558 note 37 [a].

44. Ark.—St. Louis, etc, R. Co. v. Renfroe, 100 S W. 889, 82 Ark 143, 118 Am S R. 58, 10 L R.A.,N S, 317.
10 C J. p 558 notes 38, 39.

45. Ark—Kansas City Southern R Co. v. Embry, 90 S.W. 15, 76 Ark. 589.

46. Ga.—Georgia R, etc, Co. v. Forrester, 23 S E. 416, 96 Ga. 428

47. Ill.—Ruddell v. Baltimore, etc, R. Co, 175 Ill.App. 456.

48. Neb.—C. C. Whitnack Produce Co v Chicago & N W. Ry. Co, 178 N.W. 177, 178, 104 Neb. 587, certiorari granted Chicago & N. W Ry Co. v C. C. Whitnack Produce Co, 41 S Ct. 15, 254 U S 625, 65 L Ed 445, affirmed 42 S.Ct. 328, 258 U.S 369, 66 L Ed 665.

49. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v American Fruit Growers, 260 S.W. 39, 40, 163 Ark. 318

Ill—Neuman v Chicago & N W. Ry. Co, 216 Ill.App 387
Ind.—Pittsburgh, C C & St L R. Co. v Larosa, 131 N E 22, 75 Ind. App 475.
Okl.—Oklahoma N M. & P. Ry Co v. H M S. Drilling Co, 229 P. 420, 100 Okl. 260—St Louis & S. F R Co. v. Akard, 159 P. 344, 60 Okl 4
S D.—J F. Anderson Lumber Co. v. Chicago & N W Ry. Co, 226 N. W. 273, 55 S.D 305
10 C J p 559 note 43.

"The reason which the courts have given for raising the presumption which places the burden of proof on the carrier to clear itself of the charge of negligence is that the carrier has the best, and oftentimes the only, opportunity to determine when and how the injury occurred"—Missouri Pac R Co. v. American Fruit Growers, supra

50. Ala.—Southern Ry Co v. J. H. White Mercantile Co., 93 So. 395, 207 Ala. 520
Minn.—Hansen-Peterson Co v. Atchison, T & S F. Ry Co, 205 N W. 605, 165 Minn 43.
N Y—Caruso-Rinella-Battaglia Co v. New York Cent R Co, 226 N Y S. 308, 222 App Div 371
Tenn—M Lewis & Sons v. Illinois Cent. R Co., 259 S W. 903, 150 Tenn. 94.

51. Ill—Neuman v. Chicago & N W Ry. Co, 216 Ill.App. 387.
Neb—C C Whitnack Produce Co. v. Chicago & N. W Ry. Co., 178 N W. 177, 104 Neb 587, certiorari granted Chicago & N W Ry. Co. v. C C Whitnack Produce Co, 41 S Ct 15, 254 U.S 625, 65 L.Ed. 445, affirmed 42 S.Ct. 328, 258 U S. 369, 66 L Ed 665.
10 C J. p 559 note 44.

to receive it otherwise than as in bad order;[52] but, as is shown hereafter, the presumption applies, although the goods were shipped in sealed cars or in packages, or were shipped in bond, preventing inspection, and hence this latter reason is not entitled to much weight.[53]

Extent and limits of rule. The rule applies to transfer companies as well as to other common carriers,[54] and, although there is authority to the contrary,[55] to shipments of perishable goods[56] or live stock,[57] as well as to other shipments. The fact that the goods were concealed in boxes or packages will not affect the operation of the rule;[58] nor is its operation affected by the fact that the merchandise was shipped through in sealed cars without opportunity for the carrier to examine the goods;[59] and a fortiori the rule applies where the agent of the carrier has an opportunity, before sealing the car, to verify the waybill by ascertaining the contents of the car by an inspection.[60] So the rule applies whether the goods are passed over all the lines on the same car or at any terminal point are transferred from the car of one line to that of another,[61] and it makes no difference whether the goods go all the way on the same bill of lading or how often new ones are substituted on the way.[62] The presumption is not prevented from attaching by the fact that the goods could not be inspected when received by the terminal carrier because shipped in bond.[63] The operation of the rule is not affected by the fact that the shipment was made under a contract limiting the liability of the carrier to injuries occurring on its own line,[64] nor by the fact that the owner or consignee diverts the shipment while in transit,[65] although it has been held that the rule does not apply where the original contract ended before the goods were reconsigned over defendant's lines so that under the new contract defendant was the initial as well as the terminal carrier.[66] The application of the presumption is not prevented by the circumstance that the initial carrier was a steamship company and conducted its business on the water[67] or by the fact that the goods were transported from the wharf of the initial carrier to the freight station of the delivering carrier by a truckman.[68] So it has been held that the rule is not changed by a statute providing that, under a contract for shipment of freight between two or more common carriers the responsibility of 52. Neb.—C. C. Whitnack Produce Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., supra.

10 C.J. p. 559 note 45.

53. Wis.—Stolze v. Ann Arbor R. Co., 134 N.W. 376, 148 Wis. 205.
10 C.J. p. 559 note 55.

54. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Capper, 84 S.W. 694, 38 Tex.Civ.App. 61.

Effect on initial carrier

Carrier, under presumption that loss occurred during control of last custodian, is not liable for shortage in box of furs successively in custody of ocean carrier, truckman, and warehouseman.—Julius Klugman's Sons v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., D.C.N.Y., 42 F.2d 461.

55. Pa.—Harry E. Jackson Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 172 A. 20, 21, 112 Pa.Super. 535.

"The rule is confined to ordinary merchandise, which does not deteriorate from a cause not within the control of the carrier. It has no application to perishable goods shipped under a contract which expressly relieves the carrier of the duty of examining or replenishing the bunkers with ice while in transit."—Harry E. Jackson Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., supra.

56. Conn.—Cassone v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 123 A. 280, 100 Conn. 262.
10 C.J. p. 559 note 48.

57. S.C.—Walker v. Southern R. Co., 56 S.E. 952, 76 S.C. 308—Jones v. Southern R. Co., 56 S.E. 666, 76 S.C. 67

Tex.—Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, Civ.App., 123 S.W. 737.

58. Mass.—Bullock v. Haverhill, etc., Dispatch Co., 72 N.E. 256, 187 Mass. 91—Moore v. New York, etc., R. Co., 53 N.E. 816, 173 Mass. 335, 73 Am.S.R. 298.

N.C.—Morganton Mfg. Co. v. Ohio, etc., R. Co., 28 S.E. 474, 121 N.C. 514, 61 Am.S.R. 679.
10 C.J. p. 559 note 50.

59. Tex.—Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Reichardt & Schulte Co., Civ.App., 212 S.W. 208.
10 C.J. p. 559 note 51.

60. R.I.—Podrat v. Narragansett Pier R. Co., 78 A. 1041, 32 R.I. 255.

61. Ga.—Central R. Co. v. Rogers, 66 Ga. 251.

62. Ga.—Central R. Co. v. Rogers, supra.

Issuance of new bill of lading by carrier delivering goods, which was not issued to either original consignor or original consignee, did not affect liability of carrier as delivering carrier under presumption that damage to goods carried over connecting lines was occasioned by last carrier.—Goodman v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., Mass., 3 N.E.2d 777.

63. Wis.—Stolze v. Ann Arbor R. Co., 134 N.W. 376, 148 Wis. 205.
10 C.J. p. 559 note 55

64. Ala.—Walter v. Alabama Great Southern R. Co., 39 So. 87, 142 Ala. 474.

65. Ill.—Ruddell v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 175 Ill.App. 456.

66. S.C.—M. H. Felder & Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 165 S.E. 730, 167 S.E. 59.

No through contract

Where evidence showed that shipment of potatoes over steamship from Boston to Savannah, Ga., and thence to Orangeburg, S. C., over railroad which delivered damaged potatoes, was not through shipment, plaintiff had burden of showing potatoes were sound when delivered to railroad.—M. H. Felder & Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., S.C., 165 S.E. 730, 167 S.E. 59.

67. Mass.—Goodman v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., 3 N.E.2d 777.

68. Mass.—Goodman v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., supra.

Continuity of route

Transportation of goods by "truckman" from wharf of steamship company accepting initial carriage of goods to freight station of railroad which delivered them did not break continuity of route of "common carriers," so as to render presumption that damage to goods was occasioned by last carrier inapplicable, where bill of lading described railroad as delivering carrier from city of transshipment and railroad collected all transportation charges.—Goodman v. New York, N. H. & H. R. Co., Mass., 3 N.E.2d 777.

each shall cease on delivery to the connecting line in good order, on obtaining a receipt to that effect, and that the last carrier, on failure to inform the shipper, where the freight delivered was damaged, shall be liable therefor.[69]

On the other hand, the rule is not one of universal application; it does not apply where the line of the alleged terminal carrier did not extend to the point of delivery, and where such carrier did not undertake to transport freight beyond its own line,[70] nor where the agency of further transportation was not one over which the terminal carrier had control.[71] So it has been held that the presumption does not apply where the shipper accompanies the goods shipped, as here the reason on which the rule is based does not exist, and in consequence the rule itself has no application.[72] So the presumption that damage to freight shipped over several connecting lines occurred on the last connecting line is for the shipper's convenience, and cannot be invoked by an initial or an intermediate carrier for its own protection.[73]

Effect of Carmack amendment. The mere fact that the initial carrier is made liable does not, as between the shipper and the terminal carrier, affect the presumption as to the condition of the property when delivered to the latter;[74] but as between the initial and a connecting carrier, the Carmack

69. S.C.—Willett v. Southern R. Co., 45 S.E. 93, 66 S.C. 477.

70. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Jarmon, Civ.App., 141 S.W. 155.

Delivery to switching carrier

(1) Where defendant carrier delivered sealed car to other carrier, to be switched a short distance to plaintiff's warehouse, and the other carrier received no part of the through freight, but charged defendant for switching, defendant was not the last carrier, and so was not chargeable with the presumption that it wrought the damage.—Southern Textile Machinery Co. v. Piedmont & N. Ry. Co., 103 S.E. 475, 114 S.C. 141.

(2) So, where railroad which transported carload of corn to city of destination, but which turned car over to switching railroad for transportation to plaintiff's warehouse, and where switching railroad was paid for services, the switching railroad, and not the first railroad, was the "terminal carrier," within rule as to liability of terminal carrier for loss of weight.—Fretwell v Southern Ry. Co, 126 S.E 132, 130 S.C. 379.

71. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Jarmon, Civ.App., 141 S.W. 155.

72. Ky.—Makeever v. Georgia Southern & F. Ry. Co., 294 S.W. 144, 219 Ky. 699.

Tex.—Texas, etc, R. Co. v. Gray, 99 S.W. 1125, 90 S.W. 521, 45 Tex.Civ. App. 208.

10 C.J. p 560 notes 61, 62.

73. Tex.—Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Jones, Civ.App., 123 S.W. 737.

74. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. C. C. Whitnack Produce Co., Neb, 42 S.Ct. 328, 258 U.S. 369, 66 L.Ed 665.

Ark.—Missouri Pac R Co. v. American Fruit Growers, 260 S.W. 39, 163 Ark 318.

Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v Clark Milling Co, 149 S.E. 77, 40 Ga.App. 113—Illinois Cent R. Co. v. Banks, 122 S.E. 85, 31 Ga.App. 756—Barron Bros. v. New York, N. H. & H R. Co, 122 S.E. 83, 31 Ga. App. 757—Lewis v. Joyner, 113 S. E. 829, 29 Ga.App. 92—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v. Scrivens, 100 S.E. 233, 24 Ga.App. 177.

Ill.—Freedman v. Erie R. Co., 246 Ill App. 479.

Iowa.—E. H. Emery & Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 166 N.W. 600, 183 Iowa 687—Erisman v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 163 N.W. 627, 180 Iowa 759.

Ky.—McArthur v. Payne, 258 S.W. 684, 201 Ky. 793.

Mich.—Ginsberg v. Wabash Ry. Co., 193 N.W. 286, 222 Mich. 560, affirming H. Ginsberg & Sons v. Same, 189 N.W. 1018, 219 Mich. 665, 28 A.L.R. 518.

Mo.—American Fruit Growers v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., App, 263 S.W. 488—Johnson v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 249 S.W. 658, 211 Mo.App. 564—Letner v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App, 249 S.W. 155.

Neb.—C. C. Whitnack Produce Co. v Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co, 178 N.W. 177, 104 Neb. 587, certiorari granted Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. C. C. Whitnack Produce Co, 41 S.Ct. 15, 254 U.S. 625, 65 L.Ed. 445, affirmed 42 S.Ct. 328, 258 U.S. 369, 66 L.Ed 665.

S.C.—People's Hardware Co. v. Raleigh & C. R. Co, 107 S.E. 146, 116 S.C. 145

Tenn.—M. Lewis & Sons v. Illinois Cent. R Co, 259 S.W. 903, 150 Tenn. 94

Tex.—Davis v Brooks Supply Co., Civ App., 239 S.W. 628.

Va.—Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v. W. C. Crenshaw & Co, 137 S.E 515, 147 Va. 290—Southern Ry. Co v. Russell, 112 S.E 700, 133 Va. 292.

10 C.J. p 560 note 64

Corpus Juris is cited with approval in Pittsburgh, C. C. & St. L. R Co v. Larosa, 131 N.E 22, 23, 75 Ind.App. 475

In Louisiana

(1) The rule of the text apparently now applies—Snowden v. Tremont & G Ry Co, App, 140 So. 122—Hall v. Houston E. & W. T. Ry. Co., 121 So. 769, 9 La.App. 577, 582.

(2) At one time, however, the contrary rule was sustained—Henderson v. Kansas City Southern Ry. Co., 85 So. 625, 147 La. 647

(3) "The case of Duvall v. Louisiana Western Railway Co., 65 So. 104, 135 La. 189, recognized the rule that under the Carmack Amendment the intermediate or delivering carrier is liable for only such loss or damage as may have occurred on its or their lines; but it was there held that said amendment did not abrogate the rule of evidence 'that goods received in good order by the initial carrier are presumed to have been received in like good order by the succeeding carrier and that a delivery by the terminal carrier in bad order raises a presumption that the injury occurred on the delivering carrier's line.' But that decision was expressly overruled in Henderson v. K. C. S Ry. Co., 85 So 625, 147 La. 647, where the court held that the common-law rule above referred to had been abrogated by the Carmack Amendment adopted subsequent to the Duvall decision. The court, in support of its decision, cited Charleston & Western Carolina Ry Co. v. Varnville Furniture Co., 35 S.Ct 715, 237 U.S. 597, 59 L.Ed. 1137, Ann.Cas. 1916D 333. However, since the latter case was decided by the Supreme Court of the United States, that court has had occasion to deal further with the subject, and in the case of Chicago & Northwestern Ry. Co. v. C. C. Whitnack Produce Co, 42 S.Ct. 328, 258 U.S. 369, 66 L.Ed. 665, decided April 10, 1922, that court specifically held that said common-law rule was not abrogated by the Carmack Amendment . . . In holding that said common-law rule was not abrogated by the Carmack Amendment, the court held that there was no conflict between its holding and the ruling in the Charleston, etc, Ry Co. v Varnville Furniture Co. Case cited by our amendment is inconsistent with any presumption that the loss or damage occurred on the line of the last carrier.[75]

d. Unreasonable Delay

Conflicting rules as to presumptions and burden of proof have been announced in actions for damages due to unreasonable delay.

It has been held that, in an action against an initial carrier to recover for injuries to a shipment caused by unreasonable delay, the burden is on it to show delivery without unreasonable delay to the connecting carrier;[76] but in an action against the initial carrier under the Carmack amendment the burden is on plaintiff to show failure of the connecting carrier to deliver the goods within a reasonable time.[77] Although there is authority directly to the contrary,[78] on the theory that the same reasons for establishing the principle of proof in the case of injury to the goods exist with equal force in the case of a wrongful delay,[79] it has been held that there is no presumption that the delay occurred on one line rather than the other,[80] and that, in an action for injuries caused by unreasonable delay, against an intermediate or terminal carrier, the burden of proof is on plaintiff to show that the delay complained of occurred on defendant's road,[81] particularly where plaintiff accompanied the shipment throughout its journey.[82] Where the goods were not shipped on the connecting carrier's next train leaving after receipt of a diversion order, the burden is on the shipper to prove that facilities were or should have been, available to divert the shipment by that train.[83] In an action for damage to live stock by reason of delays, where the initial carrier proved that a wreck occurred on the track ahead of the stock train it was held that it made a prima facie case of negligence under the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur against its connecting carrier which it was incumbent on it to meet by showing it was not due to the negligence of such carrier.[84]

Tender to connecting carrier. In an action against a terminal carrier for unreasonable delay in transporting a corpse, the burden of proof is on plaintiff to show a tender or a delivery by the receiving carrier to the terminal carrier in reasonable time for transportation on the train on which it had been agreed to be carried; the presumption, in the absence of opposing evidence, that damage or loss to goods shipped over connecting lines of railroad occurred on the line of the terminal carrier, based on the theory that a condition in its nature continuing, has in fact continued, has no application to delay in the shipment of a dead body over connecting lines where there was no showing that the body was actually delivered to the terminal carrier in time for a proper speedy shipment.[85]

e. Instructions to Connecting Carrier

The burden is on an initial carrier sued for loss of court in the Henderson Case, supra. In the Henderson Case, supra, our court, referring to the Duvall Case, supra said: 'Since that decision was rendered, however, the Supreme Court of the United States has ruled otherwise.' And it cites the Charleston Case. Now that the Supreme Court of the United States has held in its latest expression on the point, that the common-law rule as to the presumption was not abrogated by the Carmack Amendment, and has stated that the Charleston Case, supra, does not support the contrary view, we take it that the question is settled, and accord to plaintiff the benefit of the presumption."—Hall v. Houston E. & W. T. Ry. Co., 121 So. 769, 771, 9 La App. 577, 582.

Notice of arrival

Where a railroad contracted to carry cotton to a port and deliver it to an ocean carrier for shipment to a foreign port, the burden was on the railroad, as against the shipper, to show that it gave notice to the ocean carrier of the arrival of the cotton at the pier in time for the ocean carrier to have taken the cotton aboard ship for the intended sailing.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Williams, 73 So. 548, 198 Ala. 425.

75. Tex.—Carlton Produce Co. v Velasco, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 131 S.W. 1187.
10 C.J. p 560 note 65.

76. Cal.—Colfax Mountain Fruit Co v. Southern Pac Co., 46 P. 668, 5 Cal.Unrep.Cas. 527.
N.C.—Allen-Fleming Co v Southern R. Co., 58 S.E. 793, 145 N.C. 37—Meredith v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 50 S.E. 1, 137 N.C. 478.

77. Va.—L. J. Upton & Co v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 131 S.E. 827, 146 Va. 475.

78. Ark.—Hudgins Produce Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 215 S.W. 606, 609, 139 Ark. 363.
10 C.J. p 560 note 69.
"It is conceded that, without the excluded testimony, there was nothing in the record to show when the carload of potatoes was delivered to defendant carrier, and the presumption arises that the delay occurred on its line as the delivering carrier. St Louis, I. M. & S Ry. Co. v. Coolidge, 83 S.W. 333, 73 Ark. 112, 108 Am.S.R. 21, 67 L.R.A. 555, 3 Ann Cas. 582."—Hudgins Produce Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., supra.

79. N.C.—Harper Furniture Co v. Southern Express Co., 57 S.E. 458, 144 N.C. 639, 12 Ann Cas. 924.

80. N.Y.—Caruso-Rinella-Battaglia Co. v. New York Cent. R. Co., 226 N.Y.S. 308, 222 App.Div. 371.

Reason for rule

No condition is shown to exist which is presumed to continue.—Caruso-Rinella-Battaglia Co. v New York Cent. R. Co., 226 N.Y.S. 308, 222 App.Div. 371.

81. Ga.—Almand v. Georgia R., etc., Co., 22 S.E. 674, 95 Ga. 775—East Tennessee, etc., R. Co v Johnson, 11 S.E. 809, 85 Ga. 497.
Md.—Shockley v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 71 A. 437, 109 Md. 123

82. Tex.—Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v Ohlhausen, Civ.App., 272 S.W. 224

83. Ark.—St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co v. Greig & Smith, 31 S.W. 2d 290, 182 Ark. 261.

84. Tex.—Kansas City, M. & O. Ry Co. v. Blackstone & Slaughter, Civ. App., 217 S.W. 208, rehearing overruled 218 S.W. 552, error granted.

85. Ala.—Southern R. Co. v. Renes, 68 So. 987, 192 Ala. 620.

goods to show that its failure properly to instruct the connecting carrier did not cause the loss.

In an action against an initial carrier for loss of goods, in which it produced a receipt from a connecting carrier differing from the original bill of lading as to the destination designated, the burden was on the initial carrier to show that its failure to extend to the connecting carrier proper instructions did not cause the loss.[86]

f. Issuance of Bill of Lading

Under the Carmack amendment it is conclusively presumed that the initial carrier issued a through bill of lading.

In an action under the Carmack amendment for loss or damage to property transported from a point in one state to a point in another, the presumption is that the law was obeyed and that a through bill of lading was issued,[87] and this presumption is a conclusive one.[88] Where an interstate shipment was diverted under the shipper's instructions, the presumption, in the absence of anything to the contrary, is that a new bill of lading was issued with the person to whom delivery was to be made as consignee.[89]

g. Damages

The plaintiff has the burden of proving the amount of the damage.

In an action for goods lost or damaged by connecting carriers, the burden is on plaintiff to establish the amount of the damage[90] and where no value of the lost goods is shown a verdict for plaintiff is without evidence to support it.[91] So, where plaintiff sues to recover the market value of the property lost, the burden is on him to show the market value.[92] In the absence of evidence to the contrary, it will be presumed that a sum derived from the sale of damaged goods by the terminal carrier on rejection by the consignee was the result of such carrier's reasonable efforts and exercise of judgment, and fairly establishes, for the purpose of computing the damage, the reasonable market value of the property.[93]

§ 441. Admissibility of Evidence

General rules as to admissibility of evidence apply in actions against connecting carriers.

The rules as to the admissibility of evidence in civil actions generally apply to actions against one or more of several connecting carriers for loss or injury, or for unreasonable delay in transportation,[94] including the general rules relating to admissibility of documentary evidence, such as bills of lading,[95] contracts of shipment,[96] waybills,[97] receipts from connecting carriers,[98] and notices to

86. S.C.—Chartrand v. Southern R. Co., 67 S.E. 741, 85 S.C. 479.

87. Tex.—Wichita Valley Ry. Co. v. Brown, Civ.App., 270 S.W. 1112.
10 C.J. p 560 note 74.

88. La.—Swift & Co. v. Texas & P. Ry. Co., 6 La.App. 7.
Mo.—Randazzo Macaroni Mfg. Co. v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., App., 251 S.W. 466.
Tex.—Burd v. San Antonio Southern Ry. Co., Com.App., 261 S.W. 1021, modifying San Antonio Southern Ry. Co. v. Burd, Civ.App., 246 S.W. 1060—Wichita Valley Ry. Co. v. Brown, Civ.App., 270 S.W. 1112.

89. Ala.—Clark v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 114 So. 295, 216 Ala. 637.

90. Ind.—Pittsburgh, C. C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Larosa, 131 N.E. 22, 75 Ind.App. 475.

91. Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Stovall-Pace Co., 100 S.E. 657, 24 Ga.App. 248.

92. Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hines, Civ.App., 4 S.W.2d 641.

93. Cal.—American Fruit Growers of California v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co., 238 P. 105, 72 Cal.App. 682.

94. S.C.—Charles v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 58 S.E. 927, 78 S.C. 36, 125 Am.S.R. 762.
10 C.J. p 560 note 76.

Complaint of conductor

In an action against an initial carrier for delay in transit of interstate shipment, evidence that conductor fretted at engineer for lack of speed without apparent cause was admissible.—Miller v. Quincy, O. & K. C. R. Co., 225 S.W. 116, 205 Mo.App. 463.

Delay of corpse

In action against connecting carrier for failure to transfer corpse to next succeeding passenger train after arrival of corpse at connecting point, testimony that plaintiff boarded the train at the instance or direction of the flagman or conductor, and left the train upon discovery that the corpse was not on the train, was admissible.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Bishop, 85 So. 859, 17 Ala.App. 320.

95. Ga.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Waxelbaum Produce Co., 90 S.E. 987, 19 Ga.App. 64.
10 C.J. p 561 note 78 [a].

Receipted freight bill

In suit for damages to apples, where receipted freight bill bore stamp of delivery carriers affixed by joint agent of defendants, it was relevant evidence against each defendant and properly held for jury.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Northwestern Fruit Exch., 98 So. 382, 210 Ala. 519.

96. Tex.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Dodson, Civ.App., 97 S.W. 523.
10 C.J. p 561 note 79 [a].

Unsigned contract

In an action by cattle shipper against initial and connecting carriers for damages to shipment under an oral contract with initial carrier, where there was no evidence tending to show any written contract, the court properly refused to allow carrier to introduce in evidence a written contract prepared by the carrier but not signed nor, so far as the evidence discloses, ever known to plaintiff.—St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Lane, Tex.Civ.App., 248 S.W. 59.

97. Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren, Civ.App., 198 S.W. 814, 816.

Inadmissible against shipper

Since the shipper is not a party to the waybill made out for the convenience of connecting carrier he is not bound by it, and it is not admissible in evidence against him to show the destination of the goods.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren, Tex.Civ.App., 198 S.W. 814, 816.

98. N.Y.—Hirsch v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 99 N.Y.S. 431, 50 Misc. 568.
Tex.—Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Miller, Civ.App., 88 S.W. 499.
10 C.J. p 561 note 80 [a].

trace shipments.[99] So proper evidence is admissible to prove or disprove authority to reconsign the shipment,[1] custom or usage,[2] the condition of the property on arrival at destination,[3] refusal to deliver the goods to a connecting carrier,[4] negligence,[5] that defendant was the last carrier,[6] that the loss or injury occurred on defendant's line,[7] that a through freight rate applied to the shipment,[8] and the measure and extent of the damages,[9] or to explain the shipper's failure to accompany live stock.[10] Evidence not material to the issues is inadmissible.[11]

99. Ga.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co v. Hill, 77 S.E. 316, 12 Ga.App 392. 10 C.J. p 561 note 81 [a]

1. Mo.—Kemper Mill & Elevator Co v. Hines, 239 S.W. 803, 293 Mo. 88.

Other reconsignments

Where two cars of corn meal reconsigned by the terminal carrier on the alleged authority of consignor's agent were part of a larger order of ten thousand sacks of meal, testimony that other cars in such consignment were reconsigned with consignor's consent in the same manner as the two cars in question was admissible on the issue of authority to reconsign without surrender of the bills of lading.—Kemper Mill & Elevator Co. v. Hines, 239 S.W. 803, 293 Mo. 88.

2. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Leatherwood, 69 S.W. 119, 29 Tex.Civ. App. 507.
10 C.J. p 561 note 82 [a].

3. Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. McMillen, Civ.App., 183 S.W. 773.

Commingled live stock

In an action for injuries to a shipment of live stock in several cars, evidence of the condition of animals in a car as to which no notice of damage was filed was held admissible to show the condition of animals in other cars, all animals being commingled at destination.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. McMillen, Tex.Civ.App., 183 S.W. 773.

4. Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co v. Bone, Civ.App., 208 S.W. 709, error refused—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Bone, Civ.App., 199 S.W. 332.

Constant and systematic refusal

(1) In action against carrier for refusing seasonably to deliver goods to a connecting line, evidence that it constantly refused to make such deliveries is admissible, where evidence conflicted regarding defendant's refusal to deliver and its reasons therefor.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co v. Bone, Tex.Civ.App., 199 S.W. 332.

(2) So evidence that carrier placed derail on tracks connecting with line of connecting carrier was held admissible as tending to show universal rule or system of action that contradicted defendant's claim where carrier denied refusal.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Bone, Tex.Civ.App., 208 S.W. 709, error refused.

5. Tex.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Jenkins, Civ.App., 196 S.W. 679, error refused.

Negligence of connecting carrier

In action for damages to interstate shipment of mules, under Interstate Commerce Act, making initial carrier liable for negligence on part of any carriers, evidence of negligence of connecting carrier is admissible as against initial carrier.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Jenkins Tex. Civ.App., 196 S.W. 679, error refused.

Disregard of shipper's instructions

In action against connecting carrier for damages to interstate shipment of mules, objection to evidence that car of mules was unloaded at connecting point on line of subsequent carrier, and thereby probably damaged, was without merit where plaintiff's other evidence tended to show he instructed defendant's agent to unload at other stockyards.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Jenkins, Tex.Civ.App., 196 S.W. 679, error refused.

Delay

In action against initial carrier for negligent delay in delivery of live stock shipment, where there was no allegation of negligence by connecting carrier, evidence tending to show that connecting carrier's failure to deliver shipment sooner was due to congestion of traffic, and not negligence on part of such carrier, was material to show that delay by initial carrier, if any, was no proximate cause of loss, and to controvert plaintiff's contention of negligent delay by connecting carrier after receiving shipment from initial carrier.—Ft. Worth & R. G. Ry. Co. v. Jones, Tex.Civ.App., 212 S.W. 552.

6. Ga.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Waxelbaum Produce Co., 90 S.E. 987, 19 Ga.App. 64

7. Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. McMillen, Civ.App., 183 S.W. 773.
10 C.J. p 561 note 81 [a].

Open car

In an action against a carrier for goods taken from a car while in control of another railroad acting as agent under a switching arrangement, testimony of the chief yard clerk of the agent company and others that they saw a car with its door open, standing on the agent's track, at about the time in controversy, was relevant as a circumstance tending to throw light on whether the sugar was taken while the car was under control of defendant or his agent.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Reynolds-Davis Grocery Co., 257 S.W. 70, 161 Ark. 579, certiorari granted 44 S.Ct. 636, 265 U.S. 577, 68 L.Ed. 1188, and affirmed 45 S.Ct. 516, 268 U.S. 366, 69 L.Ed. 1000

8. Ill.—Cardwell v. Payne, 226 Ill. App. 227.

9. Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. McMillen Civ.App., 183 S.W. 773.

Actual value

In an action for injuries to a shipment of horses, evidence of their actual value at the point of destination is admissible, where they had no market value at such point.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. McMillen, Tex.Civ. App., 183 S.W. 773.

Condition at destination

In an action against a railroad company which carried horses only part of the way, and which limited its liability to its own line, it was held that evidence of their condition at the point of destination was admissible to determine measure and extent of damages.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. McMillen, Tex.Civ.App., 183 S.W. 773.

10. Ind.—Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co. v. Priddy, 115 N.E. 266, 65 Ind.App. 552.

Refusal to permit

Evidence relative to initial carrier's refusal to permit shipper to accompany stock was admissible to explain shipper's failure to do so.—Chicago, I. & L. Ry. Co. v. Priddy, 115 N.E. 266, 65 Ind.App. 552.

11. Mass.—Northern Industrial Chemical Co. v. Davis, 144 N.E. 64, 249 Mass. 246.

Bad condition of other goods

Excluding testimony by witness who had not seen shipper's tobacco that tobacco sold at point of delivery to carrier was in bad condition was held proper.—Cumberland Transp. Co. v. E. J. O'Brien & Co., 2 S.W.2d 668, 222 Ky. 814.

Custom subsequent to loss

In action against terminal carrier for loss of castor oil shipped in 1918 in wooden barrels, court properly excluded evidence that in 1923 practice was to use metal containers, and that they were considered better than wood.—Northern Industrial Chemical Co. v. Davis, 144 N.E. 64, 249 Mass. 246.

Promise of "passenger run"

In action against initial carrier for delay in interstate shipment which had been rerouted to another destination, evidence of a promise of a "passenger run" over the new route was held inadmissible, the case not being

§ 442. Weight and Sufficiency of Evidence

General rules as to weight and sufficiency of evidence apply in actions against one or more connecting carriers.

The rules relating to weight and sufficiency of evidence in civil actions generally apply in actions against one or more of several connecting carriers for loss or injury or for delay in transportation, as, for example, to show delivery to the initial carrier,[12] delivery to the connecting or terminal carrier,[13] good condition of the property when delivered to the carrier,[14] delivery to the consignee,[15] loss,[16] cause of loss or damage,[17] market value of property lost or injured,[18] negligence of defendant[19] or the occurrence of injury on defendant's based on promise of that kind and being dangerously near making new contract—Miller v. Quincy, O. & K. C. R. Co., 225 S.W. 116, 205 Mo.App. 463.

Subsidiary lines

Excluding testimony that certain intermediate carriers were part of another intermediate carrier's system was held not prejudicial to initial carrier sued for damage to goods in transit under statute making such carrier liable for all damage—Cumberland Transp. Co. v. E. J. O'Brien & Co., 2 S.W.2d 668, 222 Ky. 814.

Contributory negligence

In an action by a cattle shipper against initial and connecting carriers for damages to shipment, testimony in behalf of the carriers that plaintiff could have driven his cattle across country to a shipping point on the connecting carrier's line, thus not using the initial carrier's line at all, was properly excluded as utterly impertinent, the contributory negligence of shipper in using either of defendant's lines not being a defense to the action.—St. Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Lane, Tex.Civ.App., 248 S.W. 59.

Negligence of other carrier

In action against a connecting carrier for damage to goods, plaintiff's testimony showing that the damage occurred while they remained on lines or in custody of preceding carrier before delivery to defendant, should be excluded.—Copenhaver & Massey Milling Co. v. Kanawha & W. Va. R. Co., 93 S.E. 940, 81 W.Va. 73.

12. Tex.—Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Keesey, 110 S.W. 170, 50 Tex.Civ. App. 463.
10 C.J. p 561 note 85.

13. Ga.—Southern Express Co. v. Cohen, 78 S.E. 1111, 13 Ga.App 174.
10 C.J. p 561 note 86.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To show that initial carrier was subsidiary of connecting carrier and that connecting carrier received shipment—Missouri-Pac R. Co. v. Waugh, Tex.Civ.App., 74 S.W.2d 554, error dismissed

(2) To show that shipment was delivered by defendant and accepted by connecting carrier, and therefore defendant was relieved from liability for their subsequent destruction.—Arkansas Railroad v. Winters, 265 S.W. 967, 166 Ark. 213.

Evidence held insufficient to establish that merchandise in question was delivered to connecting carrier—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Seward, 142 So. 881, 106 Fla. 75, reversing 136 So. 620—10 C.J. p 544 note 83 [d]

14. Evidence held sufficient

(1) To show that goods, receipted for in bill of lading as being "in apparent good order (contents, inward condition, and value unknown)," were apparently in good condition as against the carrier who issued the bill of lading, but not against terminal carrier not a party to the bill. Ill.—See Gallagher v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 207 Ill.App. 316.
Mo.—Krallman v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 235 S.W. 830, 209 Mo.App. 286.

(2) To sustain finding that shipment was delivered to initial carrier in good condition—Seymour Dry Goods Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 225 P. 113, 115 Kan. 858.

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To establish that carload of horses were in good condition when received by terminal carrier—Hall v. Houston E. & W. T. Ry. Co., 121 So. 769, 9 La.App. 577, 582.

(2) To prove delivery to initial carrier in good condition.—Snowden v. Tremont & G. Ry. Co., La.App., 140 So. 122.

15. Evidence held sufficient

(1) To show course of dealing and specific instructions by consignee, under which carrier was justified in delivering consignments to another without receiving nonnegotiable bills of lading.—Terracina v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co., La.App., 152 So. 771.

(2) To show delivery to consignee by delivery to drayman who usually received consignee's freight.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Seward, 142 So. 881, 106 Fla. 75, reversing 136 So. 620.

16. Evidence held sufficient

(1) To prove loss.—Bennett v. Missouri Pac. Ry. Co., 164 P. 1084, 100 Kan. 537, L.R.A.1918A 1061.

(2) To show that shipment was in bad condition when received at custom house at destination, and had been opened and some of the goods abstracted.—Vogel v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 171 N.W. 198, 168 Wis. 567

Evidence held insufficient to show shortage in coal delivered.—J. F. Anderson Lumber Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 226 N.W. 273, 55 S.D. 305.

17. Evidence held insufficient

(1) To show that damaged condition of grapes shipped was due to delay—Capella v. Southern Pac. Co., 218 N.Y.S. 366, 218 App.Div. 448

(2) To show that diversion of shipment of onions caused delay or damage thereto—Rio Grande & E. P. Ry. Co. v. Roy Campbell & Co., Tex.Civ.App., 288 S.W. 539.

18. Evidence held sufficient to warrant findings of no market value and fixing value of destroyed freight to plaintiff.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Van Zandt, Tex.Civ.App., 30 S.W.2d 503, reversed on other grounds, Com.App., 44 S.W.2d 950.

Evidence held insufficient to sustain finding of market value of coal, not delivered—Lake Erie & W. R. Co. v. Fantz, 154 N.E. 875, 85 Ind. App. 569.

19. Evidence held sufficient

(1) To authorize inference that damage to shipment of watermelons was caused by defendant or connecting carrier.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Varner, 137 S.E. 83, 36 Ga.App. 441

(2) To justify finding of a negligent refusal or failure of the terminal carrier to accept the shipment.—St. Louis South Western Ry. Co. of Texas v. Miller & White, Tex.Civ.App., 190 S.W. 819.

(3) To show negligence, making initial carrier liable for injury to hogs by pneumonia—Vaughn v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 15 S.W.2d 901, 223 Mo.App. 732.

(4) To show negligent delay in a shipment of stock—Miller v. Quincy, O. & K. C. R. Co., Mo.App., 240 S.W. 475.

(5) To show that fire damage to cotton was not due to negligence of railroad or connecting carrier and to go to jury on issue of negligence of United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, to whose agents it had been delivered—A. L. Wolff & Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas, Tex.Civ.App., 283 S.W. 250, affirmed, Com.App., 289 S.W. 1000.

(6) To sustain finding that defendant connecting carrier's delay was the proximate cause of the injuries.

line,[20] injury by transportation in defective car,[21] | liability of initial carrier,[22] liability for negligent

—Heisel v. Minneapolis & St. L. R Co., 171 N W 177, 185 Iowa 885.

(7) To sustain findings that connecting carrier's delay in delivering live stock constituted negligence and caused injury to shipment —Gulf, C & S. F Ry. Co v. Hines, Tex.Civ. App., 4 S.W.2d 641.

(8) To warrant finding that terminal carrier's negligence was sole proximate cause of injury to animals —Gulf, C & S F. Ry Co. v. Hines, Tex.Civ.App., 18 S.W.2d 833, error refused.

(9) In an action for damages for delay in shipment of goods, to sustain a finding that defendant was negligent.—Schlitten v. Hines, 186 N. Y S. 831, 196 App.Div. 254.

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To establish liability of intermediate carrier who received goods in good condition and delivered them to next succeeding carrier in damaged condition, in absence of affirmative proof that damage was caused by something for which such carrier was responsible.—Southern Pac. R Co. of Mexico v. Gonzalez, Ariz., 61 P.2d 377.

(2) To establish negligence of connecting or terminal carriers.
La.—Hall v. Houston E. & W. T. Ry. Co., 121 So. 769, 9 La App. 577, 582.
Pa.—Harry E. Jackson Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 172 A. 20, 112 Pa Super. 535.
Tex.—Lancaster v. Norris, Civ.App., 271 S.W. 401, reversed on other grounds, Com.App., Norris v. Lancaster, 280 S.W. 574.

(3) To prove negligence of carrier, which although receiving order at 5:30, failed to divert strawberries over connecting carrier's 6.50 train. —St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co. v. Greig & Smith, 31 S.W.2d 290, 182 Ark. 261.

(4) To show initial carrier's negligence.—St Louis, B. & M. Ry. Co. v. Moss, Tex Civ App., 203 S.W. 777.

(5) To show negligent delay by intermediate carrier of interstate stock shipment —Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Ohlhausen, Tex.Civ. App, 272 S.W. 224.

(6) To support finding of period of delay which could have been avoided by exercise of ordinary care. —Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Odom, Tex.Civ.App., 185 S W 626.

20. Wis.—Best v Great Northern R. Co, 150 N.W 484, 159 Wis. 429.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To establish prima facie case of liability on the part of the terminal carrier for damages in transit.— Lewis v Joyner, 113 S.E. 829, 29 Ga. App. 92.

(2) To establish that carload of horses was delivered in same condition as received by connecting and terminal carriers.—Hall v. Houston E. & W. T Ry. Co, 121 So. 769, 9 La. App 577.

(3) To show that an unusual and unnecessary delay in the transportation and delivery of the shipment occurred on defendant's line and that the damage was caused by this delay —Southern Ry. Co v. Waxelbaum Produce Co., 90 S.E. 987, 19 Ga.App. 64.

(4) To show that loss occurred on line of initial carrier.—Zorub v. Missouri Pac. R. Co, 31 S.W.2d 421, 182 Ark. 232.

(5) To show that, owing to defective icing, fish shipped were in damaged condition when car left initial carrier's yard.—Emery & Co. v. Boston & M. R. R, 120 N.E. 106, 230 Mass. 463.

(6) To support finding that damage to bananas in interstate shipment did not occur on line of connecting carrier.—Mascari v. New York, C. & St. L. R. Co., 183 N E. 913, 97 Ind.App. 27.

(7) To support finding that goods were lost or damaged while in defendant's custody.
Mo —Block Bros. Clothing Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., App., 253 S. W. 35.
Tex.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Guest, Civ.App., 280 S.W. 611—Ft. Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Bone, Civ.App., 195 S W. 244.

(8) To sustain finding that bananas were frozen while in defendant connecting carrier's possession because of its negligent failure to regulate temperature of car.—Vandalia R. Co. v. La Rosa, 133 N.E. 152, 77 Ind.App. 58.

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To establish that live stock was injured while in possession of connecting or terminal carriers
La.—Hall v. Houston E. & W T. Ry Co., 121 So. 769, 9 La.App. 577, 582.
Tex —Missouri Pac. R. Co v. Heath, 18 S.W. 477.

(2) To rebut prima facie case against a terminal carrier, made by proof of delivery of goods to initial carrier in sound condition and delivery at destination in damaged condition, where the proof relied on shows that they were damaged before terminal carrier received them, but does not show extent of such damage with some degree of certainty and definiteness —Lewis v Joyner, 113 S.E. 829, 29 Ga.App 92

(3) To show delay on initial carrier's lines.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry Co v. S. L. Robinson & Co., 23 S W. 2d 976, 180 Ark. 911.

(4) To show injury to stock while in possession of carrier against whom verdict was rendered to extent of verdict.—Prelvitz v. Chicago Great Western R. Co., 157 N.W. 1079, 133 Minn. 131.

(5) To show that a shortage of goods did not take place while goods were in hands of terminal carrier, a transfer or drayage company.— Neuman v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 216 Ill.App 387.

(6) To support finding that shortage in shipment occurred while goods were in possession of defendant connecting carrier —Neuman v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., supra.

21. Mo —Smith v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 164 S W. 132, 177 Mo.App. 269. 10 C.J. p 561 note 87.

22. Tenn.—Nashville, C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. Sparkman, Petty & Jameson, 8 Tenn.App. 683.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To justify finding that the shipment was understood and intended to be a through shipment, so that the initial carrier was liable —Whiteside v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., Mo.App., 239 S W. 150.

(2) To make out a prima facie case of liability for injury to carload of watermelons —Marshall Land & Mercantile Co. v. Missouri Pac R. Co., Mo.App., 270 S.W. 422.

(3) To show initial carrier's liability as a warehouseman.—Savannah & S. Ry. Co. v. First Nat. Bank, 103 S.E. 887, 25 Ga.App. 529.

(4) To warrant conclusion that railroad company was liable as initial carrier for damages occurring while shipment was in charge of connecting carrier.—Bruner v. Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co., 150 N.E. 266, 319 Ill 421, affirming 236 Ill.App. 541.

(5) To warrant the finding that the damage was caused by negligent handling, irrespective of delay caused by embargo, and that therefore the initial carrier was liable.—Jakeway & Tyrrell v Lehigh Valley R. Co., 120 A. 820, 277 Pa. 236.

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To show conclusively that a shipment of goods over connecting lines was not under a contract of through shipment. — Keithley & Quinn v. Lusk, 189 S.W. 621, 195 Mo App. 143.

(2) To show, in action against initial carrier, that loss occurred during time delivering carrier was holding goods as carrier rather than as warehouseman.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Stimson, 268 S.W. 835, 207 Ky. 78.

whether title to the goods was in plaintiff or a third party during transit;[47] whether the goods injured had been delivered to a connecting carrier;[48] and whether the goods had been delivered to the consignee.[49] So the question of the liability of an initial carrier for damages to cattle, caused by delay incident to feeding the cattle at the point of delivery to a connecting carrier, is one of fact for the jury, dependent on the time of delivery of the cattle to, and their acceptance by, the connecting carrier.[50] The question is one of law for the court and should not be submitted to the jury, however, where the fact is uncontroverted or where there is no substantial conflict in the evidence,[51] or where the issue is not sufficiently raised by the pleadings and evidence.[52] So, where the facts are undisputed, the question of whether the negligence complained of is that of a common carrier or a warehouseman is one of law for the court.[53]

Instructions. The rules governing instructions in civil actions generally apply in actions against one or more of a line of connecting carriers to recover for loss or injury to goods shipped, or for wrongful delay.[54] Accordingly the court should give, when requested, and does not err in giving, instructions that clearly and correctly state the law and that are pertinent to the issues and evidence,[55] such as instructions as to the effect of the contract

Intoxicating beverage

(1) In action against connecting carriers for damages for failure to deliver a carload of "Pablo," whether beverage which carrier refused to carry into dry state was beer, and whether it was properly iced and preserved by carrier from time of arrival at point outside such state until delivery to state chemist for examination, held for jury; and carriers receiving the shipment of beverage, with the same information subsequently possessed, cannot say, as defense to the action that they were deceived by the appearance of the shipment when it reached the point beyond which they refused to transport it.—Pabst Brewing Co. v. Chicago, M & St P. Ry. Co, 273 S. W. 424, 221 Mo App. 338.

(2) So whether it would have been unlawful to introduce beer into Arizona at time of carrier's refusal to ship beverage into such state is for jury, on evidence warranting inference of carrier's knowledge that it was not for consignee's personal use. —Pabst Brewing Co. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., supra.

47. Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Bone, Civ.App., 199 S.W. 332.

48. Mich.—Reason v. Detroit, etc., R. Co., 113 N.W. 596, 150 Mich 50.

49. Ark.—Louisiana & N. W. R. Co. v. J. P. Machen & Co., 294 S.W. 714, 174 Ark. 122.

50. Tex.—Texas, etc., R Co. v Scoggin, 90 S W 521, 40 Tex.Civ. App 526

51. Ky.—E. J. O'Brien & Co. v. Davis, 288 S W. 682, 216 Ky. 693.

Bill of lading

Where an original bill of lading was put in evidence by defendant without objection, and a copy was put in evidence by plaintiff without objection, it was error to submit to the jury whether the paper in evidence was the bill of lading, since both parties may be said to have conceded that the bill of lading was in evidence.—Chartrand v. Southern Ry. Co., 67 S E. 741, 85 S.C. 479.

52. Tex.—Fort Worth & Denver City Ry Co v. Motley, Civ App., 87 S.W 2d 551, error dismissed

Evidence held insufficient to make issue for jury

(1) As to extent of damage to cans while in carrier's possession —Ohio Galvanizing & Mfg. Co v Southern Pac Co, C C.A Ky, 39 F 2d 840, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 83, 282 U S. 879, 75 L.Ed. 776

(2) As to unreasonable delay on part of intermediate carrier.—Georgia, S. & F Ry. Co. v Makeever, 15 S W.2d 293, 228 Ky. 492.

Contributory negligence

In shipper's action for damage to live stock allegedly caused by carrier's negligence in taking live stock out of two cars and reloading them in three cars, defense that shipper was contributorily negligent in overloading original cars not sufficiently raised by pleadings and evidence need not be submitted to jury.— Fort Worth & Denver City Ry. Co. v. Motley, Tex Civ.App, 87 S W.2d 551, error dismissed.

Twenty-eight hour law

Where an initial carrier accepted a shipment of horses and delivered them to a connecting carrier twenty-six hours and ten minutes later, it was error to submit to the jury the issue of its negligence in failing to unload the shipment for rest and feed as required by the twenty-eight-hour law.—Heisel v. Minneapolis & St. L R. Co., 171 N.W. 177, 185 Iowa 885.

Instruction as to evidence

In action against delivering carrier for damage to cabbage, in which the evidence showed that shipment was held up one whole day for icing, reclassification, and forwarding, but did not show that faster time could have been made, refusal of instruction that there was no legally sufficient evidence that damage was due to delay is reversible error.—Pennsylvania R Co v Walker, 128 A. 45, 147 Md 323.

53. Mich.—Winget v. Grand Trunk Western Ry Co, 177 N W. 273, 210 Mich 100, certiorari denied Grand Trunk Western Ry Co. v Winget, 41 S Ct. 6, 254 U S. 629, 65 L Ed. 447.

54. Mo.—Connelly v Illinois Cent. R Co, 113 S W 233, 133 Mo App. 310

Tex.—Texas, etc, R Co. v. Rankin, Civ App, 118 S W. 823

10 C J p 562 note 2.

55. Mo.—American Fruit Growers v. Cleveland, C., C & St. L. Ry. Co App, 263 S.W 488.

Instructions held not improper

(1) As telling jury that it was connecting carrier's duty to ice car from point of origin of shipment before arrival and acceptance for transportation at connecting point.— Galveston, H. & S. A Ry. Co v. Licata, Tex Civ App, 269 S W. 821, reversed on other grounds, Com App, 280 S W 540.

(2) In a suit against an initial carrier for specific acts of negligence occurring on its own line, as too general and permitting the jury to consider movements from the point of origin to final destination, and so to consider injuries which might have occurred on the line of the connecting carrier.—Lancaster v. Hollebeke, Tex Civ App., 235 S W. 1113.

Clerical error

Where, in shipper's action against three carriers, plaintiff, at close of his case, took an involuntary nonsuit as to two defendants, who no longer participated in the action, an instruction for plaintiff, unless "defendants" proved that "their" negligence did not produce the damage, etc, was not misleading, especially when a mere clerical error.—American Fruit Growers v. Cleveland, C., C & St. L. Ry. Co., Mo.App., 263 S. W. 488.

of carriage,[56] the facts necessary to be found to authorize a recovery,[57] the liability of the defendant or defendants,[58] and instructions on the burden of proof[59] and presumptions;[60] but it should not give and should refuse when requested misleading or incorrect instructions as to the law of the case,[61] confusing instructions,[62] or instructions which are not authorized by the issues and evidence.[63] So, in actions based on delay, instructions omitting the question of reasonable diligence in transporting the 56. Ark.—Farr v. St Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., 243 S.W. 880, 154 Ark. 585.

Instructions held proper

(1) As to effect of contractual limitation of time for bringing suit. —Farr v St Louis Southwestern Ry. Co., 243 S.W. 880, 154 Ark. 585

(2) As to effect of statute on validity of contracts limiting liability —Jackson v. Mauck, 126 N.E. 851, 189 Ind. 262.

57. Mo.—Bowles v. Quincy, O. & K. C. R. Co., App., 187 S.W. 131.

Delay

In action against succeeding carrier for damages to an interstate shipment of hogs, instruction which told jury that, before verdict for plaintiff could be returned, they must find that defendant failed to transport hogs in reasonable time, and that by reason of said failure hogs were injured so that some of them died, was not improper.—Bowles v Quincy, O. & K. C. R. Co., Mo.App., 187 S.W. 131.

58. N.C.—Groves Mills v. Carolina & N. W. Ry. Co., 148 S.E. 441, 197 N.C. 388.

Instruction construed

In action against two intermediate railroads for damage to fish, charge including statement that "that doesn't change what I have already said," in reply to counsel's suggestion that connecting carrier was bound only to carry safely over its own line, was held not to have instructed jury that intermediate railroad could be held liable for damage that did not occur on its own line but was recognition of the proposition as correct.—Columbia Fish & Ice Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 126 S.E. 645, 130 S.C. 549.

Separate verdicts

Prior to the Carmack amendment, in an action against several carriers for injuries to live stock, in the absence of a special contract extending the liability beyond the end of their respective lines, an instruction that the jury should find a separate verdict against each carrier for the damages that occurred on its line is proper.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Curry, 106 S.W. 294, 127 Ky. 643, 32 Ky.L. 513.

59. N.C.—Groves Mills v. Carolina & N. W. Ry. Co., 148 S.E. 441, 197 N.C. 388.

Tenn.—Southeastern Express Co. v. Fry Produce Co., 2 Tenn.App. 37.

Instructions construed together

In an action against a railroad for loss of, and damage to, live stock in transit, instruction that plaintiff shipper to recover must show by a preponderance of testimony that the cattle after delivery to defendant railroad were negligently handled was not erroneous as giving plaintiff the right to recover if the proof showed the damage occurred after the cattle were received by defendant railroad, although inflicted by the delivering carrier where another instruction plainly told the jury that in order for plaintiff to recover he must show the loss resulted from defendant's negligence.—Missouri Pac R. Co. v. Hill, 215 S.W. 676, 144 Ark. 641.

60. Ga.—Lewis v. Joyner, 113 S.E. 829, 29 Ga.App. 92.

Relevancy

Charge that, where goods were delivered to initial carrier in good condition and received in bad condition at point of destination, rebuttable presumption of liability arose against terminal carrier, was not erroneous or prejudicial, as irrelevant or not adjusted to the evidence, although it appeared part of damage was sustained prior to terminal carrier's receipt of goods, there not being sufficient data as to the amount of such damage, and there being evidence that part of the damage occurred while goods were in hands of terminal carrier.—Lewis v. Joyner, 113 S.E. 829, 29 Ga. App. 92.

61. Delay on connecting line

In an action by a shipper for damages to shipment by delay in transportation, an instruction authorizing a verdict for plaintiff on the finding that there was negligent delay in the carriage of the property, without regard to whether the loss was due to the delay occurring on defendant's line, defendant not being the initial carrier, was error, as in order to render the defendant liable it was necessary that the jury find as a fact that the loss occurred through defendant's fault or breach of duty while the goods were in its possession.—Johnson v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 249 S.W. 658, 211 Mo.App 564.

Joint liability

In an action against the initial carrier and the connecting carrier for failure to deliver cattle, an instruction that defendants are not jointly liable was correct, while others, implying that a verdict against all the defendants would be proper were inconsistent with it and misleading and constituted error prejudicial to the defendant whose liability was not established by proofs. —Mayhall & Neible v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., 185 N.W. 326, 107 Neb. 58, error dismissed Union Stock Yards Co. of Omaha v. Mayhall & Neible, 43 S.Ct. 699, 262 U.S. 731, 67 L.Ed. 1205.

62. Prediction on inconsistent facts

In action against delivering carrier for damage to cabbage, rejection of prayer exonerating delivering carrier, if it iced car fully at only ice station along route, although car was without ice on arrival at destination, was proper, in that it assumed that carrier exercised due care by merely providing ice at such point, and was predicated on inconsistent facts and therefore confusing.—Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Walker, 128 A. 45, 147 Md. 323

63. Ill.—Parker v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 230 Ill.App. 259.

Duty to ice car

In an action against a connecting carrier for damages to three carloads of peaches caused by failure to properly ice the fruit, defendant was not entitled to an instruction specifically telling the jury that there was no duty resting on it to ice the cars before the shipment reached its first regular icing station, where the proof established that an icing plant was reached prior to the regular plant, and where there might have been an emergency which, in the exercise of ordinary care, called for re-icing the cars.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. American Fruit Growers, 260 S.W. 39, 163 Ark 318.

Acts of defendant's agent

In a shipper's action for injuries to live stock, it was not error to refuse to instruct that defendant was not liable for injuries occurring while the cattle were being switched by another road at destination, where such road was not acting as a connecting carrier, but as defendant's agent to do the switching.—Rio Grande, E. P. & S. F. R. Co. v. Kraft & Madero, Tex. Civ.App., 212 S.W. 981, dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

shipment should not be given.[64]

Directing verdict. The court should direct a verdict for the carrier where plaintiff has failed to prove its liability,[65] as where the evidence as to its liability is so vague and indefinite that any verdict for plaintiff would have been based on mere conjecture and surmise,[66] or when the carrier's rebutting evidence is so fair and conclusive that no reasonable man could fail to come to the conclusion that the carrier is not liable;[67] but a verdict should not ordinarily be directed where there is evidence tending to support the complaint.[68] Where, in an action against connecting carriers plaintiff admitted at the trial that no injury occurred on the line of one of such carriers, it was proper for the court to charge that, in case plaintiff was entitled to recover, no verdict should be rendered against such carrier.[69] Even though the correct measure of damages is not proved, if any damages are shown to have been sustained a motion for a peremptory instruction for defendant must be denied.[70]

Findings. In an action against the initial and connecting carriers for delay in transporting live stock, a finding of concurrent negligence on the part of both carriers, and a finding that the initial carrier tendered the stock to the connecting carrier while its train was on its track and about to leave, but that it refused then to accept the shipment, are inconsistent; the second finding controls the first, and a judgment against both carriers cannot be sustained,[71] but in an action against the initial carrier wherein defendant impleaded the connecting carrier, a special finding that the proximate cause of the injury was negligence on the part of the initial carrier, its agents and employees, is not inconsistent with a finding that the negligence of the connecting carrier was the proximate and sole cause of the loss.[72] Where plaintiff sued the initial carrier for the entire damages, submission of special issues which sought to apportion the damage to each connecting carrier does not destroy a specific finding as to the total damage which was supported by evidence.[73] In an action against connecting carriers, a finding that one of the defendants was guilty of actionable negligence in handling the property is sufficient to support a judgment against it without relation to the negligence of the other defendant.[74] A finding that defendant was not guilty of a specific act of negligence alleged does not demand a judgment for defendant, where the complaint was susceptible to the construction that plaintiff's cause of action was based on the breach of defendant's agreement to deliver safely, and the jury could have found that the carrier failed to perform its duty in other respects;[75] but a verdict for defendant initial

64. Ill.—Parker v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 230 Ill.App. 259.
Mont.—Phelps v. Great Northern Ry. Co., 213 P. 610, 66 Mont. 198, certiorari dismissed Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Galbreath Cattle Co., 44 S.Ct. 334, 264 U.S. 571, 68 L.Ed. 855, reversed on other grounds 46 S.Ct. 139, 271 U.S. 99, 70 L.Ed. 854.

65. Me.—Hayden v. Maine Central R. R., 103 A. 1047, 117 Me. 560.
Tex.—Rio Grande & E. P. Ry. Co. v. J. H. Russell & Son, Civ.App., 212 S.W. 530.
W.Va.—Copenhaver & Massey Milling Co. v. Kanawha & W. Va. R. Co., 93 S.E. 940, 81 W.Va. 73.

66. U.S.—Ohio Galvanizing & Mfg. Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., C.C.A.Ky., 39 F.2d 840, certiorari denied 51 S.Ct. 83, 282 U.S. 879, 75 L.Ed. 776.

Several defendants.

(1) Any one of several defendants, in suit for value of goods lost in transit, against whom there is nothing more than mere surmise as to liability, is entitled to directed verdict.—Julius Klugman's Sons v. Oceanic Steam Nav. Co., D.C.N.Y., 42 F.2d 461.

(2) So, where terminal carrier does not defend on ground of failure of intermediate carrier to deliver shipment, order sustaining demurrers to evidence by intermediate and initial carriers, and dismissing them from action, is not erroneous.—Oklahoma, N. M. & P. Ry. Co. v. H. M. S. Drilling Co., 229 P. 420, 100 Okl. 260.

67. S.C.—Parnell v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 74 S.E. 491, 91 S.C. 270.

68. Ala.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Northwestern Fruit Exch., 98 So. 382, 210 Ala. 519.

Evidence held sufficient.

(1) To require submission to the jury.
Iowa.—Bolatti v. Wabash Ry. Co., 184 N.W. 641, 192 Iowa 306.—Heisel v. Minneapolis & St. L. R. Co., 171 N.W. 177, 185 Iowa 885.
Mo.—Vaughn v. St. Louis-San Francisco Ry. Co., 15 S.W.2d 901, 223 Mo.App. 732.
N.C.—Gallop & Fisher v. Norfolk Southern R. Co., 91 S.E. 375, 173 N.C. 21, error dismissed Norfolk Southern R. Co. v. Gallup, 39 S.Ct. 184, 248 U.S. 596, 63 L.Ed. 438.
Ohio.—Erie R. Co. v. Bender, Streibig & Co., 163 N.E. 50, 29 Ohio App. 262.
Tex.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Guest, Civ.App., 280 S.W. 611.—Chicago, R. I. & G. Ry. Co. v. Hallam, Civ.App., 211 S.W. 809.

(2) To require submission of issue of negligence of railroads.—Groves Mills v. Carolina & N. W. Ry. Co., 148 S.E. 441, 197 N.C. 388.

(3) To require submission of issue of unreasonable delay in transporting hogs as to initial and delivering carriers.—Georgia, S. & F. Ry. Co. v. Makeever, 15 S.W.2d 293, 228 Ky. 492.

(4) To require submission of the question of whether tobacco, delivered by connecting carrier in damaged condition, was in good condition when delivered to initial carrier.—E. J. O'Brien & Co. v. Davis, 288 S.W. 682, 216 Ky. 693.

69. Tex.—Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Garlington, 92 S.W. 270, 41 Tex. Civ.App. 340.

70. Miss.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Mahon Live Stock Co., 71 So. 802.

71. Tex.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, Civ.App., 176 S.W. 830.

72. Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Hines, Civ.App., 18 S.W.2d 833, error refused.

73. Tex.—Texas-Mexican Ry. Co. v. Sutherland, Civ.App., 189 S.W. 983.

74. Tex.—Texas Mexican Ry. Co. v. Bell, Civ.App., 110 S.W.2d 199.

75. Ind.—New York, C. & St. L. Ry. Co. v. White, 192 N.E. 846, 99 Ind.App. 454.

carrier is justified by a finding that the goods were destroyed in a warehouse by a fire, as to the cause of which there is no evidence, a month after arrival at their destination and notice to the consignee.[76] A finding of negligence cannot be predicated on a failure to furnish a service which it would be illegal to furnish.[77]

Verdict. The usual rules as to verdicts, applicable in civil actions generally, apply in actions against connecting carriers.[78]

§ 444. Judgment

The judgment in a successful action by the plaintiff should be entered against the carrier or carriers liable in the amount found by the jury if not in excess of that sued for; and in a proper case, where several carriers are liable, there may be a judgment over against the carrier causing the damage.

Where an action is brought jointly against several connecting lines for joint negligence in transporting a shipment, a joint judgment may be rendered against all of them, they being joint tortfeasors, arising from a joint concurrent negligence in failing properly to transport the goods.[79] So, it has been held that, when two or more carriers participate in a shipment and fail to allocate the damage as among themselves, a joint judgment for the entire loss against all of them is proper.[80] In an action against all carriers of an interstate shipment, the court can render judgment against the carrier liable for the loss;[81] but the fact that the connecting lines are made parties does not prevent a recovery of the entire damages against the initial carrier.[82] Where a carrier, contracting to ship goods over its own and a connecting line, is sued for injury occurring on the connecting line, the latter cannot complain of a judgment over in favor of the contracting line against it, as it is primarily liable,[83] and where there was no evidence of negligence on the part of a railroad company, sued as a partner with its codefendants for damages to shipments of cattle, the bill of lading limiting liability of each road to negligence on its own line, it was entitled to a peremptory instruction on its plea for judgment over against its codefendants.[84] In an action against the initial carrier for the entire damage to an interstate shipment, where plaintiff proved his damages, and the jury found the damages caused by defendant and the connecting carrier in an amount in excess of that sued for, it is the court's duty to enter judgment for plaintiff for the amount sued for; and other special issues submitted seeking to apportion the amount of damage to connecting carriers not parties to the suit are immaterial to plaintiff's right to the judgment.[85] A judgment against connecting carriers, one of which was not served and did not enter an appearance, is, as to that one, improper.[86]

§ 445. Damages

In an action against the initial or connecting carrier, the assessment of damages will be governed by controlling statutory provisions and the rules applicable to the measure of damages in actions against carriers generally.

In an action against the initial or delivering carrier under the Carmack-Cummins amendment for loss or injuries caused by a connecting carrier, plaintiff is entitled to recover, as provided in the statute, his "full, actual loss."[87] What constitutes "full, actual loss" under the Interstate Commerce

76. Ill.—Aurora Automatic Machinery Co. v. Chicago, B & Q. R. Co., 217 Ill.App. 60

77. Wis.—Northern Wisconsin Produce Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 234 N.W. 726, 203 Wis. 549.

78. Separate verdicts
It has been held that where an action was brought against connecting carriers for injuries to live stock shipped without any person accompanying them, and both carriers denied all negligence and offered evidence in support of the denial, in the face of conclusive evidence of serious delay in transportation, and that the animals when delivered were injured, so that it was impossible for the jury to determine which of the carriers was to blame for their condition, a verdict charging the entire damages against each was proper.—Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Green, 100 S.W. 825, 30 Ky.L. 1180.

79. Va.—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Crull, 70 S.E. 521, 112 Va. 151. 10 C.J. p. 562 note 7.

80. Ky. — Makeever v. Georgia Southern & F. Ry. Co., 294 S.W. 144, 219 Ky. 699.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Schaeffer, 280 S.W. 974, 213 Ky. 248.

81. Tex.—Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co. v. American Grocery Co., 36 S.W.2d 985, 122 Tex. 1, affirming, Com.App., 25 S.W.2d 588, which reversed Galveston Wharf Co. v. American Grocery Co., 13 S.W.2d 983, certiorari granted Galveston Wharf Co. v. Galveston, H. & S. A. Ry. Co., 52 S.Ct. 41, 284 U.S. 608, 76 L.Ed. 521, affirmed 52 S.Ct. 342, 285 U.S. 127, 76 L.Ed. 659.

82. Tex.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Demere, Civ.App., 145 S.W. 623.

83. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. McCarty, 69 S.W. 229, 29 Tex.Civ.App. 616.

84. Tex.—Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Pool, 114 S.W. 685, 52 Tex.Civ.App. 307.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Childs, Civ.App., 40 S.W. 41.

85. Tex.—Texas-Mexican Ry. Co. v. Sutherland, Civ.App., 189 S.W. 983

86. Tex.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Halsell, 80 S.W. 140, 35 Tex.Civ.App. 136.

87. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line Ry. Co. v. Roe, 118 So. 115, 96 Fla. 429.

Partial loss
In action against initial carrier for loss of goods removed from car while in hands of delivering carrier, an instruction permitting plaintiffs to recover for entire value of shipment, where only portion thereof was removed, is erroneous, since initial carrier is liable only for portion that may have been lost in carriage. So, defendant is not liable for portion of goods properly delivered and which plaintiff permitted to be sold for charges, and where delivering carrier, permitting removal of part of goods from car, after

Act generally is treated supra §§ 262–274. Where a connecting carrier, on the strength of an embargo issued by the stockyards at destination, held an interstate shipment of live stock within the embargo at an intermediate point and there unloaded them, no substantial damages could be recovered against the initial carrier for refusal to go on to destination, whereby the cattle decreased in weight because of the delay, if there were no facilities for unloading at any other place than the stockyards, and the embargo forbade even unloading at the stockyards.[88]

To render the connecting carrier liable for special damages arising from delay which are not the ordinary, natural consequences of delay, the connecting carrier must have notice at or before receiving the shipment and undertaking the carriage.[89] Notice of special damages likely to result from delay, which might charge the initial carrier with liability, is not an element of the through contract, such as will affect the connecting carrier, unless noted on the waybill or otherwise brought home to it.[90] If the contract is a joint one, however, each of the parties to it is bound by the knowledge of the other of special damages likely to result from delay;[91] and under a statute making each connecting carrier in a through shipment the agent of the others, notice to one is notice to all as respects liability for special damages,[92] but the statute is inapplicable to a connecting carrier transporting the shipment under a separate contract.[93]

Apportionment. In an action against the terminal carrier, where it appears that some of the damage occurred before the shipment came on defendant's line, the damages must be apportioned;[94] and, accordingly, in an action against two or more connecting carriers for injuries sustained by an interstate shipment, where there are several separate issues of negligence arising during the handling of the shipment by each connecting carrier, each of such issues constituting a cause of action within itself, defendants have the right as between themselves to apportion between them the total damages according to the liability of each as found by the jury.[95] A statute providing that, where freight has been damaged in transit over two or more railroads, the damage shall be apportioned among them, does not require the apportionment of damage, however, where defendants have not filed pleadings asking apportionment.[96]

§ 446. Liability Over of Carrier Causing Loss or Injury

Under the Carmack amendment and similar state statutes, a carrier required to pay damages caused by a connecting carrier has a remedy over against such carrier.

As shown in the title Indemnity § 20, also 10 C.J. p 562 note 11, irrespective of any statutory provision, where one of a line of connecting carriers is compelled to pay for loss of, or injury to, a shipment occurring on the line of another, the latter is liable over to it for the amount so paid. Under the Carmack amendment, 49 U.S.C.A. § 20 (12), while a terminal carrier sued for its negligence in transporting property received from a connecting carrier can have no recovery over for any damages retaining balance in warehouse for some time, sold it at public auction after proper advertising, initial carrier sued for loss of goods so removed was entitled to allowance for freight, storage, demurrage, and advertising, less sum for which goods sold.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Stimson, 268 S.W. 835, 207 Ky. 78

88. Mo.—Miller v Quincy, O & K C. R. Co., 225 S.W. 116, 205 Mo. App. 463.

89. U.S.—Pomona Products Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Ga., 294 F. 982.

Tex.—Kansas City, M & O. Ry. Co. v. Bell, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 322

"The connecting carrier cannot be held liable for special damages accruing to the owner by virtue of the nondelivery of a shipment, where the notice or special instructions given by the shipper to the initial carrier have not been communicated to the connecting carrier"—Atchison, T. & S. F Ry. Co v. Sun Drilling Co., 165 P 1133, 65 Okl. 239.

Damages for delay generally see supra §§ 221–230.

90. U.S.—Pomona Products Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Ga., 294 F. 982.

91. Tex.—Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. v. Bell, Civ.App., 197 S.W. 322.

92. Tex.—Conn v. Texas & N. O. Ry Co., Com.App., 14 S.W.2d 1004, reversing, Civ.App., 4 S.W.2d 193 —Kansas City, M. & O. Ry. Co. v. Bell, Civ.App., 197 S.W 322.

Notice to terminal carrier

Under a statute making each connecting carrier the agent of the others, information, acquired by the agent of the terminal carrier while acting within the scope of his authority, as to special damages likely to result from delay, became the knowledge of each connecting carrier, rendering the carriers causing such special damages thereafter liable for the damage. Thus, knowledge acquired by an agent of the terminal carrier immediately, in connection with the collection of freight charges, relative to the special circumstances consisting of the necessitous condition of the cattle for whose feeding the goods were designed, becomes by imputation of law the knowledge of connecting carriers.—Conn v. Texas & N. O. Ry. Co., Tex.Com.App., 14 S.W.2d 1004, reversing, Civ.App., 4 S.W.2d 193.

Notice to initial carrier

Under such statute, notice to initial carrier that hogs shipped on through bill of lading are to be exhibited binds connecting carrier.—Kansas City, M & O Ry. Co v. Bell, Tex.Civ.App., 197 S.W. 322.

93. Tex.—Kansas City, M & O. Ry. Co. v. Bell, supra.

94. Tex.—Houston & T C. R. Co. v. Reichardt & Schulte Co., Civ.App., 212 S.W. 208.

95. Tex.—International & G N. R. Co. v. Barnes Bros., Civ.App., 294 S.W. 349, affirmed Barnes Bros. v. International & G N. R. Co., Com. App., 1 S.W.2d 273.

96. Tex.—Ft Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Kemp, Civ.App., 207 S.W. 605.

found against it,[97] an initial or terminal carrier required to pay to the owner of the property the damages or loss caused by a connecting carrier is entitled to recover such amount from the guilty carrier;[98] and the ultimate liability of the connecting carriers may, accordingly, be determined in an action brought against them by the initial carrier who has compensated the proper party for the loss,[99] or by cross-petition, by the initial carrier sued, over against the connecting carrier.[1] The same rule applies under similar state statutes relating to intrastate commerce.[2] It is not a condition precedent to the right of recovery over that a judgment against the initial carrier has been paid; the words, "required to pay," as used in the statute, mean asked to pay or asked of right and by authority of law to pay.[3] In the absence of fraud or gross negligence in settling with the shipper, the receipt relied on as evidence of the payment is sufficient to justify a recovery against the connecting carrier of the amount shown thereby;[4] and the burden is on the connecting carrier, sued by the initial carrier to recover the amount paid the shipper for failure to deliver freight, to prove alleged fraud by the initial carrier in procuring the receipt.[5] Since neither the consignor nor the initial carrier could have presented any claim in bankruptcy against a purchaser of goods, although the delivering carrier could have done so, in an action by the initial carrier against the delivering carrier for the amount paid to the consignor for failure to deliver the goods shipped to shipper's order and delivered without taking up the bill of lading, the delivering carrier could not set off an amount which it claims that the initial carrier could have received from the bankrupt estate of the consignee.[6]

§ 447. Rights, Duties, and Remedies Inter Se

Connecting carriers are bound by a local usage they have together established for transfer of freight, but a third carrier, not knowing of it, is not bound thereby.

Some of the rights, duties, and remedies of connecting carriers of goods inter se are considered in previous sections, this Title, such as those relating to establishment of joint through rates and division of rates, supra § 300, unjust discrimination, supra § 357 et seq, apportionment of damages in an action by the shipper, supra § 445, and recovery over by the carrier required to pay for damages caused by another, supra § 446. In subsequent sections are discussed traffic arrangements, infra § 448, the furnishing of facilities, infra § 449, and proceedings to compel the making of connections, infra § 450. In an action involving only the rights of two connecting carriers inter se, each carrier is necessarily bound by a local usage they, together, have established for the transfer of freight from the intermediate to the connecting carriers; thus, where two connecting carriers have established a usage in the delivery of goods, neither may be heard to reject the usage, or maintain that a loss sustained should not be borne by the carrier whose employee was responsible therefor.[7] As against the initial carrier suing such connecting carriers for recovery of the amount paid by it to the shipper for loss of the goods, however, a local custom between the connecting carriers not known to plaintiff is not binding on it.[8]

§ 448. Traffic Arrangements between Carriers

Connecting carriers may, but cannot be compelled to, enter into contracts relating to the interchange of traffic between them.

97. Tex.—Texas & P. R. Co v. West Bros., Com.App, 207 S W 918, affirming in part and reversing in part St. Louis, I. M. & S R. Co. v. West Bros, Civ.App., 159 S W. 142, rehearing denied Texas & P. Ry Co v West Bros., Com App., 214 S.W. 808.

98. Ky.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Avey, 191 S.W. 460, 173 Ky. 598.
Me.—Lewis Poultry Co. v. New York Cent R. Co., 105 A 109, 117 Me. 482.
Okl.—St. Louis & S F. R. Co. v. Akard, 159 P. 344, 60 Okl. 4
Tex.—Texas & P. R Co. v. West Bros, Com.App., 207 S W. 918, affirming in part and reversing in part St. Louis, I M & S R Co. v. West Bros., Civ.App, 159 S.W. 142, rehearing denied Texas & P. Ry Co. v. West Bros, Com.App., 214 S W 808.
10 C.J. p 563 note 13.

99. N.Y.—Hill Steamboat Line v. New York Cent. & H R. R. Co., 158 N.Y S. 1084, 94 Misc. 118, modified on other grounds Hill Steamboat Line v. Panama R Co, 160 N Y S 1103, 97 Misc 22.

1. Okl—St Louis & S F. R. Co. v. First Nat. Bank, 171 P. 467, 68 Okl. 68.

2. Ky.—Cumberland Transp. Co. v. E J O'Brien & Co, 2 S.W.2d 668, 222 Ky. 814.
Wis.—Lakeside Packing Co. v. Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S M Ry. Co., 203 N.W. 334, 187 Wis. 350.

3. Okl—St. Louis & S F R. Co. v. First Nat. Bank, 171 P. 467, 68 Okl. 68.

4. Ark—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 163 S. W. 171, 110 Ark 612.

5. Ark.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. New York Cent., etc., R Co., supra.

6. Ark—Kansas City, etc, R Co. v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co, supra.
Creditors entitled to prove claims against bankrupt estate in general see Bankruptcy § 385.

7. N.Y—Hill Steamboat Line v. New York Cent & H. R. R. Co, 158 N.Y S. 1084, 94 Misc. 118, modified on other grounds Hill Steamboat Line v. Panama R. Co., 160 N.Y.S. 1103, 97 Misc. 22.

8. N Y—Hill Steamboat Line v. Panama R Co., 160 N.Y S 1103, 97 Misc. 22, modifying Hill Steamboat Line v New York Cent. & H. R. R Co., 158 N.Y.S. 1084, 94 Misc. 118.

In the absence of statutory provision, the interchange of traffic between two connecting railroads is a matter for contract between them, and the courts have no power to compel such interchange, or to fix the terms on which it shall be made;[9] nor is such power conferred upon the courts by the Interstate Commerce Act.[10] Common carriers may enter into contracts establishing through routes for property transported over the lines of both companies,[11] and, as shown supra § 357, the mere fact that a railroad company has agreed to use a particular connecting carrier as its agency in a through shipment and refuses to issue through bills of lading for the shipment over another connecting line, of goods consigned to the same point of destination, will not be treated as an unjust discrimination against the latter. Traffic arrangements between carriers will be construed in the light of the circumstances and the purpose to be accomplished.[12] The legal effect of a through traffic agreement between two or more railroad companies owning and operating connecting lines of road is the creation of a new and independent continuous line.[13]

§ 449. Furnishing Facilities by Carrier to Connecting Lines

a. In general
b. Transportation of cars of connecting carrier
c. Delivery of its own cars by carrier to connecting carrier

a. In General

At common law carriers are not bound to furnish facilities to connecting lines.

The common-law obligations of a carrier to a connecting line as regards reception, transportation, and delivery of freight are the same as those existing between such companies and an individual shipper.[14] However, a carrier has no other rights or privileges against a connecting line than those belonging to a natural person, unless such rights and privileges are granted by the charters of the two carriers.[15] At common law, common carriers are not bound to give the use of their tracks, terminals, or other instrumentalities to competing lines,[16] nor is such a duty imposed by a constitutional requirement that all railroads whose lines connect shall transfer each other's freight, without delay or discrimination,[17] or such use given by a state railroad commission's order requiring the construction of a connection at a junction point between two railroads.[18] It has been held, however, that the legislature may, subject to constitutional limitations, prescribe reasonable regulations for the conduct of common carriers, and impose on railroad companies operating within the state duties in excess of their common-law obligations, and may exercise that power through a commission duly constituted for that purpose.[19] Moreover, as shown supra § 367 et seq, a common carrier cannot lawfully deny the use of its facilities to a connecting line, when such denial would constitute an unjust discrimination.

b. Transportation of Cars of Connecting Carrier

Carriers are ordinarily required to transport cars of other lines when tendered under proper conditions.

A railroad company must receive and transport over its line of road cars of other companies, where constitutional or statutory provisions make that one of its duties as a common carrier,[20] if the 9. U.S.—Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. v. Denver & N. O. R. Co., Colo., 4 S.Ct. 185, 110 U.S. 667, 28 L.Ed. 291.

10. U.S.—Central Stock Yards Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., Ky., 118 F. 113, 55 C.C.A. 63, affirmed 24 S. Ct. 339, 192 U.S. 568, 48 L.Ed. 565

11. U.S.—Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Brooks-Scanlon Co., La., 241 F. 445, 154 C.C.A. 277.

12. Mass.—Eastern Massachusetts St. Ry. Co. v. Union St. Ry. Co., 168 N.E. 781, 269 Mass. 329.

Particular contracts construed

(1) To require plaintiff to carry on freight trolley business during its term.—Eastern Massachusetts St. Ry. Co. v. Union St. Ry. Co., 168 N.E. 781, 269 Mass. 329.

(2) To create a continuous through line under the control of defendant road between the points therein stated.—State v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 165 N.W. 869, 139 Minn. 55.

13. Minn.—State v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., 165 N.W. 869, 139 Minn. 55.

14. U.S.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Denver, etc., R. Co., Colo., 4 S.Ct. 185, 110 U.S. 667, 28 L.Ed. 291.
N.H.—Hedding v. Gallagher, 57 A. 225, 72 N.H. 377, 64 L.R.A. 811
10 C.J. p. 563 note 20

15. Ky.—Shelbyville R. Co. v. Louisville, etc., R. Co., 82 Ky. 541, 6 Ky.L. 611.

16. Mo.—Home Telephone Co. v. Granby & Neosho Telephone Co., 126 S.W. 773, 147 Mo.App. 216.
10 C.J. p. 563 note 22.

17. Va.—Commonwealth v. Norfolk & W. Ry. Co., 68 S.E. 351, 111 Va. 59.

18. Ind.—Pittsburgh, C., C. & St. L. R. Co. v. Hunt, 86 N.E. 328, 171 Ind. 189.

19. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Central Stock Yards Co., Ky., 29 S. Ct. 246, 212 U.S. 132, 53 L.Ed. 441
10 C.J. p. 563 note 23

Power of commission

Whether the Maryland public service commission can require a carrier to receive, from another carrier at a connecting point, freight for delivery at its own terminals depends on whether there was enough distance between the point of reception and the point of delivery to constitute a bona fide further transportation.—State Public Service Commn. v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 90 A. 119, 122 Md. 393.—State Public Service Commn. v. Northern Cent. R. Co., 90 A. 105, 122 Md. 355

20. U.S.—Grand Trunk R. Co. of gauge of the road is suitable, and the cars are not defective or out of repair, nor of such unusual and peculiar construction as to be unreasonably hazardous or dangerous to work with or to handle.[21] Furthermore, although there is authority to the contrary,[22] it has been held or said that, aside from any constitutional or statutory provision or special contract regulating the terms of receiving and drawing cars of another carrier, a railroad company is bound to receive and carry the cars of a connecting railroad company when tendered under proper conditions.[23] The fact that the carrier has an ample number of cars of its own in which to ship the freight, and that it would have to pay charges on the cars tendered while on its own line, will not justify a refusal to accept the cars.[24] However, a connecting carrier may, of course, refuse to receive and transport cars which are not in a suitable condition for further movement;[25] and in any event it is not incumbent on companies, in their duty as common carriers, to move such cars except in their own routine, as they are not obliged to accept and run them at all times and seasons, and not in the ordinary course of business.[26]

The duty of a carrier to accept goods at its station does not require it to accept cars offered by competing roads at arbitrary points near its terminals for the purpose of using its terminal station, and a law requiring it so to do is unconstitutional.[27] So, rules of a state railroad commission requiring common carriers to transport any proper article, and for a stipulated compensation to transport, switch, or transfer any loaded car tendered for the purpose by a connecting railroad, and further requiring all railroads to observe the right of a shipper to fix the route of the shipment, do not contemplate that a carrier having switching and terminal facilities for its own use at a particular point shall be forced, at least without adequate necessity, compensation, and protection, to collect and to distribute, within its own terminal and switching limits, for a competing line, carloads of freight destined to, or arriving from, points reached by its line, such carrier having no part of the line haul or compensation.[28] Notwithstanding these principles, however, a carrier may be required to receive cars from another carrier at a junction point with such carrier within the corporate limits of a city for transportation to team tracks of the receiving carrier which under the exceptional circumstances of the case are not merely instruments of terminal service and delivery but of railway transportation in the completest sense.[29]

On refusal of the carrier to receive and transport cars of a carrier intersecting it, the latter is not remitted to the railroad commissioners for redress, but the courts can determine the right of interchange, and, on failure of the roads to agree on the terms, these may be fixed by the commissioners.[30]

When a domestic railroad receives a cattle car from a foreign railroad in another state under custom, rules, and contract, by which the domestic road carries the car loaded to its destination in the state and unloads it, and must return the car promptly to the foreign road, but may load it on its return trip, paying a per diem for the use of the car, the right of the domestic road to the use of the car is superior to the right of an attaching creditor of the foreign road; and such right of the domestic road is not waived by its local agent requesting the

Canada v. Michigan Railroad Commission, Mich., 34 S.Ct. 152, 231 U.S. 457, 58 L.Ed. 310
Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 120 N.E. 626, 285 Ill. 184
Mass.—Boston & L. R. Co. v. Nashua & L. R. Corp., 31 N.E. 1067, 157 Mass. 258
Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Morehead, Civ.App., 207 S.W. 336, error refused.
10 C.J. p. 563 note 26.

21. Neb.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Curtis, 71 N.W. 42, 51 Neb. 442, 66 Am.S.R. 456.

22. U.S.—Oregon Short Line, etc., R. Co. v. Northern Pac. R. Co., Or., 61 F. 158, 9 C.C.A. 409, affirming, C. C., 51 F. 465.
10 C.J. p. 564 note 29.

23. Mass.—Mackin v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 135 Mass. 201, 46 Am.R. 456—Vermont, etc., R. Co. v. Fitchburg R. Co., 14 Allen 462, 92 Am.D. 785
10 C.J. p. 564 note 30.

24. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Texas Short Line R. Co., 80 S.W. 567, 35 Tex.Civ.App. 387.

25. Ky.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Williams, 24 S.W. 1, 95 Ky. 199, 15 Ky.L. 548, 44 Am.S.R. 214.
10 C.J. p. 564 note 32.

26. Mich.—Coup v. Wabash, etc., R. Co., 22 N.W. 215, 56 Mich. 111, 56 Am.S.R. 374

27. Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 120 N.E. 626, 285 Ill. 184.
10 C.J. p. 564 note 35.

28. Fla.—State ex rel. Railroad Com'rs v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 67 So. 875, 69 Fla. 210.
Reason for rule
"Such a requirement would, for the purpose of originating and delivering at a point reached by competing lines, in effect give to a carrier for a mere switching charge the use for its own purposes of its competitor's terminal facilities, equipment, and motive power, thereby amounting to a taking of property in violation of organic rights."—State ex rel. Railroad Com'rs v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 67 So. 875, 876, 69 Fla. 210.

29. U.S.—Grand Trunk R. Co. of Canada v. Michigan Railroad Commission, Mich., 34 S.Ct. 152, 231 U.S. 457, 58 L.Ed. 310
Ill.—State Public Utilities Commission v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 120 N.E. 626, 285 Ill. 184.

30. N.Y.—Hudson Valley R. Co. v. Boston, etc., R. Co., 92 N.Y.S. 928, 45 Misc. 520, affirmed 94 N.Y.S. 545, 106 App.Div. 375.

sheriff to remove the car from the tracks of the domestic road when he levies the attachment, and by setting the car on stub tracks so as to be under the control and dominion of the sheriff under the orders of the court.[31]

c. Delivery of Its Own Cars by Carrier to Connecting Carrier

In absence of special contract, a carrier need not permit its cars to go over a connecting line.

While a common carrier has the privilege of furnishing its own cars beyond the end of its own line, particularly under a statute making it the duty of connecting carriers to receive and transport suitable loaded cars,[32] in the absence of special contract, a carrier is not required to permit its cars to go over a connecting line to continue the transportation by another carrier connecting with it,[33] since the carrier's obligation to provide equipments has always been held limited to service over its own road;[34] nor is it required to deliver its own cars for transportation over the line of a connecting carrier by a statute which provides that every railroad company which shall refuse to receive and transport the cars of any connecting railroad, or to transport and deliver the cars destined to any point on the line of any connecting carrier, shall be guilty of discrimination.[35] A state constitutional provision, that a carrier must deliver its cars to connecting carriers without providing for adequate protection for their return or compensation for their use, is repugnant to the federal constitution; and the want of adequate provisions for the carrier's protection and compensation in the state constitution itself cannot be cured by inserting them in judgments under the constitutional provision.[36]

§ 450. Proceedings to Compel Carriers to Make Connections

Carriers wrongfully refusing to make connections may be compelled to do so by injunction or appropriate statutory proceedings.

The duty imposed on railroad companies by the Interstate Commerce Act and by state legislation to receive freight from connecting roads,[37] or to exchange business with them,[38] is one which the courts will enforce by mandatory injunction, where the injury resulting from its nonperformance is continuing; and it is no defense to such relief that a strike of locomotive engineers and firemen has been ordered on plaintiff's road, and that if defendant's road should accept cars from the boycotted road its own men would be called out.[39] Furthermore, where a railroad company wrongfully refuses to exchange business with another company, it may be required, as shown in the C.J.S. title Mandamus § 231, also 38 C.J. p 813 note 37, to discharge its duties by mandamus.

In some jurisdictions, statutes provide a remedy whereby carriers may be compelled to make connections, and where this is the case, the proceedings are controlled by the statutory provisions. Thus, under a statute providing that, where the officials of two railroads which cross or connect cannot agree as to terms relating to the transfer and carriage of goods, delivery of cars, etc., either road may petition for appointment of commissioners to make an award, a petition will not be dismissed because no recognizance for costs is given by the petitioner, no such recognizance being required by the statute.[40] Under a statute which provides that railroad commissioners may commence proceedings against any carrier which has failed to make connections with other railroads after the commissioners have requested such roads to make such connections, where one of two railroads refuses to comply with the commissioner's request to make connections, the other railroad, although it has complied with the request, is a proper party to proceedings to compel the roads to make connections, since all the parties should be before the court in order that all matters in dispute may be determined and a judgment binding on both corporations be rendered.[41] A judgment in proceedings under a statute authorizing the court to order connecting railroad lines to make connections, which fixes a schedule for certain connecting trains, to be in effect if the companies fail to agree on the schedule making a desired connection, is erroneous, unless it provides that the connecting roads may afterward agree on a schedule not in conflict with the law.[42]

31. Kan.—Dye v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 153 P. 502, 96 Kan. 676.

32. Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern Ry. Co. of Texas v. Morehead, Civ. App., 207 S.W. 336, error refused.

33. U.S.—Central Stock Yards Co. v. Louisville & N. R. Co., Ky., 24 S.Ct. 339, 192 U.S. 568, 48 L.Ed. 565.
10 C.J. p 564 note 38.

34. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. State, 120 S.W. 1028, 56 Tex.Civ.App. 353.

35. Tex.—Thompson v. Missouri, etc., R. Co., 126 S.W. 257, 128 S.W. 109, 103 Tex. 372.
10 C.J. p 565 note 40.

36. U.S.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Central Stock Yards Co., 29 S.Ct. 246, 212 U.S. 132, 53 L.Ed. 441, reversing 97 S.W. 778, 133 Ky. 148, 30 Ky.L. 18
10 C.J. p 565 note 42.

37. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., C.C.Iowa, 34 F. 481.

38. Tex.—Texas Mexican R. Co. v. State, Civ.App., 174 S.W. 298.

39. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., C.C.Iowa, 34 F. 481.

40. Vt.—Rutland R. Co. v. Bellows Falls, etc., R. Co., 50 A. 636, 73 Vt. 20.

41. Va.—Southern R. Co. v. Commonwealth, 37 S.E. 294, 98 Va. 758.

42. Va.—Southern R. Co. v. Commonwealth, supra.

W. PENALTIES AND STATUTORY DAMAGES

1. In General

§ 451. General Statement

Reasonable statutory penalties may be imposed on common carriers for various acts and omissions in violation of specified public duties, in order to insure performance thereof.

Various statutes, the enactment of which is within the undoubted power of the states,[43] impose penalties on common carriers for various acts and omissions in violation of their duties and obligations as common carriers. These penalties are not given solely on the idea of making a pecuniary compensation to the person injured, but usually for the more important purpose of enforcing the performance of the duty required by public policy or positive statutory enactment.[44] Under some statutes, hereinafter discussed in § 513, penalties may also be imposed on shippers for a dereliction of duty which they owe the carrier.

Although the amount of the penalty is ordinarily within the discretion of the legislature,[45] and may be made sufficiently heavy to compel obedience to administrative orders of a state railroad commission,[46] it must not be unreasonably large,[47] so as to prevent the carrier from resorting to the courts to determine the validity of the statute imposing the penalty.[48]

Under a statute conferring power on the railroad commission to institute proceedings for the recovery of penalties provided by statute, the commission is without authority to act unless the carrier has done or omitted to do something in violation of a law prescribing a penalty.[49]

Penalties for violations of regulations relating to the carriage of passengers are hereinafter discussed in § 569.

§ 452. Construction of Statutes

Statutes imposing penalties on carriers for various acts and omissions are to be given a strict, although reasonable, construction.

Statutes imposing penalties on common carriers for various acts and omissions, in violation of specified public duties, like other penal statutes, must be given a strict,[50] although reasonable,[51] construction. They cannot be extended to cases not within the legislative intent or the evil intended to be remedied,[52] although the acts are in themselves wrongful.[53] If there is reasonable doubt arising as to whether the acts charged to have been done are within its meaning, the party of whom the penalty is demanded is entitled to the benefit of that doubt.[54] This rule, however, is never to be applied so strictly as to defeat the clear intention of the legislature, and, if the intention to impose the penalty clearly appears, that is sufficient, and must prevail.[55]

§ 453. Effect of Carmack Amendment on State Legislation Relating to Penalties

State legislation imposing penalties on common car-

43. N.C.—Tilley v. Southern Ry. Co., 90 S.E. 309, 172 N.C. 363.
10 C.J. p 565 note 48.

44. N.C.—Summers v. Southern Ry. Co., 50 S.E. 714, 138 N.C. 295.
Tex.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren, Civ.App., 198 S.W. 814.

45. Ark.—Beckler Produce Co. v. American Ry. Express Co., 246 S.W. 1, 156 Ark. 296, 26 A.L.R. 1197

46. U.S.—Wadley Southern R. Co. v. Georgia, 35 S.Ct. 214, 235 U.S. 651, 59 L.Ed. 405, affirming 71 S.E. 740, 136 Ga. 440.

47. Ark.—Beckler Produce Co. v. American Ry. Express Co., 246 S.W. 1, 156 Ark. 296, 26 A.L.R. 1197.

48. N.C.—Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 64 S.E. 578, 150 N.C. 575.

49. Tex.—Clayton Oil & Refining Co. v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 3 S.W.2d 497—Missouri-Kansas & T. R. Co. of Texas v. Railroad Commission of Texas, Civ.App., 3 S.W.2d 489, affirmed Producers' Refining Co. v. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. of Texas, Com.App., 13 S.W.2d 679, 680.

50. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Farmers' Produce Co., 85 So. 578, 17 Ala.App. 388.
Ark.—Simmons v. American Ry. Express Co., 227 S.W. 414, 147 Ark. 339.
La.—Daniel v. Louisiana Ry. & Nav. Co., 100 So. 684, 156 La. 467—State ex rel. Louisiana Public Service Commission v. Lancaster, 97 So. 347, 154 La. 151.
S.C.—Middleton & Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 110 S.E. 796, 118 S.C. 351.
10 C.J. p 565 note 54.

"The principle is well established that penal statutes are strictly construed . . . and one who seeks to recover a penalty for failure on the part of the defendant [carrier] to discharge some duty imposed by law must bring his case clearly within the language and meaning of the statute awarding the penalty."—Watkins v. American Ry. Express Co., 130 S.E. 305, 306, 190 N.C. 605.

51. S.C.—Middleton & Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 110 S.E. 796, 118 S.C. 351.

52. La.—State ex rel. Louisiana Public Service Commission v. Lancaster, 97 So. 347, 154 La. 151
10 C.J. p 565 note 55

53. Tex.—San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Stribling, 89 S.W. 963, 99 Tex. 319.

54. N.Y.—Chase v. New York Cent. R. Co., 26 N.Y. 523—Wysocki v. Erie R. Co., 140 N.Y.S. 950, 155 App.Div. 798.
N.C.—Hines v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 95 N.C. 434, 59 Am.R. 250.

55. Ark.—St. Louis, I. M. & S. R. Co. v. Freeman, 128 S.W. 1024, 95 Ark. 218—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Waldrop, 123 S.W. 778, 93 Ark. 42.
N.C.—Hines v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 95 N.C. 434, 59 Am.R. 250.
10 C.J. p 566 note 58.

riers for various acts and omissions in breach of their duty as common carriers can have no application to interstate shipments, since as to such shipments, the Carmack amendment has exclusive dominion.

As heretofore shown, in § 17, the Carmack amendment covers the entire field of interstate shipments and supersedes all state legislation on the subject. It follows that state legislation imposing penalties on common carriers for acts of omission or commission constituting a breach of their duty as common carriers is void and inoperative so far as interstate shipments are concerned.[56] Inhibitive legislation of congress is not essential to exclude that of the state on incidental matters relating to interstate commerce with respect to which both had a concurrent power, it being sufficient so to do if the congressional legislation occupies the field of legislation.[57] The application of particular state statutes to interstate commerce, both as affected by the Carmack amendment and other federal legislation, and independent of such enactments, is treated below in §§ 454–513.

2. Acts or Omissions for Which Penalties Imposed

§ 454. Delay in Transportation

State statutes imposing penalties on a carrier for delay in transportation are valid, as applied to completely intra-state shipments, and render the carrier liable, if its default can be brought within their terms.

Statutes which impose a penalty on the carrier for delay in transportation have generally been held to be valid.[58] State statutes of this nature are, however, void as applied to interstate shipments, since they would then constitute a regulation of interstate commerce; they are not designed to, and do not, apply to interstate shipments,[59] even where the initial and the terminal point of shipment are within the same state and only a part of the transportation is out of the state.[60] These statutes are penal, and hence are to be strictly, although not unreasonably,[61] construed.

Statutes imposing penalties for delay have no reference to loss of, or injury to, goods.[62] In some cases, they have been held to apply to delay in making delivery to the consignee after arrival at destination.[63] Delay in delivering freight to connecting carriers as constituting unjust discrimination, under some statutes, is discussed infra § 511 b.

56. U S—Charleston, etc., R Co. v. Varnville Furniture Co, 35 S Ct. 715, 237 U S 597, 59 L Ed. 1137, reversing 79 S E. 700, 98 S.C. 63.
10 C.J. p 566 note 61.

57. U S—Southern R. Co v. Reid, N C, 32 S.Ct. 140, 222 U S. 424, 56 L Ed. 257.

58. U S.—Chicago, B. & Q. R Co. v. Kyle, 33 S Ct 440, 228 U.S. 85, 57 L.Ed 741, affirming Kyle v. Chicago, B. & Q. R Co., 122 N.W 37, 84 Neb. 621—Chicago, B. & Q R. Co. v. Cram, 33 S Ct. 437, 228 U S. 70, 57 L.Ed 734, affirming Cram v. Chicago, B. & Q. R Co., 122 N.W. 31, 84 Neb 607, 26 L R A.,N S., 1022, and 123 N W. 1045, 85 Neb. 586, 26 L R A.,N S., 1028, 19 Ann. Cas. 170
10 C.J. p 577 notes 46, 47.

Constitutional ban on usury inapplicable

A statute fixing special damages for delay at five per cent per month on the value of the property is not in violation of a constitutional provision to the effect that contracts for a greater rate of interest than ten per cent per annum shall be deemed usurious—Texas Cent. R Co. v Hannay-Frerichs & Co, Civ App., 130 S W. 250, modified on other grounds 142 S W. 1163, 104 Tex 603.

59. N C.—Hickory Marble, etc., Co v. Southern R Co., 60 S.E 719, 147 N.C 53.
10 C.J. p 577 notes 48, 50
What constitutes interstate commerce see C J.S. title Commerce § 23, also 12 C.J p 22 note 48–p 23 note 52.

A rule of state railroad commissioners relating to the time of forwarding freight applies only to intra-state shipments and a fine on account of an interstate shipment cannot be imposed on a carrier by virtue of such rule—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. State, 124 P. 56, 33 Okl. 158.

60. N.C.—Davis v. Southern R Co., 60 S.E. 722, 147 N C. 68—Shelby Iee, etc., Co v. Southern R. Co., 60 S.E. 723, 147 N C. 61

61. S.C—Middleton & Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 110 S E 796, 118 S.C. 351.
10 C.J. p 577 note 52.

62. S C.—Cousar Mercantile Co v Southern R. Co, 64 S E. 391, 82 S C. 307—Macon v. Southern R. Co, 62 S.E. 6, 81 S C. 167.

63. In North Carolina

(1) Under Revisal 1905 § 2632, imposing a penalty for unreasonable delay in the transportation of goods, as amended by L 1907 c 461, Comp St § 3516, providing that it shall be construed to require delivery at destination within the time specified, the penalty extends to negligent default in making delivery to the consignee after arrival at destination.—Mitchell v. Atlantic Coast Line R Co., 110 S E. 859, 183 N C. 162.

(2) It was held, on the other hand, that the statute as amended did not impose a penalty for delay in delivery to the consignee after transportation ceased, and hence did not compel a carrier to deliver loaded cars off its own right of way onto the private track of the consignee—Brooks Mfg. Co. v Southern R Co, 68 S E 243, 152 N C. 665.

(3) It was held, under the statute prior to its amendment, that, to relieve the carrier from its operation, the transportation must have terminated, that is to say, the relation of carrier must have ended and that of warehouseman begun—Wall-Huske Co v. Southern R. Co, 61 S. E. 277, 147 N C 407—Alexander v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 56 S E. 697, 144 N C. 93—10 C J. p 577 notes 53 [a] (2), 54.

(4) It was also held, prior to the amendment, that transportation of freight by a carrier was not terminated so as to relieve the carrier from liability for the statutory penalty for delay, on the train hauling the freight arriving within the yard limits of the point to which the freight was consigned—Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., supra.

It is essential to the recovery of the penalty that the case be brought clearly within the terms of the statute, and hence it has been held that under a statute imposing penalties on failure to deliver goods within a fixed period, when notice is given that prompt shipment is required, no penalty can be recovered if such notice is not given [64]

The carrier is not liable to the penalty under the statute, for a delay occurring on the line of a connecting carrier, notwithstanding another statute makes it liable for ordinary damages resulting from delay on connecting lines, with a right of action over against the carrier at fault.[65]

§ 455. Effect on Common-Law Liability

As already noted in § 192, statutes providing penalties for delay in transportation apply simply to the penalties therein imposed and are not intended to affect the common-law liability of the carrier.

§ 456. Time Allowed Carriers for Transportation

A failure to transport goods within the time limited by statute may, where the statute so provides, subject the carrier to a penalty.

Under various statutes, a penalty may be imposed on a carrier for a failure to transport goods within a prescribed or reasonable time. Where the statute imposing a penalty for delay in transportation allows a carrier a designated number of days for commencing the transportation, full running days are intended, exclusive of the day of delivery and the day of shipment.[66]

Under a statute which imposes a penalty on a carrier for neglecting to transport within a reasonable time and provides that it shall be deemed to have transported the goods within a reasonable time if it is done within the ordinary time required by such transportation, except that two days at the initial point and forty-eight hours at one intermediate point for each one hundred miles of distance, shall not be charged against the carrier as unreasonable, a failure to transport within the ordinary time is prima facie unreasonable, and "ordinary time" within the meaning of this statute means the regular customary time within which, by the facilities in general use for the performance and duty of carrying goods, the carriage should be completed.[67] The "free" days allowed by the statute at the initial and intermediate points are not the standard by which reasonable time is to be measured, but the liability of the carrier is to be determined by deducting these days from the number of days in excess of the ordinary or reasonable time for transportation.[68] The purpose of the time allowance at intermediate points is for change of cars, if necessary, and for unloading and reloading.[69] The "free" days allowed the carrier must embrace within them the day of delivery when the goods were applied for, and for every day beyond that the carrier incurs the prescribed penalty.[70]

Where the statute provides that the time within which an act is to be done shall be computed by excluding the first and including the last day, unless that day shall be Sunday, when it also shall be excluded, what constitutes a reasonable time for transportation of freight must be determined by excluding the last day when it is Sunday,[71] and by including it if it is not Sunday.[72] In estimating what constitutes a reasonable time, intervening Sundays must be included,[73] even when freight trains are prohibited by law from running on Sundays;[74] but under a statute measuring the time by hours instead of days, it has been held that intervening Sundays should be excluded, as the statute contemplates working hours.[75]

64. S.C.—Middleton & Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 110 S.E. 796, 118 S.C. 351.

65. S.C.—Marion Cotton Oil Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 95 S.E. 336, 109 S.C. 150.

66. N.C.—Branch v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 88 N.C. 570—Keeter v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 86 N.C. 346—Branch v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 77 N.C. 347.

67. N.C.—Jenkins v. Southern R. Co., 59 S.E. 663, 146 N.C. 178—Stone v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 56 S.E. 932, 144 N.C. 220.

68. N.C.—Davis v. Southern R. Co., 60 S.E. 722, 147 N.C. 68—Jenkins v. Southern R. Co., 59 S.E. 663, 146 N.C. 178.
10 C.J. p. 577 note 62 [a].

69. N.C.—Watson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 59 S.E. 55, 145 N.C. 236
10 C.J. p. 577 note 63.

Transfer of cars to another train
A statutory allowance of twenty-four hours extra for forwarding freight "at each point where transferring from one railroad to another or rehandling of freight is involved," applies as well to the changing of a car from one train to another at a division point as to the loading and unloading of less than carload shipments.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Consumers' Coal Co., 193 S.W. 93, 127 Ark. 603

70. N.C.—Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., 61 S.E. 277, 147 N.C. 407.

71. N.C.—Blue Ridge Collection Agency v. Southern R. Co., 61 S.E. 462, 147 N.C. 593.

72. N.C.—Davis v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 59 S.E. 53, 145 N.C. 207—Branch v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 77 N.C. 347
Computation of time generally see C.J.S. title Time § 8, also 62 C.J. p. 962 note 47—p. 963 note 63.

73. N.C.—Wall-Huske Co. v. Southern R. Co., 61 S.E. 277, 147 N.C. 407

74. N.C.—Watson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 59 S.E. 55, 145 N.C. 236—Keeter v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 86 N.C. 346
10 C.J. p. 578 note 68

75. S.C.—Sanford v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 61 S.E. 74, 79 S.C. 519

Under a demurrage and delayage rule of a railroad commission, fixing a charge against carriers for each day's detention of a car in transit without allowance for free time, and allowing a day's free time at transfer points, a carrier is not deprived of such allowance by a delay in transit; under this provision time not used at one transfer point cannot be used at another.[76]

§ 457. Who May Sue

The person whose legal right is denied by the delay in transportation is the party to bring suit within a statute conferring the right of action on the "party aggrieved"

Under statutes in which the right to the penalty for the carrier's delay in transportation is given to the "party aggrieved," the right of action for the penalty is in the person whose legal right is denied;[77] such a statute does not require or even permit such action to be brought on relation of the state.[78] Ordinarily, when goods are delivered to a common carrier for transportation and the bill of lading issued, the title in the absence of any direction or agreement to the contrary vests in the consignee, and he alone is entitled to sue as the "party aggrieved" for the penalty.[79] Where, however, the facts show that some person other than the consignee is the one whose legal right is denied, and who alone is interested in having the transportation properly made, a different rule obtains, and he and not the consignee is entitled to sue for the penalty;[80] thus, where the consignor retains title to the goods, he is the party in whom the right to the penalty vests.[81]

Under a statute providing that the penalty be forfeited to the shipper, but that the demand therefor be made by the shipper or other party whose interest is affected by the delay, the purchaser or consignee may sue to enforce the penalty, inasmuch as the statute contemplates that the suit be brought by the party whose interest is affected.[82]

Under a statute providing that the penalty is to be recovered "by any consignee who may be injured in any way by such delay or by the owner or holder of the bill of lading," the consignee, not being shown to be either the owner or the holder of the bill of lading, cannot recover the penalty without proving that he was injured by the delay.[83] Under this statute the holder of the bill of lading can recover the statutory penalty without proving any injury from delay in shipping.[84]

Under particular demurrage and delayage rules of a railroad commission the consignee may recover the penalty.[85]

§ 458. Defenses

That the delay was caused by extraordinary and unforeseeable conditions not within its control may be set up as a defense, but the causal relationship must be established.

Extraordinary and unforeseen conditions over which the carrier has no control, disabling it from performing the duty imposed by the statute, present a good defense to an action to recover a penalty for delay.[86] The mere inability of the carrier to furnish cars, however, will not of itself excuse it for delay in transportation, since it is a part of its common-law duty to furnish sufficient facilities for transportation.[87] Also, the fact that trade conditions demand a larger number of cars than had ever been required at the time of the delay complained of constitutes no defense in the absence of a showing how the carrier's ability to move freight was affected thereby.[88] The fact that owing to unusual conditions it was difficult to secure help in railroad offices is no defense where it is not shown how that fact contributed to the delay.[89] If the carrier did not require prepayment of freight, failure of the shipper to prepay the freight presents no defense, since receiving the freight for transportation waives the prepayment.[90] Mismarking part of the —Salley v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 56 S.E. 782, 76 S.C. 173.

76. Miss.—Keystone Lumber Yard v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 53 So. 8, 97 Miss. 433.

77. N.C.—Lexington Grocery Co. v. Southern R. Co., 48 S.E. 801, 136 N. C. 396
10 C.J. p 578 note 78.

78. N.C.—Robertson v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 62 S.E. 413, 148 N.C. 323
10 C.J. p 578 note 79.

79. N.C.—Elliott v. Southern R. Co., 71 S.E. 339, 155 N.C. 235—Stone v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 56 S.E. 932, 144 N.C. 220.
10 C.J. p 578 note 80.

80. N.C.—Summers v. Southern R. Co., 50 S.E. 714, 138 N.C. 295

81. N.C.—Davis v. Southern R. Co., 60 S.E. 722, 147 N.C. 68—Cardwell v. Southern R. Co., 59 S.E. 673, 146 N.C. 218
10 C.J. p 578 note 82, p 578 note 83

82. Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. Consumers' Coal Co., 193 S.W. 93, 127 Ark. 603.

83. S.C.—Fullerton v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 64 S.E. 142, 82 S.C. 333, 336.
10 C.J. p 579 note 84.

84. S.C.—Muckenfuss Mfg. Co. v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 63 S.E. 747, 82 S.C. 177.

85. Miss.—Keystone Lumber Yard v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 47 So. 803, 94 Miss. 192—Yazoo, etc., R. Co. v. Keystone Lumber Co., 43 So. 605, 90 Miss. 391, 13 Ann.Cas. 960

86. N.C.—Jenkins v. Southern R. Co., 59 S.E. 663, 146 N.C. 178—Branch v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 77 N.C. 347
10 C.J. p 578 note 72

87. N.C.—Keeler v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 86 N.C. 346

88. Tex.—Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Hannay-Frerichs, 142 S.W. 1163, 104 Tex. 603.

89. Tex.—Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Hannay-Frerichs, supra.

90. Tex.—Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Hannay-Frerichs, supra.

goods shipped under a single bill of lading is no excuse for failure to transport those correctly marked, where the carrier in fact transported the incorrectly marked goods.[91]

§ 459. Conditions Precedent to Action

Where the statute holds the carrier responsible for delay only where it is given notice that prompt delivery is required, such notice is a condition precedent to recovery. It is not essential to recovery that a consignor suing as the "party aggrieved" shall have sustained injury by the delay.

Where the statute makes it a condition precedent to the right to recover for a delay in transportation that notice be given the carrier that prompt delivery is required, the notice provided for must be given to the shipping agent of the carrier.[92] While it is not necessary to give notice at the exact time of shipment, notice should be given within such time of shipment that the carrier's agent, notwithstanding his other duties, with reasonable diligence may remember the notice.[93] No particular method of notice being required, it may be given by the consignee or the holder of the bill of lading through another; direct notice is not essential.[94] It is not necessary that the carrier be required by the shipper to insert in the bill of lading "prompt notice required" where there is other evidence of such notice to the carrier.[95]

To authorize recovery by the consignor as the party aggrieved by the delay, it is not essential that he should have sustained injury by the delay.[96]

§ 460. Actions

The usual rules as to actions for penalties apply.

An action of this character to impose a penalty on a carrier for its acts or omissions is governed by the usual rules as to actions to enforce penalties, discussed in the C.J.S. title Penalties §§ 7–18, also 25 C.J. p 1181 note 46–p 1213 note 78.

Jurisdiction and venue. An action to recover the penalty under a statute providing that it shall be unlawful to allow freight to remain unshipped for more than five days unless otherwise agreed between the parties is an action ex contractu, and, when the sum does not exceed the jurisdictional amount, a justice of the peace has jurisdiction.[97] A statute providing that suit for penalty shall be brought in the proper court having jurisdiction thereof in a designated county, or in any county through or to which the carrier may run, has been held not to relate to jurisdiction, but to venue, and that a court in a county other than the one designated, and through which the carrier does not run, has jurisdiction of an action for a penalty if defendant does not file a plea of privilege to be sued in some other county.[98]

Limitations. A delayage charge fixed by rule of a railroad commission is in the nature of liquidated damages rather than a penalty, and therefore an action to recover it is not within a statute requiring suits for penalties to be brought within a year.[99]

Parties. In an action under a statute prescribing a stipulated penalty for the first day's delay and a lesser penalty for each succeeding day of delay, the shipper may properly join as parties defendant two railroads over which the goods were transported under a single contract of carriage, it being necessary to determine on which line the first day's delay occurred.[1]

Persons who may sue see supra § 457.

Pleading. In order to sustain a recovery of the penalty, the petition should allege the dates the shipments were delivered to the carrier.[2] If the statute prescribes a penalty for delaying shipments by sidetracking in transit, the declaration is demurrable if it fails to allege that the delay for which the penalty is asked was caused by sidetracking.[3]

An answer alleging, as a defense to an action to recover a penalty, that owing to unusual conditions it was difficult to secure help in railroad offices, or that there was great prosperity in the country at the time, and that freight conditions demanded a larger number of cars than had ever been required,[4]

91. N.C.—Lexington Grocery Co v. Southern R. Co., 48 S.E. 801, 136 N.C. 396

92. S.C.—Mills v. Southern R. Co., 64 S.E. 238, 82 S.C. 242
10 C.J. p 579 note 87.

93. S.C.—Mills v. Southern R. Co., supra.
10 C.J. p 579 note 88

94. S.C.—Mills v. Southern R. Co., supra.

95. S.C.—Jamison v. Southern R. Co., 57 S.E. 768, 77 S.C. 216.

96. N.C.—Reid v. Southern R. Co., 64 S.E. 874, 150 N.C. 753, 17 Ann. Cas. 247—Summers v. Southern R. Co., 50 S.E. 714, 138 N.C. 295, 298.
10 C.J. p 579 note 83.

97. N.C.—Katzenstein v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 84 N.C. 688.

98. Tex.—San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Stribling, Civ.App., 86 S.W. 374, modified on other grounds 89 S.W. 963, 99 Tex. 319.

99. Fla.—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 47 So. 969, 56 Fla. 617, 32 L.R.A.,N.S., 639.

Miss.—Keystone Lumber Yard v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 53 So. 8, 97 Miss. 433.

1. N.C.—Sellars Hosiery Mills v. Southern Ry. Co., 93 S.E. 952, 174 N.C. 449.

2. Tex.—Dorrance v. International, etc., R. Co., Civ.App., 126 S.W. 694.
10 C.J. p 579 note 94

3. Miss.—Keystone Lumber Yard v. Yazoo, etc., R. Co., 47 So. 803, 94 Miss. 192.
10 C.J. p 579 note 95.

4. Tex.—Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Han-is insufficient in the absence of any allegation of how these facts contributed to the delay.

Evidence. In an action to recover a penalty for failure of a carrier to transport goods within a reasonable time, the burden is on plaintiff to show that the time of the transportation was not reasonable.[5] The burden, however, is on the carrier to show that the delay was not negligent.[6] Whatever circumstance contributed to produce the delay in spite of ordinary diligence on the part of the carrier, and to which circumstance the carrier did not contribute, is admissible to disprove negligence.[7] Where two railroads are sued jointly as having unreasonably delayed the transportation, each carrier has the burden of rebutting the presumption of negligence as to itself.[8] It is not necessary to prove the value of the goods in order to recover.[9] If the statute requires that the claim be filed, the burden is on defendant to show that it was not filed,[10] and, if the statute provides that in order to recover the penalty it is necessary to recover the full amount of the claim filed, the burden is on defendant to show that the claim was excessive.[11] If the carrier sued sets up that the delay occurred on the line of a connecting carrier, the burden is on it to prove this fact.[12] Evidence of failure of the carrier to transport within the ordinary time makes out a prima facie case against defendant.[13] It is not relevant to the inquiry whether defendant knew the facts which gave plaintiff the right to sue.[14]

Questions for court and jury, and instructions. It is for the jury to determine whether there has been an unreasonable delay in transportation,[15] and an instruction which takes this question from the jury is erroneous.[16] So, if there is any question arising on the issue of ownership of the goods, for delay in shipment of which a penalty is sought, the issue should be submitted to the jury.[17]

Where, in an action against a carrier for penalties for delay in the transportation of goods, a written bill of lading acknowledging the receipt of a car was admitted in evidence, a charge that the carrier was presumed to know what it was doing when it accepted the car, and that it could not be heard to say that it did not have possession thereof at the time it issued the bill of lading, was proper.[18]

Allowance of attorney's fees. A statute providing that, in any action against a railroad for violation of a law regulating transportation, the successful plaintiff shall recover a reasonable attorney's fee, to be taxed as costs, applies to an action for a statutory penalty for failure to forward freight at a required speed.[19]

§ 461. Delivery of Goods without Surrender of Bill of Lading

Delivery to wrong person generally see supra §§ 173–175.

Examine Pocket Parts for later cases.

§ 462. Disobedience of Orders of Railroad Commission

Statutes imposing reasonable penalties for disobedience of orders of regulatory commissions are valid, and authorize recovery against the carrier for failure to observe a rule, rate, or regulation of the commission, except during a suit to test the validity of the order, or during the time the order has been stayed by a court.

Statutes which provide a penalty for disobedience, by carriers, of orders of the railroad commission or other regulatory body, relating to various matters of permissible regulation, are valid,[20] where the penalties are not so excessive as to prevent the carrier from testing the validity of the order in the courts.[21] The purpose of such statutes is to enforce the duties and obligations of carriers nay-Frerichs, 142 S.W. 1163, 104 Tex. 603.

5. N.C.—Jenkins v. Southern R Co, 59 S.E. 663, 146 N.C. 178—Alexander v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 56 S E 697, 144 N.C. 93—Walker v. Southern R. Co., 49 S.E 84, 137 N. C. 163.

6. Tex—Texas Cent. R. Co. v. Hannay-Frerichs, 142 S W. 1163, 104 Tex. 603.

7. Tex—Texas Cent R. Co. v. Hannay-Frerichs, supra

8. N C—Sellars Hosiery Mills v Southern Ry. Co., 93 S.E 952, 174 N.C 449.

9. S C.—Weinraub v Southern R Co., 87 S.E 1009, 103 S.C. 264—Muckenfuss Mfg. Co. v. Charleston, etc, R. Co., 63 S.E 747, 82 S.C 177.

10. N.C—Rabon v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 62 S E. 743, 149 N.C 59.

11. N.C—Rabon v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co supra.

12. N.C.—Watson v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 59 S E. 55, 145 N.C. 236
10 C J. p 580 note 5.

13. N C.—Jenkins v. Southern R. Co, 59 S E 663, 146 N C. 178.

14. N C.—Cardwell v Southern R Co, 59 S.E 673, 146 N C. 218.
10 C.J. p 580 note 7.

15. N C.—Wall-Huske Co. v Southern R. Co, 61 S.E. 277, 147 N.C 407
10 C J. p 580 note 8.

16. N C—Davis v. Southern R. Co, 60 S E. 722, 147 N.C. 68—Shelby Ice, etc, Co. v Southern R. Co., 60 S.E. 723, 147 N C 61

17. S C—Sanford v. Seaboard Air Line R Co, 61 S E 74, 79 S.C. 519

18. S C—Sanford v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., supra.

19. Ark.—Chicago, R I & P Ry Co. v. Consumers' Coal Co., 193 S W. 93, 127 Ark 603.

20. U.S.—U S. v Clyde S S Co, C C A.N.Y., 36 F 2d 691, reversing, D C, 29 F 2d 742, and certiorari denied Clyde S. S Co. v U S., 50 S Ct. 350, 281 U S. 744, 74 L Ed 1157.

21. Ga.—Wadley Southern R. Co. v. State, 73 S E 741, 137 Ga 497.

when of a public nature or where penalties are incurred for their violation.[22] Being highly penal, they are to be strictly construed, and not to be extended beyond the scope of the authority expressly conferred.[23]

Where so provided, such statutes extend only to injuries inflicted on any person by a carrier in violation of a rule, rate, or regulation directly affecting its duties as carrier.[24] Rates and tariffs fixed by railroad commissioners come within the meaning of the words "rule or regulation" of the commissioners, as regards the carrier's liability for violation thereof.[25]

No penalty can be imposed for acts committed during the time that the commission's order has been stayed by a valid court order, where such acts are otherwise lawful.[26] Also, when so provided by the statute, penalties may be remitted where incurred during the carrier's prosecution in good faith of a judicial action to set aside the commission's order.[27] It has apparently been further held that the carrier is not subject to penalties until after the order complained of has been held valid, assuming, of course, that the carrier proceeds seasonably to test its validity and acts in good faith.[28]

Actions. If the statute so prescribes, the action to recover damages must be brought in the name of the state by the direction of the governor.[29] If the right of action is given to the shipper, one shipper cannot make the complaint for another shipper.[30]

A complaint by a shipper against a carrier alleging its violation of a demurrage rule of the corporation commission sufficiently confers jurisdiction on the commission to order that the railroad was in violation of its order and to impose a fine to be remitted on refund to complainant of the unlawful charges collected.[31] To entitle plaintiff to recover treble damages for violation of a commission order, the complaint must allege that the order was in force and effect at the time when the cause of action arose.[32] A complaint, or a declaration to recover a penalty imposed by a state railroad commission for violation of its rules by failing or refusing to transport freight, must allege the point of destination and must show that it was within the state.[33] Failure of the order of the commission attached to the declaration to show the point of destination is cured by proper allegation in the declaration;[34] but, unless required by statute or rule of court, such order need not be filed with the declaration.[35]

Where the evidence shows that defendant failed to file a tariff sheet within the time prescribed by the railroad commission, the presumption is that the act was willful.[36]

The authority of the railroad commission and the reasonableness of its order may be collaterally attacked in an action to recover penalties for a disobedience of such orders;[37] and the reasonableness of a rule of the railroad commission is a question of law for the court.[38]

Amount of penalty. A penalty of five hundred dollars per day for a carrier's refusal to submit records to examination by the interstate commerce commission is not excessive or confiscatory.[39]

Remission of penalty during suit

A penalty of not more than five thousand dollars per day for failure of a carrier to abide by the orders of the public service commission does not render the statute unconstitutional where a further provision exempts the carrier from liability for the penalty during prosecution of a suit to test the validity of the order.—Brooklyn Heights R. Co. v. Straus, D.C.N.Y., 245 F. 132.

22. Fla.—Railroad Comrs. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 47 So. 870, 56 Fla. 525.

23. La.—State ex rel. Louisiana Public Service Commission v. Lancaster, 97 So. 347, 154 La. 151.
10 C.J. p. 586 note 16.

24. Fla.—Railroad Comrs. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 47 So. 870, 56 Fla. 525.
10 C.J. p. 586 note 17.

25. Ga.—Atlantic Log & Export Co. v. Central of Georgia Ry. Co., 155 S.E. 525, 171 Ga. 175, answers to certified questions conformed to 155 S.E. 530, 42 Ga. App. 256.

26. Or.—Crown Mills v. Oregon Electric Ry. Co., 21 P.2d 214, 144 Or. 25.

27. U.S.—Brooklyn Heights R. Co. v. Straus, D.C.N.Y., 245 F. 132.

28. U.S.—Brooklyn Heights R. Co. v. Straus, supra.

29. Ga.—Wadley Southern R. Co. v. State, 73 S.E. 741, 137 Ga. 497.

30. Mo.—E. R. Darlington Lumber Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 147 S.W. 1052, 243 Mo. 224.

31. Okl.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. State, 186 P. 234, 77 Okl. 63.

Form of complaint for violation of statute requiring all contracts between any and all railroads, as to use and transportation of cars, to be submitted to railroad commissioners for inspection and correction.—State v. Warfield, 58 So. 367, 63 Fla. 298.

32. Or.—Crown Mills v. Oregon Electric Ry. Co., 21 P.2d 214, 144 Or. 25.

33. Fla.—State v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 47 So. 387, 56 Fla. 601.

34. Fla.—State v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 47 So. 986, 56 Fla. 670.

35. Fla.—State v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., supra.

36. Okl.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. State, 125 P. 721, 33 Okl. 371.

37. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 165 S.W. 251, 112 Ark. 147.
10 C.J. p. 586 note 24.

38. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Atlanta Sand, etc., Co., 68 S.E. 807, 135 Ga. 35.

39. U.S.—U. S. v. Clyde S. S. Co., C.C.A.N.Y., 36 F.2d 691, reversing, D.C., 29 F.2d 742, and certiorari denied Clyde S. S. Co. v. U. S., 50 S.Ct. 350, 281 U.S. 744, 74 L.Ed. 1157.

§ 463. Failure to Afford Facilities for Interchange of Traffic with Other Lines

Under a statute imposing a penalty on carriers for failure to afford facilities for interchange of traffic with other lines, the cause of action is based on the failure to furnish the requisite facilities and not merely the failure to make delivery to connecting carriers.

Under a statute requiring common carriers to afford all reasonable, proper, and equal facilities for the interchange of traffic between their respective lines, and for receiving, forwarding, and delivering freight to and from their respective lines, and to and from other lines and places connected therewith, under a penalty for violation, the petition, to state a cause of action, must allege a failure to provide facilities for such purpose and it is not sufficient to allege negligence and breach of contract in failing to make delivery to the connecting carrier.[40] Under a statute to that effect, a domestic railroad company which wrongfully refuses to exchange business with a foreign company may be subject to the penalty therein provided.[41]

§ 464. Failure to Deliver Express Matter at Residence or Place of Business

A state statute imposing a penalty on the carrier for failure to deliver parcels at the consignee's residence or place of business is valid as to intra-state shipments; such statute is not complied with by personal delivery to the consignee at the local office.

A state statute reaffirming the duty of express carriers to deliver parcels at the residence or place of business of the consignee, and imposing a penalty for noncompliance, has been held valid,[42] except as applied to interstate shipments.[43] The provisions of the statute are not complied with by a personal delivery to the consignee at the local office.[44]

§ 465. Failure to File Annual Report

A carrier is liable for the penalty imposed by statute if it fails to file an annual report as required, in the prescribed form and within the time specified by the statute.

Under statutes requiring carriers to file annual reports with a specified public body or official, and imposing a penalty for noncompliance, a failure to file the required report in the prescribed form,[45] and within the time specified,[46] will render the carrier liable for the penalty. The fact that the state has shown no special damage resulting from the failure of the carrier to make its report within the required time affords no defense to the action for the penalty.[47]

Federal receivers may be sued in a state court to recover the penalty.[48]

Under a statute requiring the carrier to file the prescribed form, the complaint to recover the penalty must allege that the form was prescribed and furnished to defendant; but it need not allege that such form was as nearly as may be like that used by the interstate commerce commission, as required by the statute.[49]

§ 466. Failure to Furnish and Equip Cars

Statutes imposing penalties on carriers for failure to furnish cars are valid if reasonable; in the absence of express provision, they do not penalize the carrier for failure to furnish any particular kind of car, even where the shipper has contracted for a particular kind, or for failure to furnish a car for use on connecting lines.

Statutes which impose penalties on carriers for a failure to furnish cars to shippers who have complied with the provisions thereof have been upheld as being a proper regulation of common carriers,[50]

40. Iowa.—Clark v. American Express Co, 106 N.W. 642, 130 Iowa 254.
Delay in delivering shipment to connecting carrier see supra § 454.
Failure to deliver to connecting carrier because of inadequate facilities, as constituting unjust discrimination see infra § 511.

41. Tex.—Texas Mexican R. Co. v. State, Civ.App., 174 S.W. 298.

42. Ind.—U. S. Express Co. v. State, 73 N.E. 101, 164 Ind. 196.

43. Ind.—State v. Adams Express Co., 85 N.E. 337, 966, 171 Ind. 138, 19 L.R.A.,N.S., 93.

The Interstate Commerce Act, regulating the transportation and delivery of goods by express companies, supersedes the state statute relating to the same subject matter so far as interstate shipments are concerned.—State v. Adams Express Co, 85 N.E. 337, 966, 171 Ind 138, 19 L.R.A.,N.S, 93.

Prior to federal legislation on the subject the statute was not void as being a regulation of interstate commerce, even as applied to interstate shipments.—U. S. Express Co v. State, 73 N.E. 101, 164 Ind. 196—10 C.J. p 585 note 96.

44. Ind.—U. S Express Co. v. State, supra.

45. N.Y.—People v. Joline, 121 N. Y.S. 857, 65 Misc 394

Independent of other statutory requirement

A statute which provides that the public service commission shall prescribe an annual report to be made by carriers, the form of which report shall be designated by the commission, contemplates a report independently of the one required to be filed by another statute, or else such a report as may be indicated by the commission in the form which it prescribes.—People v Joline, 121 N.Y.S 857, 65 Misc. 394.

46. Tex.—Houston & T. C. R Co. v. State, 61 Tex. 342

47. Tex.—Houston & T. C. R Co. v. State, supra.

48. N.Y.—People v Joline, 121 N.Y. S 857, 65 Misc 394

49. N.Y.—People v. Joline, supra.

50. Tex.—Texas, etc, R. Co. v. Allen, 101 S.W 792, 100 Tex 525, reversing 98 S.W. 450, 42 Tex.Civ. App. 331—Wichita Valley Ry Co. v. Bevering, Civ.App., 272 S.W 250—Texas & P. Ry. Co v. Andrews, Reynolds & Co, 118 S.W. 1101, 55 Tex.Civ.App. 302, modified on other grounds 126 S.W. 562, 103 Tex. 271
10 C.J. p 574 note 2.
Duty to furnish cars see supra §§ 35–39.

if they are reasonable and either expressly or by construction exempt the carrier from liability for noncompliance caused by circumstances beyond its control[51] The validity of such statutes as affecting interstate shipments is treated in § 467 infra. They are to be strictly construed and no penalty other than that specifically provided by the statute can be imposed.[52]

Under these statutes it has been held that the carrier is not bound to furnish any particular kind of car, as long as the cars which it furnishes or tenders are suitable for the particular kind of freight offered for transportation;[53] and the fact that the shipper has made a binding contract with the carrier for a particular kind of cars does not affect the operation of this rule, the remedy of the shipper being for a breach of the contract and not an action to recover the penalty.[54] Under a statute requiring the carrier to furnish double-decked cars for certain kinds of live stock, the carrier may be subject to a penalty if it fails to comply therewith.[55]

The carrier is not liable to the penalty for refusing to furnish cars to be used on a connecting line.[56]

A statute providing that "every railroad corporation in the state shall start and run cars for the transportation of such property as shall, within a reasonable time previous thereto, be ready or offered for transportation" cannot be so extended as to include coal in the earth, to be dug and raised from the mines after cars are furnished, so that the carrier, for neglect in that regard, will be subject to the penalty provided in the statute.[57]

§ 467. To What Shipments Applicable

State statutes which impose penalties on carriers for a failure to furnish cars to shippers have no application to interstate shipments.

It has been definitely settled by the supreme court of the United States that state statutes which impose penalties on carriers for a failure to furnish cars to shippers cannot apply to interstate shipments, inasmuch as congress has exerted its paramount authority over the subject in the Hepburn Act making it the duty of carriers to furnish adequate facilities for transportation, thereby superseding any state legislation relating to the same matter.[58] It was held prior to this decision that, in the absence of federal legislation on the subject, such state statutes, not in terms restricted to intra-state transportation could validly apply to both interstate and intra-state shipments if they were reasonable,[59]

Duty to receive and transport property see supra § 27.

Failure to furnish cars as discrimination subjecting carrier to statutory penalty see infra § 511 a Validity of statute as affected by amount of penalty see infra § 473.

51. Ga.—Southern R Co. v Atlantic Sand, etc, Co, 68 S E 807, 135 Ga 35.
Tex.—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Andrews, Reynolds & Co, 118 S.W. 1101, 55 Tex Civ.App. 302, modified on other grounds 126 S W 562, 103 Tex 271—Texas & P. Ry. Co. v. Taylor, 118 S W 1097, 54 Tex Civ.App. 419, affirmed 126 S.W 1117, 103 Tex. 367, modified on other grounds 126 S.W. 1200, 103 Tex. 367.
10 C.J. p 574 note 3.

52. Ill.—Atchison, etc, R. Co v. Peo., 81 N E 342, 227 Ill 270, reversing 128 Ill App 38.
Tex.—San Antonio, etc, R. Co. v Bailey, App, 15 S.W. 203.
10 C.J p 574 note 4.

53. Tex.—Austin, etc, R. Co. v. Slator, 26 S.W. 233, 7 Tex.Civ. App. 344.
10 C J. p 89 note 68 [a], p 574 note 5

54. Tex.—Texas, etc, R. Co v. Barrow, 77 S.W. 643, 33 Tex Civ App. 611.

55. Duty to furnish suitable cars see supra §§ 49–58.

Penalty dependent on rate charged

(1) A statute, providing that any railway company which fails or refuses to furnish double-decked cars for certain kinds of live stock shall be liable to the owner or shipper for a fixed sum as liquidated damages, except if it transports such animals in single-decked cars at half the price per carload charged for shipping other live stock, confers no actionable right to recover a penalty for failure to provide double-decked cars, unless the shipper has been charged, and required to pay, a greater amount for his shipment in single-decked cars than that specified.—Ft. Worth, etc, R Co. v Starr, Tex Civ.App, 141 S.W. 1084—10 C.J p 574 note 7 [a].

(2) A demand by the shipper for double-decked cars will be implied.—Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co v. Starr, supra.

(3) Where an initial carrier refused to provide double-decked cars for the shipment of plaintiff's sheep, and the terminal carrier collected full rates for the transportation of the sheep in single-decked cars, the initial carrier was liable for the penalty, unless it sustained the burden of proof that such terminal carrier had no authority to act for it in collecting such rate.—Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v Starr, supra

56. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Lov ing, Civ.App., 98 S.W. 451—Houston, etc., R Co v. Buchanan, 94 S W 199, 42 Tex.Civ App. 620.
10 C.J. p 574 note 8.

57. Ill.—People v. Illinois, etc., R. Co, 14 N E 261, 122 Ill 506.

58. U.S.—Chicago, etc, R. Co. v. Hardwick Farmers' El. Co, 33 S Ct. 174, 226 U.S. 426, 435, 57 L.Ed. 284, 46 L R A.,N.S, 203, reversing 124 N W. 819, 110 Minn. 25, 19 Ann Cas. 1038.
10 C J. p 574 note 13.

Intra-state or foreign shipments

Under a statute authorizing the recovery of a penalty for the failure to furnish cars for an intra-state shipment, that a shipper demanding cars had the intention and did actually ship them to a point in Mexico does not change the shipment to a foreign shipment, where the freight was shipped to a point within the state consigned to the shipper, and the freight was there paid, and the freight was thereafter shipped to a point in Mexico.—Texas, etc, R Co. v. Taylor, 126 S.W. 1117, 1200, 103 Tex. 367, affirmed 118 S W. 1097, 54 Tex.Civ.App. 419.

59. Ga.—Southern R Co. v Atlanta Sand, etc., Co., 68 S.E. 807, 135 Ga. 35.
10 C.J. p 574 notes 11, 12.

Regulations held reasonable

A rule of a railroad commission made in accordance with statutory although no such application to interstate transportation would be permitted if they constituted an unreasonable burden thereon.[60]

§ 468. Application for Cars

It is essential to the recovery of the statutory penalty for failure to furnish cars that all the statutory requirements with respect to the application or demand for cars be complied with by the shipper, such as with respect to the time and place the cars are required.

To authorize a recovery of a penalty under the provisions of the statutes requiring carriers to furnish cars to shippers, all the statutory requirements in respect of application or demand for cars must be complied with by the shipper.[61] The application must be made to the agent designated by statute.[62] An oral application is insufficient where the statute requires the application to be in writing.[63] The application should state definitely the time when the cars shall be furnished, and noncompliance by the carrier with an application for cars which fixes no time,[64] or requests that cars shall be furnished "as soon as possible,"[65] imposes no liability on the carrier for failure to furnish cars. An application which requests the carrier to furnish cars within a shorter period than the minimum allowed by the statute to the carrier for furnishing cars is of no effect,[66] and the same conclusion has been reached in respect of an application which requests cars to be furnished at a date subsequent to the time allowed by the statute for furnishing cars.[67] Under a statute so providing, the application must designate as the place at which the cars are desired, some station or switch on the railroad of the company to which the application is made.[68] A failure to comply with an application to furnish cars to be used on another line imposes no liability on the carrier, where the statute does not require that cars to be used on another line shall be furnished.[69] An application for cars of a particular kind will not be sufficient as a basis for imposing a penalty on the carrier, where the statute does not impose on it the duty of supplying a particular kind of cars, but only such as are suitable for the kind of property which the shipper desires to transport.[70]

§ 469. Who May Sue

A part owner of property in control thereof who makes demand for the cars may sue to collect the penalty; but an agent whose status was undisclosed at the time of demand cannot sue, where it appeared at the time of shipment that the cars were intended for the use of another to whom the bill of lading was issued.

One who makes demand for the cars and has control of the property may sue for the penalty provided by the statute for failure to furnish cars, although he is only part owner of the property.[71] The remedy, however, is one in favor of the shipper, and a person who enters a demand for cars, without at that time disclosing his agency for another, cannot recover the penalty, where it appears that at the time of the shipment it was disclosed that the cars were intended solely for the use of authority which provides that, when a shipper files a sufficient written application for cars, the railroad company shall furnish such cars within four days, Sundays and holidays excepted, etc., and for a violation of the rule shall, within thirty days after demand, pay the shipper one dollar per day per car after expiration of the free time, is a reasonable rule, it being construed to exempt the carrier from liability for noncompliance due to circumstances beyond its control.—Southern R. Co v. Atlanta Sand, etc, Co., 68 S.E 807, 135 Ga. 35.

60. U.S.—Houston, etc., R Co v Mayes 26 S Ct. 491, 201 U.S 321, 50 L Ed. 772, reversing 83 S W 53, 36 Tex Civ.App. 606

Regulations held unreasonable

"An absolute requirement that a railroad shall furnish a certain number of cars at a specified day regardless of every other consideration except strikes and other public calamities, transcends the police power of the State and amounts to a burden upon interstate commerce."—Houston, etc, R Co. v Mayes, 26 S.Ct. 491, 201 U S. 321, 329, 50 L.Ed. 772, reversing 83 S W. 53, 36 Tex. Civ.App. 606

10 C J. p 574 note 3 [b].

61. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v Hughes, 91 S W 567, 99 Tex. 533—Missouri, K. & T Ry Co of Texas v. Harrell Gin Co, Civ App., 187 S W. 376—Texas, etc, R. Co v. Barrow, 77 S.W. 643, 33 Tex. Civ App. 611—Austin, etc, R. Co v. Slator, 26 S.W. 233, 7 Tex Civ. App. 344.

62. Tex.—Austin & N. W. R Co. v Slator, 26 S.W. 233, 7 Tex.Civ.App. 344.

10 C J p 575 note 15.

63. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co v. Barrow, 77 S.W 643, 33 Tex Civ App 611.

10 C J p 575 note 16.

64. Kan.—Cox v. Missouri, etc., R. Co, 105 P 14, 81 Kan 186

10 C.J p 575 note 17.

65. Tex.—Texas, etc., R Co v. Hughes, 91 S W. 567, 99 Tex 533—Texas, etc., R Co. v. Shipman, Civ App, 98 S W. 449

66. N C.—McDuffie v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 59 S E. 122, 145 N.C. 397.

Tex.—Griffith v. Texas, etc., R. Co., 116 S.W 648, 53 Tex Civ.App. 510.

10 C J. p 575 note 19.

67. Tex.—Texas & P. R. Co v. Andrews, 126 S W. 562, 103 Tex. 271, reversing Civ App, 118 S W. 1101

10 C J. p 575 note 20

68. Tex.—Missouri, K & T Ry Co of Texas v Harrell Gin Co., Civ. App., 187 S.W. 376.

Spur track of another railroad

Application for cars to be placed on the spur track of another railroad imposes no liability on the carrier.—Missouri, K & T Ry Co. of Texas v. Harrell Gin Co., Tex Civ App, 187 S W. 376

69. Tex.—Texas, etc, R Co. v. Loving, Civ App, 98 S W 451—Houston, etc, R Co v Buchanan, 94 S W. 199, 42 Tex Civ App 620.

70. Tex.—Chicago, etc, R Co. v. Risley, 119 S W 897, 55 Tex Civ. App 66

10 C J. p 575 note 22.

71. Tex.—Texas, etc, R Co v Taylor, 126 S W. 1117, 1200, 103 Tex. 367, affirming 118 S.W. 1097, 54 Tex Civ.App. 419.

another, and the bill of lading was issued in the name of the true owner and shipper of the goods.[72]

§ 470. Defenses

In an action for a penalty for failure to furnish suitable cars, a strike or unforeseeable rush of business creating a shortage of cars is ordinarily a good defense, as is a special contract obligating the shipper to furnish equipment where the penalty is sought for improper equipment; but it is not a defense that the carrier did not have sufficient cars, or that it eventually furnished them, but after the required time.

When expressly so provided by statute, a strike on the carrier's line is a good defense to an action to recover penalties for failure to furnish cars,[73] and even in the absence of any statute so providing, a strike of such magnitude as to render the carrier unable by the use of proper effort to furnish cars on demand would constitute a good defense, although it would be otherwise if the strike was of an insignificant number of employees or in some department in no substantial way interfering with the furnishing of cars.[74]

The mere fact that the carrier did not have sufficient cars to comply with the demands made on its service, when cars were ordered from it, constitutes no defense;[75] but where there is a rush of business or congestion of traffic which could not reasonably have been anticipated, and the failure to furnish cars is due to this cause, the carrier is not liable for noncompliance with the statute,[76] especially under a further provision of the statute excusing it from furnishing cars because of unavoidable accident.[77] The fact that the cars were eventually furnished, although not within the required time, does not prevent the recovery of a penalty.[78]

Where the statute requires applicant to deposit with the agent of the carrier at the time of making his application a part of the freight charges, it is a good defense that at the point of shipment the carrier had no agent.[79] Under a similar statute providing for a deposit if required by the carrier, the shipper's failure to make the deposit is not a defense unless the carrier made a demand therefor and the shipper declined to comply.[80]

It is not a defense that a buyer from the shipper notified the carrier not to carry any more of the shipper's property consigned to the buyer;[81] nor is it a defense that a demand was made for cars to be shipped outside of the state, the statute not requiring the carrier so to do, where the carrier's right to limit the use of cars to shipments inside the state was not asserted at the time the cars were furnished.[82]

Where under the statute the carrier is excused from furnishing cars at any other place than its own elevators, it is essential that it should provide elevators sufficient for handling and storing all grain designed for transportation over its road, and if it fails so to do its refusal to furnish cars at the customers' elevators adjacent to its track will render it liable to a penalty.[83]

Special contract as to equipment of cars. In a shipper's action to recover a statutory penalty for the failure of the carrier properly to equip cars used for hauling lumber and timber, it is a defense that the cars were under a special contract allowed to go out on a private track to be loaded beyond the control of the carrier, and that the real shipper had contracted properly to equip the cars before loading them to be transferred to the carrier on its line.[84]

72. Ga.—Central of Georgia Ry. Co. v Rabun, 94 S.E. 598, 600, 21 Ga. App. 402.
"While it thus seems to be undoubtedly true that, had the bill of lading been issued in the name of the plaintiff, without disclosing the fact of his agency, the railway company could not then have been held to deny that the plaintiff in such case was the true shipper, by disputing the title of the person delivering the goods to it, yet where, by the terms of the shipping contract itself, it was in fact disclosed that the plaintiff was merely the agent of the true shipper, and as such he had made the demand for the car delivery, it would seem that the remedy granted to the shipper must be exercised by the one who occupied that relationship to defendant either actually or prospectively, notwithstanding the fact that he might have entered his demand for the cars through his agent, who did not at that time disclose his true status."—Central of Georgia Ry Co. v. Rabun, supra.

73. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v Andrews, 126 S.W. 562, 103 Tex. 271

74. Ga.—Southern R Co. v. Atlanta Sand, etc, Co, 68 S.E. 807, 135 Ga 35.

75. Ark.—St. Louis, etc, R Co. v. State, 107 S.W 1180, 85 Ark. 311, 122 Am.S.R. 33
Ga.—Southern R. Co v. Atlanta Sand, etc., Co, 68 S.E. 807, 135 Ga 35.
10 C.J. p 575 note 26

76. Ga.—Southern R Co. v. Atlanta Sand, etc., Co., supra.

77. Kan.—Udall Milling Co. v. Atchison, etc, R. Co., 108 P. 137, 82 Kan. 256.

78. Tex.—Texas, etc, R. Co v. Taylor, 118 S.W. 1097, 54 Tex Civ App. 419.

79. Tex.—Houston, etc, R Co. v Campbell, 45 S.W. 2, 91 Tex. 551, 43 L.R.A 225
10 C.J. p 575 note 28.

80. Kan.—Offerle Grain & Supply Co v Atchison, T & S. F. Ry. Co., 182 P. 405, 105 Kan. 272.

81. Tex.—Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Campbell, 45 S.W. 2, 91 Tex. 551, 43 L.R.A. 225, reversing, Civ.App., 40 S.W. 431.
10 C.J. p 575 note 30.

82. Tex.—Houston, etc., R Co. v. Buchanan, Civ.App., 84 S.W 1073.

83. Minn.—Rhodes v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 24 N.W. 347, 34 Minn. 87.

84. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Lukens, 66 So. 566, 68 Fla. 116.

§ 471. Conditions Precedent to Action

Under a statute to that effect, it is a condition to an action for a penalty for failure to furnish cars that the shipper must have had freight under his control capable of being loaded within the required time for such after demand for the cars. If a statute so requires, it is a condition to the action that the carrier be permitted to defend a claim made by the shipper.

A statutory requirement that the shipper shall have "on hand at the time any demand for cars was made" necessary freight for loading them, taken in connection with the time allowed him of forty-eight hours for loading after delivery to the cars, has been held to mean that he must be the owner and manager of the freight and have such control over it that he can load the cars ordered within such time.[85] The statute does not mean that the shipper should have the property at the immediate point of shipment at the time of demand.[86]

If the statute so requires, the railroad commission must give the carrier opportunity to present a defense to a claim made by the shipper before it as a condition precedent to a suit by the shipper to recover a penalty for refusal to furnish cars.[87]

§ 472. Actions

The usual rules as to actions for penalties apply.

An action to impose a statutory penalty on a carrier for failure to furnish and equip cars is governed by the usual rules as to actions for penalties, discussed in the C.J.S. title Penalties §§ 7–18, also 25 C.J. p 1181 note 46–p 1213 note 78.

Jurisdiction and venue. Notwithstanding the unconstitutionality of a rule of the public service commission providing for determination by itself of disputes between carriers and shippers, a shipper may enforce his right to the statutory penalty for failure to furnish cars, in a court of law, on the theory that for every right there is a corresponding remedy by judicial action.[88]

Subject to the provisions of the statutes governing venue, the action may be brought in any county of the state in which the principal office or place of business of the carrier is located.[89]

Pleading. In an action by a shipper to collect the statutory penalty for failure to furnish cars, the complaint must allege with sufficient certainty facts constituting a violation of the statute by the carrier.[90] The petition need not allege that the point to which plaintiff's goods were shipped was a station on defendant's road, where it alleges that "defendant was conducting a general passenger and freight business over the line of its railroad" between the point of shipment and the point of destination.[91] The complaint is demurrable if it fails to designate as the place at which the cars were desired, some station or switch on the line of the carrier to which application was made.[92]

An answer which fails to allege facts to show that defendant had performed its duty by furnishing a sufficient number of cars to meet the ordinary needs of its business which it could reasonably anticipate, or that a scarcity of cars and existing demands for them were the results of circumstances not in its power reasonably to control and provide against is insufficient.[93] In a shipper's action to recover the statutory penalty for the failure of the carrier properly to equip cars used for hauling lumber and timber, a defense that the cars were loaded on a private track beyond the carrier's control could be made under the general issue.[94]

Evidence. Where the statute provides that "not to exceed six days" shall constitute a reasonable time in which to furnish cars, and no excuse for delay is offered except that traffic was unusually heavy, the court is justified in assuming that nine days was a reasonable time within which to furnish the cars.[95] The usual rules as to weight and sufficiency of evidence apply.[96]

85. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Taylor, 118 S.W. 1097, 54 Tex.Civ.App. 419.
10 C.J. p 576 note 34.

86. Tex.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Risley, 119 S.W. 897, 55 Tex.Civ.App. 66—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Taylor, 118 S.W. 1097, 54 Tex.Civ.App. 419.
10 C.J. p 576 note 35.

87. Ga.—Southern R. Co. v. Atlanta Sand, etc., Co., 68 S.E. 807, 135 Ga. 35
10 C.J. p 576 note 36.

88. Wash.—State v. Public Service Commission of Washington, 162 P. 523, 94 Wash. 274

89. Kan.—Star Grain, etc., Co. v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., 116 P. 906, 85 Kan. 281.

90. Tex.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Harrell Gin Co., Civ.App., 187 S.W. 376.

91. Mo.—Emerson v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 19 S.W. 1113, 111 Mo. 161.

92. Tex.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Harrell Gin Co., Civ.App., 187 S.W. 376.

Placement on spur track of another road

A complaint alleging application for car to be placed on a spur track of another railroad, not designating as the place where the car was desired one at some station or switch of defendant, is demurrable.—Missouri, K. & T. Ry. Co. of Texas v. Harrell Gin Co., Tex.Civ.App., 187 S.W. 376.

93. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Allen, 101 S.W. 792, 100 Tex. 525, reversing 98 S.W. 450, 42 Tex.Civ.App. 331.

94. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Lukens, 66 So. 566, 68 Fla. 116.

95. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Smith, 79 S.W. 614, 34 Tex.Civ.App. 571.

96. Cattle pastured within short distance

Evidence that the shipper had his cattle in a pasture about eight or nine miles from the station from which the shipment was to be made,

Trial. Where the shipper makes a written application to the carrier for cars without tendering a deposit, without which the carrier under provisions of the statute is not liable for any penalty, and the carrier does not require the deposit to be made, it is for the jury to determine whether applicant elected to order the car without making such deposit.[97]

§ 473. Amount and Number of Penalties

Under a statute providing for exemplary damages for failure to furnish cars, damages are not restricted to actual damages. A specified penalty for each car not furnished is, in the absence of limit as to time of infliction, to be continued during the whole time of the carrier's delinquency.

Exemplary damages provided for by a statute penalizing carriers for delay in furnishing cars ordered, are not such damages as have been termed exemplary in cases holding that such damages cannot be recovered unless actual damages are proved.[98] Under a statute fixing the penalty at twenty-five dollars a day for each car not furnished, but not naming the time for which it is to be inflicted, the penalty is to be charged at the rate of twenty-five dollars a day for each car and to be continued during the whole time of the carrier's delinquency.[99]

§ 474. Failure to Pay for Loss of, or Injury to, Goods

Statutes which impose penalties on carriers for failure to adjust claims for loss of, or injury to, goods, within a designated time, are generally valid as applied to intra-state shipments, and entitle the aggrieved party, unless he has estopped himself, to enforce the penalty on proof of the existence of the necessary statutory conditions. Some courts hold that the carrier's good faith in refusing a claim precludes recovery of the penalty.

Statutes which impose penalties on carriers for failure, within a designated time, to adjust claims for loss of, or injury to, goods, have generally been held valid,[1] as merely providing a reasonable incentive for the prompt settlement, without suit, of just demands of a class admitting of special legislative treatment.[2] State statutes of this kind are not objectionable so far as intra-state shipments are concerned;[3] but, in accordance with the general rule stated in § 453 supra, if, and as far as, they assume to apply to interstate shipments, they are inoperative and void as being in conflict with the Carmack amendment, by which the special regulations and policies of particular states on the subject of the carrier's liability for loss of, or damage to, interstate shipments, and the contracts of carriers with respect thereto, have been superseded.[4] Such statutes, being of a penal nature, are to be construed strictly,[5] and the penalty, being purely a that it would take four or five hours to drive the cattle from the pasture they were in to the station, and that he did in fact finally ship the cattle in a car furnished by the carrier is sufficient to show compliance with the requirements of the statute as to ability to deliver the cattle within the time demand was made for the car, where such car was requested in forty-eight hours.—Wichita Valley Ry. Co v Bevering, Tex.Civ.App., 272 S.W. 250

97. Kan.—Farmers' Grain & Mercantile Co. v. Union Pac. R. Co., 175 P. 599, 103 Kan. 527.

98. Kan.—Farmers' Grain & Mercantile Co. v. Union Pac R. Co., 175 P. 599, 103 Kan. 527.

99. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Taylor, 118 S.W. 1097, 54 Tex.Civ App. 419.

Validity of statute

This statute has been held not in violation of the constitution as authorizing the imposition of excessive fines and punishment.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Taylor, 118 S.W. 1097, 54 Tex.Civ App. 419.

1. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co v. Nye-Schneider-Fowler Co., 43 S. Ct 55, 260 U.S. 35, 67 L.Ed 115, modifying Nye-Schneider-Fowler Co v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 179 N.W. 503, 105 Neb. 151—Yazoo & Mississippi Val R Co. v. Jackson Vinegar Co., Miss., 33 S.Ct. 40, 226 U.S. 217, 57 L.Ed. 193

10 C.J. p 582 note 49.

Excessive and unreasonable penalty as rendering statute invalid see infra § 480.

Invalidity of statute as applied to case in which the claim is in excess of damage suffered see infra § 476.

Statutory provisions as not violating due process of law clause see C.J.S. title Constitutional Law § 640, also 10 C.J. p 582 note 49.

Statutory provisions as not violating equal protection of law clause see C.J.S. title Constitutional Law § 548, also 10 C.J. p 582 note 49, 12 C.J. p 1176 note 15.

Such a statute is invalid, however, if it is made applicable to railroads only and not to all common carriers.—Seaboard Air Line Ry. Co. v. Simon, 47 So. 1001, 56 Fla. 545, 20 L.R.A.,N.S., 126, 16 Ann.Cas. 1234

Purpose of statute

(1) "The object of statutes of this kind is not to penalize the carrier for refusing to pay claims within the time required, whether just or unjust, but the design is to bring about a prompt investigation and payment of all proper claims. The penalty is intended to make the carrier prompt in the discharge of its duties and to allow to the owner of the goods compensation for the trouble and expense of a suit which the unreasonable delay and refusal of the carrier to pay has made necessary. In such cases penalties may be made cumulative in order to make it to the interest of the carrier to perform its duty."—Beckler Produce Co. v American Ry Express Co., 246 S.W. 1, 2, 156 Ark. 296, 26 A.L.R. 1197.

(2) Other considerations involved see 10 C.J. p 582 note 48 [a].

2. Ark.—Beckler Produce Co v. American Ry. Express Co., supra. 10 C.J. p 582 note 50

3. Ark.—Beckler Produce Co. v. American Ry. Express Co., supra. 10 C.J. p 582 note 51

4. U.S.—Charleston, etc., R. Co. v. Varnville Furniture Co., 35 S.Ct. 715, 237 U.S. 597, 59 L.Ed. 1137, reversing 79 S.E. 700, 98 S.C. 63. 10 C.J. p 582 note 52.

5. La.—Daniel v. Louisiana Ry. & Nav. Co., 100 So. 684, 156 La. 467. 10 C.J. p 582 note 54.

To some extent remedial

It has been said, however, that such statutes although penal, are remedial to the extent that they were enacted to meet a hurtful policy of delaying payment.—Evans v.

creature of the statute, can be imposed only when all the statutory conditions exist.[6]

It is essential to recovery of the penalty that the shipper show a failure on the part of the carrier to adjust or pay the claim within the time prescribed by the statute.[7] The right to recovery, however, is not dependent on the value of the shipment,[8] nor is it of any importance in what particular manner the loss was caused, whether by conversion or otherwise.[9] Where the statute imposing the penalty does not designate the place of payment, the carrier, as debtor, must find claimant and tender the payment to him within the statutory period.[10]

A party otherwise entitled to the penalty may, by his own conduct, estop himself from any right thereto.[11]

Doubtful claim refused in good faith. Notwithstanding that a judgment is subsequently recovered for the full amount of the claim, it has been held that where the circumstances were such as to raise a fair doubt concerning the legality and justness of the claim, and payment was declined in good faith on that ground, the carrier is not liable for the penalty.[12]

§ 475. Requisites and Sufficiency of Claim

It is essential to the recovery of the penalty from the carrier for its failure to adjust a claim within the prescribed time, that there be strict compliance with the requirements of the statute in relation to the claim.

To authorize a recovery of the penalty imposed on carriers for failure to adjust claims for loss of, or injury to, goods, within a designated time, there should be a strict compliance with the requirements of the statute in relation to the claim.[13] Where the statute requires a filing of the claim, while the mail may be used as an agency for communication, it is essential that there be a delivery for filing and a receipt of the claim by the carrier's agent;[14] and a mere verbal claim will not be sufficient,[15] unless, as may be done, this requirement of the statute is waived.[16] The claim should show its nature and amount and the person to whom due.[17] Ordinarily a claim containing such matter will satisfy the requirements of the statute so far as the contents are concerned, without the attachment thereto of the freight bill, or the receipt and the bill of lading; and it is unnecessary that the claim be in any particular form, or attested to, or accompanied by proof of its validity,[18] although if the statute so requires, the claim must contain an itemized statement of the property injured and must be sworn to.[19]

Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 95 S.E. 335, 109 S.C. 130.

6. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Farmers' Produce Co., 85 So. 578, 17 Ala. App. 388.
Ark.—Simmons v. American Ry. Express Co., 227 S.W. 414, 147 Ark. 339.
N.C.—Watkins v. American Ry. Express Co., 130 S.E. 305, 190 N.C. 605.
10 C.J. p. 582 note 55.

7. N.C.—Watkins v. American Ry. Express Co., supra.

8. Ark.—Simmons v. American Ry. Express Co., 227 S.W. 414, 147 Ark. 339.

9. S.C.—Wilson, etc. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 60 S.E. 663, 79 S.C. 198.

10. S.C.—Berley, etc. v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 64 S.E. 397, 82 S.C. 232.
10 C.J. p. 582 note 57.

11. S.C.—Andrews v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 82 S.E. 403, 98 S.C. 212
10 C.J. p. 582 note 58.

Acceptance of order in lieu of money
Where in an action for loss on freight and penalty for nonpayment within forty days, it appeared that plaintiffs had received and retained an order, in lieu of money, without objection until after the penalty had accrued, they were estopped to claim the penalty.—Andrews v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 82 S.E. 403, 98 S.C. 212.

12. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Farris & Co., 149 So. 561, 562, 111 Fla. 412
"In the case at bar, the record shows that the facts surrounding the occasioning of the loss and damage sued for were such as to raise a fair doubt concerning the legality and justness of the plaintiff's claim, and that the carrier declined the payment of the claims in good faith in reliance upon its contention that under the facts of the case, it was not liable at all. To apply the statutory penalty of 50 per centum per annum interest, under the circumstances shown here, would in effect deny to the carrier the right to litigate the validity of a claim, which under the law it was in duty bound not to pay, if the facts did not warrant payment. Such dispute of fact could only be settled by a trial of it in a judicial tribunal where the issues regarding it could be made up and settled. In the absence of any claim or showing of lack of good faith on the part of the carrier, in taking the course that it did in declining to pay without an adjudication of its liability, we cannot say that the application of the statutory penalty would be warranted"—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Farris & Co., supra.

13. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Farmers' Produce Co., 85 So. 578, 17 Ala. App. 388
La.—Daniel v. Louisiana Ry. & Nav. Co., 100 So. 684, 156 La. 467

14. N.C.—B. F. Eagles & Co. v. East Carolina Ry., 113 S.E. 512, 184 N.C. 66.

15. N.C.—Thompson v. Southern Express Co., 61 S.E. 182, 147 N.C. 343
S.C.—King v. Atlantic Coast Line R., 68 S.E. 769, 86 S.C. 510.
10 C.J. p. 582 note 60.

16. S.C.—Goldstein v. Southern R. Co., 61 S.E. 1007, 80 S.C. 522.
10 C.J. p. 582 note 61.

17. S.C.—King v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 68 S.E. 769, 86 S.C. 510.

18. S.C.—Hawes v. Southern R. Co., 53 S.E. 285, 73 S.C. 274.
10 C.J. p. 583 note 63.

19. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Farmers' Produce Co., 85 So. 578, 17 Ala. App. 388.

The claim must be filed with the agent at the place designated by the statute, such as with the agent at destination,[20] unless there is a waiver of strict compliance with the statute[21] or facts excusing a literal compliance therewith.[22] So, where the consignor of a shipment fails to file his claim with the carrier at the place where the shipment originated, as required of the consignor by the statute, he cannot recover the penalty incurred by the carrier by its failure to settle the claim for loss of the shipment within the time prescribed by the statute.[23]

The claim must be delivered to the carrier within the time specified by the statute.[24] Under some statutes, a claim for the loss of goods may be filed after the lapse of a reasonable time for the arrival thereof.[25]

It is not essential that claimant should demand interest; and, where claimant sues for the actual amount of damages, without interest, on account of the amount claimed, he is entitled to recover the penalty.[26]

§ 476. Necessity of Recovering Judgment for Full Amount of Claim

Although there is some contrary authority, it is generally essential to the recovery of the penalty that the plaintiff recover judgment for the full amount of the claim filed; but it is not necessary that this be by independent action.

If the statute so requires, it is essential to the recovery of the penalty imposed on carriers for failure to adjust claims for loss of, or injury to, goods, within a designated time, that plaintiff recover judgment for the full amount of the claim filed.[27]

In other words, the penalty cannot be recovered until and unless the full amount claimed is recovered, either in a different action or in the same action.[28] Although there is some authority to the contrary,[29] this condition to the imposition of the penalty has been held applicable even independent of express statutory provision,[30] especially where the claim, as presented, was largely in excess of the amount subsequently recovered;[31] indeed, it has been held that a statute imposing a penalty for failure to pay a claim would be invalid as applied to the situation where the shipper's demand was in excess of the actual loss suffered.[32]

Some decisions have insisted on a literal compliance with the rule requiring the recovery to equal the amount of the claim, and have barred recovery of the penalty even though the claim exceeded by

20. N.C.—B. F. Eagles & Co. v. East Carolina Ry., 113 S.E. 512, 184 N.C. 66.
10 C.J. p. 583 note 65.

Agent at destination

(1) The filing of a claim with another officer of the carrier, and a forwarding of the same by such officer, in the discharge of his duties to the agent at the destination of the freight, is not a filing with the agent at point of destination.—Brown v. Southern R. Co., 51 S.E. 151, 71 S.C. 273.

(2) Failure of consignee to file claim for loss with the agent at the point of destination precluded recovery by him of the statutory penalty although claim was properly filed at place to which it would have been forwarded had it been filed in accordance with statute.—Daniel v. Louisiana Ry. & Nav. Co., 100 So. 684, 156 La. 467.

(3) Other applications of rule see 10 C.J. p. 583 note 65 [a].

21. S.C.—King v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 68 S.E. 769, 86 S.C. 510.
10 C.J. p. 583 note 66.

22. S.C.—Sumter Pipe, etc., Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 73 S.E. 770, 90 S.C. 376.
10 C.J. p. 583 note 67.

23. N.C.—Hamlet Grocery Co. v. Southern R. Co., 87 S.E. 57, 170 N.C. 241.

24. Ala.—Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Farmers' Produce Co., 85 So. 578, 17 Ala. App. 388.

25. S.C.—Bullock v. Charleston, etc., R. Co., 64 S.E. 234, 82 S.C. 375.

26. S.C.—Abrams v. Columbia, etc., R. Co., 53 S.E. 819, 73 S.C. 542.

27. N.C.—Watkins v. American Ry. Express Co., 130 S.E. 305, 190 N.C. 605.
S.C.—Byrd v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 90 S.E. 181, 106 S.C. 1.
10 C.J. p. 583 note 71.

Reason for statutory provision

(1) "The proviso . . . that the plaintiff cannot recover the penalty for a refusal to pay the amount of loss or damage to freight unless the full amount of the plaintiff's claim is recovered is based upon the ground that the plaintiff should know the amount of such loss and damage, and that if he demands more than a just amount, the defendant is not to be penalized for refusing to pay an unjust claim"—Tilley v. Southern Ry. Co., 90 S.E. 309, 310, 172 N.C. 363.

(2) Other statements see 10 C.J. p. 583 note 71 [a].

Claim for unpaid freight and feed charges

It has been held, without reference to the statutory requirement that the entire amount of the claim be recovered in order for the penalty to apply, that where the shipper filed a claim for the value of a horse lost in shipment plus the cost of the freight and feed bill to the point of destination, and he was not entitled to recover such freight and feed charges because he had not paid therefor, he could not recover the statutory penalty.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Kimball, 88 S.E. 14, 103 S.C. 365.

Where amount sued for is less than amount of claim filed, the penalty cannot be recovered.—Ray v. Southern R. Co., 77 S.E. 1012, 94 S.C. 303.

28. S.C.—Sauls-Baker Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 96 S.E. 118, 109 S.C. 285.

29. Miss.—Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Brandon, 53 So. 957, 98 Miss. 461, 42 L.R.A.,N.S., 106.
10 C.J. p. 584 note 73.

30. Ark.—Simmons v. American Ry. Express Co., 227 S.W. 414, 147 Ark. 339.

31. U.S.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Wynne, Ark., 32 S.Ct. 493, 224 U.S. 354, 56 L.Ed. 799, 42 L.R.A.,N.S., 102.—Stupeck v. Union Pac. R. Co., D.C. Ohio, 200 F. 192.
10 C.J. p. 584 note 72.

32. U.S.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Wynne, Ark., 32 S.Ct. 493, 224 U.S. 354, 56 L.Ed. 799, 42 L.R.A.,N.S., 102.

only a few cents the amount subsequently recovered;[33] other cases, however, have applied the doctrine of "De minimis non curat lex" to excuse an excess of a small sum and have allowed a recovery of the penalty notwithstanding.[34] Where damages to the amount claimed are proved, the reduction of the amount by a valid counterclaim for charges is not in contemplation of law a failure to recover the full amount of the claim.[35] That the damage exceeded the sum claimed will not bar a recovery of the penalty.[36]

Although the statute makes a recovery of judgment for the amount claimed essential to the recovery of a penalty, the consignee may sue for the penalty, if the time has elapsed without adjustment of the claim, at the same time that he sues for loss or damage to the property, and is not required to institute an independent action for damages.[37]

§ 477. Effect of Settlement of Claim

There is a conflict of authority as to whether settlement of the claim prevents recovery of the penalty, in view of statutory provisions that no penalty is to be imposed unless the consignee "recover" the full amount claimed.

Under statutes which provide that no penalty for failure to pay a claim for loss of, or injury to, goods, within a specified time, is to be imposed, unless the consignee "recover" the full amount claimed, it has been held in some cases, that a settlement of the claim, even though after the time allowed therefor has expired, has the effect of preventing recovery of the penalty.[38] This view is expressly disapproved in other cases which hold that the penalty provided for by the statute may nevertheless be recovered.[39]

§ 478. Who May Sue and Who Liable

The purchaser of goods shipped, with sight draft against the bill of lading, may be entitled to sue for the penalty as the "consignee aggrieved" A carrier, on whose line the loss or injury did not occur, is not liable for the penalty, but liability rests with the carrier at fault.

The purchaser of goods shipped to the consignor's own order, with sight draft against the bill of lading which provided that the purchaser should be notified of their arrival, is the "consignee aggrieved" within the statute giving such person a right to recover a penalty for failure to adjust, within the statutory period, a claim for nondelivery of goods.[40]

Receivers of a railroad company, appointed by a federal court, are subject to the penalty when subjected by a statute to the duties, liabilities, and restrictions arising from the operation of the road.[41] Where the bill of lading under which the goods were shipped stipulates that no carrier shall be liable for loss or damage not occurring on its own line, no penalty can be recovered from a connecting carrier on whose line the loss or injury did not occur;[42] and independently of such provision in the bill of lading, if the statute penalizes a carrier for failure to adjust a claim for damages for loss of, or injury to, goods while in its possession, no penalty can be imposed on a carrier who has never received the goods.[43] The carrier liable for the penalty is the one originally at fault.[44]

33. Ark.—Simmons v. American Ry. Express Co., 227 S.W. 414, 147 Ark. 339.

Excess of five cents

Ark.—Simmons v. American Ry. Express Co., 227 S.W. 414, 147 Ark. 339.

34. S.C.—Evans v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 95 S.E. 335, 109 S. C. 130.
10 C.J. p 583 note 71 [e].

Deviations excused

(1) Four cents.—Evans v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 95 S.E 335, 109 S C. 130.

(2) Half a cent.—Weinberg v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 65 S.E. 637, 83 S.C. 470—B & M. White Laundry Co v. Charleston, etc, R. Co., 65 S. E. 239, 83 S.C. 209, 212, 18 Ann.Cas. 690.

35. S.C.—Byrd v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 90 S E. 181, 106 S.C 1

36. S C—Netherland v. Charleston, etc, R. Co, 60 S.E 927, 79 S.C. 368

Interest

Where addition of interest raises the recovery above the amount of the claim, the penalty may be recovered.—B. & M. White Laundry Co v. Charleston R. Co., 65 S E. 239, 83 S.C. 209.

37. S.C.—Sauls-Baker Co. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 96 S E 118, 119, 109 S C. 285.
10 C J. p 584 note 74.

Plaintiff "may sue for the penalty and for the amount claimed in separate actions (as they are separate causes of action) or in the same action. . . . The only dependence of the one action upon the other is that the penalty cannot be recovered until and unless the full amount claimed is recovered, either in a different action or in the same action, and therefore the trial of the cause of action for the penalty must either accompany or follow the trial of that for the claim"—Sauls-Baker Co v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., supra.

38. S C.—Best v. Seaboard Air Line R Co., 52 S.E 223, 72 S.C. 479.
10 C.J. p 584 note 75.

39. N C. — Albritton v. Atlantic Coast Line R Co, 62 S E. 597, 598, 148 N.C. 485, disapproving Best v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 52 S E 223, 72 S C 479.
10 C J. p 584 note 76

40. S.C—Brown v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 74 S.E. 754, 91 S.C. 377.

41. S.C.—Huguelet v. Warfield, 65 S.E. 985, 84 S.C. 87.

42. S.C—McMeekin v. Southern R. Co, 67 S E. 745, 85 S C 381—Moody v. Southern R. Co., 60 S. E 711, 79 S C. 297—Venning v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 58 S. E 983, 78 S.C. 42, 125 Am.S.R. 768, 12 L R A,N.S, 1217.

43. La—Stothard v. Louisiana R., etc, Co., 53 So. 658, 127 La. 383. S C.—Smith v Southern R. Co., 71 S E 989, 89 S.C. 415—Burress v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co, 60 S. E 692, 79 S.C 250.
10 C J. p 584 note 80.

44. La—Stothard v. Louisiana R., etc., Co., 53 So. 658, 127 La. 383.

§ 479. Actions

The usual rules as to actions for penalties apply.

An action to impose a statutory penalty on a carrier for failure to pay for loss of, or injury to, goods is governed by the usual rules as to actions for penalties, as discussed in the C.J.S. title Penalties §§ 7–18, also 25 C.J. p 1181 note 46–p 1213 note 78.

Jurisdiction and venue A cause of action against a railroad company for the statutory penalty, for failing to adjust a claim for loss of goods within the period prescribed by statute, arises at the point of destination, where the company fails to adjust the claim.[45]

Pleading. In a suit against a carrier for the collection of a penalty under a statute providing for the recovery of a penalty as well as damages, the shipper may be allowed to amend so as also to sue for the damages, the amount of which had been agreed on by the parties, inasmuch as such amendment does not affect the claim, the burden on plaintiff, or any defense which could be introduced by the carrier.[46]

Evidence. In an action by the shipper to recover the statutory penalty for failure of the carrier to adjust his claim within the required time, the burden is on plaintiff, on denial of liability by the carrier, to make out his case.[47] The shipper must prove the time when he filed his claim.[48]

In an action against a carrier for loss on freight and for a penalty for nonpayment within forty days, evidence of defendant's dealings with other claimants is properly excluded,[49] but it is error to exclude evidence of former dealings between the parties.[50]

Trial. Whether or not the freight claim agent of a carrier who passes on claims and either rejects them or orders them paid has authority to adjust a freight claim and communicate the decision to claimant, so as to make his statement binding on the carrier, is a question for the jury.[51] A verdict that the shipper was not entitled to the penalty may, as a matter of law, be set aside where the finding on another issue entitled him to such penalty.[52]

§ 480. Amount of Penalty

The reasonableness of the penalty is primarily for the determination of the legislature, but the courts may declare an excessive penalty invalid.

The reasonableness of a penalty for the failure to adjust a claim for loss of, or injury to, goods, within a specified time, is primarily for the judgment of the legislature, and courts will not interfere with its discretion as long as it keeps within the reasonable scope of its powers.[53] A statute imposing a penalty of fifty per cent per annum interest on the principal sum of a claim for freight lost or damaged by a carrier, on the carrier's failure to pay the claim within sixty days from its presentation, is not so exorbitant and unreasonable as to render the statute unconstitutional.[54] However, a statute providing for a continuing daily penalty of two dollars for refusal to settle a claim after a specified time is unconstitutional because exorbitant and unreasonable, for the reason that it leaves it to the discretion of the owner of the goods to increase the penalty by delaying his suit indefinitely within the period of the statute of limitations.[55] It has also been held that a statute allowing an attorney's fee for claimant on appeal, if plaintiff secures more than the amount tendered, is unfair and unreasonable where the carrier is successful on appeal in securing a reduction of the recovery, even though the recovery, when so reduced, exceeds the amount tendered in adjustment of the claim.[56]

45. S.C.—Smith v. Southern R. Co., 65 S.E. 1029, 84 S.C. 167.

46. N.C.—Jarrett Stationery Co. v. Southern Express Co., 67 S.E. 759, 152 N.C. 342.

47. N.C.—Watkins v. American Ry. Express Co., 130 S.E. 305, 190 N.C. 605.

48. N.C.—Watkins v. American Ry. Express Co., supra.

49. S.C.—Andrews v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 82 S.E. 403, 98 S.C. 212.

50. S.C.—Andrews v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., supra.

51. S.C.—Tenhet v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 64 S.E. 232, 82 S.C. 465.

52. Penalty warranted without submission of issue
In action for damage to shipment and for penalty for delay in payment of damage, the action of the court in setting aside a second special verdict that plaintiff was not entitled to penalty was proper, where, in answer to first issue, the jury found the full amount of the damage claimed had been sustained, since plaintiff's right to the penalty followed as a matter of law the finding that plaintiff had sustained the damage claimed, and the court would have been warranted in adding the penalty to the amount of such damage without submitting the issue.—Hussey v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 110 S.E. 599, 183 N.C. 7.

53. Ark.—Beckler Produce Co. v. American Ry. Express Co., 246 S.W. 1, 156 Ark. 296, 26 A.L.R. 1197 10 C.J. p 584 note 86.

54. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Coachman, 52 So. 377, 59 Fla. 130, 20 Ann.Cas. 1047.

55. Ark.—Southern Express Co. v. Couch, 249 S.W. 559, 157 Ark. 604—American Ry. Express Co. v. Bratton, 247 S.W. 379, 158 Ark. 639—Beckler Produce Co. v. American Ry. Express Co., 246 S.W. 1, 156 Ark. 296, 26 A.L.R. 1197.

56. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. Nye-Schneider-Fowler Co., 43 S.Ct. 55, 260 U.S. 35, 67 L.Ed. 115, modifying Nye-Schneider-Fowler Co. v. Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co., 179 N.W. 503, 105 Neb. 151.

Under a statute prescribing a fixed penalty for each day the carrier refuses to adjust a claim beyond a specified time, the amount recoverable as the penalty is not dependent on the value of the shipment.[57]

§ 481. Failure to Post Transportation Rates

There must be a compliance with statutory requirements in order for an aggrieved party to recover a statutory penalty for failure to post transportation rates.

A statute which imposes a penalty on railroad companies for failure to post rates of transportation at their stations, provided a notice of the violation and a demand for reparation be served on it, is intended to afford compensation for injuries and wrongs suffered as a result of the carrier's failure to post rates as required.[58] Under the provision of this statute as to the notice required to be given to the carrier, a notice which fails to state how claimant was injured by failure to post rates, the extent of his grievance, and the damage occasioned thereby is fatally defective.[59] Where it is made the duty of the railroad commission to fix the rates, there can be no violation of the statute by the carrier before the commission has complied with the statutory requirements which include a delivery of a copy of the schedule of rates to the carrier to be affected thereby.[60]

If the statute provides that the penalty shall be recovered "by the party aggrieved," only a person injuriously affected by the noncompliance with the statute may recover the penalty.[61]

In an action to recover the penalties provided for by this class of statutes, it is essential to allege all the facts necessary to show a case falling within the terms of the statute.[62]

§ 482. Refusal to Trace Freight and Give Information

It is within the power of a state, as to intra-state shipments, to require carriers to trace lost or damaged freight and to give information concerning the same, under a penalty for failure to do so

A state, under its power to regulate and control common carriers may, by statute, require carriers to trace freight which may have been lost or damaged, and to give information to the shipper concerning the same, under penalty of liability for the freight lost, damaged, or destroyed.[63] An action to enforce the carrier's liability under such a statute is in the nature of an action for a penalty,[64] and not one based on the contract of transportation.[65] Since the enactment of the Carmack amendment, state statutes authorizing the recovery of a penalty for defaults of such a character can have no application in case of an interstate shipment.[66] Even without regard to that enactment, they are invalid so far as they relate to interstate shipments, since they do not constitute a reasonable police regulation in aid of interstate commerce, but are a direct and immediate burden thereon.[67]

A statute prescribing a penalty for failure of the carrier to furnish information as to freight, including the name of the company responsible for the delay in shipment, although intended to embrace delay in shipments over connecting lines, is not limited to such lines so as to have no application to a shipment made over a single continuous line.[68]

Where recovery is limited by the statute to the value of the freight lost, damaged, or destroyed, and the right of action is confined to the shipper, the consignee, or an assignee, an action under the statute is not a qui tam action to recover a penalty, within the statute of limitations applicable to that class of actions.[69]

In an action to enforce the carrier's liability under statute for failure to trace freight and furnish the requisite information, evidence that defendant carrier delivered the freight in question to the next connecting line in good order is not admissible, because the act by its terms applies even where, under the contract of shipment or by law,

57. Ark.—Simmons v. American Ry Express Co., 227 S.W. 414, 147 Ark. 339.

58. Ark.—Arkansas & L. R. Co. v. Harris, 36 S.W. 186, 62 Ark. 452

59. Ark.—Arkansas & L. R. Co. v. Harris, supra.
10 C.J. p. 585 note 90.

60. S.C.—Johnson v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 52 S.E. 644, 73 S.C. 36
10 C.J. p. 585 note 91.

61. Ark.—Arkansas & L. R. Co. v. Harris, 36 S.W. 186, 62 Ark. 452

62. S.C.—Johnson v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 52 S.E. 644, 73 S.C. 36.
10 C.J. p. 585 note 92.

63. Ga.—Davis v. Seaboard Air-Line R. Co., 71 S.E. 428, 136 Ga. 278
—McCall v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 48 S.E. 157, 120 Ga. 602

64. Ga.—Seaboard Air Line R. Co. v. Davis, 77 S.E. 803, 139 Ga. 547

65. Ga.—McCall v. Central of Georgia R. Co., 48 S.E. 157, 120 Ga. 602
—Farkas v. Georgia Southwestern, etc., R. Co., 87 S.E. 160, 17 Ga. App. 403
10 C.J. p. 585 note 99 [a].

66. S.C.—Meetze v. Southern Express Co. 74 S.E. 833, 91 S.C. 379
Effect of Carmack amendment on state statutes relating to penalties generally see supra § 453.

67. U.S.—Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Murphey, 25 S.Ct. 218, 196 U.S. 194, 49 L.Ed. 444, 2 Ann.Cas. 514, reversing 43 S.E. 265, 116 Ga. 863, 60 L.R.A. 817.

68. S.C.—McCutchen v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 61 S.E. 1108, 81 S.C. 71.

69. Ga.—Seaboard Air-Line R. Co. v. Davis, 77 S.E. 803, 139 Ga. 547.
10 C.J. p. 585 note 1.

the responsibility of each or either carrier shall cease on delivery to the next carrier, in good order;[70] and accordingly, it is unnecessary to allege such delivery in good order.[71] So it is not necessary to produce the contract of affreightment, and therefore not necessary to set it out as part of the petition asking for the recovery of the penalty.[72]

§ 483. Noncompliance with Statutes Enacted to Prevent Cruelty to Animals

A statutory penalty is recoverable from a carrier for failure to comply with statutes relating to the extent of confinement of, and the care to be provided for, live stock in transit, see infra §§ 484–491. The carrier's liability in damages to the shipper for loss or injury resulting from noncompliance with these statutes is treated in § 64 c, supra.

§ 484. Federal Legislation in General

a. General rules
b. Circumstances under which connecting carrier liable

a. General Rules

Under a federal statute, which, subject to certain qualifications, prohibits and penalizes the confinement of animals in cars for more than twenty-eight hours without their being unloaded for feed, water, and rest, the carrier is liable for the penalty, recoverable only by the United States, for a knowing and willful violation, regardless of any agreement with the shipper modifying the statutory duty. The carrier's responsibility under the statute continues until delivery is completed to the consignee or to the connecting carrier.

A federal statute, 45 U.S.C.A. §§ 71–74, generally known as the Twenty-Eight-Hour Law, which is remedial in its character,[73] and has for its primary purpose the prevention of cruelty to animals while being transported by railroad or other means of conveyance,[74] by making sure that animals confined in cars shall not go without feed, water, and rest for more than a specified time,[75] provides, subject to some limitations which will hereafter be considered, that no common carrier other than by water engaged in the interstate transportation of cattle, sheep, swine, or other animals shall confine the same in cars, boats, or vessels of any description for a period longer than twenty-eight consecutive hours without unloading them into properly equipped pens for rest, water, and feed for a period of at least five consecutive hours; and that, where it knowingly and willfully fails to comply with the provisions of the statute, it shall be liable to a penalty recoverable in a civil action in the name of the United States. The penalty under this statute is recoverable only by the United States,[76] regardless of who may own the animals.[77]

Compliance with the statute cannot be waived except in the manner and on the contingencies provided in the act,[78] and, hence, it is no defense to the carrier that the owner of the animals consented to a longer period of confinement,[79] or a shorter period of rest,[80] than that prescribed, or contracted

70. Ga.—Davis v. Seaboard Air-Line R. Co., 71 S.E. 428, 136 Ga. 278—Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Elder, 43 S.E. 379, 116 Ga. 942—Farkas v. Georgia Southwestern, etc., R. Co., 87 S.E. 160, 17 Ga.App 403.

71. Ga.—Davis v. Seaboard Air-Line R. Co., 71 S.E. 428, 136 Ga. 278—Farkas v. Georgia Southwestern, etc., R. Co., 87 S.E. 160, 17 Ga.App 403.

72. Ga.—Davis v. Seaboard Air-Line R. Co., 71 S.E. 428, 136 Ga. 278—Savannah, etc., R. Co. v. Elder, 43 S.E. 379, 116 Ga. 942—Farkas v. Georgia Southwestern, etc., R. Co., 87 S.E. 160, 17 Ga.App. 403

73. U.S.—U. S. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., Va., 173 F. 764, 98 C.C.A. 110—Montana Cent. R. Co. v. U. S., Mont., 164 F. 400, 90 C.C.A. 388.
10 C.J. p 586 note 28.

The federal statute is quasi-penal in its nature—Hogg v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 127 S.E. 830, 33 Ga.App 773.

74. Ga.—Hogg v. Louisville & N. R. Co., supra.
10 C.J. p 586 note 29.

Construction

"The Act is to be construed to give effect to its humanitarian provisions, and as well to the exceptions in favor of the carriers"—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., La., 58 S.Ct. 533, 534, reversing, C.C.A., 90 F.2d 213, certiorari granted 58 S.Ct. 49, 302 U.S. 671, 82 L.Ed ——.

Not for benefit of owners

The statute is not intended for the benefit of the owners but, on the contrary, is restrictive of their rights.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., 31 S.Ct. 368, 220 U.S. 94, 55 L.Ed 384.

Ind.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Hayes, 104 N.E. 581, 181 Ind. 87, rehearing denied 103 N.E. 839, 181 Ind. 87.
10 C.J. p 586 note 31.

Protection of public health

The statute also has in view the protection of the public in preventing injury to the public health from the sale of cattle for food made ill and feverish by hunger, thirst, and exhaustion—Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co. v. U. S., Mich., 248 F. 905, 161 C.C.A. 23.

75. U.S.—U. S. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., D.C.Pa., 223 F. 206.

Feeding of animals

Purpose of statute requiring carrier to feed animals at expiration of twenty-eight hours after they are received for consignment was to prevent express companies from starving animals while in their custody.—U. S. v. Railway Express Agency, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.Supp. 259.

76. Ga.—Hogg v. Louisville & N. R. Co., 127 S.E. 830, 33 Ga.App 773.
10 C.J. p 587 note 32

77. U.S.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Ohio, 31 S.Ct. 368, 220 U.S. 94, 55 L.Ed 384

78. Ind.—Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Hayes, 104 N.E. 581, 181 Ind. 87, rehearing denied 103 N.E. 839, 181 Ind. 87

79. U.S.—Baltimore, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Ohio, 31 S.Ct. 368, 220 U.S. 94, 55 L.Ed. 384—U. S. v. Powell, C.C.A.Va., 65 F.2d 793.

80. U.S.—U. S. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 220 F. 944.
10 C.J. p 587 note 33 [a].

to assume responsibility for the required care of the animals.[81]

While every confinement of animals by a carrier for greater than the time prescribed, unless clearly within the exceptions, is within the prohibition of the statute,[82] it is only where the carrier knowingly and willfully violates the statute that it becomes liable for the penalty therein specified.[83] The words of the statute, "knowingly" and "willfully," require that the carrier should have failed to obey the statute purposely and with a knowledge of the facts;[84] but it is not essential that there have been turpitude or moral wrong on its part.[85] The word "knowingly" means simply with knowledge of the facts which taken together constitute the failure to comply with the statute.[86] The word "willfully" is not used as implying a vicious or evil intent,[87] as with a design to injure the stock,[88] but as meaning "voluntarily" or "intentionally,"[89] with a deliberate and conscious purpose,[90] "purposely" or "obstinately;"[91] and it is calculated to describe the attitude of a carrier who having a free choice either intentionally disregards the statute or is indifferent to its requirements.[92] The fact that the detention

81. N.Y.—Walrath v. American Ry. Express Co., 216 N.Y.S. 545, 217 App.Div. 83.
10 C.J. p 587 note 34.

82. U.S.—U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., D.C.Pa., 238 F. 428, affirmed Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. U. S., 247 F. 466, 159 C.C.A. 520.

83. U.S.—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., La., 58 S.Ct. 533, reversing, C.C.A., 90 F.2d 213, certiorari granted 58 S.Ct. 49, 302 U.S. 671, 82 L.Ed. ——. —U.S. v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Tenn., 1 F.2d 607—U. S. v. Boston & M. R. R., D.C. Mass., 21 F.Supp. 671—U. S. v. Baldwin, D.C.Neb., 17 F.Supp. 789—U. S. v. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. Ry. Co., D.C.Iowa, 245 F. 179—U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., D.C.Pa., 238 F. 428, affirmed Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. U. S., 247 F. 466, 159 C.C.A. 520.
10 C.J. p 587 note 35.
Connecting carrier's transportation beyond time limit to nearest unloading station as constituting an unintentional violation see infra § 486.

Delivery in accordance with car ticket

Where a carrier delivered a shipment of hogs at the proper place according to the car tickets before the time to unload under the Twenty-Eight Hour Law, which shipment the consignees refused to accept, because the car tickets made by a connecting carrier did not agree with the bills of lading, which called for delivery at another point, so that the time for unloading had expired before the shipment could be redelivered, and further delay was occasioned by the refusal of another connecting carrier to accept shipment after government inspector had ordered it unloaded for rest and feed, no liability could be imposed on it since there was no willful disobedience of the act, or even negligence—U. S. v. Allentown Terminal R. Co., D.C.Pa., 256 F. 855.

84. U.S.—U. S. v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Tenn., 1 F.2d 607.
10 C.J. p 587 note 37.

Act of employee of another company

In action against railroad company for penalty for violating Twenty-Eight Hour Law, train dispatcher of another railroad company, whose tracks were used by defendant, must be treated as defendant's agent, where movement of defendant's trains was governed by such dispatcher.—U. S. v. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. Ry. Co., D.C.Iowa, 245 F. 179.

Congestion in yards

A carrier is deemed knowingly and willfully to have violated the act where it has knowledge that delays are imminent because of yard congestion at the terminal point, and that the margin of safety is small, but nevertheless deliberately takes the risk of delivering the animals within the prescribed time.—U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., Pa., 247 F. 469, 159 C.C.A. 523—Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Pa., 247 F. 466, 159 C.C.A. 520, affirmed, D.C., U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., 238 F. 428.

Restricted terminal facilities

Where railroad company, knowing that margin of safety was small, elected to transport shipment of live stock without unloading for food, etc., and unloading of two of cars was delayed, because consignee's terminal facilities would only accommodate limited number of cars, and engine departed after placing on siding all cars it would hold, it has been held that company must, as to such cars delayed, be deemed to have knowingly and willfully violated the Twenty-Eight Hour Law—U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., Pa., 247 F. 469, 159 C.C.A. 523.

Mere omission with knowledge of the facts is not enough. The penalty may not be recovered unless the carrier is also shown "willfully" to have failed—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., La., 58 S.Ct. 533, reversing, C.C.A., 90 F.2d 213, certiorari granted 58 S.Ct. 49, 302 U.S. 671, 82 L.Ed. ——.

85. U.S.—U. S. v. Baldwin, D.C. Neb., 17 F.Supp. 789

86. U.S. — Oregon-Washington R., etc., Co. v. U. S., Idaho, 205 F. 337, 123 C.C.A. 471—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Cal., 169 F. 69, 94 C.C.A. 437.
10 C.J. p 587 note 38.

Time of prior confinement

Knowledge by the carrier of the length of time the stock has been confined on prior lines will ordinarily be imputed to it, since it has the duty to make reasonable inquiry of such fact in order to avoid a violation of the statute—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. U. S., N.Y., 203 F. 953, 122 C.C.A. 255.
10 C.J. p 587 note 35 [a] (8).

87. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 234 F. 268, 148 C.C.A. 170, reversed on other grounds 38 S.Ct. 351, 246 U.S. 512, 62 L.Ed. 859.
10 C.J. p 587 note 39.

88. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 234 F. 272, 148 C.C.A. 174—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 234 F. 268, 148 C.C.A. 170, reversed on other grounds 38 S.Ct. 351, 246 U.S. 512, 62 L.Ed. 859.
10 C.J. p 587 note 39.

89. Determined from circumstances
The question of willfulness is to be determined from the entire circumstances—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 234 F. 272, 148 C.C.A. 174.

90. U.S.—U. S. v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Tenn., 1 F.2d 607.

91. U.S.—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., La., 58 S.Ct. 533, reversing, C.C.A., 90 F.2d 213, certiorari granted 58 S.Ct. 49, 302 U.S. 671, 82 L.Ed. ——.
10 C.J. p 587 note 40.

92. U.S.—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., La., 58 S.Ct. 533, reversing, C.C.A., 90 F.2d 213, certiorari granted 58 S.Ct. 49, 302 U.S. 671, 82 L.Ed. —— —Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 234 F. 268, 148 was caused by an oversight or negligence of the carrier's agents does not excuse the carrier,[93] as whether the carrier knowingly and willfully failed is to be determined by the acts and omissions which characterize its violation of the statute and not by any breach of duty owed to it by its employees.[94] It has been held, however, that the words "knowingly and willfully," as used in the statute, do not comprehend an unintentional oversight or simple negligence.[95]

To escape liability under the statute, the carrier is required to provide for the care of the stock until its duties as carrier are fulfilled by complete delivery.[96] So, where the carrier unloads animals prior to the expiration of twenty-eight hours, but fails to effect delivery or to feed and water the stock for a period of longer than twenty-eight hours, taking into account the time of the prior confinement on the cars, it will be liable.[97] If, however, the cars are delivered to the consignee within the time limit,[98] as where they are placed at his siding, and notice of delivery given to him,[99] the responsibility of the carrier under the statute ends, and it need not, to escape liability, provide further for the care of the stock.

In case of shipment over connecting lines, the initial carrier remains responsible for the stock and for the compliance with the statute regulating its confinement until it delivers the shipment to the next succeeding carrier,[1] but a carrier which delivers the cars containing stock to a connecting carrier within the prescribed time is relieved from further responsibility.[2]

The statute does not require the carrier to maintain any particular kind of equipment of its stock pens, permanent or otherwise, except in so far as to render them suitable for the humane purpose of properly feeding, watering, and resting the particular shipment of stock unloaded into them.[3]

It is not a defense to an action for the statutory penalty that the animals were not injured by the unlawful confinement.[4]

A carrier is liable for the violation of the statute by a terminal company which it had selected to discharge its duties to the shipper and under the statute.[5]

b. Circumstances under Which Connecting Carrier Liable

A connecting carrier which has knowledge of the period of confinement on prior lines is liable to the pen-

C.C.A. 170, reversed on other grounds 38 S.Ct. 351, 246 U.S. 512, 62 L.Ed. 859.
10 C.J. p 587 note 41.

Negligence of yardmaster

A railroad company, failing to take cattle from car, placed in yards for unloading, within time allowed by statute, until after such time, "willfully" violated its statutory duty and was liable for penalty, although such failure was due to its yardmaster's negligence or oversight, in failing to notify employee whose duty it was to unload cattle, regardless of whether such negligence or oversight was intentional or excusable.—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., La., 58 S.Ct. 533, reversing, C.C.A., 90 F.2d 213, certiorari granted 58 S.Ct. 49, 302 U.S. 671, 82 L.Ed. ——.

93. U.S.—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., La., 58 S.Ct. 533, reversing, C.C.A., 90 F.2d 213, certiorari granted 58 S.Ct. 49, 302 U.S. 671, 82 L.Ed. ——.
10 C.J. p 587 note 36.

94. U.S.—U. S. v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., La., 58 S.Ct. 533, reversing, C.C.A., 90 F.2d 213, certiorari granted 58 S.Ct. 49, 302 U.S. 671, 82 L.Ed. ——.

95. U.S.—U. S. v. Southern Ry. Co., D.C.Tenn., 1 F.2d 607.
10 C.J. p 587 note 36.

Error in reporting time of loading

(1) The carrier was not liable for the penalty where the unlawful confinement was not done intentionally but was due to a mistake or error in transmitting or receiving a message reporting the time of loading, which led the dispatcher, whose duty it was to set out the cars for the necessary attention, erroneously to believe that the shipment would arrive within the time limit of the statute.—U. S. v. Baldwin, D.C.Neb., 17 F.Supp. 789.

(2) Other examples see 10 C.J. p 587 note 35 [a] (1).

96. U.S.—U. S. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., D.C.Pa., 223 F. 202
10 C.J. p 588 note 43.

Placement at unloading platform

Notwithstanding cars were transported to the siding of the consignee within the statutory period, the carrier is liable for the confinement of animals in some of the cars which could not for some time be accommodated because of the restricted facilities for unloading, since no delivery occurred until the cars were placed at the proper point where the animals could be released.—U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. Ry. Co., Pa., 247 F. 469, 159 C.C.A. 523.

97. U.S.—U. S. v. Railway Express Agency, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.Supp. 259.—U. S. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., C.C.A.N.J., 204 F. 705.

Failure properly to care for animals after unloading as continuing the time of confinement see infra § 488

98. U.S.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Kan., 178 F. 15, 101 C.C.A. 143.—U. S. v. Southern Pac. R. Co., D.C.Cal., 157 F. 459.

99. U.S.—U. S. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., 223 F. 206, 207
"There is neither justice nor sound policy to be served in extending the period of the responsibility of the carrier beyond the time of delivery, where there is time left after delivery to unload, and the carrier has neither notice nor reasonable ground of expectation that the cattle will not be cared for as the act of Congress requires."—U. S. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., supra.

1. U. S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., Utah, 213 F. 332, 130 C.C.A. 34.
Liability of connecting carrier see infra subdivision b of this section.

2. U.S.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Kan., 178 F. 15, 101 C.C.A. 143.—U. S. v. Southern Pac. R. Co., D.C.Cal., 157 F. 459.

3. U.S.—U. S. v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., Ark., 177 F. 205, 101 C.C.A. 375.

4. U.S.—U. S. v. Railway Express Agency, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.Supp. 259.

5. U.S.—U. S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., Utah, 213 F. 332, 130 C.C.A. 34.

alty if its transportation of the animals causes a total period of confinement in excess of the lawful limit, or continues a confinement already unlawful, except that it will not be liable if it merely transports the animals with all reasonable dispatch to the nearest available place for unloading.

If one carrier has held stock in transit for less than the time limit and delivers is to another carrier who continues the transportation so that the combined time of carriage would exceed such time limit, although the latter carrier may not have carried for the full time, it is liable if it had knowledge of the time consumed in carriage by the first carrier.[6] Where the initial carrier had kept the stock on hand without unloading for a period longer than that authorized by the statute when it was delivered to the connecting carrier, the latter need not confine the stock for another period equal to the statutory limit before it will be liable for violating the act,[7] and, if it receives and continues to transport such stock, it will ordinarily be liable for the penalty prescribed, notwithstanding the initial carrier has been prosecuted and has paid a fine for its own violation of the statute.[8] However, the mere receipt by a connecting carrier of live stock which has been continuously transported by previous carriers for more than twenty-eight hours in violation of the statute does not make it liable to the penalty.[9] If the connecting or terminal carrier merely transports the animals with all reasonable dispatch to the nearest available place for unloading, no penalty can be imposed notwithstanding such transportation causes the confinement of the stock beyond the lawful time,[10] or continues a confinement already unlawful.[11] In such case, however, it will be liable if it fails to exercise diligence, and to act with reasonable promptness in moving the car to its nearest unloading point and in commencing to unload;[12] and the failure of the carrier receiving a shipment already confined beyond the legal limit to unload the stock for several hours constitutes a prima facie violation of the statute.[13]

§ 485. Effect of Transportation Partly in Foreign Country

The Twenty-Eight-Hour Law is applicable even though part of the period of confinement in excess of the statutory limit has taken place during transit in a foreign country.

Although the Twenty-Eight-Hour Law in terms refers to shipments from one state or territory into or through another state or territory, it is not essential to the imposition of the penalty that the

6. U.S.—U. S. v. Northern Pac. Terminal Co., C.C.Or., 186 F. 947 —U. S. v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., C.C.Idaho, 160 F. 526.
Computation of time as including time animals confined by connecting lines see infra § 488

7. U.S.—U. S. v. Chicago, M. & St. P. Ry. Co., Iowa, 250 F. 442, 162 C.C.A. 512, reversing, D.C., 234 F. 386
10 C.J. p. 588 note 54.

8. U.S.—U. S. v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 221 F. 1000
10 C.J. p. 588 note 55.

9. U.S.—Baker v. U. S., C.C.A.Tex., 284 F. 818
10 C.J. p. 588 note 56.

No participation

(1) A connecting carrier which continues the transportation of animals previously unloaded after an unlawful period of confinement by prior carriers, in which it did not participate and over which it had no control, is not liable for the penalty, since the statute does not undertake to make one carrier responsible for what, without its authorization, knowledge, or consent is done by another carrier while the latter is in exclusive control of the shipment.—Baker v. U. S., C.C.A. Tex., 284 F. 818.

(2) There is no illegality in an arrangement by which a railroad company, which owns stockyards and does the switching therein, retains control of shipments of live-stock until they are taken from the yards and delivered to a connecting carrier, and the law does not make the latter responsible for care of the stock until so delivered.—Baker v. U. S., supra.

10. U.S.—U. S. v. Terminal R. Ass'n of St. Louis, C.C.A.Ill., 296 F. 466.
10 C.J. p. 587 note 35 [a] (7).

11. U.S.—U. S. v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., D.C.Ohio, 262 F. 775
10 C.J. p. 587 note 35 [a] (5), (6), p. 588 notes 57, 60, p. 590 note 87 [b].

Line involved in through transportation

"A terminal carrier, or any other carrier, may receive stock to be carried with due diligence to any reasonably convenient stockyard, for the purpose of being unloaded as required by law, without committing an offense; and this is true, even though the lines thus used may be part of a connecting line, which it is necessary to use in performing the original contract of interstate carriage."—U. S. v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., D.C.Ohio, 262 F. 775, 777

Unloading at own yards

A connecting carrier is not liable where it unloads the stock at its own yards, the next and only place at which it could have been unloaded and watered with all reasonable dispatch, with the facilities it had for unloading it.—U. S. v. Sioux City Stock Yards Co., C.C.Iowa, 162 F. 556, affirmed 167 F. 126, 92 C.C.A. 578.

Delay of stockyards company

Where an interstate carrier of live stock has contracted with the owner of stockyards, near, but not on, its line, to unload, feed, water, and rest the stock in transit, a connecting carrier, which transports the stock from such through line to the yards, is not responsible for delay in unloading by the stockyards company, which in such case is agent of the through carrier.—U. S. v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., D.C.Ohio, 262 F. 775.

12. U.S.—U. S. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 220 F. 944.

Unloading time held unreasonable

Where terminal transfer carrier received the cars two and a half hours before the expiration of the lawful period of confinement, and failed to unload them for four hours, although two hours were a reasonable time for unloading, it was liable, although notations on bill of lading, showing that time was nearly up, were indistinct and unnoticed when the hogs were received.—U. S. v. Sioux City Terminal Ry. Co., D.C.Iowa, 234 F. 663.

13. U.S.—U. S. v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 156 F. 249.

entire period of the prohibited confinement take place during transportation within the United States.[14] Also, the statute is applicable to a shipment originating in one state and ending in another, when the deprivation of food, water, and rest for the statutory period is shown, even though part of such period elapsed while the animals were in a foreign country.[15] The statute is likewise applicable to a shipment originating at a point outside of the United States and destined to a point within the United States, where the total period of time of confinement in transit exceeds that permitted by the statute.[16]

§ 486. Who Liable

A terminal railroad company or a stockyards company operating tracks into its yards may be a "railroad company" or "common carrier" within the statute as regards liability for noncompliance. All connecting carriers participating in an unlawful transportation beyond the time limit may be guilty of the offense alike, the liability being several.

A terminal railroad company which receives cars of live stock from other railroad companies for transportation and delivery to another railroad, or to stockyards, is subject to the provisions of the statute, and hence may become liable to a penalty for violation thereof.[17]

A stockyards company which constructs and maintains railroad tracks on land owned or leased by it, and operates engines and cars for hire for the transportation of live stock brought to the city in which it is situated by other interstate railroad companies between their terminals and the stockyards, and which also hauls such of the products or freight of the packing house from one to the other as required, and cars loaded with fuel or ice from such houses to the different railroads entering the city, is a railroad company or common carrier other than by water within the meaning of the statute.[18]

Receivers of a railroad appointed by a court to control and manage the road cannot be sued for violation of the statute.[19]

Connecting carriers. The liability imposed by the statute is a several one, and all connecting carriers that have had a hand in the carriage beyond the time limit are alike guilty of the offense.[20]

§ 487. Operation and Effect of Provisos Contained in Statute

a. In general
b. Request of shipper for extension of time
c. Accidental or unavoidable causes
d. Care of animals on cars obviating necessity of unloading
e. Time expiring at night

a. In General

The exceptions to, and provisions of, the Twenty-Eight-Hour Law, qualifying the liability of the carrier, are intended to provide for special exigencies and conditions.

The various exceptions and provisions in the Twenty-Eight-Hour Law, qualifying the liability of the carrier, are intended to give the statute the elasticity required to meet special exigencies and conditions,[21] and to protect the carrier from punishment for doing that which it cannot reasonably avoid,[22] there being no purpose or intention to impose on the carrier, unjust restrictions or duties impracticable of performance.

b. Request of Shipper for Extension of Time

The lawful period of confinement of animals under the Twenty-Eight-Hour Law may, under a provision to that effect, be extended from twenty-eight to thirty-six hours on written application therefor, for each particu-

14. U.S.—Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co. v. U. S., C.C.A.Mich., 248 F. 905, 907, 161 C.C.A. 23.
"The substantive offense is not the carrying of cattle in Canada, but their detention in the United States for such time as makes a total continuous confinement in excess of the statutory period. The act is thus violated in spite of the fact that a part of the confinement necessary to make up the statutory period had occurred in Canada."—Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co. v U. S., supra.

15. U.S.—Grand Trunk R. Co. of Canada v U. S., N.Y., 191 F. 803, 112 C.C.A. 317—U. S. v Lehigh Valley R Co., C.C.N.Y., 184 F. 971, affirmed 187 F. 1006, 109 C.C.A. 211.

16. U.S.—Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co. v. U. S., Mich., 248 F. 905, 161 C.C.A. 23.
10 C.J. p 588 note 49.

17. U.S.—U. S. v. Terminal R. Ass'n of St. Louis, C.C.A.Ill., 296 F. 466—U. S. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., C.C.A.Colo., 293 F. 185.
10 C.J. p 588 note 50.

No part of line of road
It has apparently been held, however, that a railroad, whose line connected with one over which the stock was being shipped, but formed no part of the through route, and was used merely to transport the cars from the through line to a stockyard for unloading, did not form "any part of a line of road" over which the cattle were to be conveyed from one state to another, within the terms of the statute.—U. S. v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry Co., D.C.Ohio, 262 F. 775.

18. U.S.—U. S. v. Sioux City Stock Yards Co., C.C.Iowa, 162 F. 556, affirmed 167 F. 126, 92 C.C.A. 578.

19. U.S.—U. S. v Harris, D.C.Pa., 78 F. 290, affirmed 85 F. 533, 29 C.C.A. 327.

20. U.S.—U. S. v. Northern Pac Terminal Co., C.C.Or., 186 F. 947.
Circumstances under which connecting carrier is liable see supra § 484 b.

21. U.S.—U. S. v. Philadelphia & R. R. Co., D.C.Pa., 223 F. 207, 210.

22. U.S.—U. S. v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., C.C.Idaho, 160 F. 526.

lar shipment, by the shipper, his agent, or the person in custody of the shipment.

Under a provision contained in the statute that on the written request of the owner or person in custody of the particular shipment, which written request must be separate and apart from any printed bill of lading or other railroad form, the time of confinement may be extended to thirty-six hours, the carrier cannot be held liable to a penalty where such request is made, unless it has continuously transported the stock for a period exceeding thirty-six hours.[23] In the construction of this provision it has been held that a legal request under the statute may be made by the authorized agent of the owner of the particular shipment, or by the person in custody of the particular shipment.[24] There is a legal presumption that one to whom an owner of animals has intrusted their possession for delivery to a railroad company for shipment is authorized to make the request, and a railroad relying on this presumption cannot be held knowingly to have violated the law by confining animals for more than twenty-eight and less than thirty-six hours without knowledge of any defect in the agent's authority.[25]

The request may be printed, engraved, or stamped, or partly printed, engraved, or stamped and partly in handwriting, or it may be made on or in a railroad form separate and apart from a bill of lading or other railroad form than the one which contains the request alone;[26] nor is it necessary that it be written on a virgin sheet; it is effective if written at the bottom of a waybill and signed by the shipper.[27]

Such a request may be made, although it is not induced by any emergency or contingency that arises after the transportation commences and that was unforeseen at that time, and it may be made before the transportation commences.[28] To justify the confinement of cattle for more than twenty-eight hours without unloading, however, it is essential that the shipper should file a written request with each shipment; he may not file a single request applicable to all future shipments of his cattle.[29]

c. Accidental or Unavoidable Causes

Under a provision of the Twenty-Eight-Hour Law to that effect, liability for noncompliance is excused where caused by storm or other accidental or unavoidable causes which could not be anticipated or avoided by the exercise of due diligence.

Under an express provision of the statute to that effect, the carrier is excused from liability for a penalty for confinement of animals for more than twenty-eight hours, if it is prevented from complying with the statute by storm or other accidental or unavoidable causes which could not be anticipated or avoided by the exercise of due diligence and foresight.[30] An "accidental or unavoidable cause" within the meaning of the statute is one which cannot be avoided by that degree of prudence, foresight, care, and caution which the law requires of everyone under the circumstances of the particular case.[31] This does not include accidents to the train through the negligence of the carrier or its servants,[32] the negligence of servants in violation of the carrier's rules,[33] great and unusual stress of business,[34] breakdowns or wrecks which reasonable diligence and foresight could have avoided,[35] the sidetracking of the train to allow passage of other trains, the necessity of which could have been anticipated,[36] nor the failure of the carrier to provide unloading stations.[37] It does, however, include an accident to the train which could not reasonably have been anticipated and avoided,[38] such as the

23. U.S.—U. S. v Pere Marquette R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 171 F. 586.

24. U.S.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Kan., 178 F. 15, 101 C.C.A. 143—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Kan., 178 F. 12, 101 C.C.A. 140—Wabash R. Co. v. U. S., Mo., 178 F. 5, 101 C.C.A. 133, 21 Ann.Cas. 819.
10 C.J. p. 589 note 63.

25. U.S.—Wabash R. Co. v. U. S., supra

26. U.S.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Kan., 178 F. 15, 101 C.C.A. 143—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Mo., 178 F. 12, 101 C.C.A. 140—Wabash R. Co. v. U. S., Kan., 178 F. 5, 101 C.C.A. 133, 21 Ann.Cas. 819.
10 C.J. p. 589 note 66.

27. U.S.—Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., C.C.A.-Ill., 209 F. 605, 126 C.C.A. 427.

28. U.S.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Kan., 178 F. 15, 101 C.C.A. 143—Atchison, etc. R. Co. v. U. S., Mo., 178 F. 12, 101 C.C.A. 140—Wabash R. Co. v. U. S., Kan., 178 F. 5, 101 C.C.A. 133, 21 Ann.Cas. 819.

29. U.S.—U. S. v. Pere Marquette R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 171 F. 586

30. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 38 S.Ct. 351, 246 U.S. 512, 62 L.Ed. 859, reversing 234 F. 268, 148 C.C.A. 170—U. S. v. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. Ry. Co., D.C.Iowa, 245 F. 179
10 C.J. p. 589 note 71

31. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 38 S.Ct. 351, 246 U.S. 512, 62 L.Ed. 859, reversing 234 F. 268, 148 C.C.A. 170.
10 C.J. p. 589 note 72

32. U.S.—U. S. v Southern Pac. Co., D.C.Cal., 157 F. 459

33. U.S.—U. S. v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., Va., 173 F. 764, 98 C.C.A. 110—Montana Cent. R. Co. v. U. S., Mont., 164 F. 400, 90 C.C.A. 388

34. U.S.—U. S. v. Union Pac. R. Co., Wyo., 169 F. 65, 68, 94 C.C.A. 433—U. S. v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., D.C.Ill., 166 F. 160—U. S. v. Southern Pac. Co., D.C.Cal., 157 F. 459.
10 C.J. p. 589 note 75.

35. U.S.—U. S. v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., D.C.Ill., 166 F. 160.

36. U.S.—U. S. v Southern Pac. Co., D.C.Cal., 157 F. 459.

37. U.S.—U. S. v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., D.C.Ill., 166 F. 160—U. S. v. Southern Pac. Co., D.C.Cal., 157 F. 459

38. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 38 S.Ct. 351, 352, 246 U.S. 512, 62 L.Ed. 859, reversing 234 F. 268, 148 C.C.A. 170.
10 C.J. p. 590 note 79.
"If in the exercise of ordinary existence of a heavy snowstorm.[39] The carrier is warranted in putting animals in transit, if in the exercise of ordinary care it reasonably expects them to reach destination or a place to unload, within the prescribed time, and, it is sufficient thereafter if it exercises reasonable diligence and foresight to prevent delays which might unlawfully extend the period of transit.[40]

d. Care of Animals on Cars Obviating Necessity of Unloading

Under a provision of the statute to that effect, the carrier is not required to unload the animals within the specified time if facilities are available for, and the animals are in fact accorded, the necessary care and rest on the cars.

A provision in the statute, that, when animals are carried in cars, boats, or other vessels in which they can and do have proper food, water, space, and opportunity to rest, the provisions in regard to their being unloaded shall not apply, does not relieve the carrier from liability for failure to unload, unless the animals receive the specified care and opportunity for rest.[41] This provision deals with the structure of a car in which animals are transported, without taking into account the habits of animals.[42] Where a car is so constructed,[43] or so overloaded,[44] that the animals transported therein have no opportunity to rest by lying down, the carrier, to avoid liability, must unload them, for "opportunity to rest" means opportunity to lie down. To bring the case within the provision, the carrier must show not only that the animals can have the supplies specified but that they are in fact accorded them.[45]

e. Time Expiring at Night

Under a provision of the statute to that effect, if the twenty-eight hour limit expires at night, the carrier may without the consent of the owner or custodian continue the transit of sheep to a suitable place for unloading, without liability, except that in no case can it exceed the thirty-six hour limit.

The provision contained in the statute, that it shall not be required that sheep be unloaded in the nighttime, but that, where the time expires in the night, in case of sheep, the same may be kept in transit to a suitable place for unloading, subject to the thirty-six-hour limitation, is not void for uncertainty.[46] Its meaning is that, in case of sheep, if the twenty-eight-hour limit expires at night, the transit may be continued to a suitable place for unloading, without the consent of the owner or custodian, except that in no case shall the thirty-six-hour limit be exceeded.[47]

§ 488. Computation of Time

In estimating the time of confinement, the time consumed in loading and unloading is not to be considered; but the time during which the animals were confined on connecting lines is to be included. The time of confinement of the animals is deemed to continue until they are properly unloaded and cared for.

Under express provisions of the statute to that effect, in estimating the time of confinement, the time consumed in loading and unloading is not to be considered,[48] but the time during which the stock has been confined on connecting lines is to be included.[49] It is not essential to the application of the statutory penalty that the time of confinement on the cars by itself be in excess of the period prescribed by the statute; the period of confinement is deemed to continue, notwithstanding that the an-care, prudence and foresight the carrier reasonably expects that following the determined schedule the containing car will reach destination or some unloading place within the prescribed time it properly may be put in transit. Thereafter the duty is on the carrier to exercise the diligence and foresight which prudent men, experienced in such matters, would adopt to prevent accidents and delays and to overcome the effect of any which may happen—with an honest purpose always to secure unloading within the lawful period. If, notwithstanding all this, unloading is actually prevented by storm or accident the reasonable delay must be excused"—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. U. S., supra.

39. U.S.—U. S. v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co., D.C.Pa., 223 F. 202.

40. U.S.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 38 S.Ct. 351, 246 U.S. 512, 62 L.Ed. 859, reversing 234 F. 268, 148 C.C.A. 170.

41. U.S.—U. S. v. Powell, C.C.A.Va., 65 F.2d 793.

42. U.S.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Finch, D.C.N.D., 225 F. 676.

Habit of horses not to lie down.

Where cars were so constructed as not to permit horses to lie down, the provision is not complied with, and it is no defense that it is not the habit of horses to lie down while being transported in cars.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Finch, D.C.N.D., 225 F. 676.

43. U.S.—Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Finch, supra.

44. U.S.—U. S. v. Powell, C.C.A.Va., 65 F.2d 793.
10 C.J. p. 590 note 83 [b].

45. U.S.—Erie R. Co. v. U. S., N.Y., 200 F. 406, 118 C.C.A. 558, affirming U. S. v. Erie R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 191 F. 941.
10 C.J. p. 590 note 83.

46. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. U. S., Cal., 171 F. 360, 96 C.C.A. 256, affirming, D.C., 162 F. 412.

47. U.S.—U. S. v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., Kan., 185 F. 105, 107 C.C.A. 323—Southern Pac. Co. v. U. S., Cal., 171 F. 360, 96 C.C.A. 256, affirming, D.C., 162 F. 412—U. S. v. Atchison, etc., R. Co., D.C.Ill., 166 F. 160.

48. U.S.—U. S. v. Northern Pac. Terminal Co., C.C.Or., 186 F. 947—U. S. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., C.C.N.Y., 184 F. 971, affirmed 187 F. 1006, 109 C.C.A. 211.
10 C.J. p. 590 note 87.

49. U.S.—Grand Trunk Western Ry. Co. v. U. S., Mich., 248 F. 905, 161 C.C.A. 23
10 C.J. p. 590 note 88.
Liability of connecting carrier for confinement commenced by prior carriers see supra § 484 b.

imals are removed from the cars, until they are unloaded into suitable pens, and there fed, watered, and rested as required by the statute.[50]

§ 489. Actions

Proceedings to recover penalties for violation of the Twenty-Eight-Hour Law are civil and not criminal in nature, and are governed by the usual rules as to actions for penalties.

Proceedings to recover penalties for violation of the Twenty-Eight-Hour Law are civil and not criminal in their nature,[51] and the same strict rules of construction and of evidence which are applied in criminal prosecutions are not applicable.[52]

Jurisdiction and venue. In as much as the action is civil in its nature, the clause of the Twenty-Eight-Hour Law which authorizes the action to be brought in the federal court of the district where the violation may have been committed, or the person or the corporation resides or carries on business, is not in violation of the provision of the federal constitution declaring that in criminal cases the accused shall be entitled to a trial in the district where the crime has been committed.[53]

Pleading. The complaint must state the length of time live stock was confined without food, water, and rest,[54] and must allege that the act for which the penalty is sought to be imposed was done "knowingly and willfully,"[55] as otherwise it is fatally defective for failing to state an offense. It is not necessary, however, that the complaint should negative the matters of excuse designated by the statute,[56] as these are matters of defense to be alleged by the carrier,[57] and hence an allegation in the declaration negativing their existence is surplusage and need not be proved.[58] Where the complaint alleges that defendant carrier participated in the transportation of a shipment made in violation of the Twenty-Eight-Hour Law, and it does not appear on the face of it that the carrier could not have done so, it is not demurrable on that ground.[59] A complaint describing defendant as "lessee" of the road, and otherwise following the language of the statute is sufficient after verdict, although it does not expressly allege that defendant was at the time operating the road.[60] An allegation that a shipment of live stock was made to a consignee in a particular city, is to be construed as including the transportation to the point of final delivery to the consignee within the city, and not merely to the city limits.[61]

Evidence. Plaintiff in an action to recover the penalty prescribed by the statute must prove that the animals were knowingly and willfully confined beyond the period specified in the statute;[62] that is to say, he must show that the violation was purposely and obstinately done, and that the carrier had a free will or choice and intentionally disregarded the terms of the statute, or as plainly indifferent to its requirements.[63] Plaintiff, however, is not required to prove the nonexistence of accidental or unavoidable causes which might have prevented a compliance with the requirements of the statute and which could not have been anticipated by the exercise of diligence and foresight, as such causes are matters of defense to be proved by defendant carrier.[64] The burden is on a connecting carrier which has received stock already confined

50. U.S.—U. S. v. Railway Express Agency, D.C.N.Y., 10 F.Supp. 259—U. S. v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., D.C.Idaho, 218 F. 868—U. S. v. Lehigh Valley R. Co., C.C.A.N.J., 204 F. 705.

51. U.S.—New York Cent., etc., R., Co. v. U. S., Mass., 165 F. 833, 91 C.C.A. 519
10 C.J. p 590 note 89.

52. U.S.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Kan., 178 F. 15, 101 C.C.A. 143
10 C.J. p 590 note 90.

53. U.S.—Southern Pac. Co. v. U. S., Cal., 171 F. 364, 96 C.C.A. 256, affirming, D.C., U. S. v. Southern Pac. Co., 162 F. 412

54. U.S.—U. S. v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., D.C.Idaho, 218 F. 868.

55. U.S.—U. S. v. Union Stockyards Co. of Omaha, C.C.A.Neb., 291 F. 366.
10 C.J. p 591 note 93.

56. U.S.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Neb., 195 F. 241, 115 C.C.A. 193
10 C.J. p 591 note 94

57. U.S.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Mass., 165 F. 833, 91 C.C.A. 519.

58. U.S.—Grand Trunk R. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 229 F. 116, 143 C.C.A. 392.

59. U.S.—U. S. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., C.C.A.Colo., 293 F. 185

60. U.S.—New York Cent., etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Mass., 165 F. 833, 91 C.C.A. 519

61. U.S.—U. S. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co., C.C.A.Colo., 293 F. 185.

62. U.S.—U. S. v. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. Ry. Co., D.C.Iowa, 245 F. 179.

Evidence held insufficient

Evidence not showing that defendant knew or could have known for what period of time the cattle had been held in the cars by connecting carriers before delivery to defendant without having been unloaded for food, water, and rest, and showing that defendant handled the shipments after they came into its hands with all possible diligence, was insufficient to show that defendant knowingly and willfully violated the act.—U. S. v. Union Stockyards Co. of Omaha, C.C.A.Neb., 291 F. 366

63. U.S.—U. S. v. Baldwin, D.C.Neb., 17 F.Supp. 789.

64. U.S.—U. S. v. Chicago, St. P., M. & O. Ry. Co., D.C.Iowa, 245 F. 179—U. S. v. Boston & M. R. R., D.C.Mass., 21 F.Supp. 673.
10 C.J. p 591 note 98.

Sufficiency of evidence

(1) Evidence that railroad received sheep at Mechanicville, N. Y., on December 10, with knowledge that sheep, which shipper had agreed might be confined thirty-six hours, had been confined by connecting carrier almost twenty-four hours, and, approximately three hours later and during snowstorm, started sheep on journey having scheduled running for a period longer than that allowed by statute to show that it acted with reasonable promptness in removing the car to its nearest unloading point and in commencing to unload.[65] Plaintiff is required to establish its case only by a preponderance of the evidence as in other civil cases, and not beyond a reasonable doubt as in criminal cases.[66]

Trial. Instructions on a theory which there is no evidence to support are properly refused.[67] The legality of written requests for an extension of time of the confinement of cattle is a question of law for the court.[68] Whether facts amounting to a violation of the statute are shown to exist is a question for the jury.[69]

§ 490. Amount and Computation of Penalties

The court has the duty to fix the amount of the penalty within the limits specified by the statute.

Where there has been a verdict in favor of the government, the duty devolves on the court to fix the amount of the penalty by judgment, within the limits specified by the statute, at not less than one hundred dollars, and not more than five hundred dollars, for each violation of its provisions.[70] The unit of offense for which a separate penalty may be imposed is neither the individual animal, nor the carload,[71] nor the trainload, nor the individual shipment; it is the whole number of animals loaded at one time and as to which the time for unloading expires at the same time, every failure to unload any animals being a complete offense when the time for so doing has expired.[72] The time of confinement of live stock beyond the period fixed by the statute is not material in determining the number of the penalties or the amount thereof, unless it is for another period of the length designated by the statute.[73] The unloading of stock into improperly equipped pens after they have been confined in transit beyond the prescribed time does not constitute a new offense; it is merely a part of the prior unlawful confinement, which, as stated in § 488 supra, is deemed to continue until the stock is unloaded into suitable pens and properly cared for.[74] Although, as stated in § 484 supra, it is not a defense that a carrier has instructed its employees to comply strictly with the Twenty-Eight-Hour Law, such instructions have a bearing on the question of the amount of penalty which the court should impose.[75] Even though there is no intentional violation of the statute, the carrier may be guilty of such negligence as to call for the imposition of more than the minimum penalty for a second violation.[76]

§ 491. State Legislation

Under a statute imposing penalties on a carrier if it fails to feed and water stock in transit, unless this duty is shifted by contract to the shipper, the penalty cannot be enforced if the shipper contracts to care for the stock, notwithstanding that the carrier fails to furnish facilities therefor; nor is a carrier liable for the failure of its connecting carrier to care for the stock.

A statute, providing that a common carrier which conveys live stock shall feed and water the same during the time of conveyance and until delivery to time of nine and one-half hours but actual running time ordinarily, of not more than eight and one-half hours, that sheep were cut from train before reaching destination, and that, because of inadequate facilities, only part of sheep were unloaded before expiration of thirty-six hours authorized recovery of penalty for violation of statute prohibiting willful confinement of sheep over thirty-six hours without unloading for rest, water, and feeding, unless prevented by storm or other accidental or unavoidable causes—U. S. v. Boston & M. R. R., D.C.Mass., 21 F.Supp. 671.

(2) Evidence established that breaking of train drawbars, which delayed shipment of sheep beyond thirty-six hour period agreed to by shipper for their confinement, was an "accidental and unavoidable cause" of delay, so as to excuse railroad from payment of statutory penalty for confinement of sheep over thirty-six hours.—U. S. v. Boston & M. R. R., D.C.Mass., 21 F.Supp. 673.

65. U.S.—U. S. v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 220 F. 944, motion for additional findings granted Delaware, L. & W. R. Co. v. U. S., 39 S.Ct. 67

66. U.S.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Kan., 178 F. 15, 101 C.C.A. 143. 10 C.J. p 591 note 1.

67. U.S.—Oregon-Washington R., etc., Co. v. U. S., Idaho, 205 F. 341, 123 C.C.A. 475

68. U.S.—Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Kan., 178 F. 15, 101 C.C.A. 143.

69. U.S.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. U. S., Kan., 178 F. 12, 101 C.C.A. 140.

Evidence held sufficient to go to jury

U.S.—Chicago & N. W. Ry. Co. v. U. S., Ill., 234 F. 268, 148 C.C.A. 170, reversed on other grounds 38 S.Ct. 351, 246 U.S. 512, 62 L.Ed. 859.

10 C.J. p 591 note 4 [a].

70. U.S.—U. S. v. Southern Pac. Co., D.C.Cal., 162 F. 412, affirmed Southern Pac. Co. v. U. S., 171 F. 360, 364, 96 C.C.A. 252, 256—U. S. v. Boston & A. R. Co., D.C.Mass., 15 F. 209.

71. U.S.—Baltimore, & O. S. W. R. Co. v. U. S., Ohio, 31 S.Ct. 368, 220 U.S. 94, 55 L.Ed. 384—Southern Pac. Co. v. U. S., Cal., 171 F. 360, 96 C.C.A. 252, affirming, D.C., U. S. v. Southern Pac. Co., 162 F. 412—U. S. v. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co., D.C.Mo., 107 F. 870

72. U.S.—Baltimore & O. S. W. R. Co. v. U. S., Ohio, 31 S.Ct. 368, 220 U.S. 94, 55 L.Ed. 384, modifying and affirming 159 F. 33, 86 C.C.A. 223.

10 C.J. p 591 notes 10–12.

73. U.S.—U. S. v. Sioux City Stock Yards Co., C.C.Iowa, 162 F. 556, affirmed 167 F. 126, 92 C.C.A. 578.

74. U.S.—U. S. v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., D.C.Idaho, 218 F. 868.

75. U.S.—U. S. v. Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., D.C.N.Y., 220 F. 944, motion granted for additional findings Delaware, L. & W. R. Co., 39 S.Ct. 67.

76. U.S.—U. S. v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., supra.

10 C.J. p 592 note 15.

the consignee, unless otherwise provided by special contract, and imposing a penalty on the carrier for violation of its provisions of not less than five dollars and not more than five hundred dollars, to be recovered by the owner of the live stock, does not authorize the recovery of the penalty for failure or refusal to feed and water the stock, where the shipper has contracted to do so, although it fails to furnish him with the facilities for so doing.[77] A carrier cannot be charged with the statutory penalty for its connecting carrier's failure to feed and water the stock, since the statute applies only to the carrier which fails to care for the stock in its possession in transit.[78] Under the statute, suit may be brought for less than the maximum penalty.[79]

Actions. In as much as the body of the act that creates the offense contains an exception relieving the carrier from liability to feed and water, if there is a special contract to that effect a petition in an action to recover the penalty must negative this exception.[80] It is not necessary to allege that a demand that the stock be watered was made on any particular agent.[81] In an action to recover the penalty, a written statement as to the condition of the stock, signed by the person who had charge of it on behalf of the owner, not being contractual in its nature, is important only as evidence and is not one to be considered by the court.[82] An instruction which authorizes a recovery without a finding negativing the existence of a special contract exempting the carrier from the duty to feed is affirmatively erroneous.[83]

§ 492. Overcharge

State statutes imposing penalties on carriers for overcharges are valid, as applied to intra-state shipments, and authorize recovery of the penalty if an overcharge is intentionally exacted, except where such charge is made in good faith under claim of right, or by accident or mistake.

Statutes which impose penalties on common carriers of goods for overcharges made for transportation, have generally been held to be valid.[84] State statutes of this nature can have no application to interstate transportation.[85] In accordance with the usual rule, already stated in § 452, these statutes are subject to strict construction.[86]

It is essential to the recovery of the penalty that plaintiff bring himself clearly within the terms of the statute.[87] Generally, the statutes are violated where an amount is demanded in excess of that fixed by statute or by a regulation of the railroad commission governing rates and is not innocently or unintentionally collected.[88] If the statute imposes a penalty for a "willful" violation, it is sufficient to render the carrier liable that there be an intentional failure to comply therewith.[89] However, there can be no recovery of a penalty under such a provision, on proof of an overcharge due merely to an accident or mistake.[90] It has also been held, under other statutes, that the carrier is not liable to a penalty for an overcharge made in good faith under the belief that it had the right to make the charge,[91] or for an overcharge made without malicious purpose or intentional miscon-

77. Tex.—Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Brown, 85 S.W. 44, 37 Tex.Civ.App 595.
10 C.J. p 592 note 19
Contract without consideration
Where a special contract is made, whereby the shipper undertakes to feed and water the stock, the fact that no reduction is made in the freight does not render the contract void for want of consideration and make the carrier liable for the penalty.—Texas, etc, R. Co. v. Peters, 71 S.W. 70, 31 Tex.Civ.App. 6

78. Tex.—Gulf, C & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Pearce, Civ.App, 105 S.W.2d 770, error refused.

79. Tex.—Houston, etc., R. Co v. Brown, 85 S.W. 44, 37 Tex.Civ.App. 595

80. Tex.—Houston, etc., R Co. v. Brown, supra
10 C.J. p 592 note 21.

81. Tex.—Houston, etc, R. Co. v. Brown, supra.
10 C.J p 592 note 22

82. Tex.—Texas, etc, R. Co. v. Peters, 71 S.W. 70, 31 Tex.Civ.App 6.

83. Tex.—Houston, etc, R Co. v Brown, 85 S.W. 44, 37 Tex.Civ.App 595.

84. Ala.—Mobile & M R Co. v. Steiner, McGehee & Co., 61 Ala. 559.
Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R. R. v. Connell, 149 So. 596, 111 Fla. 572, supplemented 151 So. 381, 111 Fla. 572.
Minn.—State v. Winona & St. P. R Co, 19 Minn 434, Gil 377.
Mo.—Burkholder v. Union Trust Co, 82 Mo. 572.
10 C.J. p 569 note 9.
Actions to recover overcharge not involving recovery of penalty see supra §§ 319–323.
Refusal to adjust or to refund overcharge see infra § 509.
Validity as affected by amount of penalty see infra § 498.

85. Ala.—Mobile, etc, R. Co. v Dismukes, 10 So. 289, 94 Ala 131, 17 L.R.A. 113.
Okl.—Atchison, etc, R. Co. v State, 109 P. 218, 26 Okl. 166.
Prior to the Interstate Commerce Act, such statutes as applied to interstate shipments were valid as police regulations, and not void as being a regulation of interstate commerce—Fuller v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 31 Iowa 187, affirmed 84 U.S. 560, 21 L.Ed. 710.

86. Miss.—Gilliland v Illinois Cent. R Co, 32 So 916, 81 Miss. 41.
10 C.J. p 569 note 12.

87. Tex.—Murray & Bros. v. Gulf, C. & S. F. R Co., 63 Tex. 407, 51 Am R 650

88. Ga.—Stewart v. Comer, 28 S.E 461, 100 Ga. 754, 62 Am S R. 353
10 C.J p 569 note 16

89. Iowa.—Fuller v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 31 Iowa 187.
Word "willful" does not imply malice
Iowa.—Fuller v. Chicago, etc., R. Co, 31 Iowa 187.

90. U.S.—U S. v Texas, etc., R. Co., C.C La., 185 F 820.

91. Fla.—Atlantic Coast Line R R. v. Connell, 149 So. 596, 111 Fla 572, supplemented 151 So 381, 111 Fla. 572.
Shipment from established station
"We think the statute has refer-

duct, and exacted without protest or complaint at the time of payment.[92] Where the statute expressly exempts the carrier from liability for mistakes of fact, it thereby impliedly provides that for mistakes of law it shall not be exempt.[93]

A carrier is excepted from the operation of a statute imposing penalties for overcharges during the prosecution by it in good faith of a suit to determine whether the statute is confiscatory in its operation and effect as applied to such carrier.[94] Likewise, the penalty cannot be imposed for overcharges made by the carrier during the time the lawful rate fixed by the railroad commission was suspended by injunction of a court of competent jurisdiction.[95]

Rate fixed by statute or by commission. According to some authority the carrier is not relieved from liability for making an unreasonable charge by the fact that the rate charged was that fixed by the railroad commissioners under a statute providing that the commissioners shall make a schedule of "reasonable" maximum rates, which shall be prima facie evidence that the rates therein fixed are reasonable.[96] A different rule prevails in other jurisdictions having similarly phrased statutes, it being held that the penalty cannot be recovered from the carrier for exacting unreasonable charges where the charges made were within the limit prescribed by the railroad commission or by the statute;[97] and it has even been held that no liability can attach under a statute penalizing unreasonable charges where the reasonable rate was not as yet fixed by the railroad commission as required by the statute.[98] The approval of the railroad commission of a rate which is in violation of express statutory provision, however, does not preclude the application of the penalty.[99]

What constitutes an overcharge. The carrier may be guilty of an overcharge if it adopts a mode of transportation which involves the payment of a higher rate of freight than that provided for by the contract.[1] The carrier is not liable for an overcharge for exacting the regular transportation rate instead of a lower "switching" rate, where the service rendered is not "switching" within the statute.[2] A carrier obliged to pay a switching charge to a connecting carrier may require the shipper to pay such charge in addition to the regular rate ence to overcharges made intentionally or arbitrarily for shipments from station to station and would have no application to charges imposed as in this case, under the impression that Connell, the shipping point, was regularly established as a station and that the railroad company had a right to make the charge. If the railroad commission had decided that Connell was a legally established shipping point and the rate legal, there would have been no basis for the action. This being true, and the right of recovery being dependent on this question, certainly no penalty accrued prior to the railroad commission's decision."—Atlantic Coast Line R. R. v. Connell, 149 So 596, 111 Fla 572, supplemented 151 So 381, 111 Fla. 572.

92. Mich.—Gorham Bros. Co. v. Ann Arbor R Co., 200 N.W. 287, 228 Mich. 273

93. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Sabine Tram Co., 121 S.W. 256, 61 Tex Civ App. 353.
10 C.J. p 570 note 32.

94. W.Va.—Coal, etc., R. Co. v. Conely, 67 S.E. 613, 67 W.Va 129.

95. Mich.—Fletcher Paper Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 164 N.W. 528, 198 Mich. 469, affirmed Detroit & M. R. Co. v. Fletcher Paper Co., 39 S.Ct. 13, 248 U.S. 30, 63 L.Ed. 107.

96. In Iowa
(1) The rule stated in the text has been enunciated in an action to recover treble damages under a provision of the statute imposing such a penalty. The reason for this rule has been stated as follows: The statute "does not operate to the prejudice of the company, if the commissioners shall err in judgment, and fix a rate less than what is reasonable. It seems to us that the section has the same force and effect as to both parties. If the commissioners err in judgment, and fix a rate too high to be reasonable, why should the shipper be required to pay it, or the company, if it receive it, be permitted to keep it? It will be seen that § 17, when carefully read, does not attempt to deal with facts or conditions that are conclusive, but those that are prima facie only. Largely, its office is to fix a rule of evidence"—Barris v. Chicago, etc., R Co., 71 N.W. 339, 102 Iowa 375, 378, 63 Am.S R. 449

(2) It was said, however, in reference to enforcement of the penalty under another provision of the statute that "in prosecutions to recover penalties for the violation of the statute, the state is precluded from alleging that the commissioners' rates are unreasonable"—Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Dey, 48 N.W. 98, 105, 82 Iowa 312, 31 Am.S.R 477, 12 L. R.A. 436.

97. U.S.—Winsor Coal Co. v. Chicago, etc., R Co., C.C.Mo., 52 F 716.

98. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Peo., 77 Ill. 443.
Mo.—Scammon v Kansas City, etc., R. Co, 41 Mo App. 194.
10 C J p 569 note 15.

99. Mo.—McGrew v. Missouri Pac. R. Co, 94 S W. 719, 118 Mo App. 379.

Higher rate for shorter haul
Mo.—McGrew v. Missouri Pac. R. Co, 94 S.W. 719, 118 Mo App. 379.

1. Ga.—Stewart v. Comer, 28 S.E. 461, 100 Ga 754, 62 Am.S.R. 353.
What contitutes an overcharge generally see supra § 321.

2. Ohio.—Cincinnati, N. O. & T P. R. Co. v. J. B. Doppes' Sons Lumber Co., 21 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 49.

Complete shipment within terminal limit
In an action against a carrier for a penalty for an overcharge with respect to the moving of cars between points within the same city, on the ground that this was a switching service for which a lower rate was prescribed by statute, no penalty could be collected, where the lower rate was inapplicable; the word, "switching," as used in the statute, applies only to movements within the city terminal limits when incidental to the entire transportation, and it has no application to complete shipments from one railway to another within the terminal limits of the city.—Cincinnati, N. O & T. P. R. Co. v. J. B. Doppes' Sons Lumber Co., 21 Ohio Cir.Ct.,N.S., 49.

without liability to the penalty,[3] even where the switching charge is excessive.[4] A carrier having no siding where a patron desired to have goods hauled may demand extra compensation before undertaking the service and is not subject to a penalty for a rate in excess of its schedule for the station beyond.[5] Under a statute imposing a penalty for charging over a certain rate per hundred pounds of freight, the carrier is not obliged to apportion its charge for freight weighing less than a hundred pounds, and its charge of the statutory maximum for shipments of lesser weight does not subject it to the penalty.[6]

§ 493. Effect of Statutes on Right to Recover Damages

Some statutes imposing penalties therefor have been held to take away the common-law right to recover for overcharges, while other statutes are held not to have such an effect.

Some statutes authorizing shippers to recover for an overcharge, a penalty of a fixed specified sum,[7] or of a number of times the amount of the overcharge,[8] have been held not to take away the common-law right of action to recover the amount in excess of the lawful charge, treated in §§ 319–323 supra. Other statutes permitting the shipper to recover a number of times the amount of the overcharge, plus attorney's fees and costs, have been held to supersede the common-law remedy.[9]

§ 494. Defenses

It is not a defense to recovery of the penalty that the shipper has a remedy for breach of contract, or that the charges were paid at a point other than that of shipment; but the carrier may show that it might lawfully have charged more than it did. There is a conflict of authority as to whether the fact that payment by the shipper is made without protest precludes recovery of the penalty.

It is no defense to an action to recover penalties for overcharges that there was a special contract between the shipper and the carrier to fix rates, and that the shipper has a remedy by action for breach of contract;[10] nor is it a defense that the shipper did not pay the charges at the point of shipment, but at another station.[11] Defendant is not estopped from showing that it might lawfully have charged more than it actually did charge,[12] and a custom to make no additional charge for hauling to certain docks does not estop the carrier from asserting that the city and the docks are different places justifying an additional charge.[13]

Voluntary payment. There is some conflict of opinion as to the effect of payment without protest by the shipper. According to some decisions, if the payment is made without protest an action to recover the penalty will for that reason be barred.[14] Other authority holds that the right of action to recover the penalty is not affected by the fact that the excessive charges were paid without protest and with full knowledge of the facts.[15] Where an excess of freight charged over the rates specified in the bill of lading is paid under protest, such payment is not voluntary so as to preclude a recovery.[16]

§ 495. Conditions Precedent to Action

Statutory conditions precedent to an action for a penalty for an overcharge by a carrier of goods must be met.

Where the statutes require the shipper to file a written demand or notice of claim for overcharge with the carrier, there can be no recovery of a penalty for overcharge, unless there is a compliance with the requirements of the statutes.[17] The claim need not be accompanied by the bill of lading.[18] Several overcharges may be claimed in the same written demand.[19]

In the absence of any statute expressly or by implication requiring that complaint shall be made to the railroad commission before bringing suit, such action on the part of the shipper is not a condition precedent to an action for a penalty.[20]

3. Miss.—Gilliland v. Illinois Cent. R Co, 32 So. 916, 81 Miss 41

4. Okl.—Atchison, etc, R. Co. v. State, 109 P. 218, 26 Okl. 166.

5. Or—Schanen-Blair Co. v. Southern Pac. Co., 136 P. 886, 68 Or 106.

6. Tex.—Murray & Bro. v. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. R. Co., 63 Tex. 407, 51 Am.R. 650
10 C J. p 569 note 12 [a] (1).

7. Iowa—Fuller v Chicago, etc., R Co, 31 Iowa 187
10 C.J. p 569 note 22 [a]

8. Wis—Graham v Chicago, etc., R Co, 5 N W. 944, 49 Wis. 532—Smith v. Chicago, etc, R. Co., 5 N.W. 240, 49 Wis. 443.

9. U.S—Winsor Coal Co. v. Chicago & A. R. Co., C.C.Mo., 52 F. 716.
Kan—Beadle v. Kansas City, etc, R. Co., 32 P. 910, 51 Kan. 248.
10 C.J. p 569 note 23.

10. Mo.—Reynolds v. Chicago R. Co, 85 Mo. 90
10 C.J. p 570 note 27.

11. Tex.—San Antonio, etc., R. Co v. Bracht, Civ App, 163 S W 376

12. N J.—McGregor v. Erie R. Co, 35 N.J Law 115.

13. Tex.—Texarkana, etc., R Co. v. Sabine Tram Co., Civ App., 129 S W. 198.

14. S C—Stallings v. Southern R Co, 75 S E. 449, 92 S.C. 290—Hardaway v. Southern R. Co., 73 S.E. 1020, 90 S C. 475, 489, Ann.Cas 1913D 266.
10 C J p 570 note 35.

15. Wis.—Streeter v. Chicago, etc., R Co, 40 Wis 294.
10 C J p 570 note 36

16. Ala.—Southern R. Co. v. Anniston Fdy, etc., Co., 33 So 274, 135 Ala. 315

17. Tex.—Sabine, etc., R. Co. v. Cruse, 18 S W 755, 83 Tex. 460.
10 C J. p 570 note 39.

18. Tex.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Rains, 3 Tex A.Civ.Cas § 66.
10 C J. p 570 note 40

19. N C.—Efland v. Southern R. Co., 59 S E 359, 355, 146 N.C. 129, 135.

20. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Sa-

§ 496. · Who Liable

A carrier is not liable for an overcharge made by a connecting carrier to which it transfers freight, even where such charge is collected by itself. Receivers of a carrier are not liable to the penalty.

Where the statute provides a penalty against any railroad company exacting higher rates than the maximum rates fixed by statute, a company which receives freight and delivers it to a connecting carrier is not liable for a penalty because of an overcharge by the latter company,[21] although the first company collects the amount from the shipper.[22] Receivers are not within the terms of the statute imposing a penalty on railroad companies for making excessive charges for freight.[23]

§ 497. · Actions

The usual rules as to actions for penalties apply.

An action to recover a penalty from a carrier of goods for an overcharge is governed by the usual rules as to actions to enforce penalties, as discussed in C.J.S. title Penalties §§ 7–18, also 25 C.J. p 1181 note 46–p 1213 note 78.

Jurisdiction and venue. Under a statute conferring a remedy by judicial action for an overcharge, a court has jurisdiction of an action for the recovery of the penalty therein provided for, and the shipper is not restricted to relief by application to the state railroad commission or to the interstate commerce commission.[24] Where it is provided by statute that an action for a penalty shall be brought in the county where the cause of action arose, and that an action against a railroad on a liability as carrier may be brought in any county through which the road passes, an action to recover a penalty for overcharge may be brought in a county through which the road runs, although the overcharge was not made there.[25]

Parties. Under a statute requiring an action for the penalty to be brought by the railroad commission in the name of the state, the state is the real party in interest.[26] Under a statute conferring the right of action on the "party aggrieved," the shipper who has been compelled to pay the overcharge may maintain the action for the recovery of the penalty.[27]

Time to sue. It has been held that actions based on statutes of the character under consideration are governed by the statutes of limitations applicable to penal actions.[28] No penalty can be recovered in an action brought after the expiration of the period of limitation provided for such actions.[29]

Pleading. To authorize a recovery of a penalty for overcharge the allegations of the complaint must bring the case clearly within the provisions of the statute.[30] Ordinarily, a complaint or declaration which follows the language of the statute will suffice,[31] although it fails to negative statutory exceptions to liability.[32] If the statutes provide a penalty for a charge in excess of a schedule of rates established as provided by law, the declaration must show that such rates had been established and that the freight charge was in excess of that rate,[33] bine Tram Co., 121 S.W. 256, 61 Tex.Civ.App. 353.

21. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Adair, App., 14 S.W. 1076.

22. Okl.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. State, 109 P. 218, 26 Okl. 166.

23. Tex.—Campbell v. Wiess, Civ. App., 25 S.W. 1076.

24. Ohio.—J. B. Doppes' Sons Lumber Co. v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 14 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 392.

25. Ark.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Miller, 146 S.W. 485, 103 Ark. 151

26. Fla.—State v. Florida R. Co., 68 So. 667, 69 Fla. 564.
10 C.J. p 571 note 44

27. Ohio.—J. B. Doppes' Sons Lumber Co. v. Cleveland, C., C. & St. L. Ry. Co., 14 Ohio N.P.,N.S., 392

28. Iowa.—Baker Wire Co. v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 76 N.W. 665, 106 Iowa 239.

29. Miss.—Gulf & S. I. R. Co. v. Laurel Oil & Fertilizer Co., 160 So. 564, 172 Miss. 630, correcting 159 So. 838, 172 Miss. 630, amending and overruling suggestion of error 158 So. 778, 172 Miss. 630.

30. U.S.—Winsor Coal Co. v. Chicago & A. R. Co., C.C.Mo., 52 F. 716.
Tex.—Sabine, etc., R. Co. v. Cruse, 18 S.W. 755, 83 Tex. 460.
10 C.J. p 571 note 46.

Connecting carriers

If suit is brought against connecting carriers jointly to recover a penalty for overcharge, an averment that defendants' business relations were wholly within their knowledge and that they had colluded to secrete the same to defeat plaintiff and other shippers is sufficiently full and specific.—International, etc., R. Co. v. Pichard, 1 Tex.A.Civ.Cas. §§ 427, 431.—10 C.J. p 571 note 53.

Weight of shipment

(1) A petition seeking recovery of a penalty under a statute construed as not applying to shipments of less than a certain weight, which alleges an overcharge on two packages each under the minimum statutory weight but together over that weight, is defective if it fails to allege that they were sent by one and the same shipment and the same bill of lading.—T. V. Murray & Bro. v. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co., 63 Tex. 407, 51 Am.R. 650.

(2) If the statute makes the carrier liable for a penalty for collecting greater freight charges than those stipulated in the bill of lading, and an action is brought for a penalty for overcharge on a bill of lading containing the clause "weight and transportation subject to correction," it must be alleged that the charges specified therein were based on the actual weight of the freight.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Loonie, 19 S.W. 385, 84 Tex. 259, 261.—Sabine, etc., R. Co. v. Cruse, 18 S.W. 755, 83 Tex. 460

31. Va.—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Pendleton, 11 S.E. 1062, 86 Va. 1004, affirmed 15 S.Ct. 413, 156 U.S. 667, 39 L.Ed. 574
W.Va.—Hart v. Baltimore, etc., R. Co., 6 W.Va. 336
10 C.J. p 571 note 47

32. Va.—Norfolk, etc., R. Co. v. Pendleton, 11 S.E. 1062, 86 Va. 1004, affirmed 15 S.Ct. 413, 156 U.S. 667, 39 L.Ed. 574.

33. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Peo., 77 Ill. 443.
Mo.—McGrew v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 21 S.W. 463, 114 Mo. 210.

or it will be subject to attack by special demurrer.[34] A mere allegation that the charges were unreasonable and extortionate will not suffice.[35]

The defense that an overcharge was unintentional and innocent is a matter which must be pleaded and proved by defendant.[36] A mistake in weight or classification cannot be proved under a general denial,[37] and if the answer shows on its face that the mistake pleaded was due to culpable negligence, it is insufficient.[38]

Evidence. The burden is on plaintiff to prove all the facts necessary to make out a case under the statute providing for the recovery of penalties for overcharges.[39] The burden of proving mistake as a defense is on the carrier.[40] The usual rules applicable generally in civil actions as regards admissibility[41] and weight and sufficiency[42] apply in actions to recover penalties for overcharge.

Trial. Whether or not a violation of the statute was intentional or was caused by inadvertence or mistake is a question for the jury.[43] Where the evidence is conflicting, a refusal to direct a verdict is proper.[44] Where the petition stated a cause of action and was supported by uncontradicted evidence, the court properly direct a verdict for plaintiff.[45]

§ 498. Amount and Number of Penalties

The amount and number of penalties depend on the terms of the statute.

Where the statute relating to penalties for overcharge provides that all penalties shall be cumulative, a shipper who is compelled to pay excessive freight charges on different shipments may recover a penalty for each separate act of extortion.[46] If the statute imposes two distinct penalties for the same act, and the penalties are not in the alternative, the enforcement of one does not prevent the enforcement of the other.[47]

The fact that the amount of the penalty recoverable is greatly in excess of the overcharge does not render it objectionable, since the penalty is imposed, not to facilitate the collection of claims, but to enforce the performance of the carrier's duties.[48]

Interest. Before judgment the penalty does not bear interest where the statute does not specifically allow it,[49] the liability not being of the character which entitles it to draw interest under the general statutes relating to interest.[50]

§ 499. Preventing Continuous Shipment of Freight

A petition to recover statutory damages for violation

34. Tex.—San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v Bracht, Civ.App., 163 S.W. 376.
10 C.J. p 571 note 50.

35. Ill.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 77 Ill. 443.

36. Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co v. Rutherford, 96 S.W. 73, 43 Tex.Civ.App. 544.

37. Tex.—Ft. Worth, etc, R. Co. v. Lillard, App., 16 S.W. 654.

38. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Smith, 29 S.W. 752, 60 Ark. 221.
10 C.J. p 571 note 56.

39. Ark.—Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Young, 145 S.W. 203, 102 Ark. 599.
10 C.J. p 571 note 57.

Proof of established rate

Where a shipment is intended to be made under the regularly published and established rate, notwithstanding the rate specified in the bill of lading, the shipper in an action to recover a penalty for extortion on the part of the carrier in demanding additional charges, is required to show what the established rate is, and the statement of the rate in the bill of lading would not be evidence of such fact.—Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Guthrie, Tex.Civ.App., 248 S.W. 106.

40. Tex.—San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. Bracht, Civ.App., 163 S.W. 376.

41. Okl.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. State, 109 P. 218, 26 Okl. 166.
10 C.J. p 571 note 58.

Particular evidence held admissible

On information for overcharge, evidence is admissible to show that the order of the corporation commission violated was unjust and unreasonable, in view of Okl.Const. art. 9 § 22, providing that the delinquent or offending party have opportunity to introduce evidence of the validity, justness, or reasonableness of the order or requirement alleged to have been violated.—Atchison, etc., R. Co v. State, 109 P. 218, 26 Okl. 166.

42. Ark.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Summers, 246 S.W. 859, 158 Ark. 643.
10 C.J. p 571 note 60.

Evidence held sufficient

(1) To sustain a verdict for plaintiff.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Summers, 246 S.W. 859, 158 Ark. 643.

(2) To sustain a finding that a rate made by the railroad commission did not apply to the place to which the freight was shipped.—Sabine Tram Co. v. Texarkana, etc., R. Co., 143 S.W. 143, 105 Tex. 32, affirming, Civ.App., 129 S.W. 198.

Evidence held insufficient

(1) To show that defendant carrier operated either jointly or with others, the road which made the overcharge.—Missouri Pac. R. Co. v. Wright, 47 S.W. 557, 65 Ark. 631.

(2) The mere unsworn declaration of defendant's agent that there was an overcharge is insufficient to sustain a finding of an overcharge.—Latta Martin Pump Co. v. Southern Ry. Co., 50 S.E. 686, 138 N.C. 300.

43. Iowa.—Fuller v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 31 Iowa 187.

44. Ark.—Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. v. McClanahan, 235 S.W. 380, 151 Ark. 77.

45. Ga.—Central of Georgia R. Co v. Stephens, 80 S.E. 1044, 141 Ga. 342.

46. Tex.—Texarkana, etc., R. Co. v. Sabine Tram Co., Civ.App., 129 S.W. 198.
10 C.J. p 572 note 63.

47. Iowa.—Herriman v. Burlington, etc., R. Co., 9 N.W. 378, 10 N.W. 340, 57 Iowa 187.
10 C.J. p 572 note 64.

48. Iowa.—Burlington, etc., R. Co. v. Dey, 48 N.W. 98, 82 Iowa 312, 31 Am.S.R. 477, 12 L.R.A. 436.
Kan.—Tucker v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 108 P. 89, 82 Kan. 222.
N.C.—Efland v. Southern R. Co., 59 S.E. 359, 146 N.C. 129.
10 C.J. p 572 note 65.

49. Miss.—Gulf & S. I. R. Co. v. Laurel Oil & Fertilizer Co., 160 So. 564, 172 Miss. 630, correcting 159 So. 838, 172 Miss. 630, amending and overruling suggestion of error 158 So. 778, 172 Miss. 630.

50. Ohio.—Iron R. Co. v. Lawrence Furnace Co., 30 N.E. 616, 49 Ohio St. 102.

of a penal statute forbidding any contract, combination, or agreement to prevent a continuous carriage of freight to destination, must bring the case strictly within the statute.

Statutes forbidding any combination, contract, or agreement to prevent the carriage of freight from being continuous from the place of shipment to the point of destination, and authorizing the recovery of treble damages for violation of the provision, are penal.[51] Accordingly, a petition or a complaint in an action to recover the penalty must bring the case strictly within the letter of the statute, leaving nothing to inference or intendment.[52] A complaint which fails to allege any contract, combination, or agreement to prevent a continuous carriage from the point of shipment to the point of destination is fatally defective.[53]

§ 500. Refusal to Deliver Freight

Where a statute so provides, a carrier of goods may be subject to a penalty for refusing to deliver freight on tender of the legal charges. Actions to recover such penalties are governed by the usual rules.

Statutes which impose a penalty on carriers for refusing to deliver freight on tender of the legal charges, have generally been held to be valid.[54] Such state statutes do not apply to interstate shipments,[55] as to which, they have been superseded and rendered inoperative by the Carmack amendment.[56] Such statutes have no application to a carrier not a party to the bill of lading, which has not carried the goods under the bill of lading and has neither authorized nor accepted it;[57] nor do they ordinarily apply where no charges are due, the same having been prepaid.[58]

To authorize a recovery of the statutory penalty, the party seeking recovery must bring himself strictly within the terms of the statute.[59] Thus, where the statute so provides, it is essential, to fix the liability of the carrier, that the party seeking recovery tender[60] or pay[61] the entire amount of the charges shown to be due by the bill of lading. Under such a provision, the amount of the freight due must be shown by the bill of lading, and there can be no recovery where there are no figures nor data given in the bill of lading and none referred to, from which the amount of freight can be calculated;[62] but there is other authority holding that the penalty is recoverable, notwithstanding the failure of the bill of lading to specify the correct weight of the freight, without which the charges could not be computed, on the ground that the carrier had the duty in such case to weigh the goods within a reasonable time in order to ascertain the amount of the charges.[63] The fact that tender was made under protest does not invalidate it nor does it excuse the carrier's failure to deliver.[64] It is not necessary that the bill of lading be shown at the time of the tender to make the tender effectual, unless its production is demanded.[65] Where no depot was maintained at the point of destination of the goods, and it was customary to deliver freight for that place from a depot at another place, tender of freight charges at such depot, and refusal to deliver, will render the carrier liable for the penalty.[66]

On the ground that the statutory requirements cannot be avoided by making an unreasonable demand on the consignee as a condition precedent to obeying the law, it is not a defense to an action to recover a penalty under this statute that the owner refused to surrender the bill of lading,[67] or to give an indemnity bond in lieu of such surrender.[68] In this respect, it is not material that there is a custom among railroads of requiring surrender of the bill of lading.[69]

51. Iowa.—Clark v. American Express Co., 106 N.W. 642, 130 Iowa 254.

52. Iowa.—Clark v. American Express Co., supra.

53. Iowa.—Clark v. American Express Co., supra.

54. N.C.—Harrill v. Southern R. Co., 57 S.E. 382, 144 N.C. 532.
Tex.—Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Harry, 63 Tex. 256.
10 C.J. p 580 note 20.

55. Tex.—Gulf, C. & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Mathis, Civ.App., 194 S.W. 1135.

56. S.C.—Fennell Infirmary v. Southern R. Co, 85 S.E. 237, 101 S.C. 134.
10 C.J. p 580 note 21.

57. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R Co. v. Dwyer, 19 S.W. 470, 84 Tex. 194.
10 C.J. p 581 note 28.

58. Tex.—Alderson v. Gulf, etc., R Co., Civ.App., 23 S.W. 617.

59. Tex.—Fort Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Brewer, Civ.App., 1 S.W.2d 686.
10 C.J. p 580 note 22.

60. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v Johnson, 13 S.W. 1096, 53 Ark. 282.
10 C.J. p 580 note 23, p 581 note 27.

61. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, supra.

62. Tex.—Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Wood, Civ.App., 23 S.W. 744.
10 C.J. p 580 note 24.

Expense account not part of bill of lading

A shipper who tenders the amount of freight shown by an expense account furnished by the carrier, which was no part of the bill of lading, cannot maintain an action for the penalty.—Schloss v. Atchison, etc., R Co., 22 S.W. 1014, 85 Tex. 601—Texas, etc., R. Co v Wood, Tex.Civ. App., 23 S.W. 744—10 C.J. p 581 note 26.

63. Ark.—Little Rock, etc, R. Co. v. Hanniford, 5 S.W. 294, 49 Ark. 291
10 C.J. p 581 note 25

64. Tex.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Roberts, 22 S.W. 183, 3 Tex.Civ. App. 370.

65. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Dwyer, 12 S.W. 1001, 75 Tex. 572, 16 Am. S.R. 926, 7 L.R.A. 478.

66. Tex.—St. Louis, etc, R. Co. v. McKee, App., 15 S.W. 45.

67. Tex.—Dwyer v. Gulf, etc., R. Co., 7 S.W. 504, 69 Tex. 707—Gulf, etc, R. Co v. McCown, Civ.App., 25 S.W. 435.

68. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. McCown, supra.

69. Tex.—Dwyer v. Gulf, etc., R. Co.,

It is no defense for the carrier to show that its agent did not know the correct charges, because of the carrier's failure to file its schedule of rates.[70]

The sealing of a car by the carrier's agent is not a refusal to deliver goods authorizing recovery of the penalty where the shipper was not seeking at that time to remove them.[71]

Actions. Where by statute a tender of the amount of freight shown by the bill of lading is a condition precedent to recover a penalty for refusal to deliver freight, the petition must allege a tender of the amount of freight charges as shown by the bill of lading,[72] and, if the bill of lading stipulates that the weights named therein are subject to correction, plaintiff must allege that the weights are correct.[73] Under a general denial defendant cannot prove a mistake in the weight or classification, although the bill of lading provides that the rate and classification were subject to correction; such a mistake must be specially pleaded.[74]

The burden is on the carrier to show that its failure to deliver was due to the consignee's failure on request to produce the bill of lading.[75] Where a shipment is intended to be made under the regularly published and established rate, notwithstanding the rate specified in the bill of lading, the shipper in an action to recover the penalty for refusal of the carrier to deliver the goods is required to show what the established rate is, and the statement of the rate in the bill of lading would not be evidence of such fact.[76] Where defendant claimed a higher rate than that fixed by the bill of lading, evidence offered by defendant to show that the shipper offered plaintiff to pay the difference between the amount specified in the bill of lading and that demanded by defendant, which offer plaintiff refused, was properly excluded[77]

An order dismissing a complaint charging a willful refusal to deliver freight, where there is failure merely to support the allegation of willfulness, is error.[78] Where it was admitted by both parties that the bill specified that the weight was subject to correction, and it was claimed by defendant carrier that more was due than tendered, an instruction that the jury could consider evidence as to the true weight only if they believed that such words were in the bill is erroneous, since the burden of proof was on plaintiff to show that he tendered the full amount.[79]

Amount and number of penalties. Under some statutes only one penalty is recoverable on one shipment, although there are several demands for delivery and refusals thereof;[80] by the provisions of other statutes, the penalties are cumulative.[81]

§ 501. Refusal to Give Bill of Lading

Under a statute requiring the carrier to furnish the shipper, on demand, a bill of lading stating the quantity and condition of the goods received, the carrier is not liable to the penalty, where the loading was done by the shipper and the necessary information was withheld from the carrier's agent.

Under a statute imposing a penalty on a common carrier for refusing to give a shipper, when demanded, a bill of lading stating the quantity, cargo, order, and condition of goods received for shipment, the railroad company is not liable because an agent refused to state in a bill of lading the weight or quantity of a car of goods loaded by the shipper, where the loading was done by plaintiff himself, and all the information necessary to make out the bill of lading was in his possession and by him withheld from the agent.[82]

§ 502. Refusal to Receive Freight for Transportation

State statutes imposing penalties on carriers for refusal under certain circumstances to receive freight for transportation, are valid, as applied to intra-state shipments, and entitle the shipper to recover the penalty where the carrier deliberately refuses to receive and transport freight tendered with the proper charges.

State statutes which impose a penalty on carriers under certain circumstances for refusal to receive freight for transportation are valid, at least so far as intra-state shipments are concerned;[83] but in view of federal legislation in this field, they can 7 S.W. 504, 69 Tex. 707—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. McCown, Civ.App., 25 S.W. 435.

10 C.J. p 581 note 33.

70. N.C.—Harrill v. Southern R. Co., 57 S.E. 383, 144 N.C. 532.

71. Tex.—Fort Worth & D. C. Ry. Co. v. Brewer, Civ.App., 1 S.W.2d 686.

72. Tex.—St. Louis Southwestern R. Co. v. Carden, Civ.App., 26 S.W. 747

73. Tex.—Wichita Valley R. Co. v. Nance, 25 S.W. 47, 6 Tex.Civ.App. 34.

74. Tex.—Ft. Worth, etc., R. Co. v. Lillard, App., 16 S.W. 654.

75. N.C.—Jeans v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 80 S.E. 242, 164 N.C. 224

76. Tex.—Panhandle & S. F. Ry. Co. v. Guthrie, Civ.App., 248 S.W. 106

77. Tex.—Dillingham v. Fischl, 21 S.W. 554, 1 Tex.Civ.App. 546.

78. S.C.—Jefferson v. Southern Express Co., 87 S.E. 209, 103 S.C. 75.

79. Tex.—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Loonie, 19 S.W. 385, 84 Tex. 259—Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Nelson, 23 S.W. 732, 4 Tex.Civ.App. 345

80. N.C.—Harrill v. Southern R. Co., 57 S.E. 383, 144 N.C. 532.
10 C.J. p 581 note 40.

81. Tex.—Atchison, etc., R. Co. v. Roberts, 22 S.W. 183, 3 Tex.Civ. App. 370

82. Tex.—Conley v. Sherman, etc., R. Co., 38 S.W. 519, 90 Tex. 295.
10 C.J. p 582 note 46.

83. N.C.—Corbett v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 170 S.E. 129, 205 N.C. 85.
10 C.J. p 572 notes 67, 68.

have no application to interstate shipments.[84] Like other statutes imposing penalties, these statutes are subject to strict construction.[85]

The carrier's deliberate and peremptory refusal to accept a shipment tendered with the proper freight charge entitles the shipper to the penalty prescribed by the statute.[86] If the carrier elects to stand on its interpretation of the tariffs and wrongfully declines a shipment on the ground that insufficient freight charges are tendered, whereas it was in fact in error as to such interpretation, it is liable for the penalty.[87] There is a refusal to transport within the meaning of the statute when the carrier permits a shipper to load his cars with goods, but refuses to ship the car or to issue a bill of lading therefor.[88]

§ 503. Time Allowed for Shipment

If the statute allows the carrier two days at the initial point of shipment in which to ship freight, no penalty can be imposed for a refusal to receive goods for shipment by a train being loaded at the time of tender of the goods.

Where the statute imposing penalties on carriers for refusal to receive freight for transportation, allows the carrier two days at the initial point of shipment in which to ship freight, it incurs no penalty by a refusal to receive goods for shipment by a train being loaded when the goods were tendered for shipment.[89]

§ 504. Who May Sue

Under statutes so providing, only the "party aggrieved," as, for example, the shipper, may sue to recover the penalty.

Where the statutes imposing penalties on carriers for refusal to receive freight for transportation, provide that the penalty shall be recovered by "the party aggrieved," the shipper is entitled to sue for the penalty;[90] but a mere agent not the real party in interest,[91] or the attorney for attaching creditors,[92] or a connecting carrier over whose lines the freight is consigned,[93] is not so entitled.

§ 505. Defenses

The character of the shipment or the existence of conditions preventing performance of the duty, for which the carrier is not responsible, may be a defense to the imposition of a penalty for refusal to receive freight for transportation.

The character of a shipment may constitute a sufficient excuse for refusal to receive it, and hence preclude the application of the penalty for refusal to receive freight for transportation.[94] So, also, unforeseen conditions not to be anticipated,[95] or conditions for which the carrier is not responsible, preventing the discharge of its duty to receive goods for shipment,[96] may be successfully urged as a defense to an action to recover a penalty under the statutes.

It is not a defense to an action to recover a penalty for violation of the statutes that the party whose freight the carrier refused to ship sustained no injury thereby;[97] or that the carrier had failed to file and publish its schedule of rates;[98] or that the consignee of freight had failed to unload cars previously consigned to him, creating a congestion of traffic at the point to which the shipper desired to have the freight transported;[99] or that the agent to whom the goods were offered for shipment was ignorant of the location of the point to which they were destined;[1] or that the point to which the Duty to receive and transport property generally see supra §§ 27–34.

84. U.S.—Southern Ry. Co. v. Reid, 32 S.Ct. 140, 222 U.S. 424, 56 L.Ed. 257, reversing Reid v. Southern Ry. Co., 69 S.E. 618, 153 N.C. 490.

Prior to Carmack amendment and decisions of the United States supreme court construing its provisions in regard to these regulations, such statutes were upheld, regardless of whether the shipment was intra-state or interstate in its character.—Bagg v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 14 S.E. 79, 109 N.C. 279, 26 Am.S.R. 567, 14 L.R.A. 596—10 C.J. p. 572 note 69.

85. N.C.—Cox v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 62 S.E. 556, 148 N.C. 459.

86. N.C.—Corbett v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 170 S.E. 129, 205 N.C. 85.

87. N.C.—Corbett v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., supra.

88. N.C.—Tilley v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 77 S.E. 994, 162 N.C. 37—Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 64 S.E. 578, 150 N.C. 575—Twitty v. Southern R. Co., 53 S.E. 957, 141 N.C. 355

89. N.C.—Cox v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 62 S.E. 556, 148 N.C. 459.

90. Mich.—Crosby v. Pere Marquette R. Co., 91 N.W. 124, 131 Mich. 288
10 C.J. p. 573 note 83.

91. N.C.—McRackan v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 63 S.E. 1042, 150 N.C. 331.

92. N.C.—McRackan v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., supra.

93. Mich.—Crosby v. Pere Marquette R. Co., 91 N.W. 124, 131 Mich. 288.
10 C.J. p. 573 note 86.

94. N.C.—Tilley v. Norfolk, etc., R. Co., 77 S.E. 994, 162 N.C. 37.
10 C.J. p. 572 note 73

95. N.C.—Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 64 S.E. 578, 150 N.C. 575.

96. N.C.—Murphy Hardware Co. v. Southern R. Co., 64 S.E. 873, 150 N.C. 703, 22 L.R.A.,N.S., 1200, 17 Ann.Cas. 481
10 C.J. p. 572 note 75.

97. N.C.—Reid v. Southern R. Co., 64 S.E. 874, 150 N.C. 753, 17 Ann.Cas. 247, reversed on other grounds Southern R. Co. v. Reid, 32 S.Ct. 145, 222 U.S. 444, 56 L.Ed. 263

98. N.C.—Burlington Lumber Co. v. Southern R. Co., 67 S.E. 167, 152 N.C. 70, reversed on other grounds Southern R. Co. v. Burlington Lumber Co., 32 S.Ct. 657, 225 U.S. 99, 56 L.Ed. 1001

99. N.C.—Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 64 S.E. 578, 150 N.C. 575.
10 C.J. p. 572 note 78.

1. N.C.—Reid v. Southern R. Co., 64 S.E. 874, 150 N.C. 753, 17 Ann.Cas. 247, reversed on other grounds Southern R. Co. v. Reid, 32 S.Ct. 145, 222 U.S. 444, 56 L.Ed. 263.
10 C.J. p. 573 note 79.

freight was to be consigned was not a regular station at which an agent of the carrier was kept.[2] Where the carrier fails to provide sufficient platform facilities for receiving cotton ordinarily awaiting transportation, it is not excused from receiving cotton for transportation, because the shipper refuses to place it on the platform which is covered with other cotton, necessitating unusual expense in putting the cotton on the platform.[3] The fact that a connecting carrier refuses to receive freight for a certain consignee will not relieve the initial carrier from liability for the penalty for refusing to receive freight.[4]

§ 506. Conditions Precedent to Action

Before liability for a penalty for refusal to receive freight for transportation can attach, there must be a proper tender of the freight for shipment.

Before the liability for a penalty for refusal to receive freight for transportation can attach, there must be an actual or constructive[5] tender of the freight for shipment; and the tender must be made during business hours[6] and at a regular station, when the statute so requires.[7] In making a tender, it is not essential that any particular language be used; it is sufficient that the language amounts in common understanding to a tender.[8]

§ 507. Actions

The usual rules as to actions for penalties apply.

An action to recover a penalty for refusal to receive freight for transportation is governed by the usual rules as to actions to enforce penalties, as discussed in C.J.S. title Penalties §§ 7–18, also 25 C.J. p 1181 note 46–p 1213 note 78.

Pleading. The declaration, petition, or complaint in an action for a penalty for refusal to receive freight for transportation, must allege all the statutory requisites, to establish defendant's liability for the penalty.[9] Where the penalty is a percentage of the value of the property at the time it should have been shipped, calculated for the time of the delay, the petition must show the date of shipment or tender, the value of the goods, and the period of delay.[10] Plaintiff need not show that defendant has filed and published its schedule of freight rates as required by law, as defendant will be presumed to have complied with the law.[11]

Evidence. The usual rules as to the weight and sufficiency of evidence apply.[12]

Instructions. An instruction that if cattle offered for shipment were at a nearby point ready for shipment, and this was known to the carrier's agent, there was a sufficient tender for shipment and the shipper would not be required to ask the carrier to ship each day, is erroneous in that it makes the tender depend only on the shipper's readiness to ship and knowledge of such readiness on the part of the carrier's agent.[13]

2. N.C.—Reid v. Southern R. Co., 63 S.E. 112, 149 N.C. 423, affirmed 64 S.E. 874, 150 N.C. 753, 17 Ann. Cas 247, reversed on other grounds Southern R. Co. v. Reid, 32 S.Ct. 145, 222 U.S. 444, 56 L.Ed. 263.

3. Ark.—St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. State, 104 S.W. 1106, 84 Ark. 150.

4. N.C.—Wampum Cotton Mills v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 64 S.E. 588, 150 N.C. 612.
10 C.J. p 573 note 82.

5. N.C.—Bane v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 88 S.E. 477, 479, 171 N.C. 328.
10 C.J. p 573 note 87.
"The plaintiff may have been ready and willing to ship, and the defendant's agent may have known of this fact, and still no penalty would accrue unless there was an offer or tender of the shipment either actual or constructive If . . . the cattle were in a lot near by, it was not necessary that they should be driven from the lot to the station each day, but the plaintiff or his agent ought to have offered to do so in order to make good their tender."—Bane v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., supra.

6. N.C.—Wampum Cotton Mills v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 64 S.E. 586, 150 N.C. 608.

7. N.C.—Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 64 S.E. 578, 150 N.C. 575—Alsop v. Southern Express Co., 10 S.E. 297, 104 N.C. 278, 6 L.R.A. 271.
10 C.J. p 573 note 89.

8. N.C.—Wampum Cotton Mills v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 64 S.E. 586, 150 N.C. 608.
10 C.J. p 573 note 90.

9. Tex.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Cole, Civ.App., 149 S.W. 753—Dorrance v. International, etc., R. Co., 126 S.W. 694, 53 Tex.Civ.App. 460.

Complaint held to state cause of action

Under a statute requiring a carrier to receive at "a regular station" only all articles of the kind received for transportation, a complaint alleging that plaintiff tendered to a carrier at a particular station a quantity of loose lumber for shipment, etc., which defendant wrongfully and unlawfully refused to receive, states a cause of action for a penalty, since it would be inferred, to be shown by proof, that the station named was a regular station, and that loose lumber was an article usually received by the carrier—Olive v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 67 S.E. 583, 152 N.C. 279.

Tender

The complaint, to be sufficient, must allege a proper tender.—Currie v. Raleigh, etc., R. Co., 47 S.E. 654, 135 N.C. 535—10 C.J. p 573 note 93.

10. Tex.—Kansas City, etc., R. Co. v. Cole, Civ.App., 149 S.W. 753—Dorrance v. International, etc., R. Co., 126 S.W. 694, 53 Tex.Civ.App. 460

11. N.C.—Burlington Lumber Co. v. Southern R. Co., 67 S.E. 167, 152 N.C. 70, reversed on other grounds Southern R. Co. v. Burlington Lumber Co., 32 S.Ct. 657, 225 U.S. 99, 56 L.Ed. 1001.

12. N.C.—Corbett v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 170 S.E. 129, 205 N.C. 85.
10 C.J. p 573 note 94.

Evidence held to sustain finding of actual damage

N.C.—Corbett v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 170 S.E. 129, 205 N.C. 85.

13. N.C.—Bane v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 88 S.E. 477, 171 N.C. 328.

§ 508. Amount and Number of Penalties

The amount and number of penalties depend on the controlling statute and the facts of the particular case.

In view of the fact that a penalty of this character is purely a matter of statutory regulation, the amount and number of penalties depend on the terms of the statute as applied to the facts of the particular case. A statute imposing a penalty of fifty dollars for each day's failure to receive freight for shipment is intended to impose a penalty of such amount for each day on which the freight is at the depot ready for shipment;[14] such a provision is not invalid as imposing a penalty which would prevent the carrier from resorting to the courts to determine the validity of a statute imposing it.[15] To entitle a shipper daily to the statutory penalty for failure to receive freight for shipment, there must have been a tender, actual or constructive, and a refusal, each day.[16]

Where the statute provides that each article refused shall constitute a separate offense, on a refusal of a railroad company to transport a lot of cattle, a separate penalty is recoverable for each head.[17]

§ 509. Refusal to Refund Overcharge

State statutes imposing penalties on carriers for failure to refund overcharges within a specified time after the filing of claim therefor are valid, as applied to intrastate shipments, and entitle the "aggrieved party," who may be the consignee, to recover the penalty if the carrier fails to tender full settlement as required.

State statutes which require claims for overcharges to be adjusted and paid within a designated time after filing of the claim, and impose a penalty for failure so to do, are valid and enforceable, at least so far as intra-state shipments are concerned.[18] In as much as congress has taken entire control of the question of rates for interstate transportation, and especially of the matter of excessive charges, or those not corresponding with the rates authorized, filed, and published, these statutes are, as applied to interstate shipments, unconstitutional and void, as an interference with interstate commerce.[19]

The carrier incurs the statutory liability by its failure to settle, within a specified time, a claim for refund made in the manner designated by the statute, and its offer to refund an amount less than that actually owing to claimant is not a sufficient tender of settlement to defeat liability for the penalty.[20] If the statute imposing the penalty expressly so provides, it is a condition to the liability of the carrier that the plaintiff be entitled to recover the full amount of his claim for refund.[21] In the absence of such express statutory provision, however, the fact that the claim for refund,[22] or the complaint,[23] seeks recovery of an amount greater than that of the actual overcharge to which plaintiff is entitled, does not prevent the imposition of the penalty,

14. N.C.—Bane v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 88 S.E. 477, 171 N.C. 328.

15. N.C.—Garrison v. Southern R. Co., 64 S.E. 578, 150 N.C. 575.
10 C.J. p 573 note 98.

16. N.C.—Bane v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 88 S.E. 477, 479, 171 N.C. 328
10 C.J. p 574 note 99.
"Each day for which a penalty is demanded is treated as separate and distinct, upon the theory that when there has been a tender and refusal on one day the penalty of $50 is imposed, and that this closes the transaction, nothing else appearing, and that, if further penalties are demanded, the plaintiff must thereafter prove a tender and refusal."—Bane v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., supra

17. N.C.—Carter v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co., 36 S.E. 14, 126 N.C. 437.

18. N.C.—Tilley v. Southern Ry. Co., 90 S.E. 309, 172 N.C. 363.
10 C.J. p 592 note 26.
Penalties for overcharge see supra §§ 492–498.

Reason for enactment of statute

(1) "It is a matter of common knowledge that railroad companies are often neglectful in adjusting and settling claims for . . . overcharges. Considering the large number of agents that these companies must have, it is not to be wondered at that such . . . overcharges occur. But in the aggregate such claims are very large, and it is a matter of importance to the public that the carrier shall be impressed with the necesity of paying such claims, even when small severally, for the party aggrieved should not be debarred from recovery of his just dues because of the expense of counsel fees and the annoyance of litigation"—Tilley v. Southern Ry. Co., 90 S.E. 309, 310, 172 N.C. 363.

(2) Other statements see 10 C.J. p 592 note 26 [a].

19. N.C.—Blalock Hardware Co. v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co., 86 S.E. 1025, 170 N.C. 395.
S.C.—Pinkussohn Cigar Co. v. Clyde S.S. Co., 85 S.E. 1060, 101 S.C. 429.

20. N.C.—Tilley v. Southern Ry. Co., 90 S.E. 309, 172 N.C. 363.

21. Ga.—Atlanta & West Point R. Co. v. Fairburn Marble Co., 89 S.E. 817, 145 Ga. 708.

22. N.C.—Macon County Supply Co. v. Tallulah Falls R. Co., 82 S.E. 13, 166 N.C. 82, reversed on other grounds 36 S.Ct. 446, 241 U.S. 640, 60 L.Ed. 1216.

Rule as to claim for loss or injury to goods inapplicable

The requirement that the full amount of the claim be recovered as a condition to the liability for the penalty, which is applicable in the case of penalties imposed for failure to pay for a claim for loss of, or injury to, goods, see supra § 476, being based on the unreasonableness of not permitting the carrier to protect itself against unjust claims, does not apply to penalties imposed for failure to refund overcharges, since the carrier here knows the amount collected, has in its possession its tariff, fixing the legal rate, and can ascertain with exactness the amount of overcharge, and it can, therefore, protect itself against an unjust demand by tender of the amount due, which would preclude liability for the penalty.—Tilley v. Southern Ry. Co., 90 S.E. 309, 172 N.C. 363—Macon County Supply Co. v. Tallulah Falls R. Co., 82 S.E. 13, 166 N.C. 82, reversed on other grounds 36 S.Ct. 446, 241 U.S. 640, 60 L.Ed. 1216.

23. N.C.—Tilley v. Southern Ry. Co., 90 S.E. 309, 172 N.C. 363.

where the carrier does not offer to refund the amount actually owing; and the failure of the statute to require that the full amount of the claim be recoverable as a condition to the imposition of the penalty, does not render it invalid.[24] It is also not essential to the recovery of the penalty that the plaintiff's claim for refund specify the amount of the overcharge.[25]

What constitutes an overcharge. Statutes imposing a penalty for refusal to refund an overcharge have been held to apply to the consignee's claim for freight for goods taken beyond the point to which they were consigned, as this amounts to an overcharge of freight,[26] and also to a claim for an amount paid as freight on part of a shipment which was short and not delivered.[27] On the other hand, the mere fact that the carrier charges a higher rate for carrying freight in one direction than it does for carrying freight of the same class in the opposite direction does not necessarily constitute an overcharge.[28]

Who may sue. The consignee of freight who has paid the overcharge is the "party aggrieved," within a statute conferring the right to recover a penalty against the carrier for failure to refund such overcharge within a designated time.[29]

Amount of penalty. Under a statute imposing a penalty of twenty-five dollars for the first day's delay in payment of the claim after expiration of the period allowed therefor, and five dollars per day thereafter until the amount reaches one hundred dollars, plaintiff may recover the maximum sum if such time has elapsed as entitles him thereto.[30]

§ 510. Unjust Discrimination

The general nature of unlawful discrimination by a carrier, and the shipper's right to recover damages resulting therefrom, whether such right of action is conferred by the common-law or by statute, is considered in §§ 348–397 supra. The recovery of penalties provided by such statutes, such as double or treble damages, is discussed in § 511 infra.

§ 511. Against Shippers

a. In general
b. Failure or refusal to deliver to connecting lines without delay
c. To whom statutes applicable
d. Actions

a. In General

The carrier may be subject to a penalty under statutes prohibiting unjust discrimination against shippers, if it willfully violates the statute and unduly prefers one shipper as against others, under circumstances not justifying a difference in treatment, or where it unjustly discriminates between localities by exacting unequal charges for transportation over similar distances in the same direction.

State and federal statutes which prohibit unjust discrimination against shippers and impose penalties on carriers therefor, apart from the usual liability for damages considered in §§ 348–397 supra, have been generally held to be valid; but[31] state statutes of this character are void to the extent that they are made applicable to interstate shipments, for they are not intended to, and do not, apply to such shipments.[32] Like all penal statutes, statutes of this character are subject to strict construction.[33]

To authorize recovery of the penalty, the case must be brought clearly within the terms of the statute.[34] If the word "willful" is used in the 24. N.C.—Macon County Supply Co. v. Tallulah Falls R. Co., 82 S.E. 13, 166 N.C. 82, reversed on other grounds 36 S.Ct. 446, 241 U.S. 640, 60 L.Ed. 1216.

25. N.C.—Tilley v. Southern Ry. Co., 90 S.E. 309, 172 N.C. 363.

Reason for rule

The reason the statute does not require that the claim specify the amount of the overcharge is that the carrier "has full notice of the amount of freight, it should have charged according to its printed tariff, and the freight bill filed and its own books show what it did charge and collect."—Tilley v. Southern Ry. Co., 90 S.E. 309, 310, 172 N.C. 363.

26. S.C.—Wichman v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 84 S.E. 420, 100 S.C. 138.

What constitutes an overcharge generally see supra § 321.

27. N.C.—Cottrell v. Carolina, etc., R. Co., 54 S.E. 288, 141 N.C. 383.

28. N.C.—Scull v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 56 S.E. 876, 144 N.C. 180.

10 C.J. p. 593 note 29.

29. N.C.—Tilley v. Southern Ry. Co., 90 S.E. 309, 172 N.C. 363.

30. N.C.—Tilley v. Southern Ry. Co., supra.

31. Statute held valid

A statute which imposes a penalty for unjust discrimination if a carrier fails or refuses to transport freight without delay or discrimination to any point on a connecting line is constitutional.—Quanah, A. & P. Ry. Co. v. Warren, Tex.Civ.App., 184 S.W. 232.

Statute held invalid

A statute establishing a railroad commission to prevent the taking of unjust and unreasonable compensation, and the making of unjust and unreasonable discrimination, is unconstitutional, where its provisions were too indefinite and uncertain to sustain a suit for the penalties imposed, and did not sufficiently describe the offense therein described, but left to the jury to determine from the proof whether the difference in rates amounted to discrimination, or whether the charges were unjust and unreasonable, making the guilt or innocence of accused depend on the finding of a jury.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Tennessee R. Commn., C.C.Tenn., 19 F. 679.

32. N.C.—McLean v. Charlotte, etc., R. Co., 4 S.E. 769, 96 N.C. 1.

33. Iowa.—Blair v. Sioux City, etc., R. Co., 80 N.W. 673, 109 Iowa 369.

10 C.J. p. 566 note 70.

34. Ark.—Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v.

statute as descriptive of the offense against which the penalty is denounced, the discrimination must be unjust and willful to render the carrier liable for the penalty.[35] So, a penalty of double the damage sustained will not be imposed where the discriminatory acts of the carrier were done by it in good faith in the belief that it was acting within its legal rights.[36]

In accordance with the rule stated in § 351 supra, no liability attaches under the statutes, unless there is some undue preference, some unjust or unreasonable discrimination; so long as those who are in substantially the same situation with reference to the carrier and the commodity to be shipped are treated with the same consideration and accorded the same privileges, there is no actual discrimination.[37] Further, there can be no actual discrimination between those whose situation and relations to the carrier with reference to the commodity to be shipped are so different as to justify or demand a difference in treatment.[38] Where a carrier raises the rate for transporting a certain commodity and agrees to carry for one shipper at the old rate under contracts already made by it, but refuses so to do for another shipper, it is guilty of unjust discrimination and becomes liable for the penalty imposed by the statute.[39] There may be unjust discrimination between shippers without charging more than the rate approved by the railroad commission.[40] If a discriminating charge is made against the shipper, the liability for the penalty attaches, although the charge was not actually paid.[41] The fact that the privileges allowed to the favored party may be withdrawn at any time constitutes no defense to an action to recover the penalty.[42]

Unequal charges for transportation of same distance. A statute imposing a penalty for unequal charges for transportation of freight for the same distance in the same direction, where directed at discrimination between localities, does not require for its violation that there be a personal discrimination and a personal injury as between individuals or classes.[43] Transportation "in the same direction," as to which discrimination is prohibited by such a statute, means transportation in the direction in which the freight is carried from the place where the shipment is made, embracing all branches of the road in that direction, if used in connection with, and as a part of, the same road.[44] A statute of this nature, however, has reference only to transportation over the road of the particular carrier and not to transportation over other railroads, for which it charges and receives nothing except as collection agent for the other railroads.[45] A statute which prohibits the charging of more for a short than for a long distance applies, although by the original contract of carriage the merchandise was to be carried to a station beyond that at which it was left.[46]

b. Failure or Refusal to Deliver to Connecting Lines without Delay

The carrier, under a statute so providing, may be subject to a penalty for unjust discrimination, without regard to any actual damage suffered by the shipper, if it fails or refuses to receive and transport freight without delay or discrimination to any point on the particular connecting line directed by the shipper.

A statute which provides that a carrier is guilty of unjust discrimination for which a penalty may be imposed, if it fails or refuses, under regulations prescribed by the railroad commission, to receive and transport freight without delay or discrimination to any point on a connecting line, is operative

State, 84 S.W. 502, 92 S.W. 26, 73 Ark 373.
Tex.—San Antonio, etc, R. Co. v. Stribling, 89 S.W. 963, 99 Tex. 319

Railroad company's ownership of stock of producing or manufacturing company whose articles or commodities railroad company transports does not of itself subject railroad company to penalties of statute forbidding railroads from transporting in interstate commerce commodities in which railroads are interested—U. S. v. Elgin, J. & E Ry. Co., D C Ill., 11 F Supp 435, affirmed 56 S Ct. 841, 298 U.S. 492, 80 L Ed 1300.

35. Tex.—Woodhouse v Rio Grande R. Co, 3 S W. 323, 67 Tex. 416—Texas, etc, R. Co v. Langsdale, Civ.App., 30 S W 681.
10 C J. p 566 note 71.

36. Mich.—Federal Gravel Co. v. Detroit & M. Ry. Co., 248 N.W. 831, 263 Mich. 341.

37. Ark.—Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v State, 84 S W. 502, 92 S.W. 26, 73 Ark. 373.

38. Ark.—Choctaw, etc., R. Co. v. State, supra.
10 C.J. p 567 note 73.

Release of carrier
The carrier cannot, however, set up in justification of the discriminatory lower rates a contract with the party in whose favor they were made, whereby, in consideration of the lower rates, such party released the carrier from an unexplainable, indefinite, and unadjusted claim for damages arising from a tort—Union Pac. R. Co v. Taggart, Colo, 13 S. Ct. 977, 149 U.S. 698, 37 L.Ed 905—Union Pac. R Co. v. Goodridge, Colo, 13 S Ct. 970, 149 U.S 680, 37 L.Ed. 986.

39. Ill.—Louisville, etc., R. Co. v. Crown Coal Co, 43 Ill.App. 228.

40. Ark.—Roberts v. St. Louis, etc., R Co., 130 S.W. 531.
Tex.—Houston, etc, R. Co. v. Lone Star Salt Co., 48 S.W. 619, 19 Tex. Civ App. 676.

41. N.C.—Hines v. Wilmington, etc., R. Co, 95 N C. 434, 445, 59 Am. R. 250

42. U.S. — Butchers', etc, Stock-Yards Co. v Louisville, etc, R. Co, Tenn, 67 F. 35, 14 C.C A. 290.

43. Ill.—Illinois Cent. R Co v. Peo, 12 N E. 670, 121 Ill. 304, 311.
10 C J. p 567 note 83.

44. N.C.—Hines v Wilmington, etc, R. Co., 95 N C 434, 59 Am.R. 250.
10 C J. p 567 note 77.

45. Mass.—Com. v. Worcester, etc. R. Co, 124 Mass 561.

46. N.H.—Osgood v. Concord R. Co., 63 N H. 255.

and authorizes enforcement of the penalty for noncompliance, notwithstanding that no applicable regulations have been prescribed by the commission.[47] This statute applies both to shipments in carload lots and to smaller shipments,[48] and without regard to whether the shipment is a through one.[49] The carrier may incur liability for the penalty thereunder, if it delays in delivering freight to the connecting carrier,[50] or if it misroutes the freight and delivers it to a connecting carrier other than the one designated by the bill of lading, even though as a result of an unintentional and innocent mistake.[51] The statute is also violated where the carrier wrongfully refuses to accept goods for shipment consigned or routed to a point on a connecting line, as to which transit the state commission has fixed the through rate,[52] or where it exacts from its connecting carrier as a condition on which it should receive freight, that the same should be transported over a different route from that selected by the shipper.[53] It is not essential to the recovery of the penalty that plaintiff show any actual damage suffered by him as a result of the delay in delivery to the connecting line, inasmuch as the statutory remedy is independent of the common-law right of action for refusal to deliver goods;[54] but even assuming that a showing of pecuniary damage is a necessary condition to recovery, such damage is shown in the interest on the value of the goods shipped and withheld.[55] It is no defense to the carrier's liability for refusal to transfer freight to a connecting carrier that there were no facilities for handling the goods at the junction point, since it is under a duty to furnish such facilities.[56] Where goods are carried beyond the connecting point in violation of the statute, it is no defense that this was done pending adjustment of a dispute between defendant carrier and the connecting carrier;[57] nor does the contention that the goods could not be delivered to the connecting carrier without first taking them beyond the connecting point for separation from other freight constitute a defense, unless such condition was made known to the shipper before delivery of the goods to defendant carrier.[58]

c. To Whom Statutes Applicable

State statutes imposing penalties for unlawful dis-

